We understand that Albert Lane of Lansing expects to erect a new barn this summer; also that Dana Singer will enlarge his barn.

W. Dent Cuykendall of Moravia has decided to discontinue the keeping of groceries and has sold his stock to Volney O'dell, the Parker store grocer.

Commander H. E. Nichols, U. S. N. commander of the sea going double turreted monitor Monadnock, now at Manila, is a native of Greene, Chenango county.

A skunk has taken up its abode under the floor of the United States Express Co.'s office at Norwich, and the voracious editor of the Sun asserts that the agent wears a clothespin on his nose as a regular article of wearing apparel.

Two masked men entered the house of Rev. H. M. Crydenwise, pastor of the Lestershire M. E. church, at five o'clock Friday morning, March 10th, and held blankets over the heads of the minister and his wife while the house was ransacked. They secured about $20 and some jewelry.

The conductor of a D. L. W. passenger train was blown from the platform while passing between two cars Monday morning, while the train was about a mile north of Norwich. The train was stopped and the conductor picked up and put aboard. He suffered no severe injuries.

Hon. Geo. W. Nellis, district attorney, has resigned as first lieutenant of the Wheeler Rifles. Second lieutenant elect Edgar S. Jennings went to Buffalo Thursday to appear before the examining board to qualify for his new rank. Fred H. Stout has succeeded as secretary for William H. Westcott, honorably discharged.

Rev. Father Kelly of Oneida makes his church a very generous donation of $1,000 to go toward re-decorating the interior of his church. It is a matter of considerable self-sacrifice for him, as he had intended to take a trip to Europe this summer, but has given it up and made the church a present of the money instead.

Last week the Remington Arms company of Ilion commenced work on a contract for military guns and carbines for the Argentine Republic. The contract calls for 10,000 finished rifles, 7,000 finished carbines, 15,000 finished rifle barrels and 10,000 bayonets. About 800 skilled mechanics are now employed in the works and the plant is run 12 1-2 hours per day.

What will it do? It will do so much that it is impossible to tell in a short space. It will brighten and freshen the rooms you have been living in and destroy all germs of disease. It will make the inside of the house attractive and cheerful, and if the house is not cheerful the family can hardly expect to be. It will protect the outside of the house and preserve it from decay, besides making it good to look upon. It will "stick closer than a brother," and it will make a place for itself in the corner of your heart, so that when the name "Chilton Paint" is mentioned you will "rise up and call it blessed."

State Forests and Forestry.

Superintendent Verplanck Colvin, of the State Land Survey, in his annual report to the Legislature, tells what has been accomplished in making surveys, especially in the Adirondack region. He speaks of the magnitude of the task undertaken by the State in establishing the forest preserves. He says that it will take many years to organize a skillful system of forestry in this State, and the travelers:

"In the haste of the travelers to enter the great forest, the great possibilities and enormous advantages which would accrue to our State, if the barren uplands (beyond the limits of the park) could be recovered with timber, are often overlooked. It may be estimated that there are a million acres of these barren uplands existing around the exterior of the Adirondack Park, between the borders of the park and the settlements; lands which are hardly utilized for any profitable purpose, the soil being exhausted, and the country unattractive and less known and visited than many more remote sections in the interior. I would not advise that these lands be purchased, but I would respectfully suggest that if this State is to have a system of forestry the encouragement of individual efforts in the care of timbered lands, and in tree planting, if fostered in these border lands between the park and the settlements, would, within a generation to come, develop a large class of skillful foresters, thrifty, economical and industrious, to whom the future care of the great forests of the interior might be intrusted in proportion as they are proved to be faithful to their private work, and able in the management of their own forest lands and in their business relations in connection with such industries.

"The proper method by which to encourage tree-planting in these border-land districts, and to secure a wise and uniform forest management and an administration, without expenditure of money for the purchase of lands, would seem to be the furnishing of seed, the cones of coniferous trees, and pamphlets of instruction as to the proper means of planting pine, spruce, hemlock, cedar-tree and larches and other valuable timber; the manner in which the forest fires are to be combated, the manner in which the matured timber is to be cut and brought to market; the method of accounts necessary to be kept showing the amount of merchantable timber on the several lots; the amounts out and the amounts sold, and the amounts of lands replanted, the condition of the timber, all could probably be obtained merely by some systematic control and a reduction in the tax rate in favor of those, who by care, industry and knowledge increase the forest wealth of the State upon their private lands by the cultivation and protection of its timber."

Work on State Labor Statistics.

The work which the State Bureau of Labor Statistics has planned for the present year covers four lines of investigation. First—The system of reports from labor organizations concerning their total membership and the amount of employment and quarterly earnings of members is to be continued. Second—An investigation of industrial accidents and accident insurance in the State has been undertaken. Statistics are to be collected from both trades unions and employers by special schedules of questions covering the number and causes of accidents befalling working people while at work; the nature of injuries received and the extent of disabilities resulting therefrom; the means of support of the injured during their disability, and the number of persons dependent upon them. Further questions will cover the amount of benefits or insurance paid by labor organizations or employers in cases of industrial accidents, as well as the general subject of the extent to which employers insure their employees. The schedules will be sent to all trades unions and to all the larger manufacturers, contractors and owners of quarries in the State, as well as to railroads. Third—With a view to ascertaining the conditions of industry and employment since 1895, statistics regarding the number and wages of employees are to be collected from manufacturers. Fourth—A new departure in the work of the New York bureau is contemplated in the issue of a quarterly bulletin, the special aim of which will be to make certain of the general results of the bureau's work more promptly available for the public than is possible in the annual report.

Three Burned to Death.

Mrs. Timothy Cole was burned to death at her home, in Cohoes. Her clothes caught fire from a lighted paper with which she was burning pin feathers from a chicken. Joseph Van Buren, eighty years old, an invalid, was burned to death at Saratoga, during the temporary absence of his nurse. Irving Theodore Bohr, the youngest son of Charles Bohr, of Spring Valley, has met with a horrible death. While he and his three brothers were playing in the yard one of them built a bonfire. Irving accidentally fell into the fire, and when taken out by his mother he was dead.

Safe Blown Open and Robbed.

The office of the Border City Manufacturing Company and the postoffice at Border City, have been robbed. The safe in the office of the manufacturing company was carefully drilled and blown open, although the door was not locked, the lock having been blown off in a burglary which occurred some time ago. This is the sixth time the office of the Border City Manufacturing Company has been entered and the fourth time the safe has been blown open. The burglars secured $7 in cash and $8 in stamps.

A Conductor Blown Off the Train.

F. E. Towksbury, a conductor of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway, was blown from his train by the high wind a few days ago, at a point about one mile north of Norwich. He was passing from the smoking car to the first coach. The train was stopped, the conductor picked up and taken to Norwich, where a physician found that no bones were broken. There were a few cuts and bruises and the man received a severe shock.

A Former City Clerk's Sentence.

Ex-City Clerk Wilmarth, of Gloversville, who was tried at Fulton County Court for forgery and larceny of city funds, was sentenced to three years and three months' imprisonment in Dannemora Prison. This was the second trial of the case and both resulted in the conviction of Wilmarth.

To Abolish Direct State Taxes.

Senator Brown has introduced in the Senate an amendment to the Constitution abolishing general State taxation on real estate and personal property, and providing that the State revenues shall be derived from indirect taxes.

A Son's Death Kills His Mother.

Mrs. Deliah Wells, of Corning, a few days ago was led into the room where her son George lay dead. As soon as she was looked on the face of her boy she fell on the coffin, dead. Heart failure, superinduced by grief, is ascribed as the cause of her death.

The Bird's Name.

A registrar in the east end of London has recently recorded the birth of a child who has been named Birdar.

anxiety and Katherine forgot her fears and her position. Then consideration came and forced them to realize that they were yet bound by mortal conditions.

"You must come with me to the Saint's Well, my sweet Katherine," said Mowbray. "I have something important to tell you, and there it is not likely we shall be disturbed."

So, still full of childlike happiness, they went hand in hand over the stile, and through the wood to the glen where the well dripped into its fern-bordered basin. Here there was a natural seat formed by the rocks and carpeted with the fragrant pine needles; and there they sat down.

"I have come to tell you a strange story, Katherine, one that may, perhaps, part us forever."

She smiled a saucy negative, and moved closer to him.

"Nothing but death can part us," she answered, "and death has no 'forever' for true love. Let me hear this story."

He told her all; and as he proceeded he forgot to be very serious or anxious, for her face grew brighter and brighter and the pretty wrinkles she made were rather marks of depreciation than of worry or annoyance. It was not nearly so hard to tell her as he had thought it would be. She did not interrupt or exclaim, nor even try to give an air of romantic misery to the complication. Her sympathy and approval were shown in ways quite as intelligible and far more delightful. When he began his story he felt incumbent to wear an air of uncertainty and distance—to presume nothing on the past or to take no advantage from it. He had withdrawn a little from her side, with his face slightly dropped toward his folded hands.

But as he proceeded, Katherine went close to him; she took one and then both his hands in hers; she laid her head against his shoulder, and as he finished his confession she kissed him.

"You are doing quite right," she said. "And, pray, what does it matter whether you are Squire Mowbray or not? You are Richard Mowbray; that is enough for me."

"I shall be comparatively a poor man if my brother asserts his claim."

"We have enough and to spare, Richard. We are rich. In any matter which of us has the money? If I was the minister's daughter, without a penny of tocher, I am sure you would gladly marry me!"

"God knows I would, most gladly!" "Do you think, then, that I am less unselfish?"

"Your guardian—"

"Will make trouble under any circumstances. He says that if I do not marry Mr. Wintoun by the end of September he will send me to school or make me a chancery ward, or do some other improbable or disagreeable thing. I am not afraid of him; yet I must affect to acquiesce, or else face a sea of troubles and annoyances. Can you be back before that date?"

"If I am alive, I will be back."

"I shall then be within sixteen months of my emancipation. Is sixteen months too long a bridal trip in countries where he cannot follow and interfere with us?"

"My love! My love! How happy you make me!"

"You understand, then? I will be your wife when you return. I do not care whether you are squire or master. I do not care for a splendid wedding. Jessy and I and you and the minister are enough. Mamma will give us her consent and her blessing, and the blessing or banning of Mr. Brathous will make no difference. Do your part, Richard, do it honorably, as you wish to do it, and whether it leaves you rich or poor, you will be just as welcome to me."

"You dear, brave girl! I feared you would—"

"No, Richard, you did not fear I would fail you in the least. You know better. As for Mowbray, if it is yours, I shall be glad for your sake. If it is not, we will buy a lovely site and build up a far finer home. Be true to me, darling; that is all I ask."

They lingered until mid-afternoon in the lonely wood, saying over and over the same fond words; giving again and again the same strong assurances. But at last Mowbray knew that they must part. There were no tears and no lamentations; Katherine was cheerful to the last moment, and she sent him away with a heart tuned to sweetest accord with her own. And all things now seemed possible and all things enduring; for he felt sure that whatever he might lose, Katherine was his forever. She had heard his story without one doubt; she had faced his poverty with her wealth, and where his humility had feared to ask for anything she had planned happiness for both.

The journey across the Atlantic was a summer sail, a mere pleasure trip on the water. He had only one annoyance, the sense that time was flying fast and he had so far to go and so much to do. Yet the spirit Katherine had inspired enabled him to enjoy the marvels of the new, great world which he saw and felt and which encompassed him round about. His insular conceptions of what was vast received a wonderful enlargement; for he felt that only shown him the world, but that in America he had seen the type of all his dreams.

THE FLOWER OF GALA WATER.

A LOVE STORY.

BY AMELIA E. BARR.

(Copyright, by ROSS & BONNER'S SOUVS.)

CHAPTER IV.

CONTINUED.

"You might go on as your father did."

"No. He had a surety—or, at least, he thought he had one. I know I have none. Beside, I cannot marry Miss Janfarie in a character which may not be mine."

"Is Miss Janfarie marrying the Squire of Mowbray or is she marrying Richard Mowbray?"

"That is a question by itself. She supposes that I am the owner of Mowbray. Her guardian, even in that position, objects to me. To ask for her hand in any lower one is to subject myself to the rudeness of a very vulgar and ill-natured man."

"What will you do then?"

"I must see my brother. Though he wished to let his own right slip, he may now have sons and daughters, whose rights he will feel bound to consider. I must see him, though I go to Texas to do so. Have you any more certain address?"

"La Guadalupe and San Antonio are enough, I should think. I know none other."

"Texas is a large State."

"From what I saw of Thomas Mowbray, I should say it would take a very large State, indeed, to lose him in it."

"Then I shall find him if he is alive. I must find him."

"Yes. I am much of your mind. But go at once, and don't dilly-dally about it."

"I will stay with you as long as you need me."

"I want no one with me. I have lived alone. I will die alone. When God says, 'Abraham Hewett, come!' I wish to be alone with God. My dear lad, at the last hour no human creature can keep you company. There is none then like unto Him! I have told thee all. The case is in thy hands now. Do what is right with it."

"Can you give me any further advice in the matter?"

"I should say trust thy brother. I think thou may do so. I do, indeed! He had his father's great heart. His wild nature was in his blood, and came through his mother—a very noble creature, I heard thy father call her. Yes, Richard, I heard him whisper her name on his deathbed. She was Squire Reginald's first love. And there is a deal of something everlasting in first love. You are a bit put out about it, I see?"

"Yes, I am, Mr. Hewett. It is news I never expected."

"I know that. But it will turn middling well, I dare say. It is near strike of day, Richard. I would get a-going if I was thee."

"I will start for America at once, I think. Farewell, sir."

"Farewell, Richard Mowbray. It will be many a long day ere we two meet again."

"After all, I ought to stay with you, sir."

"I have told thee no. Once for all, I mean no."

"Farewell, then!"

"Fare thee well heartily. Be good and do good, and God be with thee evermore!"

CHAPTER V.

GUADALUPE AND GALA WATER.

All his words bristled with passionate threats.—Phædus.

Some men can more easily hold fire in their mouths than keep a secret. Whatever they bear gets abroad, and excites their world with sudden reports.—Petronius Arbitor.

Mowbray left his friend's death-room in a mood of mingled sorrow and stress of events. A great and sudden cloud had come over his hopes, and all the lover in him was angry at the false position which his father's blind trustfulness or carelessness had induced. He drove very rapidly to his home, and the beautiful park and stately building looked more desirable than they ever had done before. Only yesterday his sole thought with regard to Mowbray had been how best to adorn and furnish it for his bride. All through his midnight journey he had been planning new decorations; and now he could not even feel as if it was certainly his home. This unseen, unknown brother might yet covet and take possession of it.

During the next two hours he fought a great battle with himself. For a little while the meaner man within him pleaded for his own way. He said: "What your father did, you may surely continue. To attempt to alter what he arranged is tantamount to accusing him. Your brother's right must have lapsed; he has been once fully paid for it, and as for your-father's acknowledged heir. No one could blame you for keeping what has been so long given to you." Amid such pleadings it was some time before the braver and nobler soul contending for the right could obtain a hearing.

At last, however, Mowbray rose like a man who has made a good decision.

"I will go and see Katherine," he said. "I will tell her everything; if she will wait until I have found my brother and we have settled permanently the succession of Mowbray, I shall be all the happier for this proof of her love. But, whether or no, I must see Thomas Mowbray; I must find out whether I be really Squire Mowbray or only Richard Mowbray, the squire's brother."

He spent the day in giving instructions to his steward; in providing himself with funds for his proposed search; in securing an early passage, and in ordering his house for a few months' absence. There were papers to destroy and papers to write, for he believed it to be proper to leave behind him the story of his father's first marriage and the probable residence of the heirs from it in case of any accident to himself.

When all duties were performed he left at once for Galashiels; but it was after midnight when he arrived. He had thought of nothing but Katherine on his journey, yet he could make no definite plan for an interview with her. Finally he resolved to go to Doctor Telfair. It might be that he could make a confidant of him. He was beginning to feel the weight of his disappointment and the uncertainty of his position very much. He craved sympathy; he wanted some person to say to him: "You are doing right."

It was Friday morning, and the doctor was busy on his Sunday sermon, but he met Mowbray with unaffected pleasure, and listened with great interest to the young man's story.

"I knew of the gypsy, Annot," he said, "but I never heard of the marriage nor yet of the child. Squire Reginald must have made her his wife immediately after entering the classes at Edinburgh; for during his last year in college he was deeply in love with a woman whom I also loved—the daughter of one of our professors. However, sir, your course is quite clear. You cannot ask the fair of Levens-hope for the hand of his ward, Miss Janfarie, until your right in Mowbray is absolute and undoubted. When do you leave for America?"

"To-morrow afternoon, if I can speak with Miss Janfarie in time to catch the steamer. I expected to see Miss Telfair. I have been disappointed."

"My daughter is at Levens-hope. She will return about eleven o'clock. Katherine will be sure to convey her part of the way home. Why not go and meet them?"

"I will, sir."

"You had better leave your horse here and take the upper road."

He nodded pleasantly to the suggestions and followed both. The upper road was very private; he would not be likely to meet any one on it, unless it was a shepherd counting his flock or a little child going a message for its mammy. And from its elevation he could see the girls leave Levens-hope, and so arrange matters as to descend to their level at the most favorable point.

All happened as well as he could have desired. Just before reaching the stile by which Levens-hope was entered, the girls began to linger; then they stood still, and it was evident Katherine was hesitating about her return, and equally evident that Jessy was urging her to go back, for the mid-day sun was very hot, and there was no shade after the wood was passed, the road then being a bare path over the mountain breast.

He foresaw that Jessy would gain her way, and that he might meet Katherine at the stile leading into the wood. So he hurried through the timber and across the patches of moss-berries, and when he reached the stone wall which enclosed the plantation, he saw Katherine resting beneath it. She sat upon the grass, a large tree overshadowed her, and she was almost up to her chin in purple fox-glove bells.

He called her, and she stood up, eager, all attent, all radiant with smiles. The next moment his arm was around her and his face against her face, and they were laughing softly together.

"I knew you were coming!" she whispered. "I felt sure you were near me."

For a few moments their rapture had the perfection of all that is spontane-

THE NEWS EPITOMIZED.

Washington Items. Arrangements have been completed by the Postoffice Department for the dispatch of mail by steamer from New York to Santiago every Thursday, instead of alternate Thursdays, as at present.

The President has authorized Major-General Brooke, the Military Governor of Cuba, to issue exequaturs to Consuls of foreign Governments in Cuba for the period of the exercise of American authority in the island.

Brigadier-General Royal T. Frank, United States Volunteers, has been placed in temporary command of the Department of the Gulf, headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., as the relief of Brigadier-General A. O. M. Pennington, United States Volunteers.

The Dolphin has sailed from Washington for Norfolk and thence to sea to destroy a wreck on the Carolina coast, which has been a danger to navigation.

While in Cuba Secretary Alger will act upon the proposition to divide Cuba into four military departments. This has been under consideration in the department for some time.

The Ordnance Bureau of the War Department has sent a circular to the Governor of each State in the Union stating that the arms and ordnance stores furnished the volunteers during the Spanish war will be returned to the State in kind.

Orders for the withdrawal to the United States from Havana, to be mustered out, of the Second Illinois and 161st Indiana regiments have been issued by the War Department.

The British Ambassador has consulted with Secretary Hay as to a modus vivendi to be observed pending the determination of the Alaska boundary question.

A bill in equity was filed in the District Court a few days ago by the Roxana Gold Mining and Tunneling Company to restrain the Secretary of the Interior and the Commissioner of the General Land Office from issuing to the Isabella Gold Mining Company patents for the Lee lode and Cheyenne No. 1 mining claim in the Cripple Creek district, Colorado.

A petition for a rehearing of the "Alcohol in the Arts" case, decided against the manufacturers in the Supreme Court by a bare majority, was filed on Monday. General B. T. Tracy succeeds Mr. Choate, who argued the case as counsel for Robert Dunlop, the claimant in the case.

The contract for the construction of a naval training station in San Francisco Harbor, at a place known as Yerba Buena, has been awarded. The successful firm was Campbell & Pettus, of San Francisco, whose bid was $74,400. There were twenty-two bidders.

The Secretary of War has approved the plans for the improvements to New York Harbor, and bids have been advertised for.

Domestic.

Governor Pingree, of Michigan, has signed the bill authorizing the City of Detroit to purchase and operate the street railways of that city.

Frank Pearson, a bookkeeper in the First National Bank at Chicago, and holder of the mile amateur championship bicycle record for Illinois, accidentally shot and instantly killed himself at River Forest, a suburb west of Chicago. He was alone when he shot himself.

The Court of Appeals at Frankfort, Ky., has rendered a decision declaring the slot machine to be a gambling contrivance. The machines were owned by the Galle Company, of Detroit, and were seized by the police. The Galle Company instituted suit against the police and asked for a rule against city officers.

At Durham, N. C., a five-inch pipe in a pump-house at the Durham Cotton Manufacturing Company's mill burst with fatal results. W. H. Branson, Secretary and Treasurer of the mill, was so terribly scalded that he died from his injuries. J. C. Mathes, the superintendent, was also burned about the face, and will lose his eyesight.

Patrick Hass was beaten over the head with an iron bar by Mrs. Thomas Carey at Worcester, Mass., and killed. Mrs. Carey was insane.

Frank R. Swanstrom, twenty-eight, committed suicide at Worcester, Mass., by swallowing prussic acid. A quarrel with his sweetheart, Annie Lind, was the cause. He wanted to make up, but the girl refused and sent him away.

Just after leaving her dock at Charleston, S. C., the Clyde steamship Carl ran down the sloop Florine and out it into shreds. Three men of the sloop were drowned. They were William Edwards, William Murray and Proteau Manigault, all colored. Eugene Stewart, eighteen years old, a son of a Baptist minister, shot and killed Thomas Rively, near Kingspoint, Tenn., a few days ago.

John Jackson, of Lonaconing, Md., and Mrs. Charles Bowman were found dead in the Bowman house, at Douglas, W. Va., a few days ago. Their heads were crushed in by blows from a bed slat wielded by the woman's husband. Bowman was arrested at Cumberland, Md. He says he found Jackson in his house and jealousy caused him to commit the deed.

The State Court of Criminal Appeals at Dallas, Texas, affirmed the sentence of death imposed upon Jim Darlington, alias Jim Garlington, on the charge of participating in the robbery of a Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe passenger train near Fort Worth on July 21 last and in the murder of the fireman, Watson Whitaker. The engineer, Joseph Williams, was also killed.

Mrs. Molter, near Lagrange, Md., caused the death of two of her children a few days ago by administering morphine. She attempted to commit suicide, but failed. It is said she feared her husband was becoming insane, and for that reason thought it best that the rest of the family should die. The family relations were pleasant.

Camp Sterling Price, Confederate War Veterans, at Dallas, Texas, a few days ago shipped a carload of native Texas trees for the Confederate cemetery at Camp Chase, Ohio. The trees are of the hardiest growths known to Texas and are expected to withstand the severe Northern climate.

Thomas Stubbiefield, nephew of Circuit Judge Robbins, was shot and killed on Tuesday at Mayfield, Ky., by Joseph Hammonds, of Clarksville, Tenn., in a sudden quarrel.

The Japanese cruiser Chitose, constructed by the Union Iron Works, sailed from San Francisco, Cal., for the Orient a few days ago. As the big vessel passed down the bay, the vessels in the harbor saluted her. The battleship Iowa saluted with

OUR NEW RELATIONS WITH JAPAN.

To Be Brought About by the Treaty Which Goes Into Effect in July.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—Extensive changes in the relations between the United States and Japan will be brought about on July 17 next, when the new treaty between the two nations goes into effect. It was negotiated several years ago, but its actual operation was deferred so as to give time for adjusting affairs to the changed conditions. Similar treaties have been made by Japan with most of the other first-class powers. Their essential feature is to give Japan a status as a modern nation, instead of imposing the restrictions which she was under, along with China and other Eastern countries, before her advance to modern methods. The entire extra-territorial system is swept away by the new treaties. This gave to foreign Powers, including the United States, a right to try civil and criminal cases relating to their own citizens in consular courts, instead of in the Japanese courts. Hereafter these foreign courts will be abolished and Japanese courts will try all cases alike.

Another feature is in opening up the entire interior of Japan to the capital and enterprise of foreign merchants. At present the restrictions on aliens are exceedingly severe, except at Yokohama and a few large places, the interior being practically in the exclusive occupancy of the natives. Now, however, foreign settlement and trade are invited, and the richness of the interior promises large commercial returns. The rates of duty between the two countries will not be much changed, as this branch of the new relation already has gone into operation.

KILLED HIS FIVE CHILDREN.

The Murderer Also Set Fire to the House to Conceal the Crime.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (Special).—John A. Moore killed his five children while they were sleeping a few nights ago and then burned the house. The murderer is under arrest. The children were Carl Moore, aged twelve; Mary, aged ten; Pearl, aged eight; Charlie, aged seven, and Lee, aged three years.

The house in which Moore lived in was discovered on fire at 2 o'clock in the morning. When the flames were gotten under control and the firemen entered the five children were found lying side by side on a bed. The lower parts of their bodies were badly burned. It was at first thought they had died from suffocation, but blood was found on the bedclothes, and when physicians examined the bodies they found the skull of each fractured. With one exception each child had a cut in the neck, evidently made by a knife. At the inquest the father declared the fire started from a lamp left burning low in the children's room.

When the doctors testified that the children had evidently been murdered Moore gave close attention, but his countenance did not change. Once or twice he sneered at the evidence. When the verdict of the jury was brought in charging him with the crime he still acted indifferently. He refused to talk and was taken to the County Jail. The mother of the children was away from home during the night nursing a sick neighbor. She can give no reason for her husband's deed. Moore came here from Emporia three weeks ago, and has been out of work. He spent last summer farming in Oklahoma. His wife's father, M. W. Franklin, lives here, but the family know little about Moore. He has never shown any symptoms of insanity, so far as can be learned.

MURDERED HIS SCHOOLTEACHER.

Miss Prescott Objected to Young Bailey's Attention and He Shot Her.

SALISBURY, N. H. (Special).—Frank Bailey, aged seventeen, shot and wounded fatally Miss Harriet Prescott, his schoolteacher, Tuesday afternoon. Bailey had been paying much attention to his teacher, who had told him that he must stop calling on her.

On two occasions he followed her to her home after school and went to the door and asked to see her. Both times he was told that she was not in. This made Bailey angry, and he told her that he would see her or know the reason why.

After school in the afternoon Bailey went up and spoke to her. She made him an answer that he did not like. Taking a pistol from his pocket, he fired one shot into her chest above the heart. She was taken to her home, where she died shortly afterward.

REAL CULPRIT IN DREYFUS AFFAIR.

Former Russian Ambassador at Paris Charged With Selling Secrets.

LONDON (By Cable).—The Evening News publishes a sensational Dreyfus story. It declares that the former Russian Ambassador, Baron von Mohrenhelm, is the real culprit who sold both Russian and French secrets to the German Government, adding that the Russian Government itself is convinced of his guilt, and that it is only to avoid a public scandal greater than the Dreyfus affair that he is untried further than the intimation that he is not to show his face within the Czar's dominions.

Baron von Mohrenhelm was formerly Russian Ambassador at Paris. He was relieved from his post in December, 1897, and was succeeded by Prince Ouroussow, who was previously Russian Minister at Bras-

Nearly Fifty-eight Years Old!!!

It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years rolled by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast to-day, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and firesides.

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by the experiences of over half a century. It has lived on its merits, and on the cordial support of progressive Americans.

It is The New York Weekly Tribune, acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper.

Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of THE GENOA TRIBUNE (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with The New York Weekly Tribune which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and to the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive family.

Just think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.25 a year. Send all subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE, Genoa, N. Y.

 —L. B. Norman visited Auburn on business, Saturday.
 —Miss Emma Waldo is home for a few weeks from Cortland.
 —George Miller and family are under the physician's care.
 —Mrs. Jane Hand is visiting relatives in Moravia and Auburn.
 —E. L. Bower and wife had legal business in Moravia Monday.
 —L. C. Burns moves to Will Green's south farm for the season.
 —Mrs. James Mulvaney was a guest of Moravia friends, Monday.
 —A. E. Trea of Groton passed Sunday at the home of his parents.
 —Miss Elma Mastin is home from Cornell for the Easter vacation.
 —Byron Hunt had business at the county seat Friday and Saturday.
 —W. W. Potter of Auburn passed Sunday with his parents here.
 —Mrs. Hudson Perry is improving and will soon be able to return home.
 —Miss Willis of North Lansing is at Jesse Jacobs, jr. for a few weeks.
 —Mrs. E. S. Heaton of Auburn is the guest of relatives and friends in town.
 —Miss Lizzie Bruton attended Regents' examinations at Moravia this week.
 —Culver's new block is nearly completed. He expects to occupy it next week.
 —Genoa has but one hotel and the rumors of several others are as yet unfounded.
 —Miss Genevieve Giblin of the graded school is a guest of her parents at Illion this week.
 —Will Green has been confined to the house for a week or so, suffering from rheumatism.
 —This is the week of the Jewish Passover, commencing last Saturday night and holding until this week Saturday.
 —The party at Venice Center last Friday night was largely attended and proved quite as successful as any held there this season.
 —Landlord Carson has refurbished the rooms in Hotel DeWitt, and made many improvements to house and barn. He conducts a first-class hostelry.
 —Samuel Cole, who has been camping on the east side of Owasco lake all winter, shot a large silver-grey fox last week. They are rarely seen in these parts and are worth $75 to $125.
 —N. S. Black, Moravia's leading clothier, talks to Genoa customers elsewhere in this issue. He carries a complete line of goods and guarantees satisfaction.
 —The blacksmith tools advertised to be sold at the Avery shop, were not the property of S. Wright as the notice forced many to believe. Mr. Wright is a first class mechanic and enjoys a good patronage.
 —We understand the marriage of Mr. Lewis Campbell and Miss Mae Morey of Ludlowville took place at Ithaca one day last week.

 —Robert Mastin was in New York city during the week, purchasing the new spring stock of goods for H. P. Mastin. This store merits a large patronage.
 —W. R. Hurlbut recently sold to Oneida county parties a fine yearling registered Guernsey bull. Mr. Hurlbut's dairy is one of the finest in this section, and he received a flattering price for the animal sold.
 —The Auburn stage was a little late into Genoa one night last week, caused by a horse getting down in a bad piece of road just north of the VanMarter farm. He ran off a narrow sluiceway which was not provided with a railing, a short time since, upsetting the rig. Where are the pathmasters at?
 —W. Claire Rogers of Syracuse is stopping with friends in town. He enlisted at Syracuse May 1, '98 Co. C, 3d Reg' N. Y. V. and was transferred Sept. 5, to the Regular Army Hospital Corps, 2nd Div, 2 A. C. He expected to sail for Manila with his regiment but was left on the wharf with a number of companions, the transport being overcrowded. Giving up hope of ever reaching the front, Mr. Rogers applied for a discharge which was granted March 23, 1899. He has seen camp life at Black L. I., Alger Va., Meade Pa. and Wetherill S. C.

A Lively Runaway.

Tom Montague narrowly escaped serious injury and perhaps death in a lively runaway accident last Thursday afternoon. He was driving the spirited team belonging to Mr. McCormick, when a board slipped from the wagon and struck the horses on the heels, causing them to run. They became uncontrollable and dashed across the fields down West hill. When near the bottom, Tom was thrown from the wagon sustaining a severe cut on the throat, injuries to his back and several bruises. The horses were thrown down but escaped injury, the wagon being badly broken. It was a close call.

The Miller Tragedy.

The arrest of Henry Truck on suspicion of murdering Frank Miller has created considerable interest in Cortland and is the universal topic. Truck is confined in the county jail and seems very unconcerned, not seeming to realize the terrible situation in which he is placed. The fact that when he was caught he had in his possession the horse belonging to Miller, that Miller's buggy was found in Truck's barn in Homer, that he had on some of Miller's clothing and also that the dead man's watch and wallet were found on his person all present an array of evidence that at the present time seems most damaging. Truck tells a very plausible story to the effect that he bought the entire outfit of Miller, and that when he left the latter they parted as good friends. The prisoner has as yet received no counsel to protect his interests. The coroners jury met at Virgil Thursday afternoon.

Society Notes.

New Horseshoing Shop.

I have spent 15 years of my life in the study of the horse and the anatomy of the horse's foot. It is something every man should know to shoe a horse as it should be shod. The art of shoeing a horse is in trimming the foot with perfect correctness, therefore it takes a man with a great deal of experience to trim a horse's foot and set him squarely on his feet. There is the secret of stopping horses from interfering. I can stop a horse from interfering. I pay special attention to lameness of the foot and interfering horses. I have been on a stock farm for 6 years, and have had a great deal of experience with all kinds of horses feet. I have read several veterinary books, but a veterinarian is not a horseshoer. It takes a man who is born a mechanic to be a good horseshoer. Horseshoing is an art of itself, a man can't learn it in a month. I do my own trimming and fitting and guarantee my work to give satisfaction.

AT RICH'S, ITHACA.

MOTHERHOOD is woman's natural destiny. Many women are denied the happiness of children through some derangement of the generative organs. Actual barrenness is rare. Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the overcoming of cases of supposed barrenness. This great medicine is so well calculated to regulate every function of the generative organs that its efficiency is vouched for by multitudes of women.

SORROWS OF STERILITY

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had one child which lived only six hours. The doctor said it did not have the proper nourishment while I was carrying it. I did not feel at all well during pregnancy. In time I conceived again, and thought I would write to you for advice. Words cannot express the gratitude I feel towards you for the help that your medicine was to me during this time. I felt like a new person; did my work up to the last, and was sick only a short time. My baby weighed ten pounds. He is a fine boy, the joy of our home. He is now six weeks old and weighs sixteen pounds. Your medicine is certainly a boon in pregnancy."

MRS. FLORA COOPER, of Doyle, S. Dak., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—Ever since my last child I suffered with inflammation of the womb, pains in back, left side, abdomen and groins. My head ached all the time. I could not walk across the floor without suffering intense pain. I kept getting worse, until two years ago I wrote to you for advice, and began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had not finished the first bottle before I felt better. I took four bottles, and have been strong and perfectly healthy ever since, and now have two of the nicest little girls."

Volunteers Armed With Springfields.

All the volunteers in the Philippines are armed with the Springfield rifle. All the regulars now there and the reinforcements now en route have the Krag-Jorgensens. The volunteers use the Springfield because the military commanders consider it the more effective rifle in their hands. They are using smokeless powder and the effective range of the Springfield is almost as great as the Mauser, which is being used by sharpshooters among the rebels. The complex mechanism of the modern rifle is difficult to care for and to use, while the Springfield will stand any amount of rough handling. This reason, more than any other, influenced the experienced army officers to recommend their use by the volunteers. The destructiveness of the Springfield 45-caliber ball is far greater than the Mauser, as it is almost sure to kill, whereas the latter only wounds. The mechanism of the modern rifle would scarcely become familiar to the volunteers during their term of enlistment.—Chicago Record.

"M. D." Was His Trade.

A Canadian river steamer was recently the scene of an amusing blunder. A lady passenger was taken ill in the night, and the steamer did not carry a doctor. The list of passengers was read through, and in it there was the name, "James Thompson, M. D." The steward ran to the passenger's berth, and aroused him by vigorous blows at the door.

"What's the matter? Is the boat sinking?" came from within in a startled tone.

"There's a passenger ill, and we want your assistance, doctor," replied the steward.

"What are you playing at?" growled the voice. "I ain't no doctor."

"Why, you have got 'M. D.' after your name?"

"Well, I can put them letters after it if I like, can't I?" said the voice within. "That's my trade. I'm a mule-driver."

FIGHTING IN LUZON

Town of Malinta Captured By United States Forces After a Fierce Encounter.

REBELS FLEE TO MALOLOS

Filipinos Apply the Torch to Malabon Before Leaving the Town.

General MacArthur's Division Sweeps the Country North of the Pasig—Towns and Railroads Captured by United States Troops—Natives Stoutly Resisted Behind a Series of Intrenchments—Colonel Egbert Dies in a Charge—His General Takes Off His Hat and Says: "Colonel, You Have Done Nobly"—Malinta Taken With a Rush, Despite a Heavy Rebel Fire—Prince Ludwig von Lowenstein-Wertheim Killed in Front of the Firing Line—The Losses on Both Sides—Enemy's Casualties Heavy.

MANILA, Philippine Islands (By Cable).—A great battle was fought on Saturday, resulting in a signal and sweeping victory for the American troops.

General MacArthur's division, consisting of the brigades of General Harrison Gray Otis, General Hale, and General Hall, supplemented by General Wheaton's brigade, advanced at daylight and cut the enemy's forces in two.

They captured the towns of Novaliches on the left, and San Francisco del Monte and Marikina on the right, clearing the rebel trenches in front of the line north from the river to Caloocan.

They also secured possession of the railroad, practically cornering the flower of instantly. A German who accompanied him was wounded.

A column of smoke at daybreak was the first intimation of the enemy's intentions, but others followed at various points, all soon blending in a dense balloon-shaped cloud. The flames of the burning rice mills and large buildings could be plainly seen from Caloocan, despite the strong sunlight.

When the Americans were within about 300 yards of the intrenchments the Filipinos suddenly volleyed heavily. The Twenty-second, which was holding the center, suffered considerably, but with the Oregons on the left and the Kansans on the right in the woods, the fighting was kept up for half an hour, the Twenty-second Infantry advancing up the slope, through the thick grass near the hottest fire.

General Wheaton and his staff were all the time under a rain of bullets. Colonel Egbert, who was in the thickest of the fighting, was shot in the abdomen. He was placed upon a stretcher and an attempt was made to carry him to the cars, but he died on the way.

It was a most affecting scene. General Wheaton, baring his head, said, "You have done nobly." Colonel Egbert gasped in reply, "I must die. I am too old."

No Filipinos were found in the trenches. Though apparently their force was much smaller than that of the Americans, they had an immense advantage in position and in opportunity to retreat.

The occupation of Malabon was a picturesque rout. Thousands of men, women and children, loaded down with household goods, some with their dearest treasures—fighting cooks—under their arms, poured across the swamps in the early morning.

General MacArthur's advance guard, the Third Artillery, and the Twentieth Kansas Regiment, joined General Wheaton's brigade shortly after Malinta was taken, approaching along the Novaliches road westerly. The soldiers were much exhausted, and there were several prostrations from the heat, which was intense.

The Second Oregon Regiment encountered 1000 Filipinos west of Malinta, who were retreating from Malabon. The enemy had taken up a position behind four rows of intrenchments, but was driven out after an hour's heavy firing. One Oregonian was killed and five were wounded.

The Third Artillery, acting as infantry, with two guns of the Utah Artillery and the Kansans, had a sharp fight east of Malinta. The Americans had but slight loss. Five Filipinos were found dead and several were taken prisoners.

In the fighting west of Malinta, the Oregonians captured a Spaniard, but he denied that he was taking part in the battle. The surgeons from the fleet and the British cruiser Powerful volunteered their assistance, and were indefatigable in their services at the front of the line.

The American losses in these engagements are forty-five killed and 145 wounded. The Filipino losses are estimated to be

UTAH'S LIGHT ARTILLERY IN ACTION.

Aguinaldo's army at Malabon and in the foothills at Singatol, twenty miles apart. The troops engaged were the Third Artillery, as in infantry; the Montana, Kansas, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, South Dakota, Minnesota and Oregon Volunteers, the Third, Fourth, Seventh and Twenty-second Regulars, the Utah Artillery Battalion and Twenty-third Regulars.

The movement of the American troops on Saturday swept the insurgents back toward Malabon. The American troops advanced on the double quick, yelling fiercely, and occasionally dropping in the grass and firing by volley.

The natives stood until the Americans were within 200 yards of their position, and then broke and ran for the woods. About thirty of them were killed in the outskirts and seventy on the roads.

The Montana and Kansas troops met the hottest resistance in a strip from which the rebels have recently fled the Americans recently during the night.

Ninety minutes after the start—at six o'clock—the whole front for a distance of three miles to the north had been cleared. General Hale's brigade had simultaneously swept in a northwesterly direction, routing the enemy and burning the town of San Francisco del Monte and a number of scattered huts.

The line was opposite Novaliches, the artillery advancing along a good road from Lasolna to Novaliches, the wagons carrying pontoons, telegraph supplies, and ammunition, following. The infantry moved in splendid order.

Smoke from the burning huts marked the line of the American advance. Ambulances and horse litters, led by Chinese, brought in the wounded, among whom were a few Filipinos. The Americans who were wounded endured their injuries bravely, one about 500 killed and wounded.

A thousand Filipinos, composing the rear guard of the rebel army, made a stand on Monday in some strong entrenchments about Marikina, across the Marikina River. In the engagement six Americans were killed, including three officers, and forty were wounded.

The American forces advanced from Maycauanan, the brigade commanded by General H. G. Otis being on the left of the railroad and General Hale's on the right.

The rebels had an unfordable river in front of them, and they poured in a fire so effective that it showed they were veterans, probably members of the native militia which the Spaniards organized.

The American artillery put a dramatic end to the battle. Approaching, under cover of the bushes, to about sixty yards from the trenches, the artillerymen emerged upon an open space commanding the town. When the Americans appeared they gave a yell, and the Filipinos were panic-stricken, about a hundred seeking safety in flight, while a white flag was raised by those who were in the trenches, who also shouted "Amigos!" ("Friends!")

Colonel Funston, with twenty men of the Kansas regiment, swam across the river to the left of the railroad bridge and captured eighty prisoners, with all their arms. The Pennsylvania regiment captured forty prisoners. By this time the right of the Filipinos was demoralized. The Americans refrained from burning the town.

TWO BROTHERS DEFY A MOB.

Murdered an Attorney and Surrendered After an All-Night Siege.

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (Special).—The murderers of E. H. Westenhaver, of North Baltimore, and of Clarence Wiltenmyer, of Hoytsville, are now in jail here, where they were lodged on Sunday at noon, after a siege at the Zeltner homestead lasting all Saturday afternoon and all night. Paul and John Zeltner surrendered.

The two men and Mrs. John Zeltner held six hundred men at bay till the crowd was augmented by two companies of militia, the Baltimore Rifles and the North Baltimore Cadets. Often during the night men endeavored to creep under cover of darkness to within such distance of the house that a concerted dash could be executed, but the occupants of that well-barricaded fortress were ever vigilant, and every time a shot from the rifle of one of the brothers or the women sent the approaching men scurrying back into the darkness of the woods which adjoin the Zeltner place. Again and again efforts were made to work some ruse by which a few men could get inside the house, but every effort of the kind failed signally.

When the men turned over their arms and ammunition to ex-Sheriff Biggs and Sheriff Kingsbury, they had four rifles, two revolvers of thirty-eight calibre, and seventy-five rounds of ammunition for both kinds of weapons. This does not indicate that they were prepared for a siege.

The Zeltners are men of much more than average intelligence, and were fairly well-to-do farmers.

E. H. Westenhaver, ex-Solicitor, of North Baltimore, had been counsel for the Zeltners in numerous cases, and sued them for his fees. The jury and witnesses had been sworn on Saturday before Justice Burgoon in the township house at Hoyt's Corners, when Paul Zeltner demanded some papers from Westenhaver, and attempted to take them from his pocket. John Zeltner then joined in demanding the papers, and immediately fired the shot that killed Westenhaver. As the Zeltners had their horses ready for mounting and escape, it is thought they had arranged to get Westenhaver into a fight for the purpose of "doing him." They did not give their victims time to make any demonstration toward them.

group which had been brought into the hospital singing "Comrades."

The Pennsylvania troops took nine prisoners, among them a great black Captain of the Mocabeebe tribe and one Japanese. All the prisoners were greatly terrified, expecting to be executed immediately.

The United States troops, under Brigadier-General Loyd Wheaton, captured the town of Malinta, beyond the Tullahan River on Sunday after a sharp fight.

Colonel Harry C. Egbert, of the Twenty-second Regular Infantry, was killed. Prince Ludwig von Wertheim, formerly aide de camp on the staff of the late Brigadier-General Miller at Iloilo, was killed in front of the firing line, dying almost Ball Guests and the Spoons.

A curious document has just been laid before the Paris Municipal Council. It consists of a list of the objects found to be missing on the morning of the ball given recently at the Hotel de Ville by the Councilors to their electors and friends. Some 4000 guests were invited, and between them they made off with six dozen silver spoons and 686 miscellaneous articles, from plates to mustard pots, from flower vases to napkins, removed from the buffet. Otherwise the results are considered satisfactory, "the losses being less this year than on previous occasions."—Paris (France) Daily Messenger.

M'KINLEY TO SAMPSON:

The President Gives the Admiral Credit For the Santiago Victory.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—A high tribute to the services rendered by Rear-Admiral W. T. Sampson in the war with Spain has been paid by President McKinley in responding to the Rear-Admiral's request that officers about whose conduct in the war there has been no question be advanced to the places for which they were nominated to the Senate. The President had hoped that the bill for the creation of the grade of Vice-Admiral would be enacted in order that he might confer the honor of the rank on Rear-Admiral Sampson, as he is firmly of the belief that Rear-Admiral Sampson deserved greater credit than any other man for the destruction of Cervera's fleet. How sincere he is in this opinion is shown by his letter:

"EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, March 13, 1899."

"My Dear Sir—I am in receipt of your very considerate letter of the 9th inst., in which you express a desire that, without reference to your interests, the other naval officers who rendered such conspicuous service in the naval campaign in the West Indies may have the advancement which you recommended for them and in which you ask nothing for yourself. I highly commend this disinterested action on your part. Let me assure you that I have the highest appreciation of your services as Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic naval forces during the Spanish war in blockading Cuba, co-operating with the army, directing the movements of the great number of vessels under your orders, and at last, after the most effective preparation, consummating, with the gallant officers and men under your command, the destruction of the Spanish fleet. It was in recognition of your services and of your great skill that I recommended you to the Senate for the advancement you had earned. Very truly yours, "WILLIAM M'KINLEY."

The letter was sent to Rear-Admiral Sampson while he was at Havana with the squadron of evolution, and a copy of it has been received at the Navy Department and placed on the official files.

A SUPREME COURT FOR CUBA.

It Will Consist of One Presiding Judge and Six Associate Judges.

HAVANA, Cuba (By Cable).—The decree establishing a Supreme Court for Cuba has been published. The court, which is a provisional institution necessarily, is adapted to the present needs of the island. It will consist of one presiding judge and six associate judges. The salary of the presiding judge will be $6000 a year in American gold. The law under which it is constituted requires the presence of five judges in rendering sentence in an ordinary case, and of all seven in the case of a sentence to death or perpetual punishment.

The court will have jurisdiction over original actions against even its presiding judge, as well as all civil officials and the military secretaries in the provinces. It will decide questions of jurisdiction between inferior tribunals, and will generally supervise the administration of justice in Cuban territory. The direction and control of the court is vested in the presiding judge, and all its members must be Cubans, or swear to accept the new Government of Cuban territory.

CUBAN BANDITTI CAPTURED.

Eight Robbers Arrested Near San Luis, and One Killed by Soldiers.

SANTIAGO, Cuba (By Cable).—There has been considerable trouble from banditti during the last few days in the vicinity of San Luis. When it was first reported, General Wood, the Military Governor, sent mounted troops, as well as the entire force of gendarmes, into the district with instructions to capture the banditti if possible.

They met with no success, but finally Lieutenant Hanna, General Wood's aide, went to San Luis to make a personal investigation, with the result that within twenty-four hours the alleged ringleader, Francisco Diegues, and five others were captured. Later two more were taken, and one was killed while resisting arrest. All are now closely guarded in the military prison here, the jail not being considered safe, owing to the friendship felt for the prisoners by several prominent insurgent officers residing in Santiago.

FOUR KILLED IN A MEMPHIS FIRE.

One Man Lost His Life in Attempting a Rescue.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (Special).—In a fire, which broke out in the boarding house of Mrs. Nolan, four people lost their lives and others were seriously injured. The dead, who all lost their lives by suffocation, are Mrs. Chapin, widow; Roy Chapin, her son, aged ten; Chester Chapin, aged four, and Thomas Bull.

Mrs. Chapin was a stenographer for Bradstreet's, and occupied a front room on the third floor. Three persons were badly injured. Bull lost his life in a heroic attempt to save the Chapin family.

The fire was a remarkably rapid one, and had made considerable headway by the time the firemen arrived on the scene. Its origin is unknown. It was the second fire in the same building during the night, and it is thought that possibly the earlier blaze was not entirely extinguished.

SHOT IN COURT BY A JUDGE.

The Judge Had Been Assaulted and He Used His Revolver.

DALLAS, Texas (Special).—At Sweetwater County Judge John H. Cochran, of Nolan County, was attacked in court by C. P. Woodruff, a prominent attorney, and badly injured about the head. Woodruff left the court, and as he was going Judge Cochran opened fire on him. R. F. Watts, a bystander, was shot in the hip. He and Judge Cochran were seriously injured. Attorney Woodruff was placed under $3000 bond. He attacked Judge Cochran because the latter refused to approve a bill of exceptions in a suit in his court.

A Child Murderer's Confession.

John A. Moore, who murdered his five children at Hutchinson and who was taken to McPherson, Kan., as a precaution against a threatened lynching, has confessed his crime before a notary public. The prisoner said he had quarrelled with his wife and that a separation was talked of, in which event he feared that his children would come under the control of his wife's family whom he dislikes. It was brooding over the prospect of his children being reared amid such surroundings, he deplored, that prompted him to crush their skulls with a hatchet, cut their throats and fire the house

In a Colonial Parliament.

New South Wales parliamentary humorists have found a butt in the bull-voiced Monaro Miller. He was looked upon as a rather ordinary bore until, when he was roaring his loud-est, "Jack" Haynes politely asked him to speak up, and Miller, not noticing the "borak," spoke up. "I beg your pardon," said John, leaning forward, with his hand to his ear, after the manner of the deaf. Miller nearly lifted the roof as he bawled the remark again. "Excuse me, I couldn't quite catch it," said Haynes, solemnly, his hand still to his ear, and it was not until he had awakened the whole neighborhood and members were rushing in to see what the explosion was that the man from Snowy River "dropped."—Sidney Bulletin.

Any Girl Can Tell

A physician who makes the test and is honest about it can tell you that, in many cases, the number of red corpuscles in the blood is doubled after a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

That this means good blood may not be entirely clear from the doctor's statement, but any girl who has tried the pills can tell you that it means red lips, bright eyes, good appetite, absence of headache, and that it transforms the pale and sallow girl into a maiden who glows with the beauty which perfect health alone can give.

Mothers whose daughters grow debilitated as they pass from girlhood into womanhood should not neglect the pill best adapted for this particular ill.

Frank B. Trout, of 103 Griswold Ave., Detroit, Mich., says: "At the age of fourteen we had to take our daughter from school on account of ill health. She weighed only 90 pounds, was pale and sallow and the doctors said she had anemia. Finally we gave her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. When she had taken two boxes she was strong enough to leave her bed, and in less than six months was something like herself. To-day she is entirely cured, and is a big, strong, healthy girl, weighing 130 pounds, and has never had a sick day since."—Detroit Evening News.

In Memoriam.

(To the memory of Frank Wallace by a friend and school mate.)

Kiss me, mother, kiss your darling,
I lean my head upon your breast,
Fold your loving arms around me,
I am weary, let me rest.
Scenes of life are swiftly fading,
Brighter seems the other shore;
I am standing by the river,
Angles wait to waft me o'er.

Keep me, uncle, in remembrance,
Though the chiding voice be heard,
And while others may speak in censure,
Yet breathe no unkindly word.
Tell me you'll think of the past,
Think of the joys we have seen;
This one little promise keep for me—
See that my grave's kept green.

Oh, how dark the world is growing,
Hark! I hear the angel band,
How I long to join their number
In that fair and happy land.
Hear you not that heavenly music
Floating near so soft and low?
I must leave you—farewell, father,
Kiss me once before I go.
