

Ludlowville.

MAY 18.—At 2 p. m., Sunday, Rev. George Laughton will preach in the Presbyterian church, and at 7:30 p. m. will deliver his lecture on "Gladstone," his former lecture, so well received, having been on "Wendell Phillips." At 6:30 the Endeavorers have an "Automatic" meeting. All invited.

Rev. Mr. Herbert unexpectedly announced some time ago that he had received a call to accept a position in New York City to represent Palestine Exploration in this country for Americans in Palestine who desire to still further explore the historic sites of the Holy Land. This will necessitate his resignation the middle of May.

Quarterly conference will be held in the M. E. church Friday evening of this week, and quarterly meeting on Sunday, May 21. In the evening the Epworth League anniversary will be observed. Presiding Elder F. T. Keeney will be present at all of these services. On Sunday the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

W. S. Moore of Candor was in town one day last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Burr Besemer of Ithaca were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Burling last week.

The Creamery All Right.

A man who makes Locke his headquarters but who depends upon the town of Genoa for a good share of his business, is reported to have circulated discouraging remarks regarding the Genoa creamery, and to the effect that the proprietor was at least unreliable. Such stories, no matter who tells them, are apt to more or less injure any business, and we feel justified, under the circumstances, in making this statement. Mr. Smith, the creamery man, came to us highly recommended by a well known creamery proprietor. He is a pleasant man to meet, and understands his business in every detail. He has settled with his patrons promptly and the constantly increasing milk supply would show that none are dissatisfied. Of course the creamery here draws some trade from Locke, and we suppose that is why this man sneaks around to stab Genoa in the back. Probably there are as many reliable men in Genoa as there are in Locke.

DAVE'S RESOLVE.

Sprawling down one hill and half way up another was a little village; at the corner of its main street stood the White Lion Inn. The sun poured yellow light through the bar windows on to the sanded floor, and on the figures of two men who sat talking at a table.

"I tell you he's sweet on my cousin Phoebe, damn him!" exclaimed the younger man, bringing his fist down on the table.

"And what's that got to say to it?" replied the other, in a slow, heavy voice. "Josh Tuckett 'ull never see no darter o' his married to a drunkard."

"Dave ain't no drunkard; he takes his glass and goes out. Dang him, I wish he wor."

The elder man leaned forward and caught hold of the button of his companion's coat.

"Answer me this, Tummas Rod," he said, "didn't his father die o' drink?"

"Ay, sure."

"And his grandfather afore him?"

"Ay, certain."

"Bain't his three brothers lying in the churchyard at this very minet reglar soaking the place w' spirits; the grass niver grewed casual over their graves the same as it did over t'other folkes."

"What's that got to do w' Dave?"

"Why, begore, he'll come to the like sooner or later, mark my words if he don't. He's a drunkard now—at heart. Scores o' times I've reckoned to hear his throat split and crack when the drink dizzles down it."

A heavy flush rose to Rod's face. "And may it; the sooner the better," he said.

"You' and he wor thick anuff as boys," replied the old man, rising, and regarding him curiously.

Rod turned away and went back to the bar. "Didn't I tell 'ee that he be sweet on my cousin and her on him," he answered, in a sullen voice.

There was a sound of footsteps, and Dave entered, the old man taking his departure at the same time. Rod glanced with quick scrutiny at the newcomer's gaunt but boyish face, as, dropping his bag of tools, he flung sixpence on the counter.

"A half-and-half, Tom," he said. "My throat ba reglar dring'd (squeezed up) with thirst."

The flush on Rod's face receded, leaving it ashen gray. He filled a small glass to the brim with spirits and pushed it across the bar. Dave swallowed the contents at a gulp, and stood, fingering the glass nervously.

"Take another nip," said Rod.

"Naw, wan ba anuff, thank 'ee."

"Come, I'll stand yer."

Dave's thin white face reddened. "I dursn't," he said, turning away and picking up his bag of tools.

The innkeeper burst into a rough laugh. "You puts me in mind of a maid before her first kiss, terrible afraid, but wonderful willing," he replied. "Come," he urged, unsteadily, "drink me success to something I've set my mind on."

There was silence a moment.

"Ba it zummat pertikler speshli?" Dave asked, at length.

"I told 'ee I'd set my mind on it."

"Drink ba kindidling temptsome," Dave muttered, half to himself, as he watched Rod fill two glasses with spirits. "Wull," he added, gulping down the spirits with feverish impatience, "may 'ee git whaf 'ee want and more."

Rod looked at him a moment, his lips twitching: "To the damnation of Dave Vint, body and soul!" he exclaimed, and draining the glass, flung it across the bar at the wall opposite. For a moment the two men regarded each other in silence, then Dave turned on his heel, halted a moment at the door, and glanced back. "Did 'ee mean they wuds?" he said.

"Twor nort but a bit of fun," Rod answered, forcing a laugh.

"Ther ain't nort speshli vantysheeny (showy) in sich jokes," replied Dave, and going out he left Rod alone. He made his way through the street and up the hill behind the village, where the pine trees stood massing the blue sky like heavy blue-green clouds. Leaving the road, he entered the wood by a footpath. It was autumn; the ground was strewn with cones; overhead the wind sougued with the sound of the sea. Standing beside a broken stile was a girl; her chestnut hair, escaping from the kerchief that bound it, rippled and curled about her neck and forehead. Dave started when he saw her, and advanced more slowly. She came toward him, and they stood together; she was not tall, about as high as his heart.

"Wat's come to 'ee, Dave!" she exclaimed, in a soft guttural voice; "it's dree weeks since you've bin a-nigh me."

He was silent, averting his eyes as if he were afraid to look into hers.

"You made me love 'ee, you made me love 'ee," she burst out, her voice trembling, "and now—"

"Phoebe, lass, 'tis better that I bide away."

"You 'shud 'ave thort o' that afore," she said, bitterly.

"Aye, sartin' I s—"

THE CHARACTERISTICS OF GOOD WHISKEY. . . .

In the preparation of whiskey for medicinal use the infusion of rye or other grain is first made to undergo fermentation by which the saccharine matter and indirectly the starch are converted into alcohol. In this state the liquid is called the wash. This is submitted to distillation and the product is denominated low wines. By a second distillation it becomes purer and stronger and now takes the name of raw spirits or whiskey. It is now submitted to a third distillation in order to further purify it. This is where our whiskey is superior. Few whiskies are ever submitted to a third distillation.—By time, certain chemical changes take place by which the natural impurities contained in the liquor are destroyed and the whiskey becomes mellow, losing the disagreeable odor and taste which it is apt to have when first distilled. We guarantee Centennial Whiskey to be six years old. Quart Bottles (bottled at the factory) $1. By the Gallon $3.50. Orders for goods to the amount of $3.00 sent by prepaid express to any address, cash with the order. Good California Port, Catawba and Sherry Wines 35 cts. per quart, $1.25 per gallon.

THE VILLAGE MIRROR

What Has Happened in Genoa During the Past Seven Days—An Interesting Page.

—Considerable frost lately.
 —Will Genoa observe Memorial Day?
 —The strawberry festival will soon be along.
 —The fields now promise an abundant hay crop.
 —Dewey Day was not celebrated or noticed in Genoa.
 —David Kinney was in Auburn on business Tuesday.
 —Teachers' Association at Moravia on Saturday (tomorrow).
 —Tom Tyrrell is out after a few days' confinement with the grip.
 —Mrs. L. N. Close spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. W. A. McAllister.
 —P. F. McAllister of Ithaca has been loading stock at King Ferry station.
 —There is some interesting advertising matter on the 8th page again this week.
 —Mrs. George Bryant of Auburn is visiting her father, W. O. Andrews, this week.
 —The spraying of apple trees seems to be more general this year than heretofore.
 —Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Fox of Ithaca are renewing acquaintances in Genoa this week.
 —I. L. Schofield of Chenango Bridge was in Genoa on business a day or two this week.
 —E. C. Lathrop, the well-known Auburn shoe dealer, speaks to you in his space this week.
 —Charles Bush is once more the proprietor of the Brown blacksmith shop at Ludlowville.
 —Bothschild Bros. quote some reduced prices on millinery goods in their space this week.
 —The man with the polyphone failed to appear on Wednesday evening, as he advertised to do.
 —There is some talk of having a rousing old Fourth of July celebration. What do you think of it?
 —Rev. A. R. Hewitt of Weedsport will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church next Sunday, May 21.
 —W. R. Mosher caught a mammoth bullhead from the pond one day recently. It weighed about 1 1/2 lbs.
 —It is said that the cawing of crows after dark which has been noticed by some weather prognosticators this spring is a sign of a hot dry summer.
 —A new timetable went into effect on the Lehigh Valley Sunday, but as usual this office is not supplied with a copy and therefore we are unable to mention the changes.
 —Mr. and Mrs. Al Lanterman left last Friday morning for a trip by carriage to Pennsylvania, and visiting at intermediate points on the way. They expect to return about June 1.
 —Lost, on Friday morning, May 12, between Ledyard and J. G. Whitten's a plush carriage robe. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at Ledyard store or sending word to L. N. Close.
 —B. L. Avery went to Syracuse on Tuesday morning to attend the State G. A. R. convention; he is an aide on the staff of Commander Wood. Mr. and Mrs. Elias Dodd also attended the convention and visited their son and family.
 —This is the way a baker advertised: "Wanted, a young man to assist baker. Must be well bred, can loaf two days a week, and get his dough on Saturday night, or oftener if he kneads it."
 —Letters remaining uncalled for in the local post-office May 1 were as follows: Mrs. S. Addy, Cash Co., Miss Alice I. McGines, Miss Edith Mead, Henry Empsen, Eber Edwards, and Willie Shaver.
 —We notice by one of our exchanges that veal calves will lose about eight pounds in weight between the farm and the railroad car. This shrinkage is ascribed to numerous causes, such as fright and jolting over country roads.
 —An exchange very truly says: "The national game of baseball is in full swing on every bit of level sward around every American city and village, and every American boy is indulging in his chosen sport. When properly and honestly played baseball is the very ideal of skill and finesse in manly sports. It ought to be encouraged on every hand." There will be a game of ball on the Holden field here tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Make arrangements to attend. Genoa against Union Springs.

 —Mrs. Lottie Myers recently visited her sister, Mrs. Wallace Wood, at West Groton.
 —Misses Agnes Pierson and Lulu Seeley of Ludlowville were guests of Miss Luella Smith on Sunday.
 —Town Sunday School Association at East Lansing on Thursday, June 1. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions.
 —The portable saw mills around the country will soon clear from the face of old Mother Earth the little timber now standing in these parts.
 —Patrons of our business notice column are generally well pleased with the result. It is one of the interesting features of the TRIBUNE and everybody seems to read it. Tell of your wants to buy, sell or exchange.
 —An exchange remarks that the farmers are now putting in about sixteen hours a day. That is about the average length of a country printer's working day for twelve months in the year.
 —Farmers around Peterboro have been selling hay at $3 per ton. Prof. Van Slyke of the Geneva experimental station says a ton of ordinary hay contains $5 worth of fertilizers—nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. Paying $30 a ton for commercial fertilizers and selling hay for $3 a ton is progressing farming—we don't think.—Leader.

 The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the infliction is demonic enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by J. S. Banker, Genoa.
 Cash paid for eggs at O. M. Avery's.

King Ferry.
 MAY 18.—Mrs. H. Chase entertained friends from Sherwoods on Wednesday last.

 Dr. Frank Kenyon of Scipio was in town Monday.
 Miss Maude Cheesman of Auburn was a guest of Miss Emily Atwater last week.
 Mrs. Walter C. Bradley and children will spend the summer here.
 Rev. Geo. Laughton of Lake Ridge occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening.
 Miss Cora Haines of Poplar Ridge is spending the week with Mrs. G. S. Aiken.
 John M. King is confined to the house by sickness.
 Hugh Fallon is reported better.
 Mrs. Eva Niblo has purchased the house and lot owned by the late Mrs. Harriet L. Goodyear.
 John F. Montague, clerk of the Kendall House, has resumed his duties after a week's visit with friends in Syracuse, Weedsport and Auburn.
 Will D. Norman of Genoa, general agent for the D. M. Osborne company of Auburn, was in town on Tuesday.
 Mrs. Byron Hunt of Genoa had a fine display of millinery goods at the Kendall House Tuesday. Mrs. Hunt was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. King, and by Mrs. F. W. Ames of that place.
East Genoa.
 MAY 18.—Fred Gilmore is reported sick with pneumonia.
 Miss Alice Barber of California is visiting relatives here.
 When Uncle Sam takes 49 cents worth of silver, puts his signature on it and calls it a dollar, that is making money.
 A little surprise was given the people Sunday at the close of the Sunday-school, when the pastor was followed to the altar by a young couple. After the proper ceremony, Erwin Snushell and Ada Beardsley were pronounced husband and wife. Miss Maude Wilcox and Miss Bertha Lewis acted as bridesmaids.
 Mr. and Mrs. J. Coon spent Sunday with M. Jones and family at Groton.
 Poison distributed by the tongue of the gossip is henbane.
Venice Center.
 MAY 17.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Mosher and two children were guests of W. R. Querean and family Sunday.
 Quarterly meeting services were held in this church Sunday, Rev. W. H. Sanford of Auburn officiating.
 Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy of Groton dined with Mrs. Shalts on Friday last. They were en route to Scipio.
 Mrs. George Crawford remains quite ill.
 Paul Donovan, who is in quite poor health at present, has gone to Homer for a while.
 Mrs. Sam Stewart and Mrs. Will Kenyon were in Auburn recently.
 A. Hudson and wife of Locke attended church in this place Sunday and visited her mother, Mrs. Robertson, at Bolts Corners in the afternoon.

QUEER HAPPENINGS.

A farmer near Noblesville, Ind., 52 years of age, has never had teeth, and all four of his children are toothless.

A St. Louis man committed suicide by putting a rubber tube into a barrel of whiskey and filling himself beyond the limit.

A lot of Bourbon county, Ky., cattle went into a tobacco barn for shelter and twenty of them died from eating the tobacco.

A Massachusetts farmer was sued for sneezing so loud on the public highway as to cause the plaintiff's horse to run away.

A Pineville, Ky., barber has this sign displayed: "If you don't come in and let me shave you I am going to close my shop and go to hoeing corn."

Three young women in various parts of the country had all the hair burned off their heads by the accidental ignition of the celluloid combs they wore.

An old clock given to a Warren, Ill., academy to be used before the class in physics to demonstrate the laws of the pendulum, refused to run, and when the teacher got into its works he found a roll of bills amounting to $242 clogging the machinery.

A New England coal miner was troubled with a pain in his back and went to the doctor about it. The doctor looked him over and took four inches of knife blade out of him. He had been stabbed in the back eight years before and the blade had broken off.

WHITTLED TO A POINT.

The ventilation of a theory makes some people hot.

Publisher of dictionaries should have them spell-bound.

Summer brings leaves of absence and winter brings absence of leaves.

A lumber dealer may be in his office and out of doors simultaneously.

Perhaps some wealthy men are chronic kickers because they are well heeled.

Every mother has the best boy; the worst boy invariably belongs next door.

Whenever a man makes a mistake you may expect a tidal wave of explanation.

Most people know what they don't want—also that they don't often get what they do want.

Girls should never throw kisses; it's almost impossible for a girl to hit the object she throws at.

Nature has arranged things so that a poor man is able to display as many virtues as a millionaire.

It's useless to extract a promise by force unless you are prepared to continue the pressure of compulsion indefinitely.

A wise man changes opinion occasionally, but somehow the fool who can change a $1,000 bill always commands more respect.—Chicago News.
