King Ferry School Notes.

Our school has started off nicely with the largest registration in its history. There are 43 pupils in the high school room, 16 in the senior room, 25 in the intermediate and 30 in the primary department, 114 in all.

Alvin Hunt, who is now a pupil in our school and a member of the King Ferry Pig club, won first prize with his pig at the Moravia fair.

The exhibit of the Homemaking and Agricultural departments at the State fair resulted successfully for the school, King Ferry winning the first prize of $90.

As yet no prizes have been offered for prize-speaking which will mean that the contest which was pre-eminently successful last June will not be repeated again this year unless an early response is received.

The new district superintendent,
Dr. Fred V. Lester, of Venice was a pleasant caller at the school Monday.

This is the first year that Fourth Year Agriculture has been taught at King Ferry. The course consists of the principal topics in Farm Management and Cost Accounting and Farm Mechanics. Among the topics considered will be "The Gas Engine," fundamental principals of farm machinery and machines, the farm water supply, surveying, and special farm problems.

King Ferry Grange won a prize of $150 at the Moravia fair. The organization is capable of doing better next time. Let's get in the game.
Come out and hear about it.

Dairymen Decide to Pool Milk.

About 50 members of the Cayuga
County Dairymen's Co-operative League met Saturday night in Auburn for the purpose of making known their individual stands, in connection with the recently advanced milk pooling plan which dairymen all over the state are discussing and adopting as a means of frustrating an attempt big milk consuming companies have made to make the farmers carry the burden of heavy financial losses they have suffered as a result of market conditions.

The milk pooling idea, in brief, is a covenant made between the milk producer and the Dairymen's League whereby a uniform price will be paid to the milk producer all over the state for his product. The league agrees to take care of all milk produced by its signed members during the impending milk strikes which big condensing and powdering plants in various parts of the state are threatening to bring about.

East Venice Grange Celebration.

The East Venice Grange held a celebration in Grange hall Saturday, Sept. 25, in honor of its 20th anniversary, it being one of the oldest in the county.

A chicken pie dinner was served about noon, which was declared to be very fine.

A program was given in the afternoon when W. W. Ketchum, master, presided, assisted by Henry Ketchum, secretary, and Fanny Teeter, lecturer. The address of welcome was given by Chas. Stanton and a paper on the history of the Grange by Mrs. Jay Mallison. Miss Carrie Arnold gave two readings and all enjoyed the singing by Prof. and Mrs. Angevine. Rev. Mr. Lewis was one of the speakers, and the speaker of the day was Prof. Wirt of Cornell, whose subject was Rural Schools and he gave a most interesting and instructive talk.

There were at least 100 persons in attendance including visitors from other granges.

George Cheesman Dead.

George Cheesman, aged 68 years,
a resident of Auburn, died Saturday, Sept. 25, at the City hospital in that city. He was ill a comparatively short time with pneumonia and he was taken to the hospital a few hours before his death.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs.
Harry Tidd of Syracuse and Mrs.
Anson Shaw of Auburn and a sister,
Mrs. Buxton, of Indianola, Iowa.

The funeral was held in the Presbyterian church at King Ferry Monday, at 2:30 p. m., Rev. C. C. Roszell of Auburn, pastor of the First M. E. church of which Mr. Cheesman was a faithful member, officiating.

Among those in attendance were
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tidd, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Shaw and Mrs. Buxton.

Universalist Open Drive.

Next Sunday Oct. 3, will mark the official opening of a campaign to double the membership of the Universalist church throughout the world. This campaign, which is known as the Murray Crusade, is being conducted as a permanent memorial to the Rev. John Murray, who brought the Universalist interpretation of Christianity to this country under seemingly miraculous conditions 150 years ago. This past summer thousands have made their pilgrimage to the little shrine which marks the place where he first preached at Good Luck, N. J., and to Gloucester, Mass., where he held his first regular pastorate.

Teachers' Conference.

The next conference of teachers of the fourth district of Cayuga county will be held at Genoa High school building Wednesday, Oct. 13, beginning at 10 a. m.

REAL ROOSEVELT ABHORRED WILSON AND HIS WORKS

Yet Democratic Candidate for Vice Presidency Slanders Great Leader's Memory.

MAKING FUTILE ATTEMPT TO WIN ON OLD ISSUES

Fifth Cousin Removed Roosevelt Not Able to Convince Followers of T. R. by Specious Arguments.

By SCOTT C. BONE.

Touring the country as a candidate for Vice President, Franklin D. Roosevelt is vainly endeavoring to invoke the progressive spirit of 1912 in support of Wilsonism and the election of the Democratic ticket in November.

What would the real Roosevelt—Theodore Roosevelt—the immortal T. R.—say to his followers were he alive today?

Gone, he left burning words which tell all too plainly what his attitude would be at this time.

He abhorred Wilsonism, just as he abhorred Danielism, with both of which Franklin D. Roosevelt has been identified as an Under Secretary.

Condemned Wilsonism.

Theodore Roosevelt condemned Wilsonism and the whole Wilson administration in unsparring terms.

Read anew what he said at Cooper Union on November 3, 1916:

"I have been assailed because I have criticized Mr. Wilson. I have not said one thing of him that was not absolutely accurate and truthful.

"I have not said one thing of him which I did not deem it necessary to say because of the vital interests of this republic.

"I have criticized him because I believe he has dragged in the dust what was most sacred in our past and has jeopardized the most vital hopes of our future.

"I criticize him now because he has adroitly and cleverly and with sinister ability appealed to all that is weakest and most unworthy in the American character; and also because he has adroitly and cleverly and with sinister ability sought to mislead many men and women who are neither weak nor unworthy, but who have been misled by a shadow dance of words.

"He has made our statesmanship a thing of empty elocution.

"He has covered his fear of standing for the right behind a veil of rhetorical phrases.

"He has wrapped the true heart of the nation in a spangled shroud of rhetoric.

"He has kept the eyes of the people dazzled so that they know not what is real and what is false. So that they turn, bewildered, unable to discern the difference between the glitter that veils evil and the stark realities of courage and honesty, of truth and strength.

"In the face of the world he has covered this nation's face with shame as with a garment."

So much for Theodore Roosevelt's opinion of Wilson and Wilsonism in support of which Franklin D. Roosevelt, life-long Democrat, would now invoke the progressive spirit of 1912!

Abhorred Danielism.

And what did Theodore Roosevelt think of Daniel's administration of the Navy Department of which the Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has been a more or less conspicuous factor and part?

In a speech on "Americanism and National Defense" at Chicago, October 23, 1916, Theodore Roosevelt said:

"More harm has been done to the navy by the politicians in power during the last three years than in the preceding thirty. Whatever good has been accomplished in the navy during the last three years has been done by naval officers, who, in most cases, have been snubbed and punished for their proposals as long as it was safe to do so; whereas Mr. Daniels now turns and claims credit for what was thus forced upon him.

"In short, throughout President Wilson's term there has been neglect or positive maladministration in connection with departmental organization in navy yards, aeronautics, mines and torpedoes, and in all other matters affecting the efficiency of the fleet and the enthusiasm of its officers and men.

The activity and energy of the Navy Department under President Wilson has been primarily concentrated upon schemes aimed at vote-getting or advertising."

This, then, is what Theodore Roosevelt thought of the administration of the Department from which Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat and exponent of Wilsonism, vain would reach the Vice Presidency and have progressives of 1912, followers of the real Roosevelt, help to keep the Democratic party in power and make Wilsonism endure!

It is inconceivable that any true follower of Theodore Roosevelt will be led to support a proposition...

Home Town Helps

TREES SERVE TWO PURPOSES

Give Beauty to Town and Will Be Source of Revenue to Future Generations.

The women's clubs of the country have organized for state-wide tree planting. In California each district of the federated clubs has been supplied with tree-planting data from the association. In Georgia the tree planting was done in the winter by the Georgia federation, when thirty-one memorial groves were planted under the direction of Julia Lester Dillon. In Delaware the federation is co-operating with the great road-building program there in order to have the highways of the state become one big "road of remembrance." "This is one of the biggest programs before any state," says Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry association. "Every state should watch what General du Pont and the state of Delaware does. Samuel C. Lancaster, the highway engineer who built the Columbia river highway, has submitted a comprehensive plan to General du Pont. This includes tree planting on an intelligent scale.

"The greatest educational campaign the country ever saw is being worked out through the schools of the country. The coming generation will know the value of forestry to the country in which it lives. Our forests are like a bank. We must deposit in them if we hope to draw out. Through the planting of trees and the study of outdoor life the children will easily take up the economic side of the subject and understand what must be done toward saving our forests."

MAKE WAR ON TREE PESTS

Method by Which School Children May Be of Great Service to the Community.

Public school children of Trenton, N. J., are setting a good example to the country in their war on the tussock moth. The American Forestry association at Washington wants to receive reports on what other cities are doing in this regard and would like to find the city with the best record in collections. In the Trenton Times this account is found.

"Boys and girls of the public schools of the city are still continuing their activities in the tussock moth campaign, and their last report shows that during the month the boys and girls have collected 1,284,809 cocoons. Last year the pupils collected 2,000,000 during the entire campaign, and their total this year will far exceed that.

"A splendid record has been made by the McClellan school pupils, who head the list with 1,186,795 cocoons. The other schools reported as follows: Centennial, 2,237; Cook, 15,049; Hamilton, 13,059; Hewitt, 46,000; Jefferson, 2,867; McClellan, 1,186,795; McKinley, 5,093; Parker, 953; Washington, 2,610; Columbus, 11,152; total, 1,285,809."

Poisoning Field Mice.

Field mice are very destructive to fruit trees this year and do not overlook some ornamental trees. The mice can be poisoned by cutting apples into pieces about an inch square and placing a small amount of powdered strychnine in each piece.

Poisoned wheat can also be used to kill mice. Bailey gives the following formula: Scald five quarts of clean wheat and drain. Take two-thirds of a cupful of white sugar, dissolve with sufficient water to make a syrup, add powdered strychnine, stir thoroughly until a thin paste is formed. Pour this on the damp wheat. Stir thoroughly for at least fifteen minutes. Add one pint of powdered sugar, stir; add five to ten drops of rhodium and the same quantity of oil of aniseed. Scatter where the mice are troublesome.

Washing the trunks of trees in mild weather with lime wash in which is placed paris green, sulphur and tobacco dust will usually keep rabbits and mice away.

On Tearing Down Houses.

Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich and hence is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is homeless pull down the house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built.—Abraham Lincoln in reply to a letter from the Workmen's Association of New York.

Plants Along Walls.

Soils near walls are usually too dry in summer and too poor. Before planting take out the soil to a depth and width of three feet, adding manure, and leaf mold if it is to be had. After mixing, return the soil and allow it to settle. Climbers and other plants may then be grown there successfully. Water will be required daily during hot weather.

Plant Trees and Shrubs.

A tree or two and a few shrubs about a house make a great difference in its appearance either winter or summer.

Eighteen thousand pounds of wool will be pooled by members of the Cattaraugus County Sheep Breeders' association, say officers. Ten thousand pounds were pooled last year. The county organization has joined the state federation of sheep breeders and will join the state pool. Between 5,000 and 6,000 pounds have been listed for the pool. There is indication that the total will reach 18,000 pounds.

Dairymen throughout the southern tier are much concerned over a report sent out from New York that beginning Oct. 1, all manufacturers of condensed, powdered and evaporated milk will refuse to buy milk at any price. The report states that this action is due to market conditions, but so far the managers of the many plants in Steuben county have received no orders to close down. Officials of the Newark Milk and Cream company claim they have no intention of closing down, and will continue the manufacture of condensed milk. Other big plants also intend to keep going unless orders to the contrary are received in the next few days.

Growers and canners alike are interested in a survey now being made in co-operation with the state college of agriculture, on the cost of raising canning crops, such as peas, beans, tomatoes and corn. For a long time farmers have felt that they were not getting enough for these crops, yet the packers were unwilling to pay more, without evidence on costs of production. During the past summer records on peas have been taken in Ontario and Orleans counties, and these are to be followed by records on corn, string beans, and tomatoes in other counties where canning crops are important. As a result of the survey prices will be agreed upon that will enable the growers to estimate their cost of production and the packers to estimate their cost of production.

MAKING WAR ON DISEASE MENACE

American Red Cross Announces Budget of $48,200,000 For Current Year.

NEW DISASTER RELIEF PLAN

Continuance of Heavy Work Abroad Deemed Necessary to Protect United States—$21,000,000 Less Than Last Year.

A program of relief and service toward which appropriations of $48,200,000 have been made has been outlined for the American Red Cross for the fiscal year, July 1, 1920, to July 1, 1921, according to official announcement by national headquarters of the organization at Washington. The figures for 1920-21 are $21,000,000 below those of 1919-20, in which $69,400,000 was spent.

Important among the items of the budget for the present year is the appropriation of $31,500,000 for relief in foreign lands, which includes $11,000,000 in purchased supplies on hand and not distributed.

Must Protect United States.
This will enable the American Red Cross to continue its humanitarian effort to aid stricken peoples to re-establish themselves, to fight the disease epidemics which threaten many countries and to efface largely the remaining traces of the blight left by the World War. It is regarded as social as well as physical sanitation on a large scale that will have a direct bearing on future conditions in America.

Central Europe, the chief sufferer from the conflict, today is facing another winter of famine, pestilence and ruin. Typhus decreased much during the summer months where last winter it had its greatest stronghold, but physicians who investigated the situation at the behest of the League of Red Cross Societies have given their unqualified opinion that this coming winter will see a recurrence on an unprecedented scale. The Red Cross feels it must continue preventive measures abroad to keep this and other deadly maladies from the United States.

Millions for Work at Home.
When the disease was sweeping Central Europe last winter the American Red Cross, with the aid of the governments of afflicted nations, undertook the fight against it. Hospitals were established wherever possible and food and clothing were distributed to the undernourished populations, who by reason of their undernourishment were easy prey to the epidemics. Where disorganization contributed last year to the great inroads made by the disease, by virtue of its knowledge of the disease and the presence of well established hospital centers, the American Red Cross this year will undertake the work with a new confidence.

Including the total of $11,000,000 in supplies left from the last fiscal year, the $31,500,000 is $21,000,000 less than the expenditures for 1919-20.

Appropriations for domestic activities total $16,700,000.

The largest item of this "home" budget is $7,800,000 for civilian relief work. This includes service and assistance for families of soldiers, sailors and marines, and work incidental to disaster. Of the total appropriation for civilian relief, $5,000,000 is held in reserve for the carrying out of actual disaster relief.

Reduced Overhead Expense.
The Red Cross invariably is the first thought of a community visited by calamity. With this in mind, it was determined by the Executive Committee in preparing the budget of 1919-20 to have a fixed reserve fund from which to draw in these instances.

For assistance to soldiers, sailors and marines in hospitals and in camps this year $1,900,000 has been set aside. Four million two hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated for improvement of health and prevention of disease throughout the United States during the current twelve months. The Red Cross is co-operating fully with the United States Health Service in this work and through its Junior Red Cross is doing much to spread among children the principles of sanitation. An appropriation of $1,000,000 has been made for developing the peace time program of the Red Cross by service to its chapters in all regions.

The appropriation of $48,200,000 is exclusive of the local expenditures of the 3,000 or more chapters. Administration expenses this year will be $1,800,000. Last year they were $2,800,000.

A trial of supreme court will be convened in Bath, Steuben county, with Justice S. Nelson Sawyer of Palmyra presiding. The calendar is the largest at any term of court held in the county in more than 100 years, numbering 233 cases, of which 200 are triable by jury.

The Sage bill, carrying out recommendations of Gov. Smith that the state appropriate $3,000,000 for the construction of a hospital for its world war veterans who have become mentally disabled was passed by both houses of the legislature. It now goes to the governor.

The value of the grape crop in the Chautauqua-Erie belt in 1919 was $4,018,764. The total tonnage in the belt last year was 49,212, of which the local factories used 21,358 for grape juice and grape products and 21,358 tons were shipped. It is estimated that this year's crop will be 80 per cent normal.

After two years of no school in the Drew district in the town of Urbana, near Hornell, again the bells are ringing and classes being held. The reason why was because there were no students. But in the last few days two Polish families have moved into the district and now there are 19 students.

Sixty-seven citizens of the town of Ellicott, Chautauqua county, have signed a petition asking the supervisors to divide the town and request that a new town be created south of the shore of Chautauqua lake and Chadokin river and west of the limits of Jamestown, to be known as the town of Lakewood.

The greatest corn crop, known as the wonder crop of the season in the Genesee valley, is now being harvested. With the high price growers seem greatly pleased in their season's work. For some weeks after the seed was placed in the ground the weather was so unfavorable that the corn crop was predicted as a failure.

For the first time since the closing of the World War hobo has appeared in the rural communities surrounding Albion. These tramps appear to have been among the undesirable in factories and other places where they were employed during the draft crusade and war and were among the first to be released by their employers.

In view of the fact that the great milk plants of the state have given notice that they cannot accept any milk after Oct. 1, the dairymen in the vicinity of Sinclairville, Ellicottville and Randolph have formed a combination to take care of the milk. The movement is spreading and the dairymen of other sections of Chautauqua county have called meetings for the purpose of taking such steps.

The Atlas Milk Products company, Inc., will close its plant at Elba temporarily on Oct. 1. Genesee, Orleans and Monroe county farmers within a radius of 24 miles from the plant will be hit hard unless they can find a new market for their milk. The plant has been taking 65,000 pounds or 7,500 gallons of milk a day. Rumors are prevalent that the general closing is a part of a concerted effort of manufacturers of milk products to break up the dairymen's league, an organization of milk producers which has done much to raise the price of milk for the farmers in the last two years.

The monthly report of cold storage holdings issued by Commissioner Porter of the division of foods and markets showing the amount of food stuffs in storage on Sept. 1 indicates that considerably larger quantities of creamery butter, American cheese, frozen lamb and mutton, miscellaneous meat and frozen fish were in storage on that date on the same date last month. The greatest increase shown is in the amount of creamery butter in storage which is considerably more than four and one-half million pounds greater than the amount held last month. Next comes frozen lamb and mutton showing an increase of approximately four million pounds.

Genoa School Notes.

The Genoa Union school has now been in session for three weeks and is progressing finely. There is a total registration of 83 pupils of whom 38 are in the high school department, 12 in the intermediate and 33 in the primary.

The faculty would be glad to have parents and friends visit the school occasionally, thus showing their interest and encouraging both teachers and pupils to make the school a success.

Miss Eunice Badger of Syracuse, physical training director for this district, visited our school Friday of last week and outlined the work in physical training for the present term.

The local school baseball team won their first victory this term by defeating the King Ferry school team on the fair grounds here Friday afternoon by a score of 12 to 11. The local school team was represented by the following players:—Bernat, R. F.; Shaw, L. F.; Smith, C. F. Plunkett, C.; Swartwood, 1st. B.; Myer, 2nd B.; Armstrong, 3rd B.; Grey, S. S., and Nesbit, P. Mr. McDermott of King Ferry acted as umpire. Nesbit pitched a fine game for the local team. Armstrong and Swartwood also played a stellar game.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN PEACE TIME

Every person mentally and phys- ically able to do so should take the American Red Cross instruction in First Aid Treatment. It's a life-saver and a pain-saver on the farm, in the factory, on the street, at the office, in the home, wherever accidents may occur. Here's a young wife who ineptly wielded a can-opener and received an ugly gash across her wrist from the jagged can lid. Mother was there, however, with the First Aid kit and Red Cross instruction, and probably prevented a case of blood poison by giving prompt and proper treatment before the doctor arrived.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN PEACE TIME

Boys and girls who learn early to take proper care of their teeth, throats, eyes, ears and stomachs, have made a long step toward healthy manhood and womanhood. Through its public health and nursing services, the American Red Cross aims eventually to reach all school children with teachings regarding disease prevention and health promotion. Here's a school nurse treating a little girl for sore mouth, at the same time implanting a valuable lesson in teeth-brushing and proper diet.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN PEACE TIME

There remain in army hospitals throughout the country more than 20,000 soldiers still being treated for wounds received overseas. Red Cross workers give them the same sort of friendly aid—only more of it—that was given during the war. Furthermore, the Red Cross is teaching these lads occupations at which they can later make a living and is keeping in touch with their home folks in order that no dependents may suffer for lack of funds.

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IN PEACE TIME

About 12,000,000 boys and girls, composing nearly half the school population of the United States, are members of the Junior Red Cross, which is helping the children of Europe, while at the same time it is doing an important work here at home. Kallitan Chetwoif, who wears the engaging smile shown in this picture, is the son of an Indian guide and trapper. He is the youngest Junior living in the neighborhood of Juneau, Alaska—and he sends greetings to fellow Juniors of the United States.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

THE PRISONER OF ZENDA

By ANTHONY HOPE

Condensation by Prof. William Fenwick Harris

Anthony Hope, known outside the world of books as Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins, was born in London, Feb. 9, 1863, the son of a clergyman. He married an American woman. It is to be hoped he may have many more children of the brain to follow in the footsteps of "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "The Dolly Dialogues."

RURITANIA was not England, or the quarrel between Duke Michael and Rudolf Rassendyll could not have gone on, with the remarkable incidents which marked it, without more public notice being directed to it. It is perhaps as strange a thing as has ever been in the history of a country that the king's brother and the king's personator, in a time of profound peace, near a placid, undisturbed country town, under semblance of amity, should wage a desperate war for the person and life of the king.

Yet such was the struggle between Black Michael and Rudolf Rassendyll, both of the royal house of Elphberg, but of very differing antecedents. The one was well known to the royal palace at Strelsau; the other was at home at 305 Park Lane, London, West. The kinship between the two was quite an accident, dating from the year 1733, when a dashing young prince, later known to fame as Rudolf the Third of Ruritania, paid a visit to London. There he was courteously entertained and was a great favorite with the ladies, especially Amelia, countess of Bursdon, and Baroness Rassendyll. In the end the prince left England rather hastily under a cloud, but not before he had fought a somewhat sanguinary duel with Countess Amelia's husband. In the years since there have appeared at intervals in the family of the Rassendylls certain sons who have been marked by the long, sharp, straight nose and the dark red hair of the royal house of Ruritania.

The years pass, many of them, and another Rudolf of Elphberg is about to be crowned king of Ruritania. The same nose, the same red hair distinguish him. The loyal half of the population of Ruritania could not sleep at night till the coronation was safely over. For the late king had left another son, by a second and morganatic marriage, Black Michael, duke of Strelsau and lord of Zenda. Though Michael bore none of the marks of the Elphbergs, he had been his father's favorite, and he cast a longing eye on the throne; all the cut-throats and blackguards of Ruritania seconded his wish, for Michael was a man after their own hearts.

Curious that young Rudolf Rassendyll should be moved by an idle curiosity to witness the coronation of Rudolf of Ruritania; still more curious that he, too, should bear the familiar nose, the same red hair. So thought Colonel Sapt, aide to the king, and Fritz von Tarlenheim, his close friend, as they came upon the young Englishman in the forest of Zenda, making his way afoot to Strelsau. So, too, thought the king when he appeared a moment later. But scandals of the past can no more be concealed in Ruritania than in England. As young Rassendyll later told the tale, first the king frowned, "then gradually the corners of his mouth began to twitch, his nose came down (as mine does when I laugh), his eyes twinkled, and, behold, burst into the merriest fit of irresistible laughter, which rang through the woods and proclaimed him a jovial soul."

"Well met, cousin!" he cried, stepping up to me, clapping me on the back, and laughing still. "You must forgive me if I was taken aback. A man doesn't expect to see double at this time of day, eh, Fritz?"

presumption," said I. "I trust it will not forfeit your majesty's favor."

"By heaven! you'll always enjoy the king's countenance," he laughed, "whether I like it or not."

All the good fellowship in the world, however, could not permit royal scandals of the past to be raked up at a coronation. Rudolf Rassendyll must not show his face at this moment in the capital of Rudolf of Ruritania. "But by thunder," cried the king, "you shan't leave Ruritania today. For you shall dine with me tonight, happen what will afterward."

That was just the trouble, "happen what will afterward." One bottle led to another, until they were all as full of wine as they had any right to be. At last the king set down his glass and leaned back in his chair.

"I have drunk enough," said he. "Far be it from me to contradict the king," said I. Indeed, his remark was most absolutely true—so far as it went. But still another bottle—this from Black Michael, praying that he drink for the love that he bears his brother. Could the king refuse? He could not. Was the wine drugged? The morning answered yes.

"If he's not crowned today," cried Sapt, "I'll lay a crown he's never crowned."

"By heavens, why?" "The whole nation's there to meet him; half the army—aye, and Black Michael at the head—shall we send word that the king's drunk?"

"That he's ill," said I, in correction. "Ill!" echoed Sapt, with a scornful laugh. "They know his illness too well. He's been ill before! As a man grows old he believes in fate. Fate sent you here. Fate sends you now to Strelsau. You'll go?"

"Yes, I'll go," said I, and I turned my eyes on the prostrate figure of the king.

"Tonight," Sapt went on in a hasty whisper, "we are to lodge in the palace. The moment they leave us you and I will mount our horses and ride here at a gallop. The king will be ready, and he must ride back with me to Strelsau, and you ride as if the devil were behind you to the frontier."

So began those wondrous days of adventure which saw the throne of Ruritania occupied by an Elphberg with all the graces of the stock, though not "of the blood." "The play actor," Rupert of Hentzau called him, when he came to know the secret, but "as good an Elphberg as ever sat upon it," declared Sapt at the end.

The wild ride to Strelsau, with Sapt instructing the English Rudolf most minutely in his past life, his family, his tastes, pursuits, weaknesses, friends, companions and servants—as Ruritania knew them—the etiquette of the court, what would be expected at the coronation—and above all of the Princess Flavia.

"God save the king!" cried the people after the coronation had been safely managed.

"God save 'em both!" whispered Sapt as his mouth wrinkled into a smile.

But if things went well at Strelsau with Rudolf Rassendyll, now crowned as Rudolf the Fifth of Ruritania and the accepted lover of the Princess Flavia, fortune did not smile on the other Rudolf at Zenda. For Black Michael had had word from there that cleared for him the mystery of the coronation. Kidding as fast as horses could lay feet to the ground, he seized poor Rudolf of Ruritania and held him prisoner. But then ensued a pretty pass.

"Aye, but he can't speak," roared Sapt in grim triumph. "We've got him. How can he denounce you without denouncing himself? 'This is not the king, because we have kidnapped the king and murdered his servant.' Can he say that? Hang me if Michael won't expose himself, if he tries to expose you."

But the most difficult situation for a loyal gentleman—and that was Rudolf Rassendyll—arose from the Princess Flavia. "I had to keep the princess devoted to me—and yet indifferent to me; I had to show affection for her—and not feel it. I had to make love for another; and that to a girl who—princess or no princess—was the most beautiful I had ever seen. How I succeeded in carrying out my program will appear hereafter."

How they fell in love, he with her and she with him, is part of the story. And how, forgetting self, he rescued the king, and robbed himself of love and throne and almost life. When he had fallen sorely wounded:

"Fritz," he called, "is the king still alive?"

"Aye, friend—dear friend," said he, tender as a woman, "thanks to the most gallant gentleman that lives, the king is alive!"

All's well that ends well. But of the Princess Flavia?

"If I can never hold sweet converse again with her, or look upon her face, or know from her her love, why, then, this side the grave, I will live as becomes the man she loves; and for the other side I must pray a dreamless sleep."

Little Probability That Hoosier Girl Will Ever Eradicate Stingy Streak From Present One.

The stingiest young man has been discovered and he is a Hoosier too—living in Terre Haute, says the Indianapolis News. He has long been termed a chair-warmer by the family of the girl whom he honors with his company, for he has never taken her to a show—even a moving picture one. As for candy and flowers, well he has not sent or brought any of either.

As he seemed to be really nice the girl decided that perhaps he was green—that he needed a little hint. So the other night she decided to give him one. After he had occupied about an hour of her time and also of her father's heat and electric light, she said: "Oh, I'm so hungry for candy. Will you go to the drug store with me so that I can get some?"

He rose to show his willingness, and the girl was delighted, believing that her plan was going to work. But when the drug store was reached and the candy was bought, he displayed no intention of paying the bill. So, of course, she had to do it herself. Furious at him and the whole world, too, she carried the box home and put it, still in its wrappings, on the piano in the living room. And all the rest of the evening she tortured him by talking of the joy she would have on the morrow when she ate the candy.

Author Gives Possible Reason Why Most Publishers Prefer the Clean-Shaven Face.

Herbert Jenkins, the London publisher who occasionally tosses off a book himself, tells the story of how on one occasion when he was dining with an author and editor, the author suddenly called his attention to a man sitting alone in a far corner of the restaurant.

"That man," remarked the author, "has character. He has a publisher from whom he can never extract money. What do you think he did?" Mr. Jenkins shook a dubious head.

"He went to the publisher's office and demanded payment. There was nothing doing. Without ceremony he seized the publisher by the beard and announced his intention of hanging on until he got a check. He got his money."

"That," continued the author, remorselessly, as he fixed a speculative eye upon Mr. Jenkins' clean-shaven chin, "is why very few publishers wear beards."

Y. M. C. A. Session in Ithaca.

Two thousand older boys and younger men leaders of New York state will gather at Cornell university the week-end following Thanksgiving Day this fall in a great conference, the largest of its kind ever attempted in the state. All denominations will be represented, including every church and Y. M. C. A. organization in the state. The delegates will be entertained by the University and the citizens of Ithaca.

A peddler who claimed to be selling linen that had been smuggled from Canada recently did a good business at Vernon, taking over $100 in a short time. Buyers discovered that the 16 yards of linen for which they had given $20 was only 6 yards linen, the balance being cheap cotton cloth folded inside the roll. Complaint was made to the state troopers and the peddler was arrested and made to disgorge, inside of an hour.

Posting Land.

Frequent inquiry is made at this office in regard to the law in relation to the posting of farms against trespassing. The following was recently printed in the Rural New Yorker and should be considered authoritative:

"A property owner has a constitutional right to post his property forbidding trespass thereupon for any purpose whatever. If posted in accordance with the provisions of Article 11 of the Conservation Law, the owner may then, where a trespass is committed, collect exemplary damages to the amount of $25 for each offense or trespass, to be recovered by the owner of the lands, in addition to which he may collect for the actual damage committed. Further, the person trespassing on properly posted land, as provided by the above section, commits a misdemeanor for which this commission has authority to prosecute. The only exception to the above is where the state has stocked a stream with the knowledge and consent of the owner, the owner cannot collect exemplary damages, even though the land is posted in accordance with the provisions of the Conservation Law.

Error in Game Laws.

About one thousand copies of the game laws for 1920 have been distributed from the office of the Conservation Commission in which the open season for partridge or ruffed grouse is given as Oct. 1 to Nov. 30, both inclusive. According to a statement just issued by the Commission, the open season for partridge or ruffed grouse, as set by law, is Oct. 15 to Nov. 15, both inclusive, and the season printed in such copies of the game laws as have been distributed is a clerical error. All game laws sent out hereafter will include the correct season, and the Conservation Commission wishes to call the attention of all who may have received the books so far circulated to this error. In the syllabus of the game laws, which is given to every applicant for a hunting license, the grouse season is correctly stated.

Barns Burn in Scipio.

During the storm of Monday evening four large barns on the farm belonging to Lawrence Hartnett in the town of Scipio were totally consumed as the result of lightning and 90 tons of hay, the grain from 35 acres of oats, 16 acres of wheat, 22 acres of barley, besides farm implements and 15 pigs were destroyed. The house caught fire several times from the intense heat, but neighbors fought valiantly with buckets and it was saved. The King Ferry fire department responded to a call for help, but the fire was too far advanced to be of much service.

Must Enroll Before Oct. 4.

Owing to the loss through the mails of the supplies of enrollment for military training, the time has been extended so that enrollment may be made up to Monday, Oct. 4. Every boy except those in the service of the U. S. army or navy, 16, 17 and 18 years of age, who are living in New York state must enroll for military training under the State Military Commission in the public school house nearest his place of residence, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 9 p. m. before Oct. 4, daylight saving time.

DOCKAGE PLAN OF FEDERAL GRADES

Weed Seeds Found in Wheat May Seriously Affect Its Value.

The percentage of dockage is an essential factor in arriving at the true value of a lot of wheat. This dockage may consist of either useful or harmful foreign materials.

The various methods of handling dockage should be carefully investigated and the one that is best suited to the needs of the local conditions should be adopted.

When a large percentage of dockage is present in wheat it is advisable to remove it on the farm or at the point of shipment and thus avoid paying the freight for the dirt, chaff, weed seeds, etc., on the basis of the rate for wheat.

The farmer should get a higher numerical grade for his wheat under the dockage system of the federal grades than he would under a system of grading that does not require a determination for dockage but lowers the grade on account of the total foreign material present in the wheat marketed at country points.

The dockage system in operation protects the farmer from the possibility of low prices fixed by the local buyer in order to insure a safe purchase on a flat-rate basis.

Write the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture, Washington, for a bulletin discussing "Dockage Under the Federal Wheat Grades." It will be sent free on request.

In grading wheat under the federal standards one of the fundamental principles is to determine the numerical grade on a dockage-free basis; that is, the dockage is first removed from the sample and the grade determination is made on the clean or dockage-free wheat. A few exceptions to this principle are noted in the following pages.

What is dockage? It is the foreign material screened from a sample of wheat to be graded, by the use of appropriate hand sieves or other cleaning devices, such as those approved by the United States department of agriculture. It consists of sand, dirt, weed seeds, weed stems, chaff, straw, grain other than wheat, any other foreign material, and in certain cases some finely broken and small shriveled kernels of wheat.

The purpose of the dockage provision in the wheat standards is to enable the person grading the representative sample to determine the approximate amount of easily separated foreign material that is in the lot of wheat. Dockage is therefore approximately the percentage of foreign material which can be readily removed from the lot of wheat by the ordinary commercial types of cleaning machinery commonly found in grain elevators and mills.

Cereal Grain Seeds.

The dockage test is made ordinarily by weighing about 1,000 grams of wheat (about two and one-quarter pounds), which should constitute a representative sample. Grams are used instead of other units for ease in determining percentages.

The dockage is separated from this 1,000-gram sample by screening with the proper hand sieves or by using an approved cleaning device such as is described under the heading "Detailed Description of the Method of Determining Dockage." The dockage so separated is weighed and the percentage is found, based on the total weight of the sample including the dockage. If the amount of dockage is below 1 per cent it is disregarded. For example, if only one-half of 1 per cent foreign material is so separated no dockage is assessed. This one-half of 1 per cent, however, would not be returned to the sample used in determining the grade. If 1½ per cent of dockage is separated, 1 per cent of dockage would be indicated in assigning the grade.

After the dockage is removed the clean sample is used in determining the grade, save for a few exceptions. Dockage does not affect the grade assigned to the wheat. If 1 per cent or more of separable foreign material is found, dockage is assessed. In inspection certificates it is indicated immediately after the statement of the grade designation, as "No. 1 northern spring, dockage 1 per cent," "No. 1 northern spring, dockage 2 per cent," "No. 2 red winter, dockage 1 per cent," etc.

Foreign Material in Wheat.

The foreign material usually found in wheat may become mixed with the wheat while growing, or with the grain at the time of threshing, or in the elevator or other place of storage during the various processes of handling or marketing. The presence of foreign material in wheat at the time of threshing may be the result of impure seed, or of certain weather conditions which are unfavorable to the growth of wheat plants but favorable to the growth of weeds. If the seed is carefully selected, cleaned, tested and treated before planting, if care is exercised in the cultivation and crop rotation, and if the wheat is carefully threshed and cleaned at the time of threshing, there should be ordinarily very little foreign material present when the crop is marketed. The foreign material in wheat may seriously affect its value in that it often increases the cost of milling and causes injury to the baking qualities of flour. Therefore, that factor is considered in the inspecting and grading of wheat. The amount of dockage present has a bearing upon the commercial value of a lot of wheat. Especially when present in large amounts, it is a factor of considerable importance to the parties interested in the marketing or storage of grain.

There are two terms in the federal wheat standards which apply to foreign material—"dockage" and "foreign material other than dockage." "Dockage" is the foreign material that is separated from the sample of wheat by the correct use of appropriate hand sieves. "Foreign material other than dockage" is the foreign material that is not separated in the screening and remains in the dockage-free sample. "Dockage" does not affect the grade, but sometimes does affect the weight of the wheat to be sold. "Foreign material other than dockage" is a factor in the grading, and definite percentages are permitted within each numerical grade.
