

PUT A BUSINESS MAN ON THE JOB

ELON HUNTINGTON HOOKER Candidate for the Republican Nomination For GOVERNOR

It's time for the business of the State of New York to be run by a business man. Put a man on the job who has the punch and the ability to get things done quickly and done right.

HOOKER says:

The main and most immediate problem is the cost of living, and linked with this is the widespread social unrest.

Farmers think. The public interest demands that they be consulted.

The most vital need of the State is an administration which will seek by every power vested in the Government to encourage, inspire and vitalize all ideas and practices tending toward the following:

1. Increased production, both in quality and quantity, on the farm and in the shop.
2. Elimination of dangerous radicalism by handling overt acts relentlessly under criminal law and meeting agitation with education.
3. Reduction in the cost of Government by cutting out waste without loss of efficiency.
4. Development of the State's resources to produce additional wealth over which to spread the tax burden.

Disregard of the public no longer should be tolerated by the State. The citizens of this State are entitled to a business-like conduct of their affairs and should demand nothing less.

The Great Salvation

By REV. P. B. FITZWATER
Teacher of English Bible, Moody
Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT.—How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?—Heb. 2:3.

I. Why This Salvation Is Great.

1. Because its author is great. The Jews had a great reverence for the angels, those holy messengers who at sundry times and in divers manners appeared to their fathers but the author of this salvation the Son of God, is so much greater than the angels that he is worshiped by them. Not only this, but he is the eternal One who created all things, and inhering in himself are all the essential elements of Deity.

2. Because it saves from great sins. This salvation was not designed only for the mighty, the noble, and the good, but for the vilest sinner as well. The prophet says, "Though your sins be as scarlet they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson they shall be as wool." Yes, though you may have committed murder and the sentence of death be awaiting you; though you have stolen; though you have gone to the limit of sensuality until you are nothing less than a moral leper, this salvation is so great that it can save you if you will but lay hold on it.

3. Because it saves from great danger. The Bible represents all men who have not come under the salvation of the blood of Christ as sinners and says that the wages of sin is death. Man's sin is so great that God says that for the impatient there awaits an eternal hell, an everlasting burning, an unending ruin. This awful doom is hanging over every man who has not surrendered to the Lord Jesus Christ.

4. Because it takes men of the meanest type and manner of life and elevates them to princely honors.

II. How This Salvation May Be Lost.

It may be lost by neglect. There are some things which may be neglected without entailing great inconvenience or loss, but the great salvation provided in Christ is one thing which it will not do to neglect; to do so is the height of folly and madness. Observe:

1. To lose this salvation there need not necessarily be any grave offense against morality. You may be living a clean life, possessing good intentions, fully decided that sometime you will lay hold of eternal life; yet if you neglect, you will be overtaken with eternal disaster and ruin.
2. There may not be any conscious or spoken rebellion against God, yet you may be lost, for "he that is not for me is against me." Your neglect to come out on the Lord's side and make a confession in the atoning blood may engulf your soul forever in the abyss of woe.
3. There may not be any fault finding or speaking against this salvation—only the delay in embracing it.
4. There may not be any decided refusal of the offer of salvation in Christ, simply neglect.
5. All one needs to do in order to be lost is to do nothing. There are but three steps to hell, namely, neglect, indifference, and refusal. Persistent neglect occasions indifference; continued indifference terminates in hardness of heart and stubborn refusal.

III. The Impossibility of Escape if This Great Salvation Is Neglected.

1. Because there is but one way of escape that is, through belief on the Lord Jesus Christ. There is "no other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."
  2. Because there is but one life to live and that life is made up of opportunities of salvation; hence if these opportunities be neglected in this life there is no possible way of escape.
  3. Because there is no repentance beyond the grave; as death leaves us so will the judgment find us.
  4. Because there are no more offerings for sin. There are no more Saviors to die; therefore, to miss the salvation offered by Jesus Christ is to be forever lost.
  5. Because there are no more Spirits to quicken those dead in trespasses and sin. It is the Spirit that quickeneth; if we resist Jesus too long he will take his departure forever.
- God says, "My Spirit will not always strive." Since, therefore, there is a great salvation offered, "whosoever will, may come." "Now is the accepted time." The door of mercy is now open. Will you not receive him now?

Editor Scott of the Sheldon Democrat, whose plan was damaged by fire recently, expects to have his place fully equipped and doing business at the old stand shortly. He has installed a type setting machine.

At the Endicott public market 14 loads of produce were sold in one day. Homemade bread at 15 cents a loaf was much in demand, but the novelty of the day was a number of woodchucks, which were sold to eager buyers at 30 cents a pound.

Return of draft dodgers to the cities is one of the reasons assigned by agriculturists for the shortage of farm labor. There is an acute shortage of farm help in Western New York and farmers in Monroe county are affected as seriously as any.

Petitions bearing approximately 400 signatures in which employees of the Lisk Manufacturing company of Canandaigua call on the management to establish a co-operative store for employees, are in the hands of President C. C. Keehn of the company.

Judge Lynn J. Arnold, until recently publisher and editor of the Knickerbocker Press of Albany and formerly president of the First National bank at Cooperstown, died after a short illness from heart trouble. He was born in Otsego county in 1864.

Grant E. Winchester, superintendent of the state fish hatchery at Bemus Point, reports that nearly 14,000,000 muscalonge eggs were taken this spring and there has been a good catch of fish. About 75 per cent of the fry will be placed back in Chautauque lake.

The Utica Saturday Globe with a circulation covering the United States and Canada was sold to a group of 15 business men and will be issued as a daily morning paper, starting July 1, it was announced in Utica. The business was founded 40 years ago.

Plans for a drive on income tax dodgers have been completed by the state income tax bureau and the drive is on to bring into the net those who have not complied with the state income tax law. It is estimated the state has lost $3,000,000 revenue from tax dodgers.

Three days' trip through the apple orchard districts of Yates, Wyoming, Steuben, Livingston, Allegany and Cattaraugus counties showed unusually fine blossoming trees. Except possibly the Baldwins, there is a very encouraging outlook for more than an average crop.

The Dairymen's league declared that the league price for June milk will be $2.83 per one hundred pounds for 3 per cent milk at the 200-201 mile freight zone, with the usual freight and butter fat differentials. This is an increase of 23 cents over the May quotation.

John Meyers, aged 41, a well-known and prosperous farmer, killed himself on his farm west of South Dayton. Despondency over the price of feed and seed is said to be the cause. He carried his rifle to the barn and shot himself twice, once in the head and then through the heart.

Governor Smith is planning his first vacation since he became the state's chief executive. He expects to leave on June 10 for French Lick, Ind., where he will remain about 10 days or two weeks and proceed from there to San Francisco as a delegate at large to the Democratic national convention.

High prices paid to owners of cabbage in Wayne county last year have caused many to turn their attention to that crop this season. Wayne county is well adapted to cabbage raising and there will probably be a large acreage this year. Lucky growers received from $50 to $100 a ton for their crop last season.

Enforcement of the Ferris amendment to the highway law relating to the operation of motor trucks and trailers on state highways began on Monday, State Highway Commissioner Greene announced. The law provides that no truck shall carry a load greater than 25,000 pounds, the load to be distributed so that there shall not be more than 800 pounds per inch in width of tire on any one wheel.

Crop prospects for the Salamanca section of Cattaraugus county are not alluring. Farmers are not plowing nearly as much acreage under cultivation as they did last season, and farm labor is the chief reason, they say. They are putting in only as many crops as they can successfully handle themselves. One well-known farmer residing in Little Valley says that of the fine farming country between Salamanca and Little Valley that there will be about 200 acres less under cultivation this season than last.

Madina and Orleans county think agriculturally in terms of fruit almost entirely. This is natural when it is appreciated that Orleans county is the fourth largest fruit producing county in the United States, and it must be said that at the present time these growers in that section are keenly hopeful for a good crop of both peaches and apples, particularly the latter. Orleans and Niagara counties have the best prospects for peaches of any county in New York state, with Monroe and Wayne not far behind; but there are scarcely any peach prospects in the Hudson river valley section.

Livingston county boys and girls are enrolling in large numbers in the four junior pig, corn, calf and potato clubs. At Groveland station a dozen boys and girls got pure bred pigs and paid for them with money borrowed from the Groveland Banking company. George Hall of the First National bank of Caledonia reported a goodly number interested in the pure bred heifer club in that section. York pig club started at Mt. Morris last week with 10 members, who will borrow from the St-wart Banking company. Springwater and Danville are strong for the potato club. Lima boys and girls' pig club will have 20 members by June 1 and the calf club is coming in good shape.

HELP BUSINESS TO PROSPER

Matter of Vital Interest to Whole Community That Its Industries Shall Flourish and Grow.

There is an old saying among merchants that there are just two ways to increase their volume of business, remarks Carl Hunt in The Nation's Business. One is through the sale of merchandise to more people; the other, through the sale of more merchandise to present customers.

What is the community doing to help present industries? Is some manufacturer handicapped through the lack of street car transportation for his men, or through the need of a railroad switch that a stubborn city council has declined to authorize, or through some restriction which might easily and properly be removed?

Or could additional capital be invested in the present enterprises of the city, to the benefit of the community, and the profit of local investors?

I am well acquainted with a small Indiana city which in time past has undertaken to be the home of a rolling mill and a large tin-plate mill, though there was no apparent reason why either should have been situated there. Both of them failed. In the meantime, the whole community stood upon a foundation of stone which was of excellent quality for paving purposes, and from which lime could be, and later was, produced. The one man who entered the stone business there eventually had a thriving trade which later, passing into the hands of outside people, grew still larger. With fuel—a good grade of coal—but a few miles away, and with such stone deposits, this community might have developed along this line had local capital become interested, or had the community made a serious and well-directed effort to interest stone men from other places, for the city has excellent railroad service—three main lines—and is within easy shipping distance of several important cities which afford a large market for crushed stone.

CATERING TO TOURISTS

These concrete tables and benches have been built in a picturesque canon by the people of San Bernardino, Cal., as a convenience to picnickers and motor tourists.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Interlocking Brick.

Burned walls falling all around him during the great fire in San Francisco gave an Arizona man the idea of self-binding and interlocking brick, a type of building material which promises to revolutionize brick construction work the world over. The principle of the brick is decidedly simple. On one side of the brick are two annular bosses which are concentrically located opposite two annular depressions on the other side of the brick, so that when the bricks are laid the bosses register with the depressions. In that way the bricks are locked into the wall and none can be removed unless all the bricks above it are first taken away. In sections of the country where hollow-wall construction has come into popularity the interlocking brick seems likely to prove the most popular, because it can be used in tying the two walls together. The bricks can be extended across the open space and made to lock together and act as a binder. Hollow-walls are desirable because of their coolness in sections where humidity prevails.

Use Care in Selecting Plants.

In selecting plants one is governed largely by the soil and climatic conditions, position of buildings, walks, drives, fountains, bodies of water, and the surrounding area. Soil conditions may be changed by the addition of manure or commercial fertilizers. Often the amateur is not familiar with the various kinds of plants, and is unable to make the proper selection. For such individuals it is advisable for them to visit the parks and other well planted landscapes. This will enable one to become familiar with the plants and their names, and will aid greatly in the selections of shrubbery to suit his particular needs. Metal tags giving the technical and common names are attached to many of the plants in the parks which will be found helpful to the amateur.

Vacant Lots Beautified.
Vacant lots in a western city are made attractive by transplanting wild flowers upon them.

LISTEN TO AMBITION'S VOICE

Desirable Companion May Fail to Call Again if She is Not Accorded Recognition.

Most young people seem to think that ambition is a quality that is born in one and which cannot be materially changed, but the greatest ambition may be materially injured in many different ways. The habit of procrastination, of postponing the habit of picking out the easier tasks and putting off the difficult ones, for example, will very seriously impair the ambition. Whatever affects the ideals affects the ambition.

Ambition often begins very early to knock for recognition. If we do not heed its voice, if it gets no encouragement after appealing to us for years, it gradually ceases to trouble us, because, like any other unused quality or function, it deteriorates or disappears when unused.

Be careful how you discourage or refuse to heed that inner voice which commands you to go forward, for if you do it will become less and less insistent until finally it will cease to prod you and when ambition is dead deterioration has set in.—From "Ambition and Success," by Orison Swett Marden.

MOTHER MIGHT HAVE KNOWN

Small Boys Don't Usually Pick Up Slang Expressions From Pages of Their School Books.

"Mamma, why do some people call dollars 'bucks'?" said little brother at the dinner table.

"Oh, that's just a slang word, and it's not very nice for little boys like you to say it," was the reply.

After he had consumed another candied sweet potato brother again broke out:

"And mother, why do they say six 'bells' when they want to tell the time?" Mamma was decidedly perturbed, and had visions of her offspring having been in undesirable company.

"Why, brother," she said, "who in the world have you been listening to?"

"Mutt and Jeff," was the grave reply.

In These Servantless Days.

The head of one house where war conditions had left the place helpless drove his daughter to a party.

The head of the house where the party was held was perforce acting as his own carriage man and door opener. Afterward, when they were formally presented, one said:

"I certainly must beg your pardon or something, sir."

"What is it?"

"You know that night when you drove your daughter to my daughter's party?"

"Yes."

"Well, when I came to open the door I thought you were your chauffeur."

"Cheer up! I thought you were your butler!"—Farm Life, England.

"Athleteses."

Women of France, according to Le Temps, are no whit behind their British and American sisters in the gaining of athletic honors. Not content with standing on equal basis with the men socially and politically, they now aspire to wrest away the laurels of field and gymnasium; and to this end they stop at nothing. Even the more strenuous forms of sport, including wrestling and boxing, hold place in the new repertoire. "Athleteses," the Frenchmen aptly call them, and as "athleteses" these women have shown their right to enter a field so long monopolized by the opposite sex.

Better See Father First.

"Will you," he asked, his voice trembling—"will you give me a kiss?"

Gently but firmly Angelina thrust him from her.

"I think you had better see father."

He started, his face pale. Could her love not stand the test of possible parental anger?

"Why?" he cried, "what do you mean?"

She caressed his soft young cheek with her slender finger.

"Father is a barber," she answered gently.

New Orchestral Instrument.

The theater orchestra's busy trap drummer, required on occasion to produce all known sounds, may now interject his battle scene or hold-up interpretations with single shots, or volleys, without moving a finger. One of the fraternity has devised a "gun" which shoots by foot pressure. An article in Popular Mechanics Magazine describes its mechanism. Its wheel-shaped cylinder holds 60 .22-caliber and 30 .32-caliber cartridges, which may be fired singly, alternately or the two sizes together, the latter making the report of a .44-caliber. A particularly realistic flavor is thus added to motion picture accompaniments.

About the Right Idea.

"Our house is much nicer than your house," boasted Verona.

"No, it ain't half as nice as our house; we've got the nicest house in the whole world," proclaimed Effie.

Verona was staggered for a moment, then complacently remarked: "Well, is isn't so much what we has as what we think we has that counts, I s'pose."

"What on earth do you mean, Willie?"

"Why, pa says you're rattleshrined."

FROCKS FOR GIRLS

Heavy Linen or Cotton Used for Spring and Summer.

Georgette and Net Dresses Sharing Honors With Other Materials for Party Wear.

The sketch shows a sensible dress for a little girl of six years. It may be of wool fabric or of velveteen embroidered in wool or chenille, or of heavy linen or cotton material for spring or summer. The dress buttons in the back and a belt of black velvet ribbon is slipped through openings arranged for the purpose, and tied in a bow in the back. The little pouched pockets are finished at the edge, as are sleeves, collar and jacket with a long buttonhole stitch done in the floss used for the embroidered motifs.

Yellow heavy linen is used by some of the designers in developing smart tailored spring or summer dresses for little girls. One frock shown is of burnt orange linen embroidered in heavy black wool and finished with a patent leather belt.

The three-piece tub frock is featured for girls of six to ten years. One of these recently brought out has a plain linen skirt laid in wide box plaits a blouse of white and colored dotted handkerchief linen with a little square cut detachable coat of the plain material. Lavender is also recorded as a color leader in next season's tub dresses for children.

This season velveteen and wool jersey cloth hold the center of the stage in serviceable materials chosen for dresses for little girls, the staple serge being compelled, to some extent, to take a back seat. Angora and heavy wool embroideries are popular trimming touches both on velveteen and jersey cloth frocks. This very sturdy material is so effective and charming when shown in the pastel shades that frocks of it are quite good enough for dressy occasions.

A particularly smart and popular type of school dress this season com-lines a middie blouse of black velveteen with a plaited skirt of Scotch plaid.

For party wear, georgette and net dresses are sharing honors with those made of fine cotton voile or of organdie in white or pastel shades. Self fabric in contrasting color, used as piping, is much used as a trimming for the organdie frock.

NECKLINE BOWS AND RIBBONS

Fashion Has Become Pronounced and Adds to the Attractiveness of Many Gowns.

Have you noticed how many smart frocks and blouses have tiny ribbon bows, of silver or velvet, at the back of the neck? This is new style, one of those notions taken up now and then by exclusive dressmakers, and not—so to speak—put on the market in ready-to-wear costume until the fashion has become pronounced. A new tunic blouse of rose and silver ribbon binding around the neck and a tiny bow of the ribbon is set at the back, long streamers falling to the waist. An ecru crepe de chine frock with plaited frill around the square neck opening and elbow sleeve, has gay little bows of narrow black velvet ribbon. And a dinner gown of black chiffon over black and white satin, has silver ribbon around the neck (with a bow at the back) and much silver hemstitching on the bodice.

Cire Satin Popular.

Cire satin is quite as popular in hats as it is in dresses. Because it has so many qualities that will contribute toward its success we may be sure of its continued use in spring and summer millinery. Its slight stiffness gives it an advantage over ordinary satin as a material from which to make an entire hat. Then its glazed surface makes it successful as a dust shedding material. It will be used in dark color only, the preference being given to browns, navy blue and black.

Tower Brand Paint

Tower Brand Paint is a superior article made from the purest ingredients. It is adapted to inside and outside use. Outside Gloss—Inside Flat Tints. Deck, Floor and Roof. AIR SERVICE GOES TO AID OF SALVATION LASSIES

Salvation Army lassies all over the United States are busy just now getting ready for the nation-wide Home Service appeal for $10,000,000 the Army is to make from May 10 to 20. Here are some of the popular blue-bonneted girls leading an airplane with printed matter so urgently needed that the usual method of shipment would have been too slow.

The supplies which were in New York City had to be in Albany the same afternoon. The United States Air Service stepped into the breach and got them there from the Flying Boat on Long Island in a little over two hours. The obliging aviator is Sergeant J. Cole. The three lassies are "war veterans."

THE GENOA TRIBUNE

Published every Friday and entered at the postoffice at Genoa, N. Y., as second class mail matter.

Friday Morning, June 4, 1920

Maxine Elliott, June 5.

The international favorite and famed beauty, Maxine Elliott, appears in "Fighting Odds" at Genoa Gem theater Saturday evening, June 5. In this photo-drama the famous beauty of the stage, now of the screen, is seen as the wife of a millionaire manufacturer in a busy industrial city in a story which tells of the struggle of a woman to outwit the powerful enemies seeking the destruction of her husband. As the title indicates, it is a struggle of a woman against great odds, against the financial powers of the country. Her only resources are her beauty and charm. The biggest figure in Wall Street falls before these attributes.

To this role Miss Elliott brings not only an exquisite beauty and majestic carriage, but also a wonderful feminine sweetness which gains at once the sympathy of the onlooker. It is a beauty and sweetness ripened by maturity and expressing the depths of feeling of a soulful woman.

Death of Mrs. Martha Ward.

The death of Mrs. Martha Ward, widow of Frank Ward, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Allnut, north of this village, on Sunday in the 75th year of her age. Mrs. Ward had been in failing health for a long time, and was confined to the bed for several weeks. She survived her husband only nine months. She leaves three daughters, Mrs. Allnut of Genoa, Mrs. John White of Auburn and Mrs. Fred Holden of Syracuse.

Funeral services were held at the Allnut home on Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. L. W. Scott of Auburn officiated, and read one of the favorite hymns of the deceased, "Sometime We'll Understand." Burial was made at Sand Beach cemetery.

Mrs. Charles E. Shapley.

Nettie E. Jessup, wife of Charles E. Shapley, died Tuesday evening, May 25, at her home in Auburn, following an illness of three years. Mrs. Shapley who had made her home in Auburn for the past 33 years in early life resided at East Genoa. She was a member of the King's Daughters of the Universalist church of Auburn and when her health permitted was active in the affairs of the society.

Mrs. Shapley is survived by her husband and a son, Fred Shapley, of Auburn. The funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the family home, with Rev. John Edwin Price, pastor of the Universalist church, officiating. Burial in Fort Hill cemetery.

Genoa Presbyterian Church Notes.

The sermon by Dr. Nichols of Auburn seminary last Sunday morning was greatly enjoyed by the congregation.

Services as usual next Sunday. Morning service at 10:30 o'clock. Sunday school following morning service. Young people's meeting at usual time.

It was announced last Sunday that Arthur T. Clark, who supplied the pulpit for some time last year while in the seminary, will come to Genoa July 1 to be acting pastor during the summer months, and will also spend a part of each week here after the seminary opens this fall. This arrangement has been made with the understanding that efforts will be continued to secure a regular pastor for the church. The congregation are much pleased, however, that Mr. Clark is to return here.

The annual meeting of the church and society will be held in the church on Monday evening, June 7, at 8 o'clock. A large attendance is desired.

"ALLIED CITIZENS" SPREADS IN NEW YORK STATE

One Hundred Thousand Enrolled for Law and Order and the Eighteenth Amendment.

WANT FAIR TRIAL FOR PROHIBITION

More than 100,000 men and women in New York state are lined up and signed up, working to promote the effectiveness of the Eighteenth Amendment and to see that this fall dry candidates are elected who next year will vote for concurrence with the Federal law.

These citizens, who are organized as members of the Allied Citizens of America, Inc., and, grouped in county Branches and local Divisions, are striving to make their organizations 100 per cent efficient to combat the plans of all nullifiers of the Eighteenth Amendment inside and outside of New York state.

The Allied Citizens of America will celebrate its first anniversary in May. Already it has organizations in most counties throughout the state and has secured the leadership of outstanding men and women wherever a Division has been formed. Its members are combating liquor propaganda, denying false statements about prohibition whenever they appear and standing solidly for law and order.

"The Allied Citizens of America gives the plain people a chance to be heard on the prohibition question," said Miss Adella Potter, Superintendent of Organization of the Allied Citizens of America, under whose generalship the cohesive power of the movement is growing. "Liquor dealers and their sympathizers talk a great deal about a reaction against prohibition and put out misleading propaganda through the Association Opposed to National Prohibitions and kindred organizations which they purport to be representative of the ideas of the rank and file of citizens. We are finding that the rank and file, who are for law observance and are anxious to give prohibition a chance, are seldom heard. Now these people, through the Allied Citizens, will have an opportunity to express their opinion.

"New York is far behind western and southern states in the matter of temperance and prohibition education. This is due to the Tammany Democrats and the old Elton R. Brown-Barnes-Wadsworth Republicans at Albany, who persistently killed the numerous state and county option bills introduced by the Anti-Saloon League that would have given the people a direct referendum on the liquor question and have educated them by means of local option campaigns to a true understanding of the prohibition situation. It was not until the Eighteenth Amendment was submitted to the states and a direct referendum on it impossible that the liquor interests ever advanced the referendum plan.

"Because of this condition it was found necessary to organize the Allied Citizens after New York state ratified the Eighteenth Amendment. It would be a revelation to the wet politicians if they could see the way the men and women of the state are grasping the significant fact that politicians who now are loudest in their cries for a referendum on the Federal amendment (which is a legal impossibility) are the very ones who in the past persistently refused to allow citizens to have a direct referendum on the question of state prohibition."

Miss Potter explained the difference between the Allied Citizens and the Anti-Saloon League by stating that the Anti-Saloon League acts as the representative of the dry forces at Albany during the legislative sessions, securing information as to the prohibition and enforcement attitude of assemblymen and state senators, then passing it on to the various groups of citizens in every locality who have put themselves back of this great reform and banded together in divisions of the Allied Citizens. The League thus arms them with facts which, as constituents, they utilize either to work for the re-election or the defeat of their representatives.

FOR A DRY UNITED STATES SENATOR

By ADELLA POTTER,

Superintendent of Organization of Allied Citizens of America.

The liquor interests are trying to break down the Volstead Law that provides for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. To do this they must elect enough wet United States senators and congressmen who will vote for a national law that will declare beer and wine non-intoxicating and enable it to be legally sold even though the amendment stands.

To do this they are straining every nerve to re-elect wet United States senators and congressmen. Senator Wadsworth is one of these men. He has always supported the liquor interests when his help was needed. He has always been associated with the Barnes Republican machine, which is notoriously wet. His renomination and re-election would mean leadership for the liquor interests in the United States Senate for the next six years, and the return to power in New York Republican politics of William Barnes—the man who sued Theodore Roosevelt and who represents the most reactionary views in the state.

Most of the other states bore the brunt of the national prohibition fight before the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted. Now that the terrific liquor counterattack is on New York, the Vardon of the movement is morally bound to prevent the liquor forces from breaking through. It must send a dry senator to Washington in place of James W. Wadsworth.

GATHERING FACTS ABOUT PROHIBITION.

Allied Citizens Tabulated Improvements Under Dry Law. The Allied Citizens of America, through its county Branches and local Divisions within the counties is gathering facts that prove that prohibition has been a tremendous success and has bettered conditions in all parts of the state. Publicity chairmen of each Division are securing data showing the good effects of the dry law in their locality. Reports are being sent in to the main office at 906 Broadway, New York City, that almshouses are closing, jails are going out of business, arrests are decreasing, hospitals have fewer patients, and charity organizations say they are giving little or no aid to victims of drink. The material is being sent to local papers to disprove the claims of the liquor interests that prohibition will be an economic failure and will increase crime and unrest.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BEER.

The Allied Citizens of America, incorporated to uphold the Constitution of the United States, particularly the Eighteenth Amendment, thereto, is spreading by means of leaflets and addresses the following facts about beer and its effects:

- 1. Beer has enough drug content to make it habit forming and is, therefore, if sold promiscuously as "harmless" sure to re-establish the alcohol habit and craving in the incoming generation. The craving once re-established generally will make certain the eventual removal of all restrictions. 2. One does not have to be drunk in the common acceptance of the word to be intoxicated. Three and one-half per cent beer is intoxicating. 3. Fermented drinks led to the manufacture and use of distilled liquors in the past. What has been will be again. 4. To label a habit forming, intoxicating alcoholic beverage "harmless" and promote its sale by every grocery store will do more to make the alcohol habit universal in the homes than the much hated saloons ever could do. In them at least the people went to the drinks. By this method the drinks invade the homes. Under the proposed New York beer law every restaurant will become a saloon and every saloon a restaurant. 5. Limitless propaganda does not change facts. The brewers through their control of state legislatures are trying to sell the American people a lie—and a costly one. The best way to deal with that lie is to kill it at the start. 6. Georgia and other commonwealths tried the small percentage beer experiment to their sorrow. They proved what it will do as a means of keeping alive every variety of alcoholic violation of the law.

"TRUE BLUE" JUNIORS STAND FOR LAW AND ORDER.

You do not have to be of age to become a member of the Allied Citizens of America. This organization, which is standing for good citizenship and helping to show the people the benefits of prohibition, has established a "True Blue Junior Department" for those under twenty-one years of age.

The Juniors sign a pledge to uphold the Constitution, particularly the Eighteenth Amendment, and promise to maintain due respect for all laws, local, state and national.

The Junior Divisions are being formed under the auspices of schools, Sunday schools, parent-teachers' associations and women's clubs. The first Junior branch was organized by pupils of District No. 11 of the town of Jerusalem, Yates county, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Jennie C. Lounsbury Hiller.

Public Health Promoted by Prohibition. Prohibition is increasing hospital efficiency and promoting hospital economy according to Frederic D. Green, secretary of the United Hospital Fund of New York city.

Mr. Green bases this statement on figures supplied by New York city hospitals showing a decrease of from 70 to 90 per cent of alcoholic cases during the first two months of prohibition. The closing of alcoholic wards and the reduction of emergency cases he declares will promote public health and make room in hospitals for those who are really sick.

NEARING CULEBRA CUT.

One of Uncle Sam's battle-wagons going through the Panama Canal. This view was taken near Culebra Cut from a Navy seaplane.

The little tug hardly looks large enough to chaperon a battleship, does it? But then the tug is a part of the U. S. Navy too.

Size isn't always the most important thing. The men of the Navy have learned that brains amount to a great deal more.

Mine Sweeper No. 38.

This little boat was one of the fleet of 59 which cleared the North Sea of 55,000 mines.

The Fleet has just returned to this country and was given a big reception in New York City.

These boats would sometimes be out for as long as twenty-five days in the storms and seas for which the North Sea is noted. The work was declared impossible by other navies, but the United States went ahead and completed this work before the scheduled time.

The U. S. Navy once again did the impossible.

Shooting the Mines.

The U. S. Mine Sweeping Detachment has just returned from its work in the North Sea. The ever present danger of floating mines was counteracted by the sharp eyesight of the men who were behind the guns. Their job was to pick off the mines as they appeared and explode them by direct hits. The lives of the other men aboard and the safety of the ship depended on their keenness.

A large proportion of the 55,000 mines laid in the North Sea by the U. S. Navy was destroyed in this way.

This is just one of the jobs that comes in the career of a U. S. sailor; one of the experiences that gives him a grip on himself and makes him a regular fellow.

WANTED ALL HE COULD GET

Elderly Passenger in Airplane Was Looking for Some Thrills for His Good Money.

Last summer Kalamazoo, Ind., had the usual airplane pilot who took passengers up for $1 a minute. The pilot was approached one day by a man who was easily within earshot of a eighty years. The pilot took him aboard and soared around in "straight flying" in order not to give the elderly passenger any thrills that would be dangerous to his heart action. After the customary fifteen minutes he slid gracefully to the ground and motioned his passenger to alight. The old man complied, and then walked up to the aviator.

"Say," he exclaimed, "are you a real flyer? What about Immelman turns, barrel rolls, loop-the-loops, nose dive, tail spin, falling leaf, pancake, and so on? Can you do any of those things?"

"Sure," replied the aviator, "but I did not think you cared about any of those things. They are a trifle risky, you know, and might upset your stomach."

"Well, I paid for a good ride and I expected some of those things," the passenger countered, "and I would like to get them. Give me all you got. Tumble around in the air like a porpoise in the ocean."

The aviator told him to climb aboard and he would accommodate him. He gave the passenger "all he had."

"That's fine!" exclaimed the passenger, as he climbed out of the cockpit the second time. "That's the way I like to ride!"—Indianapolis News.

VAST RICHES IN OLD MINES

Wealth Awaits Lucky Prospector Who Can Find One, Though Many Are Known to Exist.

We are all familiar with Sir Rider Haggard's "King Solomon's Mines" nor was he by any means the first to put forward the theory, though in a romance, that many old and but half-worked mines might yet await the patient toil of the searcher. Except in cases where there had been long-continued use, it is not at all improbable that there are ancient mines ready to reward the intelligent methods of today. But now in Idaho, we are told, "the lost gold mine of the Upper Salmon river district" has been rediscovered. A rich ledge had been found by two prospectors and worked by them a little; then they fell out and a Spokane policeman, who had the secret from one of them, sought the mine for 20 years; then he fell out, and now it has been found anew, to enrich the finders, for the ledge proper is said to be from four to six feet wide with a rich quartz streak that shows the gold shining in its grasp. The gold has always been there and somebody for many years has believed it to be there; it only needed to be found to add another to the romances of fact.

Fine Home for Young Singers.

Appreciative of the contribution to music made by the Paulist choristers, and desirous of giving them the opportunity to develop their art, John P. Rockefeller, Jr., has placed at their disposal as their home a fine old house and grounds on Washington Heights, New York city, known as Libby castle. The house was built 25 years ago and is now one of the landmarks of the city. Its architecture is a combination of medieval Norman and Spanish. There are 50 boys there now, ranging from ten years up to seventeen. They have been recruited from almost every state in the Union and every level of society. Together with the course in music they receive a fine academic education that prepares them for entrance into the higher schools and colleges, says the New York Times. The grounds around Libby castle also make it possible for them to get the proper physical training.

An Egress.

A Southerner recently saw at a railway station in Canada an old negro, says the Columbia State, looking helplessly about him.

"What's the matter, uncle?" he inquired. "Lost your way?"

"No, thank yuh, boss, not so you kin call it los', but I is lookin' fer a colored ooman."

"Your wife?"

"No, boss, I ain't never seen her, but I ax de gemmum at de ticket winder how you git out huh, an' he say, 'You fin' a negress on dat side.' And, boss, it been so long sence I seed a colored lady, I been mighty glad to know hit. An' I been goin' f'm side to side ober sence, an' boss, I cain' fin' her nowhere."—Savannah News.

Turtle Eggs in Chow.

Boiled turtle eggs are a novelty which has been added to the menu of the Naval States marines on duty at the naval station at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Two 200-pound turtles were captured recently by marines while sailing a small boat on the bay. When they were killed more than 100 eggs were found in each.

The egg of the turtle when removed from the body has a soft shell. The egg itself is about the size of a hen's egg. The inside resembles in taste and appearance the yolk of a hen's egg.

The eggs are boiled hard, and the shell is peeled off like the outer skin of an onion.

HETTY GREEN DECISION A NOTABLE VICTORY

Nets State Forty Millions More From Non-Resident Estates, State Comptroller Eugene M. Travis Estimates.

New York City.—Millions of dollars of additional money may be recovered as the result of the Hetty Green decision, handed down last week, State Comptroller Eugene M. Travis announced. The comptroller's estimate is based upon the totals which in addition to the two million dollar tax imposed on the Hetty Green estate by this decision, his office may receive from the estates of other multi-millionaires whose property is sought to be exempted because of their alleged residences outside of New York at the time of their death. In the estate of Baron William Waldorf Astor, now pending, Comptroller Travis believes there is no question but that his office will collect considerable additional money as a direct result of last week's victory.

Hetty Green, explained Comptroller Travis, in commenting on the case, was known throughout New York state as a wealthy business woman. Upon her death four years ago her estate was estimated at a value of nearly $100,000,000. When my office, represented by Lafayette B. Gleason, attempted to collect the tax, the attorneys for her estate endeavored to avoid payment upon the ground that she was not a resident. Mr. Surrogate Fowler upheld this view, declaring her to be a resident of Vermont, although the proof showed she resided there only four or five weeks each year during the summer months.

EUGENE M. TRAVIS.

This decision was appealed, but the state was defeated in the Appellate Division. Mr. Gleason thereupon instituted proceedings to tax the property used in business in this state to the value of about $38,000,000. His contention being that it was taxable under an amendment drawn by Comptroller Travis' office. Surrogate Fowler again decided against the state, and the case was again taken to the Appellate Division, which reversed the surrogate's decision. On the report of the appraiser Surrogate Fowler again held this property non-taxable, and it was from this decision that the appeal was taken which has just been decided favorably to the people.

Another important element in the Hetty Green decision will be its far-reaching effect in other matters now awaiting decision, and already the case has been heralded as a signal victory which is bound to add additional millions each year. It also has bearing upon an amendment to the Transfer (Inheritance) Tax Law, which for the last five years I have repeatedly urged. Had this change been effected, litigation of this character would have been prevented and our inheritance laws would have been restored as they existed up to 1911, when the present exemptions were enacted. It would have also netted the state over $40,000,000 which was lost because of the change which relieved non-residents' estates from the payment of a tax similar to that imposed in almost all other states. The comptroller has attempted ineffectually to have the law restored, and finally succeeded in getting an amendment through which taxes real estate goods, wares and merchandise of non-residents as well as their property used in business in this state at the time of their death, and it is on this amendment that the Hetty Green decision is based.

By the amendment of 1911 almost the whole burden of our inheritance tax fell upon the estates left by our citizens. The state comptroller's amendments have brought a large portion of the estates of non-residents who accumulated property within this state under this tax equally and proportionately with the estates of our own citizens, but the comptroller and his attorneys feel that the legislature should amend this law so as to tax the transfers of the property of those who avail themselves of the facilities and advantages of our state but find it convenient to have homes in an adjoining state and to restore the law as it existed in New York state upward of twenty-four years prior to July 1, 1911.

FIRST LASSIE AND SECOND CONVERT STILL IN SALVATION ARMY SERVICE

Commandant Emma Westbrook, member of the first Salvation Army contingent to land in America. (Insert) Louis Petain, the Army's second American convert.

Veterans both, Commandant Emma Westbrook of Indianapolis, 70, member of the first contingent of Salvation Army lassies to invade this country, and Sergeant-Major Louis Petain, 67, of Brooklyn, second convert made by the struggling little band in America, will be active workers in presenting the Army's 1920 appeal for support of its Home Service Fund to be made throughout the country May 10 to 20.

These two workers have seen the organization grow from the veriest tyro in the field of service and relief in 1880 to the powerful influence that it is today. They have never left its service and entertain no thought of doing so. They want to help raise the $10,000,000 necessary to carry the work through another year.

Their enthusiasm is boundless, as it well may be in people who have seen such an inauspicious beginning in the face of jeering and antagonistic crowds result in the universal respect and love held for the Salvation Army today.

The difference in the figure of the coming appeal and the mite collected in their tambourines in the old days demonstrates concretely the difference that 40 years have brought.

Louis Petain is particularly jubilant over the transformation that he has seen and remarks epigrammatically: "You can't buy confidence, sonny. You've got to earn it."

Commandant Westbrook is a traveling inspector of corps in Indiana, while Sergeant-Major Petain is still an active worker with the Brooklyn Post No. 1.

"Ash Barrel Jimmy," the Army's first American convert, died a few years ago. He was sentenced to serve six months with the Army by an exasperated judge who had given up hope of reforming the drunken "remittance man." Jimmy decided voluntarily to make it a life sentence and stayed with the organization until his death. He attained the rank of captain and served others as the Salvationists before had served him.

IN "CHURCH" WITHOUT ROOF SALVATIONISTS PREACH TO MORE THAN 18,000,000 YEARLY

A few of the 18,000,000 persons who attend Salvation Army outdoor meetings each year. (Insert) A penitent at the "Mercy Seat."

More than eighteen million men and women make up the congregations that attend in a single year the street meetings of the Salvation Army in this country. Six millions of these, according to conservative estimate, would never hear the gospel preached but for the practice of the Salvationists of taking the church to the people.

That practice was not an easy one to start. Between the rough-house methods of rowdies who tried to break up even their indoor services in the early days and the unwillingness of the police at first to permit the holding of street meetings the Salvationists had a strenuous time of it.

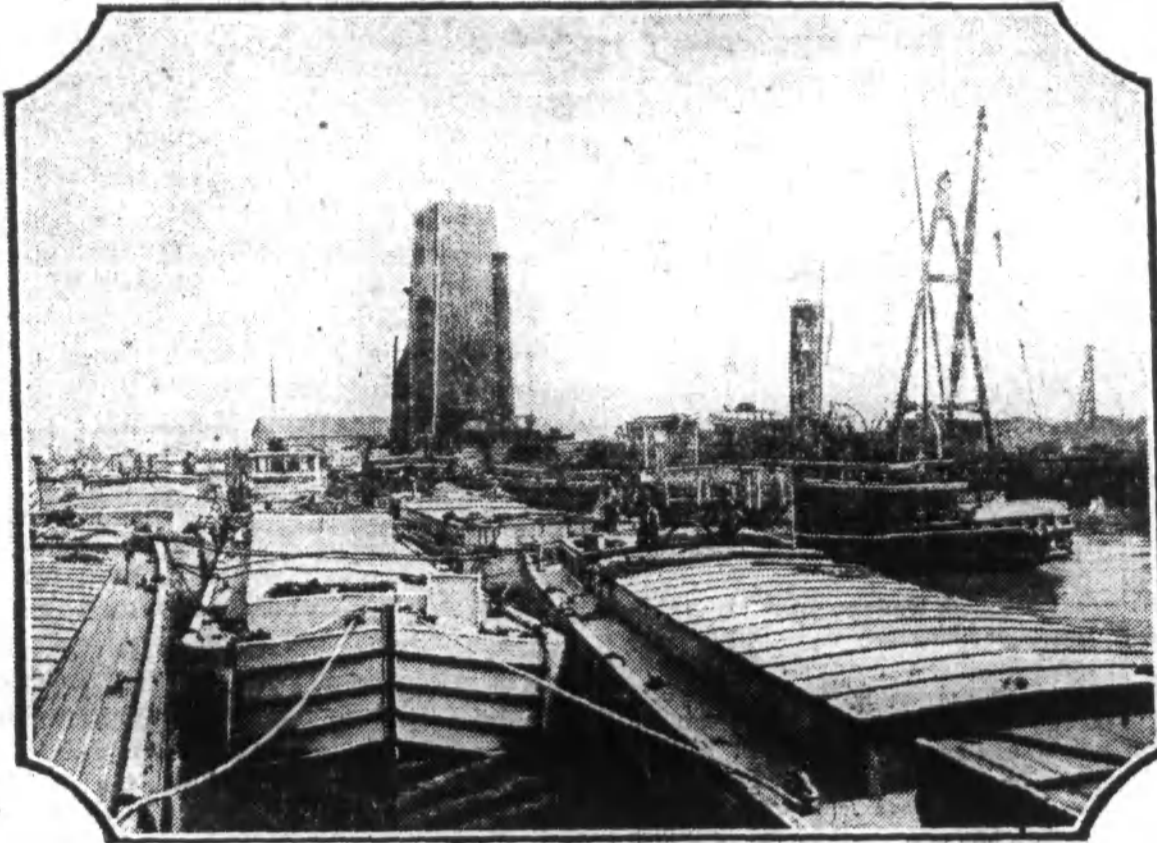

But they persisted, and the Army with the bass drum and the tambourine has kept marching on. When its officers were not preaching they were establishing hospitals, nurseries, rescue homes and institutions of all kinds for the aid of the poor and were giving themselves in unselfish service.

For forty years they financed their humanitarian efforts with the pennies, nickels and dimes collected by blue-bonneted lassies in their tambourines. Then the lassies laid the tambourines aside to serve doughnuts and home cheer to Uncle Sam's boys over in France, and they suddenly awakened a public interest that made it unnecessary for the Army to depend any longer for its existence on tambourine collections.

Under the new dispensation the Salvationists present annually to the country a budget of their financial needs. To maintain their homes, their activities for children, for down-and-nearly-out men and women, for the sick and poverty stricken, they will require $10,000,000 in 1920. Their appeal for this amount will be made between May 10 and 20.

The TRANSPORTATION SITUATION and the EARNING POWER of INLAND MARINE CORPORATION

Copyright Underwood & Underwood

The Fleet of the Inland Marine Corporation

NEWSPAPER reports from all sections of the United States proclaim the virtual breakdown of the country's rail transportation systems. The roads are unable to obtain freight cars, engines and men to move the freight that is piling up at all the terminals.

Confronted by such a situation, manufacturers are frantically seeking other means for forwarding their products and receiving needed raw materials.

The New York Barge Canal Offers the Solution to Their Problem

On it, the Inland Marine Corporation—the only organized Canal transportation company—is already operating a fleet of 68 cargo carriers—57 of which it owns while 11 are under charter.

Full information as to this unusually attractive investment will be sent upon request

Over the 300 routes listed in the Inland Marine tariffs, manufacturers and shippers can send their wares to any part of the world. Moreover, the differential rates charged by the Inland Marine Corporation are 20% less than the rail rates.

In petitioning Congress for $150,000,000 to provide rolling stock to break the freight congestion, high railroad executives assert it will require ten years to obtain adequate equipment.

Now the Inland Marine Corporation already has 68 cargo carriers in operation. More are building for service next year. Every available foot of space in them has been sold for east-bound traffic for the 1920 season. So every indication points to the steadily increasing earning power of Inland Marine Corporation stock for years to come.

To provide additional units for its fleet, the Inland Marine Corporation is offering a limited number of shares of its capital stock for sale.

WHY Underground Workers Are Superstitious

Underground workers in coal and other mines are full of superstitions, some of which are extremely weird. Darkness means mystery, and imagination has created various hobgoblins that are commonly believed to lurk in such subterranean places.

For instance, there is the "ladder dwarf," a hunchbacked demon with a large head and enormously long and powerful arm. His favorite trick is to climb the ladders in mines and, as he passes the rungs, to kick them out one by one.

In Germany the mines are haunted by two supernatural beings called Nickel and Kobold—the former being benevolently disposed and the latter evilly mischievous. They are the gnomes who fill or empty the lodes. Nickel, if properly propitiated, will reproduce metal-bearing ores as fast as they are removed.

Kobold, on the other hand, will steal away the metal from the lodes. He blows out the miners' lamps and, if he catches a man alone he may drug him about by the nose or hair. If he has a special grudge against an individual miner he will throw him down a ladder or crush him beneath a down-fall of rock.

To gain the good-will of these formidable goblins the miners leave bread, cake and even money in odd places. And as a special means of appeasing them, two metals, nickel and cobalt, have been named after them.

How About the Price?

The British government has established a research station to determine the fuel value of coal and its products and especially to ascertain the extent to which low grade coal and colliery waste can be utilized.

How Merchant Marine Has Grown.

According to figures made public by the National Marine league, the American merchant marine has expanded from four ships in deep-sea commerce before the war to a fleet of 9,773,000 tons in ocean service, says the Nation's Business.

How Electricity May be Used.

South African gold mines are experimenting with blasting by electricity, with a view to minimizing the fine dust, which is thought to be the chief cause of miners' phthisis.
