The Happenings of the Week in Our Sister Villages.—News Correspondence.

Venice Center--West Hill.

Nov. 7.—Election day dawned bright and clear and closed with many smiling faces and rejoicing, and had the defeated party known what was for their good, they would have rejoiced too. But there were no gun powder explosions, so we knew in advance who were the victors.

Nov. 9.—People with dry wells and cisterns were praying for rain, but they little expected snow; however snow will melt in time.

The parties who were ready and able to rebuild our railroad in case of McKinley's election will now have an opportunity to go to work. We will see.

Mrs. Alida Todd of Lansing and late of Europe, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Culver Blue, visited her aunt, Mrs. H. N. Wood, on Wednesday.

Instead of the warm autumn and mild winter weather, as was predicted, we see men shoveling great snowdrifts and find ice 1½ inches thick. Guess again, Mr. Weather Prophet.

We wonder if all who voted for Mr. Bryan understood what "16 to 1" meant. Some Republicans did not, but one jolly son of Erin "knew." Well, what is it? "Faith and it makes if Bryan is elected we will have 16 dollars where we have only one now. So I'll vote for Mr. Bri-ann."

Miss Alling's address before the teachers' meeting was most admirable. We congratulate the scholars as well as people of Genoa in having so good and practical a teacher as Miss Alling. Such an one's influence must be lasting.

The next great event will be the Thanksgiving day. If ever there were occasion for a national rejoicing it is this year. "When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice, but when the wicked bear rule, the people mourn."

The late campaign has been a respectable one, quite free from vituperation and personal abuse as compared with some former campaigns.

The apple crop was quite bountiful judging from the number of great loads of new apple barrels passing. The new industry of canning apples must be profitable too.

So the "Fish" that eluded so many nets in this state is caught in Michigan. Congratulations tendered.

The large flock of wild geese that flew to the northward a few days ago did not find Indian Summer days, paddling in the snow and sporting in the chilly waters of Lake Ontario. They must have made a mistake.

Mr. Bryan did not seem to be surprised at his defeat and proposes to "take it easy." But when a man whips himself it is the worst kind of a castigation, and will not soon be forgotten.

It is better to be alone than in bad or disagreeable company, or where one is not wanted.

Amos Haley is reported quite seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Wood.

Venice Center.

Nov. 13.—Clayton Merrill of Savannah visited the family of W. E. Que-ron recently.

Thomas Cannon has returned from Auburn where he has been spending the summer. His sister, Mrs. Christina Lester, of Genoa is looking after his household affairs for a few days.

John Hutchings of Genoa was in town Monday. It is expected that Mr. Cannon

Ledyard.

Nov. 12.—Rev. Thomas Small of Venice Center gave us a very good sermon on Sunday, from the text, "The Master is come and calleth for thee."

Mrs. Jane Gale has returned to Locke where she will remain some time with her daughter.

Eugene Gale will spend the winter at E. B. Cobb's.

Miss Lettie Wardwell of Levanna is spending the week with Mrs. Purdy.

Now that election is over, news is scarce. The Democrats have taken in their candidates' pictures and accepted the inevitable with good grace.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Purdy showed their hospitality on last Wednesday afternoon by opening their pleasant home to the ladies of the W. C. T. U. and many other friends for a sewing society and also a parlor meeting in the evening. Although the weather proved very unpropitious, about fifty responded to the invitation. Supper was served at 7, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The collection amounted to $5.24. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the host and hostess, also to the choir for their appropriate selections, and all voted the first parlor meeting of the year a success.

Sherwood.

Nov. 12.—Calvin Judge drove to Cortland last week where he spent Sunday with his brother-in-law, Harris Owen. He brought back a new horse.

Tuesday, Nov. 6, an event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coomber of more importance to them than the election of McKinley—a daughter was born to them.

Emily Howland, Victoria Bradley and Caroline Putnam attended the State P. E. convention at Glens Falls last week.

Will Burns and wife went to Rochester last week, where they expect to reside.

Rev. and Mrs. F. M. Windnagle, the new M. E. pastor and wife, of Fleming and Scipioville were calling on families belonging to his parish last week.

W. G. Ward was home from Auburn Sunday, Nov. 4.

Mrs. Martha Spencer, a former resident of this place, is a guest at Emily Howland's.

Jesse M. Otis and wife went to Hector last week to attend the funeral of her grandfather, Chas. Wood.

Mrs. Sarah Hewitt and children of Salem, O., who have been visiting her aunt, Martha Otis, returned home today.

Martha K. Otis expects to leave for North Carolina next week, accompanied by Persis Halleck of Poplar Ridge. Their visit will be solely a religious one.

The liberty pole received its second resetting the Saturday before election.

A stranger coming into the place might suppose it to be a Quaker town. A number of the buildings have recently received a coat of gray paint.

Beltown.

Nov. 13.—Leroy Mann was in Ithaca one day last week.

Mrs. S. L. Davis and daughter were in Auburn last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Burtal and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holden of Ithaca spent Sunday at E. H. Shangle's.

J. Parkhurst was in Syracuse on Monday.

Frank H. Tuttle made a business trip to Ithaca on Tuesday.

Walter D. Young and family of Groton spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Young.

The King's Daughter's will serve a Thanksgiving dinner at the M. E. church on Thanksgiving day. Turkey, oysters and all the delicacies of the season will be served. A cordial

Poplar Ridge.

Nov. 12.—A foretaste of winter presented itself last week. It was not a very pleasant reminder to some who have corn not husked and much fall work to do.

Miss Mary Landon returned last week from a two weeks' visit in Geneva and Sodus.

Joseph Chase and wife will soon move in with her brother, Chas. Longstreet.

Mrs. Susie Haines visited at George Husted's on Wednesday last.

The South Sewing society met at Fred Peckham's on Friday last. About seventy-five were present although it was such an unpleasant day and evening. The next one will be in two weeks at Isaac Hazard's.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holland spent Sunday last at Allen Landon's.

Arthur Peckham is home for a week's vacation before commencing his duties in Chicago.

Miss Hattie Husted spent Tuesday at Mrs. John Mitchell's.

Mrs. George Babcock who has been spending a short time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Wheeler, has returned to her home in Fleming. Her many friends are sorry to see her here and all wish her much joy in her new home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sherman are housekeeping in part of Mr. Painter's house which he has recently purchased of Mr. Evans of Auburn.

PRIVATE SALE—One 10-foot oak extension table, 6 dining room chairs, making set.

Literary Note.

The Thanksgiving number of the Saturday Evening Post is dated Nov. 10. The cover is by Harrison Fisher.

The opening article is The Leaders in American Diplomacy, by Hon. John W. Foster, formerly Secretary of State. Hon. Frank A. Vanderlip, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, contributes The Onward March of American Trade. Hon. Carter H. Harrison, Mayor of Chicago, has an article on The Defacement of the Modern City. Major Arthur Griffiths of the British Army (retired) has an anecdotal sketch of General Wolseley.

The Adventures of a Pioneer Plainsman are told by Captain John J. Healy. The fiction includes Senate Bill 578, by Brand Whitlock; For Divers Reasons, by Charles Battell Loomis; The Banner Bearer, by Mrs. Burton Harrison; The Diary of a Harvard Freshman, by Charles Macomb Flandrau; Mooswa of the Boundaries, by W. A. Fraser; 'Enry 'Iggine' 'Eart Story, by Joe Lincoln; A Supper by Proxy, by Paul Laurence Dunbar.

There is a half-page poem called The Ballad of Ozy B. Orr, by Holman F. Day. The editorial page deals with timely subjects; the department of Men and Women of the Hour contains new stories, and the "Public Occurrences" tell of the efforts to capture South American trade. Frank W. Thomas gives Confessions of a Mind Reader; Madeline S. Bridges has a poem called An Untold Love; William Mathews contributes The Matter-of-Fact Man. The other departments are Literary News and Oddities of Science.

Try a sack of fresh ground buckwheat flour at Mulvaney's mill, Genoa.

Col. Speck Weds.

Fleming W. Ackerman, "Colonel Speck," and Miss Mabel Hubbard were married at the home of the bride in Moravia Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 5:30, Rev. Thomas Bell officiating. After a trip to New York they will return to Moravia and reside on Church street.

Annual Session.

The supervisors met in the office of the county clerk at Auburn on Tuesday and finished the work as county canvassers. Next day they organized as a board for the annual session, and elected Ernest G. Taber of Cato chairman; John G. Hoßmer, clerk; Thomas McDermott, messenger; Wm. H. Thurston, janitor, and Dr. Charles Bennett of Auburn, jail physician. There are but two changes in the personnel of the board this year, Messrs. Hunter of the Third ward

WHAT CHINA MUST DO

Foreign Envoys Agree on Terms For Settlement.

ELEVEN PRINCES MUST SUFFER DEATH

Indemnity to Be Paid States, Corporations and Individuals—Taku and Other Ports to Be Razed and the Boxers Suppressed.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—"Great Britain has made a courteous protest to Russia," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, "against a few regrettable incidents in China, where Russians have brusquely opposed the hoisting of the British flag."

Dr. Morrison, writing to The Times from Peking Sunday, says:

"Pressed by the common desire for a speedy termination of present conditions, the foreign envoys have finally agreed to the following terms, to be presented in a conjoint note, which, subject to the approval of the governments, will be pressed upon China as the basis of a preliminary treaty:

"China shall erect a monument to Baron von Ketteler on the site where he was murdered and send an imperial prince to Germany to convey an apology. She shall inflict the death penalty upon 11 princes and officials already named and suspend provincial examinations for five years where the outrages occurred. In future all officials falling to prevent anti-foreign outrages within their jurisdiction shall be dismissed and punished. (This is a modification of Mr. Conger's proposal.)

"Indemnity shall be paid to the states, corporations and individuals. The tsungli-yamen shall be abolished and its functions vested in a foreign minister. Rational intercourse shall be permitted with the emperor, as in civilized countries.

"The forts at Taku and the other forts on the coast of Chi-li shall be razed and the importation of arms and war material prohibited. Permanent legation guards shall be maintained and also guards of communication between Peking and the sea.

"Imperial proclamations shall be posted for two years throughout the empire suppressing Boxers.

"The indemnity is to include compensation for Chinese who suffered through being employed by foreigners, but no compensation for native Christians. The words 'missionary' and 'Christians' do not occur in the note."

Commenting upon what it calls Mr. Conger's "excellent suggestion for the dismissal of officials permitting anti-foreign outrages," The Times remarks that "this is the only considerable addition to the terms which the ministers proposed to submit to China last month."

It says that "American sense of justice and humanity is too strong and American intelligence too keen to be deluded by the pitiful Chinese appeal against the execution of the Pao-ting-fu officials."

OUR CRIPPLED NAVY.

Urgent Need For More Officers and Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The startling statement is made in the report of Admiral Crowninshield, chief of the navigation bureau, that the present personnel of the navy would form barely one-fourth of the total establishment necessary to fight a first class European power. It barely sufficed for the Spanish-American war and no longer can be considered, the report says, as an effective nucleus about which a larger establishment could be formed in case of war.

The admiral regards this need of the navy for officers and men as most urgent.

The admiral severely criticizes the ineffective effort of congress at the last session to meet immediate needs for officers by authorizing the employment of retired officers, and he demands the immediate repeal of that act. He claims that the retired list, intended as a reward for faithful service, otherwise becomes a hardship and a punishment. The personnel act thus far has resulted in affording less officers than were on the active list before its passage, as, while authorizing an increase, it failed to provide the means therefor, so there are now 131 vacancies in the list of naval officers when vacancies can be least afforded. Therefore it is recommended that for the next ten years appointments to the Naval Academy be doubled, the president and representatives in congress appointing two instead of one wherever authorized now and in addition senators being given the same privilege of appointment as representatives. Then, to meet future needs, it is recommended that whenever congress authorizes an increase of vessels to the navy it also provide in the same act for an increase of officers and men to man the ships. The report says that England, which this year lays down 15 war vessels, voted an increase of 4,240 officers and men to the naval establishment to man the ships, while Germany, which intends doubling her fleet in the next 16 years, has provided in the same programme for increasing personnel by 89 officers and 1,687 men each year until the total increase reaches 25,551.

Larger Army Needed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Senator Proctor of the senate committee on military affairs and Adjutant General Corbin of the war department held an informal conference with the president Saturday relative to the legislation to be asked of congress in connection with the proposed increase of the regular army. "Under the existing law," said Senator Proctor at the conclusion of the conference, "the present strength of the army, 65,000 regulars and 25,000 volunteers, will be reduced on the first day of next July to 27,000 regulars. This is an absurdly small number, and congress will be asked by the president to reorganize the army upon a larger basis. It will be say nothing of the garrisons for the forts in this country. My own judgment is that congress will provide a regular army of about 55,000 or 60,000 men, with discretion to the president to raise the total to 100,000 if he finds it necessary.

American Steel a Menace.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the Swansea Harbor trust yesterday Sir John Jones Jenkins, chairman of the Swansea Metal Exchange, said that the importation of American steel bars threatened the extinction of the local steel industry and that the trust would lose the large revenue now derived from the importation of iron ore.

A WINTRY BLAST.

Much Damage Reported in Many Places—The First Snow.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The first touch of wintry weather came to town yesterday in the trail of a west wind which blew at the rate of 65 miles an hour. I made a sluiceway of lower Broadway and the narrow down town streets, lifting the hats and playing a thousand and one pranks with the unwary pedestrians who rounded corners incautiously. At the top of the skyscrapers windows rattled and papers blew around at a lively pace. No loss of life was reported in New York or Brooklyn, but stories of damage to buildings in the cities and suburbs were numerous.

Stag Sing reports a severe gale, accompanied by rain, all over Westchester county. Many rowboats and small yachts anchored in the Hudson were swamped or drifted away.

Throughout the extreme northwestern portion of Connecticut a small blizzard raged last night. The wind blew at a velocity of 50 miles an hour. Many of the streets in towns of that section are literally covered with branches of trees blown off by the high wind.

The east bound express over the Central New England railroad due in Winsted at 1:24 p. m. yesterday arrived two hours late. The delay was owing to the blowing down of telegraph poles between Andover, N. Y., and Salisbury. Some of the passengers who got off the train at Winsted said the gale was so strong that it nearly blew the train off the track at Boston Corners, N. Y., and the engineer was obliged to proceed very carefully. The roofs of two freight cars were blown off at Winsted. On the Harlem division of the Central New England railroad 150 telegraph poles were felled between Millerton, N. Y., and the Copake Iron works during the afternoon.

At Norfolk, which is the highest railroad elevation in the state of Connecticut, 11 inches of snow fell, and the few conveyances seen on the streets are sleighs.

Lightning and Hail Mixed.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—From all parts of New England come reports of extremely unseasonable weather and a storm of surprising strength in which lightning and hail were mixed and the wind almost cyclonic in its whirl and freakiness. Along the coast the high tides made a disagreeable commotion, and the harbor waters everywhere are covered with flotsam and jetsam culled by the waves from wharf property. The storm did not inflict such heavy loss to shipping and property as might have been expected from its seeming violence.

A Foot of Snow.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The terrific wind and snow storm which set in throughout northern New York Thursday night continued all day yesterday and still continues with increasing severity. A foot of snow has already fallen at Saranac Lake, Lake Placid, Paul Smith's and other points in the Adirondacks. Nine inches of snow has fallen at Lyon Mountain, only 30 miles west of here. The strong wind has piled the snow in drifts and delayed trains on all railroads.

Buildings Blown Down.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Much damage was done by the high winds through this section yesterday. In the country small buildings were blown down, trees uprooted and quantities of corn fodder strewn about the fields.

OUR INDIAN WARDS.

Government Expends Over $10,000,000 Annually in Their Behalf.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The total expenditure by the government on account of the Indian service from March 4, 1789, up to and including July 30, 1900, has been $368,358,217, according to the annual report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs William A. Jones. The expenditures for the fiscal year ended last July amounted to $10,175,107. Of this amount at least $3,330,000 was devoted to the cause of Indian education.

There were 250 Indian schools of all kinds conducted by the government and an increase of 1,412 pupils in enrollment and 1,142 in average attendance shown over the previous year. About 8,000 of the 34,000 eligible school children are unprovided for. Compulsory education of the Indian children is strongly endorsed.

The report controverts the commonly accepted theory that by constant contact with the whites the extinction of the Indian is only a matter of time. It says it can be stated with a great degree of confidence that the Indian population of the United States has been very little diminished from the days of Columbus, Coronado, Raleigh, Captain John Smith and other early explorers.

Supplies Reach the Upper Yukon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A report has been received at the war department containing the gratifying information that commissary supplies for Fort Egbert and Fort Gibbon, on the upper Yukon, Alaska, have been received at those posts. The freight consisted of 63,900 pounds, mostly vegetables.

Torturing skin eruptions, burns and sores are soothed at once and promptly healed by applying DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, the best known cure for piles. Beware of worthless counterfeits. I. S. Benker.

HANDS UP!

WHAT a pity Jack is not a hero! sighed Mary, laying down a paper containing a list of the latest recipients of the V. C. "Dad is so awfully gone on soldiers just now."
She glanced toward a dainty writing table, where the photograph of a handsome curly-headed young barrister occupied a prominent place.
Power was expressed in every one of those clear-cut features—the power to cleave a way through the world.
But Col. Warwick could think of nothing but soldiers, and his daughter, Mary, clandestinely carried on her love affairs, and concocted all sorts of impossible plans to transform her civilian lover into something like a man for the colonel. She even went to the length of inquiring at the war office if lawyers, as well as doctors and clergymen, were not attached to the headquarters staff of the army in South Africa, and, being disappointed in that, religiously set to work to inculcate some martial ardor in her lover by requesting him to take her to all the military functions in town.
Yet the unconscious Jack would not be a hero.

"Why don't you help me, Beat?"
she cried, plaintively appealing to her cousin, who, gracefully reclining on a velvet ottoman, was devouring the contents of the latest novel from Mudie's. "Your affair is all settled, and you've no troubles in the world.
Do put that wretched book away and help me think of Jack!"
"Mary, you're a nuisance!" exclaimed the calm-minded young lady, shutting her book with a slam. "And so is Jack! Why don't you think of something else for a few days? If I worried half so much about Geoffrey,
I should pine myself into a convalescent home!"

"Yes; but you don't have to. You're engaged; and, besides, your dad isn't mad on soldiers."
Miss Beatrice burst out laughing and her charming cousin assumed a dignified pout. "My dear girl," she said, patronizingly, and ignoring the pout, "uncle's only a silly old man, and he doesn't mean one-half he says!"

Mary was about to espouse his cause, and even sacrifice her Jack in his defense, when her cousin stopped her.

"But as for being a hero, why, Jack can be that as well as anyone if he likes—and he shall be, for all your unworthiness."
"A hero! How, Beat—how?"
"Never mind. You say he's coming to stay over Sunday?"
"Yes. I worried dad into asking him, and he consented—just to keep me quiet."

Beatrice gave a sympathetic sigh.
"Well, then, next Saturday will put him to the test, and unless he proves himself a hero and a man under such desperate circumstances I shall be sadly disappointed. Now, stop worrying, and go and read the war news to uncle. He's dying for it, I know."

And before Mary had time to stop her and demand an explanation she had flown from the room.
Jack Winchfield put in an appearance on the following Saturday, and, with a little coaching from the two girls, made quite a good impression at dinner, when he discussed military tactics with keen interest, if not correctness.

At half past 11, after a game of billiards, and a one-sided argument on the subject of cavalry remounts, the two men retired, and an hour later
the house was dark and silent.
"Mary, are you awake?"
"Rather!" came in a sleepy voice.
"I thought you were never coming."
"Uncle's been reading and only turned his light out a few minutes ago, but he's snoring now."

The two girls shivered simultaneously, and in sympathy. Midnight enterprises are wont to try the strongest nerves. Mary turned on the gas.
"Why, Beat," she exclaimed, "you look just like a man! Where did you get those old clothes? And, oh! your face is so dirty and smudgy!"

Beatrice laughed, in spite of her nerves.
"Shall I do?" she asked.
"Go? You're simply horrible!"
"Good-by, then. Listen for me coming back; and if you hear me running open the door and let me in."
In obedience to which command
Mary, as soon as her cousin had left the room, locked the door, threw herself upon the bed and laughed and cried intermittently until she fell asleep from sheer exhaustion.
The amateur burglar gingerly picked her way downstairs, and silently turned the key of the library door.
Feeling her way toward a comfortable couch, she threw herself upon it and waited, listening to the beating of her own heart and to the awful silence that pervaded the house. Imagination ran wild and played her awful pranks.
Fearful animals crept stealthily
through the gloom, and ominous noises came from every corner. A den human beings.

Beatrice shook herself and remembered her errand. Partly to help her cousin and partly for her own amusement she had planned to masquerade
as a burglar to arouse the unconscious Jack and to test his courage. In the light of day it was a splendid project, with countless opportunities for harmless fun. But here, in the dark and silent library, at one o'clock in the morning, it was cruelly unromantic.

Creak, creak! This time it was no fancy, for the library window was being forced open, and through the blinds came the occasional flash of a lantern. In a moment Beatrice was on the alert. Of a sudden it dawned upon her that instead of a timorous mock burglar the unfortunate Jack might have to deal with a gang of hardened criminals, and the probable result of such an encounter would be upset arrangements that Mary would in future thank her to leave her affairs alone. So the little joke had developed into a huge tragedy, and Jack must not be sacrificed. Even in the hour of danger she could not repress a smile as she thought how the papers would make such a sensation of the affair. No; Beatrice decided that it should not be. And so Jack slept on, unconscious of the opportunities for distinction that awaited him downstairs.

In the meantime, the enterprising young lady with the smudgy face and ragged clothes had seized an old dueling pistol and intrenched herself in the rear of the sofa, from which she could obtain an uninterrupted view of the proceedings within the room.
There she propped herself up, with one arm extending over the back of the sofa, pointing an unloaded pistol in a menacing manner. And there she meant to fight and die, as she had heard her uncle tell of brave men in the trenches, for it was a desperate matter now, and it was scarcely realizable that such a terrible plight could ever have originated in a harmless little joke.

A man crept stealthily into the room through the half-open window and cast the light of his lantern in all directions. Then, upon a sign that all was right, another long-legged villain followed, and the two conferred in muffled tones. Then they carefully shut the window, closed the shutters, lit the gas and pounced upon the safe
that was Beat's opportunity.

"Hands up!"
If an electric wire had been connected with the automatic figures, and a button had been pressed, the upper limbs could not have responded more promptly than did the hands of those two desperate burglars. Scared and baffled as they were, they staggered round on their heels, to discover the source of that sudden command, and encountered the frowning muzzle of a pistol. It was enough. The younger man groaned and the older one said something beneath his breath.

Five minutes passed, and not a word was spoken. Two pairs of hands still moved aloft and two pairs of cowed eyes fearfully watched the muzzle of the pistol. But it never moved. The aim was deadly!
"Urry up, gov'nor!" at last groaned
the younger man. "Ring for the servants, or what yer like, only don't let us get cold in our armpits!"

In support of which the older man again swore, but the victorious one said nothing. Only the pistol continued to frown threateningly.
Two more minutes that seemed like hours to the captured men passed by,
and the older burglar commenced to swear more loudly. The younger man also began to indignantly assert his rights to humane treatment, and matters were just becoming strained when the door opened, and a poker, followed by the white face of Jack Winchfield, appeared upon the scene.

It was the first time Jack had taken an active part in a burglary case, and he was considerably nonplussed to find two hard-featured villains straining their arms to the ceiling at sight of a common domestic poker. But he concluded it must be the usual thing among such gentry, and his face regained some of its color as he took the cord from his dressing-gown and requested one of the men to hold down his hands to be bound, which he did with a grateful glance. A curtain cord served for the other, and the two soon stood side by side, trussed like cockerels.

"Now, then, gov'nor, tell the bloke
behind the sofa to shift that pistol.
I don't like it!" exclaimed one.
"Pistol? What pistol?"
Jack looked round in the direction indicated, and staggered back as he encountered the frowning muzzle. The idea suddenly occurred to him that this was another burglar in hiding, and that he had been outflanked, as the colonel would probably have called it.
But as he moved, the pistol held steadfastly in its place, and at last he maneuvered round and discovered a slight form, dressed in ragged men's clothes, and propped up with cushions and chairs.

"Now, young 'un, put up that gun.
It's all over. Why, look here! Great Scott! It's Beatrice!" And she's fainted!"
"Faunted?"
Two trussed

venture on your part," said the colonel.
"You ought to have been a soldier, my boy. There's a career waiting for you in the army!"
"Yes," said Jack, "but—"
A vicious tug at his coat tail stopped him, and at that moment the colonel was called away.
"If you mention my disgraceful part in the affair," said Beat, "I'll expose your cowardice on the spot. Uncle could have a fit if he knew I had been masquerading in boy's clothes!"
"Beat what on earth were you doing with that pistol?"
"Och, never mind. Perhaps I was rehearsing a play, and the burglars entered at an inconvenient time. The rest of the comedy went fairly well, though, only the poker was a little undignified. But the audience appear

Review of the Campaign.
(SYRACUSE HERALD.)

The election of McKinley and Roosevelt by the largest electoral vote ever recorded for a ticket is no surprise to careful and impartial students of the drifts, undercurrents and weather indications of American politics.

It is a victory for American patriotism and common sense. It has attained such surprising proportions that it cannot fairly be regarded as a partisan triumph, but rather as a vindication of the capacity of the American masses for right thinking and wise political action at critical times. Not only sensible Republicans, but sensible Democrats as well, may congratulate themselves that the electoral majority for President McKinley is phenomenally large. To each party the size of that majority is an impressive warning. It is a warning to the Republican party that it would be the height of folly to turn to partisan uses a popular uprising against dangerous agitators and the principles they preached. It is a warning to the Democratic party that it is doomed to speedy extermination unless it rids itself, without more ado, of the leadership that has consigned it to repeated defeats and, what is worse, has degraded it in the eyes of so many of its formerly loyal members.

In its broader aspects, the re-election of President McKinley means that the people will not tolerate any attempt to revolutionize and debase our currency system; that they will not placidly acquiesce in any plan for impairing the independence of the Federal judiciary, and that they will not listen with patience to any proposition to pull down the American flag under fire. These lessons from the election are plain enough. No sane politician or party will go before the American electorate again, in this generation at least, with either of these now discarded policies. The people have recorded their disapproval of all of them with an emphasis not to be misunderstood.

Considering the election from the narrower political point of view, it signalized Democratic weakness rather than Republican strength. It is well known that many Republicans were dissatisfied with certain policies of the McKinley administration, and that they were held to their party loyalty only by the repellent alternative of Bryanism. Multitudes of Democrats went to the polls and voted for the McKinley electors, not because they were attracted by McKinley's candidacy, but because they deemed it their paramount duty to check the reactionary tendencies of their party and to drive out the Populist usurpers. Whether, under other conditions, the Democracy could have made a winning fight, it is now unnecessary to inquire. But it is the duty of Republican statesmen to remember that the Democratic party will in all probability return to its conservative moorings before 1904, and that it behooves them to improve their own plan of campaign before that day. If we were called upon to indicate the point of weakness in the Republican position, we should mention its inclination to identify itself with "commercialism in politics," an inclination which passes under the name of Hannaism. The Republican party did not win because of Hannaism, but in spite of it. For example, it must not be supposed that yesterday's verdict was an endorsement of the trusts. It was nothing of the sort. The people looked at this question in a rational, matter-of-fact way. They had no sympathy whatever with Mr. Bryan's reckless assaults upon capital. But they are opposed to oppressive monopolies, and the Republican party should do whatever it can to curb their growth and spread if they wish to take this issue out of politics.

President McKinley is, indeed, a fortunate man. With the exception of Grant, he is the first President since Jackson elected to succeed himself. The American people have voted a renewal of confidence in him, with an earnestness and cordiality for which he must feel profoundly grateful. As to Mr. Bryan he has reached the end of the road of his political into political history as the man who twice in succession led a great party to defeat, and with that distinction, such as it is, he will have to rest satisfied.

Easy Payments

It may not be generally known that for those who do not always find it convenient to pay all cash down, we have a system of easy payments. Many of our most responsible and reliable customers avail themselves of the privilege, and are thus able to supply at one time their entire needs, rather than extend their purchasing over a period of months. No mortgaging, no notes, no recording; knowledge of each transaction confined to the purchaser and our office. No extra prices are added; our one price rule holds, and no interest is charged.

We extend this privilege to our out-of-town customers who are buying housekeeping outfits, or whose purchases amount to, say, $25 or upwards. —The only freak election agreement that this vicinity afforded was carried out one day last week. W. E. Leonard, who resides north of the village on the place formerly known as the Thompson farm, agreed in the event of Bryan's election to wheel his hired man to Genoa on a wheelbarrow; and in the event of Bryan's defeat, Leonard was to ride. Thursday was for Bryan and tilt the vehicle enough to keep Leonard guessing. After plodding along nearly a mile they called it a draw and returned home, and Leonard says he got the thin side of the deal after all.

A Correction.

AUBURN, Nov. 14, 1900.

MR. EDITOR—In your issue of Nov. 9th, I noticed an article copied from the Syracuse Post-Standard, relating to the suit of the Oswego County Savings Bank against the town of Genoa which is not exactly true, and will, if not contradicted, mislead the citizens of our town in regard to the status of our bond suit.

There have been two trials in the Supreme Court—one on the main issue, in Syracuse, one on the side issue to compel the town, or rather the railroad commissioner, to pay to the bondholders the interest retained in 1887. Both suits have been decided in favor of the town and an appeal taken in both cases to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. These appeals are yet to be argued, and the article in question, stating that the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court had already decided the case in favor of the town, is incorrect. Very truly yours, F. A. DUDLEY.

LOST IN BAY OF FUNDY

Thirty-two Perish in a Terrific Gale.

CITY OF MONTICELLO A TOTAL WRECK

Nova Scotia Coast Strawn With Wreckage For Ten Miles—Four Only Survive to Tell the Story of Disaster.

YARMOUTH, N. S., Nov. 12.—The shore of this county for ten miles east and west is strewn with wreckage of the hull and cargo of the steamer City of Monticello, which foundered Saturday morning, and 25 bodies of victims of the disaster have been recovered from the sea, which is still raging with terrific fury. Many people have assembled at Rockville, near where the first body came ashore, and numerous relatives of members of the crew, who nearly all belonged to points on this coast, have arrived to identify the dead.

The bodies were arranged in a room in the public hall, and Coroner Fuller, who held an inquest, gave an opinion of accidental drowning. All the bodies are terribly battered.

The first body was found at daylight when the zinc lifeboat which was supposed by the survivors of the first boat to have been swamped was discovered on the shore. The thole pins were broken. A few yards distant were the bodies of Mr. Eldridge, a passenger; Second Engineer Poole, Mr. Frupp, a traveling salesman for McGee's Sons of St. John, N. B., and the body of a seaman. All four had life belts around them. At short intervals along the beach 11 more bodies were found, making 15 discovered up to noon yesterday. They had all evidently come ashore in the lifeboat and were killed on striking the beach, not one escaping.

The body of Captain Harding of the Monticello has been found at Picnic point encircled with a life belt and fully dressed. The features are slightly bruised. An unknown body, supposed to be that of a traveling salesman for a western boot and shoe firm, has been found at the same place with the bodies of Elsie McDonald and Second Officer Murphy, recovered Saturday. Of the members of the crew whose bodies were secured Copeland and Benham were not known to be on board until their bodies were identified. They were not on the ship's articles, having joined for the trip only.

The fury of the surf is simply appalling in this region.

The total number of people who were on board is now placed at 36.

The four survivors are Captain Smith, a passenger; Third Officer Fleming, Quartermaster Wilson and Stewardess Smith.

The place where the Monticello struck is at the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, where the waters of the bay join those of the Atlantic. There are many reefs and shoals at this spot, and the currents are many and changeable, it being one of the most dangerous places on the coast. The gale kicked up a tremendous sea, and at the time the vessel struck the waves were beating upon the rocks and sending spray hundreds of feet over the land.

UP GOES MEAT.

Chicago Packers Add One Cent Pound to Provisions.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—A flat increase of 1 cent a pound was put upon beef, pork and mutton yesterday by Chicago packers. In one year the additional cent will yield to the Chicago packers, basing the estimate upon last year's business, the following sums: Dressed beef, $15,000,000; dressed pork and pork products, $20,000,000; mutton, $4,000,000; total addition to incomes, $39,000,000.

Retailers of meats were thrown into a panic by the unexpected rise in price. Many who had carcasses in their coolers declined to buy until they could figure out what they would need at the new rate.

The packers claim they have been selling dressed meats at a loss for several years. In six months the price of meat stuffs has gone up $2.50 per 100 pounds. There has been no corresponding advance in the price of cattle, hogs and sheep.

New York's Divorce Mill.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The more the authorities investigate the Maison-Zeimer divorce mill the more they are astounded at the boldness and extent of the frauds perpetrated. It was developed yesterday that the field of operation of the conspirators has not been confined to New York city. The police have evidence that they furnished false witnesses in divorce cases before the courts in Buffalo and Syracuse. The divorce mill was rapidly becoming in extent a state institution when discovery stopped it. It will also be brought out that it was in the plan of Maison and Zeimer to make co-conspirators of those who were inveigled into their net. The district attorney's office is in possession of facts which show that from 40 to 50 divorces were secured by Maison and Zeimer on perjured testimony.

Disastrous Fire at Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Nov. 12.—The car sheds and electric plant of the Norfolk Railway and Light company in Huntersville, a suburb of Norfolk, have been totally destroyed by fire. Fifty-two cars and the electrical machinery were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $150,000, covered by insurance. The street car system is badly crippled. A fuse from a car in the barn is supposed to have started the fire. The firemen responded to the alarm and saved the local distributing depot of the Standard Oil company which adjoins the sheds.

Price of Salt Doubled.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The Chronicle says: "The National Salt company has put up the price of common salt of a fair quality to $2.50 per 100 pounds. The price before was $1.10 per 100 and is able indirectly to dominate the remaining 5 per cent of the production. The principal mines of the National Salt company, which is commonly known as the salt trust, are in Michigan."

Exports Increase.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The monthly statement of the exports of domestic products issued by the bureau of statistics shows that during October the total exports were $105,260,689; net increase, $29,398,994. For the last ten months the total was $655,918,873, an increase as compared with the corresponding period in 1899 of $82,055,000.

EXPLORERS RETURN.

Arctic Scientific Expedition Secures Important Information.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 10.—It now appears that Dr. Leopold Kann is the only member of his party of arctic scientific exploration who arrived at Dundee on the whaler Eclipse from Davis' strait. Dr. Robert Stein of the United States geological survey decided at the eleventh hour not to come to Scotland, but to await the first opportunity of being landed on the American side. Mr. Samuel Warnbath of Boston preferred to remain at Cape Sabine for a time.

In an interview Dr. Kann gave some interesting details regarding the Peary and Sverdrup expeditions.

"Lieutenant Peary's party," he said, "passed the winter at Etah, on Smith's sound, near the spot where Dr. Hayes had his winter quarters in 1860 and not far from the scene of the Greely disaster. In February and March of this year Fort Magnesia, our winter house at Bedford, on Pym island, was thrice visited by the members of his expedition. On the first occasion Dr. Hansen's party came, on the second a party under Dr. Dederick and later Lieutenant Peary himself in command of a sledging party.

"He reported that about ten months previously he had met Sverdrup in the Kane basin, north of Smith's sound. From conversations I elicited that some feeling had been engendered between Lieutenant Peary and Sverdrup, the former rather resenting what he considered the latter's intrusion into ground which, for exploring purposes, the American was inclined to regard as his own.

"Sverdrup's party had thoroughly explored the Ellesmere hinterland, mapping out a region that was hitherto a blank on the charts. Many of Sverdrup's flags were seen by us.

"In the course of our hunting expeditions in this great tract of country quantities of musk oxen were found on what seemed to be old and established feeding grounds.

"When the Peary and Sverdrup parties separated, Sverdrup's understood intention was to explore the vast area of land and water in and around Jones' sound beyond Cape Eden. I believe Sverdrup, on the Fram, is now wintering in Jones' sound, and my opinion, which is backed by that of the Dundee whalers, is that it will be impossible for the Fram to come home this year. The autumn has been very tempestuous, and the ice was such as to render navigation next to impossible.

"I am certain that Lieutenant Peary is now wintering at Fort Conger. When I left Cape York on the Eclipse June 9, the Windward was expected to touch there about the middle of July, where orders from Lieutenant Peary which I had brought were left with the Eskimos."

CONDITION OF THE TREASURY.

Report of Operations For the Last Fiscal Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The treasurer of the United States, in submitting to Secretary Gage the annual report on the operations and condition of the treasury, remarks that the growth and prosperity of the country and the general activity of business are reflected in the transactions of his office. The net ordinary revenues of the government for the fiscal year were $567,240,852, the largest in the history of the country, exceeding those of 1896, the next highest, by $47,291,288. The increase of $51,290,282 over the preceding year was contributed to from all general sources, but chiefly, of course, from customs and internal revenue. On the side of expenditures there was a net decrease of $117,358,388 in comparison with 1899, so that the deficiency of $80,111,560 for that year was converted into a surplus of $79,527,060 in 1900. The gross receipts under warrant, including those on account of the public debt, were $1,387,290,262 and the disbursements $1,195,943,472, a large increase on both sides over the previous year.

The aggregate amount of money of all kinds in circulation on Oct. 1, 1900, is estimated at $2,115,294,983, an increase of $180,810,744 in 15 months, of which $94,440,930 was due to the enlarged use of gold and gold certificates. The increase per capita was from $25.38 to $27.01. The per capita of gold at the latter date was $10.60, which is greater than that of all the currency in 1862, while the total of gold is greater than all the circulation at any time previous to July, 1879.

PARIS EXPOSITION CLOSED.

The Great Fair a Success—Exceptionally Large Attendance.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The booming of a cannon from the first story of the Eiffel tower yesterday announced that the exposition of 1900 had ceased to exist. It ended in a blaze of illumination, the final evening being celebrated by a night fete. The attendance, however, was small, visitors being kept away by a cold, drizzling rainfall.

Official statistics show that the exposition was a gigantic success from the point of view of attendance, which was double that of the exposition of 1889, when 25,121,975 passed the gates. When the gates of the exposition of 1900 closed last evening, more than 50,000,000 persons had passed through. The British and the Belgians headed the list in 1889 in point of numbers, but this year the Germans were first and the Belgians sec-more numerous than at the previous exposition. The record paying day this year brought out more than 600,000 visitors as compared with a maximum of 335,377 in 1889.

All One Way.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 9.—The official returns of Tuesday's election are nearly all at hand from the various parts of the island. They show, as was anticipated and forecasted, the election by the Republicans of the entire house of delegates and of Senator Federico Degetau as commissioner to congress.

Beaten and Robbed in His Store.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—In broad daylight, with scores of persons passing the door, Michael Minisman was knocked down and robbed in his clothing store in Brooklyn by two men, who escaped after taking $500 in cash and a gold watch and chain.

Nineteen Sailors Drowned.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Later details of the loss of the steam collier City of Vienna, which sank in the channel Thursday while bound from Swansea for Rotterdam after a collision with an unknown vessel, show that 19 of her crew were drowned.

REASON NO ONE We sell so much larger quantities than any other house in Ithaca or Tompkins Co. that we are able to buy IN LARGER BULK, and at greater discounts and at lower prices.

REASON NO TWO Ten 50 cent profits are greater than two $1.50 profits, with profits so small that our competitors can't meet our prices and live. We make good profits because of the large number of sales. Because the combined and consecrated methods of a large business make expenses a small factor. The interest on our daily cash receipts are themselves a good profit.

REASON NO THREE We can sell you better qualities, better made, because the largest and best manufacturers sell cheap because they save expense by selling in large bulk their entire stock to a few large dealers. Smaller manufacturers seek smaller dealers for larger profits and disposal of inferior goods.

REASON NO 4 Our large outlet enables us to give you greater variety. We can give you newer styles because we are constantly in the market looking for the newest.

COPPER KING DEAD.

Marcus Daly Passes Away In a New York Hotel.

MILLIONAIRE ONCE A POOR IRISH LAD

Development of the Anaconda and Other Montana Mining Property Reads Like a Romance—Former One of Greatest in the World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Marcus Daly, the copper king, whose wealth is estimated at between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000, is dead in the Hotel Netherland. He will be buried from the palace he reared at 725 Fifth avenue and which he never had occupied. It was his ambition to have the handsomest home along the highway of wealth. It will be his temporary tomb.

Marcus Daly was born in June, 1840, in County Cavan, near Ballyjamesduff, Ireland. He came to this city when only 13 and lived for two years in Brooklyn. Then he went west.

The development of the copper mining properties is one of the most interesting romances of the rapid creation of wealth in the Rockies. Somewhere back in the seventies two miners named Hickey, who came from St. Lawrence county, N. Y., began to sink a shaft on a hill overlooking the little mining camp of Butte. It was a bleak place, well up on the western slopes of the main divide. In a valley hard by ran the Silver Bow creek, and along its banks the gold seekers had washed out about all the yellow metal that could be found in the gravel and had begun to turn their attention to the outcroppings of silver ore on the faces of the hills. A few paying mines had been opened.

Edward Hickey remembered a sentence he had read in one of Horace Greeley's editorials when he and his brother were living on their New York state farm, a sentence about McClellan's army closing in around Richmond like a huge anaconda, and he gave the name of the big snake to the new hole in the ground. A fairly promising vein of silver was struck, but the Hickeys had no money to go on with the mine and wanted to sell it.

A stalwart young Irish miner named Marcus Daly had been noticed about the camp for some time. He would work in a mine for a week or two and then call for his time, saying that he had the rheumatism and wanted to lay off for a while. Then he would get a job in another mine and again quit after a short spell of work.

This young man had been sent out to Butte by J. B. Haggin of California to pick up some good mining properties, and he bought the Anaconda for his principal for $35,000.

What Haggin wanted was a silver mine. Nobody at that time suspected that there was a vast wealth of copper ore underlying Butte, but as the Anaconda shaft was sunk deeper the silver vein turned into a rich copper vein, carrying, besides its phenomenal wealth of copper, enough silver to pay all expenses of mining and smelting, so that the copper was all clean profit.

Daly was superintendent and part owner. He showed himself to be a man of great business capacity and of masterful temper. He developed the mine, bought adjacent mines on the copper vein, and, wanting a place to reduce and smelt his ores where water and wood were plentiful, he founded the town of Anaconda in a valley some 25 miles away and there established the greatest copper plant in the world.

He was not satisfied with the rates the Montana Union railroad charged him for transporting his ores, so he built a parallel road from Butte to Anaconda. The Anaconda now produces one-fourth of the entire copper output of the globe. Its annual product exceeds that of all the Lake Superior mines combined. Last year the assets of the Montana company were figured up at $37,087,092, and its net profits were $3,862,000. It has 3,000,000 tons of ore in sight in its mines, and no one of its shafts is down farther than 1,500 feet. How much deeper the vein goes into the bowels of the earth is a matter of conjecture. All this vast increase in actual wealth from the original $35,000 paid the Hickeys has come out of the ground. Butte, now a city of 45,000 people, has many mines besides the Anaconda, but none that approaches it in value.

Daly was worth many millions in his own right. His only extravagance was his passion for fine horses.

Big Powder Explosion.

READING, Pa., Nov. 13.—Three hundred kegs of powder and duallin blew up yesterday morning and wrecked 11 frame dwellings at Bear Valley colliery of the Pennsylvania railroad near Williams-town. The shock, like an earthquake, was heard for 15 miles. Persons were thrown out of their beds. The engine house and hoist pump, 50 yards from the pump, were wrecked. Engineer Albert Price was badly hurt. Persons in the undamaged buildings rushed from their homes in terror. Only a great hole remains where the magazine stood.

The population of the state of Wyoming, as officially announced by the census bureau, is 92,531 as compared with 65,705 in 1890.

James Elliott, Jr., of Walker Hill, N. H., committed suicide the day before he attained his majority because he differed with his father in political belief.

Wild Day on Change.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—With a surging throng of excited brokers rushing about the floor like mad trading in the Stock Exchange yesterday surpassed all records of activity, and prices, after a phenomenal upward jump at the opening, remained steadily firm. Up to noon nearly 1,000,000 shares had exchanged hands, and through the afternoon brokers fairly fought with one another, so intense was their desire to unload the mountainous

The Plans of Yerkes.

A Blacksmith Saved his Son's Life.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well-known village blacksmith at Grahamsville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son, 5 years old, has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucous and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no longer in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by J. S. Banker.
