HARDING SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE A NEW KEYNOTE

Republican Nominee at Notification Ceremonies Discusses Problems Confronting Nation.

'HOLD HERITAGE AMERICAN NATIONALITY UNIMPAIRED'

Advocates Party Responsibility as Distinguished From Dictatorial and Autocratic Personal Rule—In Referring to League of Nations, Says We Do Not Mean to Shun a Single Responsibility of This Republic to World Civilization—Favors Protective Tariff, Merchant Marine, a Small Army, Woman Suffrage and National Budget.

Marion, O.—(Special.)—Warren G. Harding was officially notified here of his nomination as the Republican candidate for the presidency. His speech of acceptance is, in part, as follows:

Chairman Lodge, members of Notification Committee, members of National Committee, ladies and gentlemen: The message which you have formally conveyed brings to me a realization of responsibility which is not underestimated. It is a supreme task to interpret the covenant of a great political party, the activities of which are so woven into the history of this republic, and a very sacred and solemn undertaking to utter the faith and aspirations of the many millions who adhere to that party. The party platform has charted the way, yet, somehow, we have come to expect that interpretation which voices the faith of nominees who must assume specific tasks.

Let me be understood clearly from the very beginning. I believe in party sponsorship in government. I believe in party government as distinguished from personal government, individual, dictatorial, autocratic or what not.

No man is big enough to run this great republic. There never has been one. Such domination was never intended. Tranquility, stability, dependability—all are assured in party sponsorship, and we mean to renew the assurances which were rendered in the cataclysmal war.

Our first committal is the restoration of representative popular government, under the constitution, through the agency of the Republican party. Our vision includes more than a chief executive, we believe in a cabinet of highest capacity, equal to the responsibilities which our system contemplates, in whose councils the vice president, second official of the republic, shall be asked to participate. The same vision includes a cordial understanding and co-ordinated activities with a house of Congress, fresh from the people, voicing the convictions which members bring from direct contact with the electorate, and cordial co-operation along with the restored functions of the senate, fit to be the greatest deliberative body of the world.

International Relationship.
It is not difficult, Chairman Lodge, to make ourselves clear on the question of international relationship. We Republicans of the senate, conscious of our solemn oaths and mindful of our constitutional obligations, when we saw the structure of a world super-government taking visionary form, joined in a becoming warning of our devotion to this republic. If the torch of constitutionalism had not been dimmed, the delayed peace of the world and the tragedy of disappointment and Europe's misunderstanding of America easily might have been avoided. The Republicans of the senate halted the barrier of independent American eminence and influence, which it was proposed to exchange for an obscure and unequal place in the merged government of the world. Our party means to hold the heritage of American nationality unimpaired and un surrendered.

The world will not misconstrue. We do not mean to hold aloof. We do not mean to shun a single responsibility of this republic to world civilization. There is no hate in the American heart. We have no envy, no suspicion, no aversion for any people in the world. We hold to our rights, and mean to defend, aye, we mean to sustain the rights of this nation and our citizens alike, everywhere under the shining sun. Yet there is the concord of amity and sympathy and fraternity in every resolution. There is a genuine aspiration in every American breast for a tranquil friendship with all the world.

One may readily sense the conscience of our America. I am sure I understand the purpose of the dominant group of the senate. We were not seeking to defeat a world aspiration, we were resolved to safeguard America. We were resolved then, even as we are today, and will be tomorrow, to preserve this free and independent republic.

In the call of the conscience of America is peace, peace that closes the gaping wound of world war, and silences the impassioned voices of international envy and distrust. Heeding this call and knowing as I do the disposition of the Congress, I promise you formal and effective peace so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican executive to sign.

It is better to be the free and disinterested agent of international justice and advancing civilization, with the covenant of conscience, than be shackled by a written compact which surrenders our freedom of action and gives to a military alliance the right to proclaim America's duty to the world. No surrender of rights to a world council or its military alliance, no assumed mandatory however appealing, ever shall summon the sons of this republic to war. Their supreme sacrifice shall only be asked for America and its call of honor. There is a sanctity to that right we will not delegate.

Leaving America Independent.

Disposed as we are, the way is very simple. Let the failure attending assumption, obstinacy, impracticability and delay be recognized, and let us find the big, practical, unselfish way to do our part, neither covetous because of ambition nor hesitant through fear, but ready to serve ourselves, humanity and God. With a senate advising as the constitution contemplates, I would hopefully approach the nations of Europe and of the earth, proposing that understanding which makes us a willing participant in the consecration of nations to a new relationship, to commit the moral forces of the world, America included, to peace and international justice, still leaving America free, independent and self-reliant, but offering friendship to all the world.

It is folly to close our eyes to outstanding facts. Humanity is restive, much of the world is in revolution, the agents of discord and destruction have wrought their tragedy in pathetic Russia, have lighted their torches among other peoples, and hope to see America as a part of the great Red confederation. Ours is the temple of liberty under the law, and it is ours to call the Sons of Opportunity to its defense. America must not only save herself, but ours must be the appealing voice to sober the world.

It must be understood that toil alone makes for accomplishment and advancement, and righteous possession is the reward of toil, and its incentive. There is no progress except in the stimulus of competition.

The chief trouble today is that the world war wrought the destruction of healthful competition, left our storehouses empty, and there is a minimum production when our need is maximum. Maximums, not minimums, is the call of America. It isn't a new story, because war never fails to leave depleted storehouses and always impairs the efficiency of production. War also establishes its higher standards for wages, and they abide. I wish the higher wage to abide, on one explicit condition—that the wage-earner will give full return for the wage received.

Production, More Production.

I want, somehow, to appeal to the sons and daughters of the republic, to every producer, to join hand and brain in production, more production, honest production, patriotic production, because patriotic production is no less a defense of our best civilization than that of armed force. Profiteering is a crime of commission, under-production is a crime of omission. We must work our most and best, else the destructive reaction will come.

The menacing tendency of the present day is not chargeable wholly to the unsettled and fevered conditions caused by the war. The manifest weakness in popular government lies in the temptation to appeal to group citizenship for political advantage.

It would be the blindness of folly to ignore the activities in our own country which are aimed to destroy our economic system, and to commit us to the colossal tragedy which has destroyed all freedom and made Russia impotent. This movement is not to be halted in throttled liberties. We must not abridge the freedom of speech, the freedom of press, or the freedom of assembly, because there is no outside in repression. These liberties are as sacred as the freedom of religious belief, as inviolable as the rights of life and the pursuit of happiness. We do hold to the right to crush sedition, to stifle a menacing contempt for law, to stamp out a peril to the safety of the republic or its people, when emergency calls, because security and the majesty of the law are the first essentials of liberty. He who threatens destruction of the government by force or flaunts his contempt for lawful authority, ceases to be a loyal citizen and forfeits his rights to the freedom of the republic.

No party is indifferent to the welfare of the wage-earner. To us his good fortune is of deepest concern, and we seek to make that good fortune permanent. We do not oppose but approve collective bargaining, because that is an outstanding right, but we are unalterably insistent that its exercise must not destroy the equally sacred right of the individual, in his necessary pursuit of livelihood. Any American has the right to quit his employment, so has every American the right to seek employment. The group must not endanger the individual, and we must discourage groups preying upon one another, and none shall be allowed to forget that the government's obligations are alike to all the people.

No Strike Against Government.

We are so confident that much of the present-day insufficiency and inefficiency of transportation are due to the withering hand of government operation that we emphasize anew our opposition to government ownership, we want to expedite the reparation and make sure the mistake is not repeated.

A state of inadequate transportation facilities, mainly chargeable to the failure of governmental experiment, is losing millions to agriculture, it is hindering industry, it is menacing the American people with a fuel shortage little less than a peril. It emphasizes the present-day problem and suggests that spirit of encouragement and assistance which commits all America to relieve such an emergency.

Gross expansion of currency and credit have depreciated the dollar just as expansion and inflation have discredited the coins of the world. We inflated in haste, we must deliberate in deliberation. We debased the dollar in reckless finance, we must restore in honesty.

In all sincerity we promise the prevention of unreasonable profits, we challenge profiteering with all the moral force and the legal powers of government and people, but it is fair, aye, it is timely, to give reminder that law is not the sole corrective of our economic ills.

Drive Against Extravagance.

Let us call to all the people for thrift and economy, for denial and sacrifice if need be, for a nation-wide drive against extravagance and luxury, to a recommitment to simplicity of living, to that prudent and normal plan of life which is the health of the republic.

New conditions, which attend amazing growth and extraordinary industrial development, call for a new and forward-looking program. The American farmer had a hundred and twenty millions to feed in the home market, and heard the cry of the world for food and answered it, though he faced an appalling task amid handicaps never encountered before.

Contemplating the defenselessness of the individual farmer to meet the organized buyers of his products and the distributors of the things the farmer buys, I hold that farmers should not only be permitted but encouraged to join in co-operative association to reap the just measure of reward merited by their arduous toil.

Our platform is an earnest pledge of renewed concern for this most elemental and elemental industry and in both appreciation and interest we pledge effective expression in law and practice. We will halt that co-operation which again will make profitable and desirable the ownership and operation of comparatively small farms intensively cultivated, and which will facilitate the caring for the products of farm and orchard without the lamentable waste under present conditions.

America would look with anxiety on the discouragement of farming activity either through the government's neglect or its paralysis by socialist practices. A Republican administration will be committed to renewed regard for agriculture, and seek the participation of farmers in curing the ills justly complained of, and aim to place the American farm where it ought to be—highly ranked in American activities and fully sharing the highest good fortunes of American life.

Becomingly associated with this subject are the policies of irrigation and reclamation, so essential to agricultural expansion, and the continued development of the great and wonderful West. It is our purpose to continue and enlarge federal aid, not in sectional partiality, but for the good of all America.

I believe the budget system will effect a necessary, helpful reformation, and reveal business methods to government business.

I believe federal departments should be made more business-like and send back to productive effort thousands of federal employees, who are either duplicating work or not essential at all.

I believe in the protective tariff policy and know we will be calling for its saving Americanism again.

I believe in a great merchant marine. I would have this republic the leading maritime nation of the world.

I believe in a navy ample to protect it, and able to assure us dependable defense.

I believe in a small army, but the best in the world, with a mindfulness for preparedness which will avoid the unutterable cost of our previous neglect.

I believe in our eminence in trade abroad, which the government should aid in expanding, both in revealing markets and speeding cargoes.

I believe in establishing standards for immigration, which are concerned with the future citizenship of the republic, not with mere man-power in industry.

I believe that every man who dons the garb of American citizenship and walks in the light of American opportunity, must become American in heart and soul.

I believe in holding fast to every forward step in unshackling child la-

SALIENT POINTS OF SENATOR HARDING'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

- * "I pledge fidelity to our country and to God, and accept the nomination of the Republican party for the presidency of the United States."
- * "The human element comes first, and I want the employers in industry to understand the aspirations, the convictions, the yearnings of millions of American wage earners."
- * "The Constitution contemplates no class and recognizes no group. It broadly includes all the people, with specific recognition for none."
- * "We approve collective bargaining."
- * "Gross expansion of currency and credits has depreciated the dollar. We will attempt intelligent and courageous deflation."
- * "When competition—natural, fair impelling competition—is suppressed, whether by law, compact or conspiracy, we halt the march of progress, silence the voice of aspiration and paralyze the will for achievement."
- * "I promise you formal and effective peace so quickly as a Republican Congress can pass its declaration for a Republican executive to sign."
- * "I can hear the call of conscience an insistent voice for largely reduced armaments throughout the world."
- * "Our vision includes more than a chief executive. We believe in a cabinet of highest capacity, equal to the responsibilities which our system contemplates, in whose councils the vice president, second official of the Republic, shall be asked to participate."

bor and elevating conditions of woman's employment.

I believe the federal government should stamp out lynching and remove that stain from the fair name of America.

I believe the federal government should give its effective aid in solving the problem of ample and becoming housing of its citizenship.

I believe this government should make its Liberty and Victory bonds worth all that its patriotic citizens paid in purchasing them.

Taxes Must Be Reduced.

I believe the tax burdens imposed for the war emergency must be revised to the needs of peace, and in the interest of equity in distribution of the burden.

I believe the negro citizens of America should be guaranteed the enjoyment of all their rights, that they have earned the full measure of citizenship bestowed, that their sacrifices in blood on the battlefields of the republic have entitled them to all of freedom and opportunity, all of sympathy and aid that the American spirit of fairness and justice demands.

I believe there is an easy and open path to righteous relationship with Mexico. It has seemed to me that our undeveloped, uncertain and infirm policy has made us a culpable party to the governmental misfortunes in that land. Our relations ought to be both friendly and sympathetic; we would like to acclaim a stable government there, and offer a neighborly hand in pointing the way to greater progress.

I believe in law enforcement. If elected I mean to be a constitutional president, and it is impossible to ignore the constitution, unthinkable to evade the law, when our every committal is to orderly government.

The four million defenders on land and sea were worthy of the best traditions of a people never war-like in peace and never pacifist in war. They commanded our pride, they have our gratitude, which must have genuine expression. It is not only a duty, it is a privilege to see that the sacrifices made shall be requited, and that those still suffering from casualties and disabilities shall be abundantly aided and restored to the highest capabilities of citizenship and its enjoyment.

Advocates Woman Suffrage.

The womanhood of America, always its glory, its inspiration and the potent, uplifting force in its social and spiritual development, is about to be enfranchised. In so far as congress can go, the fact is already accomplished. By party edict, by my recorded vote, by personal conviction I am committed to this measure of justice. It is my earnest hope, my sincere desire that the one needed state vote be quickly recorded in the affirmation of the right of equal suffrage and that the vote of every citizen shall be cast and counted in the approaching election.

And to the great number of noble women who have opposed in conviction this tremendous change in the ancient relation of the sexes as applied to government, I venture to plead that they will accept the full responsibility of enlarged citizenship and give to the best in the republic their suffrage and support.

Ours is not only a fortunate people, but a very common-sensical people, with vision high but their feet on the earth, with belief in themselves and faith in God. Whether enemies threaten from without or menaces arise from within, there is some indefinable voice saying, "Have confidence in the republic! America will go on!"

WHERE MR. SNAGGS GOT EVEN

Turned Down, He at Least Left Miss Binks Chewing the Cud of Bitter Reflection.

He was of the hard-up-but-hopeful variety. For years he had sought Fortune, but that fickle dame had put her thumb to her nose and spread her fingers out in his direction.

Now, however, he thought he had tracked her down in the person of Miss Binks.

Miss Binks was certainly not young, nor was she beautiful. When one gazed upon her, one looked again, to make sure she was not a gollywog. But she had riches, and, as the poet might have remarked, "Sweet coin is more than coronets and simple quids than Norman blood."

So he proposed; but, alas!
"No, Mr. Snaggs," she remarked; "I shall never love again. The only man I ever loved was killed at the battle of—"

Snaggs reached for his hat, a dreadful smile upon his features.
"Yes, I know," he said, with deadly calm. "Gettysburg, wasn't it?"

FIGS FOR HOME CONSUMPTION

Possibility That This Country Will Soon Be Producing All Demand Calls For.

It is not improbable that this country will soon produce all the figs it needs. This statement is made by the chief of the bureau of plant industry in his report on the progress of Smyrna fig culture in California.

Much of the success of this enterprise has been due to the fact, that the department has been able to maintain a caprifig orchard at Loomis, from which caprifigs have been distributed free to growers. Before this distribution was arranged for many small growers of Smyrna figs became discouraged and some even dug up their orchards. The relationship between these two varieties is that the Smyrna fig is fertilized by an insect which lives on the caprifig.

In the fall of 1917 the fig insect was established in some old seedling caprifig trees in Brunswick, Ga., and since then a number of caprifig trees have been similarly treated. The result is that it has been possible to caprifig and bring into bearing many sterile Smyrna fig trees growing in the southeastern states. Some of these trees bear a very high grade of fruit, promising for use as fresh fruit or for canning.

What's in a Name!
"A printer informed me recently what the 'Evansville Bar association' really is," said Joseph H. Igleheart, secretary of the Evansville association.

Mr. Igleheart recently ordered printed a number of licenses to be granted to members of the association. When a copy of the proof was shown him, he discovered that the words "Evansville Bar association" were in unusually large type.

"What do you think these licenses are for—saloon keepers?" inquired Igleheart of the printer.

"Why, certainly what else does the word 'bar' mean?" was the printer's response.—Indianapolis News.

Let in on a Secret.
While riding on a crowded street car I chanced to meet an old acquaintance. Having had quite a success with a little experiment at home, I decided to let my friend in on the secret. I placed my newspaper to my face in order that the passengers would not hear what I had to say. When I had finished telling him my story he straightened up with surprise and belated out, so that all within a radius of ten feet could hear him, "For the love of Mike, where did you get the corn and raisins?"—Chicago Tribune.

Southern Pine Important.
Aside from lumber, the southern pines, particularly the long-leaf pine, are the source of our naval stores, representing a value of $20,000,000 a year. The position of the United States in regard to these important raw materials is at present a commanding one. Only one other country can be considered a rival, and that country—France—produces only about one-fourth as much as the United States.

Might Raise the Rent.
"You were very polite to that man, and yet you say that you do not like him?"
"That's true. I have no fondness for him, but I have good reason for being polite to him. He's my landlord."

Brevity.
"Is your wife fond of going to church?"
"Yes; but she likes for the sermon to match her skirt in regard to length."
—Florida Times-Union.

The Reason.
"They say the price of diamonds is going up."
"Yes; the working classes will not buy the cheap stones."

COULD WE FORGET!

Could we forget that, over there in France, Lie, row on row, those little white-crossed mounds
O'er which the rain tears glisten, sun smiles glance
And birds sing threnodies of sweetest sounds!
Could we forget!

Could we e'er lose the sacred memory
Of palm-brimmed eyes and straining arms—the kiss,
The choking ache, that sky-rimmed desert sea—
Could we forget the dear loved voice we miss!
Could we forget!

They gave their all, those loyal sons of ours,
When came the first clear call for man to fight
The onswearing hordes of hell-spined powers
That sought to shackle Liberty and Right!
Could we forget!

Because they went we walk our customary way
And straight before us stretch the high roads fair;
Tis ours to give us, carry on and pay
The debt we owe the dear ones over there.
Could we forget!
—Lachlan Campbell.

RATTLES AT LIGHTNING RATE

Dreaded Snake Able to Agitate Its Tail Quicker Than Any Human Eye Can Follow.

How fast does a rattlesnake's tail vibrate when it is excited? Such was the problem that Mabel C. Williams of the State University of Iowa set herself to solve. Prof. H. R. Dill, curator of the natural history museum, let her experiment with the tail of a diamond-back rattler from Texas, with nine or ten remaining rattles, others having been broken off. Miss Williams reports the results to Science.

Two assistants kept the snake's head out of mischief and handled the recording apparatus, while Miss Williams held the tail as far back from the tip as possible and directed a wire she had fastened to it against a brass plate. The touching of the plate completed an electric circuit which recorded the vibrations upon a time indicator.

Then they made the snake angry and it began rattling. The speed of the vibrations of its tail varied from 28 to 30 hundredths of a second.

The rattling produces a tone which depends not upon the vibration but upon the natural resonance of the rattles themselves.

"The pitch of this tone," writes Miss Williams, "as determined by two musicians with a very keen sense of pitch, and checked with accurately tuned forks, is between C and C sharp; the tone is expressed, therefore, by about 128 to 135 vibrations per second. Very marked changes in rate of tail, from the very fastest that could be produced by marked provocation, to the almost quiescent state, did not cause a fluctuation of the pitch beyond this approximate half tone. The tone itself is exceedingly complex, however, and it might conceivably vary with the number and size of the rattles. It was possible to detect, but not to identify, certain overtones.

"The popular impression that the rattler uses his rattles as a warning that he is about to strike is regarded by Mr. Dill as quite erroneous. This snake when striking normally does so first and rattles afterward, if at all. It will, for instance, strike at a bird placed in the cage, rattle, then strike again. It appears that the rattle is rather to terrify than to warn. It is also used as a defensive mechanism. The instinct to vibrate the tail is not peculiar to the rattlesnake, but is common to many other species, as, for instance, to the non-venomous king snake and the blue racer."

HIS PLUNDER.

A man will chase a dollar as a dog would chase a hare,
And after it he runs up hill, down dale, and everywhere,
And as he keeps pursuing it for many a weary mile
It seems as if 'twas shrinking, growing smaller all the while.
When first he starts out after it, its size is huge, immense,
But when he catches it at last it looks like thirty cents.
—Tennyson J. Daft, in Kansas City Star.

Chihuahua.
The largest in extent of the 28 states of Mexico is the state of Chihuahua, one of the principal mining states of the republic. In 1918 there were operating 55 mines owned by 26 different companies. The value of the metals extracted in these mines in 1918 was $7,412,000.

True to Life.
"I don't want to buy that picture. The battle view it depicts shows only machine work."
"Yes, but this view is the work of a machine gun battery."

Sees His Duty.
"You ought to have pity for your fallen fellow-man."
"Tain't my fault he's fallen; I always put plenty of ashes on the pavement."

Changed Times.
"I was married when I was getting only $15 a week."
"Gee, whiz, Pa. Billy Green gets that and he's only an office boy."

WASTE BASKET EASY TO MAKE

Cardboard and Either Chintz or Wallpaper Afford the Simple Materials Required.

This paper basket is cheaply and easily made by using cardboard and either chintz or wallpaper.

Get a piece of thin cardboard about 14 inches deep and 21½ inches long; this fold seven times at intervals of 8 inches, which you will find leaves ½ inch, and allows for wrapping over to join. Next cut a piece of cardboard shape of small diagram, also measuring 21 inches round; place the upper part, which should be hexagon in shape, on bottom part, and paste together with narrow strips of linen pasted on both from the outside and inside so as to make it quite secure.

Now to cover, either chintz or wallpaper can be used. Cut it exactly same size as the cardboard, only allowing ¼-inch turnings everywhere, so that the covering comes over the edge of basket at top and bottom; this can be pasted on. Keep the paste as dry as possible, so that the chintz or paper is not made wet.

Now to neaten inside use a plain color, either in paper or material. Cut also same as cardboard and without turnings, and also paste in the same manner inside basket.

Cut a piece of lining same shape as small diagram and paste over bottom to neaten, when it will be ready for use after standing to dry for a few hours.

TAFFETA FROCKS FOR SPRING

Fabric Always Favored When It Can Be Worn Without Wraps; Short Sleeves to Prevail.

The taffeta frock for spring is a foregone conclusion. Taffeta never really goes out of style, and for daytime wear it is particularly lovely in spring when no wrap that will crush its crispness need be worn. All-black taffeta frocks will be particularly smart. Many of these are entirely untrimmed, white organdie cuffs and collar, or a mere neckband of the organdie serving to relieve their somberness.

One black taffeta frock recently shown has a long waist, the skirt attached, with scant gathers at front and back and with side panels longer than the skirt proper done all over the eyelet embroidery. The sleeves were short and the neck round and finished with a white filet lace collar. Another black taffeta frock is embroidered in beige, and still another is all black, with a flaring overskirt edged all about with self ruchings.

The one really definite feature of spring styles is the uniform leaning to short sleeves. Dresses may be cut on straight chemise lines, arranged with clever bouffant draperies, or lean to the dignified redingote, but the short sleeves will be present, no matter what the style.

ADMIRE THE DUVETYN HAT

Headgear of This Kind Easily Enough Made, But Price of Material Discouraging.

Most every girl, if she hasn't a duvetyne hat, wishes she had one. Of course, they are easily enough made, but a glimpse at the price of duvetyne in the shops is enough to discourage even the most hopeful soul. If, however, you have one of those French tams so popular a few seasons ago, it will help you. They are made of a material very much like duvetyne and work up beautifully into toques or small hats. The first thing to do is to visit the nearest 5 and 10 cent store and treat yourself to a 10-cent hat frame of buckram. Fit your tam over this (a slit or so may be needed to make it fit). Once fitted on the frame, it is for you to use your ingenuity in draping the crown into soft folds. Here is where a bit of chenille in contrasting color can be used effectively. A flower motif or conventional design is just the thing to hold the folds in place. Any further trimming can be left to your own judgment, once the rudiments have been completed.

To Make Neat Buttonhole.
If you wish to make a perfect buttonhole in a garment, take a pencil and mark the length of the buttonhole desired, then buttonhole stitch around the mark before cutting. The buttonhole can then be easily split with a safety razor, penknife or embroidery scissors, and will be much prettier and neater than if the material is cut before working.

Spring and Winter Suits.
Suits for early springtime are not unlike those of the winter season; replace in imagination the usual banding of fur with lacquered ribbon, add a close, confining little belt, and you have the effect.

Genoa Hospital to Open.

Dr. Skinner's hospital in Genoa will again be opened to the public Saturday of this week. The hospital will be in charge of Miss Julia Wilson of Ludlowville as superintendent. Miss Wilson's ability as a nurse is well known in this section, she having had 13 years of practical experience since her graduation from Cortland hospital training school in 1907. Miss Wilson made a specialty of surgical study and is qualified in every way to assume the duties as head of the hospital.

Both surgical and medical cases will be received in the hospital, and will be given the best of attention. The institution is centrally located for people of this section, and is nicely furnished and completely equipped for the care of patients. It has been thoroughly cleaned and renovated and is in fine shape. The rooms are light and airy, and much pleasanter than the ordinary hospital rooms. Several cases are expected at once.

The above picture was taken when the hospital was first built and opened, several years ago.

Mrs. Benson was formerly Mrs. Alida Teeter and was married to Mr. Benson three years ago. They formerly lived at East Lansing, but for the past two years had resided at South Lansing.

She was found a little later by her sister who resided with her.

Mrs. VanAllen was the widow of L. G. VanAllen. She had suffered from heart trouble for some time.

Mrs. VanAllen is survived by two sisters, Miss Heald of Moravia, and Mrs. H. B. Wright of Skaneateles.

Poultry Experts in Genoa

Miss Marion Fowler and Miss Mabel Gresham will be in Genoa for some time making a survey of the poultry raised in this vicinity. These ladies have made a special study of the poultry problems, such as the care of baby chicks, the feeding of moulting hens, selection of birds for high egg production and other fundamental poultry problems.

While in Genoa, they will take up these important problems with the poultry raisers.

The enterprise of the GENOA SUPPLY CO., has made it possible for poultry raisers to get the benefit of the experience of these experts.

Miss Royce presented the different subjects which the club could take up and after a discussion, it was decided to hold a canning demonstration meeting Tuesday, Aug. 3, at the home of Mrs. VanMarter at 1:30 o'clock. —Exceptionally beautiful scenery is shown in the American classic, "In Old Kentucky," featuring Anita Stewart which will be shown at the Gem theater on Aug. 2. The rough and rugged mountains, the deep ravines, the crystal clear mountain streams rushing and tumbling down the steep gullies lends enchantment to this thrilling picture of a mountain girl, who though born among the outlawed moonshiners, wins her way to love and success through her intrepid daring and strength of heart.

SUMMER GOWNS SOFT AND DAINTY

Designs Very Simple, Handwork Trimmings Furnishing Their Principal Charm.

SHORT SLEEVES TO PREVAIL

Present Fashion, So Comfortable for Warm Weather, May Be Passed by Fall—Dots, Plaids and Checks.

Lingerie frocks will be more popular this summer than ever before, according to a prominent fashion correspondent. The designs are very simple, fine handwork trimmings furnishing their principal charm. Many of them are of the chemise type with trimmings of drawn threads and hemstitching. When they are made with a waistline it is placed low on the hips.

The short sleeve is so comfortable for warm weather that it will prevail for the summer, but fashion leaders believe that its life is almost spent and that we may expect long sleeves in the autumn. Such sleeves as are long at the present time are usually of the flowing type.

In materials, voiles, batistes, cotton crepes, dotted swisses, gingham and organdies are used, as well as handkerchief and heavy linens. The last named are not quite as popular as the thinner materials, because the present mode is for soft and dainty effects and the heavy linens are not adaptable to these. Handkerchief linen is now so sheer and fine that it is almost like voile. The tints in both the voiles and the linens are very delicate.

A Soft, Blue Linen.

One shade of blue in which the sheer handkerchief linen may be obtained is perfectly lovely. It is a soft blue tinged with red. The frock made of this blue linen is a good example of trimming evolved from the fabric itself. The knife-plaited skirt is very short and has jabot ruffles laid in fine plaits with an inch-wide hem hemstitched in white thread. Frills on the waist are trimmed in the same way and hemstitching finishes the short sleeves. A soft linen sash is knotted about the waist. This model is equally effective when developed in delicate pink linen.

A fluffy frock for a young girl is yellow handkerchief linen and has a straight, short skirt with tiers of flounces at the sides only. These are piped with white and extend from the waistband to the hem almost like ruffled side panels. The waist is cut with short kimono sleeves and a V-shaped neck. A surplice collar of white linen bound with the yellow material crosses in the front, the ends slipping under a narrow sash which ties in a bow at the back.

Chemise Effects.

Many imported dresses are of fine voiles. These, too, are in chemise form. Frenchwomen like their lingerie frocks made in chemise effect. In America, while most women prefer a waistline in dresses of cotton fabric, lingerie dresses of this type have been adopted to a considerable extent.

Cotton crepe has never until recently been given serious consideration for dresses. Heretofore we thought it rather ordinary. Now it is made into such lovely models that we have changed our opinion about it. This is an interesting example of how the simplest of fabrics gain distinction when made in smart designs.

An attractive dress of white cotton crepe with a printed design in bright red and green is in chemise form with kimono sleeves. It is made over a foundation of thin white silk, the bottom of which is banded with an inch-wide strip of green crepe, making a shadow stripe of green through the white. The neck and sleeves are finished in the same manner.

Chinese yellow crepe with a design in blue is used for another chemise frock. The belt is made from braided strands of blue cotton cord. Both of these models, although very simple, are extremely effective.

In voile, organdie and batiste dresses drawnwork and little ruffles are the important trimming features, the ruffles very often running horizontally. Net is used for both insertion and ruffles. When lace is chosen it is usually a valenciennes, outlining a white collar and cuffs that are very simple.

A straight-line dress of pale yellow voile has deep tucks encircling the skirt. Threads are drawn in the tucks to give the effect of a looped fringe. The upper portion of the dress is perfectly plain except for a large fichu collar of the voile shirredly fringed. The sleeves are very short, ending several inches above the elbow, and are edged with a double fringe of the voile. An inch-wide navy blue velvet ribbon girdles the frock. This model is quite as lovely developed in pale lavender voile and girdled with mauve-gray velvet.

Plaids and Checks.

This summer's gingham frocks are charming in the colors and patterns of the materials as well as in the designs. Both large and small plaids and checks are used. Long waists and apron skirts constitute the features.

One is of navy blue and white plaid gingham barred with green. A straight skirt is gathered to the long chemiselike waist. Both the back and front apron panels are gathered to a wide sash. This sash is not stitched firmly to the dress, but merely caught by a few threads at either side in both back and front. To produce an even longer waisted effect it ties low on the hips.

Dotted swiss—always a favorite—is used more than ever this year. The colors in these are exquisite. First comes the practical navy blue, finely dotted with white. So much in demand are frocks developed from this that the ready-made models are sold almost as soon as they arrive in the shops.

Next in favor come gray with white dots, white dotted in red and pale lemon color with white flecks. Then there are various shades of blues spotted with red, which are strikingly beautiful, but not as practical as the others.

Swiss muslin frocks are made with short-sleeved waist portions and tucked full skirts which are gathered at the waistline and sashed with either self material or white. The neck may be finished with a little round collar, not unlike those seen on a child's romper, or cut low in the front and finished with a fichu of organdie. For the very slender woman there are deep shawl collars. It is very smart to have a hat of the same material as one's dress. Such hats have rather large drooping brims and draped crowns encircled with narrow grosgrain ribbon.

Organdie Peeps Out.

While making underslips of cotton materials for silk dresses is not new, this summer it is used by the best designers to a greater extent than ever. The most delightful taffeta dresses have organdie underslips which show at the sides, where the dresses are often slit, at the hem, and peep out as gumpes and undersleeves. They are the freshest and most crisp-looking dresses that can be imagined.

A black taffeta frock created by a distinguished American designer is made over a slip of very pale pink organdie. The skirt is cut shorter at either side to reveal the organdie slip. The absence of the taffeta at the sides gives the effect of a panel in both back and front. The organdie slip is again visible in the form of little undersleeves, ending just above the elbow, and a gump, both of which are trimmed with a double ruffling of the organdie. The waist is plain, featuring a low waistline girdled by a taffeta sash tying in a big bow at the back.

Dressmakers have for so long a time eschewed lingerie effects in necks and sleeves that it is all the more remarkable to see these full lingerie foundations for serge as well as silk dresses. A great deal of white organdie is used in combination with the blue ones.

TO "CONQUER AND DESTROY STATE," U. S. COMMUNISTS CALL FOR LABOR REVOLT

Revolutionary Pamphlet, Found in U. S. Department of Justice Investigations, Gives Message of Communists in Chicago to Russian Headquarters.

Extracts from "Manifesto and Program—Constitution—Report to the Communist International" by the Communist Party of America, Chicago, Ill.

Communism does not propose to 'capture' the bourgeoisie parliamentary state, but to conquer and destroy it. As long as the bourgeoisie state prevails, the capitalist class can baffle the will of the proletariat.

In those countries in which historical development has furnished the opportunity, the working class has utilized the regime of political democracy for its organization against Capitalism.

The older unionism was based on the craft divisions of small industry. The unions consisted primarily of skilled workers whose skill is itself a form of property. The unions were not organs of the militant class struggle. Today the dominant unionism is actually a bulwark of Capitalism, merging in Imperialism and accepting State Capitalism.

The proletarian revolution comes at the moment of crisis in Capitalism, of a collapse of the old order. Under the impulse of the crisis, the proletariat acts for the conquest of power, by means of mass action. Mass action concentrates and mobilizes the forces of the proletariat, organized and unorganized; it acts equally against the bourgeoisie state and the conservative organizations of the working class. Strikes of protest develop into general political strikes and then into revolutionary mass action for the conquest of the power of the state. Mass action becomes political in purpose while extra-parliamentary in form; it is equally a process of revolution and the revolution itself in operation.

The Communist Party is the conscious expression of the class struggle of the workers against capitalism. Its aim is to direct this struggle to the conquest of political power, the overthrow of capitalism and the destruction of the bourgeoisie state.

The Communist Party prepares itself for the revolution in the measure that it develops a program of immediate action, expressing the mass struggles of the proletariat. These struggles must be inspired with revolutionary spirit and purposes.

The Communist Party is fundamentally a party of action. It brings to the workers a consciousness of their oppression, of the impossibility of improving their conditions under capitalism. The Communist Party directs the workers' struggle against capitalism, developing fuller forms and purposes in this struggle, culminating in the mass action of the revolution.

The Communist Party shall make the great industrial struggles of the working class its major campaigns, in order to develop an understanding of the strike in relation to the overthrow of capitalism.

(a) The Communist Party shall participate in mass strikes, not only to achieve the immediate purposes of the strike, but to develop the revolutionary implications of the mass strike.

(b) Mass strikes are vital factors in the process out of which develops the workers' understanding and action for the conquest of power.

(c) In mass strikes under conditions of concentrated capitalism there is latent the tendency toward the general mass strike, which takes on a political character and manifests the impulse toward proletarian dictatorship.

In these general mass strikes the Communist Party shall emphasize the necessity of maintaining industry and the taking over of social functions usually discharged by the capitalists and the institutions of capitalism. The strike must cease being isolated and passive; it must become positive, general and aggressive, preparing the workers for the complete assumption of industrial and social control.

(a) Every local and district organization of the Party shall establish contact with industrial units in its territory, the shops, mills and mines—and direct its agitation accordingly.

(b) Shop Committees shall be organized wherever possible for the purpose of Communist agitation in a particular shop or industry by the workers employed there. These committees shall be united with each other and with the Communist Party, so that the party shall have actual contact with the workers and mobilize them for action against capitalism.

The Communist Party must engage actively in the struggle to revolutionize the trade unions. As against the unionism of the American Federation of Labor, the Communist Party propagandizes industrial unionism and industrial union organization, emphasizing their revolutionary implications. Industrial Unionism is not simply a means for the everyday struggle against capitalism; its ultimate purpose is revolutionary, implying the necessity of ending the capitalist parliamentary state. Industrial Unionism is a factor in the final mass action for the conquest of power, as it will constitute the basis for the industrial administration of the Communist Commonwealth.

(a) The Communist Party recognizes that the A. F. of L. is reactionary and a bulwark of capitalism.

(b) Councils of workers shall be organized in the shops as circumstances allow, for the purpose of carrying on the industrial union struggle in the old unions, uniting and mobilizing the militant elements; these councils to be unified in a Central Council wherever possible.

(c) It shall be a major task of the Communist Party to agitate for the construction of a general industrial union organization, embracing the I. W. W., W. I. L. U., independent and secession unions, militant unions of the A. F. of L., and the unorganized workers, on the basis of the revolutionary class struggle.

The Communist Party shall encourage movements of the workers in the shops seeking to renounce workers' control of industry, while indicating their limitations under capitalism; concretely, any movement analogous to the Shop Stewards of England. These movements (equally directed against the union bureaucracy) should be related to the Communist Party.

The unorganized unskilled workers (including the agricultural proletariat) constitute the bulk of the working class. The Communist Party shall directly and systematically agitate among these workers, awakening them to industrial union organization and action.

TEACHES BOYS TO MAKE STEAMERS

Baptist Missionary in Burma De-velops Unique Industry—Gov-ernment Helps in Education.

"On the road to Mandalay, where the old flotilla lay," steam launches built by the Burmese boys of a Baptist Mission school are now making frequent trips and the profits from their sale to the natives are helping in the establishment of practical industrial education in that country.

The Rev. Dr. C. A. Nichols is the man that is directly responsible for this industrial development. In far-off Burma, on the actual soil of old England, even though as Kipling says, "there ain't no buses runnin' from the bank to Mandalay," he secured a sawmill.

It was in Bassein, one of the towns grouped about the numerous mouths of the Irrawaddy, that the enterprise was begun. The Irrawaddy is the very river upon which Mandalay is built and up which "the old flotilla" made its way from Rangoon. Rev. Dr. Nichols went to work as a Baptist missionary among the Sgaw Karens, one of the forty races in cosmopolitan Burma, conducting a missionary school along the standard lines.

One day a British commissioner visiting the school asked why the boys were not taught a trade. Dr. Nichols made the time-honored missionary excuse, lack of funds to purchase equipment.

The commissioner, however, was so well impressed with the progress that the boys were making in their studies that he undertook to put a dozen of them in the government railway shops to study as machinists. Here the boys spent five years learning their trade and during that apprenticeship retained their membership in the mission church. This was the first step in the development of the industrial education idea. The next was the purchase of the sawmill.

Incidentally the Northern Baptist Convention has grasped the significance of Dr. Nichols' idea, and in its New World Movement program includes a project "to establish a trade school at Moumein and introduce education in the industrial arts, for industrial independence will make for the strength of Christian society in India as in America."

EDUCATE INDIANS TO BE REAL AMERICANS

Extension of work for the American Indian is being undertaken by Northern Baptists as part of their New World Movement. A great campaign of education, the establishment of churches and a thorough system of welfare work are important features of the proposed Baptist program for the Indian.

That the Indian has been neglected is asserted in a recent survey made by Northern Baptists. "Of the 336,000 Indians in this country, only 75,000 can read or write," states the report. "Less than 100,000 can speak the English language, not one-fourth have been admitted to citizenship, and, while there are a few good schools, there are not enough to meet the need."

The opening of a new station among the Navajo in Arizona, the largest existing tribe at the present time; extension of work in California; establishment of stations among the Rocky Boy Band and the Flatheads of Montana; a new school of secondary grade in Oklahoma, are among the immediate steps to be taken in enlarging the work among the Indians.

TO SPEND MILLIONS FOR NEW BAPTIST CHURCHES

Plans for the New World Movement of Northern Baptists provide that 113 churches of that denomination will receive $3,500,000 for new buildings and that 24 educational-social-religious centers will receive $1,000,000 for additional modern equipment. All of this is included in the $100,000,000 campaign which the denomination will carry on between April 25 and May 2.

It is also planned to spend $600,000 to clear up the debts of 37 churches. This program was held up during the war, along with all kinds of building activity, but the Edifice Department of the Northern Baptist Convention reports that $725,000 was distributed among 29 churches to remove long-standing debts and to purchase property.

Model Tenements for China. Dr. G. A. Huntley, a Baptist missionary, recently returned from China, states that the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society will erect strictly rat-proof model tenements near Shanghai Baptist College in their fight against the disease-spreading rodent. All houses will be equipped with every modern hygienic and sanitary device.

Missionaries Have Hard Fight. Fighting "flu" in India, where superstition is age-old and sanitation is unknown, was a terrific battle. Baptist medical missionaries report. However during 1918-1919 their work was recognized to have helped decrease the number of deaths. The Indian method of treatment is to keep the patient awake.

HOUSEWIFE TOLD ALL ABOUT BEEF

Government Explains How to Know the Grades.

PRICES MAY BE THE SAME

But the Quality May Be Far From Uniform—Four Points to Remember in Distinguishing the Various Grades—Shrinkage in Cooking Much Greater in Common Grade Than in Good Grade Meat.

Just why one market should charge 30 cents for sirloin steak while another dealer charged 50 cents for the same cut on that same day; why a rump roast last week was juicy and tender, while the one ordered yesterday was tough and stringy, although both cost the same price per pound, are queries which have brought wonder and consternation to many a housewife.

The fact that sirloin steaks can be purchased at such variable prices on the same day does not necessarily mean that one dealer is underselling the other on the same article. The first may be a sirloin cut from a cow or steer of common grade, while the latter is from a cow or steer of good or choice grade. The same explanation applies to the two roasts. As a rule, a dealer habitually carries the same grade of meat that is best suited to his class of customers. However, when a dealer carries more than one grade, he usually sells the same cuts from all grades at the same price. Until the public learns that grade as well as cut determines the quality of beef and should also determine the price, cuts of low grade will be retailed at the same price that similar cuts of good or choice grade command, although the difference in wholesale price is sometimes as much as 7 or 8 cents per pound between medium grade and common grade meat.

How to Know the Grade.

For the purpose of educating the housewife to know not only the cuts of meat, but also to be able to distinguish between these grades if she would select her meat wisely and economically, the bureau of markets of the United States department of agriculture has prepared the following points:

1. The color and texture of the lean meat; and the extent to which it is marbled with fat.
2. The thickness of meat covering the bone; and the proportion of meat to bone.
3. The amount and character of the outside fat and its general distribution and color.
4. The amount of inside fat, such as kidney fat on the loin cut and the fat on the inside of the ribs.

Choice grade beef is not at present found regularly in most markets, and the supply is limited. In it the characteristics of the good grade are accentuated—pronounced marbling of fat, smooth, uniform outside covering of clear white fat and firm fine textured flesh of light red color.

Good grade beef has lean meat of light to medium red color, of firm, even texture and fairly regular distribution of fat through the lean, giving the meat a slightly marbled or mottled appearance. The fat is firm and usually a creamy white. The outer covering of fat is smooth and firm and should be evenly distributed over the loins and ribs.

Medium Grade Beef.

Medium grade beef has meat of coarse texture and dark color which is inclined to be flabby and watery. The fat is flabby and usually yellowish in color and is unevenly distributed, there being almost no inside fat and a scanty and irregular outside covering.

Common grade beef has a very high percentage of bone to meat. The meat is extremely coarse in texture with no marbling of fat; is dark in color and very watery. The fat, which is very scanty, is usually of a pronounced yellow color.

The cuts of good grade beef, when compared with cuts of common grade, are much more palatable, but this is not all. A series of tests made in the experimental kitchen of the department of agriculture on the cooking quality of the different grades of beef shows that the shrinkage in cooking is much greater for common grade, watery meat than from good grade meat; also, the proportion of bone to meat is higher in the common grade, making the amount of cooked edible meat obtained from one pound as purchased of common grade meat considerably lower than the amount from a pound of good grade meat of similar cut.

PLAN EIGHT MEMORIALS TO CANADIAN VALOR

Sites Picked on Battlefields in France and Belgium—Total Cost $1,500,000.

Canada will erect permanent memorials on eight historic battle-sites in France and Belgium to mark the exploits of the Canadian forces, if the recommendation of a special committee's report to parliament are carried out.

The sites selected by senior officers who fought in the battles to be commemorated are: (1) St. Julien, (2) Passchendaele, Crest Farms; (3) Hill 62, Observatory Ridge; (4) Hill 145, Vimy; (5) Drury Cross Roads, (6) Bourlon Wood, (7) Courcellette, and (8) Hospital Wood, between Caix and La Quesnel. Each name recalls heroic events with which the Canadian corps is imperishably associated.

The three sites in Belgium (1, 2 and 3) were donated by the Belgian government. Of those in France four were purchased from private owners at a total cost of $1,500. The fifth at Bourlon Wood, was presented to Canada by Count de Franqueville, mayor of Bourlon, as a token of gratitude and appreciation of the Canadian corps' gallant work. Titles to all these properties have been obtained and the deeds are in the office of the high commissioner in London.

As four of these sites are at a distance from the main highway, about three miles of permanent roads must be built to enable material to be hauled and to provide permanent and suitable access to the memorials.

Construction of these roads and competition in design require immediate attention and the committee recommends that $250,000 be included in the supplementary estimates at this session of parliament in order that this work may be carried on.

The total estimated cost of these memorials is about $1,500,000. The committee recommends that competition for the design of the memorials be open to all Canadian architects, designers, artists and sculptors.

HOME TOWN HELPS

ALL SHOULD HAVE A GARDEN

Health and Profit in the Cultivation of the Ground, Even Though Plot Is Small.

The "city farmer," as they humorously called him, was a very great help, not only to himself, but to the country, during the war-garden time, and the experience he gained from his war-garden activities then has since helped him in the fight to win out against the high cost of living.

He has profited by that experience in every beneficial way, and the best of all is that he fell in love with his garden, and has been in love with it ever since.

He found health there, and more of home happiness; and the profit was then, as it will be now, that he didn't have to take the market basket from home.

To the town dweller, who perhaps hasn't given much attention to gardening, the Albany (Ga.) Herald says:

"It's great to have a garden, even though it produce few vegetables. It's great to have a place for outdoor exercise—a place in which to turn up the fragrant earth with a spading fork, level it with a rake and lay it off with a trench hoe. Some folk say it's better exercise than golf or tennis, though on that question we do not presume to sit in judgment. A man can work in his garden before sunrise, when golf links are too wet with the dew to be used, and his garden is a whole lot nearer home than the golf club.

"And there is no reason why Mr. Towndweller cannot have a garden with real vegetables in it if he will give a little practical thought and diligent application to its preparation and care."—Atlanta Constitution.

STRAIGHT ROWS AID GARDEN

Utilize Space to Best Advantage, and Add Greatly to the Appearance of the Plot.

It will add considerably to the ease of gardening as well as to the looks of the plot if the vegetables are planted in nice straight rows instead of helter-skelter. Besides, it will utilize the space better.

Where space is restricted, it is best to have the rows run the long way of the garden—north and south if possible—planting several kinds of similarly grown vegetables like green onions, carrots and radishes, in the same row.

If you plant such crops as beets, radishes and onions in beds these can be made four to six inches high by digging narrow paths around the bed, with a hoe and throwing the soil upon the beds.

If the drainage of your garden is not good it is well to grow cabbage cauliflower and similar crops on small ridges thrown up with the spade or hoe. Other crops, among them early peas and celery, should be planted in shallow trenches scooped out with a hoe. When these plants grow the soil is gradually worked back around the roots.

SEES BILLBOARDS AS WASTE

Eastern Authority Gives Excellent Reason Why Unsightly Structures Should Be Done Away With.

Attacking the American billboard from a new angle, Mr. Joseph Pennell declares that "the lumber expended in unnecessary and unsightly billboards in this country would rebuild nearly everything destroyed abroad. The paint wasted here would cover all the new buildings, and the labor would be of incalculable benefit in what we hear is the great essential of producing more." The argument should do much to help the anti-billboard campaign, for, although many will hesitate to believe that Mr. Pennell's arithmetic is altogether correct in so nice a balance between billboards in America and "everything destroyed" in Europe, there will be plenty to agree that the unnecessary erection of American billboards consumes a vast deal of material that would be very helpful in the erection of buildings in Europe. Meantime, the billboards multiply, and by so doing add constantly to the evidence of their own undesirability.

Revival Led to Arrest

Convert Gave Information Which Led to Capture of Escaped Prisoner.

Setting out as a revivalist preacher, a negro detective of Zanesville, Ohio, secured information which led to the arrest of a negro law breaker and in this manner secured the reward of $500 offered for the apprehension of the fugitive.

The detective-evangelist secured lodgings at the home of Mrs. Grant Smith of Paris, Ky., wife of the man wanted, and after converting her secured from her a photograph of Smith, stating that he desired it so that if he ever came across her husband he would know him and possibly be able to convert the man.

Mrs. Smith also gave the details of her husband's crime and showed the detective a letter disclosing his location. The detective secured his man and the $500.

Waiting for His Son

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Evening Classes,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT.—To wait for his Son from heaven.—1 Thess. 1:10.

This, says Paul, was the attitude of the Thessalonica Christians. From this it is very evident that they expected their Lord's return. In thus looking for him to come a second time, were they mistaken or were they basing their expectation upon the Scriptures? It is for us to determine, and if the Scriptures teach the second coming of Christ then the attitude of the Christians of Thessalonica should be the attitude of Christians today.

A careful study of the Scriptures will convince one that the truth of the second coming holds a very large place. Those who have counted tell us that the second coming is mentioned 318 times in the 260 chapters of the New Testament. The late Dr. James H. Brookes of St. Louis says that one verse in twenty-five refers to this fact. Any one familiar with the Old Testament prophecies knows that the second coming of Christ there is about his first advent. This is one reason why Israel failed to recognize her Messiah. Israel, taken up with these prophecies which tell of his glory, failed to give consideration to the prophecies which foretold his humiliation, suffering and death. No wonder that when he came they failed to recognize in him the one about whom the prophets had written such glorious things.

Christ himself many times predicted his return, and always in the clearest of terms. In John 14:3 he says: "If I go and prepare a place for you I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am there ye may be also." Again, "For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father" (Matt. 16:29).

The references by Christ to his second coming are so numerous that we can refer to only one more of his words concerning John spoken after his resurrection, in answer to Peter: "If he (John) tarry till I come what is that to thee?" (John 21:22). Here we have a distinct reference by Christ to his second coming, and following it the saying that went forth concerning John, that he should not die. But the writer adds: "Jesus said not unto him he shall not die; but if I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee?" Now this should make it clear that the death of the believer is not the second coming of Christ. Death is spoken of in the Scriptures as an enemy, while the second coming is called the blessed hope. If any passage about the second coming of Christ is taken and the word death substituted for Christ, or the term used to refer to him or his coming, it will be at once seen how ridiculous it is to interpret the second coming of Christ as the death of the believer.

We should also note that Christ always distinguished between the Holy Spirit and himself, so that by no means can the coming of the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost or to the believer be interpreted as the return of our Lord from heaven.

Neither can the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus be considered as the Lord's return, for the Lord said to John, on the Island of Patmos, about thirty years after that event: "Surely I come quickly," to which the aged apostle prayed in response: "Amen. Even so come, Lord Jesus." (Rev. 22:20).

Many, when they hear of the Lord's return, think that thereby is meant the end of the world, but that is not the case, as will be evident, if the events that are to follow his return are studied. It will save from confusion, as this is done, if it is understood that Scripture clearly reveals what we may call two stages in our Lord's coming: First, his coming in the air and gathering to himself there his redeemed (1 Thess. 4:16-17); and then his coming with his people to the earth to set up thereon his kingdom (Matt. 25:31-32). Great natural and governmental changes will then take place on the earth. Its golden age will have dawned, the desert shall blossom as a rose, no man shall say, "Know ye the Lord?" for all shall know him, and peace on earth shall prevail, for he whose right it is to rule shall reign, crowned King of Kings and Lord of all.

The second coming of Christ then is not something to be dreaded as some would have us believe, but to be expectantly looked and longed for. It should be the hope of the church and find its place in our life and practice. It does not, if properly held, make one a crank, but an earnest Christian; not a snar gazer, but a servant who is always about his Master's business and always ready, though he know not the hour his Lord shall return.

The Niagara county farm bureau is co-operating with the State College of agriculture to raise the standard of winter wheat in that county. Fearful lest the grape-growing industry will suffer another setback through a recent construction of the Walker beer bill by the excise department placing a tax on all wines made in this state for medicinal and sacramental purposes amounting to 20 cents a gallon, the Penn Yan grape growers will hold a meeting to discuss the matter. Because of the lateness of the season wine men say it is unconstitutional, the grape production may be lessened considerably and further it may lessen the demand for the fruit this fall.

Seventy Genesee county farmers sent in applications for farm help in answer to the questionnaire sent out by the farm bureau in connection with its farm labor campaign. Thirty applicants have been provided with the type of men requested since June 1 and demands for more are constantly sent in. Few laborers are applying for farm work and some are demanding too high wages. Experienced men are being paid an average of $3 to $4 a day, depending on the hours and variety of the work. Most farmers feel that amount is the very limit they would be able to pay day help.

Questionnaires have been sent to the 45 special service fruit men in the Genesee county farm bureau containing blank spaces in which they are to write prices they expect to pay for pickers, prices they expect to obtain for fruit, prices they have already been offered by buyers; the amounts of barrels, boxes and other supplies they will require and plans for storage. Similar questionnaires will be sent to fruit men all over Western New York in order that averages may be compiled and given publicity. The plan was adopted at a meeting of fruit growers held in Rochester on July 15. The same plan is being carried out all over the state under the direction of the state federation of farm bureaus.

Dr. Tillotson School Reunion.

The forty-seventh anniversary of the founding of Dr. Tillotson's Select school (1873-1880) and the eighth reunion of his former pupils both in public and private schools was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuttle on the lake road, south of King Ferry, Saturday afternoon, July 3, 1920, beginning at 10 a. m., and continuing through the afternoon.

It was an interesting coincidence that this annual gathering should have been held on the premises where stood the boyhood home of Dr. Tillotson. The old Tillotson homestead, which many of the middle-aged and older people will remember as a place of rather dignified appearance with a pleasant flower garden on the south side, was removed in the late seventies to make room for the present commodious and up-to-date residence. It was in the old homestead that Dr. Tillotson was born Feb. 14, 1812. His father was Captain Adonijah Tillotson, who served in the Revolutionary war, and his mother's name was Mary Allen; he was one of fifteen children. The old home remained for many years in possession of the family and when the new house was built it continued to be the residence of the two surviving unmarried members of the family—John and Mary Tillotson, until the death of the former in 1884.

The day of the reunion, July 3, seemed made on purpose for a gathering of this kind, to be held mainly out of doors; it was just cool enough for those who had to keep busy and just warm enough for those who were privileged to sit still or walk about the grounds. The light rain of the previous night had laid the dust without making any disagreeable dampness. The beauty of the sky and trees, together with glimpses of the lake sparkling in the sunshine and the hills beyond, brought out many expressions of pleasure and appreciation. By the way this is one of the few homes on the lake road, south of King Ferry, that have a fine and unobstructed view of the lake both from the house and the lawn.

The guests as they arrived were cordially received by Mrs. Tuttle and other members of the family and made to feel that the whole spacious house was at their disposal. The time was spent in cheery greetings and in talking of the old school days until the noon hour when all were given an opportunity to find their places at the three long tables most invitingly spread under an awning on the lawn. In addition to this arrangement for meeting the needs of the grown-ups, a table was set at a little distance for the grandchildren of the former pupils and it was a merry group of twenty or more that gathered around it.

The dinner, under the management of Mrs. W. L. Davis, chairman of the refreshment committee, was a success in every particular, not even the high cost of living seemed to make any difference with the quantity or quality of the things provided. Mrs. Davis was assisted by a competent force of helpers including Mrs. Tuttle, the hostess, Mrs. G. W. Shaw, Mrs. George Ferris, Mrs. Floyd Davis, Miss Harriet Todd, and many others. The total number present at the dinner was about 125.

As soon as all had been served, including those who had so efficiently waited upon the first tables, school was called to order for the program of the afternoon by Mr. J. G. Barger who acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Barger explained the object of the association and paid a heartfelt tribute to Dr. Tillotson as a teacher whose life and work had made a deep impression upon the young people of a generation or more ago. He also spoke of our present day duties as patriots and citizens and made a strong plea for the endorsement of the League of Nations or at least of a League of Nations.

Mr. Barger then introduced Mrs. Charles W. Collins of Cortland who called attention to the fact that in observing its anniversary the school association was also observing Founder's day, as do our colleges and universities, and also observing a reunion day, both are essential "Lest we Forget." She also spoke of the wonderful survival of school spirit outliving the teacher, the school building, and the school as an organization and named numerous instances in illustration of this fact in addition to that of Dr. Tillotson's school.

The report of the treasurer for last year showed a gratifying balance of about $9 on hand after meeting all expenses up to date.

An invitation was given by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Boles to hold the next reunion at their home, south of Five Corners, in July, 1921. The invitation was accepted.

A rising vote of thanks was then tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle for their kindness and hospitality in entertaining the association and making it one of the most enjoyable in the series of annual gatherings. Thanks were also extended to the chairmen of committees and all others who had helped in arranging and carrying out the plans of the day with such marked success.

WHY Costly Funerals Are Welcomed in China

In China every item of expense is welcomed by relatives of a dead person. Indeed, it is a mark of great regard for the dead parent should a Chinese contract enormous debt in the administration of the last rites.

A truly good son will effect enough debts to keep him a slave to the memory of his dead parent for years. The funeral must be accompanied with all the pomp the son can afford for borrow. Not only must the funeral of the father or mother be pompous, but the oldest son of the family must also maintain the honor of his ancestors and spend all the worldly goods he has accumulated to take care of such grave hills as he can claim belonging to those ancestors.

As a result of the obligation of reverence to the dead New Year's day is set for the annual visit to the graveyard by the family. In most cases it is the occasion of a family reunion far and wide to join in the ceremony. For days prior to the time their carts and wheelbarrows can be seen in long procession along the narrow roads. At night the squeaking of the vehicles, never greased, sings a funeral dirge.

When the family is assembled in the town nearest the graveyard, the oldest man leads the procession to the dirt hill under which his father rests. Long prayers, in which the son accuses himself of not being worthy of his parent and asks the father's aid in combating the evil spirits that follow a Chinese on his every step; an offering of rice, dried fruit and fish follows, and finally a bunch of "money paper" is placed under a clod of dirt on the pinnacle of the pyramidal hill. "Money paper" is a fine tissue specially made for ancestral worship. It is supposed to help the deceased to obtain favors and small comforts from the good spirits of the other world.

MAKE QUICK TRIP TO WORK

How Miners in Tennessee "Ride the Rail" Down Long and Steep Mountain Side.

The miners of the Inman coal district of Tennessee live on the mountain side, a long distance from the shaft openings of the mine in which they work. How they contrived to invent a process to reach the mine in the valley below speedily and without fatigue is quite an interesting story.

One day some clever fellow discovered that a mule shoe would fit over the top of the T-rail that marked the course of the railway. The next step was to attach a short board and then slip the mountain rail sled over the track. Then all the miner had to do was to sit down, pick up his feet and transport himself and dinner pail down the mountain to work.

Early any morning the stranger can see the miners come along with their mule-shoe toboggans, calmly take a seat and begin to descend. A pick handle, a stick or even the boot serves as a brake to regulate the speed of the sled. Sometimes two daring coal diggers will race on opposite rails from top to bottom. But generally they take the trip carefully in order not to interfere with the rights of the road that may belong to a neighbor in front of or behind them.

Why Drink Water With Meals?

Contrary to a long-standing theory, water taken with meals is now recommended. For years it has been taught that water should not be drunk with meals, because such a procedure weakens the secretion of gastric juice, also that digestion would be delayed or inhibited. But it has now been proved that the drinking of water with meals stimulates the secretion of gastric juice, and that it causes inhibition of the growth of intestinal bacteria, that it produces an improved liver function, that it decreases intestinal putrefaction, and that it enables the food to be utilized more economically; further, the saliva acts more efficiently as an amylolytic agent when diluted with water. For all these reasons we may infer that it is beneficial to drink water with meals.

Why Corks Are Best Stoppers.

The ancients kept their wines in casks, and it was drawn off as wanted. When bottles first came into use, a primitive material used as stoppers consisted of the root of liquorice, which was cut and formed to the shape of corks. These roots are still often used in this country for the making of bottle stoppers, and it was not till the manufacture of glassware became general that the practice arose of storing wine in bottles, and then the value of cork as a stopper for bottles became generally acknowledged. Thence came the saying, "This wine is corked"—meaning it tastes of the cork. Imperviousness to air and water is a rare quality which cork possesses over any other known material, and it conveys no disagreeable taste or flavor to the liquid.

Why Tea Leaves Remove Scars.

Painted wood marked and stained may be cleaned with tea leaves. After the tea has been made and used, take the leaves from the pot and place in a basin. Pour boiling water over them and let them remain in this for ten minutes. Dip a clean piece of flannel in the liquid and rub over the stained pieces. When the marks have been removed the surface should be rubbed with a dry cloth and an application of liquid vasoline applied. Rub this in so the final effect is not greasy.
