CAPTURE PIG AT SEA HEADED FOR EUROPE

Swimming Porker Explodes Old Theory About Cutting Throats With Feet.

A small white pig was found swimming across the Atlantic by two Staten Island fishermen, says the New York World. The pig, name and address unknown, was in perfect health, thus dissipating an age-old theory that a swimming swine will cut its own throat with its feet.

Charles and Frederick Petersen, prominent citizens of Tottenville, S. I., went fishing three miles off shore from Keyport, N. J. They were drifting in their motorboat when Charles glimpsed something swimming nearby. The brothers agreed it was a sea turtle and decided to capture it.

One of the brothers boarded the dinghy, overtook the swimmer and brought him aboard. It was a nice young shoat, weight thirty pounds. They carried him back to Tottenville and intend to make a hog of the doleful.

Frederick Petersen is chiefly interested in the busted scientific theory. It is thought the shoat fell from a steamer.

POLICE HOLD BOY SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

John Brandt, a neatly dressed bright-eyed lad of thirteen, is held at the Children's society in New York as an "incorrigible" at the request of the police of Norfolk, Va. John admitted that he had run away from home when eight years old and had been traveling ever since he was ten. He said he had been on the Mexican border, had visited army camps and knew how to handle a rifle.

EMIGRATION IS HEAVY

More People Leaving United States Than Are Coming In.

Emigration is exceeding immigration in the United States for the first time since 1907, figures compiled by the immigration bureau show.

In July, August, September, October and November immigrants to America numbered 125,000, while the emigrants totaled 144,000. The same tendency existed in November, incomplete figures show. During the five months 1,000 Greeks landed in America, whereas 11,500 of this race returned to the old world. Emigration to Italy is also heavy.

Mexicans are replacing the Italian and Greeks in this country as section hands.

TO OPEN MILLION ACRES

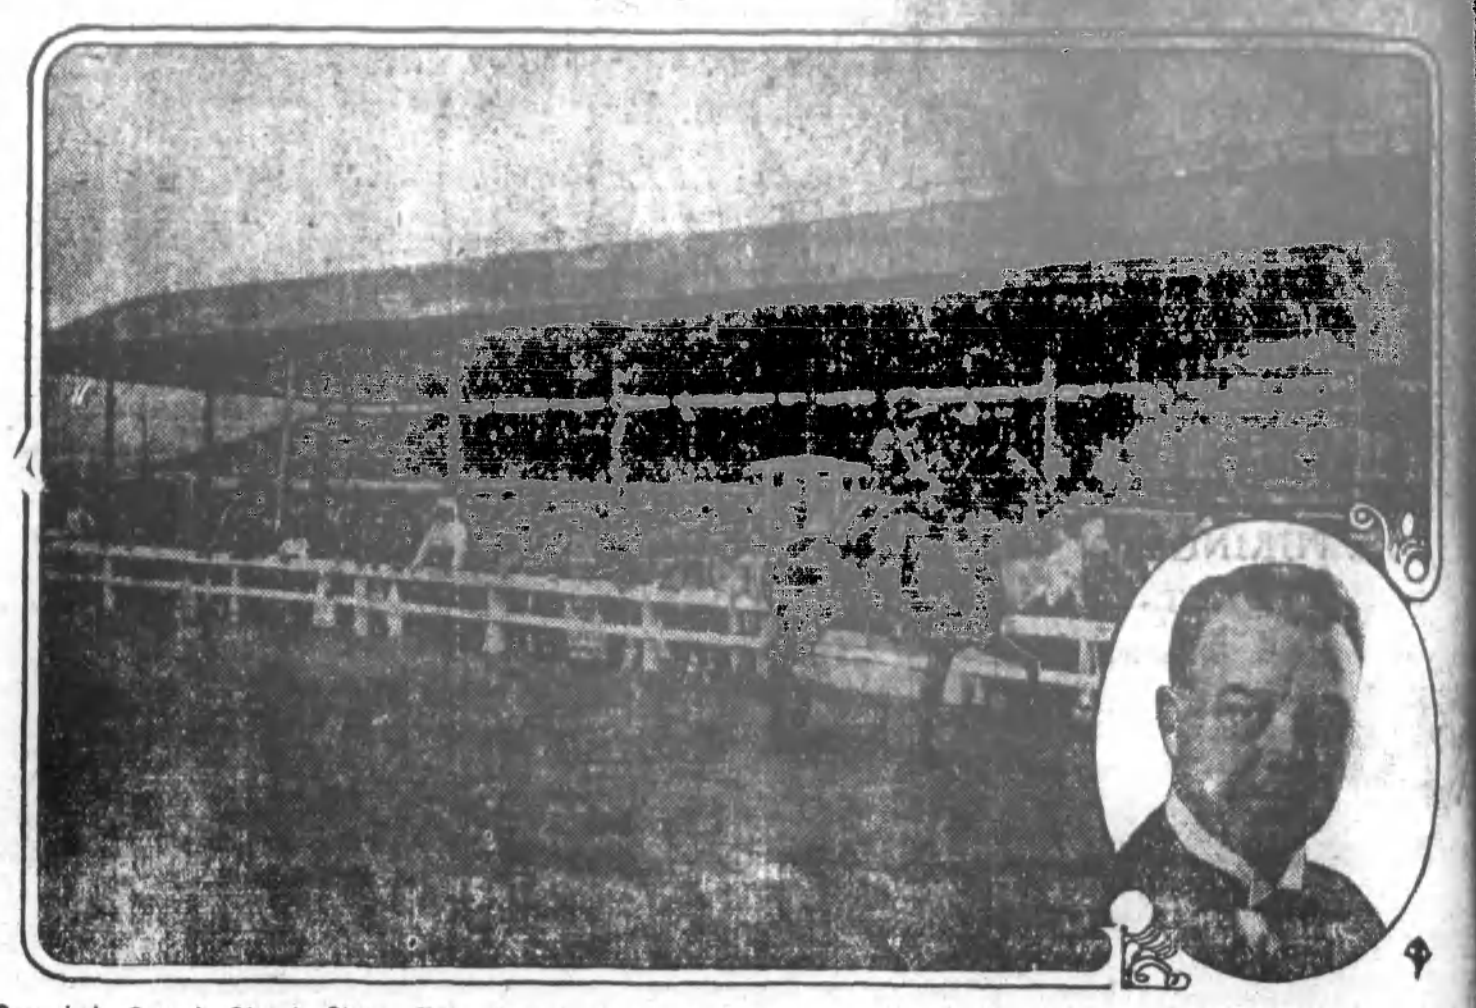

Land in Alaska to Be Available Under Public Domain Laws.

According to the report of Alexander T. Vogelsang, acting secretary of the Interior of Alaska, more than 1,000,000 acres of agricultural land has been surveyed in Alaska so that it may be available for entry and patent under the public domain laws.

A considerable portion of this land is within country traversed by or tributary to the government railroad now being constructed in Alaska. New townships have been established on the public lands along the line of the railroad.

Crowded Grand Stand State Fair—Insert Lieutenant-Governor Harry C. Walker, President of the State Fair Commission.

EIGHTIETH STATE FAIR PROMISES NEW RECORD

FARM MACHINERY EXHIBIT AND DEMONSTRATIONS OF GREAT VALUE TO PUBLIC.

All Products Useful in Agriculture to Be Put to Real Tests for Benefit of Farmers—Attractions Will Be Best Obtainable in the Land—The Great Locklear to Be Seen Again.

The New York State Fair will celebrate this year its eightieth anniversary. Unfolded during these long years in the development of this institution is a panorama which constitutes a series of epochs illustrating the gradual but certain transition from the man-made farm of three-quarters of a century ago to the machine-made farms, with their great productiveness, of today.

It is a story of the progress made in all branches of agriculture, science and industry necessary to the future of the United States.

The resources of the country were called upon to win a world war. The resources of the country today are taxed to prevent world starvation. The resources of New York State are being stimulated as never before to meet the demand for farm products in a crisis where the progress of the nation is of serious concern.

The State Fair has developed from an amusement center to an educational institution with far-reaching results.

Beginning on September 13 and continuing through September 18 this exposition, to which is attracted annually so many thousands of husbandmen and their families, will provide more agricultural and industrial sensations than has been experienced during any week of its existence.

Here will be demonstrated all of the useful implements in the operation of the present day farm. The shortage of farm labor and the demand for increased production are matters of which the members of the State Fair Commission have taken cognizance for several years. In their deliberation the members have sought to find a solution for one of the great problems which confronts the state, and they feel that the issue will be more easily met if there is cohesion among the men to whom is left that vital matter of increased production.

The idea of the commission is to prepare a display of farm machinery and farm implements which will include a practical demonstration of each and every machine created for the purpose of shortening labor and aiding production. There is no type of machinery that will be missing from the State Exposition.

It has been always the aim of the Commission to provide means for demonstrating the various machines for the economic development of the soil to the harvesting processes, which for many years the lack of adequate space prevented.

Big Demonstration Field.
 Fortunately the members of the leg-

hibit in Syracuse in the value of the cash prizes.

State Institution Exhibits.
 The building erected for the demonstration of the products of the various state institutions was given over during the last two years to a governmental army and navy exhibit. This year the state institutions will come back into their own. The citizens of the state are intensely interested in the institutions in the state. They pay the taxes which support these institutions and they desire to know how the money is expended.

In this commodious structure will be seen a Conservation Commission exhibit, a Highway Commission exhibit, the system of waterways under the department of the State Engineer, the products of the Forestry College, exhibits by the institutions for the indigent and the disabled, the products from the educational institutions of the state—in fact, every feature developed by the various state departments.

It is expected that there will be an unusually large attendance of rural visitors the first day of the Fair. This will be Syracuse Day, which is in charge of a committee of citizens appointed by the Mayor of Syracuse. The heads of the manufacturing interests of Syracuse, together with the merchants of the city, are interested in making the first day a record day. It will be a record in the athletic annals of the city. Each factory will have a team of trained athletes in competition in numerous athletic events. During the day the famous navigator and acrobat of the skies, Lieutenant Omer Locklear, will perform his hair raising feat of leaving one aeroplane for another, one of the most thrilling sky spectacles ever produced.

The fleetest and best bred horses in the country are entered for the Grand Circuit races, which will be seen in the finale of sports for the day.

There will be big fields and these equine thoroughbreds will race for rich purses in events which today are historic in the annals of the Grand Circuit. For five days the trotters and pacers driven by the most expert reinsmen in the world will be a feature of the Fair.

isolation, who have always taken a personal interest in the progress of the State Fair, voted an appropriation three years ago which made it possible to acquire eighty acres of land as an addition to the fair grounds, which have been seeded and upon which the farm machinery exhibitors will be turned to show their best during the six days of the exposition.

Over these rich broad acres, in the presence of thousands of deeply interested spectators, will sweep the coughing tractors, the swift moving cutters and the almost human threshing machines to illustrate the last word in machinery for the planting, growing and harvesting of grain.

There is no farmer in the state who can afford to miss the advantages of this demonstration. During all of the years he has been a unit in agricultural production he has never had an opportunity to witness such a spectacle as the State Fair Commission has prepared for him. The education he obtains at this farm machinery carnival will mean an increase in his annual bank account, while the state and country at large will benefit in richer and better crops which tend to decrease the present cost of living.

There are millions invested in the live stock business of New York State. When a live stock magnate will pay nearly a hundred thousand dollars for a sire for his herd it provides an example of the development of the cattle breeding industry. The greatest and most productive cattle, swine, sheep and horses are raised in this state.

From the state have been shipped the finest products of the various bovine breeds to restore the strain in countries devastated by the war. To those who are interested in dairy cattle there is no better opportunity to study the history and the record of cattle than may be found at this State Fair.

And when a breeder consents to ship the most valuable members of his herds to Syracuse he must be assured of their safety. One of the reasons it is possible to examine the highest bovine types at the Syracuse Exposition is the confidence displayed by the breeders and the dairymen in the sanitary condition of the State Fair cattle building. This structure was erected at a cost of $200,000, and embodies the latest means to safeguard the cattle from sickness and disease. While the competition for the blue ribbons of the State Fair is of the keenest, there is an added incentive to ex-

FOR FAIR VISITORS

Syracuse Chamber of Commerce
 Busy Locating Available Rooms.

Alive to the difficulty experienced by some visitors to the State Fair in obtaining rooming accommodations the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce has been busy for months listing all of the rooms in private residences which may be rented during the fair. The home owners of Syracuse have responded in a most encouraging manner and it is figured that thousands of visitors to the city during the big exhibition in September can be accommodated in this way.

People who wish to reserve rooms in private Syracuse homes are requested to write to the Secretary of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce who will be glad to furnish location of homes where rooms may be had, description of accommodations and prices.

The people of Syracuse look for a record crowd this year and they are anxious to have visitors impressed with the city's hospitable spirit.

HOSPITAL AT FAIR GROUNDS.

The State Fair Commission is doing everything possible in providing for the comfort of the women and children who visit the big exposition in September. A completely equipped hospital in charge of physicians standing high in the medical profession and trained nurses, will be available to all in case of sickness or accident. Besides a large number of rest rooms will be at the disposal of the mothers. In the Women's Building it will be possible for mothers to turn the care of babies over to competent attendants of the department. No charge is made by the Fair Commission for any of this service.

Forty-five veterans of the old 19th Regiment, N. Y. Volunteers, held their 49th annual reunion in G. A. R. hall, Auburn, on July 29. This number is about the total of those left who were able to attend the reunion. Of the 4,000 who joined that company back in '61 scarcely 200 are left.

A fine dinner was served by the Ladies of the G. A. R. in the rear of the hall. The regular session began at 2 o'clock with Mayor A. P. Burkhardt making the address of welcome. This was responded to by Charles D. Bingham, president of the association.

State Commander Alfred E. Stacey of Elbridge was present and made an address, and Rev. Edward L. James pronounced the invocation and made a few appropriate remarks. A fine program of singing was carried out.

An especial feature was a song written by William Anderson, a member of the Old Nineteenth, entitled "The Song to the Flag."

The Associated Tours Guide.

The Automobile Club of America announces that the 1920 edition of the Associated Tours Guide, which has become so popular with motorists throughout the country in past years, is now ready for distribution.

Thousands of motorists each year plan to take their vacation by motoring with their families to some prominent resort. Some like the country and mountains, others, the seashore, and, with this in view, the Bureau of Tours of The Automobile Club of America has compiled the Associated Tours Guide for the benefit of motorists in general.

Copies of the 1920 edition of the Associated Tours may be obtained by remitting the price, fifty cents, to the Bureau of Tours of The Automobile Club of America, 247 West 54th Street, New York City.

Big Apple Crop.

With predictions for the largest apple crop in years both for New York state and the United States as a whole, and the probability of a serious car shortage in the East, together with the present scarcity and high price of barrels and pickers, New York apple growers will have to study more carefully than ever before ways and means of harvesting and marketing their large crop, says the college of agriculture at Ithaca.

According to the forecast of the federal bureau of crop estimates, conditions July 1 indicated that this year's apple crop in New York state will run about 13 per cent over the bumper crop of 1918 and 126 per cent over that of last year.

Officers of Firemen's Association.

John W. Illston of Cortland was re-elected president of the Central New York Volunteer Firemen's Association at the concluding session of the 27th annual convention in Ithaca last week.

Other officers were elected as follows: Secretary, Millwood Fitch, Moravia; treasurer, Dr. Julian Smith, Union; chaplain, Rev. W. S. Stevens, Moravia; Raymond B. Wheaton of Ithaca was elected vice-president to represent Tompkins county. Other vice presidents chosen were: Cayuga county, Fred Vreeland, Union Springs; Cortland county, Frank L. Cooper, Cortland; Seneca county, Charles D. Becker, Seneca Falls; Tioga county, A. B. Truman, Owego; Endicott was selected as the place for the 1921 convention.

Auditorium Attractions.

The theatrical season of 1920-21 for Auburn will start with a "bang" at the Auditorium next Thursday evening, Aug. 12 when the American Burlesque association will present its first offering "Tiddley Winks." The American Wheel attractions will be at the Auditorium every Thursday. During August no matinees will be given but commencing with September, there will be matinees every Thursday in addition to the evening performances.

The first attraction "Tiddley Winks" is a spectacular production that contains many new and novel features. The production is filled with comedy, dancing and singing and the scenic embellishment is most elaborate. The sale of seats will open at the Auditorium next Tuesday, Aug. 10, at 9 a. m.

In addition to burlesque Manager Hennessey has many good things in store for the theater goers of Auburn and vicinity. Starting with Neil O'Brien's Minstrels, Saturday, Aug. 21, matinee and night, there has been booked a long line of excellent attractions.

Agrigraphs.

If the sheep have ticks, dip them; you can't afford to feed ticks, summer or winter.

The protest of farm women against rural living conditions is said to be a chief factor in the migration from country to city.

A woodlot without a good stand of young trees coming on to take the place of the old ones is like a family without any children. What is going to become of it?

Ten 10,000-pound cows will produce as much milk as twenty 5,000-pound cows; it takes only one-half as much time to feed five cows as ten; besides, one man can milk ten cows, while it takes two to milk twenty.

If sunshine will keep milk pails clean and fresh, it won't hurt to let it into the barn.

No city in the nation is removed from starvation more than two weeks.—Asbury F. Lever.

Most hens will lay if they are allowed to; many successes with chickens are made in spite of the owner rather than on account of him.

Burlap sacks represent real money these days. Those with small holes or rips are well worth mending.

Did you ever think of adopting some little trees? Planting stock can be had from the state at cost of production. The department of forestry at Cornell will help you to choose the kind of trees and tell you how to plant them.

Big Mid-Summer Meeting.

Albany, July 31.—All plans for the big gathering of motorists at the mid-summer meeting of the New York State Automobile association at Hornell, Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 11 and 12, have been completed by the Hornell Automobile club, under the personal direction of A. J. Deer, four years president of the association prior to 1916.

The big social feature of the convention will take place Thursday afternoon, Aug. 12, at Moraine Park, just outside of Hornell, rain or shine, as tents have been provided in case of unfavorable weather, and where Gov. Smith and other prominent speakers will be heard. Steuben county's clam-bake artist will outdo himself. Two tons of spring chickens have been provided together with all necessary trimmings which go to make up a first class clam-bake and the Hornell Automobile club intends to see to it that no hungry soul leaves the grounds. President Robbins will present a silver cup to the club showing the greatest increase in membership to Aug. 1, as compared with last year.

Reasons for Discontent.

At a woman's club meeting held recently in a certain rural community, a vacation survey was taken with results that illuminate quite clearly some of the reasons for rural discontent:

Nine women had never had a vacation and expected none this year; four never had had a change or a rest only for 24 or 48 hour visits to old homes; one had had two vacations of a week each in 15 years; one had one eight years ago, and one had three of a week each in a life-time. All arose at 5 a. m. or earlier and put in long hard days.
