Cleanliness, speed and regularity are prime requisites for the making of good maple sugar or syrup. And of these three, cleanliness is the most important.

As you plant so you reap; careless seed selection costs much in

Mrs. Elizabeth Fenner Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Fenner died during Friday night last, at the family home at Lake Ridge, from old age, having passed away in her sleep. Mrs. Fenner celebrated her 92d birthday the Sunday before her death.

Mrs. Fenner was the widow of Cas-per Fenner, who died in 1882. She leaves two sons, Assemblyman Cas-per Fenner of Lansing and Leslie
Fenner of Ithaca; three sisters, Mrs.
Elias Lester of Seneca Falls, Mrs.
Lavina Baldwin of Auburn and Mrs.
Mary Strong of Lawrence, Kas.

Mrs. Fenner was the oldest member of the King Ferry Presbyterian church. She and her husband were for many years members of a famous quartet known as the Fenner and Price Quartet, which sang in that church and also throughout this section in concerts and upon other occasions.

The funeral was held from the family home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Rev. A. A. Anderson of Ludlowville officiated. There were many beautiful floral tributes in testimony of the love of many friends, and the W. C. T. U. and school also sent flowers. The remains were placed in the receiving vault at King Ferry and interment will be made later at Lake Ridge cemetery. The bearers were Harry Smith, Howard Shaw, Floyd Davis and Emmett Woolley.

Among those present at the funeral were Miss Caroline Lester of Seneca Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd
Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Davis,
Mrs. Clara Townsend, Miss Sarah
Gillette and Miss Alma Quick of Ithaca.

King Ferry School Notes.

[ANNA ATWATER EDITOR]
(Too late for last week.)

The Algebra class had their supper last Wednesday night and later joined the other high school pupils in Atwater's hall where games and dancing were enjoyed.

The Agricultural department is running an incubator in the basement.

The juniors met and organized their class. They are to give a play later.

The pupils chosen from the eligible list for the prize speaking contest are: Fred Tuttle, Jr., Elbert Campbell, Dana Franklin, Leo Britt,
Dorothy Fessenden, Lula Bush,
Marian Smith, and Anna Atwater.
Their training is to begin immediately.

The Biology class is to have a supper Wednesday evening.

Each Tuesday and Thursday the cooking class serves a hot dish to the pupils. For example to-day they served bean soup so with the addition of a small amount of food
they will have a nutritious lunch.

The Homemaking department has just received a chocolate exhibit. It shows the different steps in the manufacture of chocolate and cocoa.

Dies of Heart Disease.

While her husband, John F. Morgan, was absent for a few minutes at a nearby barber shop, Mrs. Frances Morgan, 44, died of heart disease at the family home in Ithaca about 10 o'clock Saturday night. When Mr. Morgan returned home he found his wife dead in bed, she having retired during his absence. Besides her husband she leaves a daughter and a son; a sister, Mrs. Willis Egbert of Ithaca, and a brother, Sherwin A. Douglass of Lansing.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home and at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Rev.
John Richards officiating. Interment in Lake View cemetery.

ROTHSCHILD BROTHERS

Thirty-Eighth Anniversary Celebration
Beginning Tuesday, April 6
Continuing the Entire Week

Thirty-eight years ago this establishment was started in a small store opposite the Ithaca Hotel, and it was through the co-operation, the firm loyalty of the people of this community, that we have been able by gradual steps of improvement to attain our present position.

And to show our appreciation of this assistance we are going to offer specially attractive values each day in every department of our store.

Moreover, this will be just at the beginning of the Spring Season when everything will be new and novel and fresh, from which you can obtain these attractive price reductions.

You will find here a well selected assortment of merchandise purchased most advantageously for your needs.

And Our Out-of-Town Friends Will be Given These Added Inducements:

CARFARE FREE FROM YOUR HOME TO ITHACA IF $10 WORTH OF MERCHANDISE IS PURCHASED.

PURCHASES OF $5.00 OR MORE SHIPPED FREE OF CHARGE TO NEAREST DEPOT BY FREIGHT OR BY PARCEL POST TO YOUR DOOR IF THAT IS POSSIBLE.

IF YOU TRAVEL BY AUTOMOBILE, WE WILL GIVE ONE (1) GALLON OF GASOLINE FOR EVERY TEN MILES FROM YOUR HOME TO ITHACA.

The special bargains that we advertise and offer each day will be given any day to Out-of-Town Customers, when such attractive bargains hold out and such offerings are possible.

Hundreds, yes thousands will want to visit this store at this time and get their share of these attractions right at the height of the Spring Season, now that the roads are open and travel is simple.

The long list of special values cannot be included in this page, so come to this store and see them for yourself.

The Thrice-A-Week Edition
OF THE
New York World
IN 1919.

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price. The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. We have been forced to enter the great world war, and a mighty army of ours is already in France fighting great battles and winning magnificent victories. You will want to have all the news from our troops on European battlefields, and 1919 promises to be the most momentous year in the history of our universe. No other newspaper at so small a price will furnish such prompt and accurate news of these world-shaking events. It is not necessary to say more. THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Genoa Tribune together for one year for $2.25. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

WASHINGTONIANS AS PRODUCERS OF FOOD

Striking Example of What May Be Accomplished.

Three Hundred Families in District Supplied Tables With Fresh Vegetables During Summer and Stored Some for Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the most striking examples of what may be accomplished in food production is that of the Potomac Park home gardens, located in the District of Columbia almost within the shadow of the Washington monument. During the year just closed there were 300 gardens, supervised by the United States department of agriculture, each 40 feet by 100 feet in size, and occupying in all approximately 35 acres. According to reports recently received from the gardeners, and based on actual records, these gardens gave an average return of $84 a garden, or over $25,000 for the 300 gardens. This means that no less than 300 families living in the District of Columbia not only have supplied their tables with fresh vegetables throughout the summer, but stored a considerable supply of food for winter use. In addition, approximately 1,200 people enjoyed outdoor exercise and healthful recreation.

Some of Potatoes Grown by Washingtonians on Public Park Lands in National Capital.

This is but one instance where the city home garden has resulted both in the production of large quantities of food and in providing the people with outdoor life exercise. The need for home gardens will be just as great in 1920 as during the past season. Now is the time to perfect organizations and secure land on which to plant gardens next year.

STOCK NEEDS GOOD HOUSING

There Are Two Extremes Farmers Should Avoid—Crowded Sheds Are Injurious.

"Farmers should use a great deal of care in housing their animals at this time of the year," says Dr. K. W. Stouder of the agricultural extension department of Iowa state college.

"There are two extremes in housing that many farmers practice. One extreme is crowded and tight sheds or barns which have poor ventilation and are too warm at night. When the animals are turned out in the morning there is great danger that they will take pneumonia.

"The other extreme is poorly built buildings, and those built with open foundations high above the ground. The cold winds blow into and through such barns at night and cause pneumonia. Many farmers mistake pneumonia for influenza or cholera."

GIVE SHEEP GOOD ATTENTION

Pens Should Be Level and Dry, as Moist or Fermenting Manure Will Cause Trouble.

Keep the sheep pens level and dry—moist or fermenting manure is sure to cause snuffles and footrot. After the pens are cleaned, dust with plaster and spread down a thin coat of dry clean straw. Just enough straw should be spread to keep the sheep dry and comfortable. Have a wide door hung on rollers—opening out into the yard. A narrow door is dangerous—and may cause the injury of one or more ewes or lambs.

Absolute regularity in feeding is to be aimed at, and the flock must be so divided that the stronger will not get more than their share of feed. It is as bad for them as for the underlings. The latter have at least a good appetite, the former often surfeited and fall off in condition accordingly.

SILOS INCREASING RAPIDLY

Becoming Necessary on Every Farm in Pennsylvania—Lessens Cost of Production.

Statistical information recently collected by the bureau of statistics, Pennsylvania department of agriculture, shows that approximately 20 per cent, or 48,657 farmers in that state are now using silos. The number one year ago was estimated at 32,900.

The silo is rapidly becoming a necessity on practically every farm, for silage greatly lessens the cost of production of a pound of butter or a pound of beef.

The Legend of Easter Eggs

Trinity bells with their hollow lungs,
And their vibrant lips and their brazen tongues,
Over the roofs of the city pour
Their Easter music with joyous roar,
Till the soaring notes to the Sun are rolled
As he swings along in his path of gold.

"Dearest papa," says my boy to me,
As he merrily climbs on his mother's knee,
"Why are these eggs that you see me hold
Colored so finely with blue and gold?
And what is the wonderful bird that lays Such beautiful eggs upon Easter days?"

Tenderly shine the April skies,
Like laughter and tears in my child's blue eyes,
And every face in the street is gay,—
Why cloud this youngster's by saying nay?
So I cudgel my brains for the tale he begs,
And tell him this story of Easter eggs:

You have heard, my boy, of the Man who died,
Crowned with keen thorns and crucified;
And how Joseph the wealthy—whom God reward!—
Cared for the corpse of his martyred Lord,
And piously tombed it within the rock,
And closed the gate with a mighty block.

Now, close by the tomb a fair tree grew,
With pendulous leaves and blossoms of blue;
And deep in the green tree's shadowy breast
A beautiful singing bird sat on her nest,
Which was bordered with mosses like malachite,
And held four eggs of an ivory white.

Now, when the bird from her dim recess
Beheld the Lord in His burial dress,
And looked on the heavenly face so pale,
And the dear hands pierced with the cruel nail,
Her heart nigh broke with a sudden pang,
And out of the depth of her sorrow she sang.

All night long till the moon was up
She sat and sang in her moss-wreathed cup;
A song of sorrow as wild and shrill
As the homeless wind when it roams the hill;
So full of tears, so loud and long,
That the grief of the world seemed turned to song.

But soon there came through the weeping night
A glittering Angel clothed in white;
And he rolled the stone from the tomb away,
Where the Lord of the earth and the heavens lay;
And Christ arose in the cavern's gloom,
And in living luster came from the tomb.

Now, the bird that sat in the heart of the tree
Beheld this celestial mystery,
And its heart was filled with a sweet delight,
And it poured a song on the throbbing night,—
Notes climbing notes, till higher, higher,
They shot to Heaven like spears of fire.

When the glittering, white-robed Angel heard
The sorrowing song of the grieving bird,
And, after, the jubilant psalm of mirth
That hailed Christ risen again on earth,
He said: "Sweet bird, be forever blest,
Thyself, thy eggs, and thy moss-wreathed nest!"

And ever, my child, since that blessed night,
When Death bowed down to the Lord of Light,
The eggs of that sweet bird change their hue,
And burn with red and gold and blue;
Reminding mankind in their simple way
Of the holy marvel of Easter Day.

—Fitz-James O'Brien.

Joy Supreme.

And, in the glory of the lilies, in the great joy of the glad morning, there should be no heart that any fate can rob of its serenity, no soul that the powers of evil can successfully assault.

EASTER'S AWAKENING.

Never yet was a springtime,
Late though lingered the snow,
That the sap stirred not at the whipsaw
Of the south wind, sweet and low;
Never yet was a springtime
When the buds forgot to blow.

Ever the wings of the summer
Are folded under the mold;
Life, that has known no dying,
Is Love's, to have and to hold;
Till sudden, the bourgeoning Easter!
The song! the green and the gold!
—Margaret E. Sangster.

ONE YEAR OLD

Just one year since we opened our Optical Laboratory the first and only one in Auburn

IN THAT YEAR WE HAVE ADDED THREE WORKMEN TO OUR FORCE AND NEARLY DOUBLED OUR EQUIPMENT.

Our superior facilities enable us to give better optical service than can be obtained elsewhere in Auburn, as no other local optician has the necessary equipment. We can exactly match broken lenses, no matter where they were made, or how complicated. If your prescription was made by an out-of-town oculist, we can fill it accurately and promptly.

If your eyes are troubling you—if your present glasses are not satisfactory—if you have been improperly fitted elsewhere—we can give you satisfactory service. We have every style of frame, etc., always in stock, and can fit you perfectly.

Do not forget that we do all kinds of lens grinding and can show samples and give the best service on KRYPTOK two-vision glasses, the perfect bifocal.

Fine Grinding Sure!

LETZ FEED MILL

excels all other mills in fine grinding. Why? Because of the wonderful Letz Feed Mill. You should come in and take a look at that plate. You never saw anything like it to get results. The Letz will grind wild oats, wheat screenings, millet seed, grass seed, rye, barley, corn in the cob, without husks, Kafir corn in the head, timothy, alfalfa hay—fine as dust—practically as fine as flour without injuring the plates. One customer says he can grind chaffed corn and oats into flour, for bird feed, in one grinding. With other mills he would have to grind it twice.

Letz Self-Aligning Plates are quickly changeable, don't rattle and sharpen themselves when run together empty. One set of burrs grinds 100 to 200 bushels of grain—outlasts three to five sets of ordinary plates.

We sell the Letz because when one is sold it gives satisfaction and calls another.

Mrs. May Todd Dead.

Mrs. Alice May Todd of Binghamton died last Friday morning at the Conklin sanitarium in Ithaca, where she had been a patient for four weeks. Mrs. Todd underwent an operation for goiter about a week before her death and complications later developed which resulted in her death. She had been in ill health for several months and was at Hornell for treatment for some time before going to Ithaca.

She is survived by two sons, Leonard M. Todd and Hayden Todd, and her mother, Mrs. Franc Minturn, of Binghamton. There are also a number of relatives in this section.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home of her son, Hayden Todd, 31 Wheeler ave., Binghamton. Burial was made at Newark Valley.

Mrs. Todd was formerly well known in Genoa and vicinity, her parents having been teachers here about 40 years ago.

Death of Kenneth H. Groom.

The death of Kenneth Harris Groom, aged 2 years, only child of Dr. W. C. and Evelyn Harris Groom, occurred at Willard on Sunday afternoon last, after a two weeks' illness. The child was taken ill with influenza, pneumonia developed, which with complications, caused his death, after a brave fight had been made for his life.

The remains were taken to Auburn where a private funeral service was held at the home of Mrs. Jennie Harris on Tuesday. Rev. L. W. Scott conducted the service. A profusion of beautiful flowers expressed the sympathy of friends and relatives of the grief-stricken parents. Burial was made in Fort Hill cemetery.

Dr. Groom is on the staff of physicians at Willard State hospital, and with his family has often visited his aunt, Mrs. Ella Algert, in Genoa. Mrs. Groom was formerly a resident of Genoa.

Are Using Typewriters.

The Yates County Chronicle at Penn Yan, N. Y., not only advocates printed letterheads for farmers, but says in addition: "Farmers to-day are beginning to realize the importance of owning a convenient, serviceable and low priced typewriter, that all their important correspondence may be legible and that they may keep carbon copies of important business letters or transactions."

"The wife, son or daughter, or even school children, can easily learn to use a simple typewriter and pass many pleasant and profitable hours in writing, and at the same time learn to use a machine, which may prove profitable as a salary-getter some time in life."

An Observant Child.

A little girl was asked to go for a loaf of bread and was given the money.

"Is that enough, mamma?" she asked.

"Yes, dear, that is exactly right."

"Well, you'd better give me a little more, 'cause the bread may go up 'fore I get there."

Mrs. William Sill Dead.

The death of Mrs. Wm. Sill occurred last Saturday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Whitten, at East Venice, where she was taken several weeks ago, after returning from Rochester, where she went for treatment. She had suffered from a serious ailment for the past year and a half, and had undergone several operations.

Frankie Osmun was born June 23, 1859, a daughter of Jacob and Helen Osmun of Lansing. She married William Sill of Genoa, and six children were born to them. Surviving are the husband and four children—Helen, (Mrs. Whitten) and Clarence, Clayton and John Sill.

Funeral services were held at the family home near North Lansing on Wednesday at 2 o'clock, Rev. F. J. Allington officiating. Burial at North Lansing. A profusion of very beautiful flowers surrounded the casket.

Among those present at the funeral were Mrs. Mary B. Wood, Mrs. Purdy Main, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Brown, all of Ithaca, Mr. Beardsley of Auburn, Mrs. A. T. Personius of South Lansing.

Tompkins county will get six of the army trucks being distributed about the country for use in road work. County Superintendent of Highways Fred C. Evans has received notification to that effect from S. D. Gilbert, auditor for the New York State Commission of Highways. The trucks are four heavy aviation three-ton trucks which are now in Albany and two Pierce-Arrow two-ton trucks which are located in Syracuse.

Edward Lord is the oldest living graduate from Auburn Theological seminary. He is 99 years of age and graduated from the seminary in 1846.

The National Paper Products company of Carthage has made plans for reforesting 1,700 acres near Streeter lake in St. Lawrence county.

A factory to manufacture watch crystals and hair springs will soon be started in Kingston. It is the second of its kind in this country, both starting since the war began. These articles formerly came from Europe.

Among the announcements by the Census Bureau are the following cities in this state: Batavia, 13,541, increase 1,928; Cortland, 13,294, increase 1,790; Lockport, 21,308, increase 3,338; Geneva, 14,648, increase 2,202.

With the coming of the robins this spring, many Indians of the Seneca reservation, some miles down the Alleghany river from Olean, will become farmers, and many acres of virgin soil will become flourishing farms, according to the plans of Manager Chapin of the Cattaraugus county farm bureau.

Assemblyman Witter of Tioga county has introduced a bill amending the agricultural law, making it necessary for the owners of bees to register with the county clerk each year on or before the first of June, giving the number of colonies owned, the place where kept, and the name of the person in charge. Assessors will be required to report the number of colonies in their territory.

"Sundown Trail"

Spanish Bar, the camp at the end of Sundown Trail was at the height of its career. The Oh Be Joyful saloon was a glittering palace of wine, women and song. The miners were intent upon making 1849 the greatest year in the history of the West.

"Quiet" Carter, head of the vigilantes and holder of the richest claim in the district, sat quietly over his liquor in a corner of the Oh Be Joyful saloon and dancehall.

A delegation of bearded miners approached his table with an astounding proposition. They wanted to send one of their number back east to return with a cargo of women. The women, they assured "Quiet" Carter were for household purposes, they were to be married to the men who lifted them from the stage.

As the recognized head of the camp, Carter was appealed to for support in the movement. He poured a liberal quantity of "dust" into the hat but refused to be a party to the project.

When the women arrived there was one especially for "Quiet" Carter. He did not know it, nor did the girl, but their paths became strangely entwined and they were married under the most surprising circumstances.

The story of "Quiet" Carter and his bride is unfolded to a smashing climax in "Sundown Trail," Monroe Salisbury's latest Universal photodrama.

Prayer-meeting Thursday evening at 7:30. We are now studying 'the titles of the Holy Spirit.'

Genoa Presbyterian Church Notes.

The pulpit was supplied last Sunday by Dr. R. H. Nichols of Auburn seminary. Next Sunday, Mr. Helm of the senior class will preach. There should be a large attendance.

Sunday school following morning service, and young people's meeting at 6:30.

There is some agitation among the church people about changing the time for morning service to 10:30, instead of 11 o'clock which has been the hour of morning service for many years. We understand this would be by standard time instead of "daylight saving" time. Let the officials know what you think about it.

Every Woman

appreciates the Refining Effect of high class music in the home. It furnishes entertainment for each and every member of the family. Music is so enjoyable after a day's combat with routine business matters; so appropriate when your friends drop in for an informal visit; indispensable in the event of assemblage of the younger set when indulging in the terpsichorean art. The beautiful SONORA will fill the heart of every woman with joy. Let us supply one in your home.

Notice.

An unfortunate speculation in apples in the fall of 1906 left me with $3,664 debts and not one cent to pay with. I believe I have paid every one in full excepting $20 and interest which I have owed Geo. E. Taylor of Ithaca, N. Y., since March 16, 1909. I promised him that I would pay him in full and that he would be the last one to get his pay. Wishing to keep both promises, I ask any one that I owe one cent to please call on me before April 16, 1920, and get yours if I owe you anything, as on that date I will pay Mr. Taylor and when he gets his, you can all swear that I am out of debt. It makes no difference how long your claim has been due as my obligations never outlaw, or what it is for, as one debt against me is as sacred as another. If I owe you anything, come get it. I have it for you in my pocket. This means YOU.

ANDREWS WEARS 5 GOLD STRIPES

Sergeant One of Few Overseas Men Entitled to Honor.

IS DECORATED FOR VALOR

Also Wins French Bride and Says This Was Harder Task Than Winning Two Croix de Guerre and Other Battle Honors—Took Three Months of Hard Work Before He Could Take Bride to Church for Ceremony.

One of the few overseas men who is entitled to wear five gold service chevrons is Sergt. Charles E. Andrews, who returned to the United States on January 24, 1920, after spending thirty-one months and seven days in France and Germany. He is now on duty at the recruiting station in Chicago, says the Fort Sheridan Recruit.

Besides five gold service stripes he brought with him one wound stripe, a victory badge decorated with five bronze battle stars and two silver ones for divisional citations, two croix de guerre, a French fourragere and what was even harder to win, according to his statements—a French bride.

"If I had it all to do over again," said Sergeant Andrews, "I'd bring my bride to America to marry her. Because it took three months of hard work before I could take her to the church, even after she had said 'Yes.'"

A Matter of State.

In the first place, an American who married a French girl had to see the American, the Belgian and French consuls. He had to make several calls at the chamber of deputies—but I've forgotten what the calls were for now. The wedding had to be advertised in the city hall eight days before the wedding. And before the license was granted he had to visit about every public building in Paris, interviewing city officials. I'm strong for the good old country where the work is all done after the girl is won."

Sergeant Andrews was lucky enough to find a French girl who can really speak English well.

"You see, she used to teach in the public schools," he said. "I went into a souvenir shop in Paris one day where she happened to be clerking, and got to talking to her there. She helped me pick out some souvenirs, and I—well, I sure needed some help, for I wasn't thinking much about what I was buying after I once saw her."

Sergeant Andrews is a First division man, and was attached to the Second field signal battalion. He took part in the offensive at Cantigny, Soissons, St. Mihiel, the Argonne and the second battle of the Marne.

Armistice Day Scrappy.

"The hardest fighting I saw during the whole war was on the morning of November 11," he said. "Back in the sector where I was at the time, we did not know a thing about the armistice until two minutes of eleven, and we'd been firing just as fast as the old guns would go off all morning."

"About five minutes of eleven a French radio operator came running out of a dug-out to tell us that at eleven o'clock all firing would cease, but we laughed at him. But just two minutes before eleven we were officially notified to stop firing, and we believed it to be true for the first time."

"And when the firing did stop, what do you think happened? You would expect a lot of rejoicing, wouldn't you? Well, there wasn't. Everybody just dropped down where they were standing and went to sleep. All the celebrating that took place had to wait until we had some sleep to work up pep to celebrate with. We had all gone just about as far as we could without sleep, and even the news of an armistice couldn't seem to get through our heads, for all we realized was that we could stop firing. That was down around Sedan, where the firing had been continuous for many hours."

About the two individual croix de guerre, Sergeant Andrews had little to say.

"I don't know what they are for," he said, just as every Yank who was ever decorated says when he is asked about his citations. "They both read about the same—something about maintaining communication in advance in the face of a deadly fire—you know the stock phrases they use in citations."

ICE IMPRISONS 300 "GOBS"

Jam in the St. Lawrence May Not Be Broken Before June.

Three hundred American "gobs" and thirty officers are held prisoners at Quebec—not in the citadel, but in the middle of the St. Lawrence river, surrounded by ice.

The sailors were on board eight Eagle boats and a Detroit tug and were caught in an ice jam. Now they can move only 32 feet a day—16 feet up the river with the ice when the tide comes in and 16 feet down when the tide goes out again. Ice, three feet thick goes with them on each trip, but there is little probability the men will be released before June.

War Prisoners Returned.

One hundred and ninety thousand prisoners of war, including 48,110 officers, have been repatriated from French camps since January 20, according to an announcement from the French war office.

VICTORIA REGIA, GIANT OF LILIES

The most remarkable of all water lilies is the Victoria Regia, which was first discovered on the Rio Mamore, a tributary of the Amazon, by a botanist named Haenke, who in 1801 was sent by the Spanish government to study the plants of Peru. During subsequent years repeated efforts were made to send the seeds and roots of this plant to Europe, but they always died. It was not until 1849 that seeds shipped in a bottle of water were successfully planted in the gardens at Kew, England, from which the plant has since been distributed over the world.

The first Victoria Regia that bloomed in the United States was grown in the White House in an aquatic garden under glass, which was destroyed by fire when Andrew Jackson was president.

This wonderful lily has leaves six feet in diameter, resembling huge trays floating on water. They have numerous air cells on the under side, and one of them will sustain the weight of a 200-pound man. The native women of South America put their children on these great platters while gathering the seed for food. The blossoms, which have a fragrance like that of a pineapple, are white, with a pink center turning to rosy on the second day. They are from 15 to 18 inches in diameter.

EASTER PEACE IN SOLDIER CEMETERY

Holy Calm Over Long Rows of Crosses That Mark the Graves of Heroes in France.

Through the Spring fields Of the North France line, The line of a million woes, A whisper is up— The crosses shine In staggering groups and rows. Oh, you boys of the Silent Legion, You boys we used to know, Who used to smile and love with us, Do you know the poppies blow?

Just inside the gate of the little French cemetery, now dedicated to the pitiful legions of the souls of boys from overseas, is the lodge of the concherge. The concherge is a shriveled little man who will sell you candles to burn for the good of your friend's soul, and recount mournfully of the whisperings he hears on the dark, dark nights over this city of the dead.

The cemetery is a tumble-down place. The little gilded Christs have long since lost their gilt; the iron crosses are falling away; briars and thistles clamber and sprout everywhere upon rusting ironwork and rotting wood. The artificial flowers rattle dryly in the wind; a few wild flowers struggle to preserve beauty in the wilderness.

Beyond this old portion of the cemetery the ground falls rather steeply to a flat field, and there you see, standing in row upon row, the new white crosses. On the crosses, on little strips of tin, are the names of those who rest beneath. On some there is one name; on most, two. Everywhere crosses.

Here, in this flat piece of ground, skirted by a great high road which hums all day with the intense traffic of reconstruction, the ends of the earth are gathered. Those who have reached this resting place have come by devious ways from starting points as far removed as the East is from the West; but all, like jetsam on a stream, have been sucked to the center of the vortex, and now they lie quietly side by side in this flat little piece of land.

And then, along the sore old line of battle from the Vosges to the sea, are other crosses. Some are pathetically ailing and cumbered with the mud of Flanders and the curious red clays of the hill countries. But all, all bear the names of fresh young boys and the more sober man from the English Midlands, the cockney who told you of the derring-do of Lunnun blokes, and the lads who made these shores from "the Statag."

The names on the crosses would furnish forth an atlas of the world. From the bush of Australia, from the rolling prairies of our own great West; from the hills of Wales and the gray scattered fellsides of Yorkshire dales; from Scotland and Ireland; from the fields of Flanders they have come.

And there are men of strange and unpronounceable names who knew the golden days of India, and men from the deserts of Africa.

A little apart, like reputations under a shadow, are the graves of a few Germans. A mound covers an "unknown Chinese soldier," and, strangest of all, perhaps, painted on a board among the thickly strewn crosses of Christ, are the Star and Crescent of the Prophet over the dust of a Mohammedan soldier. One woman lies there—an English nurse who died on active service.

Nature's Kindly Work.

Some of the graves seem very new. But already, in a confounding growth of pale blue flowers, each of the older graves is losing, save for its little cross, its individual identity.

Nature is at her task of smoothing out and toning down. She seems to be uttering a fatalistic call to forget the past. Yet, standing in this little garden, in the austere presence of the multitudinous dead, one says that when so much urges us to remember our hate, it may be well to listen to other voices which plead with us not to forget our charity.

And Gairmarns are nae doot the same; The lads ye're stickin' in the wame. Fechts no fer deevilment or fame, But just for pride. In his bit decent canty hame By some burnside.

In the community of death there is something terrible and august in whose presence hate seems a mean and miserable thing and, like a shadow, melts away. In the same moment one thinks of the boy who, at the bend of the road on a faint September morning, looked back and waved farewell to some girl at a gate, and of some lad, not less dearly loved, who, at another's call, left his pleasant Rhineland valley to go back no more. Easter! And the boys, with their rejuvenescent Christ, fertilize the little plots with Christian blood—pale blue flowers, in a shy profusion, clamber up the crosses and wander listlessly around the little mounds.

If any, being dead, yet speak, surely they are not voiceless who lie here in this flat little piece of land, skirted by the great high road which hums all day with the intense stream of traffic.

New Garments at Easter.

To neglect the putting on of some entirely new article of dress on Easter Sunday was at one time regarded as sure to bring bad luck, and certainly this is one of the practices which has lost nothing with the increase of years. Only now it has been slightly altered, so that to have no new clothes to exhibit at the Easter parade is considered sufficiently bad luck in itself without the fear of any further misfortunes that may result from it.

Producers and consumers' co-operative associations of the state are to meet in joint session March 30 and 31 and April 1 in Syracuse, where a conference has been called by Dr. Eugene H. Porter, commissioner of foods and markets, and M. C. Burritt, representing the extension service of the state college of agriculture. Invitations have been sent to all farmers' co-operative marketing associations, farm bureaus and consumers' co-operative organizations. Labor organizations will also send representatives.

The following is a schedule of agricultural fairs to be held in Western New York, together with the dates and places where they are to be held: Tri-County, Calendonias, Aug. 11-24; Silver Lake, Perry, Aug. 17-19; Wyoming County, Warsaw, Aug. 24-27; Hornell, Hornell, Aug. 31-Sept. 3; Monroe County, Brockport, Sept. 1-4; Cattaraugus county, Little Valley, Sept. 6-10; Chautauque county, Fredonia, Sept. 6-10; Cuba, Cuba, Sept. 14-17; Genesee county, Batavia, Sept. 21-25th; Wellsville, Wellsville, undecided; Orleans county, Albion, Sept. 8-11.

The annual meeting of the Livingston County Sheep Breeders' association was held at Mt. Morris. There were 75 shepherds present. The association last year consigned its wool to J. B. McMurry & Son, and at the meeting the sales committee gave the following report in regard to the prices received for the several grades of the 1919 crop:—Half bloods, 77 cents; fine bloods, 66 cents; Delaine, 80 cents; 3/4 blood, 70 cents; and clothing, 82 cents. The association now has a check for $5,735.91 to be distributed to the members who consigned their wool a year ago.

No agreement on the price to be paid for peas was reached at a meeting of the representatives of the four canning companies operating in Genesee county with the directors of the canning crops department of the Genesee County Co-Operative association, Inc., in Batavia. Cannery refused to raise the price which they offered at the last meeting and farmers will now exercise their own judgment regarding signing contracts to raise crops for the factories. Prices offered per ton by the canners were $70 for sweet peas and $75 for Blue peas. The farmers demand $77.50 and $22.50 for June peas.

Care and Use of the Eyes.

The state of New York is determined that no boy or girl in the public schools shall suffer from defects of vision or hearing. Every teacher in the schools is to be qualified to make examinations of eyes and ears, and if trouble is found, specialists will provide proper treatment.

The State Department of Education is issuing a bulletin, the second of its school health service series, giving careful directions for making the tests in the schools, and laying down a few simple rules for preserving sight and hearing unimpaired. The rules were drawn up after conferences of the best authorities in the country. They are as follows:

While reading let plenty of light—from the left—shine on your book. If left-handed, let light shine from the right while writing.

Dim light and glaring light make the eyes tired and weak. Use light that is agreeable to the eyes.

Avoid fine print, blurred letters, and shiny paper; they are sure to strain the eyes.

Sit erect and place your book or paper about 12 to 15 inches from the eyes.

Be sure to consult your doctor if you have headache, dizziness or a tired feeling; they may come from eyestrain.

Rest your eyes when tired. Do not strain them.

Let the doctor treat them. You cannot do it yourself.

If the doctor tells you to wear glasses, wear them.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by Lansingville Grange, 282, P. of H., on the death of brother Floyd Gallow, who was a member of thrt order:

Whereas, It has pleased our all-wise Master to take from our midst a member of this Grange, in the person of Floyd Gallow, who was known to us as a faithful and loving husband, a kind father, a patient sufferer and a neighbor possessing many exemplary qualities; therefore be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be entered on the minutes of this order, a copy be given the family of the deceased and that they be published, in the GENOA TRIBUNE.

The following resolutions were also adopted by Lansingville Grange, 282, P. of H., on the death of Joel Corwin, who was a member of that order:

Whereas, Our kind Heavenly Father has seen fit to remove from our community a lifelong resident and for many years a member of our Grange, who will be remembered by us as an honored and respected citizen; therefore be it

Resolved, To enter a copy of this resolution on the minutes of this Grange and to forward a copy to the family and to publish the foregoing in the GENOA TRIBUNE.

Need Local Paper's Space.

N. A. Huse of the American Press association published an article in a recent issue of Judicious Advertising urging manufacturers to obtain the co-operation of country merchants by advertising in local papers. He said, among other things:

"The country newspaper is the advertiser's medium for talking to small town people and the local farmers. If you wish to verify this statement—just ask any traveling salesman or jobbers' salesman and see what they have to say on the subject. If they have visited many small towns they will know that the local paper is the heart of its community. Its columns contain items of interest to every person who reads them, whether in the village or on a farm down the road. Its readers are influenced by its statements and the advertisements it publishes. Through such a medium you can get your merchandise entrenched in this market—which is composed of 58.2 per cent of the population of the country; you will have a gateway into this great fertile field which stands ready and waiting to absorb your product."

New York is first in the number of trucks used on farms, according to a survey made by the federal department of agriculture. Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Iowa are closely matched for second position.

EASTERTIDE IN THE HOLY CITY

Easter Crowd in a Street of Jerusalem.

It is very beautiful, the spirit of Easter in these ancient villages adjacent to Jerusalem, but it is in the Holy City where the chief interest of Easter centers, of course, for it is here that the three great ceremonies of Holy week take place—the Washing of the Feet on Thursday at noon; Holy fire, Saturday noon, and Easter mass at midnight, which concludes the prolonged fast and ushers in Easter Sunday.

All the narrow, dirty alleys called streets are thronged with multitudes of adoring people, threading their way toward the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Suddenly there is a wild clangor of bells, but after the first notes one is unable to even discern them above the roar of voices, the ceaseless trappings, the grounding of muskets, the whining of beggars, the cries of the vendors lined all along the walls and the steps of the church with their beads, glass bracelets, mother-of-pearl rosaries, crosses of cedar, sacred pictures, sweetmeats, foods and sirups, the marvels of which they are crying to the heavens. Even money changers are doing business as they did in the courts of the temple. It is all more like a fair than a portal to the holy of holies. There are Arabs and Syrians, natives from Lebanon, Damascus, Hebron and all the little villages we have visited; there are Bedouins, Egyptians, English, Americans, negroes, Kaballs, Copts and Turks. But the latter is less domineering in his fez than of yore.

THREE WORDS TELL STORY OF EASTER

Christianity Based on Simple Phrase That Points the Glorious Story of Resurrection.

"He Is Risen!" Throughout the Christian world this salutation echoes, in spirit if not in words, on Easter morning.

"He Is Risen Indeed!" A long time ago, when the Christian religion was young and its priests and advocates were actively stamping out heathen customs, or turning to Christian usage those which could not be obliterated, these forms of Easter greeting and response became the universal custom.

They were accompanied by the Easter kiss, as much a part of the salutation as the set form of words, "He Is Risen!"

The words in this age are not spoken in general greeting. The custom has centered in the spokesmen for the people, and the greetings ring from pulpits in all Christian churches. They are sung by the choirs of the civilized world.

Thus does the manner but not the custom change in Christian religious observances. The kiss, which always accompanied Easter greetings in the days when those observing it were not as legion as today, has been forgotten—set aside as being unnecessary. The Divine Message.

pulpits with a view of developing the laughter of the congregation. This practice was not developed from a spirit of irreverence. The people in those days thought of Easter as the most joyful day of the calendar, and it was natural that they should consider laughter as being an integral part of a day of joy, hence the pains the clergy were at to tickle the risibilities of the people.

The reformers changed this order. They began to think more seriously of the Easter festival, and when they arrived at a deeper understanding of the meaning of "He Is Risen," their way was clear to them. The solemnity of the three words convinced them that levity in the churches was not in keeping with reverential, dignified, or decent feelings. The manner changed, but not the custom.

Herald of Easter Morn. Out of the Reformation came the three words stronger in meaning than ever, and on down through the corridors of time they have heralded Easter morning.

If one were to become analytical in observing the Easter season it would not be difficult to arrive, at the conclusion that the occasion, wherever it is recognized, is rooted in the hearts of individuals. Easter joy is not the result of ukase or of custom as much as it springs naturally from the spirits of the people—spirits touched with the joy of great awakening which offered future glory to the world. All these thoughts blend together in anticipating the dawn of Easter morning; all these thoughts fill the lives of the earth's peoples.

Even the chimes of the church bells on Easter morning have a special significance. They seem to be clearer and more appealing. Many of those who have stepped outside the accepted boundaries of religion have been brought back within the fold on Easter morning by no other influence than the thoughts rising within them at the sound of chimes. They may have heard the same chimes many other mornings; heard the sound in an unconscious sort of manner, without being stirred by any new emotion. But on Easter morning—that is, different, for is it not the world awakening and are not the people, with the brightness of the season reflected upon them, answering the calling bells?

SPRING'S GLORIOUS MESSAGE

Awakening Life of Earth Brings With It the Splendid Promise of Life Everlasting.

What a beautiful picture is that of the spring! How mysteriously the earth "bringeth forth her bud"! How spontaneously it "causeth the things that are sown in it to spring"! So in the higher world of spiritual things God brings forth the fruits of righteousness and praise. The idea is that spiritual fruit must be spontaneous and not mechanical. You cannot make a garden by tying artificial flowers and wax fruit on dead branches. It must spring from hidden sources. The message of spring is ever the same: life, spontaneous life, exuberant life, overflowing life. Let our hearts respond to that message and in answer to their cry the Master will make real to us his promise, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."—A. B. Simpson.

FRAGRANT BELLS OF EASTER.

Oh, fragrant bells of Easter
To softly ring at dawn,
In meadow dell and woodland,
By garden bed and lawn,
Where winter's snows have melted
The brooks again are free
To ripple on in gladness
And share your minstrelsy,
Oh, chosen bells of Easter
Tis yours to bud and bloom,
To tell the wondrous story
Of life from out the tomb,
Where war has left its fellows
You lift above the sod
Your loving cups, sweet censures
That bear the Peace of God.
