CREPE DE CHINE IN WHITE

To appear cool and feel cool is not always possible, but the wearer of this charming frock of white crepe de chine with pipings and sash of navy blue grosgrain ribbon achieves this happy result.

BLACK WITH WHITE ON HATS

Combination is Great Favorite and Always Affords Bit of Smartness That is Desired.

Women never tire of black and white. In summer hats this combination is a great favorite. The all-white hat is rather dead looking, and while a white hat with colored trimming may be very pretty there is a likelihood of its appearing somewhat lifeless unless created by an artist. A touch of black on a white hat always brings a bit of smartness.

White organdie hats, much like the old-fashioned lingerie hat that women affected for many summers because it brought eternal youth, are trimmed with puffy flowers of organdie. Then they are swathed with black tulle.

Equally effective are hats of pale yellow organdie veiled with brown net. Taffeta flowers—big puffy ones of dark colors—are sometimes applied to drooping mushroom shapes of white organdie with long, loose stitches of black and a wispy transparent scarf draped over all. Sometimes white organdie blossoms are scattered over black horsehair hats. The versatile organdie plays many roles. It is not unusual to see it ornamenting oilcloth hats in the form of scarfs or appliqued flowers, and in turn oilcloth may be applied to hats of organdie.

WHAT DAME FASHION SAYS

Hand painting on taffeta hats makes for a novelty in millinery that is having an extensive vogue.

Though fillet laces are still in big demand, baby Irish and cluny are fast being accepted as quite the proper trimmings.

Batik decoration is beautifully applied to some smoking sets, and metal and floss embroidery, as well as metal bibbon, is also used.

Models of crepe meteor are sometimes on the coat order, others are flowing slip-over robes, looking not unlike Greek drapes when worn.

American manufacturers of corsets—and these are the greatest in the world—say that there will not be any radical changes in corsets this coming fall and winter season.

In georgette, crepe de chine, lace and net the jacket model over a full length slip prevails, and these are delightfully dainty in color and in the trimming of ribbon, flower garlands and frilly lace and net.

A change in corset lines is said to be essential for the new autumn modes already introduced by Jenny and Callot. These models demand a flat, straight up-and-down line to the figure, both back and front, and a nipped-in effect at the hips.

Paris snays black velvet hats—and that means we shall probably accept them. This may be a fabric out of season, but who can deny the effectiveness of a summer costume when topped off, as it were, with a smart hat, large or small, of black velvet?

Never were negligees lovelier in color and materials, nor more interesting in design than at the moment. There are all sorts of models—some brilliant in color and daring in design, others as delicate in color and as delightfully feminine in design as could possibly be desired.

Confetti Trimming.
A French trimming which bids fair to prove popular is known in Paris as "confetti" trimming. This is used generally on a foundation of sheer silk, chiffon or georgette, the latter more frequently seen here. In Paris, according to recent arrivals from that market, it is popular in the many colors characteristic of the real confetti, the trimming being fabric, felt or leather, cut up into the tiniest of spots.

BLOODED CATTLE AT THE STATE FAIR

Most Useful Dairy and Beef Breeds to Be Shown.

COMPETITION FOR LARGE PREMIUMS TO BE KEEN

Fitts, New Commissioner, Now in Charge of Show—Savage Succeeds McLaury.

More blooded cattle of the dairy and beef breeds will be seen at the State Fair in September than have ever been collected at any one place in the State of New York.

From the assurances offered by some of the most prominent cattle exhibitors of the country, the indications are that the capacity of the immense cattle building, the most modern and sanitary to be found at any exposition grounds in the country, will be taxed to the utmost. Not alone the east but many of the states of the middle and far west will be represented in the competition for the large premiums totalling $17,355.80.

The cattle department will be directed this year by Mr. George R. Fitts of McLean, recently appointed to the State Fair Commission to succeed C. A. Wieting of Cobleskill. Commissioner Fitts has been active in County Farm Bureau and grange work, is keenly interested in the cattle breeding industry and enjoys a wide acquaintance among the cattle exhibitors. The recognition of Mr. Fitts as the head of this department insures a healthy development of the cattle show.

A reminder of the state's large dairy interests will be furnished in the cattle building by many splendid herds of Holstein-Friesian, Jersey, Ayrshire, Guernsey and other useful dairy breeds. The public interested in thoroughbred cattle will have a chance to look over some of the finest herds of Brown Swiss, Dutch Belted, Devon, Red Polled and Milking Short-horn cattle owned in this country.

It has been the Fair Commission's endeavor to stimulate a greater interest in the raising of beef cattle for supplying the big markets of the east, and the large premiums offered will attract many herds of Hereford, Aberdeen-Angus, pure bred steers and Galloway cattle.

The suggestion for special premiums for increasing the interest in cattle breeding has met with a hearty response from many of the large cattle breeders' associations of the country.

The department will this year be in charge of E. S. Savage, Professor of Animal Husbandry of Cornell University who has been named by Commissioner Fitts as the successor to D. W. McLaury who was superintendent for many years.

HAVE THAVIU'S BAND

Famous Musical Organization to Be Heard at Fair.

Music lovers will be pleased to know that the band concerts at the State Fair in September will be of the high standard of other years. The Fair Commission has secured Thaviu's band, an organization of international fame which has contributed the musical program at the Panama-Pacific and other big expositions.

One of the pleasing features of the daily concert in Empire State comes in the morning and at the race track in the afternoon will be furnished by three grand opera soloists associated with Professor Thaviu's organization. The band has been heard in many of the large cities, fairs and special celebrations in this country. Out of sixteen of the world's greatest bands which played at the Panama-Pacific exposition, Thaviu's was the only one which received a commission from the directors to play a return engagement. The life and brilliancy of the Thaviu's musical interpretations make him the idol of all lovers of concert music.

BIG POULTRY SHOW

Record Entry Promised in Poultry and Pet Stock Classes.

Since the State Fair Poultry Show has come to be recognized as the most important exhibition in the east, the problem with the officers has been to accommodate the exhibitors.

The Pet Stock branch now leads all similar shows in the country, and it is confidently predicted that the entries will pass the two-thousand mark. The total entries in the department will be in the neighborhood of 10,000. All of the most useful breeds of poultry will be represented, and besides there will be plenty of cages to interest the fanciers inclined to the rarer and more spectacular breeds. An interesting display will be furnished by farmers' flocks in large pens.

The pond in the center of the Poultry building will again be given over to a display of wild water fowl, including, practically all varieties of wild ducks that have been domesticated and several varieties of wild geese.

CIRCUIT RACES A BIG FEATURE

Fast Trotters and Pacers Headed for State Fair.

RICH PURSES ATTRACT RECORD ENTRY IN STAKES

Forty-four Nominations Secured for Empire State Purse of $10,000.

The rich purses offered by the racing officials of the State Fair have again proved a magnet attracting all of the large stables of trotters and pacers for the Grand Circuit meet, forming a feature of the big exhibition at Syracuse in September.

The early closing events for purses aggregating $82,000 have drawn 328

THE MOUNTED POLICE

Experienced State Body Will Again Do Policing at State Fair.

Visitors to the State Fair will again have the protection of the mounted New York State police which in three years has developed into one of the most efficient police organizations in the country.

A big percentage of fair visitors go to the fair by automobile and traffic problems have caused the management no little trouble. As the result of their experience at the last two fairs the State police are confident of handling the automobiles this year with a minimum of delay or congestion.

The Fair Commission would like to see more visitors avail themselves of the excellent railroad service, two steam roads and one electric road being prepared with equipment for handling the largest crowds to and from the grounds. Fair officials have estimated that the trains can handle the people in one-quarter of the time required in the use of automobiles.

However, for those who insist upon motoring to the fair the Commission has set aside adequate parking space for which there is no charge.

Interest in Racing.

Judging from the record breaking crowds attracted to the Grand Circuit races at Cleveland and Columbus this year, the war has not diverted public interest from harness horse racing, and the Grand Circuit program at the State Fair will again draw the attention of a big percentage of the fair visitors. An unusually attractive racing program has been arranged for the recently completed mile track, which has the advantage of two immense subways for admitting automobiles and pedestrians to the infield.

The feature of the racing program will be a $10,000 stake, one of the classics of the light harness horse world.

nominations which is a new record for the State Fair meeting. Forty-four trotters have been named in the $10,000 Empire State stake for 2:12 trotters and they include the best prospects of the year in the light harness horse world. The Matron Stake promoted by the American Association of Trotting Horse Breeders has fifty-two entries and the character of the stables represented insures a stirring contest. The Governor's 2:06 trot for $3,000, the Lieutenant-Governor's 2:00 trot for $3,000, the Syracuse 2:05 pace for $3,000 and the Chamber of Commerce 2:39 pace for $3,000 have attracted respectively seventeen, eighteen, sixteen and twenty-five entries.

The large amount of prize money hung up does not indicate the cost of this feature to the fair management. The greater the entry the less the expense for the races. This year the entrance money for some of the early closing events will be sufficient to meet the prize money, which means that these ground features which never fail to draw a crowd taxing the capacity of the big grand stand, cost the State nothing.

All of the noted reinsmen of the country will again be seen in stirring competition, for the stake entries show the Geers, Murphy, Cox, McDonald, Valentine, Pittman, Snow, White and Fleming Stables represented. Ed Geers, the dean of light harness horse drivers, always a favorite with State Fair race crowds, has an unusually large string of trotters and pacers this year and will be seen in the sulky every day of the meeting. The "Grand Old Man" of the Racing World has fully recovered from his bad accident suffered at the State Fair last year.

Commissioner John H. Cahill will very soon announce the class races for purses of $1,000 each which will complete the Grand Circuit program.

Boys' Judging Contest.
There will be a novel competition in connection with the Draft Horse department at the State Fair. Boys will be given a chance to judge certain classes, and those whose decisions come nearest to the decisions of the regular judge will receive cash prizes amounting in the aggregate to $300.

In the Show Ring State Fair, Governor A. E. Smith is about to place a blue ribbon on L.

Weaver Residence Burns.

The residence of Seymour Weaver on Academy St., in this village, with its contents, was completely destroyed by fire last Friday morning shortly after 11 o'clock. A few minutes before 11 o'clock, the clanging of the fire bell called out the department. The flames had gained such headway, however, on their arrival at the scene that the house could not be saved and it was a mass of ruins in less than an hour. The firemen with the two chemical engines, ladders, etc., did most efficient work in saving the barn, which was about 30 feet from the house, and the adjoining houses on each side of the Weaver place. The King Ferry company with their engine arrived in time to be of good use in saving nearby property.

The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove, it is supposed. Mrs. Weaver had just lighted the stove and after putting some food on to cook, left the kitchen and went to another part of the house. Hearing a noise, as of something dropping, she started to return to the kitchen and found the rooms filled with smoke. Already the thin draperies were on fire and Mrs. Weaver was slightly burned in trying to use the telephone. Not being able to withstand the heat and smoke, she ran to the next house to telephone for assistance, but no one was at home. She then called to the neighbors nearby who came to her assistance. The only articles saved were the mattress and furnishings of a bed, and four drawers of a chiffonier which were taken out of a front window. A few articles of clothing were also rescued.

The damage is estimated at about $3,500 with only $1,500 insurance. The house of Mrs. Lizzie Holden, to the north, was scorched and several windows were broken by the intense heat. The roof of the Baptist parsonage caught fire but was quickly extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver have the sympathy of every one in their loss. They are at present with Mrs. Weaver's daughter, Mrs. Thos. Brogan, and their plans for a future home are undecided. It is possible that they will rebuild on their lot.

Arrangements are being made by the Chautauqua county farm bureau and the Dairymen's league to hold a joint county picnic in Stockton on Aug. 21. The farm bureau picnic held in Charlotte last year was the largest held in the county and it is expected that the addition of the Dairymen's league will greatly increase the attendance.

Resignation of B. H. Bean as director of the bureau of markets and storage in the department of foods and markets, state council of farms and markets, has been announced by E. H. Porter, the commissioner. Bean will return to private business in Buffalo and will be succeeded by H. D. Phillips, present assistant director in marketing at Cornell.

The State School of Agriculture at Alfred, according to an announcement from its president, is this fall to offer an entirely new course of study to young men and women, known as the rural teacher training course. This, he states, is a new step in education, not only at Alfred, but in the state, as it is the first work of its kind to be attempted in New York.

Miss Julia Pratt, Buffalo school teacher who became a member of the Communist party and consequently lost her job on conviction of un-American activities, has appealed to State Commissioner John H. Finley of the department of education. She asks that he overturn the decision of the Buffalo school board and restore her to her place on the school roll.

The peak of high food prices has been reached and there will be a gradual decline from now on. If Hornell grocers have the right recipe, granulated sugar is selling for 25 cents a pound and light brown sugar for 17. Dealers advertise it at those prices "in any quantity." Potatoes have dropped to 60 cents a peck. Farmers report the largest crops in years and produce is expected to be cheap.

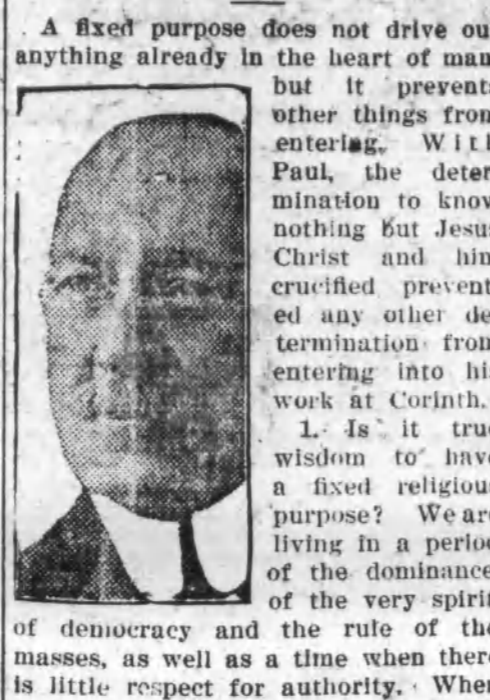

The Allegany county Holstein-Friesian association, through its farm bureau office, is sending questionnaires to the breeders of black and whites in Allegany county to locate the pure bred Holsteins and to get a record of all breeders who have stock for sale. The results of this questionnaire will be placed on file at the farm bureau office at Belmont and at the office of the state secretary at Syracuse. C. B. Raymond, county agricultural agent, announces that this arrangement will aid breeders materially in the disposition of surplus stock.

A gift of a $20,000 site in the Adirondacks near Saranac for a "preventorium" for mentally afflicted among the poor was announced by the Home and Farm institution for mental convalescents. The gift was made by L. C. Nicol of New York city in memory of his wife. The institution was authorized to use the land as a site for the "preventorium" or dispose of it to purchase another in the Catskill. Prior to the erection of the "preventorium" as an observation house will be established by the institution in upper Manhattan where mental specialists will furnish free consultation.

Exclusive Power of a Fixed Purpose

By REV. J. H. RALSTON, D. D.
Secretary of Correspondence Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ and him crucified.—1 Cor. 2:2

A fixed purpose does not drive out anything already in the heart of man, but it prevents other things from entering. With Paul, the determination to know nothing but Jesus Christ and him crucified prevented any other determination from entering into his work at Corinth. Is it true wisdom to have a fixed religious purpose? We are living in a period of the dominance of the very spirit of democracy and the rule of the masses, as well as a time when there is little respect for authority. When you come to the realm of religion, it is said that we must approach its consideration with open minds; to have settled convictions would make us bigots and pharisees.

Was that the theory that actuated the prophets of the Old Testament, that actuated Jesus Christ as he taught among men, or that actuated the apostles? The positive teaching of Jeremiah brought on him the enmity of Israel, resulting in his most cruel persecution. The uncompromising words of Jesus Christ sent him to the Cross, and when Paul faced the Cross and thought of the many things he might glory in, with intense conviction he said, "God forbid that I should glory, save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." Here was no qualification, no suggestion of a doubt, no peradventure. Precisely so has it always been with great leaders, and it is one of the saddest aspects of present religious teaching that they give the impression that it is not necessary to hold fixed purposes or view on doctrinal subjects.

2. Let us note that Paul's fixed purpose was with reference to only one thing, everything else to be shut out. Would such a fixed purpose be wise for the Christian worker of today? Our Christian fathers and mothers were people of few theories; indeed, they were practically people of one thought. They permitted some great idea to obsess them, and everything else had to submit to that. They saw different aspects of the thought, but the thought was unique and alone. Man must have his pole star and not several stars.

But we must have good reasons for entertaining a fixed purpose. Paul evidently had good reasons for his purpose, for he had seen the Lord by the gate of Damascus; he had spent three years in Arabia, doubtless making himself intelligent in the things of Christ; he had seen how the simple story of Christ crucified had moved hundreds, and probably thousands, under his own teaching to accept Christ; he had seen the religion of the dying Jesus spreading over Asia Minor and taking strong hold in Europe, and had experienced in his own life that old things had passed away, and that all things had become new—and he knew that all this came from Jesus Christ.

3. Paul's fixed purpose was—to know nothing among the Corinthians but Jesus Christ and him crucified. Christ crucified, everything must center at the Cross, everything in Christ's life and experience previous to his death must have the Cross in view, and everything in Christ's after influence among men must go back to the Cross; it is on the Cross that the atonement for the sins of the world is found. As a distinguished commentator has said, "The atonement is the diamond pivot on which the Christian religion turns." There is nothing, unless we except Christ's glorious return for his people and as the Judge of all men, that so stirs the enemies of truth as the doctrine of the atonement.

Jesus Christ and him crucified—that is the power of God unto salvation. The weakness of the preaching of so many ministers today can be explained by the fact that their sermons do not contain the dynamite of the Cross. Wherever that message is delivered, the slain of the Lord are many. That explained the conquest of Asia Minor and a large part of Europe in the first three centuries of the Christian era; that explained the phenomenal success of George Whitefield, Jonathan Edwards, Charles H. Spurgeon and every man of God the world through, who has been a successful winner of souls. Oh, that our young men who have the ministry in view would catch the vision! They would not take from thirty to fifty members of the Christian church to lead a single soul to Christ in the course of a year.

The Only Prison.
Self is the only prison that can ever bind the soul; Love is the only angel who can bid the gates unroll; And when he comes to call them, art and follow fast; His way may lie through darkness, but it leads to light at last.—Anon.

Why Berlin Barred Long Hat Pins.
No hat pins figured as weapons in the latest disturbances in Berlin if an order issued by the chief of police a few days before the reactionary coup of March 12 was heeded by the wearers of feminine headgear. It appears, according to an account in the Berliner Tageblatt, that an old police order dating to pre-war days was revived, in view of the danger to innocent bystanders engendered by the wearing of enormous hat pins in subway and street car crowds, and the Berlin women were warned that each such offense would cost a fine of 60 marks and the "proper" term of imprisonment. Furthermore, the order pointed out that any person injured by one of these pins could recover damages up to 8,000 marks, and the culprit might also be sent to jail for two years and fined 900 marks.

Breeders to Hold Picnic.
 The fourth annual picnic of the breeders of Cayuga county will be held on Friday, Aug. 20, at the farm of J. Reynolds Wait on the Genesee street road, near Auburn.
 The picnic will be one of the biggest agricultural events of the summer season. Farm Bureau officials with the Home Bureau leaders, are co-operating with the various organizations of breeders of the county: The sheep breeders, the hog breeders and the men interested in pure bred cattle, members of the Holstein and Guernsey clubs, will be present. Over 2,000 farmers and breeders were at the picnic last year at the Crocker farm in Sennett.
 The Home Bureau agents, Miss Marcia Grimes and Miss Esther Royce, promise an innovation in a real bar. Instead of intoxicating drinks nothing but milk will be served, and many new ways to serve milk will be shown at that time.
 Besides having an opportunity to inspect one of the most modern dairy farms of the state, visitors at the breeders' picnic will find a herd of fine Holsteins on the Wait farm. Situated only a mile from Auburn in the very center of the county, the Wait farm, one of the most modern dairy farms of Central New York, is considered a most ideal spot for the outing.
