A Trip to Europe.

After a two months' tour in Europe Mrs. A. B. Todd of Five Corners arrived home Saturday evening, Aug. 11th. The following account of her trip was kindly given to a TRIBUNE reporter:

We sailed from New York for Londonderry, Ireland, June 2nd, Anchor line steamer, City of Rome, arriving at Londonderry June 10th. From here we go by rail across Ireland, stopping at Belfast and Dublin. At Belfast we see great fields spread with bleaching linen. We visited many places of interest, old castles and cathedrals, arriving at Holy Head Wales, crossing the Menai strait via the famous tubular bridge. We cross the northern portion of Wales to Chester where we visit Gladstone's old home, and were on the grounds at the time of Mrs. Gladstone's death and also saw the funeral procession in London a few days later. Mrs. Gladstone was buried by the side of her husband in Westminster Abbey. From Chester we go to London, visiting many places of interest such as the Zoological Garden, Botanical Garden, Kensington Garden, Museum and Art Institute, Westminster, Parliament House, Albert's Memorial, Hyde Park and many others. After a stay of five days we proceed to Harwich where we embark on one of the fine sound steamers, arriving at Hook of Holland in the morning. All hands were piped on deck at 5 a. m. to view the beautiful Dutch landscape as we pass up the river to Rotterdam. This is a fine old Dutch city filled with much to interest tourists, with its quaint old houses and narrow streets. Here the people would get out in the middle of the street and stare at us as we passed along. One man was heard to say, as he looked at our pile of baggage all marked Hill, that Mr. Hill must have a large family. Mr. Hill was the conductor of our party and as there were 85 persons in the party, we made quite a showing. From here we go to Cologne, the principal feature being the cathedral. We take the train here for Coblenz, where we take a boat and spend a delightful afternoon on the Rhine, landing at Bingen on the Rhine for supper, and again taking train for Heidelberg, where we spend the night, resuming our journey in the morning for Munich, our route taking us across Baden, Wurtemberg, Karlsruhe and Stuttgart to Ulm. This part of the journey is through the famous Black Forest and is especially interesting. From Munich we proceed to Ober Ammergau to see the Passion Play, which was worth going many miles to see. Ober Ammergau is a small village in southeastern Germany, beautifully situated among the mountains. The Passion Play is a representation of the trial, crucifixion and resurrection of Christ. A good description of the play is given in the May number of the Ladies' Home Journal. It requires 685 persons to give the performance of whom 50 are women and 200 are children, but only 125 have speaking parts. It requires 8 hours for one performance and 4,000 people witness each performance. After the play we returned to Munich and crossed over into Austria, stopping at Insbruck. Here we begin our journey across the Alps, which was a seven hours' ride among some of the grandest scenery of the entire route. In rising to an elevation of 4,500 ft. above sea level, we beheld many changing vistas. Snow-clad mountain peaks look down on flowery banks and grassy vales; hour after hour we pass tunnel, gorge, mountain face, torrent cascade, glacier, castle, hamlet and luxuriant vine and olive groves. In an hour's ride we pass from snow-capped peaks to fields of ripe wheat. They were harvesting with a gleeful air. The last we come to Italy and step down from our car at old Varona, where we visit the old Roman theater that held 10,000 people. Remaining here over night we go the next day to view the Adriatic queen, fair Venice, where we remain for two days visiting the different places of interest, such as the Bridge of Sighs, the Lido and cathedrals, and enjoying a gondola ride. Here we see the doves, for which a fine is imposed for killing one. This is my ideal city. Leaving Venice our route takes us to Florence, the art city of the old world. No one can expect a description of this great center of art, marble and music; everything in Florence is artistic. From here we go to Rome, stopping at Bologna for dinner, where we had some of the genuine bologna, arriving at Rome in the evening. Here we remain four days, viewing the principal features of interest, among which are St. Peter's cathedral, the Vatican, the Forum, Appian Way, Colosseum, Picture Galleries, Catacombs, etc. From Rome we go to Pisa to visit the famous tower, the Campo Santo and Baptistery. Next to Genoa, so interesting to Americans as it was the birthplace of Columbus. We now go to Milan, then to Como, the beautiful lake region; here we begin our upward climb of the Alps by the way of the great St. Gothard route, thus leaving what is rightly named "Sunny Italy." There are 109 miles of this mountain roadway. We reach Fluelin at the foot of the lake of the Four Cantons; from here we go by boat to Vitznau and take the mountain railway for a ten-mile trip up the Mountain Rhigi; we come to Rhigi Kulm and spend the night here to get the benefit of the Alpine sunset and sunrise—a picture never to be forgotten and one of Nature's greatest masterpieces. In the morning we found the ground covered with 3 inches of snow. Returning to Vitznau we go by boat to Lucerne. The streets, shops, glacier gardens, Esplanade, old bridge, etc., were the principal objects of interest. We then go to Berne, the capital of the little mountain republic, an exceedingly interesting town. From here we go to the gay French capital, Paris, remaining five days, the exposition being the principal attraction. We visited the principal places of interest such as art galleries, cathedrals, gardens, the tomb of Napoleon, etc. We leave Paris July 17th and go to Dippe. We were all glad to leave Paris as it was a start toward home. At Dippe we take the channel steamer for New Haven, stopping at Brighton, the queen of watering places, and the "Lungs of London." From here we go again to London but do not remain long. Our route now takes us north through England. We pass through Bowness and Ambleside, stopping at Kezwick, the heart of the lake region. Here we climbed Castle Hill, taking paths through pastures, to view the beautiful valley of Derwent. We also visited Crosthwaite cathedral, where Southey is buried, the Lodore falls and the Druid Circle. From here to Carlisle, then to Melrose where we viewed the old remnant of the Abbey, then drove to Abbotsford, the home of Scott, then to Ayr, visiting Twa Brigs, Tam O'Shanter's Inn, Alloway Kirk and Auld Brig, then a drive to the birthplace of Robt. Burns. From Ayr we go to Edinburgh, the "Athens of the North." Here we visit Holy Rood Abbey and Palace, where we see the bed of Mary, Queen of Scots. Carlton Hill, Edinburgh castle, Scott's monument, the Queen's Gardens, the Fourth bridge and Craig-miller castle occupied our time here. We leave for Glasgow July 24th, our path taking us up through the highlands of Scotland to Sterling and Oban. Lochs, islands, mountains and frowning castles make all the way a constant succession of pictures, we all went on board the steamer Anchoria for our return voyage, the pilot taking us ten miles out and leaving us, bidding us a safe voyage. After 13 days of what some called "misery bottled up with the cork out" we welcomed the pilot at New York, all hands singing America. He guided our ship safely into the harbor and landed us Friday morning, Aug. 10th, a little too near the Custom House for some of the party. Here the party bade each other good-by and the Black Diamond traveled none too fast to bring me home.

Found Dead in Bed.

George E. Baker, proprietor of the Cascade House, at Cascade, was found dead in his bed at the hotel Wednesday morning between 9 and 10 o'clock. Deceased was 65 years of age and had been proprietor of the Cascade House for a number of years. Mr. Baker's death was unexpected although he had not been in good health since Jan. 4 last, when he suffered a broken hip. He was up and about his room in the morning, but went back to bed and was not again seen alive.

The deceased is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Carrie Wallace, of Jamaica Plains, Mass., besides sisters and brothers who reside in Massachusetts.

It is not believed that the house will be closed as there are several summer boarders at present.

In a paper on political reform in Ceylon, Gov. Roosevelt advises reformers to disregard fanatics. "It is vital," says he, "that every man who is in politics, as a man ought to be, with a disinterested purpose to serve the public, should strive steadily to reform; that he should have the highest ideals. He must lead, only he must lead in the right direction, and normally he must be in sight of his followers. Cynicism in public life is a curse, and when a man has lost the power of enthusiasm for righteousness, it will be better for him and the country if he abandon public life. Above all, the political reformer must not permit himself to be driven from his duty of supporting what is right by any irritation at the men who, while nominally supporting the same objects, and even ridiculing him as a backslider or an 'opportunist,' yet by their levity or fanaticism do damage to the cause which he really serves, and which they profess to serve. Let him disregard them; for though they are, according to their ability, the foes of decent politics, yet, after all, they are but weaklings, and the real and dangerous enemies of the cause he holds dear are those sinister beings who batten on the evil of our political system, and both profit by its existence, and by their own existence tend to perpetuate and increase it. We must not be diverted from our warfare with these powerful and efficient corruptionists by irritation at the vain prattlers who think they are at the head of the reform forces, whereas they are really wandering in bypaths in the rear."

With his padded silk upper garment, the Chinese minister goes about his social duties and pleasures regardless of weather, says a Washington letter. The costume is odd, but it has its advantages. Minister Wu has no hankering for the American full-dress. At a gathering not long ago something was said in the minister's presence about a public man who had taken a heavy cold in going home from an evening entertainment, and who was laid up, with the prospect of serious complications. "Ah!" commented Minister Wu, sagely shaking his head, "it is not surprising. That pneumonia shirt did it." And now in Washington society the costume de rigueur passes by the minister's description, "the pneumonia shirt."

"We are tired of being bluffed into silence by being asked if we have read the latest book," wearily remarks the Atkinson (Kan.) Globe, with a strong bid for commendation. "We are also tired of the air of pity that follows when we admit that we have not only not read it, but hadn't heard of it before. There is surely something more to living than to be up at daylight to read the newest book published during the night. Do people no longer read good books, or is it only new books that are read?"

Most common is the remark, "What interesting people one meets in traveling!" One may perhaps be pardoned for differing from this belief, says the San Francisco Argonaut. The interesting people one meets in traveling are extremely likely to keep to themselves. They do not wear their hearts upon their sleeves. Therefore, if they are interesting, that trait is kept for their friends. On the other hand, the fools, bores and bores obtrude themselves upon you.

The real humanitarian has appeared with his offer of a war device. It is a concoction for putting armies to sleep. It is to be fired in shells of any size. The shell explodes, but not to kill. It is of a material that will do little damage with its flying pieces, but exploding it releases a powerful soporific which performs will compel the enemy to surrender to sleep. Before he wakes he can be handcuffed, and the rest will be a detail of transportation.

To show how little Germany knows of the way Americans have of settling affairs of honor, it is mentioned that students have instituted what they call the "American duel." The parties to a quarrel draw lots and the loser is in honor bound to commit suicide. Some one with a grudge against this country must have invented this idea of the code of honor.

If the craze for automobiles continues they will, before long, entirely supersede the use of the horse at the nation's capital, for not only have they become a fad with society people, but the shops, the express companies and the transit companies are rapidly adopting them.

FIGHTING IN PEKING.

Allies Bombard the Inner or "Forbidden City."

CHAFFEE CONFIRMS FORMER REPORTS

American Casualties Slight—Empress Dowager Said to Have Been Detained—Japanese Account of the Capture of the Capital.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—From General Chaffee yesterday the war department received official confirmation of the fall of Peking and the rescue of the besieged legation.

The dispatch of the American commander was not long and contained few details, but the unconcealed satisfaction with which it was received by officials of the administration indicated clearly the anxiety that had been engendered by his prolonged silence. His last communication to the government prior to the receipt of these advices was dated Aug. 11 at Matow, almost 30 miles from Peking. The explanation of his silence is suggested in advices received by the navy department from Admiral Remy, who, telegraphing from Taku on the 18th, says the telegraph line between that point and Peking is interrupted.

The cablegram from Admiral Remy contains some important information not mentioned by General Chaffee. He makes the startling statement, on Japanese authority, that the inner city of Peking was being bombarded by the allied forces. Admiral Remy says also that the dowager empress is detained in the inner city by Prince Yungedo.

Advices received from the foreign office at Tokyo by the Japanese legation in this city confirm and amplify previous accounts of the capture of Peking by the allied troops.

Following is the text of the dispatch from General Chaffee, dated Aug. 19, at Chifu, as made public by the war department:

"Peking, Aug. 15.—We entered legation grounds at 5 o'clock last night with Fourteenth and light battery. Eight wounded during day's fighting; otherwise all well."

The dispatch, which was received during the morning, was transmitted immediately to the president at the White House. He expressed his gratification at the news it contained, particularly at the small loss sustained by the American troops. A copy of the dispatch likewise was sent to Adjutant General Corbin, who is in New York.

It will be noted that the dispatch indicates that the American troops entered the legation grounds at 5 o'clock on the evening of the 14th inst. By the Washington officials and by the several legation officials to whom it was shown the date of General Chaffee's communication is regarded as an error of transmission. It is believed that the word "fifteenth" should be "sixteenth."

All previous advices, official and unofficial, have indicated that the legations were relieved on the evening of the 15th. Wednesday, after a day of sharp fighting. Minister Wu, the Chinese representative, and Minister Takahira of Japan were quite positive on this point, all their official advices being that entrance to the city of Peking was effected early in the evening of Wednesday, the 15th inst.

The fact that only the Fourteenth Infantry and Riley's battery entered the city, as shown by General Chaffee's dispatch, does not indicate that the Ninth Infantry and the marines, who were so conspicuously gallant throughout the advance upon the capital, did not participate in the engagement which resulted directly in the rescue of the besieged legation. It is pointed out as likely that General Chaffee, acting in consonance with the other commanders, divided his force, leaving the Ninth Infantry and the marines without the walls of the city to act as a rear guard to prevent the escape of Chinese troops by other gates than those through which the allies entered or for some other excellent reason. Only two battalions of the Fourteenth regiment are with General Chaffee. They comprise about 800 men. This would indicate that only about one-third of General Chaffee's force actually had entered the city at the time he sent his dispatch. The fact that only eight of the American force were wounded, none being killed, is regarded as notably fortunate.

Admiral Remy's dispatch, which contains much interesting information in few words, is as follows:
"Taku, 18th.—Telegraph line to Peking interrupted. Information, Japanese sources, empress dowager detained by Prince Yungedo, inner city, which is being bombarded by allies. Chaffee reports entered legation grounds evening 14th. Eight wounded during day's fighting; otherwise all well."

The startling feature of the dispatch is that fighting within the city of Peking was continuing, according to the advices of Admiral Remy. The inner, or, as it is popularly known, the Forbidden City, evidently had not been taken. It is surrounded by a massive wall of solid masonry more than 20 feet high, and it is not regarded as surprising that the Chinese should make their final stand within its shadows.

Prior to the receipt of the dispatch it was accepted generally as a fact that the dowager empress, in company with the emperor and a large suite, had left Peking. While nothing is said in Admiral Remy's advices as to the whereabouts of the emperor, it is deemed scarcely probable that he left the city without the dowager empress. Some doubt of the accuracy of the information received by Admiral Remy is expressed, particularly as the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu, is very positive that the emperor, dowager empress and the entire Chinese court left Peking before the arrival at the gates of the allies.

had gone, but it seemed probable that their destination was the capital of Shensi province. The minister believed they were entirely out of danger. The statement that the dowager empress was detained by Prince Yungedo, therefore, gave him little concern, although he expressed some interest in it. He said there was no Chinese Prince Yungedo. It is not a Chinese name. It might be, the minister thought, a Japanese name, but personally he knew of no such person.

At the Japanese legation the dispatch of Admiral Remy was read quite naturally with the deepest interest. There, however, it was said that Yungedo was not a Chinese name. No Japanese official of that name was known to the legation attaches. Their solution of the question raised by the dispatch was that the name should be Yung Lu. He is the commander in chief of the imperial Chinese troops and is said to have strong pro-foreign inclinations and sympathies.

Peking comprises practically four cities in one. In extent of area it is about the size of New York city. The four segments of it are the Chinese city, the Tartar city, the Imperial city, and the Forbidden city. The last is the "inner city" mentioned in Admiral Remy's dispatch and is the residence of the emperor and the seat of the imperial court. Nobody is allowed within its massive walls except by special permission of the emperor or empress dowager. The foreigners who have entered its gates are comparatively few in number. The imperial city is occupied only by the highest Chinese officials and members and attaches of the imperial court. Further information as to the reported bombardment will be awaited with keen interest.

The Japanese consul at Chifu wired the Japanese legation here, under date Aug. 17, to the following effect:

"The foreign forces attacked on the eastern side of Peking Wednesday morning. The enemy obstinately resisted. In the evening the Japanese blew up the Chiao Yang gate and the Tung Chih gate of the Tartar city and succeeded in entering. In the meantime other foreign forces entered the Chinese city by the Tung Pien gate. Detachments were sent immediately to the legations and opened communications. The ministers and staffs were found safe. The Japanese loss was over 100, including three officers—namely, Captain Michiye and Lieutenant Watanabe wounded, while Lieutenant Yazaki was killed. The Chinese loss computed at about 400."

Archbishop Ireland Speaks in Rome.

ROME, Aug. 20.—Yesterday being the feast of St. Joachim, the pope's patron saint, there was a large gathering at the Vatican of cardinals, bishops and presidents of societies. The pope, who was in excellent health and spirits, spoke at some length regarding matters of Catholic interest and then, with a complimentary introduction, invited Archbishop Ireland to address the assembly on matters in America and the relations of the latter world to the holy see. Mr. Ireland, who was frequently applauded during a speech of 20 minutes, spoke glowingly of the fidelity of American Catholics to the Roman church and the holy see. He described liberty under the American flag and set forth the necessity of the pope as the head of Christendom being free and independent to any one civil power, "so as to be in fact as well as of right the sovereign teacher and ruler of all nations and peoples, without special dependence on any special nation or people." The address gave visible satisfaction. Mr. Ireland had a final audience of the pope on Friday. He left Rome last evening.

A Mysterious Express Robbery.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The mystery of a $25,000 express robbery is perplexing officials of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company, the Commercial National bank of Chicago and the Adams Express company. The $25,000, which was in bills of large denomination, was shipped Friday morning by the bank through the express company over the Burlington road. Its destination was Burlington, Ia., and it was drawn to the account of the railroad company on the order of J. C. Peasley, the vice president and treasurer. Somewhere between Chicago and Burlington the package containing the money was opened, the currency abstracted, some folds of brown paper substituted and the parcel restored to its former appearance.

Mercantile Agency Manager Missing.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—No trace has been found of Charles F. Friedhold, the local manager of the R. G. Dun & Co. mercantile agency, who disappeared on July 28. Dun & Co. have given notice that a new manager will be appointed for the Elmira office. It is said that Friedhold is short in his accounts, but this Manager Cook of the Rochester office, who is in temporary charge of the Elmira office, refuses to affirm or deny. Friedhold's wife and two children are at their home here and say that they know nothing of his whereabouts and have not heard from him since his departure.

Miss Hay an Author.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Miss Helen Hay, the young daughter of the secretary of state, is about to publish a new book. It is entitled "The Little Boy Book" and is said to be a collection of humorous verses for children. She is also writing verses for a picture book entitled "Beasts and Birds," by Frank Verbeck, which is to appear in the fall. Miss Hay's first book, entitled "Some Verses," which was published a year or two ago, is a collection of serious poems, some of them in blank verse.

Morocco's Ugly Purpose.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail says: "The arrest of Morocco and Guida in New York arose out of some letters received at Brest's lodging subsequent to the assassination of King Humbert. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." DE WET'S BOLD MOVE

Demands Surrender of Baden-Powell's Force.

ROBERTS ISSUES VIGOROUS ORDERS.

Breakers of Oath to Be Punished With Death, Imprisonment or Fine—Burghers Must Take the Oath or Be Transported.

PRETORIA, Aug. 20.—General De Wet appeared Friday at North Commando nek, held by General Baden-Powell, and sent in a flag of truce asking the surrender of the British force. General Baden-Powell replied, asking what terms De Wet was prepared to offer.

De Wet is evidently moving eastward.
General Lord Roberts is issuing new severe and rigorous orders, rescinding
the one previously issued.

Lord Roberts' proclamation, after reciting the fact that many have broken the oath to maintain neutrality and that the leniency extended to the burghers is not appreciated, warns all who break their oaths in the future that they will be punished by death, imprisonment or fine. He declares that all burghers in districts occupied by the British except those who take the oath will be regarded as prisoners of war and transported and that buildings on farms where the enemy or his scouts are harbored will be liable to be razed.

Capture of British Reported.

DELAGOA BAY, Aug. 20.—General
De Wet has turned on the British, defeated them and captured 4,000 men, according to Boer reports here. Kitchenet and Buller have worn their commando to a shadow chasing him 1,000 miles over veldt and kopje, and now he has not only escaped, but turned and given a terrible blow to his pursuers.

New French Liner Gets In Port.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The new French transatlantic liner La Lorraine, from Havre, has arrived in port, but made no remarkable time on the trip over. The agents confidently expected that the steamer would arrive on Friday night, but the stiffness of the machinery caused the delay. Also for some time there was a little trouble with the engines. La Lorraine proved to be a fine sea boat, and many of the passengers remarked that the voyage was the smoothest they had ever experienced.
The new steamer measures 12,000 tons
gross and has engines of the triple expansion type with four cylinders which were built to develop 22,000 horsepower.
She is 580 feet 8 inches long, 60 feet 2 1/2 inches beam and 39 feet 4 inches deep.

Severe Drought In Kansas.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 20.—Two-thirds of Kansas west of the three easternmost tiers of counties is experiencing one of the most severe droughts in the history of the state, and the general opinion is that the Kansas corn crop will be the smallest in proportion to its requirements for feeding that has been raised in many years. In 1889 it was 225-000,000 bushels. Secretary Coburn's report of conditions on Aug. 4 indicated a yield this year of about 145,000,000 bushels. Since then there have been two weeks of hot, dry weather, which has further materially reduced conditions,
and the most liberal estimates of well informed men on 'change do not exceed 100,000,000 bushels, while many place
the crop at not over 75,000,000.

Louisiana Purchase Fair.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20.—Plans for the resumption of work on the World's fair fund of $5,000,000, which has been so often interrupted, are under daily consideration by Chairman David R. Francis and William H. Thompson of the two principal committees. Ex-Governor Francis expects to sail for Paris about Sept. 15 and hopes to have things in such shape by that time that the fund will be practically complete. The traveling men, who have been among the active workers for the fair, have asked permission to locate their special building first. Communications from United States consuls at different points indicate the interest that is being manifested in the Louisiana Purchase centennial abroad.

Small Cotton Crop.

ATLANTA, Aug. 20.—Commissioner
O. B. Stevens of the Georgia department of agriculture has compiled statistics indicating that the cotton crop of Georgia for 1900 will be from 50,000 to 200,000 bales shorter than in 1899. Commissioner Stevens, who, as president of the Cotton States Commissioners' association, receives reports from commissioners of the different states, is to the effect that the south as a whole is short.
Indications on the 1st of August were that every state in the cotton belt would be behind on the staple with the exception of Texas, reported to be 2 per cent ahead of the average crop of the last five years. The figures prepared by the department show that in Georgia an average crop for the last five years is 1,205-800 bales.

Kriegerbund Meets.

AKRON, O., Aug. 20.—The fifteenth annual convention of the North American Kriegerbund has begun here. There are 52 lodges in the organization, and it is expected that all will be represented.
There will be a big crowd at the parade today. Captain Herman Werner will be the chief marshal. Officers will be elected tomorrow. The business sessions will occur today and tomorrow, and Wednesday will be devoted to sightseeing.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Delegates from all the factories in which the cigar-makers are on strike met yesterday and considered the propositions for a settlement of the strike made by manufacturers.
They decided to submit the proposition to a vote of the strikers themselves.

POWERS MAKES A STATEMENT.

Says Trial by Which He Was Convicted Was a Judicial Farce.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., Aug. 20.—Cal-
leb Powers has issued a statement as follows:

"I am asked my opinion concerning
my trial and the verdict of the jury.
Could I have but one opinion? Can any fair minded man or woman of this state have but one? That one of the greatest judicial farces known to history has been enacted here in my trial under the forms of law no well informed man can doubt.
Innocence is no shield with $100,000 and the methods of Campbellism against you.
The rectitude of one's past life counts for naught. They say Taylor is guilty because he was at his office and that I am guilty because I was away from mine.

"This has been a political trial throughout for political purposes, and no greater mistake has been made by the Democratic party since they robbed us of the offices to which we were fairly elected by the people. There are good men and noble women in the Democratic party, and many of them. They are not all bad.
Far from it. A great many of them do not indorse the theft of the state offices.
A great many more will not indorse this mockery of a trial, this prostitution of the courts of justice for certain ends.
From the beginning of the campaign until now I have stood with what little of merit I have had for the rights and liberties of the people. That is my crime.
That is the only offense I have committed. That is the only thing proved against me. I swore to that myself in my testimony. I have never had and I now have no apology to make for being true to the trust imposed upon me by a majority of the voters of this state. History will draw its dark lines around those who have outraged me and disgraced the judiciary and blackened the history of the state."

THE CUBAN TEACHERS.

Their Experiences In Washington.
General Cisneros Warmly Greeted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—With cheers for Cuba, the United States and President McKinley and last, if not least, their hosts, the people of the District of Columbia, the 1,400 Cuban schoolteachers left the city at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon over the Pennsylvania railroad for New York. After the greater portion of the week spent there and in Philadelphia the entire party will embark on transports for Havana. The visitors were tired out thoroughly by their experiences of Saturday and enjoyed a good rest.

Yesterday their programme was a short
one. After an early breakfast most of them attended a solemn requiem mass at St. Patrick's church. After church they returned to the hotels, where they were grouped in squads and taken to the capitol, arriving there about 10 o'clock. The building was thrown open to the visitors, and a detachment of guards was on hand to escort them.

The Cubans affectionately greeted General Cisneros, the former president of Cuba, who is in the city. Many of them threw their arms around the old veteran's neck and covered his gray bearded face with kisses. The mention of his name was a signal for a vociferous demonstration, ending in cheers for the future "president of Cuba." The whole party are delighted with their experiences in all the American cities they have visited and with their reception by the president.

Cuban Teachers In New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The Cuban teachers who, after spending some time in and about Boston, passed through this city Friday on their way to Washington reached Jersey City last evening on the return trip. Ferryboats were in waiting, and the teachers at once went on board
them and started down the river for the transports on which they came from Boston to remain for the night. This morning they came up to the city, where elaborate arrangements had been made to entertain them.

For Grand Army Commander.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—The Chronicle says: "Major Leo Rausseur of St. Louis will be elected commander in chief of the Grand Army at the national encampment week after next. The other candidates for the place have one after another withdrawn from the race, and Saturday
the only one in the field was the St.

bench. Unless the unexpected should happen Major Rausseur will have no opposition. The position belongs to the west this year in accordance with the accepted rule of rotation in office."

ANOTHER stiff note has been sent to the Sultan reminding him that the long overdue indemnity for the destruction of American property in Armenia has not yet been paid. Unless they are prepared to keep up this note business indefinitely the government officials should seek sterner ways of bringing Abdul Hamid to terms. That impecunious monarch will hustle around to meet his obligation only when he sees a man-o'-war with its business ends ready to make him do his duty. The $90,000 is not so much to Uncle Sam, but the dignity involved is considerable.

"I MUST HAVE something better than these declarations against imperialism from William J. Bryan before I am ready to purchase his election at the cost of having a government that will sympathize with the disfranchisement of ten millions of Americans at home, that will stand for dishonoring the currency, for the overthrowing of the banking system, for assailing the integrity of the Supreme court, for sympathizing everywhere with Populism and Socialism, and which will be a substitute for the prosperity which has brought comfort into the homes of our workingmen, which has cleared off the indebtedness of the farmers, which has brought England herself to our shores as a borrower, which has made the balance of trade on our side and established forever the independence of American manufacture."—Senator George F. Hoar, Anti-Imperialist.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN at Albany, usually non partisan, last week discussed "Some Practical Politics." It speaks to the farmers as holding the balance of power in political affairs. Republican aspects of the canvass are considered in the more advanced state of development; and looking upon the gubernatorial nomination as between Payne, Wadsworth and Woodruff, it opposes Payne and Wadsworth because "they are open and active opponents of legislation to prevent the coloring of oleo in imitation of butter," and favors Woodruff who "has an unspotted record on agricultural measures, and more than that, is always ready and willing to take endless trouble for the cause of the farmer and is himself deeply interested in agriculture." The Lieutenant Governor is credited by the Country Gentleman with service for the State fair equal to all others put together, and to him it awards the credit of saving the fair from coming to a discreditable end. If the Republicans are to elect the Governor the Country Gentleman wants him to be a friend of the farmers: the Country Gentleman is sound in theory.

Political Points.

Says the Ithaca News of Saturday: Yesterday a News reporter took advantage of the fact that many visitors were in the city and interviewed a few of the more prominent ones in regard to the political situation in the surrounding country.

J. A. Titus of Poplar Ridge is quoted as follows: "Although Cayuga county is a strong Republican stronghold, the people are not satisfied with the present administration. The country was never so stirred up. I am not at all in favor of the policy of expansion, especially that of controlling foreign countries without giving them a voice in the government."

W. P. Sisson of Ledyard, a leading farmer of Cayuga county, is reported: "I am not a Democrat but I shall vote for Bryan. The question of the currency can wait: the all absorbing issue of the campaign must be the policy of imperialism. Many of the best Republicans in our town are opposed to the present policy of the administration which is leading the nation to destruction."

The News reporter failed to state if he met any people who viewed the situation in a different light. We are at a loss to know how any voter can disagree with the present "expansion" policy and vote for the man who, as Senator Hoar says, was responsible for the affirmation of the treaty which placed the administration in its "imperial" attitude.

Rogers—Mastin.

A very pretty home wedding occurred at the residence of Mr. A. A. Mastin on Wednesday, Aug. 22, when his daughter, Elma Lenore, was united in marriage to Mr. William Claire Rogers of Annapolis Junction, Md. Promptly at 1:30 o'clock, the bridal party descended the broad, colonial staircase to the strains of the wedding march from Wagner's "Lohengrin" admirably played by Miss Estelle Adelaide Leach of Ilion. Rev. Lynn Rogers of Wilson, brother of the groom, preceded and took his place in the parlor where the ceremony was performed. Next came the groom and the best man, Mr. Harris Marks of Baldwinsville. Lastly came the bride and the maid of honor, her cousin, Miss Jenny Lind Robinson of Cortland. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white mull and carried white roses; the maid of honor wore white organdie and carried pink roses. The beautiful and impressive ring service was used. The ceremony took place in the northeast corner of the parlor which was elaborately decorated with clematis vine, ferns and potted plants. The trimmings were very beautiful, owing to the artistic hand of Mr. Albert D. Mead. Festoons of evergreen from each corner of the ceiling met in the center, giving the effect of a canopy. The large old-fashioned fireplace was banked with ferns, and cut flowers adorned the mantel. Here and there throughout the spacious rooms were handsome bouquets and touches of green, adding beauty and cheer to the occasion.

After the marriage was solemnized and congratulations were received, an excellent dinner was served, evidencing the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hagin. The guests then viewed the gifts which were many, useful and handsome, and chatted pleasantly until the hour arrived for the happy couple's departure. There was much fun on the part of the young people in throwing rice and playing other customary tricks.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers accompanied by Rev. Lynn Rogers and family drove to Auburn where they were to take the train for a short trip. After a few days, they will return to Genoa to prepare for their journey to Maryland. After October 1st they will be at home at Annapolis Junction where Mr. Rogers is manager of the National Junior Republic. The friends of the bride and groom hold them both in high esteem and wish them all the happiness which they so well deserve.

About sixty guests were present, those from out of town being as follows: Rev. and Mrs. Lynn Rogers, Wilson; Mrs. W. E. Rogers, Wellsville; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thome, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Potter, Miss Jennie W. S. Felldin, Mr. Ray Hunt, Auburn; Mr. Wm. R. George, Mr. Willard E. Hotchkiss, Freeville; Mrs. Lida G. Rogers, Geneva; Miss Helen M. Townley, Ithaca; Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Helen L. Robinson, Miss Jenny L. Robinson, Cortland; Miss Estelle A. Leach, Ilion; Mr. and Mrs. F. Sullivan, Union Springs; Mrs. Emma Newman, Honolulu, H. I.; Mr. Harris E. Marks, Baldwinsville.

—The railroad situation. According to the most reliable information we are able to get, the situation may be summed up as follows: The State Commission has signified its willingness to grant a charter to the applicants as soon as the necessary 1/4 of 1 per cent is paid to the state, in this case amounting to $500. This has not yet been paid in and consequently the charter has not been delivered. No one in this county appears to know the reason for the delay, Attorney Rich saying that he was at a loss to know the occasion for the tardy proceedings. He says, however, that in the event of the failure of this company to build that another will surely be formed principally from Cayuga county men and that the building of the road is only a question of time, or words to that effect. This much is certain: The action of the State Railroad commissioners establishes the fact that the road is considered a public convenience and necessity. Along at this time comes also the report of a letter received by Mr. Morgan from Mr. Robles, stating that "the rails have been bought and

PEKING CITY ON FIRE

Chinese Q. st. Growing More Serious.

LONDON HEARS FROM ADMIRAL BRUCE

Threatening Reports From Shanghai—Southern Mandarin Accept Foreign Invasion as a Just Punishment to Boxers.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Rear Admiral Bruce cables the admiralty from Chefoo Aug. 19, as follows:

"Am informed on the authority of the Japanese that street fighting still continues in Peking, part of which is on fire.

"Yang Sa prevented the empress from leaving, and a last stand is now being made in the inner city, which is surrounded by the allies and being bombarded."

Rear Admiral Bruce's report of the continuation of fighting in Peking puts a more serious aspect upon the Chinese situation than was generally expected here. It appears effectually to dispose of all statements that the empress dowager has fled, although circumstantial accounts of her departure continue to come from Shanghai.

Despite defeat, the Chinese are apparently resolved to make a desperate struggle not only in their ancient capital but also in other parts of the empire. Chang Chi Tung, viceroy at Hankow, and Lin Kunyi, viceroy at Nankin, according to advices from Shanghai, have threatened the consuls that if the person of the empress dowager is not respected they will withdraw from their present friendly attitude.

Another Shanghai dispatch announces the death of Li Ping Heng, Cheng and Chang Lui Lin in the fighting before Peking.

The mandarins in the southern provinces, according to a dispatch to The Daily Express from Hongkong, have issued an important proclamation recognizing the capture of Peking as a just punishment of reactionary officials and warning the people not to interfere with foreigners, but also pointing out that the sole object of the powers should be the punishment of the Boxers and then the restoration of peace, confining, however, their operations to the north.

Emperor Nicholas has wired to General Linevitch, commander of the Russian troops in the province of Pechili, congratulating him heartily upon the rapid capture of Peking and bestowing upon him the third class Order of St. George. The Russian emperor also thanks Vice Admiral Alexieff and the "heroic Siberian troops."

France Honors Her Minister.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The French government has received from several sources official confirmation of the news of the fall of Peking and the safety of the foreign legations. The Order of Commander of the Legion of Honor has been bestowed upon M. Pichon, French minister to China. Yesterday M. Delcasse, the foreign minister, visited M. Pichon's mother in Paris, announced to her the safety of her son and handed to her the decoration for him.

Newchwang Taken by Russians.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 20.—The Belgian foreign office has received the following from Tientsin via Chefoo and Shanghai, Aug. 18: "M. Ketels, Belgian vice consul, confirms the report of the bombardment and the capture of Newchwang by the Russians."

Fighting in Peking Streets.

ROME, Aug. 20.—A dispatch from Taku via Chefoo, Aug. 18, says: "Fighting continues in the streets of Peking, and the allies have bombarded the point that is still resisting. Prince Yung prevented the departure of the empress dowager."

Date of Fight Changed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The management of the Seaside Athletic club has again changed the date of the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey fight. The date originally set for the contest was Aug. 24, but on account of the great crowd that would be drawn to the island on the 25th to see the Futurity stakes run the management with a view of obtaining an increased attendance made the date of the bout Saturday, Aug. 25. Tom O'Rourke, acting for the Seaside Athletic club, announces that in compliance with a general request the fight will take place on the original date, Friday, Aug. 24.

Labor Refuses Information.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—R. E. Durand, an agent of the United States Industrial commission, visited a meeting of the Central Federated union of this city to ask the union to furnish information to the commission. He was armed with printed schedules of questions about strikes, arbitration, union funds, benefits and other matters which he wanted filled out. Mr. Durand explained at length the object of his visit, but the union refused to supply what he asked.

IN MEMORY OF HUMBERT.

Impressive Ceremonies in Washington in Honor of Italy's Late King.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—A number of scenes of impressive solemnity and in the presence of the president of the United States, members of the cabinet, officers of the army and navy, the ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries and a great concourse of people from civil life the memorial services for the late King Humbert I of Italy were held at St. Matthew's Catholic church at 11 o'clock yesterday. The announcement of the services was made by the Italian ambassador, Baron Fava, and, with the co-operation of the state department, the event was given a distinctly official character. The foreign representatives were in full diplomatic uniform, and were with the brilliant uniforms of the British, German, Austrian and other military attaches and of the American generals and

ing to the solemn pageantry.

The church had been decorated elaborately for the occasion. Around the sanctuary and on all sides rose a mass of palms and foliage plants, while the beautiful white marble altar stood out from a forest of tall and graceful palms. Immediately in front of the chancel rail stood the catafalque, a counterpart of that in which the dead monarch recently was laid to rest at Rome. Over it was thrown a heavy black pall edged with white, and on top was a great garland of laurel and smilax leaves tied with flowing ribbons of red, white and green, the colors of Italy. At the head and foot of the casket tall candelabra burned, and the morning sun coming through the chancel window, fell athwart this somber memorial. A superb wreath of purple asters and roses, sent by the British embassy, rested alongside the casket.

Baron Fava, in the full uniform of high diplomatic rank and wearing the decoration conferred on him by King Humbert shortly before his death, stood at the main entrance of the church and received the distinguished arrivals. He was assisted by Marquis Romano and the military attache of the embassy.

Just at 11 o'clock President McKinley and the members of his cabinet arrived at the church. Baron Fava stepped forward and received the president, escorting him down the middle aisle to a seat immediately in front of the catafalque. With the president were Secretary Hitchcock, Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, Acting Secretary of State Adee and the president's secretary, Mr. Cortelyou. As the presidential party took their seats the strains of the organ floated through the edifice, and the black and white robed acolytes, the procession of priests to the altar. The service consisted of high mass, the usual sermon being omitted. At the close of the mass the priests put aside their white vestments for those of black and, descending from the sanctuary, moved about the casket, sprinkling it with holy water, praying for the repose of the soul of the dead king and chanting the "Requiescat In Pace."

Italians Honor Humbert's Memory.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The Italian societies of Brooklyn honored the memory of King Humbert yesterday by a parade and memorial services. Fifteen hundred men went over the line of march. Directly behind Grand Marshal Yamamoto was a heavily draped hearse drawn by four mourning draped horses. The hearse contained a black cloth covered casket with gold mountings. This was intended to be representative of the conveyance of the royal casket to its last resting place. At the head of the casket was placed on a catafalque, and the Italian and American colors were draped around it. The exercises, opened by M. Pastore, were marked by the singing of the royal Italian anthem. After that the principal features were addresses in Italian by Vice Consul Fernando Pratt and Professor Giuseppe Cadicarno and one in English by J. Grattan McMahon of Brooklyn.

Cuba at the Fair.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The island of Cuba, with her exhibit at the Paris exposition, has achieved a notable success. The exhibit received 140 prizes. The achievement of the island was made the subject of a cablegram received by Secretary of War Root from Senor Quesada, in charge of the Cuban exhibit at the exposition. Mr. Quesada's cablegram follows: "Great success. Cuba obtains 140 prizes. Please convey to president and cabinet Cuba's gratitude for interest and support in giving us an opportunity to show our resources and progress."

The Sinking of the Framee.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The board of inquiry which investigated the cause of the loss of the torpedo boat destroyer Framee, which was sunk in a collision with the battleship Brenus on the night of Aug. 11 during the maneuvers of the French squadron commanded by Vice Admiral Fournier off Cape St. Vincent, officially reports that the disaster was due to a misunderstanding of an order on the part of the Framee's helmsman, who turned the destroyer in the direction opposite to the instructions of her commander, Captain Manduit du Plessis.

Shot by a Drummer.

RHINELANDER, Wis., Aug. 20.—William F. Fenelon, one of Rhineland's foremost citizens, was shot and killed by J. Bascom Robbins, a salesman for a Chicago crockery company. Robbins, it is alleged, insulted one of the women clerks in Fenelon & Co.'s store, and Fenelon drove the salesman out of the establishment and pursued him to within a block of his hotel. Fenelon later went to the hotel, and as he entered the office Robbins, who was standing near the desk, fired, killing him instantly. Robbins was arrested.

Mr. Bryan's Sunday.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 20.—General James B. Weaver of Iowa arrived here yesterday on his way to Kansas, where he will make several speeches. He visited Mr. Bryan at the latter's residence in the evening, and they discussed the campaign at length. General Weaver expressed himself as much encouraged regarding the outlook. Mr. Bryan attended church in the morning and went driving in the afternoon.

National League Games.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Two games of baseball were played yesterday in the west. The St. Louis nine went down before the Cincinnati on the home grounds. The score stood 5 to 3. At Chicago the New Yorks were defeated by the home team by a score of 2 to 1.

Major Hoff will be the chief surgeon on the staff of General Chaffee and will have charge of the establishment of field hospitals for the army.

Mother and Son Die of Hydrophobia.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Mrs. James Strathie of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., is dead after suffering for a week from well defined symptoms of hydrophobia. A month ago Mrs. Strathie's son died of the same disease, both mother and child having been bitten by a playful puppy. It was not until the son's death that the dog was killed and found to be diseased.

CAMP STORIES

KEENAN'S CHARGE.

How 300 Men Saved the Union Army at Chancellorsville by a Deed of Matchless Daring.

This stirring story in rhyme recalls a sad though heroic incident of the battle of Chancellorsville. Gen. Howard's corps (the Eleventh) had been surprised and put to a disastrous rout by Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson's army in that unsurpassed flank movement which will go down upon the pages of history as one most remarkable. Gen. Birney's division of Gen. Sickles' corps (the Third) was the first to feel the shock of the terrible disaster from the victorious foe. Gen. Birney turned to Gen. Pleasanton, that superb cavalry leader, who happened to be near by, to stem the tide until he could get his men in position. This is touchingly and strikingly portrayed in the following verses written by an unknown author soon after the battle:

KEENAN'S CHARGE.
(Chancellorsville, May 2, 1863.)
The sun had set;
The leaves with dew were wet—
Down fell a bloody dusk
On the woods, that second of May,
Where Stonewall's corps, like a beast of prey,
Tore through with angry tusk.

"They've trapped us, boys!"
Rose from our flank a voice.
With a rush of steel and smoke
On came the rebels straight,
Eager as love and wild as hate,
And our lines reeled and broke;
Broke and fled.
No one stayed but the dead!
With curses, shrieks and cries
Horses and wagons and men
Tumbled back from shuddering glen,
And above us the fading skies.

There is one hope still—Those batteries parked on the hill!
"Battery, wheel!" (mid the roar)
Pass pieces fix, prolong to fire
Retiring "Trot!" in the panic dire,
A bugle rings "Trot!"—and no more.

The horses plunged,
The cannon lurched and lunged
To join the hopeless rout.
But suddenly rode a form
Calmly in front of the human storm,
With a stern, commanding shout:

"Align those guns!"
(We knew it was Pleasanton's).
The cannoners bent to obey,
And worked with a will at his word;
And the black guns moved as if they had heard.
But, ah! the dread delay!

"To wait is crime;
O God! for ten minutes' time!"
The general looked around.
There Keenan sat, like a stone,
With his three hundred horse alone,
Less shaken than the ground.

"Major, your men—"
"Are soldiers, general." "Then
Charge, major! D your best.
Hold the enemy back at all cost,
Till my guns are placed, else the army is lost.
You'll die to save the rest!"

Then by the shrouded gleam of the western skies
Brave Keenan looked into Pleasanton's eyes
For an instant, clear and cool and still,
Then with a smile said: "I will!"

"Cavalry, charge!" Not a man of them shrank.
Their sharp, full cheer, from rank on rank,
Rose joyously, with a willing breath—
Rose like a greeting hail to death.
Then forward they sprang, and spurred
And clashed;

Shouted the officers in crimson sash'd;
Rode well the men, each brave as his fellow.
In their faded coats of blue and yellow,
And above in the air with an instinct true,
Like a bird of war their pennon flew.

With a clank of scabbards and a thunder of steeds,
And blades that shine like sunlit reeds,
And strong brown faces bravely pale

THEN FORWARD THEY SPRANG.

For fear their proud attempt should fail,
Three hundred Pennsylvanians close
On twice ten thousand gallant foes.

Line after line the troops that came To the edge of the wood that was ring'd
with flame,
Rode in and sabred and shot and fell;
And no one came back his wounds to tell.

And full in the midst rose Keenan, tall
In the gloom, like a martyr awaiting his fall,
While a circle-stroke of his saber swung
Round his head, like a halo there, luminous hung.

Line after line; aye, whole platoons,
Struck dead in their saddles of brave dragoons
By the maddened horses were onward
borne,
And into the vortex flung, trampled and torn.

As Keenan fought with his men, side by

So they rode till there was no more to ride.
But, over them, lying there shattered and mute
What deep echo rolls? 'Tis a death salute
From the cannon in place; for heroes, you braved
Not in vain; the army was saved!

Over them now—year following year—
Over their graves the pine cones fall,
And the whip-poor-will chants his spectral
calls;
But they stir not again; they raise no
cheer—
They have ceased. But this glory shall never cease,
Nor their light be quenched in the light of peace!

The ruin of their charge is a sad story still.
What saved the army at Chancellorsville?
"The Charge of the Light Brigade"
at Balaklava has been said the world over as written in the annals of war
of Lord Tennyson. Yet Maj. Keenan's charge at Chancellorsville, with his 300 gallant Pennsylvanians, will go down upon the brightest pages of history as an example of unsurpassed bravery and true heroism, comparing favorably with Lord Cardigan's charge with his brave 600 at Balaklava. While the former with his heroic followers gave their lives to save the army, which they did save, the latter sacrificed the lives of his men for naught, as the result of a blunder of a staff officer.—
D. H. Tarbell, in "Troy Times."

HEROIC OLD SCOUNDREL.

That Was What They Called the Major But He Knew How to Fight.

"There wasn't a man at the officers' mess but despised the major," said an old army captain, relates the New York Sun, talking to some friends the other night. "We all felt that he distinctly lowered the social tone of the regiment. He was sullen and loutish and slovenly, with the air of a man who had proved false in some crisis and who had a grudge against fate for his own misdeeds. He was full of mean, contemptible ways. Besides, he drank heavily and would lie for days at a time in a drunken stupor. "We would have got rid of him on charges but for the fact that he could fight. It was in the early days of the campaign in the Tennessee valley, and there was plenty of fighting to do. In battle the major became another man. The boys forgot his ugly and contemptible ways, and I guess the major himself did. Then we got a glimpse of the man as he must have been before some great trial spoiled him. His eyes lost their dull and filmy look and blazed beneath his shaggy brows, and under his soiled uniform his frame took on the commanding lines of the soldier. In the noise and smoke his manhood had a brief and savage resurrection. "Somehow, before the regiment knew it, on such occasions, it was following the major lickety-split in a dashing charge, or taking his orders as it stood grimly in line waiting attack. The colonel and lieutenant colonel, good fellows though they were, did only a thinking part. It was the major who was doing all the fighting, and the boys knew it. "After every battle we would treat the major with respect for a little while. Our regiment was winning glory. The colonel got the thanks of congress and the general of the brigade got a promotion, but we all knew it was that mean cuss, the major, who did it. We tried to be nice to him, but he always spoiled things. Once we actually got up a banquet in his honor, after he had led the regiment brilliantly in three successive days of fighting in the woods. But he drank himself under the table and into a prolonged debauch, and the next day the regiment went into battle under the colonel and was on the run until nightfall.

"I think we were all relieved when the major disappeared once for good. It made the officers' mess more congenial. But the regiment never amounted to much after that. While it began the war brilliantly, it ended it in disgrace, and our brigadier is unofficially on record with the statement that the only good charge we made in those last years was once on the sutler's tent. The war department never knew why our record was so uneven. It was all on account of that heroic old scoundrel, the major."

Status of the Brigadier.
In January, 1862, when Judah P. Benjamin was secretary of war of the

from the chairman of the military committee of congress, he announced that the construction placed by the war department on the law was that brigadier generals were not officers, generally, independently of any particular command; but, on the contrary, under section six of the act of March 6, 1861, held their offices "only while the brigades were in service." According to this ruling, says the Chicago Chronicle, not a few so-called brigadier generals lost their rank and title when not in service with a brigade. "In practice," added Mr. Secretary Benjamin, "the assignment of brigadier generals has been made by the president where the body of troops did not exceed the number sufficient for a single brigade; as, for instance, Gen. Withers at Mobile, or Gen. Lawton at Savannah. A brigadier general is never appointed without ascertaining in advance that there are a sufficient number of regiments ready to form a brigade for the general so appointed."

Well, well! After all, we couldn't expect anything else with Beebe in the box. The Ludlowville boys came to town Saturday to play ball, and with them came numerous admirers who brought along some money and left it when they went back to Ludlowville.

Barr was on the rubber for the visitors but for two reasons he was not effective: firstly because Genoa's sluggers are no longer afraid of his curves, and secondly because he didn't have the best kind of support. Harry Barr, the visitors' regular catcher, is laid off with an injured ankle and occupied an arm chair whence he cheered his players with lusty words of praise or rebuked them in a laughable manner. Buckley, said to be a Cortland league catcher, filled Harry Barr's position.

DID YOU SEE SHERLOCK CATCH THAT HIGH ONE?

Some of the Ludlowville band were in town and assisted the Genoa boys in a little music prior to the game. Messrs. Campbell and A. A. Miller were umpires and their good work was badly marred by two decidedly unfair decisions on the part of the latter. The attendance was the largest of the season. The score:

Ludlowville 0 0 1 0 0 3 0 0 2—6
 Genoa 1 0 5 2 1 4 0 0 *—13

Tuesday the local team went to Ludlowville where they met and defeated for the third time the Ithaca Cycle Club team. The game was played at Ludlowville because no grounds could be reasonably secured. McDermott pitched a fine game for Genoa and the team work was excellent throughout. Here's hoping the boys will do as well at Ludlowville tomorrow. The score of Tuesday:

"Yes," answered the precise man. "But perhaps the metaphor is open to question. There's no doubt about his being as slippery as a fish. But he hasn't nearly so much backbone."—Washington Star.

The Campaign of 1900

Is now open and is probably the most important since 1860, and the issues are just as important, just as well defined, and more numerous than ever before, and these vital facts together with what is happening every day in all parts of the world, make it imperative and necessary that the intelligent man, woman and child should read the newspapers. It is the only way to keep posted, to keep in touch with the political, military and social events, and to enable the voter to cast his ballot for what he knows he wants. To enable one and all to prepare for this national event, the following campaign offers are now quoted: When taken in connection with the GENOA TRIBUNE, the Tri-Weekly World one year 65c; the Tri-Weekly Tribune one year 80c; Weekly Tribune 25c; Semi-Weekly Post-Standard (Syracuse) 50c; Rochester Democrat and Chronicle 55c; New York Daily Press $4.50. The GENOA TRIBUNE is $1.00 per year; 50 cents for six months. Send through your postmaster or address
