Princeton beat Cornell in a game of baseball at Ithaca Saturday, 7 to 0.

Pugilist James J. Corbett, who was knocked out by Jeffries in the 23rd round, is now an aspirant for congressional honors.

The greatest oil strike since '82 has been made at Gaines, Tioga county. It discharges at the rate of 100 barrels an hour, or $4,000 worth per day.

The Curtis Publishing company of Philadelphia has spent $200,000 the past year in advertising the Saturday Evening Post in the newspapers.

The second trial of Howard C. Benham for the murder of his wife, in Batavia, will commence in Canandaigua, to which place it has been taken by change of venue, on May 28.

In the list of appointees by the New York State Breeders' association of expert judges for 1900 appear the names of A. D. Baker of Aurelius for dairy cattle and beef cattle, and W. A. Alexander of Scipioville for swine.

There will be no State fair in 1901, the fair officials having decided to suspend it in the interests of the great Pan-American exposition in Buffalo. The Dryden fair should also be postponed, so that the Pan-American can have a chance of success.

An Ithaca lad, 12 years old, climbed up an electric light wire pole to see the game of baseball between Cornell and Princeton. He slipped and fell onto a live wire and was being slowly burned to death when rescued. He is expected to recover.

Cayuga Lake park will be formally opened Decoration day. The restaurant at the pavilion will again be conducted by Earl L. Brown of Syracuse, who managed it last season. The Elite orchestra has also been engaged for the season.

People are warned of circulars now being distributed regarding "Messages and papers of the President." Don't sign any papers presented by agents unless you want to get let down for $34.50 for a set of books.

Chas. D. Anderson of Union Springs, who was to have been graduated from Webb Academy of Naval Architecture, New York, and who was released by passing a special civil service examination given by Secretary Long, is at present at work in Charleston navy yard, Boston, at a salary of $1,000 a year.

Sheriff Wood Monday morning sold on mortgage foreclosure, in the case of Sereno E. Payne as executor of Matilda P. Cone, deceased, against Samuel Osborne and others, a farm of 58 acres in the town of Fleming. The farm was sold in two parcels, the larger parcel of 52 acres being sold for $800 and the other 6 acres for $60.

The Curtis Publishing Co. of Philadelphia will own the largest periodical publishing plant in the world when their new annex building is completed. When all the presses are set up in the new building they will afford a capacity of 5,000,000 copies of the Saturday Evening Post, and 1,000,000 copies of the Ladies' Home Journal.

A bushel of corn worth an ounce of silver! Pretty near it. On May 7 corn was worth 45¢ cents a bushel in the New York market. Silver was worth 59¢ cents on the same day. In 1896, at the time of Bryan's prophecies as to free silver, corn was worth only 21¢ cents on the farm. But it has kept on advancing in price under the gold standard.

Samuel C. Seeley was a few days ago liberated from the Kings County Penitentiary, in which he had been incarcerated for over four years. He was a clerk in the National Shoe and Leather Bank of New York and stole $354,000. He left prison with only the clothes on his back and the few dollars he earned there. Not a dollar he took from the bank remains. His wife has secured a divorce and married again, and his son has adopted his mother's maiden name.

Calamity howlers and prosperous strikers who will find in time that their jobs are gone, are to have another chance. The House of Representatives has passed a bill providing that 33,000,000 acres of land recently acquired from Indian reservations are to be thrown open for settlers. If the howlers and the strikers would take up homesteads in these lands, and keep themselves busy, they would in time, no doubt, become valued members of communities, and straight-ticket Republicans. Prosperity is conducive to self-respect and Republicanism.

The whaleback and cigar-shaped steamboat is a success in navigation, and now comes the introduction of the cigar-shaped railway train, which is expected to attain a speed of 100 miles an hour. The peculiar construction of the train is with the idea of overcoming as far as possible the immense atmospheric pressure encountered at high speed. The train is to be drawn by a locomotive equipped with a wind-splitter built around and ahead of it, and the end of the rear car is to be constructed on the same plan. This will offer the least resistance and thus promote speed.

Crying one's eyes out is not an uncommon saying, and now an instance of a woman's going blind over the death of her husband and little daughter is authenticated. She is Mrs. Quitman, living in Fifth avenue, New York, who has wept so continuously since her bereavement that she now is totally blind. Thus far her ailment has baffled the skill of oculists, who say that her blindness is the result of the stoppage of blood vessels, which may yet be relieved. Instances of blindness from that cause

NEIGHBORHOOD VILLAGES IN PRINT.

The Happenings of the Week in Our Sister Villages.—Newspaper Correspondence.

East Venice.

MAY 21—Corn planting with mittens on is in order these days.

Rufus Strong of East Genoa has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Frank Young.

Eli Boles of Lansingville called at his son's, Ed Boles, Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Pugsley drew a fair audience at the hall Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Juliet Bower is confined to her bed, but it is hoped she will soon be up again.

Chickens are being received from the different factories in large quantities. Fay Teeter only got about 45 out of 200 eggs. Mrs. Sisson has lost quite a large number of the first lot received.

The last hop, set for the 12th, was a failure, not on account of the patrons but because the music failed to appear. This being the second time they have failed us, we think East Venice will have no use for them in future.

Next Saturday evening, the 26th, there will be a hop at the hall with good music. A general invitation.

D. Holden expects to plant quite a patch of broom corn, having received the seed from Tennessee.

F. C. Whitten played two nights last week at Scipio with the Skinner orchestra.

Mrs. Edgar Tift and daughter were calling at Frank Young's Sunday.

Belltown.

MAY 15—Mrs. Gurnee is in feeble health.

O. H. Tuttle is slowly improving.

Rev. Mr. Jacobs of Detroit, Mich., was the guest of Mrs. A. Palmer and family on Wednesday of last week.

J. French is visiting friends in Waverly.

A. T. Smith was the first in this place to plant corn, having finished on Saturday last.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Cheesman of Groton visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young, recently.

North Lansing.

MAY 23—Lansing was well represented at Auburn Tuesday.

James Curtis and wife of Groton made a flying call at Andrew Brink's Sunday.

The remains of Clarence Snyder of Locke were brought here last Sunday for burial. The service was conducted by the Masons of whom there was a large delegation from Moravia lodge in attendance.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams are in attendance at a convention in Wolcott this week.

Lewis Barger is with friends in Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Fred Edsall is on the sick list. Henry Spangler has purchased a rubber tired carriage.

Miss Susie Boyer has returned from Syracuse to her home here.

The Grangers are to have a dance in the hall Tuesday night, May 29th.

The gentlemen's entertainment last Friday evening was not very largely attended. The Ludlowville quartet did not appear. The singing by Will Smith and Rev. Williams and the instrumental music by Williams, Barger and Metzgar were highly appreciated and much praise is due them.

Scipioville and Vicinity.

MAY 21—Quarterly meeting services will be held at the M. E. church on Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 2 o'clock. Presiding Elder Keeney will be present at both services.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Houghton attended the funeral of her uncle, Abram Stevens, at Auburn on Tuesday last.

The service by was much enjoyed by all. Wm. F. Searing of Sherwood led the meeting and the choir, with Miss Ada Gifford at the organ, was assisted by Messrs. Baker and Hoxie.

Farmers are behind with their spring work.

Wm. B. Manchester of New York City recently visited his parents.

Byron B. Holt is now in the employ of the D. M. Osborne Co., with headquarters at Canajoharie.

L. W. Holt went to Port Huron, Mich., recently.

Willard Smith, who has been very ill, is a little better.

Mrs. Charles Wilshere is quite ill, but we hope will soon recover.

Mrs. Foster of Sherwood, who has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Groony, is much better in health than formerly.

J. A. Hudson, Sherwood's auctioneer, has purchased a 3-year-old Hambletonian pacer.

Business Change.

The Bool Co. of Ithaca has sold its furniture, carpets, upholstery, window shades and wall paper stock and good will to Julius M. Clapp, who will henceforth conduct the business under the firm name of Empire State Housefurnishing Co. Mr. Clapp brings to the business ripe experience and high ability in these lines of merchandising.

Herbert J. Bool and George Saunders have purchased the cabinet making and picture, frame and artist material departments, and will conduct the same at No. 132 East State St. (opposite Tompkins Co. bank) under the firm name of H. J. Bool & Co. The Bool Floral Co. have removed their cut flower and plant stock two doors east of the old stand on East State St.

Our readers can rest assured each section of this large business will more than ever merit their patronage.

"Under the American Flag."

One of the advertisements of the New York Central railroad reads: "From St. Michael to Manila, 11,974 miles. And the Stars and Stripes affording protection to American commerce all the way." That's nothing but a railroad advertisement, to be sure, but doesn't it send a little thrill of pride along your spinal column? Of course if you are an anti "imperialist" it doesn't, for the anti has no backbone, but the patriotic American citizen likes to see it proclaimed from the house tops that the United States flag is known outside the confines of America, and that where it floats it announces to the world that the most powerful republic on earth stands ready to protect the people and interests it represents. — Springfield, (Mass.) Union.

Mr. Underwood's Plea.

As soon as he learned of the change in time of holding the "snap" caucuses in Auburn, Judge Underwood sent to each member of the city committee the following protest:

MAY 11, 1900.

To the City Committee of the Republican party of the City of Auburn:

GENTLEMEN—Until recently, I had been given to understand that the caucuses at which delegates would be chosen to attend the next district convention, would not be called and held until the usual time in August.

Within the past two or three days, however, I have heard rumors to the effect that the caucuses would be held in the city in June; and I understand the meeting of the city committee, called for this evening, expects to act in the matter.

I earnestly protest against this suggested departure from the regular and orderly procedure.

It will operate with special injustice in my case because of the fact that I have a term of county court which convenes on the first Monday in June and which promises to be an unusually busy term.

If, in order to obviate this objection you should decide to hold the caucuses in the city on June 1 or 2, the caucuses in the towns will, in the usual course of events, follow shortly after those in the city and this would be equally unfair to me.

No good reason can be advanced for this unusual haste. The fact that this is a presidential year does not afford such a reason.

That business has already been disposed of, so far as this county is concerned.

I therefore request that the calling of the caucuses be deferred until the usual time—in the latter part of August, when it will be convenient for the farmers to get out—and when full opportunity shall have been had by the electors to consider the merits of respective candidates.

Very truly yours,
GEO. UNDERWOOD.

Getting Ready for a Fine Fair.

Under the above caption the Ithaca Journal says: "At a meeting of the executive officers of the Tompkins County Agricultural society recently held, A. H. Platt was appointed superintendent of races for the coming fair, Sept. 11, 12, 13 and 14. This assures successful races this fall. $2,000 is offered in purses by the society. W. B. Georgia, treasurer, was directed to proceed at once to put the track in proper condition for use. The grounds are also being cleared of the rubbish from the floods. The officers of the society are working faithfully to make the fair equal to any of its predecessors."

Dr. Day, the Specialist.

will be at the Goodrich House, Moravia, Tuesday, May 29th, and at the Clinton House, Ithaca, Saturday, May 26th. His hours are 9 a. m., to 4 p. m. The doctor is a specialist in every sense of the word and is having great success in his line.

Next summer 1,450 Cuban school teachers, at the invitation of Harvard university, will spend six weeks in Cambridge, Mass., for instruction in the English language. These teachers, two-thirds of whom are women, have recently been appointed to take charge of the schools in Cuba, and, as their salaries range from $30 to 75 a month they could not hope to make this visit unaided. The authorities at Harvard guarantee $70,000 for their uses, the war department taking them to Boston on government transports and returning them from New York in the same way. No tuition fees will be charged. The plan is for the women to lodge in private houses by invitation, and the men in college rooms placed at their service by students. They will also be instructed in geography by illustrated lectures and excursions, in the history of Spanish-American colonies, on American schools, public libraries and a number of American industries. One proposed excursion takes in several western cities.

It is not generally known, says the Philadelphia Record, that a great deal of the paper money that is constantly circulating about gets frequent washings in the same way as the housewife or maid goes at the dirty clothes on a Monday morning. In some banks there is a regular wash day every month, usually at the beginning, when a clerk may be seen bent over a tub, and rubbing real money up and down a washboard. The dirty greenbacks that have been saved up for a month are soaped and rubbed just like handkerchiefs and socks, and are run through a wringer before being put out to dry. The paper currency may be handled somewhat roughly, as it does not tear, because there is in it a great deal of silk and linen.

Merchants, manufacturers and professional men in Chicago who employ boys are combining to refuse applications for work from all lads under 16 who confess to the cigarette habit. Deceit on the part of the boy avails but little, since the fingers are carefully examined for the sign manual of the nicotine. As for the result, one boy recently admitted that at none of ten places to which he had gone for work in one week had the question as to whether he smoked cigarettes been omitted.

A Georgia judge recently, in deciding a case against a man who had been missing for many years, then suddenly appeared and claimed part of an estate, made this comment: "I scarcely think the statute of relations will stop and wait for him any more than the village of Falling Waters awaited the awakening of Rip Van Winkle, or the wife of Enoch Arden awaited his return."

It is said there will be more hemp raised in Kentucky this year than has been raised in a great many years. There was a time when hemp was the main product of Kentucky, but in late years it has become such an expensive article to raise that the farmers gave it up. Now the price of hemp is high and the farmers are taking advantage of it.

Children's playground in cities are a subject of increasing interest throughout the United States. In Baltimore recently the Children's Playground association held a successful cooperative bazaar in a military armory. The association conducted nine playgrounds and a swimming pool last summer, and hopes to add to the number this year.

The American officials who have been engaged in making a census of Cuba report having found in the mountains of the interior tribes of Indians whose existence was previously unknown, and they ran across intelligent white persons who were unaware that the United States government had taken control of the island.

Statistics have been published to show that brain workers are long lived. Five hundred and thirty eminent men and women of the present century were taken, and their duration of life gives an average of 68 years and eight months.

Left-handed parties are a fad in New York. Guests are requested to come with their right hand securely bound up. They must register their names, play the piano, make all gestures and eat with the left hand.

A New York exchange says the prevailing cause of insanity in Rochester is "unrequited love." Last year there were 35 cases from that cause to only two from the grip. Well, who'd have the grip, anyway!

A man named Claude Duval has been nominated for congress in Kansas. Comparatively few Kansas people know, however, that he is not the first of the name, so it may not hurt him seriously.

It is said the value of the egg crop of the state of Missouri exceeds in amount the value of the cereal crops of that state sold on the market.

Within 20 years California has added 500,000 to its population, or five times as many as the entire population of Arizona.

Farmers will be interested in the movement initiated by the Van'sville Farmers' club, of Sweet Potatoes College Park, Md., for Europe, to secure a market in Europe for sweet potatoes. According to D. M. Nesbit, secretary of the club, an effort will be made, with the hearty support of the secretary of the agriculture at Washington, to educate the masses in Europe to appreciate the sweet potato and to bring it within their means. The common people of northern and central Europe are unfamiliar with the tuber, their climate being unfavorable to its cultivation. If brought to their knowledge it would be a cheap and yet valuable addition to their menu. Oats were formerly little appreciated in London. They were in fact, thought to be fit only for horse feed, but now oatmeal is on every breakfast table. So of corn. It was imported for feeding to animals, its value as a material for bread being almost unknown. What was done with oats and corn can be done also for sweet potatoes, if a concerted and sustained effort is made to introduce them properly at the Paris exposition and afterward throughout Europe. The department of agriculture takes keen interest in the enterprise, it is understood, and will assist in introducing the sweet potato in its raw state and preserved by canning and by desiccation. Investigations will be made and the results will contribute to the creation of a new market for an excellent article of food.

A hint of the next fad or fashion in a curative way may be found in an experiment performed lately at Bellevue hospital in New York. A physician named Sprague has invented an oven, which bears his name, and into which the patient is inserted—all except his head—and subjected to a temperature which under other circumstances would suffice for a barbecue. The heated air, says our informant, is withdrawn as rapidly as it becomes laden with the perspiration of the patient, and the process is further encouraged by giving the victim constant sips of water. After he has been baked long enough to be well done he is taken out, rolled in heavy blankets, and finished off with a vigorous massage. It may be called a concentrated form of the Turkish bath. If there is any sort of badness which Dr. Sprague's apparatus will not draw out of a man it must be of a kind that needs a preacher rather than a doctor.

A new and profitable industry is said to have sprung up around the banks of the ponds and small lakes near Wabash, Ind. The common cat tail, which grows in profusion in the marshy ground near the water's edge, has become a valuable article of commerce and sells at the lake for a cent a pound. The cat tails have largely superseded wool, cotton and hair for mattresses and upholstery, and are said to be admirable substitutes, while they cost far less than the materials mentioned. Since the 1st of March over ten tons of the commodity have been gathered and paid for at Syracuse, on Turkey lake alone. The demand far exceeds the supply and is increasing.

There was a lesson in physical geography in the senate the other day. Senator Pettus asked Senator Carter to explain what was meant by "shoal water" in the mining regulations of the Alaskan code. Thereupon, Mr. Carter stated that shoal water was the water between the blue line of the sea and the shore. "It may extend ten or 15 miles from shore, but if we can get gold ten or 15 miles from shore, so much the better for us," he added.

Queen Victoria has, through her private secretary, Capt. F. Ponsonby, transmitted to Mr. Cunliffe-Owen her thanks and appreciation for his article in a late number of Munsey's Magazine, entitled "British Royalty in America," describing the important part played by her majesty throughout her entire reign, in fostering the friendly feeling between the United States and the British empire.

Entomologists declare that the recent cold spell effectually destroyed the tent caterpillar pest. A large number of these insects, which threatened the foliage of the maple trees, were hatched by the warm spell and chilled to death by the cold. This item is going the rounds of the press and its truth is emphatically denied by Gardener M. F. Cleary of this city. He has carefully investigated and finds that, while the little worms lay stiff and straight in the cold, when warmed as they soon will be by the summer heat, they very soon become active. Do not rest in a false security, but get out your sprayers early.—Cortland Democrat.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my showcase, said to me: 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer white at the shore,' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by J. S. Banker.

WHAT IS TACT?

IT WAS a combination of spring weather and steam heat in the office and Ellsworth drooped over his desk. His languid thoughts had straggled far away from the abstract spread out before him. Suddenly he reddened and set his teeth together with a click. Then he threw back his head and began humming a tuneless melody, the burden of whose words was: "La-la-la!" There was a defiant bravado in his voice which impressed the stenographer in the outer room and which made Goodwin stare as he came in just then.

"Thanks for your hospitality. If you urge me I will," opened Goodwin, stretching himself upon the office couch with the manner of a fellow who had been there before. When he was well settled he turned a spring lassitude eye on Ellsworth and drawled: "Since when did you learn to sing?" Ellsworth called to his stenographer to shut his office door. Then he managed to exert himself enough to swing his swivel chair until it faced another and to hoist his feet.

"Goodwin," he asked, in a solemn tone, "what is tact?"

"Tact," said Goodwin, lazily, "is what the other fellow hasn't got."

"Then I'm the other fellow."

"Oh, pshaw! 'Tisn't so bad as all that, I guess."

"It's worse than that. I'm a bump on a log, I tell you. That little tune you caught me warbling—"

"Tune?" inserted Goodwin.

"That little aria I was executing as you came in is a way I have of trying to express indifference when a vision of one of my bad breaks flits before me. Say, I've got more recollections of that kind than you could shake a stick at, and they're always coming across me on tired days like this. You know what I think tact is? Its not letting the emergency rattle you. Talk about 'tact vs. talent'—a fellow's got to have both. Talent I've got—"

"He's so modest!" soliloquized Goodwin.

"Talent I've got," repeated Ellsworth, with conviction, "but tact—no. Remember the chestnut about the amount of tact it requires when you've lifted your hat to a stranger to make him think you were only scratching your head? That's the idea I'm getting at. To master the sudden situation, instead of letting the sudden situation master you. The things a fellow's had time to plan out don't count. Now, just before you came in, a fool thing I did last week struck me suddenly. There wasn't any reason why I should think of it. It just came without any warning and made me get as warm as if it had happened a minute ago. I tell you I suffer from these things, and when they come into my head before I know what I'm about I find myself making an effort to throw them off by singing out like that."

"Singing?" queried Goodwin.

Ellsworth grinned. "It never occurs to me that a codfish is very sympathetic, Goodwin, except when I am associating with you. Queer what comparisons will do, isn't it?"

"How'm I going to sympathize without knowing what the matter is? Spring is moving along and the way I feel now I am going to take my summer vacation early this year. Suppose you'll be ready to tell me what you've got on your mind by the time I get back?"

"Maybe—if you give me a chance. All there was of it was this: Coming back from my trip north last week I had to change cars at Detroit and I forgot my overcoat—left it in the other train and never thought of it until my train had begun to pull out of the station. I rushed out on the platform and there came the porter of the other train and he said, 'Well, you'll boss me any more, but I ain't no wiser nor tie up, nor tie up, an' he he he' his wimble fell. 'Tisn't so bad as all that, I guess."

"Good morning, Mis' Brigham. So he's gone, poor man, and you're a wicker today—and it gives a body a sort o' mixed feeling to think that it's a thing that might happen to anyone o' us, except Lavinia here, she can't be a wicker woman! But mebbe she is just as happy as if she could be. I ain't one that's always a-thinking that a woman don't more'n half live unless she has a man to hurry her up to her work at sun-up, and boss her all day—no, no! Sometimes I think that the old maids have the best of it all round, if they'd look at it right! But you've got a good deal to be thankful for, considering that you've been married to a man; now you can begin to take some comfort, and you and Mari-Jane can do just as you're a mind to, long as you live, if you keep clear of men folks. Have you got your pie meat a-boilin yet? Seems to me I smelt it. I can stay and help you all day as well as not, and 'twill be a change for me. I'm tired o' lookin' at my back fence. I ain't hardly been out o' the yard all winter."

"There's no denying that money's handy and comforting at all times, but more so at times like these," sniffed Deacon Jones' wife, who had been

Mrs. Staples, too, "had put away her things herself," as neighbors do at such times, taking it for granted that their help and companionship are both needed and welcome, and when Mrs. Jones paused, she said: "Well, if you and Mari-Jane are a-going to have as much money as the men folks say you be, you ought to Locom out in pretty good sort o' mourning for the funeral; if the men are right, you hadn't oughter buy anything less than good all wool. And then, soon's you get to it. I should put a good, fair-priced stone on him, not very showy, but pretty heavy!"

"They wouldn't say so, if they had heard Harris Brigham declare, as many times as I have, that Mari-Jane and I were sending him every day a little nearer the poorhouse!" sobbed the widow.

"You've been kept in the dark, so's he could keep on pinching you; now, you listen to me. I know what I'm talking about, for I've had two husbands, and men fair to middling, too, but men for all that! And I tell you that you may just as well begin to enjoy your freedom to-day as next week—for Brigham is just as dead as he will be after the funeral. So you just flax round and look up his papers and find out where you can get hold of some ready money quick-est. You may find a wallet full hid up somewhere; there's my first husband, who was, to be charitable to the dead, near if not mean with his money, and we found $50 wadded up in dirty paper in an inside coat pocket! A regular tramp's wallet? Yis, but he come of a family as different from folks as they could be, and not been born with fur nor feathers on 'em, Mis' Brigham! 'I'd stop sniv'lin' if I was you; we all know who and what old Brigham was as well—nigh about, as you! 'You've kept at it pretty stiddy, and have done enough now to show respect to him that's dead and gone—or to last till the funeral—unless somebody special should call to see you! So, as I say, brace up and find out how much you're worth, if you can, and tell me what you want cooked up for the funeral supper, and how many you expect will come back from the grave, to eat. Then I'll go ahead with the cooking, and my Sam'll go to the 'village for anything we can't borrow round the neighborhood. For the land's sakes alive! Who is that coming up the lane? It looks like—it can't be?"

Who could it be, to create such excitement? Even the widow and Mari-Jane hurried to the window and peered over their neighbors' shoulders.

"Ma! Ma! It's Jim! Oh, I'm so glad, so glad!" and Mari-Jane started for the other door.

Mrs. Brigham caught the hem of her daughter's back breadths, as she reached the door, and pulled her backward so far that Mari-Jane's outstretched hand could only nervously fumble the latch with her finger tips, but not unlatch it!

"Mari-Jane! Remember that your pa won't have Jim Reed in this house! I can't hear his words now—'Never, Mari-Jane, so long's I live, so help me God!' Oh, Mari-Jane, your pa'll make an awful row! I'll go an' tell Jim he must go right away, and we'll never let on to your pa that he's been here. I hate to see and hear your pa when he's crossed in anything."

"Mis' Brigham! Remember that you're now a free woman, an' you've no longer got to go like a dog, when ole Brigham says 'Go!' nor you ain't got to 'Come' when he whistles, for he's whistled his last whistle! You ain't yit sensed your freedom! You an' Mari-Jane is as free to-day to receive Jim Reed, or anybody else, as you'll be in a year. I don't say 'tisn't pretty quick for you to receive anybody on your own account, but I ain't one to deny that you're as free to do it, as you'll ever be! It's only a question of how you feel, and when you feel like it," said the woman who had buried two husbands. Her words of experience prevailed.

"You can go, Mari-Jane, but I guess I wouldn't ask Jim in till after the funeral. I'd be 'most afraid that your pa would come back—if he could—and one don't really want to call back the dead; it don't seem just right. But go and see Jim—there's nobody to hinder, now!"—The Housewife.

HERBERT'S,

The Railroad Hearing.

The State railroad commission had a busy day last Tuesday. They met at Auburn to hear the application of the New York, Auburn & Lansing R. R. company for permission to build, and to consider the points of opposition presented by the Lehigh Valley company. As it was found that the rooms of the city council would not hold the hundreds of interested people who wanted to hear the proceedings, the meeting was adjourned to the court house. The commission is composed of Col. Ashley W. Cole of Brooklyn chairman, Frank M. Baker of Owego and George W. Dunn of Binghamton. When the meeting was called to order the court room was filled, and there were present in the interest of the proposed road Messrs. Conklin & Roblee of New York, Surveyor Cutter, Messrs. Rich & Aikin, as well as a number of prominent citizens residing along the line, and the Lehigh was represented by Mr. Titus, Frank P. Taber of Auburn and G. M. Diven of Elmira, attorneys, and J. F. Shepperd of New York, general agent. Col. Cole explained that the commission had come to hear the application of the promoters, and Mr. Rich in opening for the applicants told of the advantages to be derived, gave reasons why it was a necessity, and gave a brief history of the old road and the causes which led to its abandonment. Engineer Cutter was the first witness sworn. He produced maps and plans, and stated that he had been over the entire route and verified the maps, and that the existing grade was in good condition. He said there were 19 highways to cross, 4 of which could be grade crossings, and that he considered a point just west of the city limits was the proper place to join the Central tracks, to which the Central officials had agreed.

General John S. Clark, a civil engineer took the stand and gave evidence materially benefitting the arguments in favor of the road. Other witnesses followed, including Drs. Dudley, Slocum and Skinner, E. B. Whitten, L. B. Norman and J. E. Potter of Genoa, Capt. Murdock of Venice, Charles E. Morgan of Merrifield, John Snyder of Scipio and Mrs. W. Cadmus of Cayuga, each of whom showed beyond a doubt that the road when running did a good business, and that the towns along the line had amply paid for a public necessity of which they had since been fraudulently and literally robbed—facts, well known. It pleased a great many to see Mr. Diven squirm in his chair when some of the witnesses told of his broken promises and contracts never fulfilled. About 5:30 the meeting was adjourned until 10 o'clock on Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY'S SESSION.

Eight more witnesses were sworn in behalf of the new road Wednesday morning, all testifying that the road was a public necessity and that from 80 to 99 per cent of the people within four miles of the line would be directly benefited by it. Chairman Cole, to hurry the matter along, asked the opposition to admit that ten more witnesses could be brought by the applicants. Mr. Diven finally admitted that point, and then Mr. Rich said the application would rest except the proof of the financial ability of the company, which would be given in executive session. The attendance at this session was not as large as Tuesday but the interest had abated not a bit. Two witnesses only were sworn by the opposition, Mr. Titus and Mr. Diven. The former told of his experience on the old road, how it paid because nothing was spent for repairs, how the Lehigh branches on either side were fully capable of carrying all the trade and more beside, etc., etc. Mr. Diven followed. He is the man who bought the old road for the Lehigh to give them an entrance into Auburn. The price paid was $147,000 and some $22,500 was realized from a sale of the iron, rolling stock, etc., so the price paid for a 2-mile right of way into Auburn was about $123,000! Expensive purchase, when rights of way are to be had almost for the asking. Mr. Rich mixed the old man up considerably, and on the whole, the argument of the opposition was weak and immaterial from any point of view. The commission appointed a day for the executive session at Albany, and both sides will exchange briefs and submit replies during the next 20 days. On account of an error in the publication of the certificate of incorporation, it will be republished, together with the required affidavit. Question: If the business along this valley is of little consequence and insufficient to support a railroad, why should the Lehigh spend any money opposing it?

For a bargain in second hand bicycles call at TRIBUNE office.

In 1894 there were only 331,848,596 bushels of wheat retained for home consumption; in 1899 the quantity retained was 452,530,285 bushels. In 1894 there were thousands of people too poor even to buy bread. In 1899 everybody could buy bread. These two comparisons represent the different conditions of the country under Democratic and Republican administrations.

THE NATIVES of New Guinea have just eaten a chief and divided his widows among them. A very practical solution of the question of polygamy, which was a seriously discussed problem at the ecumenical conference just closed.

SOME OF THE STRIKES which are now agitating the country bear all too plainly the stamp of the professional agitators. Such strikes mean nice clothes for the walking delegate, but leaner fare for the man with the dinner pail.

THE PER CAPITA circulation of the country was $26.58 on May 1st. It was only $21.10 when Bryan was nominated in 1896. The failure of free silver has certainly not checked the circulation.

Work of the Grand Jury.

Among the indictments of the last grand jury are one for James S. Marsh, manslaughter in the second degree; Pearl Mosher of Locke, assault in the first degree; the Labar girls; burglary in the third degree and larceny; John Emory and Floyd Wager, burglary and larceny. When arraigned, the Labar girls plead guilty and the oldest was sent to Auburn prison for 2 years and 4 months, and the other to the Albion house of refuge. All the others mentioned plead not guilty and will be given trial at the next term of court. Frank Curtis of Moravia was assigned to look after their interests.

He Knew.

"A rag man, who was gathering up worn out clothing in the country, purchased a pair of discarded pants, at a farmhouse and remarked to the man of the house as he paid for the stuff he had bought: 'I see, sir, that you are about to lose your land on a mortgage.' 'I guess you are right,' said the discouraged-looking farmer, 'but will you tell me how in sam hill you found that out?' 'Easy enough,' said the cheerful rag man, as he settled back on the seat of his peddling wagon, and clucked to his horse, 'I notice that these old pants are completely played out so far as the part of 'em you sat down on is concerned, but they show mighty little wear anywhere else.'"

Band Concerts at the Park.

The Ithaca Street Railway Co. has engaged the Ithaca Band to furnish music at Renwick Park for the coming season on the same terms as last year. The arrangement is that the band give three concerts a week on Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday evenings. The first concert was given on Saturday, May 19.

Among the successful smaller colleges of the country is the Western Maryland, located at Westminster. For years the president of it was the Rev. Dr. J. T. Ward. One night some of the mischief makers stole the molasses cans from the kitchen and poured streams of the treacle down the whole of the banisters that led from the sky parlor to the basement. Dr. Ward got up very early the next morning and as he went down the steps he gathered a handful of the molasses. The faculty sat in solemn session, but not an inkling could they find as to the identity of the miscreants. Suddenly the humor of the thing broke upon the doctor, and he said: "Gentlemen, I may as well confess. I had a hand in it."—The Saturday Evening Post.

—C. E. Parkinson of Washington, D. C., was in town Wednesday on business connected with the pension department. Mr. Parkinson is a veteran of the late war and the son of a veteran as well, and tells of his war experiences in a most interesting manner.

—James Lane took a terrible fall on Monday, which bids fair to result seriously. While driving along the road at Locke, standing forward in the wagon, he turned around to look at some new fence and the team suddenly stopped, throwing him head first down behind the horses. He was carried to the office of Dr. Wakeman and then to the home of his sister, Mrs. F. Hopkins. Dr. Skinner was called to take charge of the case, with Dr. Wakeman. In striking on his head it is thought that Mr. Lane dislocated his neck, as his body is partially paralyzed.

—C. G. Cutter, the civil engineer, and J. H. Murdock of Venice Center were in town Monday, Mr. Cutter having traveled the route of the proposed railroad.

—The cold weather has only stunted, not killed, the tent caterpillars. They should be fought with torch and sprayer without a day's delay, if the fruit and shade trees are to be saved.

—Cards announce a corn planters' dance at the East Venice hall on Friday evening, June 8. Blakeley's orchestra will furnish music, and not Jacobs' orchestra as was stated a week or two since.

hopes in the coming appeal of the bond suit, that the town will be successful.

—David Tuthill died at his home at Lansingville on Monday last, aged about 75 years. Funeral services were held Wednesday; interment at King Ferry.

—The Auburn sealer of weights and measures was in town yesterday and several merchants paid him for testing their scales. We understand he has no jurisdiction outside Auburn, and in that case can collect nothing.

—Another wreck is reported on the blooming Lehigh near Ensenore which gave the passengers a harder jolt than usual Wednesday night. The south mail train, leaving Auburn at 7:13, tried to find a smooth place to run and got off the track. No fatalities occurred.

—There will be Decoration day services in Genoa. The members of G. & C. Robinson post, G. A. R., the school children, and the public generally will meet at Smith's store at 10 o'clock and proceed to the cemetery with the usual ceremony. Veterans elsewhere are cordially invited.

—Friday evening, June 1st, in Academy hall, the pupils of Genoa Graded school will give an entertainment, consisting of songs, recitations, dialogues, drills, tableaux, etc., for the benefit of the school library fund. The Huntresses' drill which is being prepared by ten young ladies will be one of the most prominent features of the entertainment. Admission 15 cents. Children free.

—Several hundred people, representing Lansing, Genoa, Venice, Scipio and Fleming, were in Auburn on Tuesday and nearly every one of them spent more or less money while there. The Auburn merchants enjoyed a heavy trade, particularly those who advertise in the newspapers and whose names are familiar to people of this vicinity. The railroad commissioners could not fail to be impressed with the interest shown in the proceedings.

—The practice of allowing boys to spend their evenings in the street is one of the most ruinous, dangerous and mischievous things possible. Nothing so speedily and surely marks their course downward. They acquire, under the cover of the night, an unhealthy state of mind, vulgar and profane language, obscene practices, criminal sentiments, and a lawless and riotous bearing. Indeed, it is in the streets after nightfall, that boys generally acquire an education, and the capacity to become rowdy, despotic, criminal men. Parents, do you believe it?

HORSES AT THE TOP.

Most Honorable Position a War Horse Can Occupy is Bearer of the Kettledrums.

There are grades of honor, even among horses. We are apt to think of the war horse as a proud animal, and so he is, and has a right to be, for he is called upon to be as brave as he is proud. But proudest and most dignified of all the horses of the army is the animal that fills the position of drum horse in the regimental band. In the British army cavalry bands are mounted, and the most honorable position in all the band is that of the bearer of the kettledrums. The horse is selected for his distinguished appearance. He is often piebald, although sometimes pure white; but whatever his color, his appearance must be consistent with the conspicuous position he has to fill, says Youth's Companion.

Something more than mere beauty of form is required of the drum horse. He must be trained until he becomes a dignified and graceful bearer of the handsome trappings that pertain to his high calling. His education is severe and prolonged, bringing him up to that point where his pride and intelligence make him equal to the duties required of him.

His nerves are severely tried by the booming of the large drums he carries, but in time he becomes as indifferent to their noise as war horses do to the singing bullets. In the parade his rider has his hands full in the use of the sticks. He controls the horse by means of reins fastened to the stirrup strap near the foot.

The fame of the drum horse is often won on the field of battle, and sometimes a war horse that has won laurels on the battlefield and can carry himself with becoming dignity in parades is promoted to the honored position of drum horse in the regimental band.

PLATE AND PROJECTILES.

Progress in Armor Making Will Continue Till Civilization Puts an End to War.

Further improvements were introduced at Krupp's Essen works, both as regards the composition of the steel used in the plates, a material being obtained of tough nature, yet having great tensile strength with high elastic limit and also a further improvement was effected by carburizing the surface by means of gas cementation instead of charcoal (Harvey method), says Nature.

Briefly it may be said that the latest type of hard-faced plates possess about twice the resistance of the older types of plates. This enables a great saving to be effected in the weight of armor to be used for the protection of the modern warship.

The firm has, however, recently produced capped projectiles, which, with a slightly higher velocity than the average usually employed, readily perforate hard-faced plates, so that before long we may expect the latest type of plates to be found quite vulnerable. Thus the battle proceeds, first the plate wins, then the projectile, until perhaps some day all civilized nations may find it more profitable to revert to a simpler and more effective method of settling difficulties than by trying to kill each other.

STORY HAS A GOOD MORAL.

Chapter of Accidents Arising from Neglect to Subscribe for a Paper.

Here is the latest story on the man who is too stingy to take his home paper, says the Kansas City Journal. A man who was too economical to take this paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a four-dollar stand of bees, and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance, and failing to notice a barbed-wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a four-dollar pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upset a four-gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the whole flock. In the hurry she dropped a seven-dollar set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled milk into the parlor, ruining a brand-new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man; the dog broke up 11 setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four fine shirts.

Electric Lighting.

Over $600,000,000 has been invested in electric lighting in the United States in 12 years. The energy required to make electric lights for the city of New York is 200,000 horse power. Since 1888, when the electric railway was born, more than $1,700,000,000 has been invested in that industry, and now one may travel by electric cars from Paterson, N. J., to Portland, Me., going through but three small towns, collectively are about among men. The simple truth is that I am safer here!

"I might as well make a clean breast of it. I cannot let liquor alone when I am in a town. I was born that way!" He paused a moment, swallowed hard, then resumed: "I am comparatively happy here. I am saving my wages, for I shall never go home again. I am trying to accumulate a fund sufficient to support me in my old age, if I should live to be old, but it is hard work to save, even here, for I go to town once a year and blow a whole lot in! Life is monotonous here, but I have books and—I am safe!"

"My people sent me to college, and I read law awhile; but I had inherited this accursed appetite for liquor, and my parents being wealthy, and having a large connection and acquaintance among society people, I was constantly thrown in the midst of temptations. I strove to resist them. I made—God knows—how many resolutions—but I had no help, no sympathy from my friends. At last even my own people were ashamed of my weakness and folly. I was born strong, both physically and mentally—save for this one weak spot!" He gave a short and bitter laugh.

"I am like a strong bridge with only one flaw, and, like that, I may end in a sudden smash! Oh, if parents could only see and know what they are doing when they foster such inborn, inherited weakness.

"If mine had only trained me rightly. I am no fanatic. Alcohol has its uses like other poisons, like them it should be placed under restriction: strong enough to protect the weak and young. True civilization demands it. It will be done—but I shall not live to see it.

"In my case, and that of thousands of others, it is poison! If my parents had given me the safeguard of right principles and kept me from ever tasting the damnable stuff I might perhaps have outgrown the fatal tendency, but they always laughed at such an idea. They always had wine on the table. It seems to me now as if all the food was redolent of alcohol in some form! I think that all my associates were more or less tipsy nearly all the time. If I could have been trained rightly! Oh, if I could have had help before it was too late!"

"He hid his face in his hands and remained silent a long time. At last he got up, kicked the brands of the fire a little, then asked if he had plenty of bedding, adding, 'better bring it in the tent.'

"We thanked him, preferring to sleep in the open air.

"As my guest rose, I said: 'There are thousands of such mothers and sons!' 'Yes, indeed!' he answered.—Margaret S. Sibley, in Union Signal.

RESULTS ARE INEVITABLE.

Indulgence in Alcoholic Drinks Brings in Its Train a Multitude of Woes.

As shadow follows substance so surely does harm follow the use of strong drink, says Dr. T. D. Crothers emphatically. "The central point I wish to emphasize is that moral insanity follows all use of alcohol, and is present in all inebriates to a greater or less degree."

As surely as a hot iron will burn the flesh, so surely will alcoholics injure both body and mind of those who drink it. The boast of the young man: "Drink does not hurt me," is false—absolutely false. He does not know himself. He is reckoning without his host. So able a man as Dr. Harlow superintendent of the Maine insane hospital, wrote me a remarkable letter. He states: "It is quite a frequent occurrence to have patients brought to us, between the ages of 50 and 70 who in early life were given to the use of alcoholic drinks, but had reformed and lived temperate lives ten, twenty or thirty years prior to the appearance of their malady, showing conclusively, to my mind, that the alcohol taken thus early left a damaged brain doubly susceptible to mental derangement."

I have in mind a man who inherited an excellent constitution, but who in early manhood took to the cup. Later he radically reformed and there never was a more abstemious man for the next 30 years, yet as age came on, he began to turn in mind back to what he had been in the days of his indulgence. He reacquired the same looks on his face, the same motions and actions of body, the same wanderings and hallucinations of mind as when he used to drink. His daughter said it was pitiable to see him, it was such a painful reminder of his former condition she so much witnessed when she was a little girl.

But worse than all this is the damage done through the drinker upon his offspring. They suffer to a degree beyond his own. Think of a whole large family, so-called sons and daughters, every one made a fool or near it by parental drinking. Go up and down the town and observe the idiots, the under-wits, the stunted heads and bodies, the nervous and hysterical and otherwise injured bodies and minds and ask what has done it? And in almost all cases liquor through their parents is the proper answer. A school teacher investigated the case of one of his scholars that had the appearance of being drunk. The fact was developed that not the pupil, but his father did the drinking. I personally knew a man past middle life who from a young man had the unsteady step, the broken and hesitating speech and other nervous irregularities characteristic of the appearance of old toppers. I charged him with drinking. He denied. I then spoke to some of his friends and was told to my surprise that he never drank, but that these drunken symptoms were begotten in him by his drunken parentage, running back several generations.

No, it is not safe to drink, either directly or indirectly; the mischief done will leak out. Consequences must follow, though they may not be expressed till in the third or fourth generation. Can one take fire into his bosom and not be burned? No more can one indulge in strong drink and escape. There is somewhere or at some time an inevitable retribution. Drink and be damned. Such is the close logic, or let alone and be safe, you and your posterity.—Dr. E. Cheney, in National Advocate.

The Drug Habit.

A study of the use of drugs in Philadelphia made by one of the daily papers revealed the fact that only four per cent. of the cocaine sold in the market was used in known and legitimate ways. Of opium, no definite trace could be found of a large amount which was called for beyond the natural demands of hospital and medical practice. All the druggists interviewed asserted that the demand for opium was increasing, also that for cocaine. Customers came regularly to the stores and purchased morphia for periods of two or three years, then dropped out. How far this irregular use of opium and cocaine was called for by physicians either in prescriptions for others or for themselves, could not be determined. One physician claimed that no more than one per cent. of the profession used morphia or other drugs, either openly or secretly. Another medical man, equally confident, claimed that ten per cent. was a small number of the actual known cases of this addiction, and that the secret taking of drugs by doctors far exceeded this amount.—Journal of Inebriety.

THE WEAK SPOT.

A Sheep Herder in the West Tells Why He Has to Isolate Himself from the World.

"The sun was shining hot," said my guest of a night. "We were crossing Montana, on our way to Oregon, two years ago, and we were only too glad to see, as we crossed the 'divide,' the white gleam of a sheep herder's tent away off in the distance; but it was farther off than it seemed to be, and I began to think that we would never get there. We did, however. We found the tent beside a large corral, but both were untenanted.

"We unhooked our team, gave them water from a hole nearby, and securing them with pieket ropes, left them to graze, while we threw ourselves on the soft cushion of buffalo grass in the shade of the tent, for we were very tired.

"It was very hot, with no breeze stirring, and the shade was only a degree better than the sunshine, but toward sunset it became a trifle cooler, when we rose and proceeded to replenish the camp fire, so that we might boil our coffee and fry our bacon. We had not finished when the herder arrived with his sheep, which he drove into the corral.

"As he came towards us, and saluted us with a curt nod, we saw a tall, well-formed man of perhaps 30 or 35. He carried himself well, as if he had been used to city streets and parlors. But the wonder was not so much to see a distinguished-looking person as a sheep herder (for the occupation need degrade no one), as that he was so dirty and unkempt. I never saw herder nor cow boy look so badly.

"His clothing was not only soiled, but ragged. He looked neglected, as well as discouraged, and yet, under the tan and dirt there were regular features and a look of keen intelligence, although greatly marred by the unmistakable signs of dissipation.

"What, however, most attracted me was his great command of language with unusual felicity of expression, as well as the extent of his information. He had evidently been well educated, and had read much, and he had also digested his reading. Here was a fine nature in ruins; a good citizen lost to his country, and the race through some one's fault!

"After supper, as we sat around the camp fire, enjoying the cool evening breeze, while the quiet stars shone in the clear sky above us, he became more communicative, and after some reference to the various mishaps and motives which sent men out on the range, he said:

"I suppose you may think it strange that I should be here all alone for weeks in a sheep camp, when I should be out in the world taking my place

WOULD IT BE TOO LATE?

Goin' to separate to-day—after twenty years,
Twenty years o' married life—mingled smiles an' tears,
Ies' drawed a deed for th' house an' farm—she's a goin' to stay,
An' as for me, I'm goin' to quit—quit an' go away,
We can't hitch up no longer; I'm a hangin' in back,
A draggin' on the wagon wheel or else she flies the track,
An' when a team don't pull right, the's nothin' else to do,
But put shafts in th' wagon, with one horse 'stead o' two.

The's a vision sort o' comes to me—comes through the mist an' blur,
A vision o' twenty years ago—I wonder if 't comes to her,
When the preacher joined our hands in his an' said: "My children, give yer hearts an' lives t' each other as long as ye both shall live."
I wonder if she remembers—I'd sort o' like to know,
I'd like to go and ask her, but now it's too late to go.

Too late to come together—we've got to face our fate,
I wonder if anything's sadder'n them two words, "too late."
Twenty years—I was thirty then; I'm over fifty now,
Seems sort o' childish business to break up in a row,
For a man as old as I am, an' a woman old as she,
Sort o' old for people to find they can't agree,
I wonder if I was hasty? Mebbe I was, I b'lieve
With an even on th' wagon I wouldn't a had to leave,
An even o' Patience th' balance would sort o' make,
When we got to goin' sideways, an' let us give an' take.

I wonder if I was to go to her—go to her an' say:
"We've been pullin' uneven—let's try another way,
We'll lengthen th' temper strap a hole and shorten up th' tongue,
An' move th' load forrad a little so th' weight'll be better hung,
Mebbe we've not been hitched up right—could pull th' load along
If we'd look th' harness over an' find out what was wrong."
I wonder if I was to go to her an' put th' case an' state
What I b'lieve to be th' matter—if it would be too late?

NEW CALENDAR PROPOSED.

Russian Astronomers Are Anxious to Have the World Adopt a New System.

The chronological disagreement between Russia and all the great nations of Europe owing to the retention of the Julian calendar has become an increasing nuisance in proportion as Russia's relations, especially commercially, with western Europe have continued to increase.

Hitherto the Russian calendar has been 12 days behind. This week it drops another day behind, and accordingly Prof. Glazenap and a committee of the Russian Astronomical society have elaborated an entirely new calendar, which, it is hoped, will be universally adopted. This calendar provides a common year of exactly 365 days and leap year of 366 days. This system is so near the real solar year that no more than one day's difference can occur in 100,000 years.

If the Protestant states in the west do not adopt this system Russia, instead of 13 days behind, will be one day in advance now and two days in advance for 1920. The committee proposes also the rechristening of March to "Peace," in honor of The Hague conference.

IN UNUSUAL DEMAND.

Many Passports Issued to Foreign-Born Americans Who Are Going Abroad.

An unusually large number of passports are being issued by the state department at the request of congressmen, who are acting for their constituents. They are for persons who are naturalized citizens, many of whom are afraid to go back without passports. Native-born Americans as a rule do not get passports when they go abroad. Representative McCreery, of Minnesota, has secured 40 passports for his constituents during the last five weeks, and in speaking of this said:

"The district is purely agricultural, but the people are well-to-do, and hundreds of them will go abroad this year. Two-thirds of those getting passports originally came from across the water, and are going back to visit the old homes and relatives. They have prospered in this country and are able to spare the money for a trip. "They own splendid homes and sections of land, are beyond want, and find times prosperous enough to spare money for a trip abroad. Many of them are taking their families."

No Time to Get Acquainted.

A man employed on the street cars in New York walked into a station house and inquired if a lost child had been brought there. He was shown into a back room, where three waifs had been collected from the streets. After inspecting them in a perplexed way, he asked one: "Are you Johnny?" The child was too sleepy to answer. "I must send for my wife," said the puzzled applicant. The woman came and picked out another child as her own. "You must excuse me," said the man to the police officials. "I work on the surface road, and never see the children except when in bed."

Double Guard, Double Beer.

A war correspondent writes from South Africa to the London Daily Mail: "A certain gallant corps at Chieveley camp provided the guard that should protect our precious beer till Christmas day. In the morning two dozen bottles were missing. 'Disgraceful!' said the authorities; 'double the guard.' And they doubled it. Next day four dozen were missing."

Beware of a Cough.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal diseases, have for their first indication a persistent cough, and if properly treated as soon as this cough appears are easily cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its success in curing the diseases which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale by J. S. Banker.

Here is a joke on the Lehigh Valley people. It seems that Miss Gould, a Willard hospital attendant, went down the Erie railway after a patient and saw but one way to reach Willard without remaining on the road over Sunday. So she wired Dr. Estey of the hospital to ask the Lehigh if they would stop the Black Diamond at Willard for Miss Gould. The doctor did so, and the Lehigh, believing that they had Miss Helen Gould for a passenger, stopped their flyer as requested and treated her with distinguished consideration. Of course, Miss Gould of Willard is quite as much entitled to such a courtesy as Miss Gould of New York, but she probably would not have received it had not the Lehigh officials labored under a misapprehension.—Watkins Express.
