About Mattress Timber

We register it as unwise to use cheap hair—goat hair, for instance. The apex of worth is reached in white and black drawings. We have just completed one order for 6 of such and more to follow. The felts, cottons, wools, etc., we have constant demand for, but the best is none too good for the needed 8 hours' sleep.

North Lansing.
Nov. 27—The recent rains have helped to fill some of the wells, but there are some without any water in at all.

Mrs. Sarah French is under the doctor's care, having been sick for nearly two weeks.

Benton Buck is recovering from his sickness which has kept him from his school about two weeks.

Mrs. Chas. Barger returned home last Friday from a two weeks' visit with her three sons—Roswell at Esopus on the Hudson, Lonson and Frank both of New York City. She reports plenty of water there and the weather fine.

Rev. C. E. Burr came from Groton through the storm last Sunday and occupied the Baptist pulpit. Not many were there as people thought he would not come, but he is a man of sterling character and says stormy weather will not detain him. He will preach next Sunday at 3 o'clock. Those wishing to hear a good sermon be sure and come.

Twenty-six ladies were in attendance at the Aid society at Mrs. Jacob Decamp's last Thursday. The ladies are hustlers and are preparing for their church fair which will be held some time next month.

Mrs. Thomas Small went to Elmira Tuesday morning to hold revival meetings for several weeks.

Mrs. Mard Linderman returned to her home here last Saturday.

The Ladies' Aid society meet with Mrs. Cassius Holden next week Thursday, Dec. 6th. A large attendance is desired.

A cottage prayer-meeting is to be held this week Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Singer.

Mrs. Paulina Howser is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alice Tallmadge, at West Groton for a few weeks.

Henry Benson of Lansingville is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Henry Spangler.

Henry Gilfillian returned to his home in North Rose Tuesday.

Will Metzgar returned from Buffalo last Friday.

To the Public.
Watches, diamonds, jewelry and silverware and all the novelties of the season at reduced prices for the holidays. Next trip to this vicinity about Dec. 15. Leave any orders at Hotel DeWitt or address at Moravia. J. B. LIBERMAN.

The Ithaca Band hold their annual fair in the Lyceum, beginning Monday, Dec. 31.

The Taughannock emery wheel company has made arrangements to move its plant to Cortland.

Charles Tyler and Smith Lane of Bainbridge realized a profit of $1,000 from a thousand hens last year.

As a result of the vote on license in Broome county, 12 of the 16 towns will go dry for the next two years.

Oom Paul shouldn't mistake the French cry of "Down with the English" for a promise to restore independence to the Transvaal.

Syracuse university has offered six free scholarships to Filipinos who may wish to take work in any department of the university.

The village of Skaneateles has voted to raise $1,000 to maintain the electric light plant and will have a municipal board of management.

If the talked-of electric road from Auburn to Ithaca materializes it will be appreciated by many in this town.

—Groton Journal. Yes; but if it don't, then what?

Walter S. Randolph has been appointed excursion manager for the New York Central, with headquarters at Buffalo. His territory includes all lines between Syracuse and Buffalo.

A certificate of incorporation of the Cayuga Lake Cement Co. has been filed in the Tompkins county clerk's office. The company is capitalized at $100,000, of which $10,000 has been paid in.

It is rumored that another weekly Republican paper is to be started in Auburn in the interests of the Payne-Underwood faction, to down the Senator Wilcox element. Rumors come easy.

An Oneida young man was so confident of Bryan's election that he agreed with another man to stand on a barrel in the public square and eat his hat, provided that McKinley won. He has been missing since election.

It is said that the marl beds of Brookfield are so extensive that 500 barrels of cement a day could be made and the deposit would still last for 30 years. The marl is said to test the highest per cent of lime of any found in this country.

During the confusion at the Veterinary college fire at Ithaca recently a number of rabbits that had been inoculated with rabies escaped and are yet at large. The public is warned against using as food any rabbits whose pedigree is not clearly known.

A suit is pending in the supreme court which will determine whether or not a satchel placed in a seat in a railroad coach entitles the owner of the satchel to the sitting. This is a case of interest to travelers, and the decision will be awaited with curiosity.

Richard H. Bloom of the late firm of Lyon, Elliot & Bloom of Auburn died Sunday almost without warning at Rev. Lansing Porter's on Melrose road in the town of Owasco. His death was due to heart failure. Mr. Bloom was born in Brooklyn and was 58 years old. A wife and three sons survive him.

Sheriffs and boards of supervisors are being urged by the state prison commission to employ jail convicts whenever practicable in the improvement of highways. Already a number of counties have adopted the suggestion and are employing their convicts with satisfactory results. Let them build roads.

The Lehigh Valley railroad company now have their own news agents on trains instead of American News company.

Charles Krist, formerly of Ithaca, who killed Katie Tobin at Owego last spring, will be electrocuted at Auburn during the week of Jan. 6.

Catherine Looney, the Elmira young woman arrested and convicted on the charge of forgery, was sentenced to serve four years and nine months in Auburn.

J. A. Macomber of Scipio has an auction sale at Conquest, his old home, next Saturday. This is the second call he has had from there to do auctioneering since coming to Scipio. His address for the winter will be Myers' Stable, Green St., Auburn, N. Y.

The Advertiser says a large shipment of Geneva wagons sent to Buenos Ayers in September were wrecked off the South American coast and lost. A duplicate order has been received, and the works are busy filling it. The value of that consignment was $5,000 and of course was insured, so that there is no loss to shipper or buyer.

A man in Pennsylvania bought a horse, giving a note payable 100 years from date. This feature was not noticed until the note was presented at the bank, and the court, after a trial, held that the note was a legal one. This, however, should not encourage any TRIBUNE reader to follow suit. If the note draws interest, the horse will cost something at least.

Kruger has at last arrived in Europe and will be busy from now on trying to stir up forcible intervention in behalf of the Boers. We are afraid that Oom Paul has come too late, but it will be interesting to watch his movements. The sympathy for the crushed out republic is so strong in France that it will not be strange if after all the government is forced to take some serious action.

This has been "cabbage week" in Moravia. Monday morning the price took a jump from $6 to $12.50 and nearly every farmer in this vicinity has been hustling his crop into town. The local buyers are storing most of it. There was such a crowd of teams waiting Tuesday night to unload that many had to wait until Wednesday morning.—Register.

Two Geneva men bet on election, the loser to wear a straw hat with a crepe band all winter. That will be quite an attractive uniform when the snow is two feet deep. If the loser is a married man and makes good his bet, we will wager that his family will see more of him during the evenings of 1900-01 than they have.

The Bainbridge Express which was purchased last spring by F. M. Spooner of Afton was sold last week to George Clark, proprietor of the Bainbridge Republican, Mr. Spooner reserving the machinery of the plant. The Express will be combined with the Republican. Mr. Spooner will now give his entire time and attention to the Afton Enterprise.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Skinner has dismissed the appeal of Abram D. Stryker, Peter W. Miner and Benjamin F. Treasurer—Mrs. Alice Stowell, Auburn.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of N. Y. state W. C. T. U., in her address at the annual convention at Hornellsville said: "It is nearly twenty-seven years since the Crusade when by the anointing of the Holy Spirit, the call came to the womanhood of the world to wage warfare against the liquor traffic. From that day to this, woman's protest has been heard in every land where the Gospel has been told, and today fifty-seven nations are affiliated with the World's W. C. T. U. * * * We are building sentiment not only in churches, but in forts and barracks, aboard warships, in almshouses and jails, wherever there is sick or suffering humanity there our women have found the trail of the serpent of drink and have gone with the gospel message. More than that we are building sentiment in the home and it means much that in over twenty thousand homes in this state women are committed to total abstinence, are in touch with the educational principles of our society and have barred strong drink from their homes. It means much with the trend of social drinking and the license system bringing in much revenue to the state, that the children in our public schools should be required to be taught physiology and hygiene with special reference to the effect of alcoholics and narcotics. It means much that there should be a law upon our statute books prohibiting the sale of liquors at state and county fairs without which they would not be decent places for decent women to go.

But why has not victory crowned the efforts of the W. C. T. U. after all these years of service? Because the saloon has been permitted to continue in existence. If our twenty-two thousand women could go into saloons, bar rooms, club rooms and canteens, break bottles, knock in the heads of kegs of beer, and barrels of whiskey, there are those who would say that the W. C. T. U. was doing something, but we would be denounced as violators of the law and arrested for malicious destruction of property. Why? Because the business is legal, and having paid for protection by its license money, the liquor dealer has a right to demand it at the hands of the constituted authorities, and so we have the strange spectacle of the women of the state making war against a business that the men have legalized."

Everybody Welcome.

The New York World,

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION—AS GOOD TO YOU AS A DAILY AND YOU GET IT AT THE PRICE OF A WEEKLY.

It furnishes more at the price than any other newspaper published in America. Its news service covers all the globe and is equaled by that of few dailies. Its reports from the Boer war have not been excelled in thoroughness and promptness, and with the presidential campaign now in progress it will be invaluable. Its political news is absolutely impartial. This fact makes it of especial value at this time.

If you want to watch every move of the great political campaign take the Thrice-a-Week World. If you want to keep your eye on the Trusts—and they need watching—take the Thrice-a-Week World. If you want to know all foreign developments, take the Thrice-a-Week World.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the GENOA TRIBUNE to

Up-to-date Service.

Every New Yorker is interested in each move made by the New York Central to improve its magnificent service, and in the eyes of the average stranger, whether native or foreign, the New York Central is an example of what the Empire State of the Union can do.

We therefore note with pride the up-to-date character of the dining car service on the great four-track line. In a menu on one of the afternoon trains from New York recently we noticed "broiled breast of prairie chicken with currant jelly" among the list of delectable viands prepared for its patrons. Its pure spring water from the foothills of the Adirondack mountains, served free, is another delightful idea and on the Empire State Express they are now serving almost every dish that you could get on an a la carte dining car and those dishes are hot and appetizing. Recently broiled bacon with eggs and broiled ham with eggs have been added to the menu.

This, it will be understood, is on a train where the travel is so heavy that it is almost impossible to haul a dining car, but with their new buffet broiler service the Central is handling it in splendid shape.—Albany Press-Knickerbocker-Express.

Rev. Edward Everett Hale.

This eminent divine known the United States over for his great work, not only in the church but as an author and a man who has done years of work for the needy, is quite a hale and hearty man yet and his mind is as bright as a new dollar. He knows how to live, how to take life easy and to make every one around him happy. On his annual trips to Southern Pines, N. C., section he makes that whole settlement of winter visitors happy and they look forward to his annual visits with great pleasure. He knows more ways to make people happy than any other man, and when on the steamers between Boston and Norfolk, Va., it does not take the passengers long to spot the tall prominent man towering above every one around him in intellect as well as stature; his manners are so winning that the most timid are drawn to him, and it is a great pleasure to spend a day with Dr. Hale on the steamboat ride toward the Southland. Many prayers go up to the Throne on High constantly that this good man may live many years to make this world better. Dr. Hale really cannot conceive of the great love the people have for him.

Be sure to go via Southern Pines on your way to Florida, as it is the shortest route. For information write to J. T. Patrick, Pinebluff, N. C.

Boston & Albany Leased.

The Boston & Albany Railroad, having been leased to the New York Central, the mileage of the Albany road will now be added to that of the New York Central, and hereafter a thousand mile ticket of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad will be good on the Boston & Albany Railroad. This will prove a great convenience to the traveling public who desire to reach points in Massachusetts or reached via the Boston & Albany, including, of course, Boston. The holder of a New York Central thousand mile ticket will now have the privilege of riding over lines aggregating more than 6,000 miles of railroad on a ticket costing only two cents per mile, good for the person presenting it and good until used.

Prolonged Hard Times.

The reelection of McKinley means prolonged hard times this government is no longer what it once was there is no laws made to favor the laboring class of people, but for the rich and those with their millions. the heds of this government sent out thousands of dollars to buy votes with and they accomplished their purpose among the ignorant and those that a dollar looked large too. while some were intimidated. Now these are facts not guessed at. Bryan men sold their votes for fifteen dollars a head sold their right their liberty their honor for the paltry sum of fifteen dollars, and like Esau sold their birthright for a mess of potage. Now another four years of bondage of combines monopolys and trusts coupled with imperialism and many more schemes to beat the farmer and the laboring class of people. a man of any right principals ought to be ashamed to cast a vote for McKinley after four years of hard times and such times that are closing the avenues of success to all except the favored few who are to inherit the wealth of the land or secure a position through favoritism and the salaries of public officials are so high that there is a constant demoralization in politics in the strife to get into office, but the wealth they enjoy comes through the farmers and the laboring class it matters not where you go there is a complaint of hard times but do not devine the cause, but it is the curancy the scarcity of money, can we not remember when we had cheap money when it took only one-half the amount of labor or produce to secure a dollar that it does to day, was not that cheap money easier to get. perhaps provisions were higher but after you had supplied your family and paid your taxes and a few more expences did you not as a rule have some money left. compare the present with the days of cheap money and tell if you can who the people are who have been benefited by dear money

The Happenings of the Week in Our Sister Villages.—News Correspondence.

Venice Center--West Hill.

Nov. 28—The "soaking rain" that the aged farmer predicted and which was so necessary to replenish failing streams and wells, came and with it a frosting of snow, making very bad traveling. The storm was quite extensive, causing much discomfort on railways as well as delays. If this very bad traveling continues, it will be a great disappointment to many anticipated gatherings on Thanksgiving day.

The scholars from this town in Moravia school are expected home on Wednesday, day before Thanksgiving for a week's vacation.

Mr. Fred Wood and wife returned from Auburn on Monday, reporting Mrs. Geo. Wood as recovering from a severe attack of heart trouble.

L. E. Wood returned from Cortland on Thursday of last week and will remain till after Thanksgiving.

Miss Sarah Hull has received an invitation to spend Thanksgiving at Mr. Hudson Truman's.

Mrs. Chas. Mosher and son have spent a few days visiting in this vicinity.

T. A. Miller and sister, Mrs. Van Marter, of Genoa attended the funeral of their uncle, Mr. A. Haley, on Tuesday.

The people of southern Cayuga extend a warm welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Van Marter as residents once more among us.

Mrs. Sally Ann Wood was quite indisposed at her home on Tuesday, and was unable to attend the funeral.

Quite favorable and encouraging reports come from the hospital concerning Mrs. Hough.

This kind of weather disarranges if it does not contradict all weather calculations. The German forecast for December is, fore part clear and cool; latter part rainy. So we need not expect sleighing for the holidays.

Mr. Sherman has closed his school for a two weeks' vacation, when he will resume for the winter term.

We hope the oyster supper at Miss Mabel Beebe's will be as well patronized as the strawberry festival was last summer.

The funeral of Mr. Amos Haley who departed this life on Saturday was attended on Tuesday at 11 a. m. Rev. Mr. Ballou of Scipio had a very excellent service from the 90th Psalm. Glenn Mosher of Auburn, undertaker. Burial at Oakwood cemetery in Springport.

East Genoa.

Nov. 27—A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by our people at the welcome social held at the church on Friday evening. Friends from North Lansing and Genoa were present. Rev. H. R. Shoemaker and family were made acquainted with the people among whom they are to live and labor the coming year. Our farmer folks arrived one by one laden with refreshments until an abundance for all graced the tables prepared. The spirited singing by Genoa Baptist church choir led the program. Mrs. Beardsley in appropriate words welcomed all and presented Rev. W. A. Pugsley whose speech of welcome voiced the kindly spirit of Christian fellowship and expressed the wish that the cause of Christ would be advanced in our midst. Rev. Mr. Shoemaker responded heartily showing his appreciation of the courtesies received. Songs by T. A. Miller and Miss Nellie Young, Mrs. Van Marter and Mr. Miller followed with anthems by the choir who responded good-naturedly to the call for more, gave our people a rare treat. Supper was served to about 100 people, the young people acting as waiters. At the close Mrs. Shoemaker thanked the people for their expressions of good will and expressed the hope that their relations might be mutually pleasant and profitable in the coming days, and especially thanking our Genoa friends who helped to make the occasion such a pleasing success. The proceeds were nearly

Mrs. Ella Taylor is staying with her sister, Mrs. Davis, having spent two weeks with her old friend, Mrs. Dell Young.

Mrs. Frank Thayer is slowly recovering from her recent illness.

Miss Nellie Lester and friend of Locke visited at M. Armstrong's over Friday, attending the social.

Mrs. Helen Strong is nurse at F. Starner's where a brand new boy arrived on Thursday night.

The high wind of Wednesday last did some damage about here, blowing down chimneys, uprooting trees, etc.

Scipio.

Nov. 27—Winter seems to be here, and most of the wells have water in, although now and then there is one as dry as ever. The rain was very heavy here. Brooks are running full bank and only twice before has Salmon creek been known to run over the road at Bolts Corners.

Miss Florence Ames is some better at this writing.

Your correspondent has to write the sad news of the death of two of his old friends and neighbors.

Clark Ames died on Wednesday of last week and was buried on Sunday at the Sand Beach cemetery. It was a terrible day. Rev. J. H. Ballou officiated. Mr. Ames has always lived in Scipio, and leaves two sons and one daughter. He was a good neighbor and a kind friend, and will be missed very much by the community in general.

Amos Haley, our old friend whom every one knew and all were ready to shake hands with has gone and he will be missed very much. Services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Ballou and burial took place in the cemetery some two miles north of Union Springs by the side of his wife who has been dead twenty-seven years, both dying on the same day of the month and hour of the day. Mr. Haley was in the 75th year of his age.

The goods of Mr. Ballou are being drawn and tomorrow will see them partially settled.

Our neighbor had better oil his windmill, as some of the neighbors thought he was whipping his children and others that he was killing hogs.

Richard Hicks of Auburn called a few minutes today.

J. Snyder is feeling some better.

A letter from Wesley Gillam says his mother is getting ready to visit her old home.

King Ferry.

Nov. 29—Grant Smith of New York was calling on friends here last week.

Mrs. W. A. Ogden is spending the week with friends in Syracuse.

Franklin Smith of Slaterville spent Sunday with his parents, A. H. Smith and wife.

Henry Pease of Mapleton visited G. S. Aikin and wife last week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stephenson is seriously ill.

Mrs. Chas. Mosher has rented rooms in part of Mrs. C. W. Dennis' house.

Mort King was home from Ithaca Thanksgiving.

Ledyard.

Nov. 27—The Rev. F. K. Blakeslee, D. D., the president of Cazenovia Seminary, will speak at the Ledyard M. E. church next Sunday, Dec. 2, both morning and evening. The morning discourse will be educational. The evening theme will probably be "The Twentieth Century Epworth League." He will also speak in the afternoon at the Belltown M. E. church. All are cordially invited to hear Dr. Blakeslee.

Nov. 26—Miss Harriet May Mills and mother of Syracuse spent several days at the home of Miss Isabel Howland last week.

The P. E. club of this place held a very pleasant social in the reading room last Friday night, ostensibly to exhibit the articles of fancy work, usefulness, canned fruit, jelly, etc., contributed by members of the club. These articles are to be sent to New York City to the bazaar which will open Dec. 3. The object is to raise money to carry on the national work. A bountiful supper was served in the east rooms to a crowd, after which Miss Mills gave a short and interesting address, interspersed by cornet and organ music, also remarks by Mrs. H. J. Myres of Mecklenburg. Miss Mills made several converts among the young and old men which means new members and an awakened interest.

The Maccabees gave an oyster supper last Wednesday night in honor of the new members. The wives and mothers of the members surprised them with cake and coffee which added not a little to the enjoyment.

In Memoriam.

"Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the north wind's breath, But all thou hast all seasons for thine own, oh Death!"

The truth of this sentiment was most strikingly confirmed in the death of Mr. Amos Haley who departed this life after an illness of only two weeks at the home of Mr. Chas. H. Wood on Saturday, Nov. 24th, 1900, in the 76th year of his age. It was a noticeable coincidence that his death occurred on the twenty-seventh anniversary of his wife's departure, almost to an hour! He leaves one sister, Mrs. Yawger of Springport; one daughter, Mrs. Chas. Wood, and one son, Mr. E. Haley, both of Venice Center. This sudden departure leaves a vacancy not only in the household but in several communities where he has been a former resident. A man of integrity, honor and moral worth—qualities that cannot be truly estimated in metallic currency! A kind hearted neighbor, ready to sympathize and render aid whenever occasion demanded. The funeral services were observed at his late place of residence by the Rev. Mr. Ballou of Scipio Center, (and if rightly informed he is a relative of the famous Hosea Ballou of former renown) who spoke words of comfort and instruction from the 90th Psalm. Mr. Glenn Mosher of Auburn, funeral conductor. The interment took place in the town of Springport in the Oakwood cemetery. The very bad state of the roads prevented many from being present to pay their last respects to their kind neighbor and friend. The profound sympathy of the community is tendered to the bereaved—especially to the sister who is now left the only surviving one of a family of nine children.

"The chamber where the good man meets his fate is privileged beyond the common walks of virtuous life, Quite near the verge of Heaven."

THE VILLAGE NOTES

NEWS PICKED UP BY THE TRIBUNE REPORTERS.

What Has Happened in Genoa During the Past Seven Days—An Interesting Page.

—A disagreeable Thanksgiving day yesterday to say the least.

—John F. Montague has finished his work as clerk at Hotel DeWitt.

—If you have anything to sell or want to buy something, make it known through this paper.

—Mrs. J. W. Lewis went to Auburn Tuesday to care for her son, George Connor, who is quite seriously sick.

—The holiday season is close at hand, and a glance into Smith's store will convince you that he is ready for it.

—Among the letters advertised by Postmaster Clark of Auburn is one for Thomas McCormick and one for J. C. Wheeler.

—Men of Genoa, ye that desire to pay the printer in wood, prepare to draw it now; winter is here and we are burning wood every day.

—Muskrats and skunks now receive the attention of the boys. With a fur buyer in every town, it is quite profitable where game is to be found.

—If you are bound to sell out and expect to have an auction, remember this is where the best auction posters are printed; we can print them while you wait.

—A new time table went into operation on the Lehigh Sunday. The only change at Locke is that the south bound evening train is due there at 7:50 instead of 7:56.

—Rummage sales are all the go. Scarcely a paper comes to our table that does not contain an account of one; they are a successful method of raising money for any purpose.

—“Bad Bill” Hosmer of Auburn, well known in this village, was recently engaged as coach for the Syracuse A. A. football team and has commenced his work there. The two Carr boys and Stanford, Moravia ball tossers, are members of the Syracuse eleven.

—It costs you nearly as much to send that mused, torn copy of the TRIBUNE to the son or daughter away from home, or to a friend, as it does to have one mailed from this office regularly, fresh from the press. And do you always remem-

—Ed Montague visited Auburn on Tuesday.

—G. A. Ward visited Sherwood friends over Sunday.

—O. M. Avery was in Syracuse on business one day last week.

—Mrs. Geo. W. Davis has purchased a piano of Mrs. Hewitt of Locke.

—George Miller is confined to the house with a severe attack of the grip.

—Chas. Lane and wife of Locke were guests at W. R. Mosher's on Saturday.

—Mrs. Wm. Oliver spent a part of last week with her sister, Mrs. Alling at Auburn.

—G. H. Halsey and wife of Ithaca were guests of her parents here a portion of the week.

—Mrs. John Welty and little son of Auburn have been visiting relatives in town this week.

—E. A. Haley of Poplar Ridge and F. D. Knapp of Lansingville were in town on business Wednesday last.

—School closed for the week on Wednesday, and Principle Smith went to his home at Newfield for Thanksgiving.

—Miss Lulu Haskins of Locke is stopping with her sister, Mrs. W. R. Mosher, and will attend school here this winter.

—Miss Florence LeFever of Auburn is spending a few days with her friend, Miss Luella Smith, who is at home for the week.

—The Genoa orchestra has been engaged to give a concert at Locke on the evening of December 13, in connection with the firemen's fair.

—Thomas Keenan has been driving the Auburn stage part of this week, giving Mr. Eaton a chance to prepare for the Winter's hard work.

—In several of our exchanges last week we noticed advertisements calling for young men to learn trades. What will the young men do without trades or professions do five years hence.

Cabbage for sale. R. W. ARMSTRONG, East Genoa.

—Herbert Gay is building a fine hen house, and E. H. Sharp has just finished one; both have cement floors and are up-to-date in other particulars.

—Theo. A. Miller and sister, Mrs. A. B. VanMarter, attended the funeral of their uncle, Amos Haley, which took place at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Wood, on Tuesday.

—Rev. J. R. Robinson of Knoxville, Pa., will preach at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening, December 2. All interested in selecting a pastor should be present.

J. Leon Mack has some fine pigs and a new milch cow for sale.

Will the finder of a carriage boot lost in this village last Thursday, return the same to Miss Belle Hunt and receive pay for their trouble?

—The young friends of Ernest Mead made him a pleasant surprise last evening, which was a most enjoyable affair in spite of the inclement weather and bad roads.

—The Genoa band wagon, upon which the boys laid out more than $60 of their hard earned money three or four years since, stands up under the church shed, neglected, dirty, and exposed more or less to the elements.

I will pay highest cash market price for raw furs of all kinds; horse and beef hides and sheep pelts; also old rubber. R. W. ARMSTRONG, 1mch01 East Genoa.

—When the brown leaves whirl and scamper around the coldest corner of the village and the bare branches creak and complain in the shivering blasts, then suggestions of warmth and comfort do not come amiss. Read Mastin's ad on another page; he still has a large line of felt boots, warm shoes and soft coverings for these cold nights. To say nothing of other things—bur-

—No mail was received here on Monday evening nor Tuesday. The two days' rain washed so much mud on the track that the train was derailed near Cascade, and it took nearly two days to straighten things out. A landslide of rock and dirt near King Ferry also stopped travel on that branch of the Lehigh nearly one day. If the N. Y., A. & L. was only in operation now (Mr. Marcus Conklin said it would be by this time) how nice it would be—especially fine.

—When Robert Mastin opened the store early Monday morning, he was surprised to find a front window smashed and saw that a quantity of footwear and men's apparel had been taken. No clue to the identity of the burglars has been found. The estimated value of the goods stolen is about $50. It was an ideal night for such a piece of work. A heavy rain falling and water flowing over the dam for the first time in several months made it impossible to hear any noise had there been anyone abroad at the time.

The Concert-Recital.

One of the most enjoyable musical entertainments occurred at the Presbyterian church in this village last Tuesday evening, being the concert-recital by Mrs. Hewitt's class assisted by other local talent. One needed but to attend the affair to be convinced of the superiority of the instruction. The first number rendered “Whispering Waves, was an admirable example of ensemble playing, the ten-hand piano arrangement being embellished by two violins, flute and cello. The three little Norman girls at one instrument attracted unusual attention and favorable comment. Miss Banker as a pianist was very much admired; her command of technic was especially notable. Mrs. Davis' song with the violin obligato by Leon Davis was very sweet; her voice shows marked improvement. The set of organ solos by Theodora Miller, Leita Davis and Lillian Warren were very much enjoyed. Millcent Sellen delighted the audience with her artistic rendering of the Old English dance. “Those Village Bells” by the Male Quartet brought forth prolonged applause. Miss Hunter played the Haydn Gypsy Rondo in a manner at once musically accurate and thoroughly inspiring. Hazel Brogan and Harry Muggleton in their impersonation of the milk maid and the dude carried everything before them. The Galop Brillante for eight hands, Misses Banker and Hunter and Messrs. Mead and Storm, was an inspiring rendition of an excellent selection. The forte passages were wonderfully spontaneous and the shading in perfect taste. The duet by Mrs. Hewitt and Miss Young displayed admirable handling of a difficult theme by both teacher and pupil. Miss Young's voice is of exquisite quality. Mrs. Hewitt's voice is a pure soprano of great carrying power, and she sings with excellent taste. As an encore she rendered “The Golden Years,” the words of which turn the mind to the better things of life. Between parts one and two of the program Mrs. Hewitt came on the platform with the little girls of her class and subjected them to a rigid questioning in harmony, theory and composition.

MORNING'S WAKING PRAYER.

O Lord, go with me through this day,
Keep me in all I speak or say;
O may my eyes be ever set,
My listening ears hear only Thee!

May my slow feet be quick to move
In paths of righteousness and love;
Thy peace my heart's sole comfort be,
Because Thy servant trusts in Thee.

If Thou shalt call me, Lord, to share
Thy cross, its agony and tear,
With grace upborne, and clothed with light,
I shall not falter in the fight.

At even-time my day's work done,
Its battle fought, its victory won,
May I look up, Thy face to see,
And catch Thy beaming smile on me.

—Rev. J. H. Dudley, Ph. D., in N. Y. Examiner.

WHEREIN PRIDE IS SINFUL.

True Self-Respect Should Be Maintained, But Self Is Not to Be Unduly Exalted.

It would be sinful to have no pride. It is just as wrong to be devoid of true and proper pride as it is to exhibit unholy pride. He who lacks that just estimation of himself, that purpose to insist in all legitimate ways that others shall deal with him properly, shall yield him his fair rights, he who regards his relation to the community and his work in life as honorable, to be treated as dignified and worthy and to be defended from encroachment and stain of any kind, in other words, he who has a proper self-respect therein illustrates true pride. Pride may involve more than self-respect, but the difference is in degree rather than in quality.

When, then, is pride sinful? When it becomes the excess of the underlying virtue. Wrongful pride is the undue exaltation of self. It is regarding one's self from a mistaken point of view in reference to one's abilities, characteristics or disposition. It is centering thought upon self to the exclusion of others, their interests and the obligation which one sustains to them more than is consistent with duty to them. In other words, it is selfish, and whatever is selfish is so far sinful. The false notions which thus are begotten about ourselves lead to false adjustments of our lives to the lives of others.

We miscalculate and fall into error. We become unpopular, and, although this is not necessarily an evil, because they who defend and advocate righteousness are sure of a measure of unpopularity, it is harmful when it is needless, when to be unpopular means that we have blundered. This is true of that pride which is selfish and unholy. But he who lacks honorable, unselfish pride, the pride which exults in its own powers, not that it may conquer other men and gain the glory which they otherwise would receive, but that it may do greater and nobler service to God and to the race, that pride which is an inspiration and a bulwark to a safe, fruitful and praiseworthy career, is to be pitied and usually blamed.—Boston Congregationalist.

OUR WORDS.

Language a Wonderful Revealer of a Person's Character—Secret of Self-Mastery.

Language is a wonderful revealer. It shows personal and racial conditions and qualities. Young people ought to be engaged in linguistic studies. But I purpose giving a few practical and spiritual suggestions rather than a technical treatise.

Our words—the product of our hearts and minds, the utterances of our tongues. Have you studied the Bible with this theme before you? Notice the multiplicity of expressions as to thinking and speaking. No wonder, for these portray the man. Words exhibit the heart. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." If one's words pertaining to the true and good are soon exhausted, this is an index that of such elements his heart supply is scant.

I would that our young people might be conscious of the fact that they are known by their language. All these should understand that pure words carry with them strength and reveal him as a lovely character who constantly uses such words.

It seems to me that the sublimest expression of a pure heart and of complete self-mastery is found in discretion in speech. Bacon said: "Discretion in speech is more than eloquence." Solomon said: "The words of a man's mouth are as deep waters, and the well-spring of wisdom as a flowing brook." Also: "The heart of the wise teacheth his mouth, and addeth learning to his lips." James said: "If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man and able also to bridle the whole body." Behold the process and the measure of perfection!—Watchword.

When and What to Read.

If you are lazy, watch James. If your faith is below par, read

If you are impatient, sit down quietly and have a talk with Job.

If you are a little strong-headed, go and see Moses.

If you are getting weak-kneed, take a look at Elijah.

If there is no song in your heart, listen to David.

If you feel chilly, get the beloved disciple to put his arm around you.

If you are losing sight of the future, climb up to Revelation and get a glimpse of the promised land.—Ram's Horn.

NEAR THE KINGDOM.

The Vice of the Age Is the Leaving Incomplete of Things Well Begun.

It is the vice of the age, perhaps we should say the fault of human nature, that it seems so easy to begin a good work and so difficult to complete it. The world is full to repletion of half-baked men. If we go north toward the pole we shall find every shore strewn with the wrecks of expeditions that "almost got there," and if we go down to the isthmus we shall find two unfinished canals upon which never floated a ship. Half the boys in our offices went half way through college; and half the lawyers in our courts found some short cut to the bar. Even our ministers seem fond of taking across lots to the pulpit. The whole modern world appears at times to reproduce the condition of ancient chaos, neither wholly in nor altogether out of the water. And spiritually we shall find the great mass of hearers and readers "not far from the kingdom," but not in it.

Unsatisfactory as the condition is, it is sweet to remember that if any man becomes conscious of the fact that he is near the kingdom of God it ought to be a stimulus to him to know that it is because the kingdom has been brought near to him. Cuba was not Cuba until American enterprise and courage and philanthropy rediscovered it. Three years ago this "Gem of the Antilles" was a charnel house. Despite its palm-fringed shores and orchid-decorated forests and its blue heights and its coral girdled seas, few unacclimated persons were brave enough to face its perils. But to-day it has become the sanitarium of the invalid and the creche in which the delicate child regains its strength. What has wrought the change? America has brought the true Cuba near. So it is God's grace which through Jesus Christ opens the kingdom of Heaven to all believers.

When a man finds himself near the kingdom of Heaven let his heart leap up in gladness, since he could never have attained that position unless God the Father had drawn him. Parents sometimes through a vain ambition force their children into positions for which they have not the slightest fitness; but when God draws a man toward the kingdom it is because he has royal blood in his veins. When God moves upon the heart of a hearer so that insensibly he is brought close to the pearly gates it is because he has within him the making of a saint.—Chicago Interior.

Not a Difficult Problem.

She was rather proud of her wrist and she intimated that he couldn't guess the measurement of it.

"I can give it within the fraction of an inch," he replied, and he did.

"Some one must have told you," she exclaimed.

"Wrong," he answered.

"Then how did you guess it?" she asked.

"I didn't guess it," he said. "I happen to know the length of my arm."

Then, with one exception, everyone laughed. The one exception blushed.—Chicago Post.

A Queer Son.

Reciprocity.

"That fellow Wanterby's an upstart," declared Wanterby's neighbor. "He's forever boasting about his grandfather."

"That's no more than fair," piped the oldest inhabitant. "I recall to this day how Wanterby's grandfather used to brag about him when he was a baby."—Philadelphia Press.

A Strong Indication.

"Do you think he has any real business ability?"

"I should say he had. I did him the favor of going on his bond, without compensation, the other day, and blamed if he didn't let me furnish the war tax stamp for the document."—Chicago Times-Herald.

PICTURES OF THE SLAIN.

Grotesque Enterprise of a Case Hardened Photographer Who Took "Sittings" of the Dead.

There are those who recall interestingly recollections of photographing the dead. With one of these the narrator is acquainted, and in a recent conversation he indulged in tales of experiences that are worth repeating, says the Philadelphia Times. Such he: "I first took pictures of the dead on the battle field of Antietam. It was a warm September morning, three days after the great fight. I had a boy with me to assist in preparing the chemicals. He only worked for an hour. With boyish curiosity he went poking about and picked up an unexploded shell. He was then on the bank of a creek about half a mile off. I never knew how it happened, but the bomb exploded and almost blew him to pieces.

"It would be useless to go over the scene of that carnage again to tell of the ghastly aftereffects of that awful fight, which made so many widows and orphans. I was nervous and excited, and you can depend it did not tend to quiet my nerves when I unwittingly planted one leg of the camera stand on the chest of a dead union drummer boy. By some means he had been partly buried in a patch of soft soil. Nothing was visible but the buttons of his blouse and one foot. A 'dark-room' was improvised by hanging heavy army blankets from the limbs of a low tree, and after taking four negatives I packed up my traps and started for Philadelphia.

It was a slow and dangerous journey, but I made it safely and began printing pictures. They sold like wildfire at 50 cents and one dollar each. I was nearly $2,000 in pocket in less than two weeks and determined to repeat the programme after the next big battle. It came with Fredericksburg. My anxiety to get a view of the field after the retreat of the union army led to trouble. I was captured by three confederate stragglers and taken down the Rappahannock in a rowboat. They suspected me of being a spy, I suppose, and the photographing apparatus merely a blind. At any rate the valuable camera, chemicals, jars and everything else were dumped into the river. I was taken before Gen. Lee, personally, and charged with being a spy. No explanation availed anything. It was not believed that I was a photographer. One of Gen. Lee's staff—I think his name was Murray—proposed that I should be tested. An aid de camp galloped off and procured the necessary apparatus and I photographed the general and his entire staff on a day cold enough to freeze the words in a man's mouth. The officers were evidently impressed with the idea of my innocence. A short consultation followed, and then Gen. Lee himself said to me: 'Sir, it appears that you are simply engaged in earning a livelihood, and I believe honestly. You are at liberty.' I was blindfolded, put back in the boat and landed within 20 miles of where Burnside had his winter quarters. From that day to this I never knew where I was. Here is the picture of Lee and his staff," and the photographer exhibited the faded likeness which had probably saved his life.

ALCOHOL AND FOOD.

That the Former Cannot Come Under the Head of the Latter is Clearly Proven.

That alcohol in the system is utilized or transformed in any way into food, force or caloric, is flatly contradicted and fully proven to be erroneous by the experiments of leading scientists all along down the decades for the last 50 years.

No article which cannot be utilized as, or converted into, force or tissue, thereby helping to repair the wear and tear of the body, and assisting in its normal functional duties, can be classed as food in any possible way.

Our chemico-physiologists, with their eye of science, long since discovered that the human organism requires for its upbuilding and sustenance the following essential elements, viz.: Fatty matters, sugar, albuminoid substances and water, with various salts in solution. So we find the very first food provided by an all-wise Providence for the young infant, the mother's milk, composed of just these necessities, and not one drop of alcohol is there to be found in it, except when the stupid physician orders the mother, or she volunteers to take it into her stomach in some form, when it soon finds its way into her lacteal secretion, poisoning the young infant's pure little system, which not infrequently creates a diseased appetite for the poison, and in after years ends in dissipation and drunkenness.

The albumen so necessary to human existence is found in the casein of the milk, which furnishes the required nitrogenous element of food. So, as we trace the products along down through all the great line of animal and vegetable elements, we find that in them exists nitrogen. To produce or build up tissue growths, nitrogen is one of the essential requisites. That requirement alone precludes any claim to the food properties of alcohol, as no one will argue that it contains the slightest element of that ingredient. Yet we now and then hear of some one who has run off on tangent with the delusion that alcohol is a food and a medicine. What a strange agency. Would any advocate of that theory claim both these great offices for it at the same time, or that it would act as a food to-day and as a medicine to-morrow? Has nature provided a separating machine in our bodies to divide the pretended ingredients of alcohol so that when food is required it can be disconnected from the medicinal part, and vice versa?

Preposterous! Food indicates those nutrimental that, when taken into the stomach, will nourish the body, sustain its force, repair its waste and generate heat for its existence.

Dr. Lees, who spent a lifetime in scientific investigations, says of alcohol: "It is foreign to the human body and its normal wants, one that never gives power like food, nor aids circulation like water, nor produces heat like oil nor purifies like fresh air, nor helps elimination like exercise."

The Moral Side.—Suspending the consideration of food properties, we find a long line of moral and physical evils following alcoholic indulgences, which go down the ages together, leaving disaster and wrecks in their pathway. Those practices impair the intellect, deface beauty, create disease, destroy health, banish wealth, invite poverty drive away reason and foster madness, taint the breath and pollute the tongue, make strong men weak and wise men fools, convert homes of affluence into those of misery, wretchedness and want, change industry into idleness, convert a paradise into a hell, strip men of respectability and clothe them with dishonor, rob churches and fill prisons, transform some of the best of men into the vilest brutes, change law-abiding men into reckless vagabonds, transform men of prayer into vile blasphemers, change peaceable men into pugilistic loafers, shorten lives and send disgraceful deaths, convert purity into ruthless profligacy, rob men of their time, money and lands, make orphans and widows, disturb peace and increase crimes, enhance taxation, send corruption and vice into governmental halls and stamp our country's name with dishonor.—D. H. Mann, M. D., in International Good Templar.

Alcoholism Among Children. The German authorities at Bonn made an investigation upon alcoholism among pupils in primary schools, which shows a startling state of affairs. Sixteen children out of 100 did not drink milk, and absolutely refused to drink it because it had no savor. Of 237 pupils, seven to eight years of age, there was not one who had not drunk wine, beer, or whisky, although 23 per cent. of these children were given their glass of whisky every day by their parents that they might become strong. As a result of these investigations it was proved that children most accustomed to alcohol showed the least intelligence; children who had their morning glass of whisky and found no savor in milk showed great inattention during the morning hour. A curious fact shown by this investigation was that young girls who took whisky with their breakfast were more numerous than young boys.—Journal of Inebriety.

Coffee, Alcohol and Tobacco. By a busy physician it is stated that at least two-thirds of his practice comes from the...

liquors, often almost wholly obliterates the sense of taste. The same may be said with regard to the sense of smell with snuff takers. Numerous observations prove that the use of tobacco is a potent cause of disease of the eye. Total blindness from degeneration of the optic nerve has been traced to this cause. Recent observations point to tobacco and alcohol as the great cause of color blindness, and this accounts for the fact that it is much more common in men than in women.—Nashville American.

A GROWING DANGER.

Inevitable Consequences to Follow a Forgetting of the Day of Rest Among Railroad Employees.

The cases are growing startlingly more numerous of railway engineers, of pilots and motormen dying instantly at their posts. The lives and limbs of scores, hundreds, are thus imperiled. The pilot of a crowded New York city ferry was recently found at a critical moment stiff in death. The engineer of a lightning express, running at full speed on a "slow" section, with his hand on the lever, dead, June 13, 1900, a Chicago motorman did not stop as usual at a steam road crossing, and an engine grazed the rear of his electric car loaded with passengers. He was found with staring eyes, stone dead. Two New Jersey engineers, brothers, have been stricken with paralysis. We have numerous records of these and other similar cases. What is the matter? Their work is exceptionally straining on the nerves, and if they did not have the rest of one day in seven these sudden deaths would be to be expected, if they did not actually happen. Right here, too, is the cause of railway accidents that often cost stockholders from hundreds of thousands to a million or more, in the crash of a second of time. Therefore, "pious" reasons aside, there is danger to life and property in Sunday steam and trolley travel. Danger every day in the week because of it. The cruel tyranny of Sunday work, thus enforced on laboring men, has made white slaves of millions of our countrymen. It is no longer safe to ride on sleeper or day trains; on trolley or ferry. And capital and labor both have cause to cry out against Sunday work as an enemy. Do I help this enemy by influence or example in favor of Sunday work in any form?—George May Powell.

REMEDY FOR GOUT.

Raw and Ripe Fruits of Any Kind Are Said to Relieve Those Afflicted.

While the vegetarian regards meat as a poison, the fruitarian looks with no enthusiastic eye upon the lenten fare of the vegetarian. To him uncooked fruit is the only natural food, and, though but a small body, men do exist in this cold country who eat nothing but fruit. For a long time they had found their chief opponents in medical men, who affirm that for gouty patients fruit is dangerous, some even asserting that fruit may actually engender gout. Now, however, a little ray of sunshine penetrates the gloom where they sit in glorious isolation cracking nuts and chewing raisins with all the sylvan simplicity of monkeys.

A medical man, says the London Globe, has arisen to declare that he has frequently cured gout with grapes and oranges. Further than this, he declares that his standing advice to gouty friends is: "Eat plenty of fresh, ripe, uncooked fruit." But while the "tendency" of fruit is to get rid of gout altogether, it seems that severe gouty headaches and bilious attacks may be caused by eating it, particularly by patients who have long ago shut the tempting apple and pear from their regimen. Therefore, though the fruitarian wax bolder for this medical testimony, the gouty would be wise to take their fruit sparingly at first and not by any means make it their one and only form of sustenance. It is, at any rate, interesting to find that medical men are beginning to look with kinder eyes on the fruit, but at present it would probably be difficult to encounter two doctors agreeing over one suffering gouty person that his salvation lay in the fruit diet.

PAYS EVERY DAY.

Singular System Pursued by a New York Millionaire Merchant Toward His Employees.

One New York millionaire who earned his fortune by his own efforts under rather disadvantageous circumstances conducts his business in a way that is highly original in many particulars, says the New York Sun. One of the most striking of these is his method of dealing with his employees. They are paid every night, and at the close of every business day all the expenses of running the business have been met and the manager knows just how his affairs stand as far as that feature of the business is concerned. But that is not his object in paying salaries every day instead of following the usual custom and waiting until the end of the week or month. He employs many men who have lost former situations through intemperance, although they were all men of ability in their field. If they severed their connection practically with the establishment at the close of every business day it made no difference to the employer what happened to the man after he left his establishment. By this means the millionaire is able to get the service of good men at a small salary and have no responsibility as to their conduct after they have received their pay for one day's work.

LETTERS BY PHONOGRAPH.

Novel Plan to Have the British Soldiers in Africa Talked to from Home.

An entirely new and up-to-date method of sending love messages to the dear ones at the front has been adopted by many prominent ladies of London, among them Mrs. Baden-Powell, says a London paper.
The novel idea was conceived by Col. Gouraud, an American, who suggested that the phonograph might be made available for transmitting messages that would be appreciated far more by the boys in khaki than letters. Imagine, he said, the feelings of those same boys when they could hear the well-remembered voice of mother, sister, sweetheart or wife whispering right into their ears.
The idea took like wildfire and Lord Vivian left for the front a few days ago with a whole load of the phonographic missives. An affecting incident was connected with the sending of Mrs. Baden-Powell's message to her son. She got as far as "Shevie, do you hear your mother's voice?" when she broke down and it was some time before she could recover sufficiently to complete the record.

Electrical Music.
In the German Annalen der Physik, an interesting experiment with a vacuum tube is described by J. Stark. When a continuous electric current is sent through a tube, matters being so adjusted that the current is only just able to pass, the current becomes periodic, and the cathode, being set into vibration, gives forth a musical note. The vibrations are ascribed to the periodical attractions exercised by the electric charges on the walls of the tube.

The sparrow is a wise bird; up at the faintest streak of dawn, he is on the go until the shades of night are fully developed. CONSUMPTION CURES.

Observations Made at the Naples Medical College.

Means Suggested for the Prevention of Spread of the Disease—Question of Contagion in Public Places.

Some very novel suggestions in regard to consumption were made at the medical congress which met the other day at Naples. The physicians were unanimously of opinion that the various governments ought to take some steps to ward off the evil, says the New York Herald, and Dr. Callivokos, of Athens, even maintained that no one should be employed in a public or private capacity who was not absolutely free from the disease, and that any persons who are now employed and who have in their systems the germs of consumption should at once be dismissed. The exact physical condition of each employe, he pointed out, could be readily ascertained by making a thorough medical examination, which should be compulsory.

Dr. Aussel, of Lille, said that it would be well if every house owner were obliged, before he rented his property, to make a full statement, not only in regard to its sanitary condition, but also in regard to all cases of infectious diseases which may have occurred in it as well as the number of times that it was necessary to disinfect it. He also maintained that the laws of hygiene should be clearly taught both to children and to soldiers.

Attention was then called to the fact that in several government offices in Italy consumptive employes are now assigned to work which does not bring them into contact with the public, and that the women employed in the national cigar factories are now regularly examined by government physicians, with the result that those among them who are found to be consumptives are discharged, but receive a small pension for life. The question of contagion on railroad carriages was also discussed, and Dr. Saranelli said that the evil would doubtless be much lessened if the companies would only substitute linoleum for the customary carpets in the carriages, and if, instead of the velvet and other heavy stuffs on the seats and cushions, they would use some light material, which could be easily washed.

At present, he pointed out, tuberculosis is not officially classified among the infectious diseases, and, therefore, railroad companies are not bound to disinfect the carriages in which consumptives have traveled. In any case, on account of the tapestry, curtains, velvet and decorations of such carriages, it would be very difficult to disinfect them thoroughly. Finally, Dr. Saranelli maintained that on every railroad there should be special carriages for consumptives, but he did not explain how consumptive passengers could beajoined or coerced into occupying these carriages during their journeys. That they would occupy them of their own volition, and thus publicly exploit themselves as the victims of a contagious disease, is not likely.

"The Influence of Climate on the Evolution of Consumption" was the title of a paper by Dr. Sannelongue, in which he described a curious experiment recently made by him. Selecting 150 healthy guinea pigs, he inoculated them on the same day with the culture of Koch's bacillus of consumption, and then he divided them into three equal lots, one of which he sent to the seacoast, another to the mountainous region of Haute-Loire, while the third lot he placed in the cellar of his laboratory. In due time he examined the animals and found that those which he had placed in the cellar were the strongest and healthiest. He accounts for this strange result on the ground that there was an equal temperature in the cellar. He adds, however, that what may benefit guinea pigs may prove prejudicial to human beings, and thus tacitly admits that the air of the seashore or mountains is likely to prove more beneficial to consumptives than that of a cellar.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst says a syndicate of wealthy residents of New York contemplate starting a city model daily newspaper, an ideal non-partisan journal, which cannot be controlled by politicians, stock-jobbers or trust promoters. It is to tell the news in a non-sensational form, and be up-to-date in equipment as to editorial staff and mechanical appliances. The model daily newspaper, like the model man or woman, model politician or model church, is something impossible of attainment. No man, nor set of men exists who can suit all the people of any community, large or small, in the editorial management of a newspaper.

Arthur Jones, a young man of Truxton, Cortland county, was abducted and hazed by a party of indignant girl pupils from the Tully Union school. Several secret societies exist among the pupils of the institution, and much rivalry has been developed between the boys and girls. It was charged that Jones had possessed himself of certain signs and secret information of one of the girls' societies, and they determined to get even. They succeeded in waylaying, gagging and binding him in the most approved fashion. He was then carried to a patch of woods, and after an initiation that was more interesting than agreeable, was left to free himself and return home as best he could. It is said that the average college hazing is mild compared with the
