The village of Groton has appropriated $10,000 for a village building, which will have room for three fire companies, all village offices, banquet hall, and a hall seating 800 people. M. L. VanKirk of Waterloo is drawing the plans.

Our local lawyers say that litigation is at low ebb in this county; and discover to their disadvantage, that laymen have become educated to amicable adjustment of differences, in avoidance of recourse to the dilatory and costly methods of courts.—Ithaca Journal.

A Spencerport man recently drew a load of cabbage to market for which he received $102. Last fall the same load would have brought him $7.50.

The Moravia Board of Trade is trying to organize a stock company to purchase the plant of the Moravia Foundry and Machine company. It is proposed to capitalize the company at $12,000. One half will be the purchase price and the remainder the working capital. A large part of the required sum has already been subscribed.

Jefferson Gregg, the Sherill man who fell from a tree last September while hunting coons, and suffered a broken back, died last Thursday morning. He was hopelessly paralyzed from the first, and his strong hold on life under the circumstances, has astonished the doctors. He was 53 years of age.

John D. Rockefeller is the richest man in the United States. All of his vast fortune is made up of personal property. From this property, which enjoys the full protection of our laws, he receives an income of from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, as estimated by those in a position to know. Yet Mr. Rockefeller's property is assessed at a valuation of only $300,000. He is relatively to his fortune the very smallest taxpayer in the United States.

NEWS ABOUT THE STATE

Paragraphs of the Week's Happenings Clipped from the Tribune's Exchanges.

Asphalt pavements to the value of $60,000 were laid in Cortland last year.

Reed Campbell, founder and editor of the Norwich Morning Sun, died April 4th, aged 47 years.

Rev. B. L. Ives, for many years chaplain of Auburn state prison, is about to take a trip to the holy land.

Stephen W. Daniels of Sheds has been granted an increase of pension of from $8 to $17 per month.

Andrew Kretzschmer of Syracuse has been granted a pension of $24 a month for injuries received in the war with Spain.

The Cazenovia Republican says that "there has never been a time since the civil war when a young man could buy a farm and pay for it as easily as he can today, notwithstanding the low price of farm products. Farm property at present prices is as good an investment as one need look for."

Smith Young of East Venice has two relics of early journalism, being an almanac of the year 1798 and a newspaper printed in 1811.

Lodi has voted to dissolve its corporation.

The March Black Diamond Express published quarterly at New York by Charles S. Lee, has an illuminated cover and a number of excellent views, notably of Niagara Falls in winter. It is a bright and interesting publication. Prices 50 cents per year, 15 cents per single copy. Address Room 317, 26 Cortland street, New York.

We learn the Ludlowville Lodge of Good Templars has a membership of sixty.

Henry Smith is preparing to build a large barn on his place west of Lansingville.

Madison county farmers are increasing and giving more attention to their dairies than in years past. The hop acreage will not be increased. This is a good sign.—Leader.

The mineral water from the Dryden Springs is to be shipped to Philadelphia and there bottled and sold for table use.

Gov. Roosevelt has a double at Cornell university. It is Prof. Winfield Rowlee, who holds a position on the botanical staff of that institution. The resemblance is said to be very close, and the professor's friends now commonly call him "governor."

In looking over some old papers recently, A. J. Hodge of East Venice found a paper belonging to his grandfather, Benjamin Button, a commission as lieutenant of a company of militia in the county of Montgomery, N. Y. The commission is signed by George Clinton, the governor of the state, and is dated April 2, 1802, and the 26th year of our independence. Mr. Button was a soldier in the Revolutionary war, serving under General George Washington, and one of the soldiers who surprised and captured the Hessians at Trenton.

Mrs. Angenette Haight, aged 71 years, died in Auburn prison Thursday where she was under a life sentence. On the morning of February 27, 1883, she shot her husband, Geo. W. Haight, while he was in bed at their home in DeRuyter. Mrs. Haight killed her husband with a revolver in order to obtain a heavy insurance on his life. She was arrested and found guilty of murder, first degree. The sentence of the court was death by hanging, but Governor Cleveland extended clemency in the case and her judgment was commuted to life imprisonment. She was in prison sixteen years.

CHAPTER V.

CONTINUED.

"And I will give you a bit o' advice, without charge this time, laird; dinna call a man a 'ne'er-do-weel' unless you can prove the count. The word may not be actionable, but juries are kittle cattle, and border juries dinna like ill names. They will pass by a few hard knocks reader."

"Don't you trouble yourself, Langton. I will just call my enemies what I like to call them. I can pay for all the bad words I choose to say."

"Dootless, laird; and you'll pay bad words easier than you pay bad blows. Take your guinea's worth of them if you want to. I'll go and see what I can find out against the handsome lad—for he is handsome, and that is no lie."

"You need not say so in my presence."

"I'll say the truth in any man's presence."

"If nobody pays you to lie."

"Just sae, laird. I say the truth to please myself. I lie to please my clients, and they pay me for it. At the lang end the great Judge willna mak much difference between lawyer and client, and in the meantime I hae the siller." He laughed softly to himself, and began to pack a valise.

"Now, laird, for the expenses. This is a very uncertain job; I'll give no credit for expenses."

So the laird drew out his long silk purse and counted out twenty pounds; and very black and ugly he was about it.

A week afterward Mrs. Brathous and Katherine were together in the large parlor opening into the rose-garden. Katherine was dressed for her pony, and she stood by her mother's side, with her soft riding-hat in her hand. Mrs. Brathous was patching bits of many-colored satins together, and the melody of rich tints lay on her lap and on the carpet at her feet. They were talking about Mowbray, and of the earliest date at which a letter from New-York might be expected. Their low, pleasant laughter fell upon the laird's ears as he opened the door. Then he pursed up his lips and tried to look at once mysteriously angry and mysteriously important.

"Katherine," he said, "you need not leave the room when I enter it. That is a very rude habit of yours, and must be amended. And to-day you cannot go to the manse. There is far too much nonsense between you and Jessy Telfair. Besides, I have the most important affair to bring to your notice—most important."

"You had better talk it over with me first, Alexander," said Mrs. Brathous. "Katherine's pony is waiting."

"Is Katherine's pony to be put before my wish? No, ma'am! Katherine, I have found out things about Mr. Mowbray that must prevent the young man ever speaking to you again."

Katherine glanced at her mother, who answered for her.

"Tut, Alexander! You are forever finding out and suspecting. There is nothing wrong about Richard Mowbray."

"He pushed himself into a gentleman's house under false colors. He gave me to understand that he was Squire Mowbray. He is not."

"He did not push himself into your house. You urged him to come in. He is Squire Mowbray."

"He is not."

"How do you know he is not?"

"Simon Langton has been to Mowbray. He got there just after the funeral of the lawyer who telegraphed for Mowbray. The so-called squire had not even the decency to wait for his friend's death. He heard what Mr. Hewitt had to say, and left that very night for America. What do you think of that, ma'am?"

"I think he had good reasons for all he did."

"To be sure he did. Langton rubbed the innkeeper's memory with a sovereign, and the man remembered that an American had been there in the spring—he was sure he was an American—but whoever he was, he went to the dead squire's grave more than once, and gave Dabby Thorn, the housekeeper, a matter of five pounds for leave to go through the house. What do you think of that, ma'am?"

"It was all right and natural enough."

"Natural! I should say so. It is Langton's belief that he was the real heir. He found an old woman knitting in the sunshade, who told him she recollected the dead squire bringing home a very handsome lad, who called him 'father,' before ever this Richard Mowbray was born. Langton has gone to Edinburgh, to investigate the life of Squire Reginald Mowbray. I have sent him. I remember that when we were youths at college Mowbray had a bad name about women. What did that ring mean he sent the minister? It is a black business. I have no doubt this young Mowbray knew all about it, but he thought America was too far off to give him trouble."

"Do not, for heaven's sake, Alexander, make yourself a bigger fool than nature has already made you!" said Mrs. Brathous, rising and putting aside her satin circles. "Why should you rake among the ashes of the dead for presumed wrongs? Paying good money to that scoundrel Langton to discover secrets that never were secrets at all."

"Mrs. Brathous—"

"Nonsense! Why did you pay good money for such contemptible inquiries? If you had come with your questions to me or to Katherine or to the minister or to Jessy, we, any of us, could have told you what you have been digging like a very ghoul to find out. Black business indeed! Katherine, my dear, go and take your ride. Why should you be disappointed?"

"Katherine cannot go."

"Katherine, do as I tell you."

Then as the door closed she laid her hand upon her husband's arm, and said with a still passion that he always respected:

"Brathous, sit down and be quiet or I will leave your house this hour. Then you will have the whole country side talking of you and Simon Langton. Before going to America Mr. Mowbray came here; he saw Katherine and told her the whole train of circumstances which made it proper for him to take the journey. He told them to Doctor Telfair also. Katherine and I, Doctor Telfair and Jessy have talked them over very often. The business is family business and there is nothing wrong in it."

"And I! And I left out in the dark? It is shameful! Shameful! Shameful! I will not endure it—"

"Can you avoid enduring it?"

"Why was I not told? Why was I put to such expense for the sake of your daughter? I shall take every penny out of her estate."

"I have no doubt you will—if you are permitted. And I did not tell you because the end of the journey is yet uncertain; and you know that you cannot keep anything private. You would have gone from house to house gabbling of affairs that did not concern you, and making Gala Water ring with Katherine's name. As for expenses, your own spiteful curiosity led you into them, and I shall take good care that Katherine's estate does not pay a penny of them."

"It is very cruel of you, Helen—to be colleaguening with others—against me. I am a badly used man."

Then he began to whimper and the storm was over.

A dead silence followed. Mrs. Brathous took up her satin pieces again, but in a weary, depressed fashion, and the laird sat sulking and sighing in his big chair by the open window. He had the curiosity of a peasant and the sensitive pride of a small concoited nature. He wanted his wife to tell him the secret and she sat silently matching bits of satin. She was untouched by his air of injury, and not to be led into conversation by any irrelevant remark. At last he was fully conquered and ready to capitulate. Silence was the one thing he could not endure.

"Helen," he said, "you know it is your duty to tell your own husband everything."

"I know my duty, Alexander—duties vary with husbands."

"What is the secret, my dear? I ought to know it. Now, ought I not?"

"When I think it is the right time to tell you, I will speak."

"I declare, Helen, I will not name to anyone what you tell me. I only want to take care of Katherine."

"Katherine can take good care of herself, with her mother to guide her—not to speak of the minister."

"Helen, I am the laird. It is not right to put the minister before me on my own estate. Come, Helen! I will talk with you only. I will do what you tell me—yes, I will. You ought to tell me. It is your duty."

"Oh—I am not in the mood of duty to-day."

So the plea was continued, the while Mrs. Brathous was coming to a decision. It was evident Langton had found out part of the truth, and might learn it all—perhaps also learn other things which it would do no good to bring up—dead faults long ago buried and forgotten. She disliked Langton. She did not wish to give him any further insight into the affairs of a family likely to be allied with her own; and she judged that the minister's influence would be sufficient to make her husband prudent until the time came to speak. So she finally said:

"When did Langton go to Edinburgh?"

"This morning."

"If you will telegraph him to return at once, and make him keep absolutely quiet about Katherine and Mr. Mowbray, I will tell you all."

The pledge was readily given and the promise fully performed. The laird had a delightful afternoon discussing the circumstances with his wife. He even felt a sort of temporary kindness for the young man so suddenly faced with such a calamity. For Brathous could really hardly conceive of a greater misfortune coming to any one than to be in a moment deposed from the elder to a second son, and thus fall from a landowner to a plain, perhaps a poor gentleman.

Yet in spite of his professed sympathy he was comforted by the situation. Fortune had never dared to play the laird of Levens-hope such a trick, and for several hours he tossed his head both at fortune and the poor, disinherited squire of Mowbray. He talked with Mrs. Brathous until he was tired, and then the desire to talk with some one else was irresistible. He said he would just walk over and see the minister about the new psalm-books, and his wife answered:

"Keep to the psalm-books, Alexander. You know what you have promised me. And see that you go to Galashiels and send the telegram to Langton."

He promised all things positively, and she had not much doubt that his confidence would be restricted to the minister, who was very well able to take care of what had been committed to him. And she did think the withdrawal of Langton from his scrutiny of the late squire's youthful life was a thing Mr. Richard Mowbray would be grateful for. There might indeed be nothing to reveal, and again there might; few men would care to have the days of their first entrance into life set in the searchlight of public opinion.

So Brathous went to call upon Doctor Telfair, and after a slight inquiry about the new psalm-books plunged at once into the subject pressing upon him.

"I know what took young Mowbray to America, doctor, and I presume you do, too," he said, with an air of mystery.

"Well, then, we will not talk of the matter, laird. It is not yet the time to do so. When the young man comes back I am ready to speak."

And the doctor's face was so final and his voice so imperative that Brathous felt himself retired beyond controversy. But as he rode to Galashiels to send his telegram, he tasted in advance the triumph it would bring him.

"First," he mused, "Langton will have to refund the money I gave him for expenses, and he hates to give money back. Second, I shall make him feel his short-comings. I shall say, 'Langton, I have found out with my own good sense and power of putting this and that together, the beginning and the end of the matter.' He will then look scornful, and I shall continue: 'You were a bit too slow for me, Langton. You need a seasoning of my penetration, and so on, etc.' I shall further intimate that it was after all a mare's nest—a whiff-whaff of country say-so—etc., etc. And then he is that suspicious he will be sure to follow the scent at his own expense. So if he finds anything out that my Lady Helen has not told me, he will come to me with his 'and,' and thus I shall have the last word among all, Helen, Katherine, the minister and Jessy. I have a good mind to tell Wintoun. I said I would not, but I do believe it to be my duty—he is my own nephew. Yes, I will go and see Jamie in the morning, and just try and find out if the lad knows a thing or two that has not been told me. No one is bound to keep a foolish promise—made to a woman, too! God knows if a man was bound by such promises he would be forsworn from January to December."

CHAPTER VI.

THE OLD PROPOSE.

"The romance we love is that which we write in our own hearts."

"The Eden we live in is in our own hearts."

In the morning the laird felt the necessity for a further discussion of the remarkable family incident to be still more pressing; and Mrs. Brathous was so provokingly indifferent that he was sure he had a justifiable excuse for going to Wintoun House. He dallied with his conscience, however, all the way there, assuring it that he would not say a word of Mowbray's affairs, unless he saw they were going to interfere with his own, a proviso which opened the door for any amount of gossiping.

Wintoun, who was a fine musician, was at his piano, and the laird could hear him singing, as he approached the house, singing loud and clear:

"Love in her sunny eyes does basking play."

"I used to sing along myself, once," the laird recently reflected. "It was a very commanding and better, yet, than he

But he did not tell Wintoun this. He talked to him a little about border ballads, saying:

"They are very romantic and stirring, Jamie, and if one could have an accompaniment of galloping horses to them, they would be just perfect; but I can tell you, Jamie, there is more romance in every-day life if you happen to come its way."

"I have never happened on anything but the most prosaic existence," answered Jamie, "so I am glad to sing 'The Braes of Yarrow' or the 'March! March! of Etterick and Tevio Men!'"

"Tut! Tut! That is the romance of bygone days, not of the same material nor the same color as this life, and so nothing but a bright patch on it. Now, there has been a strange story right under your eyes lately, Jamie, and you never read a line of it."

"A strange story under my eyes?"

"Yes; but it took the penetration of a far-seeing man like myself to read that fellow Mowbray."

Wintoun's bright face clouded, and he answered in a tone that was almost sulky:

"I would rather you chose some other subject for our conversation, uncle."

"I have something particular to tell you about the man."

"I would rather hear nothing at all about him. His life does not concern me."

PRESENTIMENT.

Saved Him from Death and Put Him on the Road to Wealth.

San Francisco Chronicle: Captain George F. Ellis, of Santa Barbara, who left the city last Tuesday for Alaska, has had the experience of being saved from death by a presentiment to become a Klondike millionaire. Four years ago Ellis was a poor man and gained a livelihood as master of a small craft employed at sea otter hunting along the California coast. Today he owns several of the most valuable claims on El Dorado and Bonanza creeks, and he is known to the world as one of the miners of the far northern gold fields to whom fortune has been kindest. And this far flight from the deck of a steam schooner to the owner's stateroom of the finest private yacht that can be built, should Ellis choose to own such a craft, is all because he obeyed a mysterious mental warning that kept him, in 1895, from becoming a member of the crew of the schooner E. E. Webster, that was lost with all on board. Ellis at that time was financially stranded in Santa Barbara, with a family to support. He secured a position of otter hunter with Liebes & Co., of this city, and signed a contract to go to the coast of Alaska, on the Webster. For several days before he was to start the presentiment haunted his waking and sleeping hours that the voyage he was about to make held death for him. He is a strong, fearless man, but finally he yielded to his fears and secured release from his contract. The fate that overtook the Webster entirely vindicated the occult admonition that had reached Ellis, for in a terrific gale off Lazy harbor the schooner foundered, and the twenty men on board perished. Ellis worked his way to Alaska, toiled over the icy trails, and reached the Yukon in time to locate some of the richest claims in the Klondike. During his recent visit to San Francisco he brought his family here from Santa Barbara and established them in a home worthy his present affluence. Ellis has returned to the Yukon country to look after his interests there. He will be absent a year, and will then come back to his family and make his home permanently in San Francisco.

A Brave Woman.

A beautiful Canadian who joined the China Inland mission as the wife of the Rev. Riquhart, a Belgian missionary, has just reached Tachieu with a terrible story of cruelty and suffering among the fierce mountain tribesmen of Thibet. Her husband was brutally murdered, and her son died from exhaustion. Their bodies were taken away and mutilated. She was chased through the mountains on the border of China and Thibet, and was shot at time and again. Passing through countless dangers, and without the aid of a single native servant, she traveled on for two months, and finally reached a mission. Her clothes were almost torn away, her shoes had given out, her feet were bleeding from the sharp rocks. She was nothing but a pitiable wreck. She writes to a friend in Shanghai of her bereavement and the cruelty of the Thibetans to her husband, and says she is preparing to go back to the wild men of the snowy China mountains.

Born in a Cabin.

New York Spe. Pittsburg Dispatch: Miss Virginia Fair, who is soon to wed William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., was born in a rough two-story wooden shanty in Virginia City, Nev., where her father was a hard working miner. The Fair children played with the other miners' children and showed slight promise of future prosperity.

"Maud has promised to become my wife." "Well, don't worry about it, my lad. Women frequently break their promises."

A Chapter of Singular Events Told by Telegraph.

A GIRLS' REBELLION IN A HOME.

Girls Escape From an Industrial Home at Chillicothe, Mo., to Secure Letter Treatment—Chattanooga Women Win a Temperance Fight by Singing Hymns—Women Elected in a Kansas Town.

CHILICOTHE, Mo. (Special).—Armed with knives, forks and scissors, twenty-five inmates of the Girls' Industrial Home in this city, a State Reformatory, rebelled a few days ago, forced their way out of the building and marched in a body into the business part of the city. Policemen set to work to round up the rebels. Two of the girls who carried knives wielded them so viciously that the policemen were compelled to club them before they would surrender.

Most of the rebellious inmates were recaptured. The girls say that they rebelled because they were being starved and abused. Desiring a Legislative investigation of the management of the home, they decided that the action they took was the way to bring it about.

FULL WOMAN TICKET ELECTED.

The Outcome of a Contest in the City of Seattle, Kan.

BEATTIE, Kan. (Special).—In the city election two tickets were in the field, one composed of women and the other of men.

Mrs. Charles Totten was elected for Mayor and Mrs. Sheldon, Mrs. Schlicht, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Kirkin, and Mrs. Watkins for Council, while Miss O'Neill for Clerk won easily.

The women drove their own carriages all through a blinding snowstorm carrying voters to the polls.

Defeated Her Husband at the Polls.

GALESBURG, Ill. (Special).—Mrs. James Mansfield, Democratic nominee, defeated her husband, the Republican nominee, in the School Trustees contest in Rio township, receiving the largest vote given to any candidate.

HYMNS SUNG TO ALDERMEN.

Chattanooga Women Fight and Win Against Saloon Keepers.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (Special).—A few weeks ago the City Council passed an ordinance compelling all saloons to be closed from 10 p. m. to 5 a. m. Saloon keepers attempted to have the ordinance amended by making midnight the closing hour.

A mass meeting of prominent women of the city was held at the Auditorium and resolutions of protest against the amendment were adopted. Two hundred women then marched to the chamber where the Council was to meet. While the Aldermen were assembling the women sang "Rock of Ages," "Stand Up For Jesus," and other hymns. Strong petitions against the change of the ordinance were presented. The Council did not alter the ordinance.

GIVES HIS BODY TO SCIENCE.

Desire of a Soldier Who Expects to Die Soon of Locomotor Ataxia.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Surgeon-General Sternberg of the Army has received this letter from a soldier in the regular army, who is now in the hospital of one of the Western Army posts:

"The disease locomotor ataxia, from which I am suffering, is making rapid progress toward my heart. I am convinced that within a short time I shall be dead. In view of this and the fact that but few similar cases now exist, and but little of it is known to medical science, I wish to respectfully request that my body be disposed of to medical science, with the hope that the knowledge gained thereby may be a benefit to the world at large."

A FAMILY'S STRANGE DAY.

There Was a Funeral, Marriage and Birth in a Cincinnati Household.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (Special).—In one family living at Third and Parsons streets there were a few days ago a funeral, marriage and birth. The body of Thomas Sanders, of the Sixth Infantry Regiment, arrived home from Porto Rico the day before. William Kiefer, a bricklayer, uncle to the death youth, was being married in church to Miss Lydia Hall at almost the same hour. En route home the funeral mourners learned that Mrs. Stella Burman, sister of the dead soldier, had given birth to a son.

A PORTO RICAN REGIMENT.

Governor-General Henry's Order For the Enlistment of Native Soldiers.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico (By Cable).—The following circular has been issued by Governor-General Henry with reference to the equipment of a Porto Rican regiment:

The commanding officers at the posts of San Juan, Ponce, Mayaguez, Arecibo, Aguadilla, Cayey, Humacao, Adjuntas, Utuado, Yauco, Coamo, San German, Bayamon, Manati, Lares, and Abonito, and Porto Rico, will each designate an officer at his post to enlist, equip and instruct twenty-five men, including one Sergeant and two Corporals, as United States soldiers from among the Porto Ricans.

These men should be enlisted as soon as practicable and will possess the physical requirements of a soldier in the United States army and, as far as possible, should be able to speak the English language, and especially the non-commissioned officers.

Their term of enlistment will be until July 1, 1901, and they will receive the same pay and allowances as soldiers of the United States Army.

The detachments so enlisted will afterward be united in companies of 100 men each until a battalion of 400 men has been formed. The battalion and companies will be officered by American officers for the present.

The officers designated to make these enlistments will make report to these headquarters at the end of each ten days during the time they are engaged in enlistment, equipping, and instructing these men, and upon the completion of their duties a full report will be made.

OUR PHILIPPINE POLICY.

The Proclamation Issued by the American Commission at Manila.

NATIVES PROMISED HOME RULE.

Philippines Informed of the Objects of the United States Government in Assuming Sovereignty—No Real Conflict With Their Rights and Liberties—Our Declaration of Intentions.

MANILA (By Cable).—A proclamation was issued by the United States Philippine Commission. The preamble recites the cession by the Peace Treaty of the Philippine Islands to the United States, refers to the appointment of the Commission, assures the people of the cordial good-will and fraternal feeling of the President of the United States and the American people, and asserts that the object of the United States Government, apart from the fulfillment of its solemn obligations assumed toward the family of nations by the acceptance of the sovereignty over the islands, is the well being, prosperity and happiness of the Filipino people, and their elevation and advancement to a position among the most civilized peoples of the world. Continuing, the proclamation says:

"The President believes this felicity and perfection of the Filipino people will be brought about by the cultivation of letters, science, and the liberal and practical arts, by the enlargement of intercourse with foreign nations, the expansion of industrial pursuits by trade and commerce, by the multiplication and improvement of means of internal communication, and by the development of the great natural resources of the archipelago.

"Unfortunately these pure aims and purposes of the American Government and people have been misinterpreted to some of the inhabitants of certain islands, and, in consequence, the friendly American forces, without provocation or cause, have been openly attacked. Why these hostilities? What do the best Filipinos desire? Can it be more than the United States is ready to give? They say that they are patriots and want liberty. The Commission emphatically asserts that it is willing and anxious to establish an enlightened system of government, under which the people may enjoy the largest measure of home rule and the amplest liberty consonant with the supreme ends of the Government, and compatible with those obligations which the United States has assumed towards the civilized nations of the world."

The proclamation then says there can be no real conflict between American sovereignty and the rights and liberties of the Filipinos; for America is ready to furnish armies and navies and all the infinite resources of a great and powerful nation to maintain its rightful supremacy over the islands, so it is even more solicitous to spread peace and happiness among the people and guarantee them rightful freedom to protect their just privileges and immunities, to accustom them to free self-government in an ever-increasing measure, and to encourage those democratic aspirations, sentiments, and ideals which are the promise and potency of fruitful national development.

The proclamation announces that the Commission will visit the Philippine provinces to ascertain the enlightened native opinion as to the forms of Government adapted to the people, conformable with their traditions and ideals, invites the leading representative men to meet the Commission, and declares that the policy of the United States, in the establishment and maintenance of the Government, is to consult the wishes and secure the advice and co-operation of the people.

The proclamation contains eleven articles, declaring America's intentions, as follows:

1. The supremacy of the United States must and will be enforced throughout every part of the archipelago, and those who resist can accomplish nothing except their own ruin.
2. The amplest liberty of self-government will be granted which is reconcilable with the just, stable, effective and economical administration, and compatible with the sovereign rights and obligations, of the United States.
3. The civil rights of the Filipinos will be guaranteed and protected, their religious freedom will be assured, and all will have equal standing before the law.
4. Honor, justice, and friendship forbid the exploitation of the people of the islands. The purpose of the American Government is the welfare and advancement of the Philippine people.
5. Guarantees an honest and effective civil service, in which, to the fullest extent practicable, natives shall be employed.
6. The collection and application of taxes and other revenues will be put upon a sound, honest, and economical basis. The public funds, raised justly and collected honestly, will be applied only to defraying the proper expenses of the establishment and the maintenance of the Philippine government and such general improvements as public interest demand. Local funds collected for local purposes shall not be diverted to other ends. With such prudent and honest fiscal administration, it is believed the needs of the Government will in a short time become compatible with a considerable reduction in taxation.
7. The establishment of a pure, speedy, and effective administration of justice, by which the evils of delay, corruption, and exploitation will be effectually eradicated.
8. The construction of roads, railroads and other means of communication and transportation, and other public works of manifest advantage to the people will be promoted.
9. Domestic and foreign trade and commerce and other industrial pursuits and the general development of the country in the interest of its inhabitants will be the constant objects of solicitude and fostering care.
10. Effective provision will be made for the establishment of elementary schools in which the children of the people will be educated. Appropriate facilities will also be provided for higher education.
11. Reforms in all departments of the government, all branches of the public service, and all corporations closely touching the common life of the people must be undertaken without delay, and effected conformably with common right and justice, in a way to satisfy the well-founded demands and the highest sentiments and aspirations of the Philippine people.

Britain to Fortify the Falklands. The British Government is about to send an engineering corps of 1400 men to fortify Stanley and other points on the Falkland Islands.

NEW YORK STATE NEWS.

Bills Signed by the Governor.
Governor Roosevelt has signed the following bills:

Mr. Sage's, authorizing Catskill to expend $15,000 in the erection of a village hall.

Mr. Burnett's, providing for better protection for bees from the disease known as foul brood.

Senator Ellsworth's, authorizing the Governor to remove County Treasurers on charges, after due hearing has been given.

Mr. Russell's, prohibiting the killing of partridge, woodcock and quail in Rensselaer County until September 1, 1903.

Mr. Hatch's, prohibiting fishing for plover, pike, perch and bullheads through the lee of Loon Lake, Steuben County.

Mr. Post's, permitting the shooting of deer with dogs or otherwise on the first two Wednesdays and Fridays of November on Long Island.

Mr. S. B. Sage's, including Green County in the provisions of the Game law which permit the fishing for suckers, bullheads, eels and darters by means of hooking from December 1 to May 15 following.

Senator Ellsworth's, authorizing the United States Government to purchase in any city of this State one or more pieces of land, not exceeding two acres in extent, for the erection of a Government building.

Mr. Henderson's, providing that the costs of the construction of bridges between cities and towns shall be borne proportionately between those political divisions according to their assessed valuations.

Mr. Appgar's, prohibiting members of city Common Councils from holding salaried offices within the gift of such Councils, prohibiting city officials from being interested as surety or otherwise in any city contract.

Mr. Sears's, amending the Fish and Game law by providing that fish shall not be caught for a period of five years in any of the streams in Franklin and Clinton Counties that empty into the Upper and Lower Chateaugay Lakes.

Convicts Need More Work.
The State Prison Commission has been called upon by the authorities of Sing Sing Prison to provide additional markets for the products of the prison industries.

There is not now sufficient work to keep all the convicts employed. This condition was brought about mainly by the action of the Kings County Executive authorities in establishing a broom industry to supply the Street Cleaning Department of the Greater New York. The brooms were previously manufactured in Sing Sing Prison and gave employment to a large number of convicts.

Warden Sage asks the Prison Commission to secure, if possible, a more general compliance by municipalities with the law requiring purchases to be made from the State prisons. The Prison Commission appointed President Stewart and Secretary McLaughlin a committee to confer with the State Department of Prisons relative to the matter.

The Commission adopted a resolution at a meeting held a few days ago condemning the provisions of the bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Roche prohibiting the use of prison-made furniture in the schools. The Governor transmitted to the Commission a communication received from the labor unions of Elmira protesting against the employment of convict labor in the construction of a proposed addition to the Elmira Reformatory. The Commission, in reply, pointed out the necessity of employing convict labor to carry out the design of the Constitution and the State Prison law that convicts shall be employed as much as possible in the performance of State work. The present case, in the opinion of the Commission, needs but little consideration, as it is believed by its members that the Legislature will not make an appropriation for the proposed addition to the reformatory.

Canal Frauds Inquiry.

The special counsel appointed by Governor Roosevelt and Attorney-General Davies to examine the testimony taken before the commission which investigated the conduct of the improvement work on the canal system under the provisions of the nine-million-dollar appropriation act, have completed more than one-half of their labors. It is learned from a most reliable source that about two-thirds of the testimony taken has been examined and that the counsel thus far have found nothing which would justify the institution of any proceedings of a criminal character against either ex-State Superintendent of Public Works George W. Aldridge or ex-State Engineer and Surveyor Campbell W. Adams. The counsel have at the very least another month's work before them and it will probably be near June 1 before their report is submitted to Governor Roosevelt and Attorney-General Davies. The counsel are not limiting their investigation, however, to the official acts of ex-Superintendent Aldridge and ex-State Engineer Adams. They are examining the testimony in relation to the acts of all subordinate officials and employees of the Public Works and State Engineer's Departments and contractors who performed canal improvement work, and will report as to whether they have been guilty of any conduct which would warrant criminal indictment. It is impossible to learn what has been concluded by the counsel on this subject.

Millions of Fish Fry Planted in March.

Chairman Babcock, of the Fish Hatcheries Committee, reported at a meeting a few days ago of the State Fisheries, Game and Forest Commission that 18,000,000 white fish fry had been planted in Lake Ontario during January and February. The fry were supplied by the Caledonia State Hatchery. During the same months 38,000,000 tomcod from the Cold Spring Hatchery were planted. During March deliveries of 1,500,000 trout were made by the various State hatcheries.

State Association of Elocutionists.

The second annual convention of the New York State Association of Elocutionists was held at Syracuse. Henry Gaines Hawn, of Brooklyn, was unanimously elected President; John Rummell, of Buffalo, Vice-President; Miss Olive Hall, of New York, Secretary, and Mrs. Evelyn Benedict Ayres, of Syracuse, Treasurer. Bishop Frederic Dan Huntington, of the Central New York Episcopal Diocese addressed the delegates.

Child Killed by a Railway Train.

Charles K. May, the five-year-old son of Dr. W. H. May, lecturer on pathology and bacteriology in the College of Medicine, Syracuse University, at Syracuse, was struck and fatally injured by an electric car a few days ago. He attempted to cross the tracks in front of a moving car, and lived only half an hour after the accident.

Father and Son Die at the Same Hour.

John Tompkins, sixty-four years old, died in the hospital at Peekskill at a quarter past nine a few days ago, after a month's illness from bronchial troubles. At about the same hour his son, Sylvanus Tompkins, twenty-eight years old, died on the steps of a building in the village. Heart disease was the cause of his death.

Nearly Fifty-eight Years Old!!!

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast to-day, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century. It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans.

It is The New York Weekly Tribune, acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of THE GENOA TRIBUNE (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with The New York Weekly Tribune which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive family.

Just think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.25 a year. Send all subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE, Genoa, N. Y.

MAJOR STERNBERG, who is post master of United States volunteers at Manila, declares that not less than 10 per cent. of the volunteers now in service in the Philippines are desirous of remaining in the islands and making homes there, in view of good opportunities in prospect for agricultural, lumbering, mining and other profitable pursuits. According to Major Sternberg, there are no healthier people in existence than the English and Scotch who have lived in Manila for many years. Evidently somebody has been doing the Philippine climate a great injustice.

It is a somewhat surprising fact that there are young men in this city old enough to join the regular army who are unable to read and write. This fact was brought out yesterday by Major H. G. Cavanaugh, who is in charge of the general recruiting station in the Bastable block. Among those who were examined yesterday for enlistment, six were rejected, three of them for the reason that they could not read and write.—Syracuse Post.

JAILS are built of honest men's earnings. Courts are supported from peaceful men's property. Penitentiaries are built by the toil of the virtuous. Crime never pays its own way. Vice has no hands to work; no head to calculate. Its whole faculty is to corrupt and waste; and good men directly foot the bills. Alas, too true; and wherein is the remedy.

East Genoa.

The rumor that Henry Spangler of Lansing is about making a bargain with Wm Fallon and will buy his place, intending to make of it a Raines law hotel, has caused quite an excitement here, and from what we hear there will be a vigorous protest from the people.

The aid society at Mrs. Lester's on Wednesday was well attended considering the bad roads, about thirty present. The ladies have a number of church cushions completed and deserve great credit for their diligence in this work.

Mrs. E. C. Starner soon goes to Weedsport to join her husband. Mrs. C. Atwood is improving in health. Mrs. Eliza Niles is recovering from her late illness. Miss Maud Heath of Locke assists Miss Ida Niles this summer. Mrs. Small is staying some time with L. L. Tice's. Miss Amy Sharpsteen is quite poorly. Rev. Williams and wife were at Elias Lester's on Wednesday.

Our new W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Coon on Saturday afternoon of this week at 2 o'clock. There will be a question box and topics for discussion. All are invited.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK to Sue R. Bacon and Bessie Bacon, SEND GREETING: Whereas, Solon E. Bacon of Genoa, N. Y., has lately applied to our Surrogate's Court of the County of Cayuga for the proof and probate of a certain instrument in writing, dated the 13th day of August, 1896, purporting to be the last will and testament of Matilda Bacon late of Genoa, in said county, deceased, which relates to both real and personal estate. Therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear in our said Surrogate's court, before the Surrogate of the County of Cayuga, at his office in the court house, in the city of Auburn, on the 29th day of May, 1899, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and attend the probate of said last will and testament. And those of you who are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your general guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, you will appear and apply for the appointment of a guardian, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a special guardian will be appointed by the surrogate to represent and act for you in this proceeding.

In Testimony Whereof, We have caused the seal of our said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed.

WITNESS, Hon. George B. Turner, [Ls.] Surrogate of the County of Cayuga, at the Surrogate's office in the city of Auburn, this 11th day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety nine. G. EARLE TREAT, Clerk of the Surrogate's Court. Hull Greenfield, attorney, Moravia, N. Y.

A Friendly Tip About Spring Clothing.

Now that warm weather is here that new spring suit or overcoat must be purchased. And so we want to give you a little advice—take it, or not, as you desire. We have selected our line of clothing this season with the greatest of care. It comprises everything that one can wish. We have blue and black serges, chevots, fancy worsteds and those handsome checks suits which are so popular, and the make and cut of them is right. They are gotten up by the best houses in the country—by houses that are always after the latest that the market affords. Our prices of course are right. We quote but a few:

$6.00
This gets a handsome light check suit, something stylishly gotten up. All wool. Last season it was $10.00.

$10.50
This is going to be the hit of the season. It is one of those Adler suits and is a winner. It's a pretty light check and looks like custom made.

A Chinese Permutation.

A story which, if not true, is not badly told, to the effect that while the bark Cape City was at Hong Kong a Chinaman was engaged to paint the necessary name on each bow.

He produced on one bow the legend "Capacity," without a space between the two words. Then he noted that the "y" was nearest to the ship's stern, and remembering this fact, he afforded an excellent example of how severely logical his race can be, for in a little while he had painted on the other bow the striking permutation, "Yticepac," to his own delight and the crew's amazement.

Town Drummers.

In Scotland the town drummer was an important personage and performed many duties. When beggars or suspicious characters could not give a satisfactory account of themselves on being brought before the bailies, and were ordered to be placed in the pillory or in the jugs, they were afterward drummed out of town. The drummer would also make known, after beating his drum to attract attention, notices relating to town affairs, roupings under judicial authority, &c.

Our recent contract for adding one more store on State street has been completed and we shall soon make very extensive preparations throughout our ten stores in the way of shelving, counters, fronts, floors, etc., which will necessitate reducing our stock in general. We make this announcement in order to have you prepare for the coming bargains. Every department will be changed, every store rearranged and every improvement up to the times will be inaugurated. You will then see one of the most metropolitan stores in your own little city. Now we want you to get ready when the call comes to carry off our stock, so we can make room for our alterations. Thousands upon thousands of dollars worth of goods must be disposed of before the masons, carpenters, plasterers, painters, glaziers, etc., can be made room for. We shall strive to close out every dollars worth of goods before we give our stores over to them. At the present writing we cannot tell when our contract will be placed, we are awaiting developments from the builders, but in a few days you will hear the great bugle call when we know everybody will be here.

Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

KENNA, Jackson Co., W. Va.
About 8 years ago my wife had an attack of rheumatism which confined her to her bed for over a month, and rendered her unable to walk without assistance, her limbs being swollen to twice the normal size. Mr. S. Maddox insisted on my using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I purchased a 50c. bottle and used it according to directions and the next morning she walked to breakfast without assistance, and she has not had a similar attack since.—A. B. PARSONS. Source of the Gulf Stream.

Recent investigations have shown that the principal source of the Gulf stream is not the Florida channel, but the region between and beside the islands of the West Indies. At Blonion the volume of this warm water is 60 times as great as the combined volume of all the rivers in the world at their mouths.

A Serious Watch.

A curious watch has been brought out in France. The dial is transparent but there are no works behind it, and the hands appear to move by magic. The secret lies in concealing the works at the edge of the case, and communicating the motion to the hands by means of a glass disk.

Railroad traveling in Cuba is expensive enough to be luxurious, 7 to 8 cents a mile in cars that are relics of bygone days. Everyone who is so inclined smokes without asking permission. New Horseshoeing Shop.

I have spent 15 years of my life in the study of the horse and the anatomy of the horse's foot. It is something every man should know to shoe a horse as it should be shod. The art of shoeing a horse is in trimming the foot with perfect correctness, therefore it takes a man with a great deal of experience to trim a horse's foot and set him squarely on his feet. There is the secret of stopping horses from interfering. I can stop a horse from interfering. I pay special attention to lameness of the foot and interfering horses. I have been on a stock farm for 6 years and have had a great deal of experience with all kinds of horses feet. I have read several veterinary books, but a veterinarian is not a horseshoer. It takes a man who is born a mechanic to be a good horseshoer. Horseshoeing is an art of itself, a man can't learn it in a month. I do my own trimming and fitting and guarantee my work to give satisfaction. SHERMAN WRIGHT, Avery's old stand opposite the mill, Genoa, N. Y.

"EVERLASTING-TRAGEDY."

From John G. Woolley's Sermon on "Manual Worship."

I shall never drink again, but one night in a New England train, and very ill, I met a stranger who pitied me and gave me a quick, powerful drug out of a small vial, and my pain was gone in a minute or two, but alcohol was licking up my very blood with tongues of flame.

I should have gotten drunk that night, if I could. I thought of everything—of my two years of clean life; of the meeting I was going to, vouched for by my friend and brother, D. L. Moody, whose faith in me had gone out into all the world; of the bright little home in New York; of Mary and the boys; I tried to pray, and my lips framed oaths. I reached up for God, and he was gone, and the fiercest fiend of hell had me by the throat and shouted, "Drink, drink, drink!" I said, "But Mary—but my boys;" it said, "To hell with Mary—come on, to the saloon!"

It was not yet daylight, Sunday morning, when I stood on the platform at Pawtucket, alone. I flew from saloon to saloon; they were shut, so were the drug stores; and all the day, locked in my room at the hotel, I fought my fight and won it in the evening, by the grace of God; and the people never knew that the man who spoke to them that night had been in hell all day.

What would you take, in cash, to

It is to be my portion until my dying day; and if merciful, patient time shall have that put into your life? cauterize and heal the old, dishonorable wounds and cover them with repulsive but impervious cicatrices, yet because I had those wounds I am to be through my whole life considered a moral chameleon, a creature of precipices, where one false step ends all; and so, denied full confidence of my fellow men—the highest grace of life to strive for, in this world; and I am told I have a Christian enemy or two who wait on tiptoe of expectancy and cheerfully prophesy the sure, near coming of my final plunge back into the Dead Sea of drink.

By the mercy of God that has spared you that kind of peril and that kind of hate, "I beseech you" cast a vote next time, in honor of the "Son of Man," who died for drunkards, and to make the stations on life's highways safe for storm-tossed men to stop at, any day or any night.

I telegraphed to my home in Boston, after a long absence on the west coast: "I will arrive home to-night at 11." The train was late; long after midnight I came under her window. The light was burning, and I knew that she was waiting for me. I let myself in. There were two flights of stairs, but twenty would have been nothing to me, my heart was hauling away like a great balloon. She stood in the middle of our room as pale and motionless as a woman of snow, and I knew at a glance that the sweet, brave life was in torture. "What is it?" I cried; "what is the matter?" and in my arms she sobbed out the everlasting tragedy of her wedded life. "Nothing—at any rate, nothing ought to be the matter. I do believe in you; I knew you would come home; but I have listened for you for so many years that I seem to be just one great ear when you are away beyond your time; I seem to have lost all sense but that of hearing when you are absent, unexplained, and every sound on the street startles me, and every step on the stairs is a threat and a pain, and the stillness chokes me, and the darkness smothers me. And all the old, unhappy, home-comings troop through my mind, without omitting one detail, and to-night I heard the children sighing in their sleep, and I thought I should die when I thought of you having to walk in your weariness and in this midnight, through Kneeland street alone."

She thinks that I will never fall; and would deny to-day that she knows any fear, but yet, until the undertaker screws her sweet face out of my sight forever, that ghastly, unformed, nameless thing will walk the chambers of her heart whenever I am unaccounted for.

By the mercy of God, that has given to you the unshaken and unshakable confidence of her you love, "I beseech you," make a fight for the women who wait to-night until the saloon spews out their husbands and their sons and sends them maudlin, brutish, devilish, vomiting, stinking to their arms. And, you happy wives, whose hearts have never wavered nor had occasion to waver, and which, when your husbands fall to come on time can go to bed without a fear and go to sleep with smiles upon your lips, and sleep the long night through too peacefully even to dream, by the mercy of God, that gives you that, I beseech you, band yourselves to help, at least to cheer, the wives who, their whole lives through, must walk the rotten lava-crust of burned-out confidence—their very love a terror and a pain.

The beef trust gets itself together every week and fixes the prices it will pay the farmer for his cattle and the prices its agents must charge for meat. Enormous profits are the result. There is scarcely one necessary of life that is not thus controlled by a few individuals, banded in a trust, with government sanction, and apparent public approval. The world has never known a more cruel tyranny than this, yet it exists in this free and enlightened country; justice sleeps!

The leading railroads centering in New York almost entirely use Chilton Paint. Chemists acknowledge its superiority and the practical painter appreciates that theory and practice in this case do not disagree.

These great corporations want the most durable article because they cannot afford to often stop their cars for the purposes of repainting.

Some railroads go even so far as to specify when having cars built that Chilton Paint, and only Chilton Paint, shall be used upon them, and bridge engineers often specify that bridges shall be painted only with Chilton Paint. If these great corporations, who make a study of economical methods and materials, use Chilton Paint, can you afford not to profit by their experience?

THE SNEEZING SEASON.

Some Valuable Hints For Warding Off a Cold.

A cold, as nearly every intelligent person knows, is the result of a stoppage somewhere of free circulation of blood, to which one is first sensitive through a feeling of chill.

So slight is the chill oftentimes that not until the preliminary sneeze comes is the victim aware he or she has been in the track of a draught, or that the temperature has changed.

The usual notion is that by going indoors, changing to heavier clothing or retreating from the moist atmosphere the danger is averted. These precautions are all well enough, but the first and most efficacious measure should be to restore the quick flow of warm blood through every vein, and so by heat instantly counteract the little chill.

One, perhaps the simplest method of doing this, has been learned by men who stand on sentinel duty, who are obliged to suffer more or less exposure in winter, or who scorn the comforts of cold weather, of overcoat and umbrella.

Their method when the temperature of the body or extremities is lowered, or a sudden chill or quick change from warm to cold atmosphere is endured, is to inhale three or four deep breaths, expand the lungs to their fullest extent, holding every time the inhaled air as long as possible and then slowly letting it forth through the nostrils.

In doing this the inflation of the lungs sets the heart into such quick motion that the blood is driven with unusual force along its channels and so runs out into the tiniest veins.

This radiates a glow down to the toes and finger tips and sets up a quick reaction against the chill. The whole effect is to stir the blood and set it in motion as from rapid exercise.

Roman Cities Still Good.

Any dishonest contractor, whose wealth accumulates while his work decays, ought to read, with a blush of shame, of a new bridge across the Danube.

Pillars of a bridge built at the same place by the Emperor Trajan are to form a part of the structure. The engineers attested the strength of the Roman work under an emperor whose reign began exactly 1800 years ago.

MAN'S INTRINSIC VALUATION

His Physical Personality Ranges From $6,665 to Over $333,333.

The more money a man can produce each year the more valuable, of course, is his body to him. The less money a man can produce the less valuable is his body. The railroad president's body is worth a vast fortune. On the other extreme, the body of a tramp, a criminal, a lunatic, or a beggar is worth literally less than nothing.

The poor laborer who is prone to imagine himself of very little use in the world and his body of very little benefit to anyone will be surprised to know that he is in the possession of a handsome legacy, from which, by the proper exercise of his hands, he draws a yearly interest.

For instance, take the case of the ordinary "farm hand." He is found all over the United States. He is a Swede in the northwest, a native in the south, and possibly an Irishman or a German in the east. He gets, say, an average wage amounting to $200 a year. How much do you suppose that man's body is worth to him? Just about $6,665. For his $200 a year is to him in the nature of an investment at an annual interest rate of 3 per cent. Tell him he's worth $6,665 and he won't believe you. But he'll go on drawing his yearly interest just the same.

Then there is the carpenter. He's a valuable bit of dust, this workman. So is every other skilled mechanic. Some will earn more money than others, but a true average will be about $500 a year. The body of that carpenter, mason or painter is worth $16,666. Seems queer, doesn't it? A good many of them would doubtless like to realize their entire principle at once.

Look at the $15-a-week young man, the clerk in the lawyer's office, the bean of the ribbon counter or the starting stenographer. He has to count his pennies to pay his board and keep himself looking neat, with an occasional flyer at the theater or on an excursion. Do you suppose he would be so careful if he knew he was worth $26,000? Well, hardly. Yet that is just the sum his labor figures out as a 3 per cent. investment proposition.

A Dialect Story.

The brogue of the south and west of Ireland is softer and more musical than the brogue of the north, which has about it some of the flavor of the Scottish accent. When Lord Morris was Chief Justice of Ireland, a young junior barrister rose in his court one day to make his motion, and spoke in the hard brogue of the North of Ireland. "Sapeel," said the Judge, in a low voice to the registrar of the court, "who is this newcomer?" "His name is Clements, my lord." "What part of the country does he hail from, in the name of all that's wunnerful?" asked the Judge. "County Antrim, my lord," was the reply. "Well, well," said the Judge, "did you ever come across such a froightful accent in the whole course of yer born life?"

When the Don Goes Courting.

A curious custom obtains in some portions of Spain in regard to betrothals. A young man who looks with favor upon a handsome seniorita and wishes to gain her hand calls on the parents for three successive days at the same hour of the day. At the last call he leaves his walking stick, and if he is to win the desired bride the cane is handed to him when he calls again. But if he is not regarded with favor, the cane is thrown into the street, and in this way the young man is made to understand that further calls will be useless.

Newspaper Men in Holland.

At least 200 outside newspapers sent envoys to Holland to report the coronation ceremonies, and a committee arranged for their comfort. A house was taken to serve them as a sort of club during their stay. Each duly accredited journalist received an elegant sort of pocketbook containing his own photograph, with a permit to attend all the public ceremonies and to travel gratuitously over all railways within the kingdom.

Bounty Sharpers.

The state of Michigan pays a bounty for the heads of dead English sparrows. It has recently paid out over $2,000 to a crowd of Indiana sharpers who had killed the birds by strewing poisoned wheat about the streets of Indiana cities. The carcasses were shipped to southern Michigan towns, and the bounties collected as on birds killed in Michigan.

Large Landholders.

One of the largest landed proprietors in Europe is the prince of Schwarzenberg, who owns 207,371 hectares of land in Austria, Bohemia and Bavaria. As many as 296 different industries are carried on in them, giving employment to 7,108 persons, of whom 1,480 are females.

Artificial Flowers.

Artificial flowers were unknown to the ancient civilized nations of Europe. They are first mentioned in Italy in the fourteenth century, but in China they were known at an earlier date.

THE VILLAGE MIRROR

What Has Happened in Genoa During the Past Seven Days—An Interesting Page.

A tutor who tooted the flute
Tried to teach two tooters to toot;
Said the two to the tutor,
"Which is harder, to toot or
To tutor two tooters to toot?"

—How do you like your new home?

—Landlord Carson was in Moravia on business Monday.

—Bert Lewis was in Auburn two or three days this week.

—Ralph H. Ames has returned to his home at DeRuyter.

—E. L. Close of Five Corners was in Genoa on business Monday.

—Miss Bertha Sellen of Scipioville is again attending the Genoa academy.

—Miss Mazy Morey has returned from Auburn to her home at Five Corners.

—Mrs. Mary Thayer has nearly recovered from a severe attack of the grip.

—See that your yards are well cleaned before the hot weather arrives on the scene.

—H. P. Mastin makes some interesting statements in the large corner on this page.

—"When April blows her horn it's good for hay and corn," or other words to that effect.

—Now then the bachelor likes to watch his married brother whip a carpet and break his back on the old cook stove.

—We understand that George Holden is to work for N. Rundell this season, and Henry Murray for Deloss Niles.

—Hugh Myers drove the stage a day or two this week while H. M. Head suffered from an attack of acute indigestion.

—Leslie Shaw has returned to his school work at the Delaware Literary Institute, after spending a two-weeks vacation at home.

—Frank Hopkins and wife have been spending several days with friends in this vicinity; his work at the salt block is stopped for a time.

—The lake road west of King Ferry has been put in good condition; the Indian Field road has been well nigh impassable the past week.

—Even the pin feathers sometimes play in hard luck; one of them was escorted home from their club house by his mother Wednesday evening.

—It is said that if the soot you spill on the carpet while moving a stove is thickly covered with salt it can be swept up clean, leaving no black mark.

—Word comes to the effect that Earl Underwood is seriously sick with a spinal trouble. His numerous friends surely hope it is not of a dangerous character.

—The farmers are all busy now cleaning up their yards and getting their tools in readiness for spring work. S. Howe was the first man to turn a furrow this spring, so far as we know.

—Mrs. Fred Trumpeter of Levanna has a position as soprano in the Aurora Presbyterian church choir. Mrs. Trumpeter's many friends will be pleased to know of her continued success.

—New advertisements this week from L. Marshall, the well known Auburn clothier, The Boot Co., L. H. Hewitt, Ben Mintz, the old reliable Ithaca clothier, and Mastin & Hagin, hardware.

—Considering the condition of the roads, there was a large attendance at the social entertainment on Tuesday evening and the proceeds amounted to nearly $10. The program was carried out, though unavoidably delayed.

—The trout season opens April 16th. As this year it occurs on Sunday, fishing on that day being prohibited by law, there will be no strings of the speckled beauties on exhibition in this village until the 17th. Perhaps not then.

You can get any kind of phosphate at any time at Hewitt's. Look for Sweet Pea Seed in bulk at Smith's.

—Now bring on your milk—to the creamery.

—THE TRIBUNE is unavoidably late this week.

—A. M. Seekell of Union Springs was in town Wednesday.

—Don't fail to see what Rothschild Bros. say elsewhere.

—Auburn's big store has a new announcement on this page.

—Mrs. L. Haskell and daughter Lulu visited at W. D. Moshers this week.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Norman entertained a large company at progressive eucher Friday evening.

—If you have live stock, hay or grain to sell, advertise in the TRIBUNE. The cost is trifling and the results will surprise you.

—L. E. Ghering recently went to Auburn where he has accepted the position of night clerk at the Empire House.

—Thos. J. Bradford, Nelson E. Lyon and Frank H. Tarbell are the newly appointed notaries public for the town of Lansing.

—Rose bushes should be cut well back at this time of year and the number and size of the blossoms will be greatly increased by such a course.

—The Rev. Geo. Laughton will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening. Subjects, The New Charter and In Quest of the Cross.

—It is a pleasure to visit H. P. Mastin's mammoth store and inspect his new spring stock of goods. A better assortment was never before exhibited in this village.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Heaton were in town last week packing their household goods, preparing to move them soon to their newly built residence in Auburn.

Lafayette Jacobs has taken possession of his new place. Smith Townley has moved to Genoa, and Frank Townley now occupies the old homestead.—Groton Journal.

—Says the Moravia Republican: Lerdy Rundell, formerly of Genoa, now residing at Iowa City, Iowa, has just sold to the O. S. Kelly Mfg. Co., of Cleveland, O., seven acres of land lying just outside the city. Mr. Rundell has been very successful as a stock raiser and has been president of the Johnson county agricultural society for seven years.

—According to a Geneva exchange, one of the farmers in that section has been impressed with the danger of getting pernicious microbes from borrowing his neighbor's local newspaper, and has subscribed for himself. We wish to state right here that the paper on which the TRIBUNE is printed is not germ proof, and the borrowing reader of these lines is warned of the danger that he is running.

—The house cleaning season brings many discomforts to the average man, but the meanest trick yet recorded was perpetrated by a Cazenovia lady, in setting the clocks all an hour fast and getting her husband and family up and out of the house an hour ahead of their usual time, all unknown to them.—Cazenovia Republican. We see nothing mean about that. During the season mentioned the average man wants to get out of the house early and stay out late.

—Do the city papers say anything in regard to your locality? inquires a neighboring editor. Do they contain notices of your schools, lodges and hundreds of local matters of interest that your home paper publishes? Not an item. Do they publish a work calculated to draw trade to your town and your enterprises? No. And yet there are men who take contracted views in this matter, who think if they don't get as many square inches of reading matter in their home paper they are not getting the worth of their money. Take the city paper if you want one, but don't let it crowd the local paper out of your home.

The Genoa Creamery.

Mr. Fred Smith, proprietor of the Genoa creamery, has been in town all this week making preparations to begin making butter tomorrow. A large amount of milk has been promised and more will readily follow. Mr. Smith is an expert butter maker and should have the confidence of all as the entire season's make is already contracted for. Mr. Smith buys the milk and the patrons will thus be secured. Cream, milk and butter be on sale at the creamery and it is hoped all will take liberal interest in Genoa's new industry.

Strange Disappearance.

Last week Thursday Miss Edith Bolster left her home at West Groton and as far as known has not been seen since. The country all through that vicinity has been scoured but to no avail. The girl is 17 years old, light hair and ruddy complexion and is supposed to have worn no cloak, cape or jacket. She was last seen on the road toward Ithaca, walking, at 11 a. m. She had complained to her friends of a pain in her head, and this leads to the thought that she may have been taken insane. It is a sad case, as she was of a quiet disposition and her home life was very pleasant.

Later reports indicate that the young lady returned home Tuesday evening, and entered the house unbeknown to her parents, and after providing herself with some wearing apparel entered a carriage which was waiting at the gate. The carriage, which doubtless contained an anxious young man, then proceeded toward Locke and there the trail was again lost. It seems very easy now to explain the matter.

"Trust Not to Appearances."

That which seems hard to bear may be a great blessing. Let us take a lesson from the rough weather of Spring. It is doing good despite appearances. Cleanse the system thoroughly; rout out all impurities from the blood with that greatest specific, Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Instead of sleepless nights, with consequent irritableness and an undone, tired feeling, you will have a tone and a bracing air that will enable you to enter into every day's work with pleasure. Remember, Hood's never disappoints. Goitre—Goitre was so expensive in medical attendance that I let mine go. It made me a perfect wreck, until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which entirely cured me.

Running Sores—"Five years ago my affliction came, a running sore on my leg, causing me great anguish. Hood's Sarsaparilla healed the sore, which has never returned." Mrs. A. W. BARRETT, 39 Powell Street, Lowell, Mass.

Up on the Statutes.

Cincinnati people love to tell this story on General Benjamin F. Butler: He was one of a commission to examine young applicants for admission to the bar, and before him came a youth who failed miserably on all that pertained to jurisprudence, case law, civil law, summary law, unwritten law and due process of law. Finally, Butler, who rather liked the chap and wanted to see him through, asked: "What would you like to be examined in?" You have failed in everything we have suggested." The reply came: "Try me on the statutes; I'm up on them." Butler shook his head solemnly. "My young friend," he said, "I'm afraid you won't do. You may be ever so familiar with the statutes, but what is to prevent a fool Legislature from repealing all you know?"—New York Press.

HEALTH and beauty are the glories of perfect womanhood.

Women who suffer constantly with weakness peculiar to their sex cannot retain their beauty. Preservation of pretty features and rounded form is a duty women owe to themselves. The mark of excessive monthly suffering is a familiar one in the faces of young American women.

Don't wait, young women, until your good looks are gone past recall. Consult Mrs. Pinkham at the out-start. Write to her at Lynn, Mass.

Miss EDNA ELLIS, Higginsport, Ohio, writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I am a school teacher and had suffered untold agony during my menstrual periods for ten years. My nervous system was almost a wreck. I suffered with pain in my side and had almost every ill human flesh is heir to. I had taken treatment from a number of physicians who gave me no relief. In fact one emigrant specialist said no medicine could help me, I must submit to an operation. At my mother's request, I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham stating my case in every particular and received a prompt reply. I followed the advice given me and now I suffer no more during menses. If anyone cares to know more about my case, I will cheerfully answer all letters."

MISS KATE COOK, 16 Addison St., Mt. Jackson, Ind., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I am by occupation a school teacher, and for a long while suffered with painful menstruation and nervousness. I have received more benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than from all remedies that I have ever tried."

China Like a Graveyard.

The wife of an American naval officer stationed at Tien-Tsin, China, writes thus to a friend in Baltimore: "The trip by train from the landing to Tien-Tsin takes about an hour and a half. The cars are not palatial, but they are comfortable. When you land hundreds of coolies besiege you for your baggage. You wonder how it ever reaches its destination in safety. The trip is somewhat interesting, but rather desolate to take alone. You pass through miles of graveyards. There are thousands of mounds without a sign of green grass or green leaf. China seems to be one vast graveyard, for they bury their dead anywhere they wish. They bury in large coffins placed on the surface of the ground, covered over with mud and earth. This is blown and washed away, and then the coffins are exposed to view. A few miles from the railroad station on the river you come to trees and vegetation. It reminds you of some of the poor land that some of our railroads at home go through."—New York Tribune.

JAMAICA WOULD JOIN US.

Threatened With Ruin and Seeks Annexation to the United States.

PETITIONS HOME GOVERNMENT.

Governor and Representatives Fail to Agree in Jamaica—Island's Sail Plight—Proposed That the United States and Great Britain Exchange the Philippine Islands For the British West Indies.

KINGSTON, Jamaica (By Cable).—Sir Augustus Hemming, the Governor, and the representatives, have failed to reach the hoped-for compromise on the critical issues that have been pending for several weeks. The Governor declining to withdraw the additional official members, the tariff bill was forced through.

The representatives then entered a unanimous protest, and it is thought that this will fire the movement to join the Leeward Islands and to demand annexation to the United States. The Government having failed to provide the relief demanded, the British West India sugar islands are on the verge of absolute ruin, and the people are looking wistfully to the American people for succor.

A memorial from the inhabitants of St. Christopher, Nevis, the oldest English settlement in the West Indies, was a few days ago forwarded to Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, praying the Imperial Government to take steps during the present session of Parliament to abolish the sugar bounties, or, alternatively, to open negotiation with the Government of the United States for the transfer of these colonies to Uncle Sam, in exchange for the Philippines, or otherwise, as may be mutually agreed upon by the two governments.

AS VIEWED IN WASHINGTON.

How the Question of Exchange is Considered by Public Men.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—State Department officials are watching with great interest the growing sentiment among the inhabitants in Jamaica in favor of the annexation of the Leeward Islands to the United States. Thus far the matter has not been brought to their attention in any official way, but it is not doubted that the American consuls in these islands will, if the agitation continues, find it incumbent upon them to make special confidential reports on the subject.

Public men here are discussing with unabated interest the proposition that the United States and Great Britain enter into an agreement by which the United States shall turn the sovereignty of the Philippines over to Great Britain in return for the British West Indies.

The general belief is that it is mainly a question as to whether Great Britain would be willing to relinquish sovereignty over the Leeward Islands in return for the Philippines. As far as the United States is concerned it is thought that public sentiment would be entirely favorable to the trade.

It is suggested, however, that the possession of the Philippines would give Great Britain such an advantage in the Far East, where the rivalry between the European nations for trade is so sharp, that she might consider these islands much more valuable than her West Indian possessions can possibly be.

It is believed that Great Britain would insist on retaining possession of some of the strongest strategic points in the West Indies, but the United States would be perfectly willing to have her do so, while this country would retain a strong naval base in the Philippines.

THIRTEEN KILLED BY FIRE

Two Private Residences Totally Destroyed in New York City.

Millionaire Andrews, His Wife and the Family of G. C. St. John Perish in the Flames.

NEW YORK CITY (Special).—Thirteen persons were killed and eleven injured in the fire which destroyed the houses of Wallace C. Andrews, the millionaire president of the New York Steam Heating Company, and Albert G. Adams. The houses were two blocks apart, and while the firemen were hard at work at the Andrews house sparks set fire to the Adams house behind them. With Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were Mrs. Georgiana B. St. John, wife of G. C. St. John, Mrs. Andrews's brother and the three small St. John children. All were lost.

The dead are: Wallace C. Andrews, fifty years old, president of the New York Steam Heating Company; Margaret Andrews, forty-five years old, wife of the former; Mary Roland, Kate Downing, Mary Flanagan, Annie Neary, Eva Peterson, Marie Roth, all servants in the Andrews household; Mary Loughlin, sixty years old, servant, Adams household; Mrs. Georgiana B. St. John, sister-in-law of Mrs. Andrews and wife of G. C. St. John, Mrs. Andrews's brother; Orson St. John, seven years old; Wallace St. John, three years old; Frederick St. John, thirteen months old.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. Anonymous letters, however, threatening violence to the Andrews family had been received by them as early as January, and continuously during the last ten weeks, the last arriving the day before the fire. They

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—President McKinley has decided upon the appointment of the following gentlemen to represent the Government of the United States at the conference over the Czar's proposed disarmament of nations to be held at The Hague the latter part of next month:

ANDREW D. WHITE. (He will be the Dean of the American Delegation to the Czar's Peace Congress.)

Andrew D. White, Ambassador at Berlin; Sanford Newell, Minister to the Netherlands; Seth Low, President of Columbia University, New York; Captain William Crozier, Ordnance Department, United States Army; Captain Alfred T. Mahan, United States Navy, retired, and Frederick Hollis, of New York. Mr. Hollis will act as Secretary of the delegation, and Captains Crozier and Mahan go as military and naval experts.

CROWNED KING OF SAMOA.

British and Americans Enthroned Malletoa Tanu With Much Ceremony.

APIA, Samoa (By Cable).—Malletoa Tanu was crowned King of Samoa at Mullnuu. Admiral Kautz and Captain White, of the Philadelphia; Captain Sturdee and Captain Forless, of the Porpoise and Royalist; the United States and British Consuls and the Chief Justice were present at the ceremony, which was attended by all the representative Americans and British.

One hundred sailors from the American and British ships composed the guard of honor. The procession marched about Alpha, headed by the band of the Philadelphia. Salutes were fired by the United States and British ships, but the German Paik lay in the harbor silent. The German officials did not attend the ceremony.

In a suburban church a few Sundays ago a stranger was preaching, and he seemed to think that the preliminary services were dragging. "In order to enliven the proceedings, brethren," he remarked, "we shall sing two anthems, one before and one after the sermon." For the anthem before the sermon he chose "Ye shall go out with joy," and then proceeded to deliver a long and weary discourse. "Our second anthem, brethren," he announced at the end, "will be, 'Now it is high time to awake out of sleep.'"—London British Weekly.

Our Area in Coal Production.

Both the area and the quantity of coal production has increased in the United States. In 1870 coal was mined in only twenty States, while in 1897 it was mined in thirty-two; in 1870 Pennsylvania was the only State producing anthracite. Now we get it from Rhode Island, Virginia, Colorado and New Mexico also. The most rapid increase has been in the South. In 1870 Alabama mined but 11,000 tons of coal; in 1897 5,262,000 tons. Kentucky jumped from 150,000 tons to 3,216,000 tons; Tennessee from 133,000 tons to 2,500,000 tons, and Virginia from 62,000 to 1,365,000 tons.—Chicago Record.

A GIFT FROM M. LOUBET.

Two Splendid Sevres Vases Presented to the American People.

FRENCH AMBASSADOR'S SPEECH.

M. Faure Had Intended to Send the Vases After the Opening of the New French Cable—His Successor Carries Out His Wish—President McKinley's Reply to M. Cambon's Presentation Address.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—An interesting ceremony occurred in the Blue Room of the Executive Mansion, when the French Ambassador, M. Cambon, presented to the Government and the American people, as represented by President McKinley, two magnificent Sevres vases from the French National Pottery at Sevres.

The gift is from the President of the French Republic, and commemorates the opening of the new Franco-American cable on August 17 last, when President McKinley and President Faure exchanged the first message over the new line, between the White House and the Palace of the Elysee.

In making the presentation, M. Cambon spoke as follows: "Mr. President: Some months ago M. Felix Faure, the lamented President of the French Republic, joined with you in opening for public use the new Franco-American cable, and when I saw him for the last time he recalled the incident to mind.

"Divine Providence did not permit him to realize his last wish, but his successor, M. Emile Loubet, who has charged me to make known to you his sentiments of high esteem and cordial amity, has resolved that it should not be left unfulfilled. In his name, therefore, I have the honor to present to you these vases. They will ever remain as a pledge of the sympathy which draws closely to one another the two greatest republics of the world; they will also be an evidence that this cable, which unites France to the United States across the ocean, is but a type of the more potent ties that for so many years have united our glorious nations."

In reply President McKinley said: "Mr. Ambassador: But a few weeks ago the generous American people joined the French nation in testifying their sorrow at the death of the lamented President of the Republic, the Senate of the United States expressing by a resolution the regard of their countrymen toward the memory of one who, in the brief time of his chief magistracy, had continued the work of his predecessors and had contributed to still further strengthen the historic good-will that links the two peoples. I am deeply touched at the proof you now give to me that this high aim was to the last in his mind, and I no less warmly appreciate the act of his successor, President Loubet, in giving effect to one of the last purposes cherished by President Faure. In the name of my countrymen I accept the gift you offer. These beautiful vases, typical of one of the most celebrated arts of France, will remain in the Nation's care as an evidence of the friendly sentiments of the French Government and people toward the United States, and as a token of the auspicious event they were designed to commemorate. I beg that you will convey to President Loubet, in my name and on behalf of the American people, an adequate expression of the sincere appreciation with which this gift is accepted."

HEROES LAID AT REST. Imposing Military Services Attended by the President and Official Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—With full military honors, in the presence of President McKinley and his Cabinet and a multitude, the bodies of the 336 heroes who gave their lives for their country in Cuba or Porto Rico, were consigned to their last resting place in Arlington Cemetery.

MOB KILLS A CRAZY MAN. His Death Followed the Wounding of a Farmer in East Haddam, Conn.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (Special).—In East Haddam an Italian barber ran amuck with a shotgun, and after shooting and seriously wounding John B. Gelston, a farmer, was captured and shot to death by angry citizens. The man was evidently insane.

SERIOUS STRIKES IN RUSSIA. Secret Revolutionary Proclamations Scattered in Various Towns.

LONDON (By Cable).—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times telegraphs an alarmist statement regarding the spread of serious troubles and strikes in the manufacturing districts of Russia. Ominous rumors, he says, are in circulation in St. Petersburg—reports of troops sent to suppress outbreaks, of the wholesale destruction of property, of numerous arrests, and of the gagging of the press—yet half of what is happening reaches the ears of the capital.

STEPHEN J. FIELD DEAD

Former Justice of the Supreme Court Expires at Washington.

The Last But One of the Famous Four Brothers of the Field Family—His Honorable Career.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Justice Stephen J. Field, of the United States Supreme Court (retired), died from kidney complications at his home on Capitol Hill in this city at 6.30 o'clock Sunday evening. At his bedside were his wife and her sister, Mrs. J. Condit-Smith; Justice David J. Brewer, his nephew; Mrs. Edgerton, of California; Mr. Linton, his private secretary; the Rev. Edward M. Mott, rector of the Church of the Advent, and the family servants.

JUSTICE STEPHEN J. FIELD.

Ever since Justice Field's retirement from the Supreme Court Bench on December 1, 1897, he had enjoyed comparatively good health and, being relieved from the responsibilities which he had borne for so many years, he became more cheerful than formerly, and seemed to enjoy the society of his friends and acquaintances more than ever before.

Justice Field's Career. Stephen Johnson Field was born at Haddam, Conn., on November 4, 1816. He was the son of David Dudley Field, and one of four brothers who became famous, David Dudley, Cyrus W. and Henry M. Field being the other members of the quartet that made their names known throughout the world.

In November, 1849, he sailed for San Francisco, around Cape Horn, and entered upon the practice of law in the Occidental metropolis. After a short time he moved to Marysville, a small mining camp, and became one of the founders of what afterward grew to be a thriving town. When the little city was organized, Justice Field was elected the alcalde of the place.

He was elected a member of the first Legislature of the State, and made a member of the Judiciary Committee of that body. He was elected a Justice of the Supreme Court of California in 1857, for the term of six years. In 1859 he became Chief Justice, succeeding Chief Justice David S. Terry in 1863. President Lincoln appointed him Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and he held that post until his retirement, on December 1, 1897.

In the latter years of his service on the bench he was in feeble health. His term was the longest in the history of that tribunal. Chief Justice John Marshall wore the ermine for a period extending over thirty-four years. It was the ambition of Justice Field to surpass this record, and he succeeded in doing so by a few months.

When Wellington Gave a Party. One day, when some small visitors happened to be in the nursery at Strathfieldsage, the Duke of Wellington walked up to the top of the house and found the youngsters at tea.

Without a word he rang the bell violently. A footman appeared and stood petrified. "Have the goodness to understand," said the Duke, in a voice of thunder, "that when children are invited to my house to tea they are to have jam!"

Then he departed, and before he was out of earshot a shout went up that that must have reminded him of Waterloo.

The women of East Genoa have organized a local W. C. T. U. of thirty members with officers as follows: Mrs. Eliza Beardsley president, Mrs. Clara Coon vice president, Mrs. F. Bothwell rec. secretary, Miss Emma Atwood cor. secretary, and Mrs. Ida Lester treasurer.

West Genoa W. C. T. U. held their quarterly parlor meeting with Mrs. L. D. Young on Friday last. Over 60 were present and an interesting program was given, refreshments were served and a freewill offering of $3.50 was taken. Three new members gained and the union is steadily growing in strength and popularity. A beautiful picture of Miss Willard was lately purchased by the union.

The Largest Flag.

The largest flag in the world has recently received its finishing touches at the hands of Miss Josephine Mulford of Madison, N. J. Miss Mulford designed and made it entirely herself during the war with Spain. The flag contains 325,000 stitches, and Miss Mulford counted them all. The flag dimensions are 100x65 feet. The blue field is 40x35 feet. The stripes are wide in proportion and each star is two feet and eight inches across. The bunting is of extra width and quality and was manufactured especially for the flag. It is sewed with the best silk. Each of the forty-five stars is embroidered with the arms of the state it represents and the date of its admission into the union, and the stars are arranged according to the order in which the states were admitted.

A Queer Calendar Complication.

There will be many dinners in honor of Thomas Jefferson, April 13th. Yet he was not born on that day. He was born on April 2d, 1753, old style, but owing to the new style of time computations beginning with the introduction of the Georgian Calendar, 1752, at which time the Equinox had retrograded eleven days since the Council of Nice in A. D. 325, when the festival of Easter was established and the equinox occurred on March 21, the dates of anniversaries originating prior to Pope Gregory's Calendar are determined by adding eleven days, hence Thomas Jefferson's birthday is properly observed on April 13th. This interesting fact is pointed out on pages 24 and 35 of the New York World Almanac, a most interesting statistical book of over 500 pages. This newspaper offers to send the volume postage paid for 25c.

The Steps He Wanted to Take.

Not long ago a number of constables were assembled at Scotland Yard, London, for the purpose of being examined in matters relating to police duty previous to being appointed as sergeants. The following question was asked a candidate by a member of the examining board: "You are on duty in the vicinity of a menagerie, and you are informed that a lion has broken loose and is roaming about the streets. What steps would you take?"

"Jolly long steps, sir," replied the constable, to the amusement of the other members of the board.

Most Medieval Race.

The Spaniards are not the most medieval of races. The Svanthians, who live in the inaccessible mountain range between the Black and Caspian seas, are probably the laziest people in the world. They have made no advance toward civilization in 2,500 years. It is their invariable rule to observe holidays four times a week, with saints' days as extras.

Stone Telegraph Poles.

The messages between Milan and Switzerland, by way of the Simplon pass, pass over a telegraph line with stone poles. This line runs along the fine military road which skirts the west side of lake Maggiore. The poles are of gray granite, and average about 10 inches square and 25 feet high. They are in use for a distance of 30 or 40 miles.

Unappreciative England.

American humor is seldom appreciated in England. Perhaps that is why a couple of English custom house inspectors who recently seized and condemned as decayed two cases of hams consigned to a London firm from New York did not relish the joke implied in the marking on the outside of the boxes: "Nosegay Brand."

Not Generally Known.

Thirteen out of every 10,000 people in the United States are in prison. Seventeen out of every 10,000 are insane, the number being divided almost equally between the sexes. The tendency to insanity is greatest among the Irish. It is least among the Canadians.

Ice in India.

In India every town of any size has its own ice factory, some of them capable of turning out from 500 to 1,000 tons of ice a day; and the same thing holds good in Egypt and the southern states of America.
