

Here Is Picture Churches Have Chosen As That of the Typical American Girl

SEEKING a poster which correctly presented the typical American daughter in her present day attitude to the Church, the art directors of the Interchurch World Movement chose the painting of Denman Fink.

This serene, calm-eyed, wholesome young woman was selected as the type of the daughters of America being reared under the influence of the Christian Church. Mr. Fink's painting shows her here pausing as though waiting for her parents to join in restoring the complete membership attendance of this place of worship, one of the objectives of the Interchurch World Movement in which the evangelist group of Protestant Churches has joined.

The poster has been prepared for distribution throughout the entire country for stimulating interest everywhere in extending the influence and ideals of the Church to men's daughters throughout the whole world.

BUDGET OF $336,777,572 FOR 1920 ANNOUNCED BY INTERCHURCH MOVEMENT

Thirty American Denominations, Co-operating in Program for World-Wide Extension, Seek Fund to Be Raised in United Simultaneous Campaign From April 25 to May 2.

Co-operating in a program for world-wide extension of religious effort, 30 American denominations have announced their budget for 1920, in which they seek a fund of $336,777,572. Of this sum $175,448,349 is to be paid in this year. Announcement of the financial program is made through the Interchurch World Movement. The raising of the money will be undertaken in a united simultaneous campaign from April 25-May 2. Of the $336,777,572 to be raised $229,000,000 will be expended in America.

Coincident with the announcement of the budget Dr. S. Earl Taylor, general secretary of the Interchurch World Movement, issued this statement:

"In presenting the budget the Interchurch World Movement asks nothing for itself. All of the expenses incurred will be paid by the co-operating agencies, and the Interchurch World Movement is merely the servant of all.

"The budget represents an earnest attempt on the part of thoughtful Christian men and women to make a study of the world's needs as viewed from the standpoint of the co-operating churches and to lay these needs upon the minds, the hearts and the consciences of the people of America, thus placing the responsibility where it belongs—upon the shoulders of the individuals who make up that element of our Republic who believe that the security of our democratic foundations has been because they have rested upon the Christian home, the open Bible, the free school and the free church."

The purposes for which the money is to be expended are: Foreign Missions, $107,071,488; Home Missions, $109,949,037; American Education, $78,837,431; American Religious Education, $5,981,925; American Hospitals and Homes, $5,116,465; American Ministerial Pensions and Relief, $20,510,293; miscellaneous, $8,770,927.

The miscellaneous item of the budget covers expenditures for war relief, temperance, enlistment campaigns, etc.

The 30 denominations and the extent to which they participate in the financial campaign follow:

Advent Christian Church, $35,000; Northern Baptist Convention, $130,538,000; National Baptist Convention, $10,250,000; General Baptists, $272,500; Church of the Brethren, $3,219,598; Brethren Church, $200,000; Christian Church, $727,000; Congregational Churches, $16,508,470; Disciples of Christ, $12,501,138; Evangelical Association, $1,394,200; United Evangelical Church, $905,985; Society of Friends in America, $4,822,081; Society of Friends in California, $40,000; Holiness Church, $50,000; Evangelical Synod of North America, Lutheran, $1,946,821; General Conference of Methodists, $82,000; Methodist Episcopal Church, $84,485,787; Methodist Protestant Church, $1,745,900; Free Methodist Church of North America, $6,234,988; African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, $212,000; Colored Methodist Episcopal, $220,000; Reformed Zion Baptist Association, $17,200; Free byterian Church in the U. S. A., $44,970,300; Presbyterian Church in the United States (South), $7,865,445; Associate Reformed Presbyterian Synod, $392,264; Reformed Presbyterian Church of North America, Synod, $529,472; United Presbyterian Church, $31,977,467; Reformed Church in America, $2,136,091; Reformed Church in the United States, $16,916,085; Church of the United Brethren in Christ, $6,546,682.

In addition to the 30 denominations which take direct, active part in the co-operative religious effort, the following additional organizations have endorsed the program of the Interchurch World Movement, but do not this year participate in the financial campaign:

The Foreign Christian Missionary Society (Disciples), the Christian Woman's Board of Missions (Disciples), the Association for the Promotion of Christian Unity (Disciples), the Board of Missions, Methodist Episcopal Church (South); the Freedman's Board, United Presbyterian; the Woman's Missionary Association, United Brethren in Christ; the Society of the United Brethren for Propagating the Gospel Among the Heathen, Moravian Church.

Of the sum of $34,485,737 opposite the name of the Methodist Episcopal Church it is stated that $21,000,000 already has been subscribed in the Centenary Campaign.

In announcing the details of the financial program Lyman L. Pierce, director general of the united simultaneous campaign, said:

"The 30 denominational campaigns will be conducted simultaneously from April 25 to May 2, each following its own denominational channels and having full freedom of action. In addition, the campaign will be a united campaign as well.

"It is proposed in every community throughout America to call on that great, friendly constituency which is not directly allied with the church as members to take its share in the raising of funds. To this end in every community there will be a United Simultaneous Financial Campaign Committee. This committee will organize a 'great Citizens' Division, to stand side by side with the denominational divisions in providing the financial objective of each community."

"The raising of the $336,777,000 will be equitably and justly distributed among the states. Each state will make quotas on the same fair basis to each county. The county will make quotas to the communities, and the communities will raise the funds through an organization made up of a number of divisions. Each local church will maintain its identity and be a unit in its denominational division."

After explaining that the Foreign Survey of the Interchurch World Movement is designed to disclose the unfinished task of the church in foreign fields Mr. Pierce says:

"There is now in progress throughout America's Home Survey, which includes an exhaustive study of the problems of the city. Some of these have been completed and are available as demonstration of the thoroughness and system with which these co-operating denominations have sought to face the problems which the Church must meet in the American cities if they are to be met.

"In approximately 70 per cent of the counties throughout America the Rural Survey is under way. Some counties have been completed and can be used as typical of the exhaustive nature of this study of rural problems. It is shown as a result of these studies that, while there are not too many churches, as has been often stated, there may possibly be a better distribution of these churches and of the ministers, who are the great influences back of the Church. This matter of distribution is being referred back to the denominations for a policy to be determined by them."

CHURCHES TO NEED 100,000 WORKERS

This Is Estimate of Force Required by Interchurch World Movement Program.

9,000 NEW MISSIONARIES TO GO TO FOREIGN FIELDS

Burden of Preparation Rests Chiefly on Denominational Schools and Colleges.

More than 100,000 workers will be needed during the next five years in the world campaign planned by America's Protestant churches affiliated with the Interchurch World Movement. More than 9,000 new missionaries are to be recruited for the foreign fields alone, and thousands of other workers, lay and clerical, are to be secured for churches in the affiliated organizations of this country. Where are they all to come from?

It used to be the notion that the only essential equipment needed by a person who proposed to devote his life to the church was a "call." On the other hand, the modern mission worker knows that, while devotion to duty is an absolutely indispensable requisite, it must be supplemented by highly specialized training. As much executive equipment is required, it is commented, to direct a congregation as to direct a business, for the successful clergyman must know modern life in all its many sided phases quite as well as Biblical history. The missionary nowadays must often teach agriculture, carpentry, hygiene or sanitation to pave the way to the gospel.

Most of the church workers of today are trained in church schools and colleges, the Interchurch survey shows. A preliminary survey of education in the United States made by the Interchurch has brought out the fact that 90 per cent of the ministers and missionaries in service have received their education in institutions under the control of the church. To these institutions the church must look, it is believed, for most of its future workers.

Part of the fund that is to be collected by the Interchurch World Movement will be apportioned among the denominational schools and colleges supported by the churches which are called upon to train the workers.

MUNICIPAL CONTROL OF TREES

Example Set by Newark, N. J., Might Well Be Copied Throughout the Country.

What municipal control of shade trees can do may best be illustrated by what it has done; and as we have first-hand knowledge of what it has done in Newark, says an exchange, we may be pardoned for citing the experience of that town—though it is our own. In 1904 Newark, acting under a state law, created a shade-tree commission. To this body (of three members) was committed the "exclusive and absolute control and power to plant, set out, maintain, protect and care for shade trees in any of the public highways of the municipality." In 1905 a supplementary law transferred to the commission's control the care and improvement of "the public parks belonging to the municipality or any department in the government hereof." In 1906 the commission was empowered "to pass, enact, alter, amend and repeal ordinances for the protection, regulation and control of all shade trees" situated "in the public highways" of the city. And now, briefly, what has come of this?

It at once raised the status of the hitherto neglected shade trees. These fine old stately growths which had come down to us out of the past from the fathers, but which for so long had been strangers to considerate treatment, were now seen to be set apart as objects of government's special care, as wards of a municipal department specially created to care for and protect them, and empowered to enforce considerate treatment of them. Here was the germ of what has since unfolded into a public sentiment which had not theretofore existed—a new and unique sentiment in favor of the trees, that goes on increasing.

NEW IDEA IN STREET LAMPS

Beauty and Height of Usefulness Combined in Illumination for Boulevard in Philadelphia.

For several blocks along one of Philadelphia's great boulevards may now be seen 12 experimental street lamps which are at once efficient, in operation and remarkable for a classic beauty of design. Placed on a concrete safety island in the center of the boulevard, each lamp is raised 14 feet from the pavement by a slender column of bronze. The lamp itself is designed to produce a maximum of illumination both downward and outward.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Co-operative Building.

The wasteful and unscientific American method of laying out all the streets and installing sewer, water and gas over a large area, and then selling off a lot at a time here and there over many years, leaving each owner or occupant continually uncertain as to the class of building or kind of neighbor who may later buy and build upon adjoining lots, is thus avoided. In addition, by planning and contracting for the construction at one time of a group of houses of from fifty to two hundred and fifty in number it is not only possible to obtain a more harmonious and attractive grouping of architectural designs, but it is possible to give each house certain benefits available from the location and disposition of neighboring dwellings, to avoid placing back doors in front of living room windows, and to give each owner all the benefits possible for group or co-operative buying.

Home Ownership Desired.

In planning for the "Own Your Own Home Day," which will be a feature of the Y. M. C. A.'s National World Week in January, the desire for home ownership was strikingly demonstrated by the result of the questionnaire directed to the employers of a large manufacturing plant at Niagara Falls.

Of 1,066 workmen answering the question, "Would you like to buy a house on a long-time loan?" 488 were American, English, Canadian, Irish, Scotch and German. Of these, 473, or 97 per cent, answered affirmatively. Among 590 Poles, Italians and Spaniards only 151, or 26 per cent, expressed a desire for homes. A large percentage of the latter group of nationalities, however, planned a return to their native lands and the acquiring of property there.

Another Matter.

"I don't know anybody who is fretted more by the high cost of living than Professor Diggs, the celebrated Egyptologist."

"I thought you said he lived in the past."

"So he does, but he has to pay his bills in the present or the not distant future."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A WORLD REBUILT

By the Golden Rule
not by the rule of Gold

THIRTY denominations of the Church are uniting in a simultaneous campaign in the week of April 25th-May 2nd.

They are uniting because the task before the Church is too great for any one denomination; because there must be no duplication of effort; no waste.

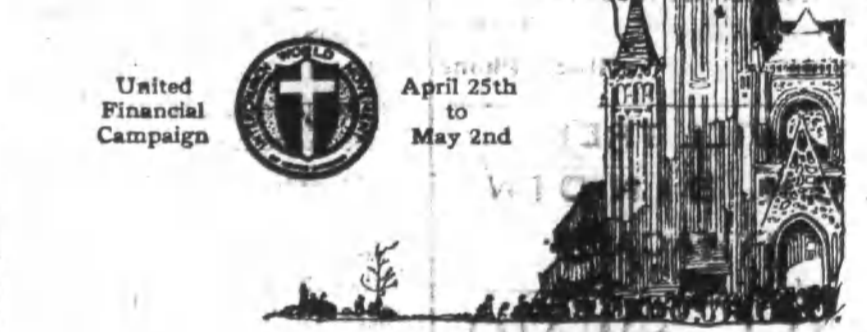

These churches know that the world needs many things; but it needs Faith most of all.

They know that there can be no final solution of our economic problems that is not a spiritual solution, based on the teachings of Jesus Christ and His Golden Rule.

They have had the courage to survey the whole task, and to ask for a budget large enough to sustain (1) the work abroad, (2) the work at home including the church's part in the huge task of Americanization, (3) the colleges and (4) hospitals supported by the Churches, (5) the religious training of the young, and to provide (6) a living wage for the Church's ministers.

The budget is large in the aggregate; yet if each person who loves America would increase his contribution by only a few dollars the whole amount would be easily subscribed.

We face the task of rebuilding the world. Let the cornerstone be a strong and vital church in every American community; and the measuring rod by which the builders build must be the Golden Rule.

SWAN LONG A SACRED BIRD

Ancient Belief That the Valkyrs Had Power to Change Themselves into its Shape.

The swans that adorn our Easter palms were sacred birds in olden days and the Valkyrs, the beautiful virgins who conducted the fallen heroes to Walhalla, Wodan's paradise, possessed the power to change themselves into those white and graceful birds. The orange was an apple originally, consecrated to Freya, the highest of the goddesses. The custom of giving Easter eggs as a symbol of new awakening life is so ancient that we find it back as far as there is any written evidence, and the merry Easter meadow reminds us of the Easter plays that were held to celebrate the arrival of spring amongst almost all the Teutonic nations.

EGG ALWAYS EASTER FEATURE

Highly Decorated or Simply Colored, It Has Figured in All Celebrations of History.

In the early English days Easter eggs were highly colored and decorated with landscapes and elaborate inscriptions. While most of the old elaborate displays have fallen into disuse, the egg in some form yet remains a feature of Easter in modern times.

The Tyrolese peasants retain a very pretty custom of celebrating Easter, in which the egg figures prominently. On Easter eve bands of musicians traverse every valley, singing holiday hymns. Their picturesque hats are adorned with flowers. Crowds of children accompany them and at night carry torches of lighted pine wood. As they pause before each house the people come to the doors and put eggs into the baskets of the singers, while they themselves join in the chorus.

The Paschal lamb as an emblem was much used in the early Christian era, and is still a symbol of Easter in many of the Latin countries.

In Africa they even worship it, and no altar decoration is considered finished without a circle of eggs, while each private family boasts at least one sacred egg.

The "hare" legend, strange to say, is connected with the moon. There were all sorts of fancies with regard to the moon phases, from which time Easter is reckoned, and among some nations the hare is a type of the moon itself. The Hindu and Japan artists painted them across the moon's disk.

MAKING PROFIT IN CUT TIMBER

Understanding of Elementary Principles of Forestry Will Assist Farmer.

CAN SELL IN CARLOAD LOTS

Wasteful Practice to Put High-Grade Logs to Ordinary Use on Farm—Much Pine, Yellow Poplar and Cotton Wood Used for Pulp.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture. An understanding of the elementary principles of farm forestry will enable the farmer to market his timber far more profitably than it is done on the average farm. In the Southern States, and in many other sections of the country as well, high-grade logs of such trees as white oak, yellow poplar, red gum, ash, cherry, and black walnut can usually be sold in carload lots direct to manufacturing plants, even though these are located at some distance. Many local log-using plants buy in lots as small as a wagon or truck load. In the South clear logs of white oak and yellow poplar 16 inches and up in diameter are most profitably sold to sawmill plants especially equipped for quartering and veneering woods. High prices at loading points make it wasteful to put such logs to ordinary use at home.

Paper Pulp Wood. Large quantities of pine are cut and sold by southern farmers for paper pulp wood. Yellow poplar and cottonwood, red gum, tupelo and others in less amounts are used for the same purpose, according to forestry specialists. The wood must be peeled and is usually marketed in 4-foot lengths and 3 to 10 inches in diameter. Pulp wood is sold by the cord, and the prices usually range from about $4 to $8 for pine and from $5 to $8 for poplar, cottonwood, etc.

Farm Timber Product. Railroad ties have long been a standard farm timber product. As a rule, however, the price represents only fair wages for cutting, hewing, and hauling, with little return for the timber itself. For example, a tie 7 inches by 8 inches by 8 1/2 feet long, if sold at 50 cents, when the items in the cost of manufacture are taken into account, would have a value equivalent to the same amount of lumber valued at $10.50 a thousand board feet. This is a low figure for white oak. It is often a mistake to cut a young tree for one small tie when in a short time the tree could produce two ties.

markets. The certificates issued by inspectors upon request state the condition of interstate shipments as they arrive at market centers and are used as a basis for settling claims that may arise between shipper and consignee.

WHITE LEGHORN BEST LAYER

Average Total Production of Eggs During Life is About 500—Profitable Four Years.

The White Leghorn is the most important egg-producing breed at the present time. The average life of a White Leghorn is about six years. The average total production of eggs is above 500 and the maximum possible above 1,000, but they are seldom profitable to keep after the fourth year.

Back To The Farm.

Sooner or later 6,000 vacant farm houses in this state will be occupied and when they are there may be some decrease in the cost of living. It will mean an increase of food products, and at the same time relieve congestion in the cities somewhat, automatically reducing the price of rent. That it will come immediately is hardly probable, but that the trend eventually will be back to the farm is certain.

The very fact that there are 6,000 idle farms tells convincingly the main reason, or one of the main reasons, for the high cost of living. This no one will deny. Scarcity always means an advance in price, thus an increase in wages has no appreciable value, for as earnings increase the cost of living increases and a bit more in proportion. As to the farm, however, it might be well to add that with all things considered wages in the country equal those in the city.

As it is rents are increasing in the cities so that tenants find it almost impossible to live decently and meet the advance. This in itself will have a tendency to force a "back to the farm" movement and may have a persuading effect on those who would listen to the alluring stories of city life and who would be drawn away from the farm. It may, and probably will, prompt others to look into the subject of "farm hardships" and to learn first hand that some of the advertised distress of the farm is exaggerated. The farm has its attractions as well as the city.

The foregoing is just about what a speaker before the committee on agriculture of the Assembly said the other day and while it was not brand new it sounded good to us, particularly his statement that he would just as soon sleep in a room in the country with some air in it as he would in a hall bedroom in the city.

Grinding Sure!

LETZ FEED MILL

mills all other mills in fine grinding. Why? Because of the wonderful Letz Sift-Grind Plate. You should come in and take a look at that plate. You never saw anything like it to get results. The Letz will grind wild oats, wheat screenings, millet seed, grass seed, rye, barley, corn on the cob with or without husks, kafir corn in the head, Milo maize, alfalfa hay—fine as dust—practically as fine as flour without injuring the plates. One customer says he can grind shelled corn and oats into flour, for hog feed, in one grinding. With other mills he would have to grind it twice.

Letz Self Aligning Plates are quickly changeable, adjust grinding and sharpen themselves when run together smartly. One set of gears grinds 2000 to 3000 bushels of grain—contains three to five sets of ordinary plates.

We sell the Letz because when one is sold it gives satisfaction and sells another.

When the shadow sprang into action, New York trembled. And this man of iron, the greatest criminal brain that America had ever known, who ruled his dominion of the shadow world with a hand of steel, laid his plans carefully.
He knew that Hildreth, the young Englishman sent over to America to receive the priceless gems for Richard Carlow of London, was to be met at the station by Arabin, the jeweler, a man whom Hildreth had never seen.
But even before the advent of The Shadow, women have been the cause of the downfall of men. Morn Light, the queen of the Follies, was the one thing in the world that The Shadow could not possess.
She knew the inner workings of the gang, but the little musical comedy actress would not permit herself to lure Hildreth to his destruction at the hands of The Shadow, and she determined to fight the worst criminal band in New York to save the man she did not know.
A mysterious note, dropped into Hildreth's lap as he sat in a theater box, aroused him to his peril. Something in him, he did not know whether it was Fate or intuition, prompted Hildreth to meet Morn Light in her dressing room, and the same blind instinct drove him to trust his life implicitly in her hands.
But Morn Light had The Shadow to deal with and Hildreth was a doomed man.

Sid McLaren was a benign idiot. That is a conclusion not lightly arrived at. To appreciate the breadth of his benignity you would have had to know Sid in the days when he was Old Man Parsons' drug clerk; you would have had to pull him out some morning at two o'clock to fill the baby's croup prescription; or to contemplate his homely but expansive smile as he waited upon the three-deep row of people who would line up for a nut sundae after the last performance at the Orpheum; or to see him stowing old Aunt Piny Flaccus and a dozen bundles into the Berryville hack, which at four promptly each afternoon took its rickety departure from in front of Parsons' apothecary shop.

And to sound the depths of his idiocy you would have to know all the circumstances that led to his "up and leaving" just as Old Man Parsons was about to turn the business over to him and make him the chief beneficiary in a will. And by rights you should also know the girl in the case—but sounds!—and likewise Mad Tom fishes—we can't go into that now.

For the editor of this paper has decided views about modern fiction, and if you can't uphold virtue, expose subtlety, foil the villain and marry off the heroine all in the compass of twelve hundred words you have got to look for another market. That eliminates Sid's past. I know he was a benign idiot. You have got to take this upon faith. So let's go.

Between the Larraby house and Simpson's theater—and this has nothing to do with the town which Sid had left nor the girl—between the hotel and the theater is a passageway. It is wider than those passageways down which wash water and offending smells come. It is not so wide as an alley. A popcorn man has built a stand which makes it blind on the Main street end, but it is open to Woodlawn avenue. Between the bare fire walls the patch of sky above looks uncommon blue, and of an afternoon it is cool and damp and quiet there. There is a single side door into the hotel and a small stage entrance across from it.

To make a short cut, drummers sometimes come in that way at noon and bid faithful Fridays park their sample-laden pushcarts there. And when, as is frequently the case, the atrial production needs its drops and mechanical effects too elaborate for Simpson's stage, they store scenery in this passageway. So usually it is cluttered up like the sidewalk in front of a Harlem flat building on the first of October.

Sid McLaren came out like this little door and glanced about like a man seeking air. Inside the boys were lounging about and smoking and talking. When the clerk handed him the letter he looked knowingly at Sid. At least it seemed so to Sid, so he took his letter and finding some one in the writing room finally landed on a packing case in the far end of the passageway—a sort of hidden solitude which such a letter seemed to demand.

For Sid had been expecting just the letter. Now that it had really come, the contents—well, one thing was quite anticpate despair or elation. Sid read the letter through, turned it over, gazed at the blank reverse side, turned it back and reread the last sentence: "Despite our patience you have not been able to develop sufficient business to justify our continuing your employment. We regret that we will have to ask you to come in at the end of the week."

Kept in the contemplation of his own problem, young McLaren did not hear the conversation which floated out from the door at the other side of the passageway. "The business? So that was why she has been hanging around the wings when Frieda was on. But they wouldn't dare. Marjorie Tucker wouldn't do a dirty trick like that, near as he is—"

"It is already done. Here's the notice. Tucker signed it." The quiet tones of the last speaker, were in contrast to the passionate, strained voice of the other girl.

"Here comes old Tuck now; I'm gonna ask him. Mr. Tucker, is it true Mrs. Hansel has been understudying Frieda and is going to take the part tonight?"

"You mind yer own business." The man turned his back and addressed the other girl. "I'm sorry, Marjorie, honest I am, but it's Hardy's orders. He's been sour on you ever since you wouldn't go on that party."

She was tall, with dark chestnut hair and a straight, firm profile. Only a slight glister in the big, gray eyes told the half-dozen girls hanging in the wings that her steady voice was only a bit of stage business.

"It's all right, Mr. Tucker—it's all right—it's Hardy's show. Then I'll not need to stay for the understudy's rehearsal?"

"Listen, girlie, I am sorry, and if I was you, and you'll take an old-timer's advice—"

But the girl's head had gone up and proudly she had walked away.

Presently Sid McLaren became aware that his solitude had been intruded upon. Beyond a pile of trunks some one was sobbing softly, but with earnest abandon.

Cautiously Sid pushed his face up until he could command the other side of the pile. Though Marjorie Blainu was the tall Diana of the third act, curled upon an imitation flight of marble stairs, her head pillowed in the cradle of her arm, she seemed to big Sid a very little and very pathetic figure.

"Oh, I say," he said, crawling down beside her. "I wouldn't do that. I don't know what it is all about, but it really can't be so bad. You know nothing is as bad as you think it is going to be, nor so good, either, for that matter."

The sobbing continued unabated. From anybody else it would have been audacity. But with Sid it came simply and naturally as going out and helping Aunt Piny Flaccus into the hack. The girl didn't even start nor look when his hand began to pat her shoulder awkwardly.

"Tell us about it. Maybe it's good luck and you haven't discovered it yet—you know I've just had a little jolt handed to me myself, but pshaw! everything always comes out all right if you give it a chance."

"But—but I had worked so hard—and now it has all flattered. I guess Hardy was right. I got out of the country, but I couldn't get the country out of me. I didn't seem to catch on, somehow—I didn't belong."

Then suddenly she found herself telling him about it all. More than a stranger he was, for she had not even looked up at his face, but something in his voice seemed to make it light as could be. They had told her she could sing. Her family had been against her going on the stage—so she had run away. She couldn't go back—they would never forgive her. They were that kind.

Yes, there was one who did care. But then she hadn't known how rare was the unselfish love he had offered. It was all too late now—probably he had forgotten her—she had treated him heartlessly. She wouldn't blame him if he hated her.

"But he doesn't. Oh, my own little girl, he doesn't. He has been roving around over the country trying to find you and—"

"Well, Sid McLaren, aren't you ashamed to let me make such a fool of myself?"

But Sid McLaren wasn't ashamed. He was glad, and he was happy, and showed it. He showed it by an old-fashioned method to which time has brought no improvements, and which, where a woman is concerned, never fails to carry conviction.

MADE NAME AS DESPERADO

"Billy the Kid" Long One of the Most Notorious Outlaws of the Southwest.

"Billy the Kid," a slightly built youth, whose real name was William H. Bonney, and who was known from Texas to the California line, was one of the most notorious of the "bad men" who infested the Southwest in the '70s and early '80s.

The "Kid" was born in New York city in 1859, his family soon thereafter moving to southern Kansas. At the death of his father young Billy traveled around quite a bit with his mother and grew up among a turbulent element. He had a stepfather. His mother died when he was twelve years old, Billy finding life with his stepfather anything but agreeable, claiming, in later life, that his stepfather was the chief cause of his going to the bad.

The "Kid" was looked upon as a born leader and the greatest gunfighter along the Southwest border. He was finally captured and sentenced to be hanged May 13, 1881. While in jail, however, he killed his two guards with their own weapons and escaped. He was again rounded up several months later, his captor succeeding in killing the youthful bandit in a pitched battle.

Qualified. "I'm going in for literature," said the ex-pugilist. "What literature?" "Beauty plots." "But you are not beautiful." "No. But I have dominated a woman at least 25 years."

An Easter Carol by Minna Irving

Awake! A shaft of heavenly fire Has touched the cloud and tipped the spire. The frosty clod no more is cold, The violet stirs beneath the mold, For this is Easter morning!

Arise! The buds begin to swell, From bush and brake and field and fall. A clear and joyous anthem floats From accents of little feathered throats. For this is Easter morning!

Behold! The soul of man today Casts off the scum of clay. And, crowned with lilies, mounts the skies To walk with God in paradise. For this is Easter morning!

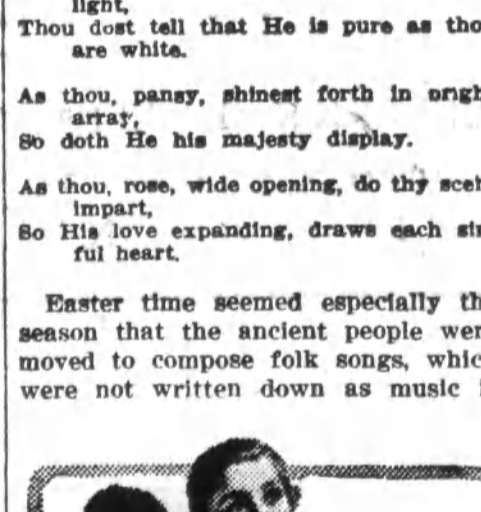

SING GLADNESS AND PRAISE

Carols Have a Distinct and Beautiful Meaning When Rendered at the Easter Time.

It seems as if the Easter time was a particularly appropriate time for the caroling out of our joy. The spring has come, the birds are singing again after the long winter of ice and snow, and we mortals wake to joy again with them. Let us see how the people of ancient times observed Easter. "Carol," the word which we use in speaking of Easter music, means a song of praise, between a hymn and a ballad, a song which was used first to accompany a dance. One of the most beautiful of these old carols had its origin in the southwestern part of France, and is called "The Carol of the Flowers." It runs thus:

Come with us, sweet flowers, and worship Christ the Lord; Let your perfume hover round the Babe adored. Modest violet, hiding in the grassy shade, Thou canst say how humble He is made. Lily fair, low bending in the sun's warm light, Thou dost tell that He is pure as thou art white. As thou, pansy, shinest forth in oright array, So doth He his majesty display. As thou, rose, wide opening, do thy scent impart, So His love expanding, draws each sinful heart.

Easter time seemed especially the season that the ancient people were moved to compose folk songs, which were not written down as music is written now, but which were sung, from generation to generation of people. In this way they were kept alive, as surely as if they had been printed, or written on parchment, according to the custom in ancient days. These folk songs depicted scenes in the garden of Gethsemane where the Saviour walked, or of the women who went to the tomb bearing precious spices, of their finding the empty tomb, of the white-robed angel, and of Mary, the virgin mother.

One of the most beautiful of all the songs which have been written of this event is Handel's "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." This has been sung on Easter for many years, in churches.

Have your Spring and Summer Shoes looked after by Danny Trolan 42 North St., Corner Market AUBURN, N. Y. You will need them soon and they will be ready for you. Work done while you wait.

Easter Over There. To wasted fields far over there Where long white lines of crocuses are, Shall sunshine come and showers; And God will walk where crocuses are, And that lone land, denuded, bare, Shall emerald be—a green pasture, All radiant with flowers. —Robert Francis McKay

WE SOLICIT JOB PRINTING

NAILS are selling in New York at eight cents per pound --this summer the biggest difficulty will be, not the price, but the ability to obtain them. We have just started to make our cellar into a paint shop and in order to make room for alterations are moving the nails which are there now, for base. If you need nails now, or if you are going to need any this summer, don't fail to get a few kegs at this price.

The growers are, however, to pay the company $4 a bushel for seed, an increase of 50 cents over last year's price.

The senate passed the bill introduced by Senator Davenport, chairman of the legislative taxation commission, which is designed to extend to non-residents the same exemptions under the income tax law as are allowed to resident taxpayers. The purpose of the measure is to overcome the objections to the provisions which were held unconstitutional by the United States supreme court.

After reconsidering the vote by which it recently defeated the Dickstein bill, designed to permit the carrying on of secular business or labor on the first day of the week, provided public worship is not disturbed by persons belonging to a religious faith observing another day of the week as Sabbath and who refrain from business and labor on such day, the assembly passed the measure by a vote of 130 to 18.

Forty per cent of all hired bees in the section around Canandaigua starved to death during the long severe winter, or were so weakened owing to lack of food that they will succumb before flowers and blossoms burst, according to H. L. Case of Canandaigua, one of Western New York's leading apiarists. Lack of food was not to blame for the heavy bee casualties, Mr. Case explains. All well managed apiarists had food plenty, but the bees were so numbed by the cold that they could not move to get to the honey or sugar stores and eat.

En Route to Japan.

President and Mrs. J. G. Schurman left Ithaca Saturday last for Seattle, Wash., whence they will sail April 10, on the Steamer Kashima Maru for Japan.

In Seattle, President and Mrs. Schurman will be entertained by Cornell alumni. There, also, they will meet the other members of the party which includes Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Taft and George Eastman of Rochester, and numbers about 20 in all.

They expect to arrive at Yokohama on April 25. During their stay in Japan they will be entertained by numerous distinguished citizens of that country. The party will sail for San Francisco on the return trip May 14, arriving there about May 30.

Dean A. W. Smith of the College of Mechanical Engineering will be the official head of Cornell during the absence of President Schurman.

Resolutions of Respect.

North Lansing Grange, 334, adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas: It pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from our midst, our sister, Mary Osmun, a loyal member of North Lansing Grange, and that while we mourn the loss we submit to the Divine will; therefore be it

Resolved, That we as members of North Lansing Grange, No. 334, extend fraternal sympathy to the sorrowing family; and be it further

Resolved, That we drape our character in mourning for thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy sent to the GENOA TRIBUNE and be spread on the minutes of the Grange.

Mrs. Frances Boyer,
 Mrs. Edith Linderberry,
 Mrs. Lena Carson,
 Committee.

Junior Project Work.

Plans for junior project work were made Saturday last at a meeting of the Council of Farm Bureau, Grange and Chamber of Commerce delegates in Auburn. Indications are that the most extensive program of work, organized with the intent of keeping boys and girls on the farm and interested in agriculture, will be launched in Cayuga county on April 17.

This date has been set for a school session in the Farm Bureau offices of all men and women who will take positions as club leaders. Arrangements were made to carry out the junior work in school districts this year and a total of 15 clubs will be founded as soon as the leaders receive their instructions on April 17. It was decided that the five district school superintendents would act as general overseers of the boys and girls clubs to be organized. The leaders will be school instructors.

Prof. W. J. Wright of Cornell, state director of junior project work, who was present at the meeting, will have charge of the school in which the men and women who are to take charge of the clubs will receive their instructions and according to the program adopted Saturday, monthly meetings will be held during the summer between the leaders and the council members in order that close touch can be kept with the situation.

Pig and potato clubs for the boys, sewing and food clubs for the girls will be the only forms of activity taken up this year. Manager E. C. Weatherby of the Farm Bureau and Assistant Manager W. E. Davis will directly superintend the work.

Farmers, like manufacturers, should establish a reputation for honest, uniform, high-grade products, and then live up to the reputation. Advertising will do the rest.

Foster-Ross Company, Inc.

AUBURN — NEW YORK

Our 21st Anniversary Sale Commences
SATURDAY, APRIL 10th and continues up to and including the 17th

Twenty-one years of constant study of how best to serve you and twenty-one years of your generous appreciation of our goods and methods-- these together have brought a measure of success which is very gratifying to us. It gives us courage to devise and impetus to act.

United action is a phrase much in use these days. We feel it has been the power behind the steady progress of this store.

WE HAVE DONE OUR BEST

to make it a channel of the city's prosperity and have given much time and thought and many dollars to make it attractive in service, merchandise and equipment. YOU HAVE STOOD BY US LOYALLY and in these troublous times you have patiently suffered with us under scarcity of goods, uncertain railway transportation, lack of help and rising prices.

So far as we are concerned there will be no resting on our oars. The feeling of good fellowship between us will be further strengthened by this Anniversary Sale.

DURING THE SEVEN DAYS, COMMENCING SATURDAY, THE TENTH

We will give you Special Values in the most desirable Merchandise produced for the season. Values that are every one of them considerably below the market today and presenting an opportunity of money saving altogether unusual.

BECAUSE THIS IS ANNIVERSARY SALE TIME

Auditorium Attractions.

The big fun show of the season will be at the Auditorium next Thursday, matinee and night, when the American Burlesque association will present "The Night Owls." This is the show that reaches the pinnacle of beauty, fun and song. There is a laugh or a song hit every minute. A real Beauty Congress in the chorus and a big bunch of mirth provoking comedians. The costuming is wonderful, the girls sweet and pretty and the music tuneful. Don't miss this big show.

Gardens this year will help lower living costs. The appeal of personal thrift should actuate this year's gardeners as strongly as the patriotic appeal of two years ago.

Enfield Glen State Park.

Enfield Glen, a natural scenic beauty spot, will become a state park through the gift of Robert H. Treman of Ithaca, owner of the property, to the state of New York.

The glen is one of the beauty spots of the Finger Lakes region and is similar to Watkins Glen, only smaller. The state has accepted the property and has provided for its maintenance as a state park.

Two bulletins in bee-keeping await your call at the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y. They are F. 138 and E. 16. A postal card request will bring them.

It will help to maintain health if you ascertain what should be your proper weight and then hold to it.

"Keep Cheerful" Says Burroughs.

John Burroughs, famous naturalist, gave the above message to the world April 3rd, his 83rd birthday, which he celebrated at Yama farms, near Napanoch, Ulster county, the home of his friend, Frank Seaman. Mr. Burroughs spent part of the day collecting maple sap. In the afternoon he planted a sugar maple tree on Mr. Seaman's farm. Many friends visited him and offered their congratulations.

Is the harness all ready, with collars scraped, cleaned, and smoothed for the heavy spring work?

In planning the garden it is well to keep in mind the old rule that it is better not to repeat the same crop where it grew last year.

Presbyterian Minute Men.

Nearly 20,000 select laymen are being formed into a Minute Men's organization similar to the Liberty Loan speakers, for the purpose of representing the claims of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. in connection with the financial drive for the raising of the $23,000,000 1920-1921 New Era budget, April 25 to May 2.

There will be at least two speakers for each of the 9,800 Presbyterian churches and in addition, one speaker for each 100 members or a fraction thereof for the individual church. Each speaker will be known as a "minute man" and his address will be limited to five minutes.

Get all tools and implements ready for the rush of spring work.

CORNELL ROOFING

The roof of a building is equally important as the foundation. You would not construct a faulty foundation with poor and inferior materials. If this is so, why waste expensive nails and labor on inferior roofing.

CORNELL ROOFING

is made from rag felt thoroughly saturated with asphalt. CORNELL SLATE SURFACED SHINGLES are coated on the back. The coating on the back is very important as it cements the layers of shingles together thereby preventing the wind from lifting the shingles which in time will crack them.

Don't You See
 The Advantage?

It requires just as much labor to lay poor inferior roofing as it does to lay the superior kind.

CORNELL ROOFING

IS a superior roofing.
 IF better roofing were made we would sell it.
 WHEN better roofing is made we WILL sell it.
