EVENTS IN AND OUT OF THE EMPIRE STATE.

Paragraphs of the Week's Happenings Clipped from the Tribune's Exchanges.

T. F. Duncan of Otselic Center, who is ginsenging up in Maine, dug 26½ pounds in six hours.

Mrs. Fred Sherman of Como won second prize in the ladies' driving contest at the Cortland fair.

Mrs. A. J. Austin of Brookfield has been granted a pension of $12 per month with $2 additional for one child.

Peter O'Boyle of Belfast lifted a 3-year-old child by its outstretched arms, breaking one of them in two places.

L. W. Holt of Scipioville, manager of the Northwestern Oil company of Port Huron, Mich., has returned from a western trip.

The new battleship Alabama promises to eclipse the Oregon in the matter of speed, but the Oregon will still be first in the affections of the American people.

According to the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, there are 2,000 new pianos in Kansas as a result of the good times, which goes to show that even prosperity may be overdone.

James Flanagan of Oneida fell in a fit Wednesday evening while listening to a band concert and it was a long time before he could be revived. Wonder what band it was? Couldn't have been Moravia.

J. E. Rogers of Hamilton, who recently conducted a store at West Eaton, has been lodged in the county jail on a body execution because he refused to settle a judgment of $5 and costs.

Miss Maria Manchester of Edmeston, a missionary in China, was murdered by Boxers during the recent outbreak. She engaged in the work five years ago and was stationed at Ningpo when killed.

The Covert assessors got their back up, took counsel, and as the result only about $7,000 was taken off from the rolls. Had they allowed all that was sworn off it would have reduced the list over $50,000.

Porter D. Smith of Canandaigua, whose wife and three daughters were killed at a grade crossing at Farmington last February, has brought four suits against the Lehigh company for $25,000 each. Here's hoping he will win them all.

A paper is being circulated to raise money for a fireman's inspection to be held in this village this month. The business men are responding readily and it looks like a sure thing. The State adds $100 to the subscription.—Moravia Register.

A bolt of lightning struck a hickory tree on the Kane farm next to O. M. Youngs in the town of Ledyard, shattering and completely destroying the tree. The smoke created was so thick that men threshing in a barn near by could scarcely see anything.

Letters of administration have been issued to Wm. Frost in the matter of the estate of Thos. F. Frost, late of Moravia, Bond in the penal sum of $3,200 with Wm. E. Keeler and Wm. Fitts as sureties, filed and approved. The estate consists of $1,600 worth of personal property.

The London Graphic declares, with more or less truth: "The United States are almost morbidly anxious to wash their hands of the Chinese embarrassment." Yet some of our partisan orators are telling us over here, that President McKinley is simply crazy for imperial conquest.

These judgments on failure to answer were filed in the county clerk's office Friday: John Gillespie against Alanson O'Hara for $119.19; Solon E. Bacon against Wm. S. Cotter for $27.40.

Isn't it about time to spring the theory that the reported Russo-American understanding is intended to catch the Russian vote?

Pickpockets operated very successfully among the crowds at Cortland fair. Among those who were relieved of valuables were residents of Moravia, Summerhill and other towns in Southern Cayuga. One farmer found 15 empty pocketbooks in a potato crate in his wagon.

A few days ago George Sanders, a section hand, found a package containing about $4,000 on the railroad near Fairport. The money was given to the express agent and forwarded to headquarters. Sanders received a letter of thanks from the company, and a pass on the railroad, which is good for his lifetime.

Every year there is considerable rivalry among the railroads for the honor of carrying the first bale of the new cotton crop. This year the honor falls to the Lackawanna railroad, whose fast freight line recently received the first bale of the new crop shipped from Memphis, Tenn., and consigned to B. B. Harvey & Co., of Boston.

Coroner Knapp has made public Chemist A. H. Hamilton's report of his analysis of the stomach of the late George E. Baker of Cascade. The chemist reports that there was a large quantity of alcohol in the dead man's stomach, but found no traces of poison. Coroner Knapp decided that death was due to gastritis and rendered his verdict accordingly.

Miss Lela Morgan of Richmondville, almost a helpless cripple for four years with "hip disease" from a fall, was recently taken to Dr. Sweet. He found the hip joint dislocated and within ten minutes he reduced the dislocation and she threw away her crutches and walked across the room. A large part of Dr. Sweet's work seems to be in correcting the blunders of regular doctors.

The latest diversion in rural society is that in vogue in Cohoes, where the citizens have organized a tombstone bee and go into the graveyards and straighten up the toppling headstones. This could be taken for a gentle hint to other places, for what more deplorable could there be to the sensitive mind than that of a neglected burial place, even though the spot covers not the remains of our own kindred.

Don J. Taber of Meridian was in town today. While here he made the statement to a reporter that he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff this fall in succession to George S. Wood, the present incumbent of the office. This nomination would indicate that one of the possibilities mentioned some weeks ago, Loren A. Colten, present county superintendent of the poor, will not enter the race.—Bulletin.

The centennial of the birth of Geo. Bancroft, the historian, is to be celebrated at Worcester, Mass., on the 3d of October coming. He left his birthplace as a youth to enter upon his education, and no part of his active life in literature or public affairs was passed there, but he was an interested member of the Antiquarian society of Worcester, and his body lies buried there. A commemorative monument on Bancroft hill will be dedicated and a stone marking the house where Bancroft was born will be erected at the centennial. The rank of Bancroft as America's foremost historian is fully established.

At engine house 7, Syracuse, Tuesday evening, the usual order of "We go, pull out," was given to the three horses hitched to the steamer before the driver took his seat. The team dashed at a fearful pace through the city for more than two miles, turning corners, dodging trolley cars and vehicles with great care. Finally they Venice Center--West Hill.

Aug. 25—The many picnics and excursions during August ought to satisfy the foreigners who thought we had "too few."

Some of the tourists to the Paris Exposition were only too glad to return to their homes. We heard one exclaim: "God smiles on America!"

V. Andrews was re-elected trustee and has hired Mr. Sherman of Poplar Ridge to teach the fall term.

Mr. Guindon and assistant have done a nice job painting and papering the interior of the schoolhouse, which is pronounced the "finest in the town."

Mrs. Sally Ann Wood is sojourning at her old home for a visit and among relatives.

The profound sympathy of the entire community is tendered to the widow and numerous relatives and friends of the late Chas. Mosher in their affliction.

Mrs. L. E. Wood and son, Earl D. Wood, of Cortland attended the town picnic and will visit friends and relatives in this region before going home.

L. E. Wood and mother attended the family reunion at the residence of E. E. Todd and sister. Between 40 and 50 relatives assembled. A fine day and an abundance of good cheer made a very enjoyable meeting. S. C. Bradley is still president and Miss C. A. Todd secretary and treasurer. The next meeting will be at the home of Daniel Bradley August, 1901.

Mrs. S. A. Fell is with her sister, Mrs. Louisa Howland, who is critically ill at her summer home on Deer Island.

Mrs. Emmeline Wood is about the same.

If our information is reliable it is only a question of time when we will see the cars once more.

Miss Laughlin has assumed the task of solving the "servant girl problem" which seems easy enough if servants were required to pass an apprenticeship and learn their vocation the same as other employees.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Dolton attended the Grange convention at Ithaca.

The annual Elm Grove picnics increase in interest as well as size. The 23d witnessed the largest crowd ever seen there. The Cortland orchestra rendered good music, but we missed the Genoa band with its fine playing. The chief attraction was the eloquent speech by Miss Harriet May Mills of Syracuse. Sorry we could not have heard all of the speech. Respect for so fine a lady ought to have silenced the vast company for a brief period. If they did not care to hear they should not prevent others. We heard enough to say of it that it was the most candid, common sense, reasonable presentation of the suffrage question we ever heard. If all our voters would examine the laws they live and die under, they would vote more intelligently. Our laws appear to have been based on the old regime when the world was in a state of semi-barbarism, not adapted to this enlightened age or to this country, hence need reform.

27th—The fine rain was needed and came with joy to many, as several wells in this region were dry.

During a visit to Tompkins county we were pleased to note the renovating of the church at Five Corners. The people there deserve much credit for the improvement, especially the Christian Endeavor society for furnishing the paint. While sauntering through the town of the 112 or more scholars we once knew in that district only one is now living there and she a worthy lady over 90 years old.

Poplar Ridge.

SEPT. 3—The refreshing shower of Monday was much appreciated, but still farmers are wishing for more.

Prof. and Mrs. Dickinson of Ingle-side were guests at Allen Landon's Friday.

Mrs. Ruth Avery of Genoa spent a few days last week with Mrs. S. A. Haines.

The Culver reunion and picnic will be held at Cascade on Tuesday.

Mrs. Allen Landon and Mrs. Jessie Mosher were in Auburn Saturday.

Mrs. L. E. Wood, who has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Susie Haines and others in this locality, returned to Cortland by way of Moravia on Saturday.

A number from this vicinity attended the State fair at Syracuse and report a most excellent show of stock as well as farm implements.

Mosher Bros. are laying a new walk in front of their house and store, which is a great improvement.

Miss Nellie Haines returned to Moravia on Monday for the coming school year.

Band concert at Genoa Saturday evening.

North Lansing.

SEPT. 3—Hugh Shaw and family and Mrs. Mary Howser spent Saturday and Sunday with Earl Burlingham of Moravia.

The Grangers gave an ice cream festival at their hall on Friday evening last.

The long-continued drouth begins to look serious, as the supply of water is getting very low. Many families have to draw water from the creek and the creamery for all uses. The creamery people have put up a tank which is filled once a day for the watering of horses.

Misses Alberta and Alice Barger who have been visiting at their grandfather's, Charles Barger, will return to their home at Canajoharie this week.

Frank Singer attended the fair at Syracuse last week.

Mrs. Mary Trimmer of Fleming is at her old home for a time.

Prof. Fox Holden returned to Olean last week.

Mrs. Charles Strong is in very poor health. Mrs. Lettie Lane is staying with her.

Mrs. Fitch Kelley suffered a stroke of paralysis on Friday last and is in a critical condition.

Milton, Alfred and Miss Edith Brooks will attend school at Moravia commencing tomorrow.

Misses Mae Miller and Gertrude Johnson will attend the Normal school at Cortland.

Miss Gertrude Gilfilian has returned to attend the household duties for her father during the season of evaporating apples.

Tarbell Reunion.

The twenty-fifth annual reunion of the Tarbell family was held at the home of F. L. Tarbell, West Groton, Aug. 24, and a very enjoyable occasion it proved to be.

The day was an ideal one. The large company, numbering 104 persons, seemed to be in its happiest mood. The decorations of bunting, the banner containing the mystic number 25 and the word "welcome" and the cordial and hearty greeting by the host and hostess were all in keeping with the occasion.

The spacious tent on the lawn under which the dinner was served was the scene of much merriment, jest and song. Homer, Cortland, Reading Center, Newfield, Skaneateles, Cincinnati, Middletown, and Syracuse were represented.

Five Corners.

Aug. 29—Quite a number from this section are attending the State fair. Miss Sarah Ferris is spending a few days at G. L. Ferris's.

Mrs. Lora Barnes and children returned to Auburn today, after spending a week at the home of her father, Mills Ferris.

Mrs. Conger and children spent a few days last week with her daughter at Ithaca.

G. M. Jump and Daniel De Reamer are on the sick list.

Mrs. Snover of Locke is a guest of her sisters, the Misses DeReamer.

Mrs. Mary Stevens of Candor is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ann Palmer, who is very poorly.

On Monday last some person broke into the house of Sidney Coon, taking about $17 in cash and overhauling things considerable.

Miss Leona Mott of Newark Valley and Mrs. Susie Boyer of Forks of the Creek visited at Theo. Kratzer's one day last week.

Oscar Hunt's eye does not improve as fast as it was hoped it would, but is somewhat better at this writing.

SEPT. 4—We had a very refreshing shower yesterday, although it did not benefit the wells, which are very low or dry. A great many of our farmers have to draw water for their stock.

School commenced this morning with Miss Lizzie Smith of Heddens as teacher.

Irving Snushall and family are visiting in Seneca county for a few days.

J. D. Todd is entertaining an uncle from Illinois.

S. S. Close was in Auburn on business Monday and Tuesday.

Henry Labarr and wife of Pennsylvania are visiting at Edw. Kibler's.

Mrs. Sanford of Ithaca visited her mother, Mrs. Philip Algert, last week.

Mrs. Wm. Mott of Newark Valley was called here last week by the illness of her daughter who is at Wm. Boyer's.

Mrs. Bunnell of King Ferry is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Smith.

King Ferry.

SEPT. 5—Mrs. Chas. Randall and daughters have returned to their home in Amsterdam.

Irving J. Brown of Athens, Pa., is spending a few days in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roys who have been spending some time with her father, I. C. Hall and family, have returned to their home at Hoo-sick Falls.

Mrs. Wm. King and mother, Mrs. Cornelia Avery, of Aurora were calling on friends here on Friday.

Mrs. Lizzie Jones of Auburn visited friends here the first of the week.

Misses Mary Shaw and Jennie Mitchell returned to their school at Moravia on Tuesday.

Hub Willits witnessed the ball game between the Watsons and Moravians at Moravia on Tuesday.

On Saturday evening at Adelbert H. Smith's a pleasant lawn supper was given in honor of Mr. Asa Atwater of Kansas City, who is visiting his father, George W. Atwater. A score or more were gathered at the board, including the latest edition of the fourth generation. The soft light of the half moon filtered through boughs above, and touched with beauty the greenery around—a picture to remember. Young Mr. Atwater is another of our temperate and energetic Eastern boys who has "struck out" for himself in the now mid-West, Kansas City. By intense application and toil, he not only kept his grip at the start, but prepared himself for "higher things." Of such are the coming business men. First a determined, successful struggle till launched on the continuous push onward and upward.

HARMONY PREVAILS. UNDATED MESSAGES.

New York Republicans Agree on Candidates.

OLD TICKET HEADED BY ODELL.

Woodruff Finally Consents to Take Second Place Again—What the Platform to Be Adopted Will Contain.

SARATOGA, Sept. 4.—The meeting of the state committee of the Republican party last night brought forth no development not already known. The selection of a temporary chairman was mere formality and, in fact, the sessions of the convention today and tomorrow will be formal, for every detail has been arranged. Such enthusiasm as might be called forth by the usual occurrences will be evident only if the proposed ratification meeting to follow the convention's work develops some fine oratory.

The almost forced consent of Mr. Woodruff to take the second place on the ticket disposes of any contest for office. It is understood that every detail of the platform has been arranged and agreed upon. There are, it is believed, no contests for a committee on credentials to dispose of, and so the serenity of what promised to be a lively event in the annals of the party will be almost unprecedented.

By those who are in control of party affairs this is looked upon as a good omen, demonstrating great harmony in the party ranks, while others are prone to believe that the lack of friction shows lack of interest. The following is the probable ticket:

For governor, Benjamin Odell, Jr., of Orange; for lieutenant governor, Timothy L. Woodruff of Kings; for comptroller, William J. Morgan of Erie; for secretary of state, John T. McDonough of Albany; for state engineer, Edward A. Bond of Jefferson; for attorney general, John C. Davies of Oneida; for state treasurer, John P. Jaekel of Cayuga.

So far as obtainable, because over some sections of the platform there is still debate, the resolutions have been decided upon which will, first, indorse strongly the administration of President McKinley, upholding the establishment and continuance of the gold standard; second, a strong indorsement of the government policy in Cuba and Porto Rico and a statement that the Philippines are ours by every right and that if it can be called expansion then the party in New York state is for expansion; third, an indorsement of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt as governor of New York; fourth, an indorsement of the legislature of 1900, specifically calling attention to the tax rate of 1.96 mills, the solution of rapid transit for New York, the protection of New York city's water supply, shortening the hours of labor, reform in tenement houses and sweatshops, the erection of a consumptive hospital, protection of the forests, improvements to the agricultural land; fifth, noncommittal plank regarding the canals, saying that there is now being made a preliminary survey, authorized by the last legislature, for the purpose of accurately determining the cost of their enlargement and that the Republican party will not favor any large expenditure unless it is certain that as a result of the enlargement of their capacity the conditions of all classes of people and all sections of the state will be materially improved; sixth, an indorsement of the national Republican ticket; seventh, a protest against trusts, suggesting that means be taken to obtain more publicity in their affairs.

It is given out that ex-Governor Frank Black will make the speech nominating Mr. Odell, Senator Depew being out of reach.

More Stranded Tourists.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Tour C of Crawford & Floyd's party of Christian Endeavor tourists has arrived in Paris from Geneva. It comprises 200 members. Some half a dozen of the party who were interviewed declare that they had to raise $500 to get out of Florence, where they were stranded. At Venice, where they were informed of the firm's failure, many had not $10 in money left. Some of them wired for funds, some went to friends in Germany and England, while about 200 continued on to Lucerne and Munich. Altogether the party is out about $10,000.

Race Horses Burned.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 1.—Shortly after the beginning of the racing in the closing day of the grand circuit meeting at Narragansett park yesterday afternoon fire broke out in one of the stables near the three-quarter turn and with great rapidity destroyed three stables, a number of cattle sheds and burned to death four race horses. Several strings of other horses, some in the burned buildings and some in others near by, were got out. The horses destroyed comprised three in the string controlled by B. Simons of London, Ont.

British Garrison in Danger.

MASERU, Basutoland, Sept. 4.—Commandoes under Fournil, Grobelaar, Bemer and Hasebrock, together with 200 of Theron's scouts, are investing the British garrison at Ladybrand. It is reported that the troops have already burned their stores, and it is feared that they will be compelled to surrender. General Hunter is hastening to their relief.

Cyclone Damages Making.

MAPEKING, Aug. 31.—A cyclone that visited Mapeking Tuesday evening did more damage than the seven months' bombardment. It blew down or unroofed numerous buildings and leveled the military camp hospital, causing much suffering among the sick and wounded. One person was killed, and two were injured, and there were many narrow escapes.

Another Dispatch Received From Minister Conger.

TRYING TO CHANGE RUSSIA'S MIND.

An Effort Being Made by the Powers to Induce the Czar to Abandon the Idea of Withdrawing Troops From Peking.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A dispatch from Minister Conger was received by the state department yesterday. It was clearly interesting in being the first word from him since his dispatch of about the 27th ult. referring to the proposed parade of troops through the imperial palace in Peking. Like that dispatch, this is dateless as to Peking. The contents were not made public, but it was stated that it contained nothing materially changing the situation. The lack of date led to a determination to take energetic steps by which all dispatches hereafter coming to the state department from China will have the date clearly stated.

Two other dispatches received from China referred to the state of health of the troops, which generally is satisfactory.

It cannot be learned that there has been any marked advancement of the negotiations between the powers touching the withdrawal of the international forces from Peking. The plain indication is that the powers are acting upon the hint conveyed in the last note of the state department and are bringing all of their influence to bear upon Russia to induce her to change her mind as to withdrawing her troops. For some reason the authorities here appear to feel a growing confidence that this effort will be successful. It is noted as a fact of great significance that the proposition is being advanced to have Prince Ching return to Peking as the acting head of the Chinese government. The suggestion is made that the progress of this wave of reorganization while the international troops are still in Peking, promising as it does speedily to provide an actual de facto Chinese government with which the nations may treat without further doubt as to its strength, may solve the present problem and put the Chinese question in a fair way to final and satisfactory settlement. Much may depend upon the attitude of Russia in this matter, and the manner in which she treats this appeal from the Chinese notables may prove to be a test of the sincerity of her expressed desire to deal with the Chinese government as soon as possible.

RAVAGING THE PEI-HO VALLEY.

Foreign Troops Indulging in Looting and Destruction.

TAKU, Aug. 30, via Shanghai, Sept. 3.—The Chinese in the Pei-Ho valley are paying dearly for the folly of their government. The retribution they are suffering exceeds the ordinary penalties of war. Along the rivers and the roads traveled by the foreign troops between Tien-tsin and Peking an orgy of looting and destruction continues, with much useless slaughter of unoffending inhabitants. While the international forces were advancing the commanders, notably the Japanese and British, enforced a certain degree of protection for property not needed for military purposes.

At that time most of the population except the fighting men had fled. But now the people are returning to their homes, only to find no shelter or rice or occupation. In the overcrowded famine threatened districts away from the river their lives and small possessions are at the mercy of bands of soldiers traveling about without officers.

The conditions prevailing leave little ground for the favorable comparison of civilized warfare with Chinese methods. Robbery, ravishing and murder are so common that every responsible person one meets contributes stories from personal observation. The walled city of Tung-chau was the only town in the pathway of the international forces whose people remained and attempted to confine business. During its occupation the Japanese patrolled the place efficiently, protected the people and prevented looting beyond the amount inevitable with an army. General Chaffee stationed a guard around the historic temple outside the wall, forbidding his troops to enter. The commanders encouraged the inhabitants to resume business, promising protection to all peaceful persons.

When the armies advanced, however, the guards were removed, only a small British and American garrison being left outside the wall. A correspondent returning from Peking found Tung-chau stripped like a cornfield after a plague of grasshoppers. Everything portable of the smallest value had been taken, goods from shops, food and furniture. Parties of soldiers of every nationality were roaming about unrestricted and presumably were doing much wanton destruction, in the spirit of devilry smashing furniture and glassware and trampling books and pictures under foot. Most of the Chinese were submitting to all this in abject fear. The few who dared to protest were kicked about.

Several bodies lay in the streets, apparently those of noncombatants. The inhabitants, without food or clothing, were huddling in back yards in a pitiable condition.

The villages to the southward are even worse despoiled. One week after Peking was taken the traveler to Tien-tsin was seldom out of sight of burning houses. Fires are started daily, although the shelter will be much needed if the troops are to hold the country during the winter.

The soldiers are having "fine sport" in using natives, who creep back to their houses or attempt to work in the fields, as targets. The sight of a farmer lying where he was shot, with a basket of grain or an armful of other produce near by, is quite common. The Russians are uous, considering their small numbers. The Indian troops and the Japanese are participants only when beyond the ken of their officers.

From the beginning of the conduct of the Russians has been a blot on the campaign. The receipt of notorious facts speaks more forcibly than could any adjectives.

Killed by a Foul Ball.

DALTON, Mass., Sept. 4.—Joseph Marsh, 23 years old, one of the best known baseball men in western Massachusetts, was killed by a foul ball yesterday afternoon. He was a former student at Holy Cross college.

ROOSEVELT AND BRYAN.

Chicago Workmen Listen to the Candidates.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—The feature of the day here was a big demonstration held by the labor organizations, including a parade and a picnic. Governor Roosevelt and William J. Bryan reviewed the parade from the same stand and later made speeches to a great crowd at the picnic grounds.

Arriving at nearly the same time Sunday, spending the night in two wings of the same hotel, reviewing a great Labor day procession from the same balcony, having lunch together at noon and speaking from the same rostrum to the same crowd in the afternoon, the two candidates completed a day unusual in American politics.

Thirty-five thousand representatives of Chicago's trades unions marched yesterday morning in celebrating the labor holiday. Representatives of 162 unions were in line, and the parade was the largest ever seen in Labor day in Chicago. Scattered through the line were many floats representing particular trades.

Shortly before 1:30 o'clock the speakers' party arrived at Electric park. In it were Roosevelt, Bryan, Samuel Alschuler, Richard Yates, Senator Mason, Carter H. Harrison, Charles A. Towne, Mayor Rose of Milwaukee, John Finerty, P. H. O'Donnell and R. M. Patterson, all of whom were bailed to make addresses.

Governor Roosevelt, who wished to catch the 5:30 o'clock train for the east, opened the speechmaking promptly before one of the largest crowds ever assembled here to listen to a political speech. He was followed by Bryan at 4 o'clock, and others spoke in the afternoon and in the evening. Bryan left this city at 8 o'clock last night on his eastern speechmaking tour.

FAR END COLLISION.

Thirteen Injured, at Hatfield, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Thirteen persons killed and over 30 others injured is the appalling record of a rear end collision between an excursion train and a milk train on the Bethlehem branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railway yesterday at Hatfield, Pa., 27 miles north of this city.

The wrecked train consisted of ten day coaches and was the first section of a large excursion made up of people from Bethlehem, Allentown and surrounding towns to Atlantic City. This section carried only those persons who lived in Bethlehem and Allentown and left the Union depot in Bethlehem at 6:05 a. m., exactly 35 minutes behind the milk train. The latter train consisted of two milk cars and two passenger coaches and had stopped at every station on the road from Bethlehem en route to Philadelphia. At 6:54 the milk train drew up at the milk platform at Hatfield, and in less than two minutes the special excursion train, running at the rate of 35 miles an hour, crashed into the rear of the milk train. The locomotive plowed through the two passenger coaches and crushed them as if they were eggshells. The milk car immediately in front was also badly wrecked. Four persons, Godfrey Kaelin, his daughter, Mamie; Harold Landis and William Blackburn, on the passenger car of the milk train were almost instantly killed. Fortunately there were very few persons on this train.

The excursion train was a picture of indescribable horror. The locomotive was a mass of bent and broken iron and firmly held the bodies of its engineer and fireman beneath its great weight. Behind the engine six of the cars were also a mass of wreckage. The first car was broken in twain, and the other five cars were thrown on their sides, completely demolished.

HUNTINGTON'S ESTATE.

Appraisers Fix the Value at $69,450,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Through the appraisalment of the estate of Collis P. Huntington the value was fixed at $69,450,000, of which Mr. H. E. Huntington, the railroad magnate's nephew, receives $20,000,000.

Young Huntington's wife, sister of the Princess Hatzfeldt, and her brother were not mentioned in the late millionaire's will. This was thought peculiar, as Mr. Huntington's treatment of the princess was particularly generous. She was given $2,500,000 in 5 per cent bonds as a "dot" and $1,000,000 in gifts within a period of ten years. On top of this came her $1,000,000 legacy.

Willard V. Huntington, a brother of the young railroad king, was given only $50,000.

This was because he tried railroading and abandoned it. His uncle gave him $250,000 when he married, and he developed this into a magnificent fortune by speculation in San Francisco real estate.

The appraisalment of the Huntington estate places the following values on his railroad holdings: Southern Pacific, $20,000,000; Pacific Mail, $6,000,000; Mexican railways, $8,000,000; Newport News yards, $12,000,000; New York realty, $6,000,000; bonds and cash, $7,000,000.

It was said in financial circles that the late Mr. Huntington's successor as president of the Southern Pacific will be M. E. Ingalls of the Big Four road.

sage from Skjervoe, Norway: "Andree's buoy No. 4 has been found here and contains the following: July 7, 10 p. m., Greenwich. Our voyage gone well so far. Are now at an altitude of 250 meters. Original direction, north 10 degrees east, compass undeviation. Later, north 45 degrees east, compass undeviation. Four carrier pigeons dispatched. They are flying west. We are now over ice, which is very rugged. Weather splendid the whole time. In excellent spirits."

Terrorized by Tramps.

NYACK, N. Y., Sept. 1.—Large numbers of tramps continue to infest the Erie railroad where it runs through the western part of Rockland county, and people in that region are in fear for their lives. The railroad detectives rounded up a big gang at Sterlington and captured 11. The prisoners were sent to the Rockland county jail for 30 days, where others are serving a like term.

Son Shot His Father.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 4.—While making a brutal assault upon his wife in a quarrel over a trivial matter, A. Woods, a farmer living near Martelle, was shot and instantly killed by his 18-year-old son. The son was exonerated by the coroner's jury.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured." Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of July, 1899, made and executed by John J. Trowbridge and Emma R. Trowbridge, his wife, as mortgagors to Hiram H. Ray, which said mortgage was given as collateral security for the payment of a certain bond accompanying said mortgage, and which said mortgage was duly recorded in the Cayuga County Clerk's office on the 21st day of December, 1899, in Book No. 130 of Mortgages at page 167, and no suit or proceeding having been begun or instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, and whereas, the amount claimed to be due on the said mortgage at the first publication of this notice is the sum of $3364.00, namely, $3000.00 principal and $364.00 interest, and that the whole amount remaining unpaid is $3364.00. Now, therefore, notice is hereby given according to statute in such case made and provided, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, duly recorded therewith as aforesaid, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described by the subscriber, the mortgagee's attorney, at public auction, on the 24th day of October, 1900, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day at the front door of the Court House in the City of Auburn, County of Cayuga, N. Y. The following is a description of the mortgaged premises so as aforesaid to be sold, as they are contained in said mortgage. Being all that tract or parcel of land situate in the City of Auburn, County of Cayuga, and State of New York, on the north side of Franklin street, and being part of the premises formerly owned and occupied by one E. P. Crowell, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning on the north side of Franklin street at the southeast corner of land formerly owned by Thomas Monroe, now deceased; thence running east on the said north side of Franklin street sixty-six feet, thence northerly ninety-eight feet, thence westerly sixty-seven feet, thence southerly along said Monroe's lot one hundred and sixteen feet, to the place of beginning, being the same premises conveyed to Huldah W. Outs by Charles T. Ferris and wife by deed recorded in Cayuga County Clerk's office in book 88 of Deeds at page 614.

The above mortgaged premises will be sold free and clear from incumbrances and subject to the condition of the said mortgage.

Dated at Auburn, N. Y., July 24, 1900.

WALTER E. WOODING,
Attorney for Mortgagee.

UNDER A COMMISSION

Filipinos Do Not Seem to Appreciate the New Regime.

MAJORITY OF ISLANDERS WANT PEACE

Insurgents Exercise a Reign of Terror and Hinder Work of the Peace Commissioners—Many Islands Now Tranquil.

MANILA, Sept. 3.—The Filipinos seem incapable of realizing the scope and purpose of the legislative functions of the commission of peace. There is no possibility of separating the legislative from the executive branches of the government, and therefore the commission's announcement of its assumption of power Sept. 1 has met with childish comments at the hands of the Spaniards and foreigners, who jealously sneer at the new arrangement, as they are apt to do at every beneficial innovation on the part of the United States authorities.

The commission enters upon the governmental field under the following conditions:

A majority of the islanders desire peace and the resumption of business under the Americans, but they are so cowed by a long series of murderous atrocities and destruction of property by their armed countrymen that they dare not actively show their feelings, especially because experience has taught them what such an expression of sentiment will bring upon them from the mercilessly revengeful rebels. A genuine reign of terror is exercised by insurgents and ladores over peaceful countryfolk in order to collect the revenue and recruits their operations require, and widespread vengeance is wreaked in the vicinity of garrisoned towns. For example, the insurgent general Cailles in the province of Laguna put to death the president and officeholders of the town of Bay, on Laguna de Bay, officials who had been installed by the Americans, and gave orders that a similar fate should be meted out to other adherents of the American cause. He also ordered that all Filipino soldiers who sold their rifles to the Americans should be killed.

Any change of policy involving the withdrawal of the United States troops without substituting for them an adequate defensive force is certain to result in fearful retaliation at the expense of the friendly. The approaching patriation of the volunteers tends to influence the situation unfavorably.

In northern Luzon the status quo is fairly well maintained, and the people in that quarter are quiet and engaged in planting, except in the provinces of Nueva Ecija and Bulacan, where there has been a recent outburst of rebel and lador activity. But in southern Luzon conditions are far from satisfactory. Life there is not safe outside the garrisoned towns. Travelers are subject to ambush by guerrillas. Rarely does a day pass without an encounter between the United States troops and the insurgents or ladores, resulting in casualties.

There are 18,000 troops in that district, General Bates commanding, and in three regiments over a third of the men are sick. The activity of the enemy increased last month. There is evidence that the insurgents have come into possession of new rifles and that they wish to annihilate some small American garrison for the sake of the political effect in the United States.

Conditions in the Visayas continue virtually unchanged. The lack of troops in Samar prevents aggression. Negros, Romblon, Masbate, Sibuyan, Tablas and Bohol are tranquil, all desiring civil governments. Mindanao is also tranquil, excepting the districts of Teagayan and Surigam, where occasional encounters with the Filipinos occur. The enemy's fighting force there is limited, but it has a number of rifles. The surrenders, although they have noticeably decreased since May, continue.

Twelve Americans, including two captains and two lieutenants, have been killed during the past two weeks. The official reports of the encounters in which these casualties occurred are meager.

WAR'S END NEAR.

It Is Thought Kruger and Steyn Are Preparing to Flee.

PRETORIA, Sept. 3.—Mr. Kruger and Mr. Steyn have gone to Barberton. It is believed that they are preparing for flight. The general opinion is that the war is now very near the end, but should the Boers construct strongholds in the bush, on the veldt or elsewhere and begin a system of raids the British would require further large supplies of horses.

General Buller moved 14 miles north-westward along the Lydenburg road and crossed the Crocodile river to Badfontein. He found the Boers concentrating in the Crocodile mountains.

A force of Boers under Commandant Thern broke through the British lines and captured and burned a supply train at Klip River Station, taking 35 prisoners. Brabant's horse proceeded thither, recaptured all the prisoners and drove the Boers into the hills.

Colonel Plumer dispersed a small commando under Commandant Pretorius east of Pinaar's river, capturing 26 Boers, a number of wagons and a quantity of cattle and rifles.

Corbett Whips McCoy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The long promised and long looked for meeting between James J. Corbett and Charles ("Kid") McCoy was held last night under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club at Madison Square Garden, and in less than five rounds Corbett proved himself the better man. That Corbett and McCoy are the cleverest exponents of the art of self defense among the present generation of the heavyweights goes without saying, and keen judges of the game who saw the fight declare that it was the cleverest exhibition ever witnessed in the ring.

Lieutenant Lawton Four Times Wounded at Battle of Tien-tsin.

AUBURN, Sept. 4.—Mrs. Louis B. Lawton of this city, wife of Lieutenant Lawton of the Ninth United States Infantry, now doing service in China, has just received a letter from Major J. M. Lee, who took command of the Ninth upon the death of Colonel Liscum, in which he gives a graphic account of the battle of Tien-tsin and commends the gallantry of Lieutenant Lawton, who was wounded four times during the battle while executing orders.

Major Lee says that Lieutenant Lawton has been recommended for a medal of honor and a brevet and describes the lieutenant as "the most heroic, gallant spirit that ever went into battle." After referring to the loss sustained by the Ninth regiment, which the major places at 25 per cent in killed and wounded, he says: "Captain Noyes had been twice wounded, Captain Bookmiller had fallen. Major Regan had fallen severely wounded within a few feet of me and soon after General Liscum fell mortally wounded. This all occurred before or about 9 a. m. on the 13th. We had pushed forward to the limit and were separated from the enemy by a canal or moat 50 yards wide and from six to eight feet deep in water. The ground in our rear, where so many had fallen, was literally swept by bullets and shrapnel. To advance was impossible, and with the dead and wounded around us and all of us in mud and water from our waists to armpits, we determined to hold the place and await reinforcements, ammunition and relief for our wounded. The situation became more and more desperate.

"About 10 a. m. I decided to send Lieutenant Lawton with an orderly back for help. It was a perilous undertaking, but I believed he would get through, and he did so under a heavy fire and coolly represented all our needs to General Dorward. Some reinforcements were sent, about 100, but they never reached our front line. Lieutenant Lawton stood up under fire and urged them to move out. He then received a scalp wound. He then started alone to join me and report. We saw him coming, and the word went along the line, 'There comes Lieutenant Lawton,' and every man opened on the enemy to protect him.

"I saw him stoop to pick up something and thought he was hit, but he had dropped his notebooks and had coolly stopped to pick them up. On he came, and when nearly through he was hit in the arm and breast severe, but, thank God, not fatal. Captain Brewster and I went to him, and he calmly and clearly reported the result of his perilous mission. There he and I, with the dead and wounded about us, remained under fire until nightfall. He was again hit in the sole of the shoe. A gallant, heroic little soldier named Nelson C. Price, private in Company F, Ninth infantry, attended him and protected him with a little bank of earth, which was hit many times. The superb heroism of this young soldier no doubt saved your husband's life and mine as well."

NEW G. A. R. OFFICERS.

Major Russell For Commander In Chief—Denver In 1901.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—With the selection of officers and the choice of Denver for the national encampment of 1901 the thirty-fourth national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic practically came to a close yesterday. The programme as mapped out by the reception committee includes two days more before the veterans are supposed to return to their homes. Nothing in the way of business remains to be transacted; the next two days being occupied entirely in excursions, patriotic concerts in the parks and other affairs of a social character. Following are the officers chosen: Commander in chief, Leo Rasseier, St. Louis; senior vice commander, E. C. Milliken, Portland, Me.; junior vice commander, Frank Seamon, Knoxville; surgeon general, John A. Wilkins, Delta, O.; chaplain in chief, Rev. A. Drahm, San Quentin, Cal.

Woman Shoots a Burglar.

NUTLEY, N. J., Sept. 1.—Miss Helen Chalkiadi, daughter of Theodore Chalkiadi, a New York importer, who lives at Chestnut and Whitford avenues, shot a burglar shortly before midnight, and the police are searching hospitals for the wounded man. Miss Chalkiadi was awakened by some one trying to open a side window directly under her bedroom. The young woman jumped up and taking a revolver from a bureau drawer went to the nearest window. She saw two men below working at a window, and she fired a shot at them. The burglars dropped from the window ledge to the ground and ran toward the woods. Miss Chalkiadi fired another shot at them. A hundred yards from the house a handkerchief saturated with blood was found, and along a path leading to the Nutley station was a trail of blood.

By Kite Across the Ocean.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—W. A. Eddy, the kite expert, has launched a buoy to a kite in the sea. The buoy was 24 inches long and was carried out six miles in an hour. A strong wind was blowing. Next week Mr. Eddy will attempt to send a larger buoy across the ocean by means of six large kites of his own make.

Soldier's Letter from China.

Corp. Frank M. Denny of Company E, 9th U. S. Infantry, writes under date of July 18, from Teinstein, China and the greater portion of his letter is printed as follows:

Having a few spare moments I will write you a few lines to tell you about my trip to China. The last time I wrote to you I was in the little town called Tarlac, near Manila, but now I am a long distance from that place. Who thought the 9th regiment would ever be here? It was a grand surprise to the boys when the order came to pack up and get to Manila and prepare to embark for China. We received the order about 10 o'clock at night; that is a funny time to begin to pack up and move but it makes no difference, everything goes in the army, night or day. We proceeded to Manila and camped there five days, and we had a fine time. The regiment had to be newly furnished with everything—new gun, canteen, haversack, belt, knapsack, and 100 rounds of new cartridges, so that made everything complete. We sailed on the transport Logan via Nakasaki to coal up and anchored there for two days. It was a strange sight to see the women do the work—strong, robust women as I ever saw. They load the coal with small baskets with little or no help from the men. Nakasaki is a pretty town lying in a hollow something like Genoa, but the hills are steeper and covered with green grass. The Japanese are a thrifty hard working people, and could teach our people all kinds of tricks in raising garden truck. From there we went to Taku, China, where we lay in the bay three days waiting for transportation to land; we finally got ashore in lighters and encamped at Taku over night. That was to give the boys a rest for they were very tired. In the morning we got on board and sailed for Teinstein. We got there about 12 that night and went into camp in the new city. We had just got nicely to sleep when the Chinese opened a battery and their big shells began to fly around us. The day before this new city had been captured by the U. S. marines and allies and the Chinks had retreated to the old city, about 2 miles, and now they were trying to kill as many of us foreigners as possible. In two days we advanced and went up against a wall 30 feet high and 40 thick, and we had but little artillery. We got our position in the night and at day break the ball opened, and talk about your talkabouts, that was the real thing. There were loop holes in the big wall and the Chinks could see us when we could see nothing. It was a foolish piece of business, but our commanding officer was looking for the star on his shoulder that would make him a general, and lost his life in the battle and a lot of others with him. We lost one officer killed, 9 wounded, and 150 privates killed or wounded. It was a wonder that no more of us got it. Both cities were destroyed and now they look like piles of ashes. I never saw such a sight in my life.

No Trouble to Travel.

Mrs. Dayton, 85 years old, is going to take a trip to Auburn to visit her son. We said to her, "Mrs. Dayton, should think that quite a journey for girl of your age. Don't you dread it?" "Why no," said she. "Would just as live ride on the New York Central as to set in an easy chair in your parlor. I never have any trouble. I've been over the road many times; when I get to Albany I always tell the old fellow at the door where I want to go and he looks out for me, and everybody on the train is always so courteous and obliging—traveling on the Central is no dread to me."—Millerton Telegram.

Atwater.

SEPT. 5—Mr. Jacob West and sister Lizzie, also Mrs. E. J. Lyon attended the Bower reunion and all had a very pleasant time.

Miss Mary B. E. Lyon was home from Ithaca over Sunday.

Misses Ruth and Phebe Atwater left this week to attend the High school at Ithaca.

Very hot and dry and water scarce. Mrs. E. J. Lyon recently spent several days visiting friends in Ithaca.

Miss Emma King was home for Sunday.

Mrs. Harry Powers who has been quite sick is improving. Rachel King is assisting her with her work.

Mrs. Ruth Young has gone to Michigan to visit her daughters.

Mr. Buffington, agent at Atwater, who has been sick for some time, has returned.

J. Richard West returned this morning to Rochester to resume his work as nurse in a hospital there.

Miss Lizzie West is clerking for Mrs. E. J. Lyon.

A fine rain did much good and was very acceptable.

Allan Barger is attending Ithaca High school.

Forks of Greek and Vicinity

Miss Loretta Walker is visiting her cousin, A. T. Parsons, for a few weeks.

Mrs. Susan Obed is not as well as she was last week, and her friends are quite anxious about her.

Miss Leona Mott came from Newark Valley two weeks ago to visit her cousin, Mrs. Will Boyer. Soon after she came she was taken sick with typhoid fever and is seriously ill. Her mother has come to take care of her.

Miss Veda Ross was the guest of her friend, Blanche Boyer, two days last week.

Will Boyer's house caught fire last Saturday from the stove pipe in the store room. Water is very scarce but they had some in the cistern and by prompt action the fire was put out without much harm being done.

East Genoa.

SEPT. 5—The drouth continues and assumes serious aspects. Nearly all our wells are dry and many cisterns, and a water famine confronts us. Gardens and fall crops suffer greatly. Our farmers delay sowing wheat and are cutting corn as it will grow no better. Those who planted a large acreage of cabbage feel dubious, and the buckwheat crop is small.

Rufus Strong drilled and secured fifty feet of water at a cost of $100.

Miss Mayes of Old Forge, Pa., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Strong.

Mrs. Eliza Niles is entertaining cousins from Steuben county.

Our store is closed for the present. We hope it will soon be reopened as it is a great convenience to us.

Miss Mary A. Henry who has been visiting at T. J. Henry's returned to her home at Auburn on Friday.

North Lansing.

SEPT. 4—Farmers are busy cutting their corn and threshing their grain.

Roswell Beardsley has nearly recovered from his recent illness.

Rev. Mr. Corey will preach in the Baptist church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Porter Beardsley and niece of Auburn were guests of his uncle, Roswell Beardsley, last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Denton Lobdell visited their daughter, Mrs. Glen Morton, at Auburn last week and also attended the State fair at Syracuse.

Wm. Gilfilian, daughter Gertrude and son Earl of North Rose are here to commence work in the evaporator.

Mrs. Perry Kelsey and children returned to their home in Cortland last Saturday.

The Baseball club of Forks of the Creek played with the Cycle club of this place last Saturday. The score stood 34 to 11 in favor of the Cycle club.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Frank Herring last Thursday afternoon and was largely attended. An elaborate supper was served.

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION—AS GOOD TO YOU AS A DAILY AND YOU GET IT AT THE PRICE OF A WEEKLY.

It furnishes more at the price than any other newspaper published in America. Its news service covers all the globe and is equalled by that of few dailies. Its reports from the Boer war have not been excelled in thoroughness and promptness, and with the presidential campaign now in progress it will be invaluable. Its political news is absolutely impartial. This fact makes it of especial value at this time.

If you want to watch every move of the great political campaign take the Thrice-a-Week World. If you want to keep your eye on the Trusts—and they need watching—take the Thrice-a-Week World. If you want to know all foreign developments, take the Thrice-a-Week World.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the GENOA TRIBUNE together one year for $1.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

FURNITURE**

The Writer

Once went to Richardson, the great Brookline architect, to get a $2,500 chapel built. A committee man present said, "Mr. Richardson, presumably you prefer to build million dollar State Capitol buildings and Trinity Churches, rather than $2,500 chapels."

A shade of displeasure came over the face of the great genius; he flew to a portfolio and spread before us a dozen huge photographs of what he designated as the greatest delight of his life; it was a Stone Lodge on a rocky coast, built for a broken-down Rector, and, as we learned later, was paid for by Phillips Brooks. The limit of expense was to be $3,000; THE ENTIRE COST WE PAY FREIGHT TO ALL POINTS.

CAME TO BUT $2,800.
 While the "Empire State" sells rich furnishings, and seeks to meet the demands of the most critical, our greatest satisfaction is in furnishing to common people, like ourselves, medium priced, substantial goods, which are correct in style, of the very best material and construction, AND GIVE THE GREATEST VALUE FOR MONEY EXPENDED THAT CAN POSSIBLY BE SECURED.
 Shoddy, made-to-sell Furnishings we will not, under any circumstances, supply. For instance, Woven Wire Springs for $1.50 can be had, but not at the "Empire State;" when they hammock down, it will be the seller who is sold.

—Band concert Saturday evening.

—Miss Blanche Hurlbut has been visiting relatives at Moravia.

—Miss Lena Gilkey has returned from a visit with friends at Groton.

—Mrs. C. D. Strong has been quite sick the past few days, but is now much improved.

—Miss May Heffron of Ludlowville was the guest of Miss Luella Smith a part of last week.

—Fred Armstrong of Rochester has been renewing acquaintances in this vicinity this week.

—Henry Lester and J. G. Wilnot returned home this morning from Olean.—Groton Journal.

—Wm. Tripp of Sherwood was in town on business Tuesday and made a pleasant call at this office.

—Get your hay tags, plain and printed, at this office. Anything in job printing can be had here.

—Charles Carson has been nursing two sick horses the past ten days; one of them was cut by a barb wire fence. Both are improving.

—It is reported that some of the men around town are learning to shuffle cards, and fears are entertained lest they should engage in games of chance.

—Ludlowville won the ball game Saturday, 12 to 9. The "Cuban Giants" failed to arrive upon the scene Wednesday, and some people were disappointed.

—The village merchants are busy getting their fall and winter goods in presentable shape. The new departure at Smith's is very attractive and the store takes on quite the appearance of a city department store.

—J. S. Banker and family have returned from a pleasant trip to the Thousand Islands and vicinity occupying about a week. E. B. Whitten looked after the drug store during their absence.

—The entertainment at Lansingville this evening will be worthy a large attendance. The names on the program indicate that artists of exceptional ability will be heard. It will be a good concert and a rare treat for those who attend.

—Corporal Denny writes an interesting account of his experiences in China, in another column. It seems he was discharged from the hospital at Tarlac in time to sail from Manila with his company, and he saw active fighting on Chinese soil.

—The Union Springs high school opened Tuesday with the following faculty: J. C. Bell, principal; Miss Alma Moe, preceptress; Mrs. Kent, pre-academic; Miss Barringer, intermediate; Henry Mosher, assistant; Miss Antoinette Bradley, primary.

—C. S. Hill of Ithaca was in town Sunday.

—J. M. Stewart of Locke was in town Tuesday on business.

—J. D. Morton is home again, having finished his work at Manlius.

—Mrs. Julia Glover of Locke is the guest of Mrs. Raymond this week.

—John F. Montague attended the state convention at Saratoga this week.

—Miss Irene Gifford of Scipioville has been the guest of Miss Bertha Sellen the past few days.

—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Underwood of Auburn took advantage of Labor day to visit the old home here Sunday and Monday.

—School opened Tuesday with about 75 pupils in attendance, which is considered very good for the beginning of the year.

—As usual there is a big list of special premiums offered at the Dryden fair. Send to J. B. Wilson, the genial secretary for the fair book.

—A. W. Marshall and Mrs. Wright of Moravia and Mrs. A. F. Kohler of Chicago were renewing old acquaintances in town one day last week.

—Miss Mabel Cannon returns to her studies at Brooklyn on Monday. Her friend, Miss Brush, from that city has been her guest the past week.

—The town board met on Tuesday and designated polling places as follows: Dist. No. 1, Masonic hall, King Ferry; Dist. No. 2, store of Mastin & Hagin, Genoa.

—Mrs. James Dodd and daughter Nina returned to Syracuse Wednesday. Miss Cassie will remain with her grandmother, Mrs. Helen Hall, for some time.

—F. Sullivan of Union Springs was nominated by the Democratic convention at Auburn Saturday for county clerk. There is no question as to his ability to make a model official if elected.

—So far as we know, not a bill or other advertisement of the Ithaca fair has been sent to this town. Possibly they don't expect anyone from Cayuga county, or perhaps they have an easy going advertising manager.

—John P. Knottles of South Lansing had an extra good crop of wheat of the Dawson Golden Chaff variety, which he is said to be selling for seed. Henry Stickle of this town had the finest field of oats of a new variety, but he isn't selling much of it for seed.

—A new rule has gone into effect at the creamery, which pleases the patrons. The milk is tested as usual and the patrons receive within 3 cents of the highest New York quotations, and to that is added 10 per cent, which brings the price of milk from 1½c to 2½c per quart as it tests. This is better in most cases than caring for the milk at home.

—Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Hagin and on Hobart, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rogers and Mr. A. A. Mastin made a visit to the George Junior Republic at Freeville last Friday and were much pleased with the appearance and management of this rapidly growing institution. There are now fifteen buildings on the grounds occupied by the Republic, and an interesting day may be spent in inspecting this model training school for incorrigibles.

—The Chautauqua picnic which was held last week Thursday at Elmwood Glen, Cayuga lake, proved to be a very enjoyable and happy occasion for all present. Everything seemed to be in harmony with the day which was a most perfect one on land and water. For those who preferred to be quiet there were hammocks stretched between the beautiful elm trees, while some went rowing and others bathing. The dinner which consisted of a long and varied menu was thoroughly relished by all from the hot coffee to the ice cream, the latter of which no doubt gained additional sweetness and flavor from the rhymes which were said to each one as they were served. Considerable mirth was occasioned by these rhymes which were very pointed and applied to the one addressed. While at the table many witty stories and conundrums were told and all indulged to a great extent in "the best of sauces." During the afternoon a pic-

—The refreshing shower of Monday afternoon revived the drooping vegetation and cooled the torrid atmosphere. It was a local shower, extending as far north as Scipio and barely laying the dust at East Genoa. At Ludlowville village one well and two springs are said to be the extent of the water supply.

—The Ludlowville male quartette will give a concert at the Five Corners Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening, the 18th; admission 10 and 15 cents. Mr. C. W. Crance, who soon leaves for an extended tour with a Boston concert company will be heard in solos and chorus selections. Better attend this entertainment.

—"I don't know nothing about the D. L. & W. timetable," answered a boorish trainman on the Lehigh the other day, in reply to an inquiry regarding trains on the Syracuse and Binghamton road. On the New York Central a trainman sat with us and explained the things of interest down the Hudson from Albany to Poughkeepsie. There's one difference.

—THE TRIBUNE will be grateful for contributions covering matters of local interest. Many interesting events occur daily that do not come under the personal observation of the newspaper man, who is obliged to depend upon information furnished by other people. Society items, personal notes, happenings of all kinds—all serve to make a newspaper interesting to various people. Persons miles away like to know what is going on in this vicinity, and THE TRIBUNE has readers in many states who eagerly scan its columns every week for news from their former home.

THE BUSY FAIRIES.

"When little children lie asleep
The fairies leave the sky,
And through the windows slyly creep
And touch each sleepy eye,
And on the little beds they sit,
And 'round the curly heads they fit
Till rosy morning's nigh.

"When all the story telling's done
The fairies come to stay
And watch beside each little one
Till Dawn wakes up the day;
Where silvery beams of moonlight stream
In happy dreams fair castles gleam,
While fairies watch away.

"And when the sky above is blue
And when the sun is high,
What do the little fairies do?
They make our money fly!
The dollars that were hard to earn
They pile up in the yard to burn,
Or waste them on the sly.

"They make new gowns too old to use
And little trousers tear;
They touch the toes of little shoes
And presto! holes are there—
They win away by spoiling things
The money that much toiling brings—
But leave us love to share!"
—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Times-Herald.

THE TWO SKIPPERS

Remarkable Rivalry of Capt. Davis and Capt. Davies of the Nellie B.

SOME few, some very few indeed, of the not numerous American lines of sea transportation have a system of retirement after long service, with the enjoyment of a life pension representing a fair share of the active wages last paid the retired mariner. This is far better than Sailor's Snug Harbor, for it does not interfere in the least with the ambition which every sailor thinks out in the mid watch, namely, to retire to a farm and raise things.

Theoretically this is all very fine; it is supposed to act as an incentive to faithful service over a long series of years, and to attach a man to his line, and, above all, to his own ship. That is just where the trouble comes in; the retired sailor gets so thoroughly attached to his own ship that he does not know enough to let go all holds and give his worthy successor a fair show. That is bound to be the case with the retired first mate. Just as soon as he goes on the retired list he schemes to get a passage on the first voyage of the old ship, in order that he may give the benefit of his advice to his successor, either his old second mate promoted up, or else some chief officer from some smaller ship of the line, who thereby gets an increase in pay. This is such an unfailing source of trouble aboard that the agents positively refuse to sell a retired mate passage on his old ship. This leads to a conflict of scheming intelligences, and sometimes the wily mate succeeds in getting into the cabin on that first pleasure voyage. Not, however, if he sticks to the simple-minded sailor's subterfuge of writing for passage for John Johnson, for no person can have much to do with the sea and its affairs without discovering the wear and tear that falls to that alias.

If by hook or crook the retired first mate can get off on that first voyage after his retirement, the prospects are bright that there will be a lively ship. He turns out in the morning, no matter what the weather, and he is promptly on hand to get his cup of coffee at the galley door before the hands turn to. The men for a time forget the change, and obey the old mate through sheer force of long habit, until at last some one happens to remember that mere passengers are not allowed to have belaying pins, and then the crew is apt to become cheeky.

Nor is the new chief officer disposed to take the interference in good part. His pensioned predecessor is only too glad to nose around and find a speck of dirt under the long coat or to discover a smudge of unwiped rotten stone on the brass work. He is sure to report it to the new mate and get a sharp retort for his officiousness. Then arise words which might be actionable ashore, and which even jar the stout sea air. The active mate is apt to suggest that passengers on deck are expected to have no views higher than ring toss and shuttleboard. And the mate emeritus is sure to retort that even passengers have a right to expect decks to be clean and not such a filthy mess. It is easy to see why retired mates should be prevented from taking pleasure trips on their old vessels.

Even if they are stopped from voyaging there is no way of keeping them off the dock. They know to a dot when the old boat is due in port again, and not cabbages nor turnips, nor yet the whole farm, can keep them away at that time. The station of a mate is at the bow when the ship is coming to her berth, and he cannot avoid the sight of his predecessor on the pier head, watching the mistakes he makes, and commenting thereon with great distinctness and corresponding vigor of expression. That is the one great joy of the retired mariner's life. It fills his soul with glee to watch his successor doing the things he himself did for so many years, and to feel the glow of satisfaction when he assures himself that the new man does not begin to come up to him in all-around

But in all the annals of retired mariners there was never such a case as that of the two skippers of the Nellie B., a snug bit of a bark that sails out of this port. Her only master for a number of years was Cap'n Davies, who owned one sixty-fourth in her. Cap'n Davis, the same name except one letter, and leading to perpetual mistakes, was the master of another bark belonging to the same owners. This bark was owned at sea, and Cap'n Davis bought one sixty-fourth in Cap'n Davies bark, the Nellie B. Neither had what is really a master's interest, and both set to work to buy an additional piece to make it up to one thirty-second. The two succeeded just about the same time, and each insisted on his right to be the master. It was evenly divided, and the managing owner said that he could make no division. On the quiet he sold piecemeal to Cap'n Davies to protect his position as master, and piecemeal to Cap'n Davis to help him get to be master; this was a good thing for the managing owner, for the Nellie B. had not been paying for a long time, and he had been thinking of having her put down for a coal barge. Finally Cap'n Davies and Cap'n Davis had bought as much of the bark as they could, and they went in a body, the two of them to the managing owner to get him to appoint one or the other master. Then the managing owner told them he did not have anything to do with it, since he did not own anything in the bark.

When they came to compare notes they had spent a lot of money, and were no better off than before; in fact, the advantage was entirely with the managing owner, who had got a good price for a property that it did not pay to run. Cap'n Davis had fifteen thirty-seconds, Cap'n Davies had fifteen thirty-seconds also, and the remaining two thirty-seconds was owned by the ship's husband, a South street ship chandler. He played fair with both skippers. He would sell half to each if they wanted to buy him out very badly, but he would not sell all to one, and thus be a party to giving him control over the other captain's investment. He suggested that they take the Nellie B. turn and turn about, and that's how it was that the bark had two skippers.

The way they fixed it up was that when Cap'n Davies brought the Nellie B. in from a voyage and had her discharged down to a clean floor, he should turn her over to Cap'n Davis to charter and load and sail until he got her down to a clean floor at the end of the voyage. When Cap'n Davis had her in charge Cap'n Davies was not to go aboard, but he could come down to the pier and find all the fault he wanted—and that was a whole lot—and vice versa. It was a caution to see how each of these old skippers put the bark into apple-pie order before they came into harbor from a voyage. The paint and cordage bills, to say nothing of white duck, must have been something big, but the ship's husband, who was in that line of business, never let on as between the two captains, so he must have been making a good thing out of his small interest in the Nellie B. The two old gentlemen were great rivals, and it was nip and tuck between them on every point connected with the bark, and it would be hard to say which was the more jealous of the other.

It got so they never would speak except when handing the bark over, and then they were freezingly polite.

"Good-morning, Cap'n Davis," was always the form that Cap'n Davies followed, "the Nellie B. is on a clean floor, and I think you'll not find anything the matter with her."

"Thank you, Cap'n Davies," was the unfailing response. "I suppose it seems so to you, but I have brought a broom with me; she'll not be the worse for a good sweeping. I suppose you'll enjoy the rest while I'm gone."

"Well, I wish you a prosperous landing and a quick voyage. You're getting old, man, and this will likely be the last voyage you'll make in the Nellie B., so make the most of it."

Then they'd part, speechless with rage. Not content with sitting on the pierhead day after day watching the loading of the bark and finding fault with everything the other skipper did, Cap'n Davies thought he'd take a look at the bark in some foreign port; he wanted to see whether Cap'n Davis saved up all his repairs for the home port, or whether he fixed the Nellie B. up creditable when she went foreign. The bark had been chartered for Melbourne with clothespins and woodenware. That's a voyage that took her all of a hundred days, for she was a dull sailor, and Cap'n Davies had plenty of time to get out to Melbourne by steamer. There he waited for the bark to be signaled from the Heads, and when her number was made he took a sailboat and hurried down Port Phillip to see how the Nellie B. was looking when she came into port foreign.

Whether the bark looked better than Cap'n Davies expected to find her, or whether she looked worse, nobody could say for certain. But that something serious was the matter anybody could see, for the old skipper hardly woke up to rip and tear more than once or twice a day, and that was nothing for him. The Nellie B. got a charter for London with wool, and lost no time discharging. Cap'n Davies hung about her all the time she was in Port Phillip. When she got to London he up and died. There wasn't much satisfaction in it for Cap'n Davis, for he died, too, before he got around Cape Horn, and he never knew that he was sole captain at last.

Another scheme of the two skippers went astray. Each of them, having neither chick nor child, had willed his share in the bark to the ship's husband, thus giving him the controlling interest on the condition that he would oust the rival skipper and put in a man of his own. But as both died at the same time there was nobody to oust, and the property came into the hands of this ship chandler. He's sailing her still, as she cost him really less than nothing, for what he had paid in the beginning for his small piece was repaid over and over in his dealings with the rivalry of the two skippers.—Boston Budget

The Yaquis Seek Peace.

HERMOSILLO, Mexico, Sept. 4.—A delegation of five Yaqui Indians, who belong to the peace faction of that tribe, have arrived here. They are on their way to the City of Mexico, where they will lay a proposition before President Diaz looking to a settlement of the war that has been going on for the last two years between the Indians and government troops. The Indians demand that they shall be permitted to conduct their own tribal affairs without interference and without taxation. It is not considered probable that President Diaz will accept the proposition.

Democrats Carry Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 4.—The entire Democratic ticket, headed by Hon. Jeff Davis of Pope county for governor, was elected in Arkansas yesterday. Early returns indicate that the vote will be lighter than was expected. H. L. Remmel, the Republican candidate for governor, made a good showing, and his increased vote over two years ago will probably reduce the usually large Democratic majority. There was no opposition to the Democratic ticket for any office except that of the governorship.

Cholera Causes Frightful Mortality
BOMBAY, Sept. 4.—Official returns show that there were 7,989 deaths from cholera in the native and British states during the week ended Aug. 25. The number of relief works is decreasing, and the number receiving gratuitous relief is increasing.

GLASGOW, Sept. 3.—Another death, supposed to be due to the bubonic plague, has occurred here. Ninety-three cases of the disease are now under observation.

Location of Brooks Comet.

GENEVA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—An observation made Saturday night by Dr. Brooks gave the following position in the northern heavens of the latest discovered comet: Right ascension, 4 hours 12 minutes; declination, north 79 degrees 21 minutes. It is now in Camelopardalis and is moving through that constellation toward Draco. On Aug. 22 the comet will be only about 7 degrees from Polaris (the North star) and below that star.

Largest Ax Factory Burned.

ALEXANDRIA, Ind., Aug. 20.—The entire plant of the Kelly Ax Manufacturing company, valued at $800,000, was destroyed by fire last night. It was the largest ax factory in the world, employing some 800 or 1,000 men when running at full force. The company had just enlarged the factory, increasing the output fully one-third.

The Campaign of 1900

Is now open and is probably the most important since 1860, and the issues are just as important, just as well defined, and more numerous than ever before, and these vital facts together with what is happening every day in all parts of the world, make it imperative and necessary that the intelligent man, woman and child should read the newspapers. It is the only way to keep posted, to keep in touch with the political, military and social events, and to enable the voter to cast his ballot for what he knows he wants. To enable one and all to prepare for this national event, the following campaign offers are now quoted: When taken in connection with the GENOA TRIBUNE, the Tri-Weekly World one year 65c; the Tri-Weekly Tribune one year 80c; Weekly Tribune 25c; Semi-Weekly Post-Standard (Syracuse) 50c; Rochester Democrat and Chronicle 55c; New York Daily Press $4.50. The GENOA TRIBUNE is $1.00 per year; 50 cents for six months. Send through your postmaster or address

MISSOURY HELENY

By Juliette M. Babbitt.

(From the Home Journal, New York. Reprinted by Special Permission.)

MISSOURY HELENY, put that book right down an' run an' pick up some chips to hurry up this plaguery fire—an' put on some taters to cook whils' I sets th' table. Theys a man an' woman—mighty stylish-lookin' folks—what's hos' ther way an' wants sumpin' t'eat jes' as quick as ever they kin git it. Lucky I baked yiste'day, an' had that hen on a-cookin'.

"Jump, now, an' take yore min' off'n yore readin' long 'nuff to he'p me git th' dinner," and a talk, thin woman, with scanty gray hair drawn tightly back from a sorrow face, returned to the front room of a small weather-stained, story-and-a-half frame house where she had left one of her guests—a lady in a plain gray traveling dress—standing in the doorway looking out across the broad, level expanse of "bottom" land stretching away from the hills nearby to the Missouri river.

"Take th' rockin' cheer, ma'am, an' rest yoreself," said the hostess, pulling a table to the center of the room, covering it with a coarse but snowy cloth and bringing the dishes from the kitchen as she talked. "Yu mus' be pow'ful hongry if yo got yore brekfus to White's. They do say they hain't never nothin' fit to eat there. Strange how yu missed th' road to Jim Banion's—leastways th' place what he runs fur some eastern man; hits 'bout five mile from here, up t'other side th' Maple. Hope th' gentleman hain't havin' no trouble findin' th' feed. Theys a-plenty out there. Jerry—that's my son—went over to town this mornin' an' hain't got back, an' my ol' man's out a-huntin'. They hain't nothin' Dan Holten loves better'n snoopin' 'roun' with his gun, less'n hits a-playin' on his fiddle, or readin' a story book. Missouri Heleny—going into the kitchen—"is them taters a-bilin'?" That gurl!—coming back to place a dish of sliced cucumbers on the table—"is jest like her pa fur readin' ev'ry scrap o' print she kin lay her han's on, an' she's crazy to git a education an' learn music. I lets her go to school when they is any, an' she knows 'bout as much now, as th' las' teacher, though she hain't but 16 las' May. Her pa named her fur th' state we come from an' a flan' wher Bony-part wuz shet up to keep him out'n mischief. Well, I reckon d'inner's ready if yu air," and she brought in a platter of stewed chicken which sent up an appetizing odor.

Passing shyly in and out, assisting the talkative woman, was a slender, fair-haired young girl in a faded blue calico dress. She scarcely lifted the long dark lashes veiling a pair of deep-blue eyes, and slipped away to her interrupted reading the moment the meal was ready.

Hugh Ramsey, a young New York lawyer, and his sister, Mrs. Zedah Morrison, were on their way to Omaha, where Mrs. Morrison purposed spending some time with a former schoolmate before joining her brother in Colorado, where he was going to look after some mining property. At a small town, between Sioux City and Council Bluffs, they left the train, that bright August morning, to visit a farm a dozen miles or so distant, which had been left to Mrs. Morrison by an uncle. After an unsatisfactory breakfast, they hired a pair of horses and an open buggy and, mistaking the direction, wandered about until noon found them very hungry, at the Holten place. They had not expected much from the appearance of the house and its mistress, and enjoyed all the more the excellent meal so soon ready for them, after which they proceeded on their way, taking the right road this time.

"Hugh, do you remember Missouri Heleny, the pretty girl where we got such a good dinner the day we were lost on our way to my Iowa farm?" asked Mrs. Morrison, the evening after her arrival at Colorado Springs.

"I remember the ridiculous name," answered Hugh Ramsey, lying at ease on a lounge in his sister's room, "and the woman, and, best of all, the dinner; but I can't say that I remember much about the girl. A thin, colorless little thing, wasn't she?"

Mrs. Morrison laughed and, drawing her low chair nearer, ran her fingers through his curly locks.

"You were hungry, not to notice such a pretty girl! She is rather thin and colorless now, but she will be a beauty one of these days, I promise you. I was hungry, too, but there was something so sweet about her, and what her mother said about her desire to learn haunted me so that I went up there one day and arranged for Lena—I won't call her by that dreadful name—to enter St. Mary's, at Omaha, for two years. Her mother, who is an old-fashioned Methodist, objected at first. She was afraid 'them Catholics' would 'prosserlize' the child; but Mr. Holten, a gentle, really refined sort of man, was very grateful for the opportunity offered his daughter, and spoke up with, judging by his wife's look of astonishment, unusual firmness, and she gave in. Jerry—a blond Mary's, studying like everything, and happy as the day is long. I am only afraid of her working too hard; she is so anxious to improve every moment."

"Dear old Zedah, you are always doing good to someone," murmured her brother, pressing her white hand to his lips.

Hugh Ramsey was a tall, exceedingly good-looking young fellow—about 25—with dark hair and mustache and dark eyes, which, oftentimes, did more execution than their possessor realized or intended. His sister, some eight or ten years older, had the same dark eyes and curly dark hair, but was much shorter and inclined to be rather stout. A childless widow with ample means, she was devoted to Hugh, and very fond of doing nice things for others. Hugh was also comfortably well off, and not at all dependent upon the profession he had chosen.

Two years after this conversation, Hugh, on another visit to the west, had stopped to look after his sister's property, and to see how her protegee was getting along. Six months before this, Mrs. Holten had been stricken with paralysis, and Lena had returned home to care for her and the little household, so helpless with the chief worker laid low. The family resources were small, and when Lena had the chance of teaching the neighborhood school for the summer months, she gladly took it. She wrote brightly and hopefully to her friend, but Mrs. Morrison feared that the girl was overdoing, and was greatly worried about her. She had looked forward to taking Lena abroad, another year, to cultivate her voice, and was loath to give up her plans, even for a time.

Hugh Ramsey came, saw, and—was conquered, that little busybody. Cupid, winging an entirely unlooked-for shaft straight at his heart at his first meeting with the girl. She was, as Mrs. Morrison had predicted, a beauty indeed, with her soulful deep-blue eyes, long, dark lashes, finely penciled dark brows, roseleaf complexion, and hair—of that rare golden shade rarely seen beyond early childhood—coiled on the top of her shapely little head and falling, in soft, feathery rings, on her white forehead. She was as charming in mind and manner as she was in person, and the young man's subjugation was complete.

Hugh had made many visits to the little schoolhouse, and had ridden over one afternoon from his sister's place to plead his cause once more. The little frame schoolhouse stood by the roadside, at the foot of a thinly wooded hillside. From the doorway a charming view was had over a broad, farm-dotted valley, bordered with a fringe of trees and vivified by a winding river.

School was out, and the children had gone their several ways. The day had been very sultry, with sudden dashes of rain and frequent gusts of wind, and Lena—looking a picture in her simple blue muslin gown—said, as she began to put the things in order on her desk: "You should not have come out in this heat, Mr. Ramsey, and you must go back before it storms."

"Never mind about the storm, Lena," he said, earnestly, leaning over the desk, trying to capture one of the busy little hands. "Listen to me. I must go away very soon, and I cannot bear to go until you have promised to be my wife. Can't you care for me a little, when I love you so much? Your school closes to-morrow, and I cannot endure the thought of your taking another and drudging so. If you will marry me you need not worry about your parents. I will be glad to make them comfortable. Jerry told me the other day that he was thinking of marrying Mary Jones, and that she was willing to come home with him and care for the old people. Your mother would approve, if she could speak, and your father has already given his consent. Do say yes, my darling, and let me take you right away. I know that I can make you happy, and Zedah will welcome you with open arms."

"I am afraid, Mr. Ramsey, that you do not fully understand your sister's wishes. I know that she hopes to see you marry your cousin, Miss Powers, and unite your two fortunes. She told me so last summer, and do you think anything would make me go against the wishes of one who has been so good to me? Your cousin is beautiful, accomplished, a woman of the world, able to take her place beside you in society. I am only a poor girl with no knowledge of the great world, and just enough education to realize my shortcomings. I know that Mrs. Morrison is fond of me, but she is not fond enough to welcome me as a sister. Go home, dear friend; marry your cousin and forget your fancy—it can be no more—for me. Say good-by now, and do not come again."

"If you really do not care for me, Lena, I would be a brute to urge you further; but I shall not marry my cousin. We do not care for each other in that way, and you are all wrong about Zedah's objecting to you. I did not tell you what she said in her last letter. I wanted—great Heavens! What is that?"

It had grown very dark, and a terrible roaring sound burst upon their startled ears. Banning to the door, they beheld a fearful sight. Coming and destruction in its wake. The air was thick with flying objects; parts of buildings and their contents; fence boards, farming implements, even large animals, all tumbling over and over, torn to shreds, now and then cast off to one side or the other. Only a moment did they stand gazing helplessly at the monster; then it passed, brushing, with its outer edge, the little building, lifting it up and tossing it aside like a feather. Hugh lay seemingly dead. Lena, uninjured, bent over him, covering his white face with kisses, crying:

"My dearest, my dearest! He is dead, and will never know how I worship him! Why did not I die, too?"

"Because, my darling," said Hugh, opening his eyes suddenly, and putting his arms around her, "you are going to live for me!"

Held for the Grand Jury.

Fred Bross, John Miller and John T. Conran, three of the alleged Scipio Center rioters, were yesterday held by Justice of the Peace James B. Hitchcock at Scipioville to await the action of the next grand jury on the crime charged. Bail in each case was fixed in the amount of $500 which has not been furnished, but it is expected that it will be.

Bross and Miller were arrested Wednesday and committed for further examination yesterday when they were taken to Scipioville and examined by Justice Hitchcock. In the meantime Conran, a lad of 19 years, had been arrested, charged with being a member of the lawless party that invaded Alvin Seeley's premises on the night of July 14 last and the examination of the three was proceeded with which resulted in their being held.

The delay in Conran's arrest was due to the fact that he was in attendance at the State fair at Syracuse at the time Bross and Miller were taken into custody.

George Coulson, who is alleged to have been a member of the party and for whom, it is believed, a warrant has been issued, left the haunts of Scipio four or five days ago and has not since been seen. He is supposed to have gone to Canada.—Bulletin.

"I suffered for 30 years with diarrhoea and thought I was past curing," says John S. Holloway, of French Camp, Miss. "I had spent so much that I had given up all hopes of recovery. I was so feeble that I could do no kind of labor, not even travel, but by accident I found a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after taking several bottles I am entirely cured of that trouble. I am so pleased with the result that I am anxious that all who suffer as I have may use it." Sold by J. S. Banker.

Oscar Teeter, proprietor of the Holden House at Ludlowville, died Monday afternoon at Myers, of heart disease. The deceased was born in Lansing where he lived for a number of years. He had also resided in Groton and Ithaca. Some time ago he kept a hotel at the corner of the lake near Ithaca, from which place he moved to Ludlowville.

On Monday, quite a joke, to all but the young lady, happened that should be accepted as a warning to others except those blessed with bald heads. About a dozen flies got into the kitchen of the Hygeia hotel, which is a violation of the rules of the house, and Mrs. Pierce set some fresh sticky fly paper on the window sill to annoy them. A few minutes later the handsomest young lady in the doctor's family had occasion to go to the kitchen when a gust of wind blew the sticky sheet square onto the top of her head. A day and a half's hard work has not entirely put matters

Passengers on Lehigh Valley trains will be compelled hereafter to purchase newspapers, fruit, etc., either before getting on the trains or at some of the stations along the company's lines. Heretofore the Union News Company has had its boys on the Lehigh Valley passenger trains, but the railroad company has decided to abolish the custom. It is said that the railroad company will establish paper and fruit stands at its larger stations. The change will affect something like twenty employees of the Union News Company in this state. Some of its through trains were very desirable for the boys, as the main line touches but few large towns between Buffalo and Sayre.

A resident of the town of Lansing who was in Ithaca Tuesday used some pretty plain language relative to the open violation of the excise law in his town and in the fringe of Ithaca. He said: "There are several places in those localities running 'wide open' every day in the week. Sunday included, where beer and stronger drinks are dispensed in flagrant violation of law. In both of the communities there is talk of bringing the matter to the attention of the grand jury which is to meet next month." He also said: "If the men who conduct these places had their just deserts they would be doing time in the chain gang or playing checkers in the penitentiary. They are despicable offenders and deserve severer punishment than mere fines."—Journal.

A West hill woman last Saturday morning was thoroughly surprised while preparing breakfast to see the spider in which meat was frying go upward toward the ceiling, eggs went through the air like cannon balls, the coffee pot went heavenward and a cloud of ashes surrounded the stove like snow in blizzard time. Perhaps the most funny part of the whole was that the pan of frying meat descended right side up over the very hole from which it flew upward. Investigation disclosed the fact that several years ago, a boy failed to discharge a small toy cannon which was fastened to a block of wood. The cannon probably got into the wood pile, and later into the stove, where the long delayed explosion took place.—Ithaca Democrat.

FALL OF 1900.

Our preparation for the Fall of 1900 is now at its height. While many goods are now in, still more are in transit, and daily you will find new arrivals in every department. Our China and Housefurnishing buyer arrived from the market this morning, which he proclaims many advantageous purchases. Our Fur and Cloak Buyer is leaving for the market tonight. Our Dress Goods and Silks arrive daily, which were anticipated purchases for the coming fall. Our Carpet and Drapery Buyer has been instructed to increase his purchases for the coming fall and will return tonight with good tidings for you. Our Milliners, two in number, have been in the city four weeks to equip themselves in the latest styles, up-to-date styles Millinery establishments, and will be in Ithaca the latter part of the week. Our Domestic, Flannel, Linen and Bedding Buyer is now in the market and shipping goods daily, so you see every department is looked after by competent and separate people just making a study of one particular department. While you give us credit for handling many departments, still each one is a store by itself, looked after with but two views in aim, to serve you better each season, and have the best the market affords for the least possible margin. We, therefore, bespeak to be ready in a few days to offer you the full supplies at still better terms than ever heretofore.
