"PIANO" MAKES QUEER MUSIC

Probably Paderewski Would Shudder at Sight of This Native African Instrument.

Africans are a music-loving people, though in a native African village there is not much to be had that will produce sounds of a harmonious nature. There the musical instruments are of the crudest kind. Even if the African musician has the real musical gift, with his very best effort it cannot be displayed creditably on the crude instruments at hand.

The African "piano," ungainly looking as it is, shows a good bit of ingenuity both in its construction and its manipulation, so that the sounds blend in some sort of musical strains. There are usually 18 to 20 "keys" in the makeup of an African piano. Each is of polished wood 3 to 4 inches wide and 14 to 15 inches in length. Under each key is a gourd attached by means of a resinous gum, or an application of cement very durable when it hardens. A half circular strip of flexible wood holds all in place. The gourds are of different sizes. Two sticks, like drum sticks, are used by the player, one in each hand; and the playing is done by pounding with the sticks upon the keys, each of which, when struck, gives out a different sound.

In some of the villages of Africa where missionaries dwell, the "piano" drum, for that is what it really is, serves as the church "bell," to summon the people to the services. If manipulated by the native evangelist, which is often the case, the call to prayer and praise rings out with all the lusty musical (?) sounds his vigorous pounding can bring from it.

Memorial to Oliver Hazard Perry at Put-In-Bay Really Beautiful Work of Art.

The memorial monument in honor of Oliver Hazard Perry at Put-In-Bay, O., commemorating his victory over the British in the battle of Lake Erie, September 10, 1813, is noted for its beauty and simplicity. The cost was $800,000. It is built of granite, concrete, marble and Stella bronze. The magnificent Grecian-Doric column rises to a height

DO THE HARD THINGS FIRST.

If you have something hard to do, Just go to work and do it. If you conclude to put it off You're pretty sure to rue it. The task that's hard to do's the one That needs your first attention, And, doing it, you may escape A lot of reprobation.

Push in, and do the hard things first, Let easy ones come after. Make this your rule, and life will mean A lot of joy and laughter. But if you let the hard things go, Your enemies will taunt you With serious duties unperformed, And all your life they'll haunt you.

TRAGEDY WITH FEW WORDS

Parlor Drama in Which the Scene Might Be Set in Almost Any Home.

She came into the room, where he sat alone. Her clenched hand could not totally conceal the cold, w...te glitter of a knife. Her face was pale and drawn, her eyes wild and bloodshot. He, the man—the man whose name she bore, the man whom she had sworn to love, to honor, and to obey—sat deep in thought by the warm fire grate. So deep in thought that he did not hear the slippers of the beautiful woman who now stood behind him, with a strange, bitter smile upon her lips. Suddenly, with a gasp, she cast the knife aside, and it fell clatteringly upon the fender. "I cannot!" she moaned wearily. "I cannot!" A pitying expression swept across the Gothic granite of his cheek. "What is it, darling?" he murmured. But she spoke no word. Only, she raised a pointless black lead pencil. She had been trying to sharpen it. But in vain!

Dressed Beef.

It is reported that Sir Francis Webster is a wealthy manufacturer of hemp goods in Scotland and the owner of a stock range in Texas on which thousands of cattle range, clad, during the winter at least, in garments other than their own hide and hair. Sir Francis's cows, it appears, wear suits of hemp cloth made in his own factory which protect them from cold and snow, make them less susceptible to tuberculosis and increase their daily yield of milk. Each cow, it is said, has two suits a week. They are not elaborate affairs, by any means—simply overall blankets that fit loosely. There are 1,000 cows in his dairy farm and they use 2,000 hemp blankets a week. That, of course, means added expense, but the yield of milk during the cold weather is about 27 per cent larger than from cows not thus protected.

Old American Church.

Commemoration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the parish of Christ's Episcopal church, Newton, N. J., the second oldest church in northern New Jersey, took place in the presence of Bishop Edwin S. Lines of Newark, with many persons attending. The church was established under a charter signed by King George III. The parish was organized December 28, 1769. The first church was erected in 1823 and was consecrated in that year by Bishop Cross. The corner stone of the present church building was laid in 1868. The oldest church in northern New Jersey is the Dutch Reformed of Walpack Center, built in 1737.

China's Coal.

The best Chinese coal is quite as good as the best coal of the United States; and the various fields of merchantable coal are probably as great in extent as all the rest of the coal coal fields in the world, so far as they are known. Anthracite of excellent quality is mined in four provinces. The largest field now worked is in Shanai, and the famous mines of Ping Ting produce an abundance of it. In this district coal and iron are almost within a stone's throw of each other.

HOW NATIVES OF SOUTH SEA ISLANDS TAKE SEA MONSTERS AND CRABS.

—South sea Islanders are adept at fishing, the inhabitants going out in frail canoes outside the reefs where sharks usually live and catch monsters that measure from 3 to 15 feet in length. Sometimes the boats are capsized, and as the shark charges the man in the water the man dives under it and rips open its stomach. The sharks are very cunning, however, and generally a dozen of them attack a man at once, tearing him to pieces. The fish traps used in the South sea islands are many and ingenious. Square traps are made by the natives of Washington islands from bamboo, held together by coir string. The circular entrance of a trap runs about three-quarters of the length of the trap and narrows gradually. Bait is placed beyond its end, the fish swimming in and passing out of the circular tube into the larger confines of the trap. The crab trap used by the Solomon Islanders consists of a small net, inside which is placed a medium sized clam shell, which is lowered to the bottom of the lagoon, opening automatically as it strikes the bottom. When a crab enters the net, the mouth of which is kept open by the extended shell, the watching fisherman pulls on the string, thereby closing the shell with the crab in it.

DOES AWAY WITH WRINKLES

Now French Specialist, by Simple Operation, Creates a Skin That is Permanently Smooth.

Obiteration of wrinkles in the forehead is effected by Dr. Julien Bourget of Paris, by making a curved incision on either side, a few centimeters from the median line and at the junction of the forehead and hairy scalp, removing a crescent-shaped piece of skin, convex above, and closing the wound with intracutaneous sutures. Wrinkles in the temporal region, starting at the outer corner of the eye, and extending outward in a fish-shaped figure, are removed by spreading out the external margin or base of the triangle. An angular incision is made in the area forming the border of the temporal and frontal regions, and resection of a corresponding angular piece of skin, followed by suturing, gives the desired

The American Sabbath.

"Save the Sabbath of America" is the keynote of a determined crusade launched by the Permanent Committee on Sabbath Observance of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. according to announcement made from Presbyterian Headquarters, New York City. Confronted by attempts in various states to legalize various amusements on Sunday in home communities that have hitherto resisted the invasion of Sunday baseball, theatres, dance halls and similar worldly enterprises, the Presbyterian church through its committee plans to wage Christian warfare under the direction of James Yereance, chairman and Dr. H. L. Bowlby, secretary.

The preservation of the Christian Sabbath is fundamental to the home, the church and the nation, says Dr. Bowlby. The peril of the Christian Sabbath is the peril of the American people and the United States government.

The Sabbath is the supply of all moral reforms. If we would bring about that social order so greatly to be desired, we must remember the truth of Judge Alton B. Parker's statement:

"We need the Sunday of our mothers to keep our social life what it should be because there can be no social life worth while in ours or any other land without gentlemen, no true gentlemen without spirituality, and no robust spirituality without a Sabbath decently observed."

Also that of Justice McLean of the Supreme Court of the United States:

"Where there is no Christian Sabbath there is no Christian morality and without this our free institutions cannot long be sustained."

The Presbyterian General Assembly has declared that "the battleground of the churches during the next ten years will be on the field of the Christian Sabbath and that the crucial test of this war which is now against the mighty forces of Sabbath desecration will have to be met within the next five years."

Interesting Spelling Contest.

The spelling contest at Genoa Union school was well attended. After the contest W. E. Davis, the assistant manager of the Farm Bureau, spoke on Junior Project Work. The girls will form a Sewing club under the direction of Miss Jennie Burgman. Miss Florence Burr of the Genoa Union school will assist her in the organization of the club. David Nettleton will organize a Pig club for boys.

The meeting closed with an old-fashioned spell-down. Ruth Loomis of the fourth grade spelled down all other grade children who took part.

The results of the contest were: 1, John Nesbit 99 per cent; 2, Erika Adolph 96; 3, Mildred Coon 95.5; 4, Laura Mead 94; 5, Dorothy Hahn 94; 6, Gladys Starner 93; 7, Janet Smith 92; 8, Herbert Swartwood 92; 9, Franklin Bennett 92; 10, Catherine Shaw 91.

These ten will spell against the west end of the town at the Genoa Union school, Friday evening, May 28, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Witbeck is a well known citizen of King Ferry, residing west and south of the village on the lake road. Some time after 2 o'clock Saturday he disappeared, and although a company of fifty or more neighbors and friends searched all day Sunday, nothing was discovered to relieve the anxiety of his family and friends. The state police, with the aid of a dog, have also been engaged in the search for several days, but without result. The missing man is said to have been despondent at times since the death of his only son, six years ago, and it is thought that this accounts for his disappearance. Mr. and Mrs. Witbeck returned only a few weeks ago from California where they spent the winter.

Doomed to Minor Salvation Role

A SALVATION LASSIE

TAMBOURINES AT SALVATION ARMY HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK CITY

THE America of the old fashioned Americans is gone; it's all ended. Some still cling to primrose hopes, but with the recent announcement that the Salvation Army lassies have given up their tambourines for street collecting—pshaw! What's the use?

It started with the buffaloes. Some New York traveling men, dressed in the latest spring styles, ventured out West. The buffaloes took one squint, lay down on their spinal cords, closed their eyes, groaned and died.

And then there came about the passing of another beloved American institution—the front yard. Home life hasn't been the same since. With the advent of skyscraper tenements and flats front yards vanished. Now the heads of households when they come home at night worn out with arguing golf at the office all day have to sit on the front doorsteps or go to the movies.

Suspenders have gone too. And gone are 50 cent Sunday table d'hote dinners, and family surreys, and all-day suckers.

And now the time honored role of the Salvation Army lassie's tintinnabulating tambourine is doomed. You will find these once popular musical collection boxes piled up by the hundreds at Salvation Army headquarters.

The lassies, heartened by the country's approval of their overseas war service, have found it unnecessary to waste effort in tambourine solicitations, and they devote the time thus saved to actual slum work and general service to all distressed humanity. So they've called off the year-round tambourine collecting and appeal to the nation annually for financial approval. The 1920 Appeal is scheduled for May 10th to 20th.

The lassies will still beat the tambourines in the Salvation Army praise services, however. They quote a number of Psalms as authority. Here is Psalm 149, 3:

"Let them sing praises unto Him with the timbrel and harp."

The "timbrel" is the ancients' name for the modern Salvation Army tambourine. Well, goodbye, old tambourine. We'll miss your cheering tinkle and the acknowledging smile of your mistress, but you did your bit.

Present
Deliverance

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Evening Classes,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—The Lord Jesus Christ gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us from this present evil world according to the will of God and our Father.—Gal. 1:4.

The word "world" in our text is translated in the margin of the American Revision by the word "age."

That translation helps us to understand better that it is not the evil "world" from which Christ delivers us, for the world itself is not evil; but from the "age" in which we live which is in the Scriptures characterized as evil.

Present Salvation. The deliverance spoken of here is not from some future age, nor from wrath to come; but from "this present evil age." This corrects the current notion that salvation has altogether to do with the future. As often said, salvation has three tenses: the past, present and future. Past sins are forgiven through the Lord Jesus Christ, and assurance given that the believer "shall be saved from wrath through him."

But salvation does not stop with these two great facts of the past and future life of the believer; it also has to do with his present life.

The text tells us that Christ purposed in giving himself for our sins to deliver us from this present evil age; so, for the believer in the Lord Jesus Christ there is present salvation, which was wrought out for him by Christ on the cross.

Reckoned Dead to Sin.

In another epistle the writer of this one tells us that when Christ was crucified upon the cross, our old man—that is, our corrupt human nature—was crucified with Christ. This crucifixion with Christ, Paul says, is true of all believers in God's reckoning and he makes it clear that the first step in the believer's deliverance from this present evil age is for him to reckon himself as God does. "Likewise," in the same way, he says, "reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin" (Romans 6:11). Deliverance is not gained by denying the existence of the old nature in the believer, but by recognizing the fact of the old nature and then dealing with it as God asks us to, by reckoning it dead.

Reckoned Alive to God.

But the apostle goes further. He says that we should reckon ourselves not only to be dead indeed unto sin, "but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord." This is the second step in present deliverance.

Again we see that in the reckoning of God we were in Christ when he arose from the dead. This does not mean that like our Lord we are now actually on the resurrection side of the grave. It means that God counts us as if we were there and that now we are to reckon ourselves there through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Well may it be asked: "How can this reckoning be done?" The answer is: "By faith." Reckoning these things true is an act of faith.

Yield to God.

The third step in present deliverance might be called a double one: "Yield not." "Yield to" (Romans 6:13). The believer is not to yield to sin. This shows that, unlike his Lord, the believer is not without sin in him; the old corrupt nature can give way to sin. If the believer allows it; therefore, he is not to yield to the lust of the flesh, but rather to yield himself to God. The motive power for godly living is not the energy of the flesh but the power of the Spirit. How necessary, then, that the believer be filled with the Spirit!

Again the question arises, how shall this be? And Paul answers: "The life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God." In other words he says that as he yields to Christ—and yielding, remember, is faith, not effort; it is trusting, not trying—Christ lives his own life in him.

Thus it is, that Christ saves us from this present evil age, making it possible for us to count ourselves dead unto sin, but alive unto God, and to yield ourselves to God as those that are alive from the dead that Christ may live in and through us his own blessed life.

The One Eternal Lesson.

Life is not a holiday, but an education, and the one eternal lesson for us all is how better we can love. And Love is not a thing of enthusiastic emotion, either. The Apostle Paul, in a few words, gives what he called the analysis of Love. The elements of which it is composed have common names; they are virtues which we hear about every day; they are things which can be practiced by every one in any place in the world. Patience, kindness, generosity, humility, courtesy, unselfishness, good temper, guilelessness, sincerity—these make up the supreme gift, the stature of the perfect man.

Beat Drum—Spent Night in Prison

BY hitting a big bass drum just one resounding whack for which she spent a night in jail, a resolute black eyed girl changed the police classification of Salvation Army drumming from "petty nuisance" to "music."

That was twenty-two years ago, and the black eyes have grown more gentle in years of service for the poor since those battling days, but they still twinkle when the story is told.

It was Mrs. Adam Gifford, wife of the colonel now commanding the New England forces of the Salvation Army, who wielded the drumstick and struck defiance at the Pennsylvania blue coated policeman of the town where she and her husband were then stationed.

Irate citizens had complained bitterly of the Salvation Army and its street corner meetings and musical services, but particularly of the bass drums of the band. Night after night the drums had been confiscated by the police, but to no effect. Finally a police order went out to "arrest anyone attempting to beat a drum."

Following this Colonel Gifford in an effort to test the constitutionality of the order advertised that upon a certain evening a monster meeting would be held and that upon that occasion Mrs. Gifford would beat the drum.

As anticipated, a record breaking crowd was turned out. The police reserves were called upon to quell the riot which might ensue. At a given signal Mrs. Gifford gave the drum a resounding thump and the meeting was under way. Immediately the frail little Salvation Army lassie was placed under arrest and escorted by a crowd of amused but sympathetic onlookers to the patrol wagon and thence to the local jail, where she spent the night.

The case was taken before the supreme court of the state, where eventually the contention of the "Army" was sustained.

Following the decision the entire corps, led by Colonel Gifford, marched to the city hall to demand the drums that had been confiscated by the police. Twenty-eight of the offending "prisoners" were released in the custody of the corps. From that date to the present none of the meetings of the Salvation Army has been disturbed by the police. Furthermore, the precedent established has been maintained in nearly every state in the Union.

—In the good old days a man earned his day's pay and went home and enjoyed himself until work time the next day. But not so today. A fellow does half a day's work, collects two or three days' pay, and spends the rest of his time wondering how he can make more and do less, says an exchange.

—A jury of Cayuga county men, of which Henry G. Hand of Genoa was one, last week convicted the John A. Roberts & Co., Inc., of Utica, on charge of profiteering. Press dispatches say that the evidence was wholly convincing. The conviction is the first in the United States against a dealer in wearing apparel, and also the first under the recently enacted Levy law, which makes it an offense to merely offer articles of this description at prices which the government considers unjust. Teachers in union free school districts with academic departments, will receive an increase of $300; common school districts, $250. The bill carries an appropriation of $20,550,000 and provides for the imposition of a direct tax of 1.5 mills on real property to yield that amount.
