

LEONARD WOOD, ADMINISTRATOR

WOOD HAS VARIED CIVIL EXPERIENCE

ADMINISTRATIVE QUALITIES ARE TESTED AND PROVED IN HANDLING GREAT BUSINESS PROBLEMS.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

From time to time people ask, "What has been the administrative and business experience of Leonard Wood? What has been his experience with men outside of the army? What does he know about conditions in the different parts of the United States and in our overseas possessions? Has he any thorough knowledge of foreign affairs and of our foreign relations?"

The administrative qualities of Leonard Wood have been tested and proved. No American living has been tried more thoroughly than he in complex fields of constructive civil work, administrative work of the highest order which carried with it the necessity for the exercise of keen business acumen.

The republic of Cuba, built upon firm democratic foundations, is a monument to the administrative ability of Leonard Wood. In the Philippines is to be found another monument to his statesmanship.

Leonard Wood graduated in medicine from Harvard University in 1884 and served for more than a year in one of the great hospitals, later to take charge of the charity departments in a section of the city of Boston where the poor lived.

Not long after the completion of Wood's work in Boston he became an assistant surgeon in the army, coming into contact with the western plainsman, the miner, the people generally, and giving much of his time to the work of assisting the Indians and to a study of the problems of irrigation and reclamation.

Then for Leonard Wood there came four years in California. He covered the state many times in pursuance of his duties and extended his field as occasion required into the states of the Northwest. Then for two years he was in service in the South, having headquarters in Georgia.

From the South Leonard Wood went to the city of Washington, where his work brought him into daily contact with Grover Cleveland. Then he had the same intimate relations with William McKinley and the men of his time.

Then came the Spanish war and the active campaign in Cuba as the colonel of the regiment of rough riders of which Theodore Roosevelt was the lieutenant colonel.

At the close of the Spanish war Leonard Wood's supreme administrative duties began. He was made the governor of the city of Santiago and a few weeks later of the entire eastern half of Cuba.

Under Wood profiteering was abolished, industry was built up, agriculture rehabilitated, hospitals organized, equipped and maintained, tens of thousands of people clothed and fed—and all this done in a thorough businesslike manner. It was done under tribulations which arose from the fact that the people were impoverished to the point of starvation and had been dying by thousands for the lack of the things which Wood quickly provided.

Then there came the rehabilitation of the municipalities, the establishment of schools, the opening of roads, the organizing of government in the provinces, the readjustment of taxation and of the courts, and the work of providing for the thousands of children made orphans by war or famine. There was more business and more varieties of it than it has been the lot of many men ever to have placed upon their shoulders.

Not long after this there came the greater opportunities in Havana. It was necessary to re-write the election laws to make them fit the habits of the people. Production had to be stimulated, for agriculture was the main source of the island's wealth. Here again the same measures were followed and as a result there were established law and order, protection of life and property, and liberty within the law.

These were the foundation stones. Wood knew that the government must be run by the Cubans, and so 90 per cent of the officials engaged in the great work of reconstruction were selected from the people of the island. The Cubans were taught government while the government was being built and thus they were able to run it when the rule of the island was turned over to its inhabitants.

When it became necessary to reorganize the Cuban railroads Wood secured the services of Sir William Van Horne, president of the Canadian Pacific, and of Granville M. Dodge, builder of the Union Pacific.

The same general policy was followed in dealing with the problem of caring for the tens of thousands of orphans that had been left by the war. Homer Folks, commissioner of charities of the state of New York, was called to Cuba by Wood to aid in the establishment of a system for placing and permanently caring for these little desolates. Chief Justice White of the Supreme court of the United States, at that time an associate justice, was consulted as to the method to be pursued in reorganizing the courts.

Leonard Wood was in Cuba about four years. He left there a reorganized and sound banking system, a good railroad system, no debts, nearly $2,000,000 unincumbered money in the treasury, a sugar crop of nearly 1,000,000 tons, sound municipal laws, fine public works, a firm agricultural foundation and an absolute respect among the people for life and property. The school system which Wood established was founded on the laws of Massachusetts and Ohio. Roads were built which made communication speedy. The hospitals erected under his supervision were of the highest type.

Lord Cromer said he wished this American officer was available to follow him in his reconstruction work in Egypt. Elihu Root said this work never was paralleled in colonial possessions anywhere. Theodore Roosevelt said that Leonard Wood "has rendered services to Cuba of a kind which, if performed three thousand years ago, would have made him a hero mixed up with the sun god in various ways."

After the Cuban experience Wood was for five years in the Philippines confronted with the difficult labor of establishing a civil government, this time among a Mohammedan people. There he did the same successful work he did in Cuba.

This period of residence in the Philippines gave Wood an opportunity to study conditions in the British colonies, Borneo, Singapore, and to keep in close touch with conditions in Japan and along the China coast. Wood traveled through India, spent some time with the Dutch in Java, and with Lord Cromer in Egypt. He gained and retained knowledge of all which at that time came under his studious observation.

Then Leonard Wood became chief of the general staff of the United States army, in whose hands rests very largely the direction and administration of the military establishment, which after all is 90 per cent a business matter.

The administrative career of Leonard Wood is spread upon the records of his country. The work which he has done is lasting. It is a statesman's work.

EUROPEAN BORER IS DESTRUCTIVE

Estimated Loss of Million Dollars Daily if Insect Once Gets Established.

FOUND IN EASTERN STATES

Larva is Dirty White Caterpillar, About One Inch Long, With Brown Head—Ears of Corn Are Bored Through.

A million dollars' worth of damage a day is conservatively estimated as the effect of the European corn borer if it once gets established in the corn belt of the United States. This is the statement of George A. Dean, head of the entomology department in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

The insect, which has done tremendous damage in Europe and Asia, has been introduced into New York and Massachusetts and is looked for in other regions.

Larva is White Caterpillar. The larva of the European corn borer is a dirty white caterpillar, about an inch long, with a brown head. It passes the winter in a nearly full-grown condition within its food plants. In the spring its growth is completed and it then bores its way to the surface of the food plant, where it makes a slight hole to serve as an exit for the resulting moth.

The larva now forms a cocoon in the burrow, passes into the pupal stage, and in about two weeks the adult moth emerges. The moth, which lives about two weeks, deposits 300 to 700 eggs on the food plant. In about five days the eggs hatch, and the young larvae at first feed on the tender shoots of the plants, but finally bore their way into the main stem of the plant. In about six weeks, after burrowing through all parts of the plant, the larvae pupate as before and emerge as moths about the middle of summer.

The female moths of the second brood do the greatest damage to corn, since they attack not only the stalk, but also the tassel and the ear, and continue feeding until cold weather.

Destroy Ears Completely. The ears of corn are bored through from bottom to top and from side to side, the borers feeding on the kernels while they are soft. Complete destruction of the ear is generally accomplished either by the borer or through decay which follows the injury. One moth which emerges in the spring may be responsible for from 100,000 to 300,000 larvae later in the same season. Every farmer and gardener should be on the look-out for the insect. Professor Dean urges, and upon discovering signs of its presence should immediately inform his state entomologist or experiment station, sending in the insect or the plant on which it has evidently worked.

INSULATE HIVES IN WINTER

Ample Protection Should Be Supplied to Keep Out Cold Winds—Leave Entrance Open.

Protect hives from prevailing cold winds, and insulate hives to retain the heat generated by the bees. A grove of trees, an adjacent hill, or nearby fence may serve as a windbreak. The packing usually done should completely surround the hive, including the bottom, but the bees' entrance should remain open, though reduced in size. Cork chips, sawdust, fine shavings, dry leaves, chaff, and similar material should be used and packed tightly in a box built about the hive, allowing from six to eight inches space for the insulation.

QUARTERS FOR YOUNG STOCK

Preferable to Have Calves Separated From Main Part of Cow Barn—Mothers Not Disturbed.

Some dairymen fail to consider housing the young stock when they build their barns. It is preferable to have the young stock separated from the main part of the cow barn because of odors and because calves near their mothers will cause the cows to become restless. The quarters for the calves should be connected with the dairy barn, and a location on the south or east side of the barn is desirable.

A Fine Concert.

A delightful musical treat was given the people of Genoa last Friday evening when three well known musicians of Auburn gave a concert in the Presbyterian church, under the auspices of the W. W. class of the Sunday school. The trio of artists were not strangers to a Genoa audience, having appeared here on several previous occasions.

The Windmill Mr. Hole Massenet
Meditation ("Thais") Massenet Mr. Clark

The program throughout was one of the best ever presented here, the music being of a high order. Mr. Hole's solos were excellently rendered, and showed the wide range of his fine baritone voice.

As usual, Mr. Clark's violin selections delighted his audience and received much applause. This talented young musician gives promise of becoming an artist of considerable note.

Death of Mrs. Geo. Ellison.

The death of Mrs. Geo. Ellison occurred quite suddenly at her home at Forks of the Creek Sunday evening about 9 o'clock. She had been suffering from rheumatism and was confined to the bed, but sat up for a short time that evening.

Mary Elizabeth Snover was born Jan. 24, 1852, at Forks of the Creek and always resided there. She was twice married, her first husband having been Ledra Mastin of Genoa who died many years ago.

Funeral services were held at her late home Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Rev. F. J. Allington of North Lansing officiating. The remains were placed in the receiving vault in Genoa cemetery.

How to Get the Most from Soil.

By means of talks, demonstrations and exhibits during Farmers' Week at Cornell, the workers in soil technology at the state college of agriculture will point out the best methods of utilization and improvement of New York state soils.

The talks will cover briefly but comprehensively the essentials for proper utilization of New York soils. The series starts with a general discussion of the soils of the state. In this will be included an explanation of the formation of the soils, along with their classification and crop adaptation.

To Be Given Its Innings.

On Wednesday, Feb. 11, of Farmers' Week at Cornell, the country newspaper will have its innings. While it is hoped to get as many newspaper publishers at the college on that day as possible, the main purpose of the sessions will be to emphasize the important part the local newspaper plays in the life of the community and the support which the publisher should receive.

Besides the men connected with the college who will give talks, there will be speakers from away as well, men and women who appreciate the service the weekly newspaper of New York state is rendering and the serious problems it is now facing.

One talk will deal with advertising for the farmer, with special emphasis on the use he should make of his local newspaper for the sale of produce, advertising his auction sales, and the like.

Holstein-Friesian Club.

An all day meeting of the Cayuga County Holstein-Friesian Association was held in the Chamber of Commerce Building Tuesday. About 40 members were present and the following officers were elected: President, J. R. Wait of Auburn; vice president, A. L. Jenks of Genoa; secretary, Reid White, of Locke, who is president of the Cayuga county branch of the Dairymen's League; treasurer, R. L. Dodge, manager of the Meaker farms; directors, James Avery of Aurora, B. B. Andrews, Weedsport, Don J. Huntington, Cato.

Prof. E. S. Savage of the Dairy Department of Cornell University gave two addresses, the first being on the subject of "Feeds and Feedings" and the second on "Breeding of the Herd."

Another meeting of the newly formed association will be held next month, the date to be set by the Executive Committee. The club announces that it will welcome breeders of grade Holstein cattle as well as of the pure blood. Some of the most valuable Holstein cattle in New York state were bred in Cayuga county.

Rules For Livestock Men.

Here are ten good rules for livestock breeders, vouched for by the animal husbandry men at the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca:

- 1. Be honest. Choose a breed and stick to it. Breed with the correct type in mind. Study pedigrees, for inherited characteristics, relative merit and value. Keep your herd or flock free from disease.

Develop the young animals and maintain the breeding animals through wise feeding and management. Boost better livestock in your community.

Remember that a satisfied purchaser is your best advertisement. So be prompt in registering and transferring animals and making good all guarantees.

A Fine Elm.

So far as recorded the large elm tree in the little valley east of Ingle-side, on the Lake road one-half mile north of Levanna, is one of two largest trees of that species in the United States. Its dimensions were sent to the World's fair in 1893. It is probably about 200 years old. In 1900 its circumference at ground was 26 feet; four feet from ground, 19 feet. The shadow of the elm covers nearly one-half acre of ground. For most of the year it is surrounded by running water, as the rivulet divides north of the tree into two streams, and south of the tree unites again, enclosing it in an island. The situation is very favorable for abnormal growth. Ingle-side is known as the Fonda farm.—Union Springs Advertiser.

Saxton-Fowler.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Parsell, 165 Perrine Street, Auburn, Tuesday, occurred the marriage of Lillian May Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Perry of Auburn, to Willard D. Saxton of Venice Center. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. G. Burley, pastor of the Wall Street M. E. church, in the presence of the immediate family. Mr. and Mrs. Saxton were attended by William I. Parsell and Miss Pauline Backus. A large number of friends will extend congratulations and wish them well in their new home in Venice Center.

Action in Supreme Court.

The trial of the $200 commission action brought by J. Dwight Atwater and John Bruton against James Mulvaney was finished and given to the jury in Supreme Court shortly before noon Tuesday. The commissions were alleged to be due on the sale of farm property by the plaintiffs for the defendant. The case was summed up by John Taber for the plaintiffs, and Frank S. Coburn, counsel with Harry Gleason, for the defendant. The jury was out about an hour and brought in a verdict for the defendant of no cause of action.

"Y" LAUNCHES THRIFT WEEK

Franklin's Birthday, January 17th, Set for Opening of Campaign.

PLAN IS WIDELY ENDORSED.

The Points for General Saving to Be Emphasized.

- THE TEN FINANCIAL COMMANDMENTS
1. Work and Earn.
2. Make a Budget.
3. Keep a Record of Expenditures.
4. Have a Bank Account.
5. Carry Life Insurance.
6. Make a Will.
7. Own Your Own Home.
8. Pay Your Bills Promptly.
9. Invest in Government Securities.
10. Share With Others.

Thrift, as a solution of many of the industrial and economic problems of the present day, is the message which the Y. M. C. A. hopes to impress upon every man and woman in the United States through its National Thrift Week Campaign, the opening of which was set for Jan. 17, Benjamin Franklin's birthday.

Thrift is needed more in the United States today than ever before, according to prominent business and professional men. Thrift does not check business; it boosts it. Thrift enables a man to pay his bills and promotes honesty. Thrift must be practiced everywhere if the United States is to recover from the effects of the war and maintain its position as financial center of the world.

Accordingly the Y. M. C. A. will aim to demonstrate by concrete examples the desirability and absolute necessity of thrift not only on the part of the individual, but on the part of the community as a whole. On "Bank Day," which opens the campaign, bankers everywhere will endeavor to emphasize the service the bank renders to the community; that when a man opens a bank account he makes his money work for himself and for the world at large.

Other special phases to be emphasized during National Thrift Week are as follows: Thrift Sunday, National Life Insurance Day, Family Budget Day and Pay Your Bills Day.

The opportunity is at hand to render a practical and character building service and to do it at a crucial time in the economic life of the nation, said Arthur M. East, secretary of the National Thrift Week Committee. "Any program to do this must be a lasting program. Thrift Week is fundamentally an idea week. For a period of eight days the commercial and industrial leaders of each community will lend their time and energy to the problem of setting the economic program in motion."

NEW REASON TO OFFER THANKS

Enrollment of Thrift Citizens Helps Solve Reconstruction Problem

Thanksgiving Day is only a few days off, and there is little time now in which to plan for a Reconstruction Celebration. In several cities, however, leaders in the Thrift Citizens' Movement, who are working night and day to enroll others as investors in Treasury Savings Certificates, are determined that they can report success for their part in the first phase of America's Peace Offensive.

The intensive effort in behalf of thrift and good citizenship by men and women of New York State and the twelve northern counties of New Jersey—where more than twelve million people reside—began on Armistice Day, November 11. Response was prompt to the appeal by officials of the Government Loan Organization of the Second Federal Reserve District to line up for thrift. Pledges were freely given for leadership in the movement. Treasury Savings Certificates were purchased. Work was inaugurated for spreading the doctrine of thrift and the enrollment of those who bought these Government securities, thus proving they were heart and soul with the United States.

"Thanksgiving Day, 1919, is a day for giving thanks for the safe return of the boys who drove back the Germans," remarked one prominent leader in the Thrift Citizens' Movement. "It should also be a day when the people of every community can present actual proof that they are patriotic in peace as well as in war."

Treasury Savings Certificates are a shield against money worries.

Your postman will sell you W. S. & A. All you have to do is ask for them.

If a man has a little money, nobody can bully him. Save it by W. S. & A.

THE FABLE OF THE NOISY FROG.

Once upon a time there was a Contented Frog who was greatly in love with his own voice. He rivaled the Tom Cats in making the night's hideous and thought he was some pumpkins. But while he was busy croaking the pool dried up, and he had no place to go.

Moral—Making a loud noise over what you have done won't get you anywhere. Keep on buying War Savings Stamps.

LOOK FOR ANOTHER POMPEII

Archeologists Expect to Uncover Treasures of Art Hidden for Some Twenty Centuries.

During the war archeological excavations were continued at the Italian colony of Syracusa on the north African coast, and now comes the news that what has been found already promises the uncovering of another ancient city as important as Pompeii. Once upon a time the spot was a Greek colony, with the civilization of Greece transplanted to the soil of Africa. The work has been carried on during the war under the supervision of Prof. Lucio Mariani, director of the archeological service of the ministry of the colonies, and the prediction is now made that the newly discovered city will eventually prove actually richer than Pompeii in its evidence of a past civilization. Here have been found already statues of the Graces, a Hermes, an Eros, an Alexander the Great and most impressive of all, the Aphrodite of Cyrene, which is said by certain connoisseurs to be a fair rival in beauty to the Venus of Milo and the Venus of Callidus. The discoveries have extended over a good many years. It may be added, however, as an illustration of the modified joys of archeology, and the introduction of a new mystery into the history of art, that the Aphrodite of Cyrene lacks both head and arms. The world may wonder what she looked like as well as what she was supposed to be doing.

PAYS TO STAY IN SCHOOL

Fact Shown in Dollars and Cents by Figures Compiled by Bureau of Education.

The value of staying at school is stated in dollars and cents in figures recently compiled by the bureau of education and distributed to boys and girls throughout the country by the children's bureau.

From a study of a large number of actual cases it has been found that at twenty-five years of age the boy who remained in school until he was eighteen had received $2,000 more salary than the boy who left school at fourteen, and that the better-educated youth was then receiving more than $900 a year more in pay.

"This is equivalent to an investment of $18,000 at 5 per cent," the statement said. "Can a boy increase his capital as fast in any other way?"

"From this time on the salary of the better-educated boy will rise still more rapidly, while the earnings of the boy who left school at fourteen will increase but little."

The Green Sawyer.

Gen. Marlborough Churchill was talking in Washington about the work of the intelligence department, of which he is the head.

"It is delicate work," Gen. Marlborough Churchill said, "work that requires experience. The inexperienced intelligence officer—and we had a lot of him during the war—is apt to be about as useful as the young college man in the lumber camp."

"This college man was set to work on a cross-saw with an old-stager. He sawed pretty well for an hour or so, and then his strength gave out. Still he kept on, or tried to keep on, but all of a sudden the old-stager stopped."

"'Son,' he said, 'I don't mind yer ridin' on the saw, but if it's jest the same to you, I'll ast ye to keep your feet off the ground.'"

Unfounded Report.

The following advertisement appeared in the Birmingham press in April, 1806: Thirty guineas reward. Whereas a malicious and unfounded report having been industrially propagated (tending to injure the characters of James, John and Thomas Collings), stating that each have at times appeared in disguised Habit (representing the devil) with an intent to extort money from the fearful, whoever can discover the author of this report shall receive the above named by applying to James Collings, Cottage lane, near the sand pits, Birmingham, April 14, 1806.

Marvelous Memories.

It is claimed for Mr. Timmins, the Shakespearean scholar who has just died, that at the age of twenty-one he recited the whole of "Hamlet" from memory. Among the professional reciters such a feat would not be regarded as very remarkable.

The late Samuel Brandram knew by heart practically the whole of Shakespeare, and Shakespeare was only one of his many favorites.

In his "Nights With the Poets and Humorists" Brandram drew from all sources, read nothing, and was never known to forget a line.—London Chronicle.

An Endless Chain.

"We're very unsettled in our flat," said the worried-looking man at the club.

"What's the trouble?" asked his friend.

"Well, our children keep the next-door neighbors awake, so they pass the time by playing the piano; that makes the pet dog next door to them bark, and that keeps the children next door awake, and there's so much noise through the building that there's a chance at all of our children going to sleep."

MEXICO'S WEALTH OF SILVER

Aroused Greed of Conquerors and Brought Only Bondage and Misery to the People.

Mexico has produced a steady stream of silver ever since its conquest by Cortez in 1519. But while the supply seemed inexhaustible, it brought more misery than happiness to the nation, in the opinion of the Salt Lake Tribune, because it afforded the incentive to bring conquerors to its shores to enslave the people.

The Spaniards robbed and enslaved the Aztecs to control the silver supply. They blotted out a semi-barbarous civilization that had built great irrigation systems, massive temples and beautiful cities, and the once proud and happy people were placed under the yoke for four centuries.

An almost uncanny gift in ferreting out the big silver deposits was possessed by the Spanish governors. The cost of gunpowder was so high, though, that only the richest finds were worked. Only ore that produced over 100 ounces of silver to the ton was mined. It is said that the owner of the Quinteca mine, in the Alamos district, a Senor Alamada, on the marriage of his daughter, lined the bridal chamber of the palace with bars of silver and paved the way to the church with the metal.

Large profits are made from demolishing some of the old houses in the Chihuahua district, and reducing the material in them for silver. The natives who built them used to use the run of mine slag, in the absence of cheaper building material, and much valuable ore went into the buildings.

Usefulness Gone.

"I hear there are many poisonous snakes in your part of the country."

"Not now. What's the use of them when every place is dry?"

Houses of Presidents.

In connection with the efforts to restore the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt, at 28 East Twentieth street, New York, it is recalled that an attempt was made several years ago to acquire the old house in which President James Monroe died. The project never got beyond the placing in 1905 of a memorial tablet on the house.

The old house, one of the archaic structures in the city, and much the worse through years of neglect, is on the northwest corner of Lafayette and Prince streets. For years the lower portion was used as a junk shop. It still presents the characteristics of the well-to-do residence during the early part of the last century—three stories high, with dormer windows protruding from the attic. The house was built by Samuel L. Gouverneur, who married one of Monroe's daughters.
