OF BIG VALUE IN AVIATION.

-The weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture gathered a great deal of valuable information for army and navy aviators during the war and for mail service aviation since that time by means of a kite to which was attached a self-recording instruthree kites, when the first one was separated from them, escaped and flew about three miles farther. During the flight, however, the wire became entangled with a boy and a mule plowing in a field. The boy grasped the wire and cut and burned his hands. The mule became so entangled in the wire that the help of three men was required to release him. The three kites were finally caught in another tree which was cut down by another party of negroes, and, in falling, wrecked the second kite, which was dismantled by the negroes. The two remaining kites again escaped, flew about 3 miles farther and landed in one of the tallest pine trees in the region. The third kite had a meteorograph attached which was recovered undamaged. A

HOW MODEL PLANE MAY BE TESTED BEFORE ACTUAL FLIGHT IS MADE. -Here are some hits of advice for model plane builders and flyers, written by H, C. Ellis, an expert on such things, for the Everyday Engineering Magazine:

To test the model, first wind its motor up about half the number of revolutions ordinarily used and then launch from the hand against the wind.

If the model exhibits a tendency to dive, it shows that it is head heavy; that is to say, there is not enough lift in front. This is easily corrected by sliding the main plane forward to increase the lift in front.

If, on the other hand, the model climbs too much, it shows that it is tail heavy, in which case just the reverse procedure is used-i. e., shifting the main plane back to increase the lift in the back.

If the model tips over sideways, either to the right or left, It is probably due to the torque or twisting tendency of the propeller or faulty alignment of the main planes, tail-plane or rudder, or, in the case of a double propeller machine, one propeller being wound up more than the other. This cannot be the fault if a double winder is used, as both propellers are turned the same number of revolutions.

To correct this tipping and swerving sideways It is only necessary to increase the angle of the main plane on the side that the model tips over, or swerves. This is done by bending the rear corner of the low wing down and bending the rear corner of the opposite wing upward a bit. This corresponds to warping the planes in a large machine, Adjust rudder to turn machine to the other side.

United States Marines in America's New Virgin Islands Puzzled at Style.

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands .- United States marines garrisoning at these new possessions of Uncle Sam can not understand the fashions affected by the natives.

Why a negro, or Cha-Cha Indian, thermometer stands at 100 in the shade mystifies them.

For some strange reason, the native hands on. All American holidays are now celebrated by the natives, who spend the day parading about the trousers and a red bandanna handkerchief about the neck. Also they frequently adorn themselves with the horns of cows or oxen attached to the head just in front of the ears.

Why Frest Injures Food. /

An egg expands when it is frozen. and breaks its shell. Apples contract so much that a full barrel will shrink until the top layer is a foot below the chine. When the frost is drawn out the apples assume their normal size and fill the barrel again, Certain varieties are not appreciably injured by being frozen if the frost is drawn out gradually. Apples will carry safely in What Birthmarks Indicate.

According to a French scientist, birthmarks in families not now of good social position indicate that they are of knightly descent, the marks being due to the fact that their possessors' ancestors wore armor.

Electric Plant on Coal Fields.

The modern method of building an electric-generating plant directly over a coal supply, and transmitting energy instead of fuel to the point of consumption, is to be employed by the state of Victoria, Australia, for supplying the city of Melbourne. The field of brown coal to be used immediately is at Morwell, 80 miles away, and is accessible by open cutting. There is, it is estimated. 20,000,000,000 tons in the district and 150,000,000 tons in one square mile, enough to generate 100,-000 kilowatts for 150 years. A 40,000 to 50,000 kilowatt station will be built first, which will be sufficient for three years, but later the development will be extended, and finally include the utilization of the Klews river and other water powers .- Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Corn-Cob Industry.

The United States produces from 2,-500,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn every year. That means 18,000,-000 or 20,000,000 tons of cobs. A large should wear an overcoat when the percentage of course, is not available for manufacturing purposes, being scattered over the farms or fed with the corn. Large anantitles, however, Virgin islander believes in wearing are concentrated at crotral points and every article of clothing he can lay are easily available. The establishment of a plant for the manufacture of corn-cob products in the Ohio valley is being contemplated. Three shellers streets, some of them wearing over- will furnish 24.000 tons of cobs a year. coats, capes, two or more pairs of The plant will operate on a basis of 100 tons a day. How Toothbrush Plant is Used.

The toothbrush plant of Jamaica is one of the most curious plants in the world. By cutting pieces and fraying the ends the natives obtain natural toothbrushes, and a tooth powder is obtained by pulverizing the dried stems.

How the Town of Tombstone, Arizona, Acquired_Its Somewhat Grewsome Cognomen.

A prospector's curlous sense of humor was responsible for the naming of Tombstone, Ariz. According to James F. Duncan, who went there in 1879 the town was founded in that year by Ed Schieffelin, a mining prospector. Schieffelin called his mine near the site of the present courthouse "Tombstone mine." Duncan said, because the region was full of drab rocks that resembled tombstones.

Schleffelin's friends frequently rallied him for his faith in the locality, and told him that he would find his tombstone here. After the prospector had made his fortune here, in good-natured irony he is said to have named the town after the fate that had been predicted for him.

Schleffelin was found dead in a log cabin in the state of Washington erected a simple monument, fashloned tor's claim stake-merely a pile of unevenly-shaped rocks.

RUINED BY TIGHT PACKING

Why There Should Be a Certain Amount of Looseness Allowed in the Book Case.

Many a good book has been ruined by the way it is kept in the case. Packing books so tight that they have to be pulled out by the loose binding at the top of the back is ruinous. The binding soon breaks. It also tends to loosen the backs of books to pack them tight, as they will cling to each other on the shelf and the binding works away from the pages. Don't pack your books so tight that they cannot be pulled off the shelf without effort. A new book should be handled very carefully. Never open the book suddenly. This is a sure way to break the back. Begin by laying the book on the table, opening first one cover, then the other, and then open a very few pages at a time, laying them alternately flat on each other until the center of the book has been reached. In this way the glue on the back of the book is cracked gently and evenly

How Scouts May Aid Tree Census. A tree census in every state at the same time the 1920 population count is made is advocated by officials of the American Forestry association.

and the pages will not separate.

The census of trees to determine the extent of American forests, both in the country and in towns and cities, may be begun.

"Block by block" listing including the size and variety of the tree, may be done by Boy Scouts and children, under supervision of civic leaders. Planting of memorial trees, it is believed, will swell the figures by many thousands.

Planters will register new trees with the association, which will also keep the "census" records taken by children and scouts.

How Tree Survey Pays.

Another new and growing work akin to forestry, is tree surgery. This was originated by an Ohio man, who now maintains a school to train his work ers, all of whom find employment with the company at the satisfactory completion of the course. This work is interesting, scientific, well paid, and gives a boy a wholesome out-of-door life.-Boys' Life.

How Long Some Trees Live. Brazilian coconut paims live from are shown by an incident that occurred March 16 at Leesburg, Ga. In order to attain the height desired, a number of kites had been sent up tandem. They consisted of strong wooden frames about 7 by 7 by 3 feet. Each kite was covered with about 12 yards of fine cambric and was attached to fine plano wire. They were let out and hauled in by a reel operated by electric motor. Due to a defective splice, four of the kites with about 3 miles of wire broke away and flew about 18 miles before the wire became entangled in a tree. A farmer telephoned the news to the aerological station, but before the party sent out to recover the kites could reach them some negroes had wrecked the first one and stolen the cloth, which was later found in nine pieces in various cabins. Landon-Myer.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Myer was the scene of a quiet, but very pretty wedding on Sunday last, when their older daughter, Anna M., became the bride of Leland H. Landon, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Landon of Poplar Ridge.

The color scheme of the house decorations was yellow and white, a sm le arrangement of ferns and daisies presenting a pretty effect. The ceremony took place at 12 o'clock underneath an arch of evergreens and daisies, the bride and groom standing on a white rug. The wedding march was played by Miss Mary Landon, sister of the groom. Rev. L. W. Scott, formerly of Genoa, officiated, using the ring service. There were no attendants. The bride wore a becoming suit of dark blue tricotine.

Following congratulations, a wedding luncheon was served in three courses. The bride's table was laid large bouquet of white lilies with runners of yellow ribbons and flowers. The company, which included only near relatives, numbered office in Genoa. twenty-five.

The bride has many friends in Genoa and vicinity. Since graduating from the Cortland Normal, three years ago, she has been teaching, the first two years at Beacon, N.Y., and the past year at Freeport, L. I. She received many gifts of cut glass, silver, rugs and about $200 in currency.

Mr. and Mrs. Landon left for a trip of a werk or more to New York and other points, and on their return will be at home to their friends at 31 E. Genesee street, in Auburn, where they have completely furnished an apartment and will begin housekeeping. They have the best wishes of numerous friends here and elsewhere.

Myers Reunion.

The first annual reunion of the Myers family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd V. Myers near Aurora, on Cayuga lake, Saturday, July 3, 1920. The day was ideal and the company of about forty-five who came together had a very enjoyable time renewing old acquaintances and forming new ones.

Guests were present from Willsevville, Groton, South Lansing, Led-Springs and Aurora. A picnic dinner was served on the lawn after which a business meeting was held. Regrets were read from absent ones and the following officers were chosen for the coming year: Pres., Mrs. Wm. Myers; Vice Pres., Mrs. Morgan Myers; Sec. home in that village on Sunday af- Mrs. Lloyd Myers; Treas., Ernest Buchanan.

Convention at Can Francisco Labored Eight Days to Marie Chroan and New Yorker as Running Mates.

EROKE DEADLOCK PALMER

When Attorney General Released His Delegates Buckeye Governor Soon Passed McAdoo and on Forty-fourth Ballot Was Nominated by Acclamation-Roosevelt for Vice President on First Ballot.

For President, JAMES M. COX OF OHIO. For Vice President. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, OF NEW YORK.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON.

(Copyright, Western Newspaper Union.) Convention Hall, San Francisco. Cal.- After eight days of the most strenuous conventioning any political party has seen in many years, the Democratic gathering at 2:45 Thesday merning of the second week nimed James C. Cox of Oldo for President, and on Tuesday afternoon numed F. D. Roosevelt for vice presdent. The nomination of Governor Tox was made on the forty-fourth balot, and after a night of the must intense excitement.

When the convention convented on Monday morning after a fruitless period of balleding on Friday night and all day and late into the night of Suma lay, it seemed to be in a dendlock out of which no one of the three leading candidates could possibly be picked as a winner. This condition continued throughout the day. And until after a recess taken at 5:30 until $:30 no evidence of any serious break could be found in the lines of any of the three leading candidates until after the thirty-eighth ballot. when Congressman Carlin announced the withdrawal of Attorney General Palmer and the release of his instructed delegates. On the next baltot the Pennsyivania delegation conlinued to vote almost solidly for Palmer, but after that they broke, the majority going to McAdoo. On the forty-first ballot the McAdoo forces began to break, and before the fortyfourth ballot was completed it was ovident that Governor Cox had won, and a motion to make the nomination unanimous was carried with a shout.

posed to reservations so long as they did not seriously change the intent of the document.

End of First Session,

A roll call followed for the appointment of the usual convention committees and the first session was over. For the next two days the real activities of the great gathering was transferred to the meeting rooms of the of the story, and he went to bat with committees. The Committee on Credentials confirmed the action of mational committee in seating the Palmer delegation from Georgia, and in unseat-ing Senator Robel of Missouri. It had heren anticipated that both of these contests would be triven to the floor of the convention, but with the exception of entering a protest on the action on Senator Read the contests provided no entertainment for the audience.

In an effort to make time the Rules 'onusittee had recommended that commuting speeches be in order pro reding the report of the committee of platform, and this becaufe the first order of business for Wednesday. That was a day of oratory of the good old-fashioned Democratic kind. During the all-day session of Wednesday and through the first session of Thursday, the oratorical lights of the party extolled the virtues of the four teen candidates named in either nomi nating or seconding sneeches With but one exception the nominal ng speeches were made by men. The one exception was Miss Bessie Dwyer. an alternate from the Philippines, who presented the name of Governor Fran is Burton Harrison. Every candidate whose nomination was seconded at all had provided for one or more liberal enforcement legislation for the Eighteenth amendment, and leaving it to each locality to determine the desired percentage of alcohol. It was characteristic of a Democratic convention that all sides were given a hearing before the delegations, and what a hearing it was. Mr. Bryan was given an hour and a half to present his side all his old time vigor. While he yielded a small part of his time to other speakers he made the most of every moment he retained. His powerful presentation of the subject reminded one of the days of 1896 when he car ried the Democracy of America off its feet at Chicago and captured the nors ination by his "Cross of gold" speech or again in 1912 at Paltimore, when he led the Wilson hosts to victory after a teriffin political battle. Time after time he aroused the vast audience of delegates and spectators to freuzied heights of enthusiasm. But It was en thus asm for the man, an appreciation of the individual, and not an endors: ment of his ideas. He received the cheers but not the vote and his dry plank went down to defeat with only 155 voies in favor of it, and his other planks were beaten without a roll call

Convention a Real One.

It was a real convention, and more especially a real Democratic convention, that adjourned on Tuesday after-' noon. It was a convention that was run by the 1,093 delegates and an equal number of alternates. It was I leaderless, and in fact, if it may be said to have had a fault at all, it was this lack of leadership that for many weary hours made it seem impossible for the necessary two-thirds to reach an agreement on the choice of a candidate. During these hours and days there were a number of men who were quite willing to assume leadership, but no one of them, or no group of them, could find a sufficient number of followers to make their leadership effective. The delegates inmisted that they, and not any selfappointed group of leaders, repremented the rank and file of the Democratic party, and each delegate inmisted on voting the way he believed, or professed to believe, his people, at, home wished him to vote, regardless of any plea for a compromise, and re-"gardless of the use of every expedient known to political strategy to influence him.

The opening of the great gathering was as featureless as all such openings are. There was an air of expectancy in the great audience for a large unjority of whom this was their first experience in a political convention of such magnitude. The saudience had looked for a fight starting with the fall of Vice Chairman Kremer's gavel, but they were rewarded with nothing more exciting than the masterful keynote address of Homer Cummings, in which he outlined the issues on which the Democratic party would nak the people for support. This address was devoted almost exclusively women as seconders. Sensational Naming of McAdoo.

The event of the nominating session vas the presentation of the name of Mr. McAdoo. It was known that Mr. McAdoo had insisted that his name be not presented to the convention and had repeated this wish by telegraph on Tuesday to Rev. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City. McAdoo delegates were insistent that the name of their favorte he presented regardless of his intructions, but Frank R. Wilson, a former newspaper man, the leader of the McAdoo forces, was equally insistant that the wishes of McAdoo he complied with. In the end Wilson consented to an informal presentation. m which it should be stated that it was without the consent of the forme secretary, and without any elaboration on his qualifications for the office, Mr. Jenkins said that while Mr. Mc-Adon was not seeking the nomination, he proposed that Democracy draft him for the good of the nation.

Stubborn Platform Fight.

The platform committee had a long. stubborn fight on its hands in an effort to satisfy many opposing elements. Senator Glass, as chairman of the Resolutions Committee, represented the administration viewpoint on the League of Nations especially, and proposed to put through the Virginia plank. This was acceptable to practically all delegates except Mr. Bryan and some of his followers, who could not see the possibility of ratification without radlcal reservations. Other planks that caused hours of discussion referred to the liquor question, to Ireland, to labor and two or three other things. In the end the committee had to take several questions to the floor of the convention, much to the gratification of the audience, and this resulted in an upon apparently by the leaders, and other oratorical display throughout all the race seemed open. Word was of the long Friday session. Senator Glass presented the majority report of the Platform Committee, Mr. Bryan presented a minority report containing nounced that whomever Mr. Cox suga strong dry plank, with a declaration gested would be nominated, for a strict enforcement of the Volstead art; a plank calling for an amendment to the Constitution giving placed in nomination as running mate the senate power to ratify a peace.

vations might be necessary to secure Montana was nominated by Senator its approval; a plank on profiteering | Walsh of the same state, E. L. Doheny providing that the cost and sale price be shown on all articles of merchandise, and a plank providing for the establishment of a national bulletin for the dissemination of information on all important mational questions of the day, open to all political partles, and through which all candidates for office on a national ticket would be privileged to announce their candidacy and their qualifications. Mr. Bryan, by request, offered another minority report on the liquor question prepared by Richmond Pearson Hobson.

for the appointment of a commission to investigate cases of personal financial loss on the part of soldiers in the world war, and placing the party on record as favoring financial assistance in such cases, presented by Thomas D. Lyons of Oklahoma, was rejected by a viva voce vote, and the majority report was adopted without a roll call."

The One Great Feature.

Much as the great audience had apprecisted the oratorical displays and the keen competition that had marked. the efforts to secure party endorsement for opposing ideas, the one great feature of the national show for which all had waited was the balloting on candidates for the presidential nomination, and when Chair man Robinson of Arkansas announced the next order of husiness as the roll call of the states immediately after the adoption of the platform he was greeted with a mighty roar.

Old-Time Political Fervor.

The demonstration for favorite candidates and for favorite policies contained all of the old-time political fervor. Time after time came parades of state standards. Time after time came fights for the possession of state standards, and in which a number of them were destroyed. At the close of Mr. Bryan's address in support of his dry plank all of the state standards with the exception of New York, Mississippi, Illinois, New Jersey, Alabama Ohlo, and fwo or three others, were carried to the platform in his honor. Following the address of Secretary Colby, in support of the majority report of the pfatform committee on the League of Nations every state standard was carried to the platform as a tribute to him.

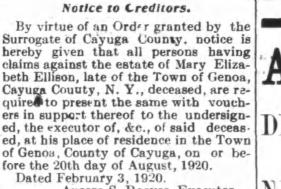

F. D. Roosevelt Named for Vice Presi dent by Acclamation.

San Francisco. - The Democratic convention began its final session shortly before 1 o'clock p. m. Tuesday. The gallerics were almost empty. No vice presidential slate had been agreed awalted from Governor Cox, who was asked to name the man that would be most acceptable to him. It was an-

JOSEPHINE'S FULI

By RAY LEWIS

(G. 192), by McCiur- Newspiper Syndicate I 1.000.00$9,908 70 Josephine tossed her traveling hat 2.100.00on the bed and turned to the mirror to 22,454.62 repair the damage done to her hair during the long ride on the train.

"You don't know how good it is to 66,738 70 31.89 get home, mother, even if it is only for a week," she said, taking out her combs and letting down a flood of 34.597 59 chestnat hair.

1,0.59.33 Her mother, watching her, was 3,929.00 thinking that at any rate Josephine's sojourn for nearly a year just off 4.43 Washington square hadn't caused her I to bob her beir like the other villegers. 23.00 But aloud she merely said : "We're all i tended husband."

glad to have you home, dear, and the time will go all too quickly." "by the way," said Josephine, as an whom 5,000,00 | one to whom som thing has just occurred, "the last day of my stay I am expecting down to meet you all the man who wants to marry me."

"Josephine," gasped her mother, sinking weakly down upon the bed. "Josephine! And I suppose it is one of those dreadful men you have been seeing, with long hair and soft collars, and-and, oh, I wish you had never, never gone down there !"

"Come, mother," urged Josephine, briskly, "he sensible. He isn't as had as all that !"

"He doesn't paint or write or-or anything like that, does he?" asked her mother, pleading for a negative reply. Josephine appeared to meditate, her head on one side, her brush poised over her streaming locks. "Yes," she said, shority, "he writes." $226,847.26

And with that her mother tried to be atistical for the time bring.

Not so the other members of the family. Jo's fourteen-year-old brother ster family found fiscif disposed on the front veranda. A general feeling of excilement was in the air. Of them all, the least concerned was Josephine. herself, sitting in the couch hammock reading, her feet tuckest comfortably heneath her Presently a tall figure appeared on the elui-shaded street, paused at the gate and swung in up the path. "Hello, Dick !" shouted Billy.

"How do, Borden?" said Mr. Webster, advancing with cordially outstretched hand.

"Hello, there !" called Josephine herself, flushing prettily as she dropped her magazine and went into the arms of the newcomer, to the consternation of her open-mouthed family.

"Did I play the game, Jo, dear?" he asked.

"You certainly did!" cried Josephine. and, setzing his hand, she faced her mystified family. "Allow me," she said, with a sweeping regal gesture, "to introduce Richard Borden, my in-

"But--how about this Nedrobsky fellow?" cried Billy, giving atterance to what all the rest were thinking.

Why-that old name is only my future surname spelied backwards, with the 'sky' added to give it the touch you all seemed to demand. I intended to give you just a little surprise, but when you all insisted on ascribing to my friend all sorts of queer characteristics I decided to play the game for all it was worth. I just let your thoughts run away with you. And I wrote to Dick about it and that is why he sent the postal and why he did not give himself away when father asked him up here tonight."

"Bu: you said you met him at a tea," reproached Sally.

"I did," said Josephine promptly, "but I didn't say that was the first time I had met him. And I told the truth when I said he writes, for isn't he the sporting editor of the New York Charion?'

After supper, when Josephine and Dick had been tactfully left by themselves for a moment, Dick took both Jo's hands in his. "Darling," he said, "before I left the city I had an inspiration." I fixed up my columns and assignments for a week ahead, so that HAS THREE GOOD PURPOSES now I can get off for a few days Marry me in the morning and we'll run away for a little trip. You might as well do it sooner as later. I even got in town early to see about the license.

In helping solve the housing problem of the cities the apartment house neets a very real demand. There is need for such houses with sufficient rooms to care for families. There is a place for others with smaller quarters where bachelor apartments may be maintained. It is well for cities to have apartment houses in such numhers as to help meet the demand for parters from those who prefer to live in rooms without the advantage if yard and garden.

But it is far better for a city to have hundred new separate homes erected than to have a hundred-family spartnent houses constructed. The proper and natural way of living is for one family to have a house, with the little grass plot in the yard, a bit of garden In the back part of the lot, with the freedom and conveniences and privacy that separate homes provide. Coaumbus has a housing demand now that calls for some more apartment houses, those with proper convenienes and a rental not too great. But It has a greater need for more separate aomes. There are hundreds of vacant lots, the cost of the building being suited to the neighborhood. There is a great need for the homes that will care for small families, homes within the purchasing power of the man of limited means, who has saved some money, is well employed and wants to pay out for his home during the coming years. Every man is a better citizen when he becomes a home owrer.-Ohio State Journal.

New Public Park Fixture Would Seem to Be About the Last Word in Drinking Fountains.

There was much to be done if I were to secure my existence on this strange island. The needful things I did as best I could in turn, but not always with good fortune attending my efforts, In my first planting of barley and corn seed, the half of all my precious stock was wasted by reason of being planted in the very wrong time. I spent weary months in making earth-ware pots for holding fresh water; and forty-two days it took me to hew my first long plank from a tree trunk. I strove for weeks to fashion a stone mortar to stamp grain in, only to come at last to a block of hollowed-out wood. Five months I labored in felling a great cedar tree, hewing and shaping it to the hull of a splendid boat with which I was to escape from the island. only to be forced to abandon it for want of a means whereby to launch it into the sea. However, every failure taught me something I had not known before.

For the elements, there were great Abril 26, 1731. winds and rains and earthquakes. own, until that eventful day on which I met with the print of a man's naked foot on the sand.

I was then like one thunderstruck, I listened, I looked, but I could hear nothing, see nothing. I went up the shore, down the shore; but there was only that single foot-print! Terrified to the last degree; I ran to my habitation like one pursued; and for three days and nights thereafter I did not stir out.

After observation I learned that it was the habit of cannibals from the main-land to come to a part of the island which I seldom visited to feast upon the bodies of their captured enemies. One morning from my lookout I perceived thirty savages dancing around a fire, They had cooked one victim : 1d had two more ready for the fire, when I descended upon them with two loaded muskets and my great

The saved man I called Friday, in hono of the day of his rescue, and his was the first voice I heard in all my 25 years on the island. He was young, intelligent, of a superior race of savages and became my trusted companion for all the time I remained on the intimacy with William III., and abruptly fell King to pillory and prison for his too perfect satire. "The Shortest Way with Dissenters." From Newgate he launched his remarkable Review, a journal written entirely by himself. He advocated an income tax and higher education for women. He wrote 250 distinct pamphlets and books, but his masterplece, "Robinson Crusoe," was not published until 1719, when the author was nearly 60 years old. This, the first great English novel, has in some respects never been surpassed. Its immediate popularity incited Defore to write a sequel and many thrilling tale of pirates and advonturers, of courtesans and adventuresses. His vivid story of the plague appeared three years after "Robinson Cruso" "Defor was perhaps the greatest liar

HOW UNDER-SEA MINES HELP TO RECLAIM LAND FROM OCEAN'S GRIP. -When coal mining was first undertaken as a commercial proposition the coal was mined from the surface outcrops. Later came the shaft-mine with its elevators and cars. In the extremities to secure cheap coal for isolated districts, and to get any at all where mines are early worked but, the coal veine are followed out under the land and in one instance, under the sea. The under-the-sea mines are quite numerous in England, but as yet only one such mine has been reported on the North American continent.

It was at Fort Rupert that the first discovery of coal was made on the Pacific coast, but the product was exceedingly poor in quality. Shortly later coal was located at Nanalmo, on Vancouver island. During the early days of mining in this district, the coal was mined from the beach only, but as the vein ran out under the bed of the ocean, it was decided to follow it. A shaft, now known as "No. 1 shaft," was sunk near the shore line to a depth of about 700 feet.

Work was started on the "under-sea" mine in 1881, but the preliminary work was not completed until two years later, so that it was in 1885 that the mine became a shipper of coal. From the latter date until the present this mine has been in continuous operation, with the exception of two short periods. The first suspension was caused by a mine explosion in which nearly 100 lives were lost. The second arose from labor troubles which terminated in a general strike. For more than 25 years the output of this single mine has been more than 400,000 tons a year. The mine has shipped and sixteen-year-old sister and nice, middle-aged father were consumed with curiosity over the possibly prospective new member of the family.

"I always knew Jo wouldn't pick out anybody in this slow old town," said Billy with utter frankness, "and it's just like her to go in for some queer duck !"

"Where did you meet him?" asked her father.

"Well," said Josephine, after a moment's hesitation, "I met him at Daisy Cassell's studio tea."

Her father groaned inwardly. The kind of a man he would have welcomed as a son-in-law he felt sure would rather starve than be caught at a tea. let alone a studio tea, which he vaguely supposed consisted of queerly gowned women, curly-haired men and anarchistic conversation. What a pity Josephine hadn't seen her way clear to encouraging Dick Borden, the good-looking son of his old business associate! There was a coming man for you ! And. by Jove, there was an idea! And Mr. Webster put that same idea in his pipe. as the saying goes, and smoked it good and hard.

The first inkling that any one got of Josephine's near fiance's name was when Sally sauntered into her sister's room and picked up a postal lying conspicuously on the latter's dresser. Portraying one of the very new stars in the Russian ballet, it bore in scrawling letters at the bottom the words: "Until I see you, my soul mate. R. Nedrobsky."

The very noon of Josephine's last day home and of the day of Mr. Nedrobsky's arrival, Mr. Webster, coming home for lunch, sought out his wife, "Helen," he said, "what do you think? I met Dick Borden downtown. He asked most kindly after Jo and I invited him up to dinner tonight. Jo has been down in that bohemian place so long she has forgotten what a real man looks like. Just give her a chance to see a fellow like young Borden alongside of her poet creature and she'll turn him down-or else be more of an idiot than I want to think of my own daughter."

"Well, maybe," said his wife, not without hope herself; "but I'm afraid Joesphine won't like it."

As a matter of fact, Josephine was quite decent about it. She did say that

And what her auswer must have been is evident from the conversation that took place presently.

"What?" said her mother. "Marrie with no new clothes, no bridesmaids. no anything!"

"Exactly," said Josephine firmly, "at eight-thirty tomorrow, here in the living room, in my perfectly good spring suit."

"Bully for Jo!" cried Billy. "I g! ways knew when Jo came to get married she'd do it somehow, some way, different from anybody else. She wouldn't be Jo if she didn't !"

GUARD AGAINST FOREST FIRES

American Forestry Association Gives Some Rules That Campers Will Do Well to Remember.

Airplanes are helping fight forest fires in some parts of the country, says the American Forestry association, but that is no reason the public should relax its vigilance and do a great part of the forest fire fighting by not having any fires. With the annual forest fire loss reaching about thirty millions of dollars every year and with the cost of lumber mounting higher and higher the American Forestry association says it is up to the public to join in the fight with a will. Campers are blamed for many of the fires and now that the tourists are getting out into the open the association calls on them to remember:

No to throw your match away until you are sure it is out.

Not to drop cigarette or cigar butts until the glow is extinguished.

Not to knock out your pipe ashes while hot or where they fall into dry leaves or other inflammable material, Not to build a camp fire any larger than is absolutely necessary.

Not to leave a fire until you are sure it is out; smother it with earth or water.

Not to burn brush or refuse in or near the woods

Not to be idle when you discover a fire in the woods. If you cannot put it out yourself, get help. Where a forest guard, ranger or state fire warden can be reached call him up on the nearest telephone you can find.

Not to forget that human thoughtlessness and negligence are the cause of more than half of the forest fires In this country, and that the smallest spark may start a couflagration that will result in loss of life and destruction of timber and young growth, valuable not only for lumber but for their influence in helping to prevent flood, erosion and drought,

Work of "City Beautiful."

The Cleveland Betterment council has undertaken the work of trying to make Cleveland not only a healthful city and a clean city, but a beautiful city as well. Everyone who keeps his der will receive a letter of commendation thanking him for his interest in the furthering of the "City Beautiful" movement.

It is proposed that a vigorous campaign be started to clean up the city, also that everyone should plant up his yard, and if he has no yard, to have window boxes or parch boxes surrounding his home.

Two Groups of Rice Plants.

Rice is the chief sustenance of onethird of the world's population. It has been cultivated from time immemorial in tropical and semitropical countries and more than 1,000 different varieties have been recognized. The rice plant is similar in appearance to wheat, but Instead of having a compact "ear" it bears a head composed of fine stalks, each of which contains one grain. The grains are covered with a brown husk when separated from the rest of the plant they are known as "paddy." Rice plants may be broadly divided into only with going to sea, and being one day at Hull and one of my companions about to go by sea to London in his father's ship, nothing would serve me but I must go with him-thi on September 8, 1651, and I being them nineteen years of age.

The ship was no sooner out of port han the wind began to blow and the sea to rise in the most frightful manner, which made me most terribly sick in body and frightened in mind. In my agony I vowed that if God would spare me through this one voyage 1 would go, immediately I set foot on land, directly home to my good parents and be ever after guided in m. conduct by their advice.

But next day the wind was abate and the sea calmer, and the sun wen down to a perfectly fine evening, and when to that was added a bowl of punch made by a shipmate. I forgot my resolution to return home after the voyage; and such has been my habit. to my great misfortune, all my life: to disvow in the hour of peril the headstrong actions which have brought me to peril, and when the danger is past to forget all vows and plung headlong once more on my headless courses.

Various were my adventures after that first tempestuous voyage. Trading to Guinea in Africa I was captured by a Turkish rover and sold into slavery, from whence after many perils I escaped to the Brazils, where I set myself up for a sugar planter and was enjoying a fine prosperity thereat, when I fell a victim to temptation. Help heing scarce in the Brazils and some planters there knowing that I had traded with the slave coasts of Africa, they beguiled me into a voyage to those parts with the intent to secure slave labor for our plantations. Only evil does ever come of evil

Our ship was wrecked on an unknown island off to the northeast coast of South America, and of all the ship's company I alone, by the blessing of God, was allowed to escape through the high surf to the shore, All I possessed at the time was a knife. a pipe and a little tobacco in a box. yard and his place in immaculate or- Walking along the shore, when I had recovered sufficiently in strength so to walk, I found fresh water, a great joy, Having drunk and put a little tobacco. against the hunger in my mouth. I took up my lodging in a tree and did there sleep to my great refreshment throughout the night.

Next morning the weather was clear and the sea mild, but what pleased me most was the sight of the ship which. as the tide ebbed, lay so close to the shore that I found no trouble in swimming out to it. No living thing except a dog and two cats were left on the ship; but there was a store of necessittes, and such I took, building a raft for the purnose of transporting them to an inlet in the Island where was fresh water and a flat high place for my habitation. On the night of the thirteenth day, my work of transportation being done. island. What Friday told me of the mainland, after I had taught him some English, decided me to leave my island. We built a boat, this time not too far from the sea for launching, and were almost ready to set sail when 21 savages in three canoes landed on the island with three prisoners for a feast. Que of the prisoners was a white man, which enraged me. I double-charged wo fowling pieces, four muskets, two pistols, and giving Friday a hatchet and also a great dram of rum and myself my great sword, we descended and killed all but four of the savages. One of the prisoners was Friday's father. The white man was a Spaniard. a survivor from a ship of which I had seen the wrecked hull on my island some years before this, and from which I had taken some 1,200 pieces of gold, but of which I made small account because of its being of less value to me than so much sand of the beach.

The Spaniard and Friday's father I sent with fire-arms and food in my new boat to bring back the wrecked crew of the Spanish ship. While walting for their return an English ship with a mutinous crew put into my Island. I helped the captain recover his ship and took passage with him for England, leaving on the island the most mutinous members with two honest ones who wished also to remain. Later, my Spanlards returned and all settled together on the island, having their dissensions at first, but settling down finally into a flourishing colony, which some years later it was my happiness to visit.

After twenty-eight years, two months and nineteen days I left my island. I anticipated much joy of my arrival in England, but I was like a stranger there. My mother and father were both dead, which was unfortunate, as I could have been of great service to them; for besides the 1,200 pieces of gold from the Spanish ship, there was 10,000 bounds sterling awaiting me from an honest friend, a Portuguese captain to whom I had entrusted my estate in the Brazils before setting forth on the Ill-fated errand which threw me for twenty-eight years on my island. So pleased was I with his honesty that I settled 100 moldures 8 year on hin, and fifty moldures a year on his son, both for life.

I married and begot three children. and except for the one voyage to the old island, of which I have spoken, I roamed no more. So here I am, having lived a life of infinite variety for 29 years, blessed with more than I de serve and resolved to prepare now for the longest journey of all. If I have learned anything.
