

NEWS ABOUT THE STATE

Paragraphs of the Week's Happenings
Clipped from the Tribune's Exchanges.

An Auburn wife beater has been sent to jail for 90 days for the offense. Great things are being said of the Cortland base ball team. They are surely playing great ball for a young team.

With a mile record of 57 seconds to his credit, Charles M. Murphy, champion scorcher, can laugh at policemen.

Wade Fulkerson, of Farmer says he has corn in his garden over six feet tall and tasseled out, and asks, can any one beat it?

"Jack" Wright has been chosen physical director of the Auburn Y. M. C. A. and began his duties this week. —Moravia Republican.

Since the recruiting station was opened in Auburn, sixty men have been enlisted in the United States service and nearly 300 have been examined.

Pressure is being brought to bear to force a vacancy in the office of Secretary of War. We would suggest the use of a hydraulic ram or a canned beef diet.

Lamar Smith who was seriously injured in the barn raising accident near West Groton, is improving. His leg has been set and his physician hopes for his recovery.

The Lehigh paint shops at Ithaca were shut down for good and will be moved to Sayre shortly. The men were all laid off and a few of them will go to Sayre from that place.

Mark Hanna is finding English life so enjoyable that he has postponed his trip to Paris. If Mr. Hanna should find London so enjoyable as to conclude to remain there permanently what joy there would be in the Buckeye state.

An anti-imperialist newspaper asks the question: "Is it more heinous for the Filipinos to desire independence than it was for our revolutionary fathers?" The anti-imperialist newspaper ought to explain why "our revolutionary fathers" didn't give independence to the American Indians.

A Plainfield woman was burned to death in a store the other day, by stepping on a match, which set fire to her long, trailing skirts. Had she not been clad in a dirt accumulator the accident had not happened. This is a warning which the trailing skirt wearers will read, but won't heed.

Horseless carriages are going to take this country by storm. Five or six firms are manufacturing them, and one Chicago firm is in the market with twenty-nine varieties of motor vehicles. An Indiana firm has received orders from Europe for $1,000,000 worth.

Editor Ames, of the DeRuyter Gleaner, has announced himself as a candidate for assembly nomination. His announcement, recently printed in the Gleaner, is typically modest. It makes no boasts, and is in substance the simple expression of the hope for the hearty support of his friends everywhere.

It has been decided by the courts that if a bicycle rider falls or sustains an injury on account of a dog barking or snapping at him, that the owner of the animal is responsible for damages. In a recent case a cyclist obtained $500 damages by reason of being thrown from a wheel on account of a vicious dog attacking him.

The examination of Harry Brown the young man who was arrested in Syracuse, charged with the theft of $45 from Simeon Signor, of Venice, is on before Record Kent this afternoon. Brown is represented by F. M. Leary, while District Attorney Nellis appeared for the people. Brown was discharged late this afternoon, the evidence not being sufficiently strong to hold him. —Bulletin.

Signor had a roll of bills in his hand at the Auburn race track, and a man said to be Brown grabbed it and ran.

The Odd Fellows' picnic at Cayuga Lake Park Wednesday was attended by a big crowd, estimated from five to six thousand people, and all seemed to have a good time. The next picnic is to be held at Renwick Park, Ithaca. —Farmer Review.

The Ithaca Fire Department has shown its sense of justice in reference to the coming firemen's convention in August, in not permitting the home department to compete. The prize money is all to be carried off and we are sure justice will be done in the giving of the prizes. Keep the date in mind: August 1st, 2nd, and 3d, 1899. —Spencer Needle.

The Moravia base ball club journeyed to Auburn Saturday the 24th and defeated the Y. M. C. A. team with the score of 18 to 0. The Auburn team was greatly strengthened and played at Moravia last Saturday, the score standing 24 to 0 in favor of Moravia. The game the 4th was stopped in the sixth inning by rain, when the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of the Shamrocks of Syracuse.

Warden Mead of Auburn prison, has decided that executions in the future shall be as free from sensationalism as possible. Acting upon the suggestion of Governor Roosevelt, he will probably exclude from the death chamber all press representatives except one from each of the recognized press associations.

The body of Averil Osborn, seventy years of age, who had been living on a farm near Dresden, was found in Seneca lake Thursday morning. A fence wire was around the neck, which was coiled in such a manner as to show that a stone had been attached to the other end of it, which had worked off, allowing the body to drift to shore. A verdict of suicide was found by the jury empaneled.

Must provide flags. The department of public instruction is calling the attention of the school authorities throughout the state to the necessity of supplying a flag of the nation for each school house, as required by the law of the state. The law directs the school authorities of every public school in the cities and school district to purchase a United States flag, flagstaff and the necessary appliances, and display the flag upon or near the school building during school hours, and at such other times as the school authorities may direct.

Thomas Monroe, who resides in the town of Summerhill, with his brother-in-law, Valorous Lick, attempted suicide Wednesday night, by taking paris green. After the family had retired he ascended to a back garret and procured the poison which he took dry from a glass. He took an overdose, which soon produced vomiting, and the noise awakened the family. Dr. Atwood was at once called and has succeeded in keeping the patient alive, although at present his condition is dangerous. Mr. Monroe's mind has not been right for some time.

Roswell Beardsley of North Lansing, the "oldest postmaster in the country," completed the 71st year of his service on the 28th ult. The office is the fourth class and the salary last year was $175.84. It is said at the office of the fourth assistant postmaster general at Washington that during the seventy-one years in which Mr. Beardsley has had charge of the North Lansing office, there has never been a complaint against him from the patrons, nor has the slightest error ever been found in his accounts or statements to the department.

Danby, perched among the hills of Tompkins county, is a quiet, peaceful hamlet, with the proud distinction of having been without license for thirty-five years. There are Methodist and Congregational churches, well attended by both sexes; Rev. Mr.

Tobey of the latter would grace any pulpit. The soldiers of the War of the Rebellion are not forgotten, as a handsome monument erected in front of the town hall bears testimony. The people follow prosperous agricultural pursuits, and are social and cordial to the stranger within their gates.

The water in Cayuga lake from which Seneca Falls receives its supply has been analyzed by the State chemists at Albany, Dr. Willis G. Tucker who pronounced it "not of satisfactory quality for domestic use." The water was sent to the State chemists by the committee appointed by the board of trustees to investigate the water supply and its sources, and his analysis will appear in detail with the report of the committee, to be submitted to the village board at its next meeting. Until then the Reveille will not comment upon the analysis, but merely advise people against the farther use of Cayuga lake water for drinking purposes. —Seneca Falls Reveille.

A most miraculous escape from a fatality, occurred on South Main street, yesterday forenoon. Miss June Buchanan, the young daughter of Frank Buchanan, was riding a wheel past a carriage driven by a gentleman from Locke. Just as she was passing the horse, her bicycle struck a stone and she was thrown directly in front of the animal, which became frightened, and jumped, luckily clearing her, although striking on the bicycle. Before he could be stopped, however, the wheels of the carriage passed over the child's body. She was picked up, and found to have sustained no serious injury. The frame of the wheel was broken in three places. The escape is considered marvelous. —Moravia Register. Why don't you pathmasters remove the loose stones from the highway?

General Leonard Wood is one of the men who are worthy of the highest confidence and honor. His putting aside a most lucrative place in business to continue service for the country was typical of the man. It is probable that General Wood will be well cared for, and it is intimated that a Brigadiership in the regular army and the Governorship of Cuba await him. There also is a prospect that he may be advanced to the head of the army. The General is yet a young man, and has, if his life be spared, twenty years of good service in him.

Surgeons in Geneva and vicinity are watching with great interest the case of Eugene Brazee of Oak Corners, who through an operation on the brain in the City hospital last Friday has regained the power of speech, recovered his memory and has been relieved of paralysis of the right side.

The inquest over the remains of Henry Miner, who was found in an unconscious condition in a lot in East Genoa last week and who died two hours later as a result of a bullet wound in his head, was conducted by Coroner Knapp in the undertaking rooms of Frank Demmons at Locke Saturday morning. The jury was Daniel Boice, Harry Demmons, Ross Culver, Abraham Striker, Abram Brooks and Frank Main. During the examination of witnesses it developed that when found Miner's revolver contained but two discharged cartridges. It is supposed however, that after exchanging shots with Constable Gillispie, Miner loaded an empty chamber of his revolver and shot himself. Drs. Oakwood, of Moravia, and Slocum, of Genoa, who performed the autopsy said the shot which killed Miner was a contact shot. After listening to the evidence the jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by his own hand.

Lehigh Valley Summer Tours.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad has just issued its book of "Summer Tours," which gives full details of routes and rates to various places where summer vacations may be pleasantly and profitably spent. The attractions of the various points covered in the book are diversified, including mountain, lake and seaside resorts, affording a choice of a summering place of any character which may be desired. In naming fares to points not on the line of the Lehigh, the book calls attention to that line as a desirable route to reach the places named. Of course the strongest emphasis is placed on the points reached by the Lehigh itself and the scenic attractions of the route through the Pennsylvania mountains are not understated, but the book is withal a compendium of useful information regarding nearly all of the better class of summering places, wherever situated. Mailed on receipt of four cents in stamps. Address CHAS. S. LEE, General Passenger Agent, Lehigh Valley Railroad, 26 Cortlandt Street, New York.

The Only Sure Cure for Rheumatism.

"I hobbled into Mr. Blackmon's Drug Store one evening," Says Wesley Nelson of Hamilton, Ga., and he asked me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism with which I had suffered for a long time. I told him that I had no faith in any medicine as they all failed. He says: 'Well if Chamberlain's Pain Balm does not help you you need not pay for it.' I took a bottle of it home and used it according to directions and in one week I was cured, and have not since been troubled with rheumatism. It is the quickest and only sure cure for rheumatism I have ever used.' For sale by J. S. Banker.

A diseased stomach surely undermines health. It dulls the brain, kills energy, destroys the nervous system, and predisposes to insanity and fatal diseases. CHAPTER I. SEVERAL SIGNALS.

General Sherman was in the full swing of his colossal picnic, consisting of the promenader of 60,000 Union veterans from Atlanta through the core of the Southern Confederacy, 300 miles eastward to the Atlantic coast, when Lieutenant Ledyard Oakman of the Massachusetts cavalry, accompanied by the scout Sam Borland, reined aside and started off on a little campaign of his own.

They were far over in eastern Georgia, near the South Carolina line through which the mighty army was to sweep, facing northward to unite with the legions of Grant, and stamp out the last embers of resistance. "And what a wonderful march that was, the vast host advancing in four columns, with a cloud of skirmishers and cavalry in front to veil its route, and foraging on the country through which the army passed!

The autumn was drawing to a close, and in the north the frost of the coming winter was in the air, while the soldiers in the Virginia camps drew around their blazing fires at night and, as they talked of the great war and wondered how soon it would end, wrapped their overcoats closer around their shivering forms. Ent nature sways a gentler hand and her breath has a soft fragrance of its own in the states farther south. The mornings were crisp and bracing, but something of the summer fervor lingered in the sunshine, and the hundreds of campfires that twinkled at night were needed less for warmth than for the cooking of food and the pleasure of comradeship.

It was on the afternoon of one of those perfect autumn days that Lieutenant Oakman drew rein at the edge of a piece of wood fronting on the broad, sloping cotton fields, which had yielded up their meager harvest but a brief while before, though here and there the snowy flecks on the stunted brown bushes showed where the deft fingers had failed to garner the aftermath.

The lieutenant and his scout had parted company a couple of hours previous, and the attractive countenance of the young officer betrayed his mental concern. His black, blooded mare, that had carried him safely through the flame of more than one fierce conflict, stood motionless, with the reins lying loose on her neck, while her rider looked and wondered and fretted. The most that she ventured to do was to thrust forward her silken nose and, with the aid of the flexible upper lip with which her species is provided, draw in some of the neighboring twigs and munch them despite the interference of the steel bit.

The food was neither tempting nor nourishing. Perhaps Fanny indulged to this gentle extent the better to pass away the time while her rider ruminated, but master and beast had long been accustomed to "hard tack."

The attention of Lieutenant Oakman was divided between a point on the fringe of the curving wood a fourth of a mile away and the old mansion of the plantation, which was less than half the distance named. It was a typical planter's home, low of stature, broad, roomy and whitewashed, surrounded by a wealth of shade trees, divided near the middle by a roofed passage, with wide porch extending in front, numerous outbuildings and the row of cabins near by where the slaves were comfortably quartered until most of them were brushed into the current that came with the "day of jubilee" and floated them into the promised land of freedom.

The officer turned the small spyglass suspended from his neck by a string toward the point of wood which, it has been said, attracted his attention. The result was satisfactory. Sam Borland was there, standing beside the trunk of a huge cottonwood, his horse so far in the timber as to be invisible. Evidently he was on the alert, for scarcely had Oakman located him when he took off his cap and swung it. The lieutenant whipped out his handkerchief and with a single wave replied. That was sufficient. They understood each other, and the officer turned his head part way round without shifting his position in the saddle and fixed his gaze upon the mansion, or rather upon so much of it as the shading branches permitted him to see.

The result of this scrutiny was disappointing. The cavalryman perhaps was looking for some person or signal, but failed to catch the first sign of either. When he grew weary of the work, he lowered his binocular.

"I wonder whether there's a living creature in that house," he muttered. "It looks as if it were an empty shell or huge coffin. This is the first time that red war has crossed the thresholds and the boom of a cannon nor the crack of a hostile musket has startled the women and children, but the terror is upon them at last."

A feeling of pity and wonder came to the gallant officer. His thoughts took the same trend they had taken scores of times before, and not only with him, but with multitudes of those who wore the blue and the gray.

"Why are we fighting each other? Why is the earth wetted with the warm blood of the bravest, the noblest and the most gifted of men? In the years to come, when the Union is restored in all its strength and grandeur and the veterans of both sides sit down to talk over old times, their wonderment will be why they tried with such unsurpassable bravery to take each other's lives. It passes my comprehension."

He was silent a moment, and then added in an awed undertone, "It is the hand of God, and his ways are past finding out."

But it is a perilous thing for a soldier to indulge in reverie when on duty or in the enemy's country. Recalling his straying thoughts, Lieutenant Oakman once more leveled his glass at the old mansion, but with no more result than before.

"I must be expected," he said. "This is the day that was set, and it was understood that I was not to appear on the edge of the wood until the afternoon. I don't understand it. Perhaps the news of the approach of our army has frightened the family into flight, but that isn't like the southern people. Though none of them is left except the women and servants, they will stand their ground in the face of all danger, calm, dignified, fearless, worthy types of the noblest of their sex. It can't be that I've made a mistake!" he added, startled by a sudden fear.

It was evident from the musings of the New England officer, who until this hour had never set foot in that part of Georgia, that he was acting upon the knowledge imparted by some one who knew every rod of the soil.

"At Kinmore I was to take the road to the right and ride for four miles, when I would reach a point where a fork turned into the woods on the left. I did as directed and found the forest highway at the exact point expected. I was to follow that for 200 yards, when, if I looked sharp, I would observe a bridge path. Well, I looked sharp and observed it. Riding along the same, I was told it soon emerged from the trees and skirted these cotton fields. At the point where the path debouches from the wood I was to halt my horse and wait for the signal."

"Which the same is what I've been doing for the last hour," added the lieutenant impatiently. "Night isn't far off, and there is no time to lose. I promised the general to be with him by tomorrow night, but my trip will be bootless if the mansion yonder refuses soon to give a sign—Hello!"

The instrument was lifted to his eyes again, and on the instant confirmed the belief that had suddenly thrilled him. From the upper window, on the right, he saw a hand waved. Just above and somewhat to one side he could catch the partial contour of a person's face, manifestly watching him with as close interest as he was studying the action of the party for whom he had waited so long.

The window was raised from the first, and the impatience felt by the officer at the delay in the communication vanished the moment he knew that it had been opened. Holding the glass in place, he waved the other gauntleted hand in salutation, slightly annoyed that his friend failed to show himself more fully and display a signal of a different nature. But not only did the stranger decline to do that, but unexpectedly and exasperatingly he suddenly disappeared.

The perils of campaigning had taught Lieutenant Oakman to think quickly.

"That abrupt withdrawal means that something threatening has taken place in the house or near me."

Since one contingency was as probable as the other the officer glanced rapidly at his surroundings, and as he did so both eye and ear revealed the alarming fact that a person was standing 20 feet away intently watching him.

CHAPTER II. AN INTERRUPTION.

The first notice that reached Lieutenant Oakman was the sound of a laugh. Ordinarily the emotion of mirth is contagious, but in this instance it sent a shiver down his spine, for its meaning was conducive to anything but merriment. He had been discovered while engaged in a most delicate and dangerous business.

The officer turned his head like a flash and saw standing on the edge of the wood behind him a negro boy not more than 12 years old, barefoot, with trousers held in place by a single suspender and a rickety hat without a crown. The ebony face was bisected by a grin which displayed a set of teeth that a princess might have envied, while in his right hand he held a switch, which he had probably broken from a tree that he might carry it for his own amusement.

When he observed the angry countenance of the horseman turned toward him, the urchin remarked:

"I seed what yo' war doin'."

"What was I doing, young man?" demanded the lieutenant severely.

"Tryin to flirt wid Miss Adele. I had my eye on yo'."

"Whom do you mean by Miss Adele?"

Instead of making direct reply the negro had threw back his head and broke into uproarious mirth. The question struck him as the funniest thing he had ever heard, and he belonged to a race that laughs upon the slightest provocation.

The officer grew angry. He saw a peril that must be nipped in the bud, and, wheeling his mare around, he pricked her satin flank with his spur. She responded with a switch of the tail and a leap that almost brought her down upon the urchin, but the latter was frisky and whisked behind the nearest tree trunk, from which his big eyes peeped with the dilapidated hat above them.

"I ain't afeard ob yo'. I bet yo' can't catch me."

Seeing that other means must be tried, the lieutenant changed his tone.

"What is your name, sonny?"

"Rastus."

"What is your father's name?"

"Pete, an mammy's name is Aunt Marcie. We lib in de cabin down yonder, a little way back ob de house."

"What are you doing here?"

"Standin ahind dis tree so yo' can't run ober me."

"Do you belong to General Eldridge, who lives in the house yonder?"

"Yaas, sir, an am yo' one ob Marse Linkum's sojers?"

"Yes; we have a big army a little way off, and I rode over here to take a look at the country. Who lives in the house now?"

"All de darkies hab gwine away but us dat I tole yo' 'bout, an dere's nobody at home but de wimmin folks."

"Where are the men?" asked the lieutenant, whose question was wholly

The officer turned his head like a flash, superfluous, since he knew that all the white men in the state were in either the Confederate or Union ranks.

"De gin'ral am killin Yanks. Dat's what he's been doin fur de last 400 years."

"Do you know how many he has killed?"

"Ain't sartin, but heard it was 'leben hundred million."

"I am afraid, Rastus, that your informant has slightly exaggerated matters; but will you tell me what ladies are at the house?"

"No, sah," responded the boy, with admirable pluck.

"Why not?"

"'Cause yo' wants to cut dere heads off."

The earnestness of the urchin made the officer smile in turn.

"You are mistaken, my boy. I wouldn't harm one of them for the world."

"Am dat so? Will yo' take yo' oath?"

"Yes. I will take my oath that I will not injure a hair of their heads."

"Cross yo' heart."

The officer gravely drew his gauntleted hand down and across his breast. That removed all difficulty and won the confidence of Rastus.

"De wimmin folks am Miss Adele an Mrs. Eldridge."

"Miss Adele, I suppose, is the daughter of Mrs. Eldridge?"

"Ain't sartin 'bout dat, but I know de missis am de moder ob Miss Adele."

"Admitting your premises, the conclusion I adduced is inevitable."

Erastus opened his mouth and stared. Not the faintest glimmering of the meaning of these words penetrated his brain, but he nodded his head.

"You are sure that only the mother and daughter are living in the house?"

The question struck the lad as uncalled for, but he inclined his head several times with much vigor. Like most youngsters, he was gifted with a well developed bump of curiosity.

"What's yo'r name?"

"Lieutenant Oakman of the Massachusetts cavalry. Are you acquainted with any of our men or officers?"

MORAVIA.

Nearly 58 Years Old!

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of their family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast to-day, with their faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century. It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans.

It is the New York Weekly Tribune, acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publishers of THE GENOA TRIBUNE (your own favorite home paper) have entered into an alliance with the New York Weekly Tribune which enables them to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive family.

Just think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.25 a year.

THE DEWEY FUND GROWS.

Committee Decides Not To Abandon Idea of Buying Admiral a Home.

REMITTANCES ARE SMALL

A New York Man May Be Put at the Head of War Department Should Gen. Alger Retire.

No Steps Taken in the Matter By the Administration—Wireless Telegraphy Patent Issued—President Still Contemplates Taking a Trip To the Pacific Coast.
 Washington, July 4.—It is premature to talk about the successor of Gen. Alger, although the best opinion in Washington is that the Secretary is soon to retire from the War Department. It is acknowledged that since he combined with Gov. Pingree he cannot stay much longer in the Cabinet, but it still remains with him to say how long he will continue in the President's official family. The report that Gen. Harrison Grey Otis, who is coming to Washington, is to take Gen. Alger's place, is not verified, simply because the President has taken no step in the matter. There is a general opinion, however, that should General Alger retire, a New York man will be called on to fill his place.

Archbishop Martinelli, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, has been granted a license to perform the marriage ceremony in the District of Columbia, and thereby hangs a tale. The law provides that all clergymen shall secure a license before they can perform a marriage ceremony within the District limits. Signor Martinelli had never had occasion to use a license, and therefore until very recently had never applied for one. But on July 11 the Archbishop is going to officiate at a wedding, and after that he will be at liberty to marry as many couples as he wishes, because he will have his license. It seems that when Signor Martinelli first came to this country as the representative of the Pope he brought with him his Italian chef, Francesco Barzagli, and the latter brought his family. Since the Barzagli family have been in this country the eldest daughter, Elenora, met and loved a young Italian living in Washington. Now Elenora is to be married, and the one thing she thought necessary to complete her happiness on this occasion was to have the Archbishop marry her, and he has consented to do so.

The Dewey fund is creeping along slowly, and perhaps by the time the Admiral reaches the United States it may come somewhere near the original sum proposed. At present, however, it is only a little over $10,000, and it is growing only by small contributions. At one time the committee in charge held a meeting to decide whether or not the fund should be abandoned, but it was decided by unanimous vote to continue it, no matter how small the amount collected, to expend it for a house for the Admiral. As one of the members of the committee said: "If we only raise $20,000, it is my idea that we buy him a house for that sum and present it. The committee cannot now abandon the plan."

The President still contemplates taking his Western trip, despite published statements to the contrary. Among the visitors at the White House was Senator Warren of Wyoming, who expects the President to visit that State. The President said that he still had every hope of going at least part of the way to the Pacific coast. Naturally, Mrs. McKinley's health which by the way is greatly improved, together with the situation in the Philippines, will have a great deal to do with the final arrangements as to when and how far the President will travel. His plans are still in abeyance, and he cannot decide definitely in regard to them for several weeks.

The most noted departure from among the diplomats at Washington during the next week or so will be that of Ambassador Von Holleben, of the German Embassy, who returns to his own country for his vacation. As a truce has been declared in the matters under negotiation between this country and Germany until the fall, Baron von Holleben will have a long stay at home, and there are rumors in diplomatic circles that he may not return as Ambassador.

Among the patents issued this week by the Patent Office was one to Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy. The patent covers all the apparatus used in his new invention, and is assigned to the Wireless Telegraph and Signal Company, of London.

Train Wrecker Sentenced.
 Pottsville, Pa., July 1.—Oliver Ohl, the youth who caused a collision between a freight and passenger train on the Little Schuylkill branch of the Reading Railway, which resulted in the loss of two lives, has been sentenced to three years and three months and to pay a fine of $700. Ohl placed a spike on the passenger track.

Found Dead in His Cell.
 Jersey City, N. J., July 1.—Patrick Maloney was found dead in a cell in the Gregory street station, here. Maloney has been sentenced to sixty days in jail for drunkenness. Four years ago Maloney, it is said, held a political clerkship. His home was unknown to the police. His death was ascribed to alcoholism.

DECORATED APPLES

How They Are Grown With Devices on Them—Ingenious Fruit Raisers.
 The landscape gardener has so long and so persistently improved upon nature that now the fruit grower thinks he has a right to try. Any person, says the Golden Penny, who wants a supply of apples bearing his family crest, has only to send an illustration of it to certain fruit growers at Montreuil, France, and he will duly receive the fruit the following season.

The desired end is attained by growing the apples in high bags, which are slipped on when the fruit is the size of a walnut. Being thus sheltered from the sun the apples do not color as they swell, and when fully grown still remain green or yellow.

As soon as they reach their maximum size the bags which cover them are replaced by others, on the side of which the desired crest or coat of arms has been cut out like a stencil. The sun can now penetrate to that part of the apple exposed, and redden it thoroughly, so that when the bag is again withdrawn the device is seen standing out in red upon the green surface.

To obtain the opposite result—that is, a green device on a red ground—the second bag is not used, but the pattern is cut out in paper and stuck onto the exposed parts, but leaving green the crest or other devices which the paper forms.

Many Parisian fruiterers have recently expoused for sale apples with the arms of Russia printed upon them; others have them with monograms, Christian names, arrow-pierced hearts and other tender devices.

HOW THEY ARE GROWN WITH DEVICES ON THEM—INGENUOUS FRUIT RAISERS.

The use of formalin for smut in wheat and oats and for scab in potatoes is found by many trials to be one of the cheapest, simplest and most efficient remedies yet suggested. As formalin is practically non-poisonous, non-corrosive and easy to obtain and handle, there seems little doubt of its coming into common use as a fungicide.

The diseases covered by this bulletin, with their remedies, are as follows: Corn smut: Gather and thoroughly destroy (burn) the smut balls during the growing season, and afterward, treating the seed is of no use. Wheat, loose smut: No efficient remedy for farm practice can yet be recommended.

Wheat, loose smut: No efficient remedy for farm practice can yet be recommended. Add one-half pound of formalin to 30 gallons of water and immerse the seed grain for two hours, then spread out and dry.

Or, sprinkle the grain with the formalin solution until thoroughly wet, shoveling over rapidly to distribute the moisture evenly, then place in a pile (covered with sack) for two hours, and finally spread out and dry as in the other method.

Grain swollen in this manner requires the drill to be set wider to permit the usual amount of seed to be sown per acre. Potato scab: The formalin treatment of seed potatoes practically frees the crop from scab, with slight expense and trouble.

Add one-half pound of formalin to 15 gallons of water and immerse the seed tubers for not less than two hours. If the potatoes are not much sprouted a longer wetting is advantageous. After removing from the solution cut and plant as usual.

In the use of formalin no special precautions are required.—Bulletin Indiana Experiment Station.

How an Experiment Station at the Oceola (Michigan) county institute last winter E. A. Cronan told his method of planting and cultivating mangel wurzels. It is his object to grow them as cheaply as possible. He advised fall plowing, selecting land of a deep loamy nature. Then in the spring plow deeply again and harrow thoroughly at intervals before seeding to kill the weeds as they spring up. The seed is put in with a hand drill about corn planting time, rows 22 inches apart. Cultivating is done with horse. When the plants are nicely up a man goes through the patch with a sharp hoe, striking across the rows a little diagonally, cutting out the plants to eight inches apart. A boy follows to pull out any remaining plants other than those it is wished to retain, and also to remove any weeds that may be in the rows. Unless it is a very weedy soil it will not be necessary to go over the roots more than two or three times with cultivators, as when once started the plants grow very rapidly.

In the fall the roots are "topped" by means of sharp hoes. A wagon is driven into the field and the tops thrown thereon with common four tined forks and carried to the barn to be fed to cattle. The rows of roots are so spaced that an ordinary wagon can be driven over two rows, the wheels passing outside of them, the horses walking in the same rows where the wheels are. After the tops are all removed from the field the pulling of the roots begins, and here comes the part that will be new to many. An ordinary 40 or 60-foot drag is employed for this purpose, and does the work well.

The roots are then tossed into wagons by means of the four tined forks and carried to the root cellar. Mr. Cronan feeds mangels to all his farm animals, even the chickens being very fond of them.

After the Dark, the Dawn.
Pittsburgh reports that the usual summer shutdown will not occur this year, as manufacturers must keep going to fill orders booked. This condition of things prevails very generally throughout the country. There never was a time when so much money was being paid out in wages and when wages were uniformly so satisfactory to wage-earners. The end of the century finds the United States, citadel of Protection, blessed as no other nation is now or ever has been blessed with abundant prosperity. The way to insure a continuance thereof is clear and plain. The mistake of 1892 costs too much to be repeated in 1900.

Surgical Wonders.
How long will it be before the dead will be brought to life and made to live forever? Louis Ginsburg, proprietor of a meat market in Binghamton, was stabbed July 4 by a negro who came into the market to steal meat. The knife entered the left arm and twice piercing the left breast, one between the stomach and liver, and the other the left lung and into the heart. When found Ginsburg was unconscious, but Dr. Forker revived him and then assisted by other physicians, administered chloroform and sewed up the heart, and the man still lives and there are strong indications that he will recover.

A GREAT flood in Texas, with appalling loss of life and property, is reported in last night's papers. The flooded district is more than 500 miles long by 500 wide; some 200 lives are lost and more than $10,000,000 property destroyed. Near Berkshire some 400 persons were on a small island at last reports with the water rapidly rising and no possibility of escape.

WITHIN the past five months fifty cotton mills have been built in the South and thirty-nine enlarged. Looks like prosperity.

Five Corners.
JULY 6—The quarterly white ribbon tea of the West Genoa W. C. T. U. was held at the home of the president Mrs. S. B. Mead, last Tuesday, on the lawn shaded by the beautiful fruit bearing trees. The devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Rev. W. C. Brass offering the prayer; then the superintendent of parlor meetings was called to conduct the exercises of the afternoon which consisted of music and recitations by the young ladies and children. Mrs. P. J. Adams, county president, then responded in her pleasing way and introduced Mrs. Willis, president of Onondaga county, who kindly gave her experience in flower mission work, which was very interesting to all. Miss Lucinda Harris of Locke and Rev. Terwilliger and Rev. Brass followed with remarks in the temperance sentiment. One of the most pleasing features of the day was the bountifully spread tables from which 90 took supper. Six W. T. U. presidents were present. All present enjoyed the afternoon. Let the good work go on, is the wish of this correspondent.

The funeral of Mrs. Lucretia Smith was held at her late home on Friday, June 30. She has for months been a patient sufferer from disease; and for several years has been a member of West Genoa union, which body expressed its sympathy by a large attendance. Rev. S. P. Williams officiated.

Some Costly Sport.
Charles Gorman, (constable of the town of Locke) who instead of using his efforts to preserve the peace, goes to the limit in the opposite direction, and two companions, John Mackey and Charles Diamond, of Locke, are reported as follows: While intoxicated they forced an entrance into the residence of George Terwilliger, in Pine Hollow, early Wednesday morning, and after intimidating the feint-hearted proprietor, proceed to abuse the two women, who reside there. The language they used was the most vile, and their threats if carried out would have landed them under Copper John. At all events they were arrested and brought before Justice Hunt, after which they settled; the music these fellows danced to was fine, but when they paid the fiddler it cost just $58.80.

Dreyfus Said to Have Been Landed.
Paris, July 1.—There is a report that Dreyfus is in precarious health, and this fact accounts for the anxiety of the Government to keep him out of sight. The story is that when the Stax was signalled from Fayal, a cable message was received from the Azores to the effect that the passenger was suffering from a severe malady. To avert the public spectacle of this victim of four years' injustice coming home from his island prison a bodily wreck is held to be the motive of the authorities in not permitting Dreyfus to be landed at Brest, on which port the eyes of the whole world were centered. It is said here that Dreyfus has been secretly landed.

Cheers For General Miles.
Pittsburg, July 1.—Major-General Nelson A. Miles, after spending the day inspecting the Carnegie Homestead Mills and visiting other places of interest, addressed a big meeting of labor men in the Grand Opera House. Preceding the meeting there was a reception at the Schenley, followed by a parade. The latter was the best military display seen here since the war.

100 Hurt in Riots.
Brussels, July 1.—The rioting here was continued at various points. The gendarmes charged fiercely several times on the Boulevard Auspach, and used ball cartridges on the Grande Place. One rioter was bayoneted and two reporters were seriously injured. Saucepans and other domestic implements were thrown from windows at the troops.

On Train Robbers' Trail.
Lander, Wyo., July 1.—New interest has been awakened in the hunt for the Union Pacific train robbers. The robbers' trail has been struck in the Green River headwaters country by Jim Baldwin, a famous bandit taker, who has with him a band of thirty Indian trappers, the best in the country. This is the twenty-seventh day of the chase and the bandits must be nearly worn out.

Murderer is Freed.
Sing Sing, N. Y., July 1.—William J. Rourke, who while a policeman in New York shot and killed Roundsman Robert A. Montgomery, walked out of the gate at the State prison a free man. His life sentence was commuted by Gov. Black.

—Mrs. Glover of Locke has been visiting Genoa friends a few days recently.
—Mrs. C. T. Gilbert of Hornellsville has been visiting her brother, H. M. Head.
—The Fourth for '99 is now a matter of history, but the fire cracker is still with us.
—Mrs. B. F. Sampson and family of Cortland visited Genoa friends a few days recently.
—Open air concert Saturday evening of next week by the Genoa Citizens Band. Come.
—Miss Jennie Robinson and Mr. Ward Moon of Cortland visited friends in this place this week.
—Miss Emma Waldo has gone to Pennsylvania where she will spend some time with relatives.
—Three hundred and thirty-five degrees were conferred at the recent commencement at Cornell.
—The people who didn't hang out any flags the 4th didn't have to take them down again, anyway.
—Luman Barber and Clinton Van-
Etten of Moravia were the guests of Earl Young and Ernest Mead.
—The opening chapters of a first class continued story will be found on another page in this paper.
—E. S. Mastin of Auburn spent the Fourth with Genoa friends and renewed old acquaintances here.
—Please remember the TRIBUNE is always glad to have personal and news items sent in for publication.
—O. M. Avery, who is slowly reducing his large stock of hardware, quotes some low prices elsewhere.
—Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Smith of Cortland are spending a few days with relatives and friends in this vicinity.
—A large number of men suffered terribly from the "heat" Tuesday, and some were completely overcome.
—Dr. Dommett of Union Springs, who proposes to make regular trips to Genoa, was in town Wednesday. He will announce his next visit in next week's TRIBUNE.
—J. B. Liberman, the well known jewelry man, has been confined to his rooms at Moravia by illness for the past two weeks, and was therefore unable to visit his patrons. He is recovering and hopes to be on the road again soon.
—We wonder why some people attend a speech or lecture, and then not only fail to listen, but talk so loud and long that nobody else can hear a word. Such people ought to engage a hall or occupy some space in the atmosphere not already taken.
—The glorious 4th was observed in royal style in this village. People began to arrive early and the crowd constantly increased until night; the parade was delayed until after 10 o'clock, and was highly entertaining from start to finish; in the first ball game Genoa won over Ludlowville in a 12-inning game, 10 to 9; Genoa also triumphed over Aurora in the second game, 8 to 5. Messrs. Rich, Parsell and Dayton made some excellent remarks and there was some appropriate singing; Louis Campbell of Ludlowville won the foot race and a lad from P. Ridge the slow bicycle race; in the evening the band concert was followed by the fireworks and a dance at the ripk for which about 180 tickets were sold.

—Band concert July 15.
—Jay Morton is occupying a case in The TRIBUNE office.
—Earl D. Wood of Cortland has been the guest of Theodore A. Miller a few days the past week.
—W. C. Rogers, at present a teacher in the Junior Republic at Freeville, renewed acquaintances here over the week.
—Mrs. Dana Bowers and daughter from Michigan and Mrs. Glen Smith of Lansing are guests of A. Ives and family today.
—George Bower cut his right arm quite badly on the rough edge of a sheet of iron roofing, while laying a roof Tuesday.
—Mrs. Sarah Hicks, for seventy years a resident of Groton, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. B. H. Sykes, aged 87 years.
—The soliciting committee desire to thank all who contributed for the celebration; all who signed the list paid their share, with one exception.
—A game of base ball at North Lansing last Saturday resulted in a score of North Lansing 9, West Groton 0. Come down to Genoa, ye North Lansing tossers.
—The annual school meeting will soon be due. The people of this town (and county) seem to take but little interest in educational matters. Let every voter attend the next annual school meeting.
—The condition of George L. Burlew, who was hurt by the trolley cars, on North Tioga street last week, is somewhat improved. He is able to sit up for a short time at intervals, but is suffering severely with pain in the back.—Ithaca News.
—We understand that Messrs. W. and J. Hosmer and Fitzgerald, of Auburn, who played with the Genoa boys the 4th, have been engaged for the balance of the season and begin next week. The Genoa team goes to Ludlowville tomorrow to play the rub game.
—It is reported that postmasters of the U. S. will be required by the department to wear a uniform hereafter, consisting of light blue pants with red braid running down the legs, white blouse with gold shoulder-straps and skull cap with a silver star in front.
—The best warm weather rule is to exercise common sense. Eat and drink in moderation, wear light, loose clothing, keep out of the sun as much as possible, and do not worry. Do not drink too much—either of water or anything else, especially the "anything else," if its doctored with alcohol.
—A Pennsylvania subscriber sends a dollar for the coming year, and writes, "I would miss the little home paper very much; wish it all success in the future." Have you a distant friend or relative who would be well pleased with THE TRIBUNE a year? It would not cost much to make them mighty happy.
—Arrangements have been made for concerts by the Genoa Citizens' Band on Saturday evenings, for the balance of the summer. The short concert last Tuesday evening was much enjoyed by a large number of people. The next concert will be given July 15 at 8 o'clock, and all are invited to come to town and enjoy the music—it's free. The program will be published next week.
—Says the Cazenovia Republican: "Tuesday morning we received a dollar bill by mail, enclosed in our regular remittance envelopes, but with no name attached. If the sender will kindly make himself or herself known, we shall be pleased to credit it." We are wondering how many replies Editor Loyster received from that item.
—A bill signed by Governor Roosevelt prohibits the sale of an air gun to any person under twelve years of age, or the use of an air gun by any one under that age. The parents of any such child who is now in possession of a weapon of that character referred to would do well to make note of this law and see that the gun is laid away on "a top shelf" where the youngster cannot reach it.
For sale—1000 bushels of sand, two miles west of the Venice tile works. J. W. COOK.

—Mr. and Mrs. John D. Steiner and Henry Beatty of Genoa passed the 4th at J. H. Smiths.
—Adam was the first printer.—He printed a kiss on the cheek of Eve. It was a neat, tasteful, stylish job, and made a good impression. Eve liked that kind of printing and all her posterity has sought for the same grade of work. The printing we do for our patrons is also first class in every respect, and we want your orders.
—Dr. Day the specialist, will be at his rooms in the Vaparsdale block on Monday, July 10, and at the Avery House, Auburn, July 11, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., as usual, but desires to say to his many patients that through the remainder of the summer he will only make his visits only once in four weeks. The doctor is a specialist in every sense of the word, and does not claim to cure everything, as will be seen by his regular adv. in another column.
—Handicaps in editorial work. To run a newspaper without occasionally publishing an item that is untrue or that gives offense, is like running a railroad without having accidents or smashups. To do either is a physical impossibility. No man on earth is so great an extent constantly at the mercy of both friends and enemies as the editor of a country newspaper. Rushed continually with work, he must get much of the information concerning transpiring events second or third handed or not at all. Frequently statements are received from supposedly trustworthy sources, which are subsequently found to be without foundation. Not one editor in a thousand wilfully injures either friend or foe by misrepresentation. Go to him and ask for a correction, and nine cases out of ten, if your cause is just, you will be received politely, and proper correction will be made with pleasure.—Exchange.
Assessors' Notice.
Notice is hereby given to the taxable inhabitants of the town of Genoa that the assessors of said town have completed the assessment roll for the current year and that the same has been left with D. L. Mead in Genoa Village, where it is open to public inspection until August 15, 1899, on which day the assessors will meet at Hotel DeWitt in said village to hear the application of all persons who consider themselves aggrieved.

THE COUNTRY IN GENERAL

A Summary of Happenings at Home and Abroad.

THE NEWS CONDENSED.

A Review of What Has Transpired of Public Interest.

Paris, June 30.—The Journal says that Gen. Galliffet intends to restore ex-Lieut.-Col. Picquart to his former rank in the army.

Moline, Ill., June 30.—About five hundred men are idle at the Sylvan steel works because of a strike of the 12-inch mill men. The entire plant is liable to be shut down.

Middlesboro, Ky., June 30.—J. H. Robinson, claiming to be a tinner of Louisville, was arrested here by Shelby Ball, charged with raising a one-dollar bill to a ten. A lot of alleged counterfeit tools were found on his person.

Keokuk, Io., June 30.—Henry Kerr, a prominent merchant and stock dealer of Mount Sterling, Io., thirty miles northwest of here, was accidentally killed. He was out hunting and his gun was discharged, the load entering his body. He lived but a short time.

Pinconning, Mich., June 30.—Ernest Tucker, of Piedmont, was struck by an Iron Mountain train just north of Leeper Station, and both lower limbs cut off. He died shortly after the accident. He was a brother of J. H. Tucker, manager of the telegraph office at Piedmont.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 30.—James Nunley, of Coal Bluff, set fire to his house and then cut his throat, with fatal result. He had returned from the Soldier's Home at Lafayette a few weeks ago. Once, after a quarrel with his wife, he tried to commit suicide, but his life was saved. This time the old man began drinking, set fire to the house and then cut his throat and died.

Mayville, Ky., June 30.—The tollgates and guards have been removed from the three big turnpikes purchased by the Fiscal Court, and Mason County is now enjoying free roads. This closes Colonel W. W. Baldwin's career as the "Turnpike King." He has fought his opponents and the raiders with determination from the start, but is glad now that he's out of it.

Buffalo, June 30.—It was demonstrated that the people gathered here under the title of the National Social and Political Conference do not favor the acquisition of the Philippines. When a speech along this line was delivered it was received with profound silence, and when Admiral Dewey's name was mentioned there was not a cheer went up from anyone in the audience.

Bolton, Mass., June 30.—Edward Atkinson is to publish his letters and addresses on anti-imperialism in a book. On the title page the American flag will be displayed at half mast with the following inscription: "In memory of the brave soldiers whose lives have been sacrificed in a war for the subjugation of the Philippine Islands, and in the effort to deprive the people of their liberty."

Greenville, Mo., June 30.—Mrs. Alice Pettit, wife of Dr. Lee M. Pettit, living one mile from this city, was burned to death. She was starting a fire in the cook stove and poured oil on the fuel. The blaze leaped from the stove and ignited her clothing. After vainly trying to extinguish the flames she ran to a near-by lot and plunged into the pond that is there. A neighbor saved her from drowning. She had been so badly burned, however, that she died in a few hours.

Shelbyville, Ind., June 30.—At Fairland, Harry McCarty, of Boston, Mass., was arrested on suspicion of having stolen two horses, which he had attempted to sell to Mason Thompson. Soon after his arrest the stock was claimed by a farmer named George Platt, of Decatur County. The officers believe the name given to the horses was that of a horse named George Platt. Before being arrested he shot at Constable Crosby and was himself badly wounded by the officer, who shot him in a lower limb.

Louisville, Ky., June 30.—The race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination is nearing a close. On Saturday conventions will be held in most of the counties which have not yet selected delegates, and while it is expected that Stone and Pratt will win in a majority of these late conventions, still Attorney-General Taylor has a big lead, and in all probability will receive enough instructed votes to give him a good lead in the State Convention over the combined strength of both his opponents.

Marshall, Ill., June 30.—Hector Dunlavy bought four fine steers from Daniel Jones and Lum Daughbete, of Parker Township, last Saturday, they declaring they had bought the steers from Adre Baber, of Edgar County. Dunlavy deferred payment, and wired Baber. He received a reply that no cattle had been sold the two men. The latter had disappeared. It is believed there is an organized gang of cattle thieves in the county, some of the members being men of standing and supposed respectability. The matter will be investigated at once.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 30.—Mobs twice attacked a non-union crew at Newburg and several shots were fired. William Waltrach, motorman, and J. C. Church, conductor, were in charge of the train. A crowd of workmen began throwing stones at the car. A little further along the car was stopped by obstructions on the track. Then the attack of the mob began in earnest. The crew drew revolvers and fired into the crowd falling, however, to hit any one. Officer Dunbar arrested the conductor and motorman, but Lieutenant Kohler released both, declaring that their shooting was justifiable.

Marion, Ind., June 30.—Torrence Vandewater, employed at the Republic

Iron and Steel Mills as shearsman, was killed by a billet of iron hurled from the jaws of the big jumbo shears of which he had charge. The piece of iron weighed about 80 pounds. It hit him on the head, churning the skull. His brother, O. C. Vandewater, was working with him, and the billet which killed his brother struck him on the shoulder, causing a fracture. Another brother, Charles Vandewater, was at work on the excavation of the city sewer and was struck in the head with a falling bank brace about the time his brother was killed.

Lansing, Mich., June 30.—Gov. Pinckney has granted a sick pardon to Robert Chambers, who was sent to the Jackson penitentiary in January, 1898, for burglary, for two years, for burglary. Chambers has consumption, and the prison physician and inspectors recommend the pardon.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—President McKinley has been compelled to abandon his Western tour because of the ill health of Mrs. McKinley. His return to Washington was due to her condition. It is probable that the President will stay in Washington all summer in consequence, only making short trips away.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30.—O. P. Barnell, city salesman for John O'Neil, wholesale flour dealer, is reported to be $1,900 short in his accounts, with his present address unknown. O'Neil observed the slow collections in the district covered by Barnell, and the fact that one particularly prompt-paying firm was indebted $300. This started an investigation, which has resulted in an indictment against the accused solicitor. He is bonded in the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Company for $2,000.

London, Ohio, July 1.—Judge Walters overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of Carl Reckleben and sentenced him to 15 years in the penitentiary. Reckleben assaulted Mrs. James Hutsler, shot her three times and then attempted to burn her up.

Athens, Texas, July 1.—It is reported that three of the men who assisted in the lynching of the three Humphries have made a full confession, stating that the plot was prearranged, and that informers were to be punished with death. An ex-Sheriff, it is stated was the ringleader of the party.

Huntsville, Ala., July 1.—Reports from various parts of the Tennessee Valley show that cotton has suffered slightly during the past month from the continued drouth. The average prospective yield of this year is about 85 per cent. of the crops of 1897 and 1898.

Dillsboro, Ind., July 1.—A man who has probably escaped from his family or from some asylum is being held by Henry Ellinghausen, Superintendent of the County Poor Farm, for identification. He appears to be about 30 years old, has light brown hair and blue eyes and weighs 125 pounds. His height is five feet and six inches.

Havana, July 3.—Advice received from Guanajay say Major Jose Acosta, of the Cuban Army, accused of complicity in the recent safe robbery at Mariel, has been captured and taken to Guanajay jail.

Neillsville, Wis., July 3.—At Howard, Miss Alice Willan, Mrs. Nell Morrison and four children and Mrs. Elmer were out riding, when the brace on the buggy pole broke, frightening the team. Miss Willan and Mrs. Morrison were thrown out and killed.

Shelbyville, Ind., July 3.—William Yarling, the young married man who, with his wife, mysteriously disappeared Saturday night, has been found wandering aimlessly about, twenty miles from this city. His wife has also been found, and returned home. She refuses to talk.

London, July 3.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "In consequence of his exertions in the recent religious ceremonies the Pope is now suffering great prostration, together with an attack of fever. He is confined to his bed and some anxiety is felt regarding him."

Washington, July 3.—Gen Brooke has cabled the War Department the following death report from Havana. "Twenty-seventh Santiago, Musician James McCarthy, G. Fifth Infantry, yellow fever; Puerto Principe, Sergt. Hugh Letow, C. Eight Cavalry, yellow fever."

Charleston, Ill., July 3.—John C. Martin, who lived near Oakland, died from injuries received two weeks ago in a runaway. Mr. Martin, was probably the wealthiest farmer in Coles County, owning over 6,000 acres of rich prairie soil. He was only forty-seven years old.

ORDERED TO LEAVE IMUS

Filipinos Evidently Preparing to Again Open Hostilities At This Point.

THE ENEMY RETURNING.

The Ninth Infantry Has a Hot Skirmish With a Force of Natives at San Fernando.

Army Gunboats Operating on the Lake Wherever the Filipinos Can Be Located—Two Batteries of the Utah Light Artillery Will Sail For Home Saturday.

Manila, July 4.—The natives are returning to San Francisco de Malabon. They have ordered the inhabitants to desert Imus, preparatory, it is supposed, to an attack upon that place. The army gunboats and the 4th Cavalry are operating on the lake wherever the enemy can be located. A company of the enemy encountered a party of the 9th Infantry at San Fernando and was quickly routed.

The country is a sea of mud and the roads are fast disappearing.

The 1st Nebraska Infantry and Batteries A and B of the Utah Light Artillery will sail for home Saturday. The 18th Infantry landed in a heavy rain and is in barracks at Malate.

Enlistment of Volunteers Begins.
Washington, July 4.—The first orders have been issued for recruiting the troops under the clause authorizing the enlistment of 35,000 men. The order contemplates enlisting men for the three skeleton regiments in the Philippines. Recruiting officers have been instructed to enlist men with this understanding.

A statement prepared in the office of the Adjutant General of the army shows that with the departure of the transport Pennsylvania from San Francisco about 3,500 reinforcements were dispatched to the Philippines this week. These troops are carried on the transports Zealandia, Sheridan, Valencia and Pennsylvania, and include fifty-nine officers and 3,444 enlisted men.

About half of the troops are recruits intended to fill gaps in the regiments in the Philippines caused by deaths, disabilities and discharge. There are about 3,000 recruits at San Francisco which also are intended to recruit the regular regiments in the Philippines up to their maximum strength of 128 men to a company. Including the Nineteenth infantry, under orders for Manila and troops at San Francisco, there are 4,000 ready to start for Manila as soon as transports can be provided.

Washington, July 4.—The following despatch has been made public by the War Department:

"Manila, June 30.
"Transport Morgan City sailed San Francisco June 24. 464 sick. OTIS."

New Match Trust Formed.
Akron, O., July 1.—The petition of the new match trust will give the Diamond Company control of 95 per cent. of the match output of this country. It is said. Factories in New York, Michigan and Indiana, in addition to Gould's company, the Continental, will be in the combination. A new issue of stock amounting to $4,000,000 is to be made to buy in independent companies. The Diamond is now capitalized at $11,000,000. The net earnings of the company are expected to be increased to $2,500,000 per annum by the new deal.

Killed His Wife in the Street.
Lowell, Mass., July 1.—William Kelley, 36 years old, shot and killed his wife on Fayette street and is now at large. As his wife, who worked in an all-night restaurant, was going home, Kelley lay in wait for her. He fired three shots at the woman, one of which passed through her head. He then walked calmly away. There were several witnesses to the shooting, but no one made any attempt to arrest Kelley or to follow him. Kelley, it is said, was angry because his wife refused to live with him.

Evansville Fears Trouble.
Evansville, Ind., July 1.—A despatch has been received saying that miners from Pana, Illinois, will soon arrive at this place. The men are negroes, and if they come there will be bloodshed. Attorneys for the officers of the union are in court trying to have the Ingle injunction set aside. Mayor Akin has tried to arbitrate the trouble, but the operators refuse to listen to his propositions, which might lead to a meeting between the operators and employees.

Diamonds on His Ankles.
Detroit, Mich., July 1.—Louis Bush, of 129 West One Hundred and Twelfth street, New York, is confined in jail here on suspicion of smuggling from Canada $20,000 worth of diamonds, which he had in his possession. The diamonds were found tied around his ankles, wrapped in diamond paper.

Cricket in England.
Leeds, England, July 1.—The All-England eleven, in the third test cricket match with the Australians, were all out in their first innings for 230 runs. The Australians in the first inning were all out in their first innings for 175 runs.

RIOTOUS SOLDIERS

Raid a Saloon in Nevada Town—Bartender Shot.

Winnemucca, Nev., July 4.—A special train, containing members of companies L and M of the twenty-fourth colored regiment, arrived in Winnemucca. A number of men left the train and raided a neighboring saloon. They wrecked the bar and stole what liquor there was in sight. Christopher Diess, the bartender, was shot down by one of the soldiers. Those who committed the outrage, then fled to the train.

The alarm was given at once, and before the train could draw out of the station it was surrounded by excited citizens of the place. Sheriff McDeid and District Attorney Van Duser would not permit the train to leave until the guilty parties were given up. Major Noble, who was in command, while not recognizing the authority of the local officers to delay the expedition, consented that the train be delayed until a thorough search could be made. The three companies were ordered out twice for inspection, and citizens who were present when the shooting occurred closely inspected each man. Only one was identified, a Sergt. Smith, who gave a satisfactory explanation of his presence in the saloon.

New York World
18 Pages a Week. 156 Papers a Year

The Thrice-a-week edition of The New York World is first among all "weekly" papers in size, frequency of publication, and the freshness, accuracy and variety of its contents. It has all the merits of a great $6 daily at the price of a dollar weekly. Its political news is prompt, complete, accurate and impartial as all its readers will testify. It is against the monopolies and for the people. It prints the news of the world, having special correspondence from all important news points on the globe. It has brilliant illustrations stories by great authors, a capital humor page, complete markets, departments for the household and women's work and other special departments of unusual interest. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Genoa Tribune together one year for $1.65. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

GOING TO CELEBRATE

Yes, we're going to celebrate, and we're not going to wait until the 4th of July either. How are we going to do it? Well, we are going to offer the remainder of our summer clothing at prices that will startle you. We are going to touch the fuse off now, we are going to cut our prices nearly in two. We have lots of spring suits left, they must be disposed of. Do you wish to take advantage of this opportunity? Do not these prices make it an object for you to buy? Look them over.

We have 200 suits ranging in value from $7 to $12. They are odds and ends but they are all this season's goods. One of them will fit you. Do you want to save from $3 to $6. If so purchase one of these $5.50 suits.

Here's a suit we've sold for $13. There are some 20 of them left. It is a worsted suit in blue or brown. It is a handsome garment and stylishly gotten up. Here's a chance for those who have not yet purchased their spring suit. You should take advantage of it.

This gets one of our finest. It is an "Adler" suit and that means equal to custom made. These suits have been sold for 14, 16, $18. We have them in fancy worsteds, herringbones and handsome cashmeres. They are exceptional values for the money and as such you should have one. We ask of you this favor: Come and inspect this $10 line, see what we have and then you can decide whether or not you want one of these suits.

These are but a few of our specials. Lack of space prevents further enumeration. For $12, 14, 16, you can get equally as good bargains. Our line awaits your inspection. If you want to make money come and look us over.

MRS. G. W. DAVIS

AFTER THE FOURTH OF JULY.

We put him to bed in his little night-gown. The worst battered youngster there was in the town; Yet he said as he opened his only well eye, "Rah, rah, for the jolly old Fourth of July!" I said we were glad all the pieces were there. As we plastered and bound them with tenderest care. But out of the wreck came the words with a sigh, "If to-morrow was only the Fourth of July!" He will grow altogether again, never fear, And be ready to celebrate freedom next year; Meanwhile all his friends are most thankful there lies A cracklerless twelve-month twist Fourth of July's. We kissed him good-night on his powder-specked face. We laid his bruised hands softly down in their place; And he murmured, as sleep closed his one open eye, "I wish every day was the Fourth of July!"

DECK'S 4TH OF JULY.

Deck was in a bad humor, as the doctor must have seen if he had not been thinking too anxiously about his sick people to notice the sulky little fellow who sat by his side digging his black toes into the carriage mat. It was as well for Deck he did not notice, for the doctor had a vigorous way of dealing with sulks. He sped the bay mare down the street to the hospital, tossed the lines to Deck and ran up the steps to his patients.

A POLICEMAN CAUGHT HIM.

Deck settled back and looked discontentedly about him. No fire crackers were allowed on this square because of the sick people, but there were all sorts of Fourth of July noises just around the corner, and the steady thump of a drum down by the river where a merry-go-round swung through the hot air. That was where Deck meant to spend a blissful forenoon, if the Doctor had not seized him just as he was slipping out at the alley gate. Vengeance would have overtaken him the next day, but next day mattered very little to Deck in comparison to the one on hand. He emptied his pockets of their treasures, and ranged them in a glittering row on the cushion. Five cents for the merry-go-round, two for scalloped gingernuts from Mom' Chloe's basket, the rest for crackers, torpedoes and maybe nigger-chasers, if the market were not on the rise before noon.

A jolly young fellow from the opposite grocery nodded at Deck and tossed him a big yellow banana. Instantly, he forgot his grievance, and began to look at life complacently. A crowd of boys ran whooping down the street, and Deck's happiness was completed by his success in coiling the slippery skin of the banana around the neck of the smallest without his suspecting that it came from the solemn little darky holding the lines in both hands. Two more boys came along, eating socially from a bag of peanuts. One of them was Gustus Peters, Deck's old enemy, but this was a day to forgive your enemies.

"Hullo, Deck," called Gustus; want some goobers? When did not a boy want goobers, and Deck's black hand plunged into the paper bag, while Gustus' sharp eyes swept over the coin on the cushion.

"Say," he said presently; 'there's a feller givin' away sody water down to Bud Shaw's."

"Fer nothin'?" gasped Deck.

"Yep; any kind of seasonin' ye want; too had you can't git none."

Gustus and his friend walked slowly on, consulted a minute at the corner and came back.

"Say," said the tempter, "if you'll streak it back I'll mind the haws while you git a sody. You gotter leggit though."

The sallow-faced young man wiping the sloppy counter grinned derisively at Deck's timid appeal.

"Givin' away sody water? Not much we ain't!" And with the splendors of the shining fountain and the mysterious faucets before his eyes it seemed incredible to Deck, until the fat proprietor chuckled.

"Co'se we be, sonny; wot'll ye take? rasbry or—"

"Manlier," said Dick, and in another minute he was blinking his eyes over the tingling little sparkles that shot up from the delicious foam. The last drop was swallowed with a deep sigh of satisfaction, and Deck hastened out, sweeping his sticky cheeks with his greedy tongue. The world seemed much the same. There was the flapping awning and the hospital with its glistening step and big, staring windows, but where was the big mare and the doctor's rig? His heart gave one awful leap of terror as he saw the gig speeding down the street and realized in a flash that he was undone. With one howl of rage he shot widely in pursuit of his treacherous enemy, dashing across the park in spite of the command to "Keep off the grass" and coming out on the street with still breath enough to shout:

"Yere, you Gustus Peters! Whoa, Jinny."

Deck ran blindly after until a policeman stepped from behind a lamppost, caught him in his sturdy arms and held him, demanding:

"What fer deviltry are ye up to now," with a shake that disposed of the remnant of breath left the unlucky little runner.

Deck could only point to the vanishing robber and gasp incoherently about sody water, Gustus and the doctor, and the policeman, being at the end of his resources, was about taking him by the ear to the station, when fate pounced upon Gustus Peters. He had only intended to drive around the block and leave Jinny again at the hospital, allowing Deck and the doctor to settle any little disagreement. But as he was turning the corner he could not forebear the delight of rising in his seat for a backward glance at his small pursuer, writhing in the grasp of the adversary of boys. Crash when the wheel against a telegraph post, and an assortment of legs, arms, frowns head, hickory shirt and tow trousers spun through the air into the middle of a friendly mudpuddle. Instantly a crowd swarmed from everywhere, and the policeman let go of Deck to join it.

Jinny trembled and quivered, but stood bravely, and Deck was bravely at her head soothing and petting her, when the doctor, who had been raging on the steps of the hospital, saw the crowd running down the cross street and followed it. The men surged around the doctor, the policeman pressed forward with an air of importance, and Gustus, who was sitting on the edge of the walk, while an old apple woman wiped the mud out of his eyes with her apron, suddenly concluded that he was not needed in that neighborhood and disappeared down a convenient alley.

A couple of hours later a very dejected little darky was summoned to the doctor's library, and found himself face to face with a long, lithe switch.

"Well, sir," said the doctor, sternly, "what you reckon I'm going to do to you?"

"Mammy say you gwine frail de hide offen me," answered the culprit, meekly.

The doctor's mouth twitched under his mustache, but he managed to scowl dangerously.

"You can tell me first how it happened."

And Deck told, with indignant tears over the fate of his precious earnings that he had slipped between the cushions.

"What I ought to whip you for," said the doctor, "is letting a low-down, no-count fellow like Gustus Peters make a fool of you. But seeing it's Fourth of July and you've lost your money—"

A shower of small change fell at Deck's feet and the whole world seemed one blaze of glory as the doctor added:

"Now go and celebrate, and don't let me see you again till to-morrow morning."

Miss Marcia, with her fingers in her ears, was waiting to comfort the criminal after her brother had administered justice, but when a little black figure made itself into a wheel and came revolving down the hall she said sharply:

"Deck!"

"Yassum, Miss Marshy."

"You make your Mars' Henry a heap of trouble."

"Yassum, Miss Marshy, reckon I does."

"You know how he hates to punish you."

"Yassum, Miss Marshy, reckon he do."

"Well, now see if you can't behave yourself, and here's two bits to buy some crackers."

Down the back stairs dashed Deck, rich beyond his wildest dreams, and into the library marched Miss Marcia.

"Henry," she demurred, "did you whip that little scamp?"

"My dear," laughed the doctor, "I heard the testimony and decided it was not a rebellion, but a declaration of independence."

"And you didn't do a thing to him?"

"Oh, yes, I did. I gave him some more money."

"Well, I can tell you one thing," began Miss Marcia—but after all she never did tell him.

Chicks need grit. Kill the puny chicks. Avoid damp locations. Start incubation for broilers. Brooders must be cleaned daily. Never use a cheap thermometer. Uniform eggs give a uniform hatch. Even in Winter it is best to change the material in the nests occasionally.

While sound oats are egg-producing, better results will be secured by alternating them with wheat bran.

A fowl that is inclined to fatten rapidly is rarely a good layer. The flesh it carries makes it lazy, and this never promotes laying.
