NEWS ABOUT THE STATE

Paragraphs of the Week's Happenings Clipped from the Tribune's Exchanges.

William Rodley of Union Springs has his pension increased from $6 to $8.

In the city of Rochester there have already been twenty-one suicides this year.

The Crandall Machine company of Groton has a foreign order for 240 typewriters.

The village of Waterloo has voted to bond the village for $31,000 for new school houses.

B. T. Miner of Georgetown bought over six barrels of ginseng last week, valued at over $1,200.

The advertiser who neglects the newspaper will regret it when he comes to figure out results.

A receivership for the Utica Herald is a new phase in the history of that sterling Republican journal.

Frank E. Lobdell has sold to Samuel Hudson a store in Ludlowville and a lot. Consideration $1100.

Cortland will have the annual meeting of the State Dairymen's Association Dec. 13th, 14th and 15th.

An exchange wisely says, that the only way you can beat another man's game is to keep your money in your pocket.

Will Mills of Schenectady, one of the star pitchers in the state league, has been reserved by the Utica team for the season of 1900.

Ansel Guest has moved from East Varick to Locke and began carrying the mail to West Groton and East Lansing last Monday.

Enterprising Locke has a newly organized banjo and guitar club. If not already provided with a name, how would "Locke Pickers" do?

In view of the fact that young Cornelius Vanderbilt is cut off with only $7,500,000, it is hoped that the butcher and the groceryman will not press him with unnecessary harshness.

The new hall and library building at Aurora has not been formally dedicated yet owing to non-arrival of seats; it has, however, been opened for religious meetings several times.

A like chance may never come again. Now when we have the horseless carriage and all that class of improvements why does not some man come forth and introduce a windless yacht race.

"Cornelius Cut Off With $1,500,000," is a familiar headline over the accounts of the Vanderbilt will. There are many able-bodied young Americans who would just love to be cut off in that fashion.

All water consumers have been cut off entirely from the Morrisville water system, on account of the low water in the reservoir. Only a few feet remain, and it is thought advisable to save it for its purposes.

A newly married editor gets off the following: What is the difference between a honeycomb, a honeymoon and a pretty girl? A honeycomb is a small cell, a honeymoon is a big cell, and a pretty girl is a damsel.

William Smith, who was captured by Game Protector Sam Pearsall and Deputy Sheriff Waite in the act of snaring partridges last Tuesday, was fined $75 before Justice Skinner in Camden.

Andrew J. Sullivan of Auburn, 14 years old, fell or was pushed from a car in the Lehigh yard Sunday, and fell onto a side track. An engine backed over him before he could get away, and he died from the injuries received.

That article in Saturday's Ithaca News throws a new version on Tompkins county politics. If the voters are not careful next Tuesday they will send a trust candidate to the state assembly.

The largest tree in western New York is located at Freeville. It is nearly 100 feet high and 34 feet in circumference. Its owner, J. P. Knapp, expects to exhibit it at the Pan-American Exposition.

At a meeting of the East Venice Cemetery Association held recently, L. A. Taylor and W. B. Teeter were elected trustees for three years and Frank Young trustee for two years to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of A. J. Hodge.

The German Emperor has recently said to Ex-President Harrison that he had the greatest admiration for the American navy, as a result of a close study of it and the execution it did during the Spanish war. This would sound as though he had been having a confidential talk with Von Dietrichs, upon his return from Manila.

The excise question will be an issue in six towns of Madison county this fall. The towns which have petitioned to have the question submitted are: Brookfield, DeRuyter, Cazenovia, Hamilton, Lebanon and Nelson.

Wilmer Stout is making extensive repairs and alterations to his home at Lansingville which, when completed, will make it one of the most convenient and cozy homes in the town. It will be heated by a furnace.

There is said to be a great demand in foreign countries for American apples. All farm produce now finds a ready market at good prices, and the indications are good for an advance in price for all the farmer has to sell.

The $10,000 watch which Boston presented to Admiral Dewey, bears the inscription, "Gridley you may fire when ready." When the Admiral examines his timepiece he will, perforce, be reminded of that early arrival for breakfast in the harbor of Manila.

Irwin Davis has a gang of men and teams cutting off the saleable timber on the David Crocker farm, in Lansing, and has erected a portable mill to saw the logs into lumber. He will reside on the farm until the work is completed.

A Filipino newspaper published at San Isidro, Luzon, announces that "independence will be given to the islands in December when Bryan will be elected President of the United States." It would be rather difficult to induce Bryan to verify that statement.

Ocean carrying freights will advance, without the aid of a trust, now that eighty steamers have been withdrawn from the Atlantic service to transport English troops. America never had a better opportunity to create a mercantile marine sailing under the stars and stripes.

The machinery of the Arnold furniture plant, at Cazenovia, was sold at mortgage foreclosure last Saturday, and was purchased by H. C. Allen for the board of directors. It was bid in for one dollar, subject to a mortgage of $7,500. The buildings and machinery originally cost $25,000. It is expected that the works will be started up soon.

Editor Fay C. Parsons of the Cortland Democrat is an aspirant for assembly honors, he being the Democratic candidate for member of assembly in Cortland county. Go it, Brother Parsons. Here's hoping for your good luck. Give the editors a chance, and they will show the people they will make just as capable representatives as a pack of lawyers.

As announced last week the Moravia Athletic Association will hold a fair in December. It is proposed to solicit contributions from the business men of Auburn, Groton and Moravia. The principal prize will be a high grade piano, and other valuable prizes are on the list. A general committee to have charge of the enterprise has been named as follows: Col. Speck, G. H. Gregg, M. O. Jennings, G. D. Foote and P. M. Rathbun.

After the death of Mrs. A. Swift of Waterville, which occurred last week, it was found that she had fulfilled a purpose formed many years ago, to reimburse, as far as possible, the creditors of her husband, who failed in business twenty-five or more years ago. Her will provides that her property, amounting to about $4,000, shall be distributed among certain of these creditors. Her husband's life was insured and the money came to her from that source on his death.

Edward J. Sharp, the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Sharp of Oneida, has been missing from his home since the middle of September, and his parents have been very much worried about him, recently offering rewards for information as to his whereabouts. A day or two ago the chief of the Oneida police received a letter from the city marshal of Baltimore, saying that the lad was in his custody and asking what disposition to make of him. Mr. Sharp left immediately to bring his son home.

That is an excellent idea which makes the Dewey arch in its permanency commemorative of the deeds of the entire navy instead of the single epoch making exploit of Admiral Dewey; and it is highly probable that had the Admiral been consulted by the promoters of the arch plan in New York, he would have been most cordially in accord with the happy suggestion which gives to the men behind the guns a place in the gratifying and abiding American people that h

The Happenings of the Week in Our Sister Villages.—Newspaper Correspondence.

Venice Center--West Hill.

The sudden freeze of Oct. 1 destroyed the gorgeous beauty of our autumnal forests.

The autumnal drought still continues. House cleaners, as well as live stock, feel the effects of it seriously.

Mrs. S. M. Cannon has returned to Cortland via Moravia for the winter.

These fine Indian summer days are very favorable for securing the apple crop, and making preparations for winter. Wish they would continue indefinitely and drive old winter entirely away.

Quite a full house greeted Mr. Small the last Sunday. We are rejoiced that the appointment is so well filled.

We congratulate our good Baptist friends on the return of Rev. Pugsley. We like to see the right man in the right place.

Miss Lucinda Kenyon is visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Though the "Indian Fields" have been renowned for their fertility as well as beauty, we did not know that such fine melons and peanuts could be grown here as Mr. Dennis Conkling raised on the J. E. Fell farm.

We frequently hear of dogs killing sheep. It is not viciousness that compels them to do it, it is to satisfy a demand of their nature. Dogs that are well supplied with meat will not kill sheep to obtain it.

While reading about the president's tour in the Northwest, we are at a loss which most to admire, his literary ability or his physical endurance. He must have a vast amount of reserved Scotch force and vigor to endure such a trying ordeal.

If those people who are inclined to censure Mrs. McKinley for accompanying her husband would think for a moment that it is very easy riding in a palace car, and more entertaining than remaining at home alone even in the White House.

The German forecast for November weather is dark, foggy, warm and rainy. That's better than zero blizzards.

An aged farmer assures us that "winter will not set in till we have soaking rains." But it does some-times.

The Larkin soap agents are obtaining some very nice premiums.

The W. C. T. U. organizations regret the intended removal of Mrs. P. J. Adams to Rochester. Who will fill her place?

Last news of the Fell Bros. was encouraging. Fayette was in Japan and John W. in Amsterdam, Holland.

The apple crop is more abundant than was anticipated. We fear a scarcity before apples grow again, so many have gone to evaporators.

Poultry raisers, have been successful judging by the flocks we see around us.

Sherwood.

Oct. 30.—In how many villages will they celebrate Hallowe'en in the good old way? Not in Sherwood; it is too slow.

A week ago the football team from the High school at Union Springs failed to put in an appearance at Sherwood. Saturday, Oct. 28, the I. O. G. T. from here went to Levanpa to play Ingleside. It is thought the latter went in to see how many they could kill. They won, 18 to 0, after laying out several fellows. Herbert Beebe had his knee put out of joint and Claude Ward's slipped out the third time. Several others got some large "bumps and scratches." Ingleside will play at Sherwood Saturday, Nov. 11.

Henry Slocum and family left today for California, where they will make their home in future. Samuel Simkin and daughter Carrie, Mrs. Slocum's father and sister, were here from West Branch to bid them farewell.

The Political Equality club have again started their meetings after a summer vacation. The second meeting was held Thursday evening, Oct. 26. Emily Howland gave an interesting account of the Woman's Council in London, also her travels about England and Holland.

Mrs. M. A. Ward has gone to Auburn for some weeks.

Mrs. C. F. Comstock, accompanied by Mrs. Conrad Koon, visited her brother, J. A. Mack, of Genoa on Friday last.

TRIBUTE and 3-a-week World $1.05.

King Ferry.

B. F. Davis of Akron, O., was a guest of his niece, Mrs. S. E. Bacon, on Thursday last.

Miss Fannie Goodyear was home from Auburn over Sunday.

George Mead of Greenwich, Conn., visited at J. J. Shaw's last week.

Hon. Wm. L. Noyce and wife of Auburn registered at Hotel Bacon on Wednesday last.

Mrs. D. Miles visited friends in Auburn and Fleming last week.

School is progressing nicely under the management of Mr. Odell and Miss Murray.

Warren-Counsell and wife of Sage visited friends here last week.

Miss Effie Allen of Cortland is a guest of Mrs. Sarah Ryder.

Horace Doolittle has accepted a position in the bicycle works at Little Falls.

Mrs. D. W. Peckham of Buffalo is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. W. Garey.

George Brown has purchased the Hugh Shiels farm, two miles east of Leary.

Irving Brown of Athens, Pa., is visiting friends here.

Franklin Smith of Slaterville spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Smith.

George Lanterman and wife of So. Lansing visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lanterman, on Monday.

Five Corners.

Nov. 1.—Mrs. Kate Smith and son Clinton were home from Sheldrake over Sunday.

Some from this vicinity attended the birthday surprise party for Mrs. Henry Marshall on Monday at the Forks of the Creek.

Mr. Ernest Clark of Groton and Mrs. Helen Ranney of Summerhill visited their sister, Mrs. Josephine Corwin, the latter part of last week.

Thomas Miller, who is past 80 years old, killed and dressed two hogs for Major Palmer on Monday. Thomas can beat most of the boys at butchering yet.

Poplar Ridge.

Oct. 30.—The first of the series of entertainments given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. at the Friends church was given by Miss Bell Williams Tuesday night. Miss Williams is an elocutionist of rare ability, and was well deserving of the well filled house which greeted her again this year.

John Hazard is stopping with his son Charles for a short time.

M. S. Cranson and mother of Bolts Corners and Mrs. V. Mosher of Auburn were guests at Allen Landon's Tuesday.

Mrs. Race of Auburn is spending a few days with Mrs. J. Mitchell and Miss Elizabeth Hazard.

Dexter Wheeler has purchased the fine new residence of Elmer Sprague where he will move in the spring.

Rev. Minard and family have been spending some time visiting Mrs. Minard's mother.

East Genoa.

Rev. P. J. Williams who has been quite ill was able to fill his appointments last Sunday, though his congregation was small.

Mrs. Frances Bothwell, Maggie Potter and Nellie Tupper are on the sick list.

Mrs. Betsy Beardsley is visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Lew Howell, of Spencer and her two-weeks-old son.

Mrs. Sophia Ferris accompanied by Miss Mary Reynolds is visiting in Seneca county.

C. Atwood and wife expect soon to take a western trip.

Mrs. Ida Lester of Locke was at her home here most of last week.

Lottie Dean is staying at Mrs. Niles' this winter and is attending school.

Mrs. Linderman has been assisting Mrs. Strong with dressmaking.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others, Why Not You?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—ADOLPH L. CHAPTER X

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL.

It was fortunate for Roblin that at this moment Zadio came out of her swoon, for Farmer Price had flown into a towering rage on recognizing her former lover. He had learned of his escape from jail, accompanied by Joe Westbrook's pretty daughter, and had heard it darkly hinted that they had taken refuge with the Tories in the mountains, and now he jumped at the conclusion that Roblin had led the Tories hither for the purpose of carrying off his daughter. It would be an effectual way of wreaking his revenge, he argued, and at the same time procuring plunder for his comrades.

"You infernal desperado!" he bawled loudly. "So you thought to run off with Zadio, after all! Oh, never fear, we'll not kill you, for it would be a shame to rob the gallows of its prey! No, you thieving varlet! We'll put you back in prison and keep you there until the hangman calls for you. That's what we'll do."

Roblin glared at his persecutor defiantly and replied:

"Whatever I may be, old man, I am not a perjurer! I never kept a man in jail on a false charge. And, as for wishing to steal your daughter, I have risked my life to protect her."

"Yes, indeed," broke in Zadio, who had at last found voice to interpose. "This man has defended me bravely without letting me know who he was." Then, turning to Roblin, she continued in a sorrowful tone of voice: "So it was you, Edward, who so bravely defended me from the Tories. Strange that I did not guess it before!"

While she was speaking her father gazed at her in bewilderment, for her words had a cooling effect upon his rage.

"You say that this man defended you, Zadio?" he stammered out at last.

"Yes, father," she answered eagerly. "He fought the whole band for my sake."

"But he came here with the Tories. He was one of them," returned Farmer Price dubiously.

"I can explain all that," broke in a sweet voice from the direction of the staircase.

And a moment afterward Polly came tripping into the attic.

She carried a lantern in her hand, and her countenance was illumined by its light. It could be seen that her cheeks were flushed with excitement and that an expression of triumph glittered in her eyes.

"Come," she said gayly, beckoning to the group surrounding Roblin. "Follow me into the kitchen, and I will tell the story of this night's doings. The Tories have fled to the mountains and we need not fear disturbance."

"But my husband—Caleb—has he escaped unharmed?" asked Zadio in a tone of voice which suggested the suspicion that a negative answer would not have broken her heart.

"Mr. Shurker has been brutally maltreated," answered Polly, "but he will soon be himself again. I will tell you all about him when we reach the kitchen."

"Thank you," returned Zadio faintly, with just a trace of disappointment in her tone.

So they all followed Polly into the kitchen, where the remainder of the rescuing party were already gathered, resting from the fatigues of the battle and administering to the needs of Caleb Shurker. For, as Polly had said, this unfortunate man had been very roughly treated by the bandits and was much nearer dead than alive.

While passing down the stairs from the attic into the lower part of the house they stumbled over the bodies of several Tories who had been thrown into such a panic by the sudden onrush of the rescuers that they had scarcely raised a hand in defense of their lives. Evidences were nowhere wanting that the surprise had been complete. On reaching the kitchen Polly bade the others be seated, while Zadio, like a dutiful wife, went over to soothe and console her moaning husband. Farmer Price, who was familiar with the domestic arrangements of the household, brought a great jug of cider from the cellar and also a store of more substantial refreshments. These he placed on the table, saying:

"Fall to, my lads, and eat and drink your fill. Ye'll find that cider most excellent and the corn bread and bacon very strengthening."

The frontiersmen did not wait for a second invitation, but fell to with a will, and while they were disposing of the eatables Polly told the story of her ride.

"Thank you, kind friends," she began, "for the service you have rendered me this night. Perhaps you are not aware of the great obligations you have placed me under. Well, listen, and I will tell you!"

"This man," pointing proudly at Edward Roblin, "was a captive with me in the mountains. I had helped him to escape from the jail in which he was wrongfully confined, and we had fled together to get married and begin life over again in another part of the world. But unfortunately we were induced to accept the protection of Claudius Smith. He promised to see that we were married and offered us a retreat with his outlaws until the ceremony was performed. But we soon found that we were his prisoners. He kept a guard placed over us and deprived us of our liberty, and so it happened that we were in a position to become acquainted with his designs.

"This morning," she continued, "he returned after a long absence to his camp and, after resting until late in the day, called a council of his officers to lay the plans for this night's raid. Realizing that he was up to some mischief, I crept up to their place of meeting, listened to what they said, and so became acquainted with their purposes. And then I determined to outwit them. As Edward Roblin was forced to accompany the Tories on their raid I was compelled to undertake the task alone. But fortunately I had an accomplice to help me."

At this point in her narrative Polly blushed and cast a confused glance toward her lover. He reassured her with a smile, and she resumed as follows:

"It will be unnecessary to narrate how I succeeded in procuring a horse and making my escape from the Tory camp. My ride to your homes to enlist your help is known to you all, but there are some among us," she added, looking in turn toward Roblin, Zadio and Caleb Shurker, "who are ignorant of the gallant manner in which you responded to my appeals for help and of the bravery you displayed in effecting their rescue. As I am sure they will be interested in the story, I will tell it for their benefit."

She then gave a vivid account of the desperate ride of the rescuing party to reach the Shurker farmhouse in time.

"When we were nearing the end of our journey," she continued, "we saw a man riding slowly along the highway ahead of us. At first he was disposed to put spurs to his horse and escape us, but he soon realized the impossibility of doing this. So he drew rein and tremblingly awaited our approach. When we drew up to him, I asked him to join our band."

"What for?" he asked.

"To rescue Caleb Shurker from the Tories," I replied.

"What," he exclaimed in surprise, "and is Claudius Smith really after the old man's treasure? Why, I'm Caleb Shurker's father-in-law, and if what you say is true I will go along with your party most willingly. Indeed I was on my way to Shurker's when you fell in with me."

"So Mr. Price joined our party," went on Polly, "and we continued on our way. As we drew near the farmhouse we heard a loud commotion. It seemed as if a thousand devils were screaming all at once. Then we knew that the Tories were plundering the dwelling and that we had no time to spare if we wished to prevent murder. So we put our horses to their utmost speed and dashed on to the end of our journey. We arrived in the nick of time, for as we dashed in among the bandits we saw Mr. Shurker's body dangling from the limb of an apple tree. We immediately cut the poor man down and removed the cord from his neck. Fortunately, at the time we made our attack Claudius Smith and half his band of outlaws were in the house endeavoring to reach the attic, where Edward Roblin was defending Zadio. This made it an easy matter to overpower them. We put the rogues who were torturing Mr. Shurker to flight and afterward surprised the bandits in the farmhouse. I believe we killed quite a number, but unfortunately Claudius Smith and his son, Richard, made their escape. However, my friends," she concluded, making a graceful courtesy to the rough frontiersmen, "you have helped me accomplish my purpose, and I thank you once more for your gallantry."

With these words she smiled sweetly upon the company and, gliding quickly across the apartment, sat down by the side of her lover.

For a moment the profoundest silence reigned in that crowded room. Then Farmer Price, who had been deeply impressed by the heroic girl's narrative, made his way to where Roblin was sitting and grasped him warmly by the hand.

"I hope ye will forgive me, Edward," he said in tones of deep emotion, "for I have done ye a grievous wrong. But I will make amends for it, my lad, rest assured. If ye wish to marry this brave lass, my boy, I'll put ye in the way of doing it. If ye'll let bygones be bygones, Edward, ye can both come and live with me."

"But I thought I was in your debt, sir," answered Roblin, with a scornful laugh. "At least I was imprisoned on that account, was I not?"

Farmer Price hung his head in confusion.

"The good book tells us, Edward, to forgive those who despitefully use us," he said humbly. "I am sorry for the harm I have done ye, lad, and am anxious to make amends for it."

The poor man's humiliation moved Polly's heart to pity.

"Forgive him, Edward," she whispered. "Please do it for my sake."

So Roblin, who could deny her nothing, generously forgave his persecutor. Indeed the night ended most happily for all concerned excepting, the unfortunate, Bring your dried fruits to Webster's.

"I hope ye will forgive me, Edward," said Zadio, the poor girl, was miserable, for, although she had abandoned her old sweetheart, she still loved him as of old.

It is asserted by the historians of the region that the hero of this narrative never deserted the standard of Claudius Smith after he had been obliged to join it. They claim that he lived with Polly Westbrook in the mountains and became the most active of his captain's lieutenants. In fact, they would have us believe that when Claudius Smith was captured and hanged at Goshen and his band of outlaws were dispersed Roblin and Polly took refuge in Canada, where they ended their days in obscurity.

According to a well authenticated tradition, however, they performed the services narrated in this chronicle and ended their days in happiness in a land they so nobly served. It is probable that the historians of the region have confounded Roblin's career with that of Polly Westbrook's outlaw lover, Richard Smith. It is a well known fact that this outlaw was only second to his father in ferocity, and that he ended his days in Canada a fugitive from the laws of his country.

In conclusion it may be well to say a few words concerning the fate of poor Zadio Price, as they may serve as a warning to lovers to remain faithful to their plighted troth. It is said that Caleb Shurker turned out to be a fraud, after all, and that his reputed wealth was chimerical. He treated his young wife cruelly, so that she was at last obliged to leave him and return to her father's home, where the sight of her old lover's happiness with his wife, Polly Westbrook, caused her to go into a decline. She died of a broken heart.

WOMEN CANNOT VOTE at the coming election for school commissioner, as has been contended. Under the present ballot law, if this had been attempted, grave complications would have probably arisen, as with the blanket ballot there would have been no feasible way to restrict their vote to the one office of school commissioner. Given the blanket ballot, and a moment of seclusion in the booth, and the lady voter would have been able to exercise the right of franchise on the whole ticket, with absolutely no chance of her being detected. A recent letter from the attorney general, published in the Canastota Bee, conveys the information, however, that while the laws of 1892 conferred the right to vote at elections for school commissioner upon the fair sex, the act has been declared unconstitutional by the courts, and is therefore inoperative.

THE ASTONISHING statement is made that eastbound shipments from Chicago during the five weeks ending Oct. 21st amounted to 670,222 tons, against only 305,977 tons for the corresponding period last year, and only 350,718 for the corresponding weeks of the exceptionally prosperous year 1892. Prosperity has unmistakably landed with both feet.

Charlie Weeks accidentally came into possession of a rarity the other day when he trapped an opossum on the hill back of his house. He had set the trap for a coon and was astonished to find an animal of the prehensile tribe in his trap. He quickly put an end to the career of the little quadruped though he is sorry he did so, as it was only caught by the foot and might have been captured alive as it offered no resistance. An admiring crowd held a post mortem in front of Fisher's store, and seemed to be most taken up with the pouch into which the young flee when in danger and the tail which serves as a guard rail for the offspring to cling to when being carried by the mother to safety.—Spencer Needle.

The students, jubilant over the victory Saturday, repeated the mode of celebrating in which they indulged last spring, by kindling several bonfires during the evening. The result is that there are now six additional spots of about 100 sq. ft. each, on the brick pavement that are badly chipped and practically ruined. If the city allows this to continue, how long will it be before the people will be put to the expense of repaving the streets?—Ithaca News. There are disadvantages connected with the blessings of a large university, it seems.

F. P. Fell in Japan.

KOBE, Japan, Oct. 1, 1899. We are having good chilly weather in Japan, after a sight of rain. I got my exhibition machine at work yesterday in Osaka, 20 miles from here, so a few days now will finish up this part of the island and I will then go to Yokohama. If I do not exhibit there I shall soon sail for Honolulu.

Osaka is a large place and is spread out over a large area. The population is something over 800,000. Electric power is used there a great deal and I am working my machine off a 10-horse power motor. Trains go to and from Kobe to Osaka every hour. The telegraph poles along the line carry 42 wires. In one place I found as near as I could determine, 432 wires on one set of poles. Most all buildings are of one story and there are but few structures of much value. There are no horses and carriages; every one goes about by rickshaws, and noisy things they are, too.

Over 300 horses unloaded here a few days ago for a rest, while en route to Manila. Another ship with over 200 went on last week. This call for horses and the British shipping mules from New Orleans to South Africa may put up the price of horse flesh so that it will be felt by our farmers in New York. I believe a lot more are to go to Manila. F.

Obituary.

The death of Mrs. Anna Atwater, wife of Willis Atwater, occurred at her home Sunday night, Oct. 22, 1899. Mrs. Atwater's death was a great shock to the surrounding community as she was only sick for a few days. She leaves a kind husband, a loving mother and three loving children, besides many other relatives and friends to mourn her loss. "Her sun has set while it is yet day." The radiance of a perfect life has been eclipsed by the relentless touch of death. The word friend had a sacred meaning and truth was the keystone of her life. She lived not for herself alone, but for her family, her neighbors, her church, and best of all her Heavenly Father. We can only say: Farewell, kind friend, some day we will understand the fate which took thee to the mystic land. How much we miss thee words cannot tell. Amidst the dark'ning shadows of the present hour we can only say farewell.

Wanted—100,000 pounds of dried apples, at once, at Webster's.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 30.—G. E. Morrison, formerly a clergyman, has been hanged at Vernon, Tex., for wife murder. On the scaffold he said: "I am innocent. Circumstances over which I had no control have placed me in this position. I have taken my trouble in private to my God. I admit that I have acted indiscreetly. I have done no worse, however, than hundreds of men who stand high in the religious, social, business and official circles of your state. I have done nothing to confess. I am in the hands of my Maker. He knows I am innocent."

Monon, Ind., Oct. 31.—Kid Birch, a brakeman on a Monon freight train, was killed five miles south of here, by falling between two cars, both legs being crushed off. His crew did not miss him till the train reached Delphi, when they notified the fast passenger train crew to watch out for him between there and Monon. After he was hurt he crawled to the track and placed some torpedoes on the track to notify the first train where he was. The incoming train heard the report of the torpedoes and stopped and found him still alive. He was brought into the Monon Depot, where he died in a few moments, only saying to one of his fellow railroaders that he was dying. His home was at Crawfordville.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 31.—No brick laying has been done in Kansas City, either in Missouri or Kansas for several days. The refusal of the masons and bricklayers employed in the erection of the big Cudahy packing houses on the Kansas side to recognize the Hod Carriers' Union, which is composed largely of negroes, but which affiliates with the building trades council, provoked all the union hod carriers to quit work, thus compelling the bricklayers to suspend operations. That action was taken to force the bricklayers' union to affiliate with the building trades council.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Holden returned Tuesday night from a visit to New York, Brooklyn and points along the Hudson River. While in the Catskills they visited the farm of Hon. Levi P. Morton and other places of interest. They report a very pleasant trip.

—Buchanan Bros., the Moravia marble dealers, recently set a beautiful monument in the King Ferry cemetery to the memory of Frank Peckham. Also one to the memory of Dr. Mary Kenyon in the Friend's cemetery. Their work is of a high order and gives universal satisfaction.

—The question of whether a person could be compelled to accept a check, upon which ten cents would be charged for collection, in payment of a debt, has been answered by good authority to the effect that it is a matter of choice, and not compulsory.

—Miss Lois R. Bennett of Auburn, who was the only passenger injured in the Central wreck at Aurelius, has settled with the company for $1,500. Miss Bennett has many friends in this vicinity, who will be glad to know that she is slowly recovering though still confined to her home.

FOR SALE—Shropshire Buck Lamb can be registered. GEO. L. FERRIS, Five Corners.

—The place to take the true measurement of a man is not on the street nor in the amen corner, not in the forum nor in the field, but at his own fireside. There he lays aside his mask, and you may learn whether he is an imp or an angel: a humbug or a hero. We don't care what the world says of him, whether it crowns him with jewels or pelts him with eggs; we care not a copper what his reputation is. If his children dread his homecoming, and his wife swallows her heart every time she is obliged to ask him for something, he is a fraud of the first magnitude even though he prays night and morning till he is black in the face.

POTTER—ALLING.

A pretty home wedding occurred Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1899, at the home of Mrs. Emeline Alling, when her daughter, Miss Alta, was united in marriage to Mr. William W. Potter. Promptly at 12 o'clock, the bridal party entered the parlor, which was tastefully decorated with potted plants and ferns, and took their places under a bower of ferns and flowers. The short but impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Pugsley of this village. The bride was gowned in white India mull of beautiful texture trimmed with lace and bridal roses. Shortly after the wedding breakfast, amid a shower of rice, Mr. and Mrs. Potter left for Auburn which is to be their future home.

Among many pretty gifts was a beautiful etching from Mrs. Potter's many friends in the Presbyterian church in recognition of her long and faithful services. The young people are both well known in this vicinity where they have a large circle of friends and where for years they have rendered invaluable assistance in both church and social life. While their many friends wish them joy in their new life, they regret their departure from their old home.

WOOD—ADAMS.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized this morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Adams, at No. 16 Sheridan st., when their daughter, Clara Mae, became the wife of Fred A. Wood, son of Sheriff and Mrs. George S. Wood, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. M. Hilton, after which the guests were seated at a bountiful wedding breakfast.

The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and cut flowers. The bride looked charming in a gown of Persian lawn and carried bouquet of bride's roses and maiden hair ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Wood left on the 8:38 Lehigh train, amid a shower of rice and good wishes, for an extended trip through the East and upon their return will be at home to their friends after Dec. 1, at Scipio, where Mr. Wood is engaged in business. The young couple were recipients of many beautiful remembrances from their admiring friends.—Auburn Bulletin.

A Word About Rising Prices!

It is only a matter of a short time when the consumer will find that the increased cost of goods has been shouldered on the last man—himself. Every article of merchandise is yielding to the general influence. Merchants can no longer order goods on the basis of previous quotations, and an ## Advance in Retail Prices is Unavoidable.

Therefore, it behooves the buyers with foresight to make their dollars count for all they are worth NOW.

The Bee Hive stands ready to give extraordinary and unequalled assistance in the wise outlay of hard earned dollars. Careful and early buying have secured to us exceptional advantages. Old prices, such prices as only the Bee Hive makes, are still retained even when the goods cost more than that upon which the price was based. Many, many articles are being sold below present wholesale prices. The moral is plain,

A Review of What Has Transpired of Public Interest.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 29.—Eltzie E. Helberson, charged with the murder of Richard Pennington at Huntingburg last August, has died in the jail at Jasper. Before he expired he told the Jailer that Pennington was killed by a well-known resident. Pennington was shot down without provocation. Helberson came near being mobbed at the time.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 28.—Rev. W. F. Eastman, a Presbyterian divine, who has a wife and family just outside of Chicago, and President of the United States Child Saving Association organized here some time ago, has been arrested on a warrant charging him with betraying Ella Paschall, aged 14, while an inmate of his home. The warrant against Eastman was secured by Rev. J. D. Morrison, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church.

City of Mexico, Oct. 28.—The new minister from Salvador, Don Rafael Davar, has been officially received by President Diaz in the hall of ambassadors at the national palace. Don Rafael, in speaking of the condition of Salvador, said: "Of course, the fall in the price of coffee has hit the country rather hard, but I believe this year's crop is going to be very abundant, which will compensate largely for the lowness of the price."

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 28.—The first serious fight of the coal miners' strike which was declared seven weeks ago, has occurred here. Two union miners were shot, one probably fatally, in a clash between union and non-union men. The latter were supported by twelve policemen and six deputy sheriffs. The fight occurred at a mine entrance when four non-union miners attempted to go to work. Fred Dugowshi, a striker, was wounded probably fatally. Charles Maurits, an other striker, received a bullet in the arm. Several arrests were made.

Columbus, O., Oct. 30.—The death of Right Rev. Mgr. Joseph Jessing is hourly expected. Mgr. Jessing is the head of the Josephinum, the Catholic university in this city.

Detroit, Oct. 30.—The suburban theatre car running between Detroit and Mount Clemens was run into by a Michigan Central freight train at the Beaufort avenue crossing. Conductor Anthony Schneider was killed and twenty passengers were more or less seriously injured.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—A carload of express packages of the Wells-Fargo Express Company has been burned near Holton, Ill., on the Santa Fe road. The property contained in the car was billed to San Francisco, Sacramento and other points in northern California. The express company's estimate of the loss is from $15,000 to $20,000.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—In order to prevent the spread of infectious diseases among children, the school board has decided to appoint fifty medical inspectors. The inspectors will examine all pupils who have been absent from school four or more days. The plan will be tried for two months as an experiment.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The British commissioner for Samoa, Mr. Eliot, is in receipt of a letter from the British consul at Apia which dispels recent reports of native agitations. The consul says that quiet reigns at Apia and throughout the interior, although, he adds, that it is difficult to say how long it will continue in the present unsettled state of affairs.

Boston, Oct. 30.—The demand for wool in the local market is almost unprecedented and the sales that are being made show an enormous aggregate. This week one sale of 1,250,000 pounds was made to the American Woollen Company and one of 800,000 pounds to another large concern. One dealer estimates that the total sales for the week are to amount to 15,000,000 pounds.

Nyack, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Dense fog greatly interferes with navigation along the lower Hudson. The steamboat Chrystenah, running between Peekskill and New York and intermediate landings, is unable to make her trips, and neither the Chrystenah nor the ferryboat Rockland, which plies between Nyack and Tarrytown, is able to run. The same condition prevails at other points along the river.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 30.—Mrs. John Chaplain, an applicant for divorce, did not appear at trial Friday when the case was called. She came later in the day, explaining inability to appear earlier owing to a coup executed by her husband, who locked up every stitch of clothes she had. She had to get word to her sister and get clothes from her. In her absence he tried to get the suit dismissed by default.

Titon, Ind., Oct. 30.—A communication from a firm at Heber, Arkansas, says: George, Aaron and Lavina Hudson, thought to be living in this county, are heirs to $150,000 of the estate of Solomon Hudson, who recently died in England. George and Lavina Hudson were residents of this county until the death of the latter, and the removal of the former a few months ago.

The woman's children reside here, however. The money is said to be ready for them.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 30.—William alias "Buck" Spear, the convict who with William Holden, escaped from the State prison here and was recently captured at Susquehanna, Pa., has been sentenced to two years at hard labor in addition to the two years which he has yet to serve on his old sentence. It is not believed that Spear will serve out his sentence, as he is a physical wreck from exposure during his flight. Holden is still at large. Both were imprisoned for ten years for burglary.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 30.—George G. Gillie, aged 20, was probably fatally shot at a charivari four miles north of this city. A shotgun in the hands of a companion was discharged accidentally.

Bowling Green, Ky., Oct. 30.—Thomas F. Settle, ex-City Tax Collector and brother of Circuit Judge Warner E. Settle, was thrown from a buggy here and instantly killed. Settle's head struck a tree.

Portsmouth, O., Oct. 30.—Jack R. Doyle failed to catch a seven-eighths-inch bar of red hot steel as it came from the roll at the Burgess mill here. The steel shot clear through his thigh, protruding two feet. Three men with tongs pulled it out.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 30.—The Federal Court here has sentenced Rosetta Horton, alias Jackson, to hard labor in the penitentiary for one year. She claimed to have been the wife of a soldier who died in the service and managed to defraud the Government out of over $3,000. She was charged with perjury, and threw herself upon the Court's mercy, which act, together with extreme age, 90 years, inclined the Judge to leniency.

St. Paul, Oct. 30.—As a reward for long and faithful service the Rev. Anatole Oster, vice-rector and spiritual director of the St. Paul's Seminary, has been invested with the title and purple robes of a monsignor of the Catholic Church. He thus becomes one of the prelates of the pope's household. The ceremony of the investiture took place in the chapel of St. Paul's Seminary, and was an impressive affair.

Hazardville, Conn., Oct. 30.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to rob the private bank of Robert E. Spencer of this place. The large safe in the bank was covered with wet blankets and buffalo robes, and the door was blown off with powder. The explosion was dull and not widely heard. The robbers, however, were evidently frightened, for they did not take time to reach the inner or money drawer. Several dollars worth of revenue stamps were taken.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 30.—Secretary of the Navy Long, in a letter to a local paper, says he is heartily in favor of the upbuilding of the merchant marine, and presents three reasons for his position: First—By reason of the financial return which would follow from carrying our constantly increasing exports. Second—From the increased business it would give our shipyards; and, Third—Because it would furnish a reserve of seamen from which the navy could draw in case of war.

WHY WE ALTER AND REBUILD THIS STORE!

A SMALL BUSINESS
Selling goods at all you can get for them, grubbing all the while at high rent, business and living expenses.

A LARGE BUSINESS
Selling goods cheap at a small reasonable profit, because the large business enables buying in larger quantities, and consequently buying cheaper.

The larger business costs so little more than the small, that the entire expense is reduced many percentages, the living expenses are important items to everyone and cost no more when a large business is being done than small, consequently merchants can sell a large lot of goods at a smaller advance more profitably than a small lot at a large profit. We tried the old method 14 years, the new one year, and before the first year is over we are obliged either to go back to the old method or to find a larger store. Our neighbor "E. J. Burritt" wanted to get out; we grasped the chance and rented his store in addition to the old quarters and thus obtained enough room to do the business of the "new method." We ascribe the past year's large business because people advertised us who wear our goods which at the time of purchase they may think only worth what they paid for them, but as time rolls on and the clothes don't change, but keep looking good, don't rip, don't muss, they gradually begin to believe they bought a bargain. They try it again they recommend their family and friends, and by always furnishing good clothing at our small prices, each of them in turn recommends others—that's what makes a large business. That's what compelled us to get a large store. We are now at it, and will be all fixed up in our new quarters by August 20. And when we get this big store finished we want you to drop in to see us, look around in the new place, wish us success if you like, but always be assured that you are welcome here, whether you come to look; to see what a certain thing when you need it will cost you, or whether you come to shop or visit.

MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME—YOU ARE WELCOME.

Thanking the Public for their liberal patronage of the past Fifteen years.

THE BOERS PLANNED WELL

Had Arranged Their Campaign Long Before Hostilities Were Declared.

TO FIGHT OR RETREAT.

This Seems to Be About the Present Alternative That is Confronting General White.

The Boers Again Assume An Aggressive Attitude—A Feeling of Uneasiness Exists in London for the Safety of British Troops—A Patrol of Mounted Infantry Shelled by Boers.

London, Oct. 31.—According to the latest reports from Cape Town, Gen. Joubert has joined hands with the Free State forces, and there has been some outpost fighting. President Kruger arrived at Glencoe.

The Standard voices the general anxiety regarding Sir George Stewart White's position by remarking the adaptability and able strategy of the Boers, for which they had hitherto not been given credit. It goes on to say: "Their strategy is so well planned that it is impossible to doubt that it is the product of some officer trained in the best European school of war."

Boer Camps Are Thick.

London, Oct. 31.—The Daily Mail publishes the following dispatch from Pietermaritzburg, dated on Sunday: "Patrols from Ladysmith report that there are four Boer camps within a radius of ten miles, extending in a semi-circle northeast of the town. Evidently the enemy is concentrating all his forces. Commandant General Joubert is in supreme command. One Boer laager has a Red Cross tent carefully posted in a conspicuous position. "The British had several skirmishes with the enemy to-day. Railway communication with Ladysmith still is intact. At Colenso a couple of Basutos were detected putting boulders on the railway. They confessed that they had done this by order of the Transvaal authorities.

"A war balloon, very small and so light that two men can hold and haul it down easily with a wire strand, and which can ascend 3,000 feet, is now in use, and the full position of the Boer guns has been ascertained."

Planned Campaign in Advance.

London, Oct. 31.—All eyes in England are turned toward Northern Natal, where General White's force and the united armies of Free State and Transvaal Boers may already have fought a great battle.

Until Saturday evening not a word had come from Ladysmith since Wednesday, when it was reported that the Boers were showing signs of resuming the aggressive. The silence, which to many seemed ominous, was broken by this despatch from Cape Town:

"Scouts from Modder Spruit having reported the Boers in force on the Heilmakkar road, General White at once ordered out a strong force of artillery, mounted infantry and cavalry. A small patrol of mounted infantry was shelled by the Boers nine miles from Ladysmith, and the Boer position was finally located three miles beyond Modder Spruit. The British force is now four miles from the Boers."

The despatch does not give the date of this reconnaissance, but if the Boer advance from Dundee eastward and from Beeters Station eastward proceeded steadily the engagement foreshadowed by the despatch may already have been fought.

Alternative is Fight or Retreat.

In the view of military men, General White is in scarcely a more reassuring position now than he was at the outbreak of the war. While he has shown his ability to outwit the Boers' strategy, he has apparently reached the limit of this game of war, by which he was able to prevent the massing of the Boer columns, and not now fight or retreat.

Many persons think he should rest content with the successes so far attained and fall back on Colenso, since he appears to be able to move his forces quickly and without loss. It is believed, however, that he will not follow this course, but will prefer to hold Ladysmith, even against much superior numbers, until reinforced. The feeling that he intends to do this creates some uneasiness, for victories over Boer units are not believed to indicate that the same result can be achieved over the Boers when massed.

Boer Plans Well Matured.

The rapidity of the Boer advance and the tenacity of the endeavors of their columns to concentrate on General White have proved that the Boers' plans were matured long before hostilities displaced negotiations, and though they may be unable to stand before the brilliant charges of the British troops or serve their artillery with the skill of their opponents, they are a mobile force and operate harmoniously under a carefully prepared plan of campaign.

By November 4 the last troop ship should have sailed, but the army corps will scarcely take the field until the end of December.

Only Two Officers May Go.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The War Department has been obliged to reconsider its determination to send four army officers to observe the military operations in South Africa, as the British authorities have made known that it would be impossible to give adequate facilities to such a number. Other foreign governments have made application to send officers with the British forces, and if four were accommodated from each government it would make an unusually large contingent.

Acting on this suggestion, the War Department has determined that Captain Slocum and perhaps Captain Gibson will constitute the United States representation, although it may be found necessary to restrict the representation to Captain Slocum, who is on his way to the Cape.

WILL HAVE THEM PUNISHED.

Berkley's Father Swears Vengeance On Cornell Students.

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—"I believe my son was murdered, and so long as God gives me breath I will not cease my efforts to bring his murderers to justice." So spoke Edward J. Berkley at the Union station just prior to taking a train for the East, where he had been summoned by telegraphic announcement of the tragic death of his son, a Cornell Student at Geneva, N. Y.

"Yes, he was murdered," continued the father, "murdered for fun—for the amusement of members of that secret society he was to be initiated into. The despatches say he was ordered to carry a note across a canal, and when his body was found the note was found in his hand.

"I intend to see that the man who ordered him to carry that note, and every one else connected with the affair, is punished as fully as they deserve. I have wired the authorities at Cornell University, and also the Sheriff and the Coroner, to arrest all parties implicated in my son's death. I am going on there at once and will make a thorough investigation of the whole affair. My son's death will not go unavenged, as long as I have life left to avenge it."

Mr. Berkley left on the noon train for Geneva. He wired his wife, who is visiting in Brooklyn, to meet him on his arrival. The dead boy was 17 years of age and an only child. This was his first year at college.

Made a Successful Voyage.

Langtry, Tex., Oct. 30.—Prof. Robert T. Hill, of the United States Geological Survey, and four companions have arrived here from their perilous voyage through the canyons of the Rio Grande, their trip being the second successful one down the treacherous river ever attempted. The party left Presidio, Tex., over two weeks ago, and completed the 500 miles of the tortuous course of the river without seeing a sign of human habitation until they arrived here. The trip was full of adventure, and it is a wonder that the three boats were not capsized and all members of the party drowned while passing through the rapids which are found at frequent intervals in the deep and gloomy canyons. At some places the perpendicular walls rise to a height of several hundred feet, and the narrow channel through which the river flows affords no landing or resting for many miles. At one place in the canyon there is a waterfall of 180 feet depth. It was with the greatest difficulty that the boats were lifted out of the canyon and carried around this fall.

Prof. Hill and the other members of the party are enthusiastic over the results obtained by the trip.

Soldiers Honor Dead General.

New York, Oct. 30.—Military honors, splendid and impressive, were paid to Guy V. Henry, the dead brigadier general, Sunday, when the largest military funeral parade seen in this city for many years took place. The body of the General was taken from his former home at No. 139 Madison avenue, to the Twenty-third street ferry, preparatory to removing it to Washington, where a plot in celebrated Arlington Cemetery had been waiting since 1891.

Reached Crozier Channel.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 30.—Captain Newth, of the whaling steamer Jeanette, who has arrived from the Arctic, reports that he reached Crozier Channel, latitude 71.3, longitude 120 west. No other American vessel has ever made Crozier Channel, but fifty years ago, Captain Newth says, three English vessels wintered at Mercy Bay, Banksland. The channel closed up, however, and the Englishmen were forced to abandon their vessels.

Treasurer Made Good the Loss.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 30.—The report that a sum of $1,710 is missing from the treasurer's office at the Soldiers' Home here has caused much excitement among the officials of that institution. On each pension day at the Home about $75,000 is paid among the veterans. The amount stolen, $1,710, was taken from Treasurer Heichert's safe on the last pension day, about a month ago. He is held responsible for all the money and has already made good the loss.

Couldn't Take Oath of Fidelity.

Havana, Oct. 30.—General Lacroet, the former Cuban Commander, has had offered to him the post of Inspector of Prisons and Police by Senor Capote, head of the Department of Government, at a salary of $200 a month. Lacroet replied that he was grateful for the offer, but that he could not accept a position in which he would have to take the oath of fidelity, in spite of the fact that he badly needed the money.

Magician Dies of His Wound.

New York, Oct. 30.—Magician Hatal, who was shot accidentally during a performance here Saturday night, has died of his wound. Hatal was doing Herman's trick of catching a bullet between his teeth. The gun was fired with a genuine bullet in it which entered his breast just above the heart, costing him his life.

Yale Professor a "Peepster."

New Haven, Oct. 30.—Professor F. H. Chase, instructor of English in Yale, was brought before the City Court Saturday charged with "peeping" at the homes of prominent residents of New Haven. He was caught by Detective Dunn in the yard of Edward Goebel. He was released on bond.

Millionaire Perkins Dead.

Boston, Oct. 30.—Commodore George H. Perkins, U. S. N. (retired), and father of Mrs. Larz Anderson, died from heart failure in his home on Commonwealth avenue. He was many times a millionaire and prominent in railroad circles.

Minister Pinochet Dead.

Valparaiso, Chili, via Galveston, Texas, Oct. 30.—Senor Gregorio E. Pinochet, Minister of Industry and Public Works, died here from pneumonia. The government will take charge of the funeral.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK to George Goodyear, if living, and if he be dead to his heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and personal representatives, if any, all of whose names of residence are unknown: SEND GREETING: Whereas, Lucius A. Goodyear of Genoa, N. Y., has lately applied to our Surrogate's Court of the County of Cayuga for the proof and probate of a certain instrument in writing, dated the 2nd day of June, 1899, purporting to be the last Will and Testament of Fanny Goodyear, late of Genoa, N. Y., in said county deceased, which relates to both real and personal estate.

Therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear in our Surrogate's Court, before the Surrogate of the County of Cayuga, at his office in the Court House in the city of Auburn, on the 21st day of November, 1899, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, and attend the probate of said Last Will and Testament.

And those of you who are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your general guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, you will appear and apply for the appointment of a guardian, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a special guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in this proceeding.

In Testimony Whereof, We have caused the seal of our said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed.

WITNESSES: Hon. George B. Turner, (Esq.) Surrogate of the County of Cayuga, at the Surrogate's office in the city of Auburn, this 9th day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

Universal sympathy goes out to General Howard in the loss of his son, Colonel Guy Howard, killed in the Philippines. Young Howard was an accomplished and zealous officer who had twenty years of active service to his credit. The venerable General knows the chances of war, but this knowledge will not abate the sorrow over the death of his son. A brother of the fallen officer nobly offers to take his place in the service. General Howard is one of the few officers left of those prominent in the war to suppress rebellion. The other day, it is related, he was at Malden, Mass., and was taken by a friend to see Bicknell's historical painting of "Lincoln at Gettysburg." It was pointed out that of the group of 21 figures of leading actors in the war, Howard is the only person now living. The grasp of his hand is as firm, his step as elastic, and his carriage as upright and alert as though he was in the prime of life. The habit and correctness of the old General's life are in his favor, but now his noble head is bowed in sorrow.

Wireless telegraphy was subject to experiments during the international yacht races which appear to justify general conclusions with regard to its usefulness. Marconi, who is considered the inventor of the practical system thus far developed, has transmitted dispatches between a steamer accompanying the yachts at sea and a station at a lighthouse on shore, whence they were transmitted to New York. Although it is admitted that this ariel telegraphy cannot supplant that by wires and cables, it is nevertheless an important fact that intelligible messages can be transmitted at all, with reasonable directness and accuracy, through the air without wires. It is conceivable that this system may be of value where wires and cables do not exist, as between ships at sea or between vessels off shore and the land. An obvious limitation is in the lack of privacy, but this and other obstacles may be overcome by future invention, and the experiments already made are valuable for their suggestiveness.

J. D. Bridges, Editor "Democrat," Lancaster, N. H., says, "One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy for croup I ever used." Immediately relieves and cures coughs, colds, croup, asthma, pneumonia, bronchitis, grippe and all throat and lung troubles. It prevents consumption. J. S. Banker.
