

THE TRIBUNE
Contains each week more vicinity news than any paper in the county. Nearly every town in Southern Cayuga is well represented. It is worth its price and you ought to have it in your home. Probably you do.

The Genoa Tribune.

JOB PRINTING.
The Tribune office is well equipped for all kinds of printing. Don't hesitate to give us your order; we guarantee the work to be up-to-date and the prices reasonable. Legal advertising at lowest rates.

Published Weekly and Circulated Throughout the Towns of Genoa, Venice, Ledyard, Scipio and Lansing, and Devoted to the Best Interests of the People of These Vicinities.

VOL. XIV. No. 14.

GENOA, N. Y., FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 26, 1904.

C. A. AMES.

FROM NEARBY TOWNS

Interesting Items That Our Correspondents Have Gathered for Tribune Readers.

Lansingville.

Aug. 22—Miss Lena Allen of Ovid has been visiting her friend, Miss Nellie Hamilton.
Miss Mary Williams of Cortland is visiting Mrs. Harvey Teeter.
Miss Leona Smith of Ithaca has been spending a few days with friends in town.
Mrs. L. J. McCargar of Groton is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Bower.
William Sailor of Burdett attended the Bower reunion and spent the remainder of the week calling on old friends and visiting the scenes of his boyhood days.
Mrs. Wm. Altger is entertaining relatives from Chicago.

The Lansingville Grange will have an excursion on the lake Tuesday, Aug. 30. Any one wishing to go can do so by being at Ladoga at 9:35 a. m., and go to Cayuga Lake Park and return at 7 p. m. Round trip 50c.

Suicide Prevented.

The startling announcement that a preventive of suicide had been discovered will interest many. A run down system, or despondency, invariably precede suicide, and something has been found that will prevent that condition which makes suicide likely. At the first thought of self-destruction take Electric Bitters. Being a great tonic and nerve, it will strengthen the nerves and build up the system. It's also a great Stomach, Liver and Kidney regulator. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry.

The proper pigments in proper proportions combined with intelligence and experience produce the best paint—LAWRENCE—sold by Smith, North Lansing.

Children's Shoes.

It is time to think about the foot wear needs for school and fall wear.

None beat our shoes for standing rough usage and giving reliable wear, because they are selected from lines of shoes that have stood the test of wear and we have perfect confidence that they will please you. A trial will convince.

Childs 8 to 11 $1.25
Misses 11 1-2 to 2 1.50
Little Gents 8 to 12 1.25
Youths 13 to 2 1.50
Boys 2 1/2 to 5 1.50, 2.00
Box Calf or Kid.

THE SPECIALTY SHOE COMPANY,
111 Genesee St.,
AUBURN.

Locke.

Aug. 23—Mrs. Geo. Booth visited at Spencer Sunday and Monday.
Mr. Pollock of Syracuse was in town Monday.
Miss Lulu Austin of Albany is visiting her sister, Mrs. Geo. Culver, for a few days.
Norton Parker of Cortland visited his sister, Mrs. Blanche McIntosh, over Sunday.
Mrs. Blanche McIntosh and Mrs. H. Johnson are spending the week at Cortland.
Mrs. Elmer Conger of Elmira is visiting Mrs. John Spaulding.
Olas. Taylor who has been spending the summer with his sister, Mrs. Geo. Booth, returned to his home Saturday.

The Grangers dance at Charles Marble's Saturday evening was well attended although the weather was very threatening. The next one will be held across the road at Smith Bingham's.

Mrs. S. Booth and Mrs. Nina Culver called on Moravia friends Friday.

Geo. Miller is painting his store.
Geo. Culver has just completed a new cement walk in front of his store, which is a great improvement.

Mrs. Helen Spaulding visited in Moravia Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Main, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Mott and Mrs. Botsford attended the Austin picnic at Auburn Thursday.

Read the TRIBUNE and keep posted.

Five Corners.

Aug. 23—Lockwood Palmer and wife of Ithaca are spending the week with his parents and other relatives.

Mrs. Smith of the Lake road is spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Hunt.

Henry Barger, wife and daughter Iva of North Lansing and Miss Nola Mathers of Groton were guests of Ohas. Barger and wife last Sunday.

Mrs. Herman Ferris is again confined to her bed by severe illness. Dr. J. W. Skinner is attending her.

Mrs. Rosecrans is visiting relatives in Cortland this week.

Fred Ferris returned to his home in Ithaca last week.

Mrs. Weaver and children returned to their home at Rochester last week.

Mrs. F. E. Kisor returned to her home at Geneva last Saturday after visiting her daughter, Mrs. L. E. Barger, for a week.

Mrs. H. B. Hunt is at Auburn visiting relatives for a week.

Miss Ruth Atwater returned from St. Louis last Saturday.

Venice.

Aug. 23—Nearly every one from this place attended the Farmers' picnic at Venice Center Thursday.

Mrs. Mansfield Hoagland is spending some time in Auburn. Mr. Hoagland was in Auburn Sunday.

The Venice Baptist Sunday school picnic which was to have been held in the church grove on Saturday was postponed to this week Wednesday.

Mrs. Edna Pendell is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. W. Booth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Myers and children are visiting the former's parents at Genoa for a few days.

Miss Fannie Desmond of Auburn is visiting relatives in this place.

Mrs. John Taylor of Auburn has been visiting friends in this place for a few days.

Mrs. Mary Wakefield and daughter and Mrs. Carrie Fell and daughters have been spending some time with their parents, W. N. Baldwin and wife.

Bert Wheat was elected trustee at the annual school meeting. Miss Covey of Moravia will teach the coming year.

Mico Spar Chicken Grit—best thing for poultry. GENOA MILLING CO.

Sherwood.

Aug. 22—Excitement reigned supreme here last Thursday. Miss Mary Heffernan was attacked by a large dog and badly bitten. The wound is a large ugly one, but is doing as well as could be expected. The same day Howard Chase met with a serious accident. He was knocked down and stepped on by a horse, one rib was broken and he received a good many bad cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Painter entertained a company of neighbors and friends last Saturday evening, it being the tenth anniversary of their marriage. They received a good many useful presents.

As is usually the case on the evening of the Venice picnic, we were entertained by a drunk. Strange that the majority do not think they have had a good time unless they get intoxicated.

Mrs. Raymond of Glen Haven visited her friend, Jessie Hoxie, a few days last week.

Mrs. Bridget Shiels of Auburn spent several days at her mother's last week.

Mrs. Benjamin Battey and Fern Collins of Rochester are guests at Eunice Battey's.

Mrs. Edward Pental and daughter of Geneva are visiting at Theodore Collins's.

Mrs. George Leak is a guest at Arthur Painter's.

Miss Pearl Ward of Auburn is visiting her cousins.

Mrs. D. M. Osborne of Auburn and Miss Harriet Mills of Syracuse spent last Thursday at Emily Howland's.

Scipio.

Aug. 23—Miss Grace N. Fay of Auburn and Elbert Hickey of Wilkesbarre, Pa., are guests of their cousin, Miss Marion Neville.

Quite a number of the townspeople attended the picnic at Venice Center Thursday.

Miss Mary Bennett has been engaged to teach the school at Merrifield for the coming year. A. E. Sherman the Bolts Corner school and Miss Elizabeth Bruton the village school.

Anthony Mullalley of Sayre, Pa., is visiting his sister, Mrs. M. Powers.

P. Costello is renewing acquaintances in town.

Miss Iva Hoskins of Auburn was home over Sunday.

Union Springs and Vicinity.

Aug. 23—M. G. Shapero and family of Syracuse have been occupying the King home on Park street. Mr. and Mrs. Pengroft of the same city have been their guests.

Mrs. Frank Evans of Groton is a guest of her sister, Miss Evans.

Miss Anna Lisk and brother Murray of Ledyard and Ray Rogers of Homer visited at their uncle's, James Hill, last Sunday.

Miss Margaret Schenck of Binghamton is visiting relatives in town.

Mrs. Arthur Wardwell and daughter Helen are visiting relatives in Canada.

C. O. Hoff and sister Florence were guests of friends in Geneva over Sunday.

Mrs. Carl Yawger and children of Syracuse have been visiting relatives in town.

Six young men of Auburn have been camping at Hibiscus.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty-five cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by J. S. Banker, druggist, Genoa.

Spices. It's time to begin to think of pickling and preserves. We have been thinking of it and have just put in stock a fresh lot of spices with the full "strength of youth" in them. No old age spices here. Sagar Drug Store, Auburn.

Another View of the Case.

I wish to say to the voters and taxpayers of this town that the GENOA TRIBUNE in furthering the interests of E. B. Herling for sheriff has had a lot to say about enormous taxes under machine rule as he terms it. Now if the voters of Cayuga County were all as lucky as E. B. Herling it would make no difference to them whether the tax rate on a dollar was 2 mills or 99 cents as the name of E. B. Herling does not appear on the tax roll notwithstanding the fact that his salary for the last half dozen years has been $1500 yearly and the fact that he declined a renomination to the same office for a term of 6 yrs longer on the plea that the salary was not sufficient for his support will not draw much sympathy from the farmer of Genoa that is in debt on his farm or the laboring man that supports his family on less than $250 a year. Now a few weeks ago there was an article in the GENOA TRIBUNE along the lines of economy urging you to vote for Herling for sheriff from the fact that if Herling was elected Senator Wilcox would at once have a law passed changing the sheriff's office from a fee'd office to a salary of 2000 per year which is much less than the office pays under the present system. Mind you for economy's sake alone he asked you then to support Herling. But the Editor of the TRIBUNE did not tell you the fact about the case although he well knew it at the time the article appeared that on Jan. 1, 1905, a new sheriff would be sworn in office for a term of 3 years and that the next state legislature did not convene until after Jan. 1, 1905, and even if Herling were elected and even if Senator Wilcox tried to change the office from fee to salary it could not be changed during the term of any Sheriff so if Herling should be elected he will have to accept fees of four or five thousand dollars a year instead of a salary of two thousand poor cuss how it will plague him. Now the comical part of economy in the case appears on another page of the same issue of the TRIBUNE in a speech made by the Hon Paul B. Clark at the convention of Rural Mail Carriers in which the Auburn P. M. makes a grandstand finish by telling the R. F. D. boys that 7 or 8 hundred dollars per year is not enough pay for their services but that they should have at least 3 or 4 hundred more and to hang together and go and see the Congressman and he would help them then bidding the boys goodbye Paul gave them each a smile and keeping two for himself he shouldered his cane and went well probably to the City club where strict economy is practiced. Now for the R. F. D. boys I wish that they might have 1000 per year or more if they can get it but how Brother Ames laboring constantly for economy and small salaries can reconcile himself to both sheets of that paper is more than I can see. Query, who is Paul B. Clark I will tell you in a minute Brother Ames asks the voters of Genoa to vote for Herling and sustain the Hon Seno E. Payne our Congressman Brother Ames that is just what the voters of Genoa are going to do they are going to sustain Payne by sending 7 delegates to the County Convention on Sept 8 to vote for Jay P. Nye for sheriff the man that Congressman Payne selected 3 yrs ago himself and the man that came within 6 or 7 votes of being nominated and the man who if the Hon S. E. Payne had sustained this fall the powers that be could not defeat him, and in voting for delegates for Jay P. Nye you are not only voting for the very man that Payne selected for sheriff but you are voting for an old citizen of Genoa who worked on the farm now occupied by Tom Tyrrell not for 1500 per year but for 15.00 per month a man that has since served 10 yrs in the Board of Supervisors from his ward in the city and I defy any person to show by the proceedings of the board or otherwise where an opportunity to help Genoa his old home was ever neglected by Jay P. Nye when he was in the board I refer you to Dr. F. A. Dudley now supporting Nye, E. B. Whitten plugging for Herling Remember Voters Jay P. Nye is the only candidate in the field that is in quite moderate circumstances having nothing but a large family and a small house and lot he is trying to educate the former and pays tax on the latter. Again the TRIBUNE says sustain Payne our respected Congressman that has risen in Congress to be speaker of its most important committee that we will do Brother Ames just as willingly as you will even though we are not hallowing it through the pigeon holes of the Genoa P. O. a gift to you from Payne and remember don't hollow through those pigeon holes too loud so that Teddy can hear you for you know that he has told the little boys that lick stamps for him not to get too busy in political matters. Again the TRIBUNE says sustain Payne who holds a position no man in this Congressional district need ever hope to occupy which I believe to be true as it would take years of service and some good fortune in Congress to be speaker of the ways and means committee for that reason I say sustain Payne in Congress where he has had years of experience where he has a high position where he holds an honorable record where he is of service to the people where he is a national figure where he is a power for good where he has been styled the Sturdy Oak of Congress Yes' sustain Payne in Congress where he is a success but let him know that he is too fickle to select Sheriffs that after selecting one he does not stay by him until he gets him nominated and elected. Also let Payne know that county politics is a pretty small anty for a Congressman. Just think of Teddy Roosevelt or Uncle Joe Cannon going to a County Convention as a substitute delegate from a ward not his own. Yes Brother Ames we will gladly sustain Payne in Congress as long as his record remains as it now does second to none. But has the Hon Seno E. Payne always sustained the Republicans of the city of Auburn who by their votes have helped to make it possible to obtain the exalted position now held by him. No I say No. I will now answer the query who is Paul B. Clark. He is the man that the Hon Seno E. Payne named for P. M. of the city of Auburn after a petition signed by 400 of the leading Republicans of Auburn of every faction that existed asking for the appointment of Clarence Goodyear who was well fitted and deserving of the place their petition was not heeded but Paul B. Clark a student in Payne's office and chum of Payne's son was appointed. No Voters of Genoa a ring is a ring and a machine is a machine whether it is a Payne ring or a Wilcox ring. Now the safe thing to do is to elect delegates for the town of Genoa not backed by any machine or ring and remember that Jay P. Nye is the independent candidate for sheriff and every voter that is not tied down to ring rule will support him and remember that in electing delegates from Genoa that Jay P. Nye told you with his own mouth that he did not want delegates for one ballot and then to peddle or sell to some other candidate but delegates that would stay by him through thick and thin until he was nominated. Honest independent Republicans of Genoa come to the caucus on Aug. 30 between 2 and 5 p m and help elect a delegation for Jay P. Nye who is the Poor Man's friend. L. B. NORMAN.

Muskoka Tourists.

The prospect for a heavy tourist traffic to the "Highlands of Ontario," including the several districts north of Toronto, is very promising, and in comparison with last year, the number who have already gone in this year is in excess of last. The Muskoka Lake district is getting a large quota, and the hotels and boarding houses are filling up. Many new cottages have been erected since last season by wealthy Americans. Recently General Caldwell, Acting Governor of Jamaica, and wife, were registered among the guests of the "Royal Muskoka," as well as many prominent people across the border line.

New lot face collars, etc., at Smith's.

IT IS A MATTER OF HEALTH

West Groton.

Aug. 23—Cards were received last week by relatives and friends in this section from Mr. and Mrs. Earl D. Buck announcing the arrival of a daughter, Castella Louise, Aug. 15, 1904, at Coudersport, Pa. Weight 7 lbs.

Word came also from Mrs. Albert A. Shaw of Geneva of the arrival of a son Aug. 17. It will be remembered that Mr. Shaw died of pneumonia in May. It is understood the son will be given his father's name.

D. B. Jones has been obliged to replaster his new house. The plaster first put on fell off in spots and cracked and loosened in every room.

Mrs. B. F. Robertson is visiting in Geneva and other places.

Mrs. King Atwater and children are guests of her sister, Bessie Reynolds. Mrs. Atwater expects to leave soon for California where her husband has gone for his health.

Olive Kresga of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. N. S. Cobb.

Earl Carr and mother, and cousins, Flossie and Rose Carr, of Auburn are guests at H. N. Carr's.

Prof. Moler and wife were guests of Mrs. Moler and wife at their cottage on Cayuga lake, recently.

Mrs. M. D. Brown, a nurse of Moravia, is at W. H. Bulkeley's for a short time.

The S. S. picnic and Grange picnic at E. C. Stearns' orchard, Thursday. Benson Knapp and wife and Frank Babcock and wife were at O. J. Clements' on Sunday.

Chas. Wyckoff and wife of Aurora visited at Thompson Metzgar's over Sunday.

Mr. Wedge of Chenango Co., was a guest of Prof. Clayton Halsey, over Sunday.

Double Track Route to World's Fair.

The Grand Trunk have inaugurated a double daily through car service, including sleeping cars and coaches, direct to the World's Fair City. Fast trains, most interesting route, stop-over allowed at Chicago, unexcelled road-bed—are assured patrons of this line. Ask Grand Trunk Agents for full information.

Twice a Day to St. Louis.

The Grand Trunk offer a double daily through car service direct to the World's Fair City—St. Louis, Mo. Trains leave Montreal morning and evening. Send four cents in stamps to Robert Bushby, Traveling Passenger Agent, Grand Trunk Ry. System, Cortland, N. Y., for the handsomest publication yet issued on the World's Fair, and consult Grand Trunk Agents for further particulars.

Kodaks. Are you getting all the pleasure from your vacation that you should? Take a camera to fix the scenes of your outing and you can refer to them often as time goes by and have the pleasure all over again. All sizes are in our stock from $1.00 to $35.00. Sagar Drug Store, Auburn.

20 YEARS

in the same place. It shows that W. C. Crosman, Optician and Jeweler, can be relied upon. Come to him for new glasses or with old ones to be repaired.

92 Genesee St., Auburn

The Great Genoa Fair Sept. 20-22d

The Man Without a Coat.
The "shirt waist man" has virtually disappeared from the field, and it is to be doubted whether he will ever gain a distinct social recognition anywhere. When the effort was made a couple of seasons ago, to force the fashion of men leaving off their coats in the streets in summer, its advocates claimed that all that was wanted was a few brave pioneers to stand by the innovation until the public became accustomed to it. There were plenty of pioneers. The coatless men appeared in the streets by the score. But somehow they failed to make an impression on the public mind, save in ridicule, and before the season closed most of them were wearing coats again. Last year the coatless man was an object of marked attention, and this year the would-be fashion has disappeared almost entirely, so that belated pioneers of the style subject themselves to much ribald comment, comments the Washington Star. The anti-coat movement had some merit. It was based upon the undeniable fact that at certain stages of the thermometer the wearing of that garment is a discomfort. But against it were certain other undeniable facts, not the least of which was that the average man prefers his coat pockets to the slight gain in comfort. The "shirt waist man" was in a state of disorganization. He had to readjust all his personal housekeeping. Furthermore, he had to overcome the force of long habit, and he felt uncomfortable in mind in the process. But the chief obstacle to the adoption of the fad was the fact that for many generations men in the streets and the community refused to accept the substitute, even for the sake of release from a burden. Convention plays a great part in our social affairs, greater even than is generally appreciated. Sometimes flagrant offenses against the established rules are tolerated on the score of personal eccentricity, but they do not set long-lived fashions. Women have a wider range than men in these matters, yet there are limits of tolerance even in their vagaries of dress, or undress. A fine sense guides the public in these matters, which in the end comes to the rescue with a veto which is not to be overruled. The "shirt waist man" at no time threatened to shock or offend the sense of the average person, for he is a familiar object in certain places, at his desk, on the sporting field, sometimes at his home. Nor is there anything in the least obnoxious in the appearance of a man without a coat. But that fine sense of the proprieties eventually ruled that the man without a coat in the streets is somehow a divergent man from the one with a coat, and judged him accordingly.

Establish chairs of fathering and mothering in all the universities sensible enough to want 'em, and if you're shy of universities, get up one of your own. Make a science of parentage. Pay some of your best physicians to devote their lives to the study of the subject, advises the Hayfield Mower. Hog-raising is reduced to a science; so also is chicken-raising; and horse-breeding has jumped into perfection. Why shouldn't man-raising have a chance? Making man better is the noblest work of God or man. God is doing His best. It's pretty near time for man to help. Teach folks to begin at rock-bottom. The time to begin to raise a child is long before its birth; beginning a century ahead of birth is none too soon. The wonders of human reproduction are the head-wonders of the universe, and discount all other creative branches. Make it so that science can exhaustively study this great subject. You can't devote your money to a nobler object. It stands next to the worship of God Almighty. It's copartner with Christianity.

The term "society belle" is applied to a more or less well-formed lump of usefulness, a hollow head, a distorted figure, and a show-horse for a dressmaker, says the Hayfield Mower. She's the inevitable product of conditions, where men are weak enough to admire degenerate biliousness. The society girl never knows anything. If she did, she wouldn't be a society girl. She's just a languid enemy, which can laugh, and talk, and hold still while she's being fixed up. When she dies, they bury her as they would a pet kitten, some one is pushed into her place, and society travels on as before.

A two-headed girl was born out in Cairo, Ill., the other day, but did not survive long. When one thinks that she might have lived and become an elocutionist, he understands just how kindly nature may be to the human race.

The American Domestic League claims that it turns out fine cooks. Send their addresses along. This is not one of those cases where you should "hide your light under a bushel."

Another good piece of hot-weather advice is to be cheerful. Fix your mind on pleasant subjects and keep away from comic opera performances.

The instantaneous camera was at first hailed as a great benefit. But the average public man is beginning to have his doubts.

Kuropatkin is not the first European general who started out with more of an opinion than he could give up to.

E. L. Lawson,
Bicycles,
Sporting Goods,
Fishing Tackle
Edison
Phonographs,
Victor Talking Machines.

9 State-st., - Auburn.

Barker, Griswold & Co.
Summer Clothing is now in demand, and as fast as the lines are broken, we are making low prices on the balance. All sizes among these

Cut Price Suits.
Come and buy an extra good Summer Suit of us for a little money.

Barker Griswold & Co.
Clothing and Furnishers,
87 & 89 Genesee-st., Auburn.

New York State Fair,
Syracuse, N. Y.

SEPTEMBER 5-10, 1904.
$65,000 in Premiums and Purses.

The Agricultural Display will exceed all former exhibitions in quality and variety. All departments will show an increase over former years.

Fast Races Each Day on one of the fastest and best tracks in the country.

The Horse Show Exhibit will be one of the best in the country.

Syracuse Day-Monday, Sept. 5th.
N. Y. State Day,-Tuesday, Sept. 6th.
Grange Day-Wednesday, Sept. 7th.
Veteran's Day,-Thursday, Sept. 8th.
Woman's Day-Friday, Sept. 9th.

LOW RAILROAD RATES for the week of the Fair, and special low rates for special days. Send for Prize List

S. C. SHAVER, Sec., Albany, N. Y.

THE
New York World
THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken.

The tickets are now made up and the most interesting Presidential campaign the United States has known since 1860 has begun. And it is the most important, too.

Which will it be, Parker and Davis or Roosevelt and Fairbanks? Nobody knows yet, but the Thrice-a-Week World will tell you promptly, fully and truthfully every movement of a hot and thrilling campaign. The real newspaper now prints facts rather than hopes, and it has always been the effort of the Thrice-a-Week World to tell the thing that has happened exactly as it happened. Thus you can judge for yourself and form your opinion.

There is also a great war going on in the East, where the World has a brilliant staff of correspondents in the field, and their reports are found regularly in the columns of the Thrice-a-Week World.

The Thrice-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 16 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the GENOA TRIBUNE together one year for $1.60. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

Squalls and Sailboats.
With summer comes the squall and with the squall the familiar story of the capsized sailboat and the drowning of some of its unfortunate occupants. Thus the pleasure boat propelled by the fickle winds obtains a worse name than it deserves, for usually sailing accidents are traceable to ignorance of the gentle art of handling a boat. If sailboats were invariably handled by sailors accidents, though not wholly unavoidable, would be few and far between. If human nature were not what it is the attempts of confessedly unskilled persons to sail boats would be inexplicable; but when a party wishes to go out sailing there is always some one who is ready to say that he can sail a little and who will undertake the task in fair weather. Hot summer days, however, breed squalls, and though the warnings of their coming are plain to the sailor, the landlubber does not discern trouble till trouble discerns him. Then he strives to get out of difficulty by running away from it. A squall is very hard to run away from. It is an old adage that the best of all storm jibs is good ground tackle. It is better to take in all sail, come to anchor and get a good soaking by the rain than attempt to sail through a squall, be capsized and, perhaps, drowned.

Perplexes Foreigners.
It is extremely difficult for an Englishman to appraise with any accuracy the extent of the president's authority. From one aspect he seems to have more real power than the German emperor; from another one might argue that his influence on legislation is considerably less than a British premier's. Even when his party commands a majority in both houses his power over the actual course of legislation depends almost wholly on the good-will of congress. He may recommend everything, but he can direct nothing. Neither he nor his cabinet ministers sit in congress or hold any recognized communication with it except through the medium of written messages says the North American Review. I have even noticed that an appeal to the known wishes or opinions of the president is resented as dictation. The president, it is true, has his veto, and that is a powerful weapon, for defense at any rate. It is in attack that he is tied and hampered. His presidential messages may point the way, but neither he nor anyone can insure that it will be followed. Congress in all such matters is its own master, and the success of any administration depends on the harmony that exists between congress and the executive.

Bob White.
What's in a name? If Bob White could talk he would tell you. A government report urges the adoption of measures to secure the preservation of Bob Whites. So Bob has established a reputation. But after all, there isn't much in his name. We know him quite as well by the name of Common Quail. Bob won his good name in this way. Certain observations, experiments and investigations by the ornithologists of the department of agriculture have proved that Bob White is a good friend of the farmer. The bird consumes large quantities of weed seeds and destroys many insect pests, but still does not feed upon grain, fruits or any other crop. It has been estimated that in Virginia alone the little family of Bob Whites consumes what would amount to 570 tons of weed seeds. The cotton boll weevil, the Rocky mountain locust, the cotton worm and the potato beetle are pests upon which the Bob White feeds, says the Cincinnati Post. Any one of these insects, when out in force, will damage a state's crop to the extent of millions of dollars a year.

A news item says that pneumatic tubes now take letters from Twenty-third or Forty-second street, New York, to the general post office down town in less than four minutes. A special delivery letter is delivered anywhere in the residence section of the city quicker than a telegraph message will find its way to the same place. This makes one wonder how long it will be before a letter can be sent from Forty-second street, Chicago, to the main office in the same length of time. Chicago is to have a pneumatic tube service some time, possibly when the post office is completed.

Up to the present time Russia and Japan have been forbidden to drop explosives from war balloons by a five-year agreement signed at The Hague. This compact has now expired and the belligerents are at liberty to blow each other to smithereens by balloon methods if they are able to do it. Under such conditions Japan is likely to have the best of it.

Judge Parker's act of giving away cigars of "the longest-smoke-on-earth-for-a-nickle" kind should reach the hearts of the common people.

Set the news about the boy bandit type of desperado in agate, unless it comes to capital punishment.

Graft has been discovered in the New York sprinkling contract. Get on to the water wagon.

A cynical woman is one who declares that all men are alike.

Woes of the Naval Officers.
The gallant officers of our navy are certainly unfortunate in some respects. There is no provision for meeting from public funds the cost of social functions on vessels in foreign waters, and the officers have to pay for all hospitality and courtesy out of their own pockets, and sometimes the drain is a heavy one. When big personages like King Edward of Great Britain, the German emperor William or the head of any other important power is received the thing has to be done in style and the outlay is on a corresponding scale. That helps to explain why American naval officers on foreign stations seldom have much of their pay left at the end of the cruise. Another illustration of the hardships the gentlemen of the navy have to face is furnished. The government is building the battleship Connecticut at the Brooklyn navy yard, and she will be launched in the fall. The launching of a warship is always an event of much ceremony, and also involves a tidy expenditure of money. When vessels are constructed by private contractors the builders are in the practice of entertaining guests very lavishly and the outlay usually mounts up into the thousands of dollars. The launching of the Connecticut will be under government supervision, and although there will be ceremonies, social courtesies and feasting the government has no fund from which to meet the cost. The officers at the navy yard are therefore rather lugubriously contemplating the probability of being separated from a large part of their salaries in order to make the account good. There are times when an assignment to shore duty is not as enticing as it might be.

The North Pole Quest.
Because it is the last great geographical prize which the world has to offer, the north pole continues to be the goal toward which many daring adventurers constantly turn their faces. As Commander Peary has pointed out, the recent explorations have narrowed down the approach to three possible directions—the Smith sound route, by which the intrepid American engineer hopes himself to solve the great problem; the Franz Joseph route, by which the highest north yet reached has been attained, and the polar drift route to which Nansen pinned his faith. A year ago the Ziegler-Fiala expedition, in the Steamer America, returned to the attack by way of Franz Josef Land, intending to utilize the bases established by the Ziegler-Baldwin expedition in 1901-2. What it has accomplished we shall probably know this summer, the relief steamer Frithjof having sailed from Tromsø recently to gather tidings of Fiala and his companions.

One of the peculiarities of the summer season is the frequency of the surprise wedding, the elopement or the secret service at the parsonage. "In the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." The summer is not the time for the hurry and worry of preparation for marriage, and it is too long to wait until the autumn. Then it is that the young couple take the opportunity to slip away without many confidants of parents and friends. A license is obtained in another county, and almost any minister will tie the knot for a couple to whom the state has issued the legal form. The many notices of secret marriages are made, not only in Indianapolis and in this state, but they seem to be prevalent in many states.

Interesting experiments are going on in various parts of the world looking toward the cheapening of fuel and the more perfect burning of the coal mined in great industrial countries like the United States. Germany has nearly 300 concerns which work up coal dust into condensed fuel known as briquettes, and these fuel factories convert a vast amount of coal dust into forms which permit its use for many purposes, with entire satisfaction to those who employ it. Enormous quantities of coal dust have been allowed to go to waste in the United States, and some authorities calculate the loss at not less than one and one-half times as much as the present coal consumption of the country. Here is a great chance to save fuel which will some day be much needed.

Some fuss is being stirred up by an offer of a wrecking concern to raise the Maine. Congress will have to vote on this proposition. What will be done with the remains of the wrecked battleship is hard to guess, for it is of no value to the war department and practically to nobody else unless relic hunters. It hardly looks reasonable that congress would care enough about the old wreck to spend any money to get it out of the Havana mud. The main purpose of the man who made the proposal is to exhibit the remains at the St. Louis fair.

With the railroads in good shape and a number of large-capacity freight steamers in service on the lakes, both parties ought to be able to handle this year's campaign funds without special difficulty.

One reason why Japan's army and navy officers are so successful may be that it takes such a high degree of courage for them to fail.

Another sign of efficiency in Gen. Kuropatkin is that he quickly got rid of Grand Duke Boris.

If you are interested in Blankets this story will Interest you!

We made our blanket purchases at a time when the manufacturers were looking for business to keep the mills going, consequently we bought them at the lowest prices of the year. We pass them on to you in the same way and suggest your buying now as the values cannot be excelled.

White Wool Blankets.
10-4 size, $2, 2.75, 2.90, 3.50, 3.90
11-4 size, $3.25, 4.50, 5, 6, 7.50, 9, 10, 11.50
12-4 size, $7.50, 7.90

Gray Wool Blankets.
10-4 size, $2.50, 2.75, 3.90, 4.25, 4.50
11-4 size, $3, 4.50, 6.00

Crib Blankets.
Sizes 30x40 up to 48x64, prices range 1.90 up to 6.00

Cotton Blankets.
10-4, 11-4, 12-4 sizes, the prices range from 69c up to 1.89

Golden Wedding, the finest wool blanket in the world for $5 pair
Royal--High grade California wool blanket, without question the best blanket ever shown at $6 pair
These two specials must be seen to appreciate values.

COME SHOP WITH US.
Foster, Ross & Baucus.

JUST MARRIED FOLKS
and those who are contemplating taking this important step, no doubt will need furniture for their new domiciles. We are ready to serve them. We have already supplied hundreds all over this state.
From our large and varied stock we can supply hundreds more. Prices lowest. Quality guaranteed.
Bed Room Furniture, Parlor Furniture, Library Furniture, Hall Furniture, Kitchen Furniture, Office Furniture, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Pictures and Frames.
FACTORY AT FOREST HOME.
H. J. BOOL CO.,
Opp. Tompkins Co. Bank, Ithaca.

There isn't a month in the year There isn't a day in the week
That we don't give you your money's worth.
However
during this Ten Dollar Sale of ours there are unusual buying opportunities. Not a suit in the entire offering that sold for less than 12.00 and from that to 22.00. We have sold a great many suits, but there's a bargain here for you.
COME IN NOW.

C. R. Egbert,
The People's Clothier, Hatter and Furnisher,
75 Genesee St., Auburn, N. Y.

GENOA FAIR,
September, 20, 21, 22, 1904.

EDUCATION FOR BUSINESS
BUSINESS AND SHORTHAND COURSES
ROCHESTER BUSINESS INSTITUTE,
Rochester, N. Y.
—More Positions to fill than students desiring Positions—

THE GENOA TRIBUNE,
 Issued every Friday at
 GENOA, CAYUGA COUNTY, N. Y.
 Clarence A. Ames, Editor and Publisher.
 EIGHT NEWSY PAGES
 ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR IN ADVANCE
 $1.25 AT END OF YEAR.

FRIDAY, AUG. 26, 1904.

ALL KINDS OF PRINTING.

The Tribune has facilities for doing job work which are excelled by few. Fine presses, the latest faces of type, experienced workmen and promptness of execution are our inducements for a share of your patronage.

Advertising rates furnished upon application. Local business notices, Etc. 4c. per line. Cards of thanks 25 cents. Obituaries 50 cents. Cash must accompany the copy.

SUBSCRIPTION AGENTS.

Any newspaper or periodical published secured at publisher's price or less. Orders taken for book binding of all kinds. Good work.

DR. J. W. SKINNER,

Homeopathist and Surgeon, Genoa, N. Y. Special attention given to diseases of women and children. Cancer removed without pain by escharotic. Office at residence.

DR. WILLIAM FROST,

Surgeon Dentist. Preserving the natural teeth a specialty. Teeth extracted without pain, using liquid gas. Perfectly harmless. Office over postoffice, Moravia, N. Y.

C. A. Ames, Notary Public,

Genoa, N. Y. Legal Papers Drawn: Blanks Furnished. Office in Tribune Building. Registered also in Tompkins County.

HOTEL DEWITT,

Genoa, N. Y. Charles Carson, Proprietor. First class accommodations. Rate $1.50.

THE SELLEN HOUSE,

Genoa, N. Y. F. Sellen, Proprietor. New hotel—everything first class—Rates reasonable. Choice wines and liquors.

SPAFFORD HOTEL,

Uri Spafford, Proprietor, King Ferry, N. Y. Good accommodations for all. Table service first class. Rates reasonable.

THE BERTRAM HOUSE,

L. VAN ETTEN, PROPRIETOR, UNION SPRINGS, N. Y. First class accommodations; long distance phone; good livery in connection; rates 0. K.

THE HYGELA,

UNION SPRINGS ON CAYUGA, N. Y. GEORGE MURRAY, Prop. Is now open to the public as a first class hotel. Summer boarders will find this hotel right up to date. Table service first class.

Ideal Liver and Blood Tablets.

For Sick Headache, Dizziness, Habitual Constipation, Malaria, take the IDEAL LIVER AND BLOOD TABLETS. One bottle 25c; five bottles $1.00. By mail or at dealers. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Agents wanted.

The Ideal Pill Co.

Interlaken, Seneca Co., N. Y.

HOMER

Steam Marble and Granite Works

JOSEPH WATSON & CO.,

Manufacturers of and Dealers in—

MONUMENTS, HEADSTONES and LOT ENCLOSURES

In Foreign and American Granite and Marble.

In buying direct from the manufacturers you save the middleman's profit. By giving our work personal attention we guarantee the best of work and material. We are practical workmen and designers, and furnish original and special designs with estimates on application.

JOSEPH WATSON CO.

HOMER, N. Y.

EYES EXAMINED FREE

The Scientific Examination of the eye by artificial light is the latest up-to-date method. If you want perfect fitting glasses consult me about your eye sight. Broken Glasses, all kinds, repaired. Correct Glasses $1.00 UP. ARTIFICIAL EYES $5.00.

Clarence Sherwood,

THE OPTICIAN,

80 Genesee Street, Opposite South Street, AUBURN, N. Y.

Attend the Shoe Sale at H. P. Mas... Lower prices for best goods.

EATING AND LIVING.

The busy professors are always explaining old notions away; They tell us that people may fatten On less than a quarter a day. One says that an egg or an onion Contains enough strength for a meal. A cupful of rice, says another, Will furnish us muscles of steel.

We hear that sea water will give us The life everlasting we crave; They tell us that things which taste pleasant All hurry us on to the grave. Whatever appeals to our palates They earnestly warn us to shun; We are told that the pancake is deadly, That suicide lurks in the bun.

We must chew every mouthful a minute, If we drink at our meals we will die; The wise men of science inform us That bombs are less deadly than pie; They say we must turn from the oyster And also eliminate fish; Torpedoes and mines are as nothing Compared with the dread chafing dish.

Perhaps they are right, but no matter; Processions still wind to the graves; Therefore let's eat, drink and be merry, Let the appetite have what it craves; For, with firetraps, trolleys, grade crossings, The switches misplaced, and the gay, Glad assassins out automobiling, What show could we have anyway? —S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

THE CHOICE OF MARGUERITE.

M. DE KERGARIEL, with his daughter, Marguerite, and his nephew, Georges d'Orval, lived in a huge chateau perched on a steep cliff in Brittany, overlooking a limitless expanse of sea. Though a wealthy man, he went to Paris only when compelled to do so by important business, for he was passionately fond of hunting and prized his reputation as a crack shot far beyond the highest honors he could have won elsewhere. His daughter, Marguerite, shared his taste for outdoor sports, horseback riding and athletic exercises. In person she was a wonderfully charming girl of 18, fair haired and slender, with eyes whose expression was both frank and gentle.

The third inhabitant of the chateau, M. de Kergariel's nephew, was about 24. His figure, though only of middle height, was admirably proportioned. In disposition he was quiet and reserved, with a marked inclination toward art. He loved fine paintings, statues and chivalrous persons. He wrote verses himself, which were by no means destitute of talent, and his last volume had been highly praised by literary men.

His cousin was somewhat dazzled by this aureole of fame, and felt both deep respect and genuine affection for the young man; but she would have preferred to have him share her own tastes, and teased him unmercifully about his fancies.

He received the innocent little jests with a smile, for, though he had never acknowledged it, even to himself, he loved her.

Orphaned at 16, and the heir of a large fortune, Georges d'Orval had spent eight months of every year with his uncle and cousin. He liked the wild, desolate, arid region, whose beauties they admired together.

One day when he was standing alone lost in thought in one of the large drawing rooms, Marguerite glided softly into the room, a mischievous smile on her lips.

"What is our poet dreaming about?" she asked.

He started at the sound of the beloved voice and clasping her hand pressed a long, tremulous kiss upon the satin skin.

"Well, well!" said Marguerite, withdrawing it. "Here is a cousin who profits more than he ought from his relationship."

Georges gazed deep into the young girl's eyes.

"I was dreaming of you," he said.

Under the look Marguerite felt the stirring of a new and strange emotion; and, to conceal it she strove to jest.

"Indeed? And in what way if you please? Were you composing some delicious madrigal in my honor? I am prepared to hear my praises from your lips, and your verses will seem better than the finest music, if you compare my hair to molten gold, my complexion to lilies and roses, and my eyes to corn flowers."

"No," replied the young man. "I will recite no madrigal, but will tell you something—something which perhaps you do not expect, because until now I have hidden it in the depth of my heart, but which I am longing to confess. Do you understand me, Marguerite?"

Yes, she did understand him. And the revelation, so wholly unexpected, completely bewildered her.

She gazed at Georges with different eyes. His avowal seemed suddenly to have raised a barrier between them.

He loved her! What a strange thing! He, whom she had regarded as a brother, felt the love which she would have expected only from a stranger.

But she answered: "I don't understand you, Georges. What confession do you want to make?"

Then, kneeling at her feet, he murmured the words so full of the promise of joy.

"I love you," Marguerite looked at him mournfully.

"But I have done nothing to inspire such a feeling, Georges, and I do not know whether I can return your affection. True, I love you, too, but only as a brother, infinitely dear, a devoted friend and comrade. I have never thought that some day you might be something more."

He gazed at her rapturously. "I suppose so, but now that you know my dearest wish is to be united to you, do not deprive me of all hope until you are certain that you cannot respond to my love."

"Have you spoken to my father?" asked the young girl.

"Yes, and he approves my wishes. He will be happy, he said, in a union which will bring me nearer to him. But that must not influence you, Marguerite. Wait until your heart speaks. Perhaps it will not remain insensible to the language of mine."

"I will give you my answer in a month," replied Marguerite de Kergariel, who had become grave and thoughtful.

A week passed; Marguerite was secretly watching Georges and beginning to become accustomed to the thought of a marriage with him. She knew that he was kind and loving, and he seemed more attentive now that she looked at him more closely and with different eyes. Surprised by charms of mind and person which she had not noticed before, her heart was gradually opening to love.

Georges divined the change, and his joy was reflected in his face.

But one evening M. de Kergariel disturbed his peace of mind.

The two men were pacing up and down the terrace. It was a cloudless night, and a fresh breeze, blowing from the sea, brought the salt breath of the waves.

"I received a letter this morning from my old friend, Mme. de Millery," said M. de Kergariel. "You know her; she is a distant relative."

"She is coming to spend a few days here, and will arrive to-morrow. She adds that she will be accompanied by a young man who was a ward of her husband, to whom she is much attached."

"He has no property, but she will leave him her whole fortune, and believes that he would be an ideal husband for Marguerite. What do you say?"

"I say," replied Georges vehemently, "that these are very useless complications, and I hope, uncle, that you will avoid them. You need only tell Mme. de Millery that she is wasting her time by trying to marry off Marguerite, since you have the man whom you desire for her."

"Impossible. I don't wish to vex Mme. de Millery. She would never forgive me if your marriage did not take place. I could write only in case Marguerite accepted you. Then I could announce my daughter's approaching marriage and all would be settled."

"Marguerite requested a month's delay, uncle."

"Try to obtain her answer sooner." "She would have reason to be surprised at my urgency, and I should not like to tell her the cause."

"Then you must understand that, under these circumstances, I cannot refuse to receive Mme. de Millery and her friend. If Marguerite will not marry you, she must make another choice. Come, my dear Georges, courage; learn to fight—and to conquer!"

Georges made no reply. A full sense of anger oppressed him. He feared the stranger.

The morning of the following day Mme. de Millery reached the chateau, accompanied by Raoul de Villiers, the young man mentioned in her letter. She also brought her maid and a detestable pug dog named Coquette, from which she never separated.

She was a woman of 60, extremely kind, but so excessively vivacious that she seemed to fill the quiet dwelling with noise and bustle. A great beauty in her youth, she was now almost hideous, owing to her efforts to conceal, by art dyes, "the irreparable damage of the years."

M. de Kergariel, who had known her in her prime and even at one time in his life had been somewhat captivated by her, was full of indulgence for all the whims which, after all, scarcely disguised the genuine goodness of his old friend's heart.

Raoul de Villiers, whom she treated like a spoiled child, had a very fine figure and a most pleasing face. Tall and fair, with blue eyes, whose expression was sometimes laughing, sometimes cold and keen, he made a deep impression upon Marguerite. But he had a shallow heart, and the young girl's principal charm in his eyes was the amount of her dowry.

Georges and he instantly hated each other.

There was an actual duel of sharp words between the two young men whenever they were alone.

Marguerite still hesitated.

Raoul perhaps pleased her more than Georges. He shared her tastes, had the same love for outdoor life. But Georges was so devoted to her, she knew his loving, loyal soul, while she was totally ignorant of his rival's nature.

So one day, when Raoul jestingly about the love of the "handsome misanthrope," as he sarcastically dubbed Georges, she answered, with a consciousness of being wounded.

"Do not jeer, I beg of you. His love has at least one merit; it is unfeigned and sincere. Could I say as much of yours?"

Raoul looked at her steadily.

"If I understand you correctly," he said dryly, "you doubt me; therefore it is useless for me to play a ridiculous part longer. Since you have made your choice, why did you not say so? I would have spared my ardent declarations and annoying attentions!"

"My choice is not made," the young girl protested. "It would be, if you had not come."

This was almost a confession. Raoul smiled proudly, believing himself the victor.

"Then I am not wholly uncongenial to you? You do not wish to repulse me? Do you give me hope?"

"Hope nothing before the hour," replied Mlle. de Kergariel eagerly. "I know that no one except Georges will devote himself exclusively to my happiness. That is why I hesitate so much. But I must give him an answer in two days. I will tell you, also, my decision at the same time."

M. de Kergariel and Mme. de Millery came up just at that moment, and Marguerite said no more.

Mme. de Millery thought that the conversation between the two young people must have taken a more sentimental turn and, glancing mischievously at M. de Kergariel, murmured:

"Those children worship each other. Do you remember how cleverly we used to slip away by ourselves when we were their age? Come, your nephew will not be the one to win her!"

M. de Kergariel shook his head and answered slowly:

"Women's acts cannot be reckoned with. We sometimes slipped away together, Marquise, yet I did not become your happy husband. I shall wait for Marguerite's decision."

The next day at the time they usually took their walk along the edge of the cliffs, Marguerite and the two young men, followed by M. de Kergariel and Mme. de Millery—the latter accompanied by her faithful Coquette—were exploring the lofty rocks overhanging the sea.

Howls of terror suddenly arose.

No one knew how the accident happened, but Mme. de Millery's dog had fallen into the sea and the waves were already bearing it away.

The old lady shrieked, wept, wrung her hands and offered her whole fortune to any one who would save the poor animal.

"It would be useless," said Georges. "That is a dangerous place. No sensible person can risk his life to save a dog's."

As if the words were some magic spell, the indecision portrayed on Raoul de Villiers' face during Mme. de Millery's appeal suddenly vanished and, before there was time to stop him, he threw off his coat, climbed down the bluff and plunged into the terrible sea.

Cries of terror escaped every one's lips. Marguerite's heart almost stopped beating.

Georges alone remained unmoved, his eyes fixed upon Raoul, guessing what excessive vanity, united to the desire of pleasing his patroness, had suddenly decided this man's action.

But the fears of the others became intense as they saw that Raoul, though an excellent swimmer, after having seized the animal, could no longer struggle against the waves; his strength was failing and the spectators of the drama fairly held their breath.

Marguerite was on the point of falling when a hand was laid on her arm. Turning, she saw Georges, who was looking at her intently. He was frightfully pale, but his voice was firm as, pointing to Raoul, he asked:

"Do you love him?"

Marguerite answered angrily—for she read in her cousin's eyes his hate for Raoul and thought it unworthy of him at such a moment.

"Yes; I do love him!"

Then, to her bewilderment, for the words she had just uttered should have deepened the gulf between the two men, Georges in his turn rushed to the strand and breasted the threatening waves.

Swimming with unusual power, he succeeded by great exertion in reaching Raoul and dragging him out on the shore.

The whole scene had taken place in a few moments, but to the terrified spectators the time seemed endless.

When Georges had returned to the cliff Marguerite gazed proudly at him, a radiant expression illumining her face.

In witnessing the danger he had incurred merely to save her from suffering, in spite of the hatred he bore Raoul de Villiers, her cousin's disinterested love shone victoriously before her eyes.

And by the intense emotion she felt she realized that she, too, loved him and that his love had taken possession of her whole soul.

The next morning when Georges and Marguerite were alone the young girl's eyes expressed heartfelt affection, radiant joy. He thought that she was going to thank him for restoring her lover; and before she could speak he said bitterly:

"Not a word of gratitude, I beseech you! It was against my will that I saved the man you love. If you are happy, so much the better, for I had no other object than to secure your happiness! But I would have rejoiced if, after saving this man, the ocean had closed over me!"

"And the answer to your question?" said the young girl. "Then you do not desire to know it. Yet I had prepared it, hoping that you would be satisfied—must I not speak of it?"

"But you told me that you loved him?" cried Georges, his eyes sparkling with joy—for at last he understood.

Then, bending toward him, she murmured in a low tone, so low that the very air scarcely heard:

"It was a trial."

Far away a confused chant of voices seemed to rise from the sea, landing in a hymn of infinite joy the destruction of vanquished cupidity and the brilliant triumph of love.—N. Y. Sun.

As Devised.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is a confidence man?

Pa—A confidence man, my son, is a man who separates others from their money and their confidence simultaneously.—Chicago Daily News.

NOT OF THE IDLE RICH.

Notable Sons of Wealthy Americans Who Do Not Fritter Away Their Time.

Not all scions of wealthy families give themselves over to the frivolities presumed to be the trade-mark of the "400," says the Atlanta Constitution.

John Jacob Astor, for instance, spends most of his spare time in studying and experimenting in electrical science. With a fortune approximating $100,000,000 he finds no time for idleness.

He has developed a system of marine turbines which old engineers say are destined to be of great practical value; and while he has taken out patents on these inventions, he has declared that all the benefits of his discovery are to be freely given to the world.

Cornelius Vanderbilt insisted upon learning the trade of locomotive building by working in the shops of the Vanderbilt railroads. He has invented a fire box which is said to have practically revolutionized the freight locomotive, and now this is being used on a number of the principal railroads of the country.

J. Pierpont Morgan's only son, who is named after him, worked for several years as a clerk in the different departments of the great Morgan banking house before he was taken into his father's office to learn the elements of higher finance. He is a serious and hard-working business man, and is now the practical head of the London house.

George Gould is looked upon as one of the best business men in America. He was given absolute control of the Gould fortune upon his father's death, and has doubled it. He is in every sense a man of affairs, and he takes no more time for loafing than his father did. Howard Gould is, like his elder brother, a serious business man not given to frivolity.

Peter Cooper Hewitt inherited a fortune from his father, Abram S. Hewitt, but he has devoted himself to the study of electrical science with magnificent results. His Cooper Hewitt mercury lamp is not only a practical but a commercial success. He is devoting himself now to the problems of electrical power transmission and to wireless telegraphy.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Harry Payne Whitney, John D. Spreckles, Clarence Mackay, George Crocker, John R. Drexel and James H. Hyde are cited as other illustrations of the way the sons of very rich Americans are fully meeting the responsibilities placed upon them. Each in his particular sphere has demonstrated that he is fully capable of holding his own place in the lists of captains of industry.

Such men are good citizens. Their careers put to shame the many feather-brained and pinheaded sons of nouveau riche fathers who seem to think that idleness and frivolity are synonymous with gentility.

CORSETS FOR THE NOSE.

Form of Facial Beautifier Much in Demand in London Society at Present.

The "smart" set in society—and their followers in humble life—will do almost anything, says the London Daily News, to "improve" their personal appearance. Cutting dimples has been quite the rage for some time past, and the writer knows that "dimple cutters" in the West End have been doing quite big business during the present season.

Ladies who never dreamed of having dimples before have now got what they think admirable specimens upon the face and neck. What will happen when dimples go out of fashion it is difficult to surmise, but no doubt the "beauty doctors" will be able to make the necessary repairs.

Our contemporary, the Medical Press and Circular, in its current issue deals with another of the latest novelties in this direction. It emanates—like other things of the kind—from Paris and is a "special corset for the nose."

It is readily conceivable that prolonged and severe pressure for the correction of a supposed malformation may be most injurious under certain circumstances; while it is questionable if mere alteration in position would have the slightest effect in removing a "bottle" nose or in overcoming a chronic rosacea. To the practice our medical contemporary applies this sledge-hammer denunciation:

"To lower the art of surgery to the level of mere facial beautification may be sometimes undignified, but to tamper with the anatomical outlines of the human countenance is one of the most insidious forms of quackery when undertaken by unskilled hands, and for the sake of pampering a foolish vanity."

Boy Is Drowned by a Fish.

Arthur Langrige, son of a business man at Corpus Christi, Tex., was drowned in Corpus Christi, in an unusual manner. The boy, about eight years old, was seated on a wharf fishing. A violent movement showed that a large fish had attacked the bait and the boy attempted to haul it from the water. He was pulled off the wharf into nine feet of water and sank. The body was found after three hours' search. The fishing tackle was taken out into the Gulf of Mexico by whatever had attacked the bait.

Danger in Mosquitoes.

The houses of the laborers who are improving the harbor of Rio de Janeiro have been covered with screens in order to minimize the chances of nocturnal damage by mosquitoes infected with the germs of yellow fever.

Silk in Servia.

Silk cocoon cultivation is becoming one of Servia's national industries. Last year there were collected in that kingdom 345,000 pounds of silk cocoons. The government is distributing free of charge the eggs of the silkworm.

Put an End to It All.

A grievous wall oftentimes comes as a result of unbearable pain from over-taxed organs, Dizziness, Backache, Liver complaint and Constipation, but thanks to Dr. King's New Life Pills they put an end to it all. They are gentle, but thorough. Try them. Only 25c. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry.

Subscribe now for THE TRIBUNE; your postmaster will take your order or you can send direct.

The Presidential Campaign.

You need a New York daily paper from now until after the fall election next year. THE TRIBUNE is in a position to offer you the best of all New York papers. The Press, and the GENOA TRIBUNE one year for only $4.00. The Daily and Sunday Press and TRIBUNE one year for $6.50.

Mico Spar Chicken Grit—best thing for poultry. GENOA MILLING CO.

Are You Threatened with Baldness?

The path of prevention is clear. Dry brush your hair daily with a soft bristle brush—we sell them.

Keep it free from dandruff by occasional shampoos. A high grade tar soap is good.

Apply Walley's Perfection Hair Tonic two or three times a week. There is nothing better. Don't delay until you have no hair.

WALLEY'S, AUBURN, N. Y.

Over a half-century in business.

E. C. HILLMAN, Levanna, N. Y. GENERAL FIRE INSURANCE.

Place your risks in none but sound companies, at reasonable rates. Regular trip every thirty days. The Glens Falls Co. carries the majority of risks in this section; I also have other good companies.

PURE DRUGS & MEDICINES, Perfumes and fine Toilet Soap. Also choice groceries. A. E. Clark, King Ferry.

A FITTING TRIBUTE.

A Citizen of Harford, Cortland Co., Pays a Well-Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of Mrs. Diantha Allen, wife of Lieutenant Allen, 18th Pennsylvania Co. D, adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before:

Mr. H. W. BAROCK, AUBURN, N. Y., Dear Sir—I think you require me to let you see what Bubeck's Rheumatism Cure has done for me. I have been troubled for over two years with muscular rheumatism and a very severe heart trouble. During that time I was as helpless as a child. I saw your advertisement in REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

For President,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

For Vice-President,
CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS.

Don't Vote without Thinking.

The Republican caucus, for the election of delegates to represent the town of Genoa at the county, district and assembly conventions, has been called for next Tuesday, August 30th, at the store of F. C. Hagin. The polls of the caucus will be open from two until five o'clock. The preliminaries in the other towns of the county will be held the same day and hour.

The principal interest in the preliminary proceedings this year centers about the delegations to the county conventions. As is doubtless known, there is a division in the party so far as county politics is concerned, and each faction, one headed by Mr. Payne and the other by Mr. Wilcox, is expected to nominate delegations to represent the Republicans of the towns at the conventions. The voters at the caucus will decide by majority vote which delegation shall go. The contest hinges alone in the county convention upon the sheriff, there being no opposing aspirants for any of the other nominations to be made. Three candidates for sheriff have been making a canvass. E. H. Herrling of Auburn is the Payne candidate. He is a man of strong character, an honest, true Republican with a record for good clean service and hard work for the party from the day he cast his first ballot. Throughout his long career in political work Mr. Payne has always been identified with honest, intelligent men, and clean, wholesome methods, and the fact that he is earnestly striving for the nomination and election of Mr. Herrling as sheriff is sufficient guaranty of that gentleman's ability and integrity.

Geo. S. Fordyce of Union Springs is the Wilcox candidate. He represents the "machine," and the principal argument advanced in his favor is that "the office of sheriff belongs in the country." In reply we submit that Mr. Fordyce being a supporter of the "machine," the headquarters of which is of course in the city, he must lay aside whatever identity he may have as a country man, and become to all intents and purposes politically a city man. And he is, of course, willing to do this or he would not work for the nomination. He has enjoyed considerable public honor as supervisor, chairman of the board, and assemblyman four years and has had what many people would consider enough. Just how the country would be benefitted more by Mr. Fordyce's election than it would be by Mr. Herrling's election is not apparent. It would mean that the "machine" is just so much stronger and its grip upon our political rights just so much tighter, and we know it is too tight already.

Jay P. Nye, at one time a "machine" man and later a Payne man, has been making what he calls an independent canvass. With all respect for Mr. Nye, we claim that his canvass, if he secures any delegations, will tend to strengthen the chances of the "machine" candidate. If this is not expected, then why are the "machine" leaders so pleased that Mr. Nye has finally entered the contest? Why does Mr. Fordyce work the towns and wards that Mr. Nye does not work, and why does he overlook the town and wards which Mr. Nye expects to carry? If Mr. Nye is entirely independent why did the "machine" leaders in a certain ward of Auburn discuss in the presence of one candidate which one they should run in that ward, Mr. Nye or Mr. Fordyce? And why do the "machine" leaders admit there will be no division of strength between Mr. Fordyce and

Mr. Nye? In the face of these conditions why is the town of Genoa under any obligations to support Mr. Nye this year, when three years ago, as the Payne candidate for sheriff, he would doubtless have secured the nomination if he had been given the Genoa delegation. Three years ago the "machine" men refused to give Mr. Nye the support of Genoa, but this year they are awfully anxious for him to have it. Why?

As the canvass is about to close we submit a few ideas which have developed during the few weeks past. The "machine" leaders have been accused by John H. Osborne in his Index with all sorts of political crimes. He is a man of wealth, and if the parties accused were not guilty and had been libeled, do you suppose they would ever have dropped those damage lawsuits? How quick those men were to bring action for heavy damages, and how easily the cases were dropped when it was found that he meant business. The ring leaders cry loud for harmony, but how does it work? Isn't it true in several towns that when the "machine" candidate for supervisor was defeated at the caucus, that the "machine" men turned in and helped the Democratic nominee? That kind of harmony means ring rule or party ruin, don't it?

On another page of this issue is to be found an article from the pen of L. B. Norman of Genoa. Mr. Norman is a gifted writer and does not hesitate to wade right in. He asked for the space and we did not have the heart to refuse even if we had the desire to. You will notice at once that Mr. Norman overlooks the principle for which the Payne faction is striving, and comments upon the personalities of the Payne men. This is the method pursued by some campaign orators, and while it is entertaining to an uncertain number of people it is scarcely ever convincing. It reminds us of an old saying which most of THE TRIBUNE readers will recall. We do not intend this as a reply to Mr. Norman's article, as we would surely become confused if we attempted to touch upon all the scattered points which he has inserted. But we will take two or three points upon which he appears to be serious. Mr. Herrling was not offered a renomination as city clerk and of course did not decline it, and in the first place was nominated and elected to the office against the hard work of the "machine" to defeat him. The ordinary reader knows that the editorial page of any newspaper is entirely separate and different from the news pages, but to Mr. Norman all pages look alike. Now three years ago the Payne faction did support Mr. Nye for sheriff, and when he went into the convention and came so near winning, all the votes he had outside of his own ward were turned in for him by the Payne workers, and if we remember rightly, Mr. Norman was one of the Genoa delegation (Mr. Nye's old town, you know) which refused to honor him with a single ballot. Mr. Nye was certainly as good a man for the office three years ago as he is now, and the blame for his failure to land should fall upon his friends who refused to support him rather than those who did all they could. If Mr. Nye is making a bonafide effort to secure the nomination he must count on some towns as his without a struggle; as one day in Genoa and one day in Sterling is the extent of his canvass outside the city. Don't be influenced against your own judgment; don't vote without thinking.

Skeeter Shoot drives away mosquitos. Applied to the ankles, wrists, hands and face will render you immune from these pesky pests, 25c. Sagar Drug Store, Auburn.

The preserving quality of LAWRENCE paints is in its superior quality of pigment (Lead and Zinc) and purity of the Linseed Oil used—sold by Smith, North Lansing.

The Prisoners Examined.

The examination of James Mansel and Edward O'Connor, charged with the murder of Robert Shiels of Venice, was conducted before Justice of the Peace Lanterman in King Ferry on Monday afternoon and Tuesday. The beginning was not marked by any unusual incident, all fears that the prisoners might meet with violence were shown to be groundless and the examination proceeded quietly.

Mansel and O'Connor, handcuffed to Sheriff Colton and Under Sheriff Hosmer, reached King Ferry about 1:30 o'clock. Justice Lanterman had everything in readiness and the examination was soon started.

District Attorney Dayton was in New York and the prosecution was looked after by Assistant District Attorney Burritt. Attorney James L. Baker of Ithaca was present in behalf of the defendants, and Mansel's mother was also in court. Others present were Mrs. Shiels, the widow of the murdered man, and Wm. Shiels of Auburn and Patrick Shiels of Ithaca, brothers of the murdered man.

The first witness called was Uri Spafford, proprietor of the hotel and saloon at King Ferry, who told of a fight on the morning of the murder between Mansel and one Riley, a companion of the Shiels boys, and that he advised Mansel and O'Connor to have the Shiels boys arrested rather than go up to their house to whip them. Mansel allowed he had the tools to do 'em up with. "He thumped the bar with something hard. I told him he better not carry a gun and he said, 'This ain't a gun.' Mansel and O'Connor went out and returned later saying they had secured a rig. I went out on the porch and while there Harrison Goodyear drove up. I told Goodyear he had better keep out of it for he would get into trouble. He said, 'Tell them to come out,' and I did. The boys came out and got into the wagon. Before they came out one of them said, 'Goodbye, boys, you will hear from us later.'"

Harrison Goodyear was sworn as a witness. He is 64 years old and has lived in King Ferry 20 years. The prisoners engaged him to carry them to the Shiels home, Mansel saying he was a schoolmate of young Robert Shiels and wanted to see him. He drove them up for $1.25 which Mansel paid him. They left the village about 4 o'clock and arrived at the Shiels place in about half an hour, stopping once on the way for a drink of water. Mansel picked up a stone when they got out and Harrison drove down the road and stopped. Soon he heard a racket and saw Mrs. Shiels come out of the yard and run down the road. He drove on down to Hugh Shiels and then soon drove back up and into the yard. He saw the body of Robert Shiels lying on the ground and the two prisoners stood there, also Mrs. Shiels. Mansel had a stone in one hand and a club in the other. He saw no blows struck and heard but little said by any one.

Tuesday morning the Shiels boys were sworn. They each told about the same story, how they retreated into the house and upstairs with a pitchfork and prevented defendants from climbing the stairs. They saw nothing of the assault upon their father, and Mansel and O'Connor were leaving the place when they came out of the house.

Dr. F. A. Dudley told of being called, arriving at the Shiels home about 7 p. m. He found the man dead. The autopsy held later showed two wounds on the head, either of which might possibly have caused death. That death was due to an injury to the brain caused by external violence, but he had formed no conclusion as to the cause of those wounds. Other slight wounds and abrasions were found on other parts of the body, but none of them were of a serious nature.

Mrs. Shiels was sworn by the defense. She saw the men at the place and later saw the defendants with her husband and they were pounding him with stones. Heard him say, "Don't murder me; I'm a poor innocent man." She ran out in the yard and saw her husband fall to the ground. She told the men that they had killed her husband, and called to him and rubbed his face, but he was dead. Then she went to Hugh's for help and returned as the boys came out of the house. The men then got in with Goodyear and drove away.

Robert and Arthur Shiels were sworn by the defense.

Before adjournment Mr. Baker made the statement openly that Arthur Shiels was responsible for the whole trouble. He believed, he said, that there had been sufficient proof to warrant holding the defendants for

SMITH'S GENOA STORE

Special Low Prices

ON

Summer Goods, Shirt Waists,

Underwear, Hats and Caps,

Men's and Women's Oxfords.

Smith's Store, Genoa

the grand jury and he congratulated Justice Lanterman on the manner in which he had conducted the examination. Mr. Burritt also spoke briefly.

The defendants were held to await the action of the next grand jury and the hearing was adjourned.

After giving them their supper the defendants were taken back to the Auburn jail Tuesday night.

Two day excursion to Buffalo and Niagara Falls via New York Central on Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 5 Only $2.25 from Auburn for the round trip to either point; tickets good two days returning, and good going and returning in regular (except limited) trains. Call on New York Central ticket agents for particulars.

CONTINUE

Those who are gaining flesh and strength by regular treatment with

Scott's Emulsion

should continue the treatment in hot weather; smaller dose and a little cool milk with it will do away with any objection which is attached to fatty products during the heated season.

Send for free sample. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409-415 Pearl Street, New York. Soc. and $1.00; all druggists.

Dr. Wade, M. R. C. V. S. Veterinary Surgeon, Genoa, N. Y.

Office at residence (Cadmus house.)

YOUNG TENDER JUICY

These are the points of merit in our beef. You never run the risk of getting old and tough steaks or roasts here. We assure you when you come to us for meat the quality will be right.

Our experience teaches us how to best select meat and how to best serve it for you. Juicy, tender steaks are our pride—they give you an appetite every time. Porter House—the nicest you ever bought.

Olliver's Market, Genoa, N. Y.

See the new Stoves & Ranges at our exhibit at the

FAIR

HAGIN'S HARDWARE GENOA, N. Y.

The BEST EVER Our Second Annual Fair GENOA, N. Y.

SEPTEMBER Tuesday 20th Wednesday 21st Thursday 22d.

Larger Premiums Larger Purses Faster Racing More Entries

Send for Premium List.

H. Gay, Secretary, Genoa, N. Y.

Village and Vicinity

Items of Interest Picked Up by the Tribune
Reporters—Neighborhood News.

—Miss Luella Smith is spending a few days at Tully Lake Park.

—The political pot is boiling to beat all, but we hope it will not slop over.

—D. W. Smith played with the Weedsport band at Jordan Wednesday.

—Hon. Chauncey M. Depew will speak at the Moravia fair next Tuesday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bush and son of Auburn are visiting relatives in town.

—Miss Anna Alling of McLean has been spending a week with her grandmother, Mrs. E. Alling.

—F. C. Hagin and D. W. Smith and families visited Ithaca on Monday, attending the circus.

—Ernest B. Mead is enjoying a few days of camp life with a merry party on the east shore of Owasco lake.

—There will be a harvest dance at East Venice, Friday evening, September 9. Music by Sherwood's orchestra with piano.

—Large loads of apple barrels are passing through town almost daily. The apple crop in this vicinity promises to be first class.

—Tomorrow is the picnic day. Come to Genoa and bring your lunch basket, and enjoy some first class speaking and other things beside victuals.

—E. H. Herrling of Auburn was in town Monday. The heavy storm in the afternoon prevented him from seeing several people who he was quite anxious to interview.

—Mr. Robert Denton, who has been spending the summer in Genoa, left Wednesday morning for his home in Leavenworth, Kan., expecting to make numerous stops before reaching home.

—Mrs. Thomas Sill gave a five o'clock tea, August 23, in honor of her guest, Mrs. J. L. Brown. They had a very enjoyable time. Friends from Washington, New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Rochester, King Ferry, Atwater, Venice, North Lansing and Genoa were present.

—The Venice Center postoffice was robbed one night recently. Two young men who lately left the George Junior Republic were suspected of doing the job. A deputy marshal from Auburn arrested one and is looking for the other. These boys made a mistake when they tackled Uncle Sam's business domains. If it had been a Genoa business place probably no questions would have been asked.

—Mrs. M. B. VanBuskirk of Aurora gave a Wells luncheon on Monday in honor of her daughter, Mrs. O. B. Huntsman. The table was prettily decorated with red, the College color, and there were eight Wells girls who joined in the happy memories of college life. The guests were Mrs. Huntsman of Lakewood, N. J.; Mrs. Stanton of Chicago; Mrs. Swan of Salem, Ohio; Mrs. Jones of Cornwall-on-Hudson; Miss Hughitt of Auburn; Mrs. Powell, Miss Goldsmith and Miss Freley of Aurora—Union Springs Advertiser.

—Mrs. D. L. Mead left this morning for Moravia to spend two weeks with relatives.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cannon and daughter of Rochester are guests of relatives in this vicinity.

—J. H. Reay is at Newark Valley this week, where he officiated as starter in the races at the Tioga county fair.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bronson returned to Cortland Monday, accompanied by Miss Edith Hunter who is their guest this week.

—Lightning struck the residence of Mrs. Sarah Mack during the shower of Monday afternoon. No serious damage was done.

—The Teachers' Institute for the Second Commissioner District of Cayuga County will be held at Union Springs September 5-9, 1904.

—Services will be held at the Presbyterian church next Sunday as follows: Morning service at 11 o'clock. Topic of sermon, "God's Plumbline." Sunday school at 12. Evening service at 7:30. Topic, "Stewardship." All are cordially invited.

—A sad death is reported from East Venice. On Tuesday afternoon the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whitman, while playing about the barn, dislodged some baled hay which fell upon him and either smothered him or choked him to death. The father and several men were painting the barn and the lad was not missed until supper time, when a search revealed his lifeless body with a bale of hay across his neck and chest. No cries were heard, and it is supposed that death came suddenly. The parents have the sincere sympathy of all in their new trouble. The funeral service was held Thursday at 1 o'clock at the house.

Kalsomine, white wash and paint brushes in great variety at Whitcomb's, Locke.

Buy your Rugs, Carpets, Matting, Oil Cloths, Linoleums and Lace Curtains at lower prices than ever at H. P. Mastin's.

The Shaw Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Shaw family was held at the pleasant home of W. G. Shaw at King Ferry on Wednesday, Aug. 24. The day was most pleasant and eighty people were present. At 1 p. m., all were invited to Masonic Hall where the tables were spread with all the good things man could wish for. After doing justice to the dinner, the company returned to the lawn and proceeded to elect officers for the following year as follows:

Pres.—W. G. Shaw.
First Vice-Pres.—Howard Shaw.
Second Vice-Pres.—Mrs. C. Cannon.
Sec.—Roy Holland.
Treas.—Ethel Main.
Poet—Mrs. Lillian Tandy.
Historian—M. A. Shaw.

Miss Abby Main gave a recitation and Mrs. Frank Main read an original poem, which was followed by music. The following out-of-town guests were present: Mrs. Lillian Tandy of Red Wing, Minn.; Mrs. F. S. Brown and daughter of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Barrows and Mrs. Mary Shaw of Eagle Harbor, N. Y.; Mrs. Fred Cleaver, West Gaines, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cannon and daughter and M. A. Shaw, Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Davis, Sage; H. S. Bradt and family, Groton; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bradt, Auburn; Miss Mattie Carr, Romulus.

The next reunion will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Figue.

OUR CLEARANCE SALE OF SUMMER GOODS

Will Still Continue For Ten Days More

and during that time we will give especially good bargains on all light weight goods, also on ladies' and gents' Oxfords. The stock is large but must be closed out to make room for winter goods. Our grocery department is full and complete and our bake stuffs are the best money can buy, and prices as low as the lowest. We also keep oranges, bananas, lemons and all kinds of canned goods. Watch and clock repairing a specialty. No trouble to show goods.

H. P. Mastin, : Genoa, N. Y.

Depew at Moravia.

Next week comes the Cayuga County Fair at Moravia, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and three great days are anticipated. Entries are coming in fast and the exhibits in all departments will be extensive. The poultry show will surpass anything ever seen in this section. There will be plenty doing in the line of good racing each day.

The chief attraction of the fair will be the presence of Hon. Chauncey M. Depew on Tuesday. Mr. Depew will come in his special car and will make an address on the fair grounds. This will be a rare chance to hear one of the foremost American orators.

On Wednesday afternoon Major George W. Calderwood, the famous wit and humorist of California, will speak. He is said to be one of the most interesting speakers on the stage. Hon. John McKee of Brooklyn, Prohibition candidate for Governor of this state, will make a short address.

Other attractions include Millard's European Dog Show, Cotton's Intellectual Donkeys, Robbins, comic juggler, and the Groton Brass Band. Admission 25 cents. Children under 12, free.

Ithaca Band at Dryden Fair, Sept. 13, 14 and 15.

In addition to the sensational high-class attractions previously secured, the management of Dryden Fair now announce for the first two days of the fair, the engagement of Ithaca's famous band, one of the finest musical organizations in the United States. On the third day the well known Groton band will be present. Dryden has one of the best attended fairs in the state of New York. Everybody goes. There is a continuous performance with no waits between the acts. Send for a premium list.

S. G. LUTPIN, Pres.
J. B. WILSON, Sec.

Tired when you get up? Do you get out bed in the morning all tired out, dull headache, no appetite or energy? Rexall Celery and Iron, a simple tonic that will make all the difference in the world in the way you feel. Quiets the nerves, builds up the blood, stimulates the liver into healthy action, gives you an appetite, 90c. Exclusive agency. Sagar Drug Store, Auburn.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

WANTED—500 bu. Seekel pears delivered at my residence. Highest cash market price.
R. W. ARMSTRONG, Genoa.

150 Brown Leghorns for sale.
H. GAY, Genoa.

98c Rugs at Smith's.
Sweet pickles at Smith's.

I wish to remind the fruit growers of this section that I am with J. B. Weager again this season and that we will pay you the highest market price for your apples and pears.
L. B. NORMAN.

FOR SALE—Good work horse; also a hay press. ARTHUR SMILES, Genoa.

Pigs for sale, 8 weeks old.
B. F. COFFIN, Genoa.

Good pasture and water on the Tillott farm, on the Indian Field road. Farm for sale. Inquire of Elijah Eaton, Venice Center, or Genoa, R. F. D. 24.

Bring your old hens, chickens, ducks and turkeys to Hotel DeWitt's Genoa, on Monday night, Sept. 5, or Tuesday morning, Sept. 6, and get the highest market price for them.
E. U. BOURNASSON, Thompsonville.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c at A. E. Clark's drug store, King Ferry.

Kodaks and Cameras. A kodak is a pleasure the entire year, as much so in mid summer as in budding spring, tinted October or near November. Indoors and out the whole year around is camera time. Come to our store and let us show you how far a little money will go in fitting you out. Let us show you cameras and the necessary articles for picture making. Sagar Drug Store, Auburn.

A new and large stock of the celebrated Sherwin-Williams Company Paints just in at Whitcomb's drug store, Locke.

Shot Guns, Rifles and Ammunition.

We are agents for the L. C. Smith shot guns and Savage rifles, wholesale and retail.

Single shot guns from $4.50 up
Double shot guns from $8.50 up
Rifles from $4.00 up
Loaded shells wholesale and retail.

Pomeroy & Coe,
137 Genesee-st., Auburn
Successors to Everts Bros. & Pomeroy.

Now is Your Last Chance to buy a Parrot cheap. The 1st of September the prices advance. We sell only young hand-raised birds, and same are guaranteed to talk.
Cuban Parrots 5.00,
Mexican Red Heads 6.00, Mexican double Yellow Heads 10.00,
Hartz Net. Canaries 2.50 and 3.00. Guaranteed to talk.
Our stock of fancy gold fish will arrive the first week in September. Also a complete stock of supplies, etc.
The Floral Store,
34 Genesee-st. Auburn
John A. Kraus,
Proprietor.

Stoves and Ranges. New lot just Received.

Anything you want in Agate Ware

Call and see our line.

F. W. MILLER, - GENOA.

AGATE'S OLD STAND.

THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS Co.
LARGEST PAINT AND VARNISH MAKERS IN THE WORLD

make paint for

Houses,	Cupboards,	Bath Tubs,
Barns,	Shelves,	Buggies,
Floors,	Furniture,	Farm Tools, &c.

A special paint for each purpose, not one slap-dash mixture for all.
Not low priced, but highest grade at fair honest prices. You know our reputation. We say these are the best paints we know of. You'll say so too after you have used them.
Their varnishes are as good as their paints.

Ask about SOLD BY

G. S. Aikin, - King Ferry.

Great Reduction Sale

At the Genoa Clothing Store!

Now is the time for you to buy Clothing, as for the next 15 days all of the Summer Suits of Men's, Boys' and Children's will be sold at great reduction to clean up Summer stock.

Bargains in Gents' Furnishings, Hats and Caps, Straw Hats, Trunks, Suit Cases, Telescopes, etc. Do not wait but come and get Reliable Goods at Way-Down Prices.

M. KALVRISKY,

GENOA

N. Y.

SILVERWARE

Let us furnish the Silverware if you want the kind that looks well and wears well—our stock will bear the most rigid inspection.

A. T. HOYT,
Jeweler, Moravia, N. Y.

FULFILLMENT OF PROPHECY

Chapter of English History Relating to the Title of the Prince of Wales.

Why is the heir presumptive to the British throne called the Prince of Wales? A long chapter of English history is epitomized in the title, says the New York Tribune.

Wales was nominally a principality of the kingdom when Edward I, also called Edward the Crusader, returned from the Holy Land, but it had its own line of princes and was practically independent. The Norman rulers of England had several times invaded the country, but the sturdy Welshmen had not been subdued. Edward's chief ambition after his experience in foreign wars was the subjugation of Wales and Scotland. In pursuing that ambition he began with Wales.

Llewellyn, the contemporary prince had been captive in his youth in the hands of Edward's father, Henry III. Later he was a supporter of Simon of Montfort, who was the real ruler of England for several years during the latter part of Henry's reign, and was overthrown and slain by Edward at the battle of Evesham. After that battle however, Llewellyn promised fealty to Henry, before Edward set out on his crusade. Edward summoned him as a vassal to his coronation in August, 1274, but he refused to attend because not guaranteed safe conduct. Several other summonses were treated in like manner, but Edward, who was crafty, instead of at once making war, resorted to strategy.

Llewellyn was betrothed to Eleanor, the young daughter of De Montfort, a first cousin of the king. Eleanor's mother died on the continent in 1275, and in the following year she sailed for Wales with her brother Almeric. Edward intercepted the vessel off the Scilly islands and carried his two cousins to London. Llewellyn was served with another summons, but he again refused to obey, though he boldly demanded the release of his promised bride. Edward then declared his lands forfeited and within a year led an army into Wales. He overran the country, secured the support of Llewellyn's brother David, who had a grievance about his patrimony, and stripped Llewellyn of everything but his title and the limited sovereignty of Snowdon and the Isle of Anglesey. Under penalty of a greater tribute than he could hope to pay, Eleanor was surrendered to him, and they were married before Edward and his court at Worcester in 1278.

Five years later, however, Llewellyn was again in revolt. Edward led a large army into Wales, but was not conspicuously successful until Llewellyn was killed in a skirmish. His head "was sent to Edward, who placed it on the walls of the tower of London, crowned with an ivy wreath, in mockery of a prediction of Merlin that when the English money should become circular, the prince of Wales should be crowned in London."

Edward soon reduced the country after Llewellyn's death, and he established his residence for a time at Caernarvon castle to personally conduct the pacification of the country. He had his picture with him, the heroic woman who had saved his life in Palestine by sucking a wound inflicted by the poisoned dagger of an assassin. At Caernarvon on April 25, 1284, was born his son and heir, Edward of Caernarvon, eventually the weak and contemptible Edward II. With a view to knocking the last prop from under the foundations of the native line of princes, the king commanded that the infant Edward should have the title of prince of Wales. And so, after all, was fulfilled the prophecy of Merlin, the seer.

A Turtle with a History.

At Fillmore, a hamlet near Bellefonte, Pa., Oscar Dunlap, a farmer, while walking over his farm accidentally stumbled over a large land turtle. On examining it he found on its shell artistically carved the names of Cale H. Kephart and Ellis H. Williams, with the date of 1850. The lettering was almost as plain as the day it was put on, more than half a century ago, when the now old gentlemen were young men together. All these years the turtle has presumably been slowly crawling around in that vicinity. Mr. Kephart, although almost eighty years of age, is still well and hearty and is able to do a fair day's work on his large farm, which is one of the best in the county. The finding of the turtle has brought to his mind many interesting historical events. Ellis H. Williams, whose name also appears on the hard shell of the turtle, left Centre county years ago and is now one of the oldest conductors on a Pullman palace car train running between Chicago and Denver.

Tale of a Millionaire.

Some years ago a very wealthy man in England got it into his head that he had lost all his money. To pacify his sons told him that they had saved the remnants of the estate and were able to offer him employment as a clerk. At $7.50 a week he worked as happy as a prince for the last 20 years of his life. When he died his estate amounted to nearly $15,000,000.

Seagull a Weatherwise Bird.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a convoy of seagulls fly toward early in the morning sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland—though there be no haze hanging out toward the sea to denote unpleasant weather—interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable.

Fishing Ground Told.

An acre of good fishing ground will yield more food in a week than an acre of the best land will in a year.—Scientific Journal.

He Didn't Guess It.

He—And so you refuse me?
She—I must.

"It is because I am poor, I presume?"

"No; that is not the reason."

"Because my family is less aristocratic than yours, perhaps?"

"No."

"I see. You want to marry a title."

"No; I have no such ambition."

"Hum! Very strange! Then why is it you refuse me?"

"It's because I can't bear the sight of you."—N. Y. Weekly.

Terrible Possibility.

"Yes," said the man from Michigan, "we are going to appeal to congress to pass more stringent laws against the wasteful destruction of timber-land."

"Lumber getting scarce up there?" asked the man from Georgia.

"Lumber?" repeated the Michigan man. "What do we care about lumber? We've got to protect the breakfast-food industry, haven't we? And if the sawdust gives out, where will we be?"—Judge.

Retrospection.

"Didn't you husband join a 'Don't Worry' club?"

"Yes," said the woman with the sunbonnet.

"Did it benefit him?"

"I guess so; but it wasn't much good for the rest of the family. In about a week it was the 'Don't Hurry' club and now it's the 'Nothin' doin'' club."—Washington Star.

Leap-Year Maid.

"Uncle John," queried the pretty girl who was seeking information, "would I be justified in writing to a young man who has never written to me?"

"Only on very important business, my dear," answered the old man.

"Well, this is important business," she explained. "I want him to marry me."—Columbus Dispatch.

Pat's Conundrum.

M'Lubberty—Nora, me jewel, O! hove wan for yez. AV a man is born in Lapland, lives in Finland, an' dies in Poland, phwat is he?"

Mrs. M'Lubberty (promptly)—A car-trip.

M'Lubberty (disgusted)—Begorra, somebody must hov told yez.—Tit-Bits.

Advice.

"No," she declared. "I will never marry any man who hasn't got rich enough to go and ask papa for me."

"That's all right, but you ought to remember that your father has a weak heart, and sudden joy has often been known to prove fatal in such cases."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Advantage in Numbers.

When the Franciscan friars first brought their religion to the Huichol Indians of Mexico, the "new gods" were eagerly accepted by them, but they would not give up their native deities. They fancied that the more gods they had to pray to the surer they were to get their prayers granted.

Best Golden Bio and Java Coffee

22 cents per pound at H. P. Mastin's.

New York Daily Press, $8.50.

Printed Envelopes.

Every farmer and business man should use envelopes with his name printed on the corner. It insures the return of the letter if not delivered. One hundred fine envelopes printed for 75 cents. Order by mail or call at THE TRIBUNE office.

Mico Spar Chicken Grit—best thing for poultry.

GENOA MILLING Co.

Shake Into Your Shoes

Allen's Foot-Ease, a powder. It cures itching, smarting, nervous feet and ingrowing nails, and instantly takes the sting out of corns and bunions. It's the greatest comfort discoverer of the age. Allen's Foot-Ease makes tight or new shoes feel easy. It is a certain cure for sweating, callous and hot, tired, aching feet. Try it today. Sold by all Druggists and Shoe stores. Don't accept any substitute. Trial package FREE. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

A fine lot of Shirt Waist Suits just received at Miss Lanterman's, King Ferry.

w3

TEETH ACHE?

Best set of teeth on Rubber Plate $8.00.
Good " " " " " " 5.00
Partial Sets of Teeth, $3.00 and up
Painless extraction, 25c

Vitalized Air For Painless Extraction 50c.

Teeth Cleaned, 75c
Teeth Filled with Amalgam, 50c
Gold fillings, $1.00 and up
Silver fillings, 75c

HARVARD DENTAL PARLORS,

141 Genesee St., Auburn, N. Y.

Over 20 Years. All Work Guaranteed.

THE SUNDAY BIBLE SCHOOL.

Lesson in the International Series for September 11, 1904—"Elijah Taken Up Into Heaven."

(Prepared by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.)

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

LESSON TEXT.

(2 Kings 2:1-11; Memory Verses, 9-11.)

1. And it came to pass, when the Lord would take up Elijah into Heaven by a whirlwind, that Elijah went with Elisha from Gilgal.

2. And Elijah said unto Elisha, Tarry here, I pray thee; for the Lord hath sent me to Bethel. And Elisha said unto him, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they went down to Bethel.

3. And the sons of the prophets that were at Bethel came forth to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Lord will take away thy master from thy head to-day? And he said, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

4. And Elijah said unto him, Elisha, tarry here, I pray thee; for the Lord hath sent me to Jericho. And he said, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. So they came to Jericho.

5. And the sons of the prophets that were at Jericho came to Elisha, and said unto him, Knowest thou that the Lord will take away thy master from thy head to-day? And he answered, Yea, I know it; hold ye your peace.

6. And Elijah said unto him, Tarry, I pray thee, here; for the Lord hath sent me to Jordan. And he said, As the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, I will not leave thee. And they two went on.

7. And fifty men of the sons of the prophets went, and stood to view afar off; and they two stood by Jordan.

8. And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it together, and smote the waters, and they were divided hither and thither, so that they two went over on dry ground.

9. And it came to pass, when they were gone over, that Elijah said unto Elisha, Ask what I shall do for thee, before I be taken away from thee. And Elisha said, I pray thee, let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me.

10. And he said, Thou hast asked a hard thing; nevertheless, if thou see when I am taken from thee, it shall be so unto thee; but if not, it shall not be so.

11. And it came to pass, as they still went on, and talked, that behold, there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into Heaven.

THE LESSON includes the first chapter of 1 Kings, which gives us the last public act of Elijah.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"He was not; for God took him."—Gen. 5:24.

TIME.—Something over ten years after the death of the last lesson.

PLACE.—Elijah started at Gilgal and traveled with Elisha toward the southeast, through Bethel and Jericho, and then across the Jordan, perhaps to Mount Nebo. Comparing Scripture with Scripture.

Testing of Elisha.—As one reads this lesson the question is forced upon us, Did Elijah wish to get away from Elisha? In the light of verse 9 I think we must say "No." The angel of God did not want to get away from Jacob, and yet he said "let me go." He wished to test Jacob, and the testing completed the blessings followed (Gen. 32:24-29). Elijah, knowing of his early departure, would test Elisha and prove his fitness as his successor. Testing is not for the purpose of destroying but to prove fitness for service. Jacob held on and got the blessing. Elisha followed his master and obtained his request. The Syrian-Phoenician woman is a striking example of persistency obtaining the blessing. Matt. 15:23-28. God tests His children (Heb. 12:6, 7, 11) and the Christian is admonished to rejoice in the testing.—Jas. 1:2-4.

Elisha was persistent. He had the qualities of a Paul. Phil. 3:13. He saw the glory of blessing ahead and he was determined to have it at all hazards. This is one of the indispensable qualities in God's servants. If they lack it, they prove unfit for the responsible places in Christ's kingdom.

(2) Watchful. No heavy eye ever saw God's glory. No sluggish heart ever felt the exquisite heart beat of the Divine presence. That Elijah was to be taken up into Heaven had in some way been revealed to Elisha and the students at the schools of the prophets at Gilgal, Bethel and Jericho, vs. 3, 5. Elisha was determined to behold that glorious sight. The eye of faith was in the watch tower, and the natural eye, obedient to the soul yearning, was faithfully keeping Elijah in view. Gilgal is left behind and Bethel is reached, but nothing can divert the attention of Elisha, nothing can make him tarry behind. Jericho is visited and still Elisha hangs on. The Jordan is reached. If Elijah goes down into its depths, Elisha will follow. Ah, how many Christians are back on the hill-top with the 50 sons of the prophets, when they ought to be following hard after the blessing.

(3) Ambitious. "Let a double portion of thy spirit be upon me." True ambition finds its center and object in God. Elisha was ambitious for God as a possession, that he might more effectually serve God during the apostate state of the kingdom. The ambition that makes God its end and aim and purpose is the safe ambition. We are told to "covet the best gifts." 1 Cor. 12:31. The great trouble with Christian people is that they ask and receive not because they ask amiss, that they may consume it upon their lusts. Jas. 4:3. The assurance of Rom. 8:26-27 is blessed encouragement.

(4) Triumphant. "Elisha saw it." V. 12. Elisha's intensity of purpose obtained for him the promise. The Christian may always win spiritual triumphs. 2 Cor. 2:4. The amount of spiritual blessing God is willing to give is dependent wholly upon our capacity to receive. We need to pray for larger capacity.

THE GOLDEN TEXT.

"He Was Not; for God Took Him."

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan tells of a little child who gave a most exquisite explanation of walking with God. She went home from Sunday school, and the mother said: "Tell me what you learned at school." And she said: "Don't you know, mother, we have been hearing about a man who used to go for walks with God. His name was Enoch. And, mother, one day they went for an extra long walk, and they walked on and on, until God said to Enoch: 'You are a long way from home; you had better come in and stay.' And he stayed."

GETTING AND SPENDING.

Americans as a Rule Make Considerable Money, But Do Not Hoard It.

We are glad to learn from an intelligent foreigner, Dr. Emil Reich, that we are not a dollar-grabbing people, says the Brooklyn Eagle. He has lived with us for five years, has studied our ways, and he reports to his fellow-Germans that our faults have been exaggerated. He says that while ours is a country where the most money is earned by the individual, it is also the land where the least value is attached to it. We hope that this is so. We had grown so accustomed to seeing ourselves in European cartoons as too intent on stuffing our pockets to notice where our morals were straying to that we had almost begun to believe that we needed missionaries from abroad.

The doctor is both wrong and right. A conspicuous but hardly representative element does devote itself to making money, and little more. It is not identified with anything that makes a nation better or greater. It is not active in science, scholarship, research or art; it is not useful in industry; it does not set any desirable precedents in fashion and observance; it is not religious; it is never satisfied with its material gains, but ever greedy, and never a whit ashamed of its greed, reaching after millions which it can never use as eagerly as if there were not another dollar in the world. But we have, withal, our generous millionaires, who are more generous than the rich men of any other country, and we have among the common people a respect for thrift, yet a willingness to spend that makes them different from Europeans of the same rank who take up their abode with us.

And in that tendency the doctor has reported rightly. We make more than others, but we spend both carelessly and for advantage. The American mechanic's home is brightened by pictures; well-made furniture, carpets and tableware are for his use; he has books on the shelf; he goes to the play once in awhile, and expects a few holidays in the summer, when he can visit some crowded seashore. The American professional man lives in his own house or comfortable apartments, and dresses and lives nearly up to his income, no matter what it is. He is never averse to receiving large fees, but he is averse to storing them away in vaults. And this getting and free-spending give to us a larger view of life than can obtain among peoples who are forever counting the pennies and trying to minimize expenditures. Such people will have few of the wholesome pleasures that we enjoy, and their lives will lack range and variety. The individual who works for $10 a week and saves $9 of it is your true type of money-maker, but he is not an American.

JAP HUMBLE NO LONGER.

Since His Countrymen Have Beaten the Russians Servant Becomes Proud.

"We have a Jap servant at my house," said Berswiggie, relates the New York World, "and he's a bit. When my wife hired him he was as meek and lowly as you could ask for, but since his compatriots began to swat the bear he has lost that humility, and now is so puffed up that I can't stand for him. If Japan continues to beat Russia our Jap will finally boss us around, I imagine. If we keep him till then,

"Just to show you. The other night my wife went out into the kitchen to fix a salad for dinner, as the Jap isn't much on fancy things. The little fellow is scrupulously clean, and to keep the kitchen floor from spots generally has a newspaper spread in front of the stove and the sink.

"As my wife went in the kitchen she took a newspaper off the set tubs and threw it, spread open, on the floor, to walk on.

"He smiled as she put the paper down, but suddenly he made a dive for it and nearly tipped my wife over as he grabbed the paper from the floor and began to brush it off against his coat.

"Why," said my wife, noticing with astonishment the little heathen's excitement and wondering what she had done to occasion it, 'what's the matter?'

"For reply the saffron youth exhibited the newspaper on which she had been walking, and on the first page of which was a picture of the mikado of Japan. Pointing to this picture, he said, in a voice tearful with pride:

"My king!"

"Then he put the paper carefully away and spread another on the floor."

Extreme of Politeness.

"The car was entirely empty, with the exception of one man, and his condition was exactly the reverse," said Miss Myra Kelly. "As I entered, he rose, made me an unsteady but magnificent bow, and said: 'Madam, please be kind 'nough to assepect blith plasmie.' There was nothing else to me to do, so I thanked him and sat down. And for 20 blocks that idiot hung from a strap, swaying in the breeze, with not a soul in the car but ourselves. Occasionally I have been taken for other women, but I never before had anyone think that I was a car-full."—San Francisco Argonaut.

From Paving Blocks.

An ingenious use has been found for the discarded wood blocks with which the London streets are paved. Several toy manufacturers now purchase all these blocks which are not damaged in the process of being torn up, for the purpose of making cheap toys out of them. Owing to the fact that the raw material is purchased so cheaply, the home manufacturers are in a position to undersell their foreign competitors.—Tit-Bits.

Don't Go Blind!

INVESTIGATE DR. TREA'S DISSOLVENT SYSTEM.

Cataracts, Pterygium removed without Cutting or Drugging. Cures Granulated Lids, diseases of the Optic Nerve, Retinitis, Amaurosis, and all affections of the eye. Glasses Furnished.

Consultation free.

DR. TREA, Electropath,

145 Genesee st., Auburn.

School Books.

New and second hand.

Big money saved in buying

Second Hand Books.

Crayons and school supplies of all kinds.

Special value in large ink and pencil tablets.

At Banker's DRUG AND BOOK STORE

GENOA.

When in Need of Wall Paper

Call at 18 Clark st., Auburn, N. Y., where we are selling direct from the factory to the consumer, at from 20 to 80 per cent.

cheaper than all other dealers.

Give us a call and be convinced.

S. L. DELANO,

AUBURN, N. Y.

Keep Out Flies.

Screen Doors 75c up
All sizes in Screen Wire Cloth
Oil Stoves 89c, 75c and $1.48
Big Master Soap and Ivory 4c
Agate Coffee Pots 25c
Arm & Hammer Soda lb. 5c
All kinds Soap Powders 4c
Kap Top Brooms 30c
Best Table Oilcloth yd 20c
Coffees 12 to 35c
Teas 10, 15, 25, 33, 42 and 50c
Decorated Dinner Sets $2.63
5c Mouse Traps 2c
2 1/2 lbs. Rice 10c at

C. G. HAYDEN'S

Bargain Store,

139 W. Genesee Street, Auburn.

Top and Open

BUGGYS

With Steel and Rubber Tire, Solid and Stick Seats, Canopy and Extension Top Surreys, 2 Seat Democrat Wagons, Business Wagons of all kinds, first quality and at moderate prices. Single and Double Harness, best Leather and Mountings. Will be glad to have the readers of this ad call and look our stock over whether you wish to buy or not.

Geo. F. Wills,

81 Clark-st., Auburn, N. Y.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year in advance. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co., 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 727 F. St., Washington, D. C.

Bring your legal printing to this office; we can save you money on it.

Notice to Creditors.

By virtue of an order granted by the Surrogate of Cayuga County, N. Y., Notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against the estate of Edwin B. Weeks, late of Genoa, Cayuga County, N. Y., deceased, are required to present the same with vouchers in support thereof to the undersigned, the executor, at the office of Giles M. Stoddard, at the law office of Giles M. Stoddard, in the village of Groton, N. Y., on or before the 30th day of August, 1904.

Dated February 11, 1904.

SAMUEL W. WEEKS, executor.

Giles M. Stoddard, Attorney, Groton, N. Y.

Notice to Creditors.

By virtue of an order granted by the surrogate of Cayuga County, notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against the estate of Orrin Lester, late of Venice, Cayuga County, N. Y., deceased, are required to present the same with vouchers in support thereof to the undersigned, the executor of the estate, at the place of residence in the Town of Venice, Cayuga County, on or before the 31st day of December, 1904.

Dated June 23, 1904.

LOUIS A. LESTER, Executor.

S. Edwin Day, attorney for executor, Moravia, N. Y.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS. I

By virtue of an order granted by the surrogate of Cayuga County, Notice is hereby given that all persons having claims against the estate of Daniel Stewart, late of Ledyard, Cayuga County, N. Y., deceased, are required to present the same with vouchers in support thereof to the undersigned, the administrator of the estate, at his place of residence in the Town of Ledyard (King Ferry) County of Cayuga, on or before the 30th day of November, 1904.

Dated May 18, 1904.

S. C. BRADLEY, administrator.

PARKER'S HAIR BASAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Restores falling hair. Restores Gray Hair to its youthful color. Cures itching Scalp. 50c and $1.00 at Druggists.

TRADE-MARKS

CASNOW & Co.

Opposite U. S. Patent Office WASHINGTON D. C.

Nothing has ever equalled it. Nothing can ever surpass it.

Dr. King's New Discovery

For CONSUMPTION Price 50c and $1.00

A Perfect Cure For All Throat and Lung Troubles.

Money back if it fails. Trial Bottles free.

DR. DAY,

Graduated Specialist.

Specialties: Catarrh and Diseases of the Lungs & Throat, Liver and Sexual Organs. Also Positive Cure of the Liqueur, Morphine or Opium Habit. Cured at Your Own Homes.

EXAMINATIONS FREE AT THE

Auburn, N. Y.

MONDAY Sept. 12, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"If You Get It From Us It's Right."

Buttrick & Frawley

Are clothing men from the ground up and are in position to clothe you better and for less money than any house in Tompkins County.

We have made arrangements with the largest firm in New York City, making a specialty of Black Suits, to take a certain number each week which we will sell at $10.00.

Our guarantee goes with each suit, and we stake our reputation on the fact of its being the best suit for the price in the whole state of New York. All kinds of fancy suits from $6.00 to $20.00.

118 East State-st., - Ithaca.
If Not We Make It Right.

J. G. Atwater & Son,

If you want to make the dollars in an easy sort of way, And see the profits rolling up each day, See that "LISTER'S" name is on the fertilizers you buy, And the results, will make you wonder why You have not become acquainted with these fertilizers long ago, For it'll drive away your troubles and increase your pile of "dough."

We handle nothing but "LISTERS."

KING FERRY STATION.

$50 to California and Back

From Chicago, August 15 to September 10. Final return limit October 23. Two through trains daily via the

C. M. & St. P. Ry. and the Union Pacific Line.

The Overland Limited runs via this route, and makes the trip, Chicago to San Francisco, in less than three days. The California Express is another good train via this route, and carries tourist sleeping cars in which the rate for a double berth all the way is only $7. Tickets via the Twin Cities and Portland, in one direction, $61.

W. S. Howell, Gen. East. Agent,
381 Broadway New York City.

Ayer's Pills

Keep them in the house. Take one when you feel bilious or dizzy. They act directly on the liver.

Want your moustache or beard a beautiful brown or rich black? Use

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE

We Would Rather Have Ten Persons Deposit $10.00 Each Than One Person to Deposit $100.00

$5.00 OPENS AN ACCOUNT $5.00

No one should hesitate about bringing in small amounts. Deposits can be sent by draft, check, postal or express order, or in currency, which deposit will draw interest from the first of each month. Pass book sent by return mail, should it be your first deposit, also full information for future deposits or withdrawals.

4 Per Cent. Paid on Deposits for Calendar Months
Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Company,
25 Exchange St., Rochester N. Y.
Surplus, $650,000 Resources, $16,000,000

All kinds of Mill Work furnished.

Doors, Windows, Frames, Blinds
Mouldings, Cisterns, Tanks, etc.

The celebrated Lucas Paints, Oils,
Dryer, Turpentine, Varnish.

The best Asphalt Roofing on the market; investigate it.

(The Red Shop.) Both Phones.

R. L. TEETER. MORAVIA.

THE RATTLESNAKE'S BITE.

A Matter in Which Backwoods Tradition Triumphs Over Scientific Research.

Now and then science confirms some of the old-wife medical superstitions of the backwoods, says the New York Sun. For instance, the "yarb" doctors and old women of rattlesnake regions say that when a man gets over a rattlesnake bite he has trouble in the wound every year afterward.

Pathologists and toxicologists who have studied snake poison agree that this is true, only the trouble doesn't necessarily occur every year. It happens whenever the system gets out of order.

The explanation is simple. Snake poison has the effect of destroying tissue. Of course, it has the strongest effect in and about the wound, where the poison, in its course through the veins, has not yet been diluted by the blood.

Ever afterward that is a weak point in the system. Any little disturbance in the blood tends to break out at the point of the wound.

When this happens the old wives say that it is the poison working. It is not, of course. It is only the excess poison of the body working in the weak spot.

There was a case of this kind with a rather unusual history in a Colorado hospital a few years ago. The patient was a scout who had helped the army make way for civilization in the Rockies.

The Utes, Arapahoes and other Indians of that region were mostly unacquainted with guns in those days, but they had a most effective kind of poisoned arrow. They would catch a bunch of rattlesnakes, and taking a fresh buffalo liver would make the serpents strike in it until their poison glands were exhausted and the meat fairly reeked with venom.

After that they would leave the liver in the sun until it became putrid. Into this they would dip their war arrows. It made a nasty poison.

With such an arrow the scout was struck in the leg. It carried, of course, not only snake venom, but all kinds of possibilities of blood poisoning. By good luck a first-rate army surgeon was at hand. He saved the scout's life.

This happened in the spring. Every spring after that the man's leg would break out with sores and boils and sundry other afflictions. It looked as though the case were proved for the witch doctors.

The physicians went into the life history of the patient, and found that, long before he stopped the poisoned arrow he had been afflicted with a breaking out every spring. He was one of those people who load up on animal diet all winter and need a cleaning out when the season breaks. It had merely settled in the weak spot. Next year he attended to his liver early and had no further trouble.

In the treatment of rattlesnake bites the rough and ready physicians of the backwoods scored again on the modern scientist. In spite of analysis and laborious experiments and government prizes, the treatment discovered by the pioneers when New York was a wilderness is still standard.

Cut the wound, suck it out, burn or cauterize the spot and keep the patient drunk on whisky until the danger is past.

BIG CITY'S WATER SUPPLY.

Aqueducts of New York Surpass Those of the Ancient City of Rome.

The aqueducts of old Rome were nine in number, extended 249 miles and furnished the city at a period when its population was largest with 330,000 gallons of water a day, equivalent to 160 gallons of each inhabitant.

That was the standard of water service under conditions not easy to duplicate in any large modern city and never rivaled during many centuries in any European city. New York today, remote from high mountains and obliged to go a long distance for its sources of water supply, has a system not unequal anywhere, says the Sun.

The average daily consumption of water in New York is 400,000,000 gallons, which is greater than any city of ancient or modern times has ever attained, and which is thus divided: Manhattan and The Bronx, 275,000,000 gallons; Brooklyn, 100,000,000; Queens, 20,000,000, and Richmond, 5,000,000.

There are 950 miles of water mains in Manhattan and The Bronx, and the maximum daily supply of water for Manhattan and The Bronx is 380,000,000 gallons—nearly enough to supply the whole five boroughs. The Brooklyn water mains are 700 miles in length and there are over 7,000 water hydrants in Brooklyn, the number in Manhattan and The Bronx being 18,000—20,000 in all.

The maximum daily supply of the Brooklyn water system is 300,000,000 gallons. There are 223 miles of water mains in Queens and 140 miles of water mains in Richmond, the water supply of these two boroughs being furnished in part by wells.

Over $150,000,000 has already been expended for the construction and development of New York's water supply, and the constant increase of the demand for water makes it probable that other expenditures in large amounts will be necessary each year for many years to come.

Swiftest Liner.

The Kaiser Wilhelm II. just now enjoys the reputation of being the swiftest of all ocean liners. A few days ago she made the run from New York to Plymouth at the average rate of 23.58 knots an hour. The best previous record, that of the Deutschland, was 23.61 knots.

Taken with Cramps.

William Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicine.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by J. S. Banker, druggist, Genoa.

Dr. Chiles, the well-known osteopath of Auburn, announces that he now has with him, Dr. Kathryn Severson, one of the first women graduates of the original school of osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo. Both of these doctors enjoyed exceptional advantages, being educated directly under the founder of the system. Osteopathy has within the past few years made wonderful strides in public favor. This progress is based solely on the remarkable results skilled osteopaths have been able to get in cases that have not yielded to other methods of treatment. Write Dr. Chiles, Metcalf Bldg., Auburn, about your case, or better call on him when in Auburn. Literature sent on application.

The Opportunity of a Lifetime.

No one should miss visiting the greatest World's Fair ever held, now open at St. Louis, Mo., and for solid comfort in travel the Grand Trunk route should be taken. Through sleeping cars and coaches direct to the World's Fair City via the Grand Trunk double-track route. Stop-over allowed at any point in Canada, Detroit, Port Huron and Chicago. All Grand Trunk agents will give full information.

Stamps in books at the Genoa post office; handy and easy to carry in the vest pocket or purse; 25 and 49 cents.

Whitcomb's drug store, Locke, has just received a fresh stock of Liquorice in large bottles and is now able to supply all calls.

To the Public.

Notice is hereby given that my office will be closed each Saturday until September 1.

Dr. Wm. Frost, Moravia.

50c shirtwaists 89c at Smith's.

The Popular Route to World's Fair.

Now that the World's Fair is in complete running order, the Grand Trunk Railway System have inaugurated a double daily through car service, Montreal to St. Louis, which gives the public an exceptional route to the Ivory City. In addition, patrons are offered stop-over at any point in Canada, Detroit, and Port Huron, or Chicago, Ill., without extra charge. Do not make a mistake, but see that your tickets read via the Grand Trunk—the great double track route to St. Louis.

Hay Tedders,

Deering and Wood Binders, mowers, reapers and

Champion

horse rakes, Planet jr. cultivators.

'Double and Single Harness,
Canvas Collars, etc.

Top Buggies,
Farm Wagons.

All kinds of sections put on your bars while you wait.

S. S. Goodyear,
Goodyears, N. Y.

Your Eyes

should have the best of care and for that reason you should have your glasses fitted by a person of experience. I have been engaged in fitting glasses for seventeen years and with the aid of the latest improved instruments can give you satisfaction.

Fred Leland Swart,

formerly of Crossman & Swart, now located under the City clock, corner Genesee and South Sts. Take elevator on South St.

J. WILL TREE,
BOOK BINDING
ITHACA.

Orders taken at THE GENOA TRUNK OFFICE.

POINTS ABOUT COW MILKING

Not an Easy Task for the Inexperienced as This Youngster Soon Learned.

"Most city persons," said a millionaire amateur farmer, according to the New York Press, "labor under the impression that to milk a cow is easy. There could be no greater mistake. Milking requires a peculiar movement of the wrist, which, if not learned in one's youth, seldom is learned afterward. Some cows are more easily milked than others, but even in the case of the easy ones it has to be done in a certain way or not at all. I have known some inexperienced persons to acquire the movement after a few trials, but they found it imposed such an unnatural strain on the muscles of the wrist that they seldom essayed a second attempt.

"I had a young fellow from the city out at my place one summer who had the idea that it was as easy to get milk as it was to drink it. As a usual thing we don't let an inexperienced person try to milk a cow, for there is nothing that will dry her up quicker than to be made the subject of experiments; but this young fellow was so dead certain that he knew all about it that I took him out to the shed one evening after the cows had been stanchioned and were placidly munching their grain, and told him to go ahead and see what he could do.

"When he looked at the long line of animals, and saw them switching their tails and now and then kicking at a fly, his heart seemed to fall him.

"I can't sit down in here at the beginning," he protested; "can't we take one of them outside?"

"In order to humor him I chased an easy milker out into the yard, and then handed him a stool and a pail. He stood gazing at the cow thoughtfully.

"Well?" I finally asked.

"Well?" said he.

"He looked very unhappy. 'To tell you the truth,' he at last blurted out, 'I am—er—person of some—er—that is—delicacy, and on such short acquaintance, you know, I—I don't like to take—' He came to a dead stop.

"Bah!" I said.

"That apparently stung him into action, for he sat down on the stool like a man who seats himself in an electric chair. Then he closed his eyes and started in. A few seconds later he opened his eyes, and you never saw a man so bewildered. There was nothing doing. He looked up at me in piteous appeal.

"She—she—er—doesn't seem to have any," he said.

"At that I laughed outright, and he got up as mad as a wet hen.

"Now, don't get excited," I said, soothingly. "Let me show you how to do it."

"Well, after I illustrated to him how easy it was he tried it again. He toiled valiantly for ten minutes without result, and then, chancing to look up, he saw he was providing entertainment for the entire population of the farm. At that he arose, kicked the pail against the fence and hurried into the house to bathe his wrists with witch hazel."

DECREASE IN FOREIGN BORN

Births Among Aliens Fall Off 12 Per Cent.—Pacific Coast Best for Marriageable Women.

That there has been a steady decrease in the foreign born population of the United States in the last ten years is one of the interesting things shown in an abstract of the tenth census which has just been published by the department of commerce. In the ten years covered by the report the native born births increased 22 per cent., while the foreign born births increased only 12 per cent.

The actual number of English, Irish, German, and French residents of the United States has decreased in this period, while the Poles, Russians, and Italians have increased by a large per cent.

Hard times is the principal cause given for the comparative decrease in the foreign born population.

In view of the immense throngs of immigrants that settle in New York one of the surprising facts of the statistics is that the per cent. of increase of the native born in the ten years slightly exceeds the per cent. of increase of the foreign born. The showing is contrary to nearly every other populous eastern state.

The statistics show that the average number of persons to a family in the United States is 4.7.

In 1900 the percentage of married among all persons 15 years and older was 55.5 per cent., of single 36, of widowed almost eight per cent., and of divorced four-tenths of one per cent.

Judged from the statistics, the Pacific coast states are the best for marriageable women, 60 per cent. being wives, against 59 in the central west, and 54 in the east. In the matter of contrast, the Pacific coast states show the smallest percentage of married men, 45 per cent., against a general average of 55 in the east and middle west.

She Did It After All.

"I remember you once said to me that Miss Muggs would never catch any man that had a thimbleful of brains."

"I believe I did make some such remark quite a while ago."

"Of course you did—ha-ha-ha! Now that you have met her as my wife, what have you got to say, eh?"

"Why—er—I was mistaken. She caught him all right."

"You bet she did!—ha-ha-ha!—but hold on—say, confound you, what do you mean?"—Kansas City Journal.

Romance Ended Forever.

Patience—You say they quarrelled? Patrice—Yes; and she returned all his gifts. And what do you suppose she did?

Patience—Can't guess.

Patrice—Sent her half-a-dozen boxes of face powder, with a note explaining that he thought he had taken at least that much home on his coat stuce he first knew her.—Tit-Bits.

A Real Genius.

Jigsmitth—That fellow Piker is certainly a clever, ingenious chap, isn't he?

Browning—Why, I never heard of his doing anything remarkable.

Jigsmitth—That's just it. He manages in some way to get along without doing anything.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Knew What He Called 'Em.

Yeast—I see some people call their automobiles, some motor cars, some smoke wagons; what do you call them?

Crimsonbeak—I call them—Mrs. Crimsonbeak (breaking in)—Remember, John, there are ladies present.—Yonkers Statesman.

Happy Event.

She—You say your brother is engaged to be married?

He—Yes, it is just announced.

"When is the happy event to come off?"

"Oh, it's too early to tell when the engagement will be broken."—Yonkers Statesman.

Turn About Fair Play.

First Burglar—We might as well light de gas, Bill; dere ain't a soul in de house.

Second Burglar—Don't git so benevolent, Kid; we'll do all de robbing dat's ter be did ter-night an' give de gas comp'ny a night off.—Puck.

Poor Things.

Harold Hantor—Isn't it wonderful what numbers of people there are of whom one has never heard?

Gertrude Giltedge—Yes, and yet I have no doubt that many of them are quite happy in their own way.—Brooklyn Life.

Identified.

Teacher—Now, boys, who was Columbus?

No answer.

Teacher (promptly)—The man that—

Class (readily)—"Broke the bank at Monte Carlo."—Tit-Bits.

A Foolish Question.

"Yes," said the man, "I lead a calm and peaceful life."

"Are you married?" asked the woman.

"Pardon me," rejoined the man, "but didn't you hear what I just said?"—N. Y. News.

As Explained.

Brown—Glad to see you looking so well, old man. You appear a hundred per cent. better than you were a month ago.

Weeks—Yes; my doctor has been out of town for three weeks.—Chicago Daily News.

Sweeping Denial.

She—It is said that women are neater and cleaner than men.

He—And yet you'll go right out on the street with a long train to your dress and make a sweeping denial of that statement.—Yonkers Statesman.

Settling Old Scores.

Now the ice-man rules the roost. The plumber's reign is over. But it's fun to see the ice-man at the haughty plumber's door.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

JUST AMONG FRIENDS.

Young Dramatist (proudly)—So sorry I can't give you a seat for the first performance of my new play, old man. The fact is that every seat is booked.

His Friend—Oh, well, I'll just wait until the end of the first act; there will be plenty of room then.—Tit-Bits.

Eve's Husband.

The female suffragist's a bore; She'd make us all believe That Adam wasn't any more Than merely "Mr. Eve."—Philadelphia Press.

Her Trouble.

First Boarding Mistress—I've seen it figured out that people can live on 12 cents a day.

Second Boarding Mistress—Ah! But you can't get them to do it.—Brooklyn Life.

Accounting for His Opinion.

First Artist—Foghorn claims that there isn't any such thing as luck.

Second Artist—Oh, that's because he's having the right kind.—Brooklyn Life.

Ayer's

Why is it that Ayer's Hair Vigor does so many remarkable things? Because it is a hair food. It feeds the hair, puts new life into it. The hair cannot keep from growing. And gradually all the dark, rich color of early life comes back to gray hair.

Hair Vigor

"When I first used Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was thin and gray. Now it is a nice rich black, and as thick as I could wish."
—MRS. SUSAN KLOPPENSTEIN, Thibault, Ala.

For

Gray Hair

East Genoa.

Aug. 24—Miss Lizzie Ruscoe returned to Ithaca Sunday.

Monday lightning struck the large maple tree in M. Armstrong's yard, setting the tree afire. Some of the neighbors worked nearly two hours putting the fire out. The same day lightning killed three yearling calves belonging to W. H. Shaffer and A. Karn in Lansing.

Miss Mary Bothwell has returned home. She has accepted a position as instructor of drawing and biology at Phillipsburg, N. J., school opening Sept. 6.

Miss Taber returned to Ithaca on Sunday.

Mrs. Beseker and son Raymond of Olean have been visiting her sister, Mrs. Stephen Sharpsteen.

Miss Veda Younglove is home for a few days.

A number from this place attended the circus at Ithaca Monday.

Fred Bothwell went to Auburn Sunday.

The correspondent who wrote the items under date of Aug. 11 made a mistake when they wrote that the Sunday school held its annual picnic at Cascade. They united with North Lansing and Lansingville and held their picnic in DeCamp's woods at North Lansing Friday, Aug. 19.

There were games, races, contests and dinner in abundance. Edwin Thayer and LaVerne Ramsey won the three-legged race and Mrs. M. Armstrong the ladies' nail-driving contest. In the ball game between the East Genoa and North Lansing boys, the score was 17 to 5 in favor of East Genoa. Other contests were won by North Lansing. The young ladies gave the boys an ice cream and cake treat at Lillian Armstrong's Monday evening in honor of their winning the game. A fine time was enjoyed by all.

Henry Ramsey spent Sunday with his parents.

Elmer Ramsey made a business trip to Moravia Friday.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung," writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by A. E. Clark, druggist, King Ferry. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

King Ferry.

Aug. 24—Rev. McNish of Ovid occupied the pulpit in the Episcopal church on Sunday last.

Rev. Broadhead and family have returned to their home in Pennsylvania.

John Opdyke and wife were called to Niagara Falls by the death of Mr. Opdyke's grandchild.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. George Ball of Niagara Falls was buried in the King Ferry cemetery on Tuesday.

The funeral services of Robert Brokaw were held at his home in Ledyard on Monday at 2 p. m. Burial in King Ferry cemetery.

Mrs. S. Sunderland of Zanesville, O., and Mrs. Sarah Lane of Groton were guests of their sister, Mrs. M. Bunnell, last week.

Mrs. M. Cranson of Auburn visited friends in this place the first of the week.

Walter Bradley, wife and daughters of Lima, O., are visiting his parents and other relatives in this vicinity.

G. S. Aikin and family took an overland trip last week, visiting Ithaca, Cortland, Cazenovia and Auburn.

Frank Buchanan, wife and daughter Francis of Moravia were guests of friends in town last Friday.

Miss Jennie Avery has returned from a western trip of several months. Dr. Dommett, dentist, will be at King Ferry on Friday, Sept. 2.

The most important point about paint is not so much what it is made of but what it will do. LAWRENCE preserves and beautifies—sold by Smith, North Lansing.

Midsummer Farm Bargains

"God made the Country, and man made the town. What wonder then, that health and virtue, gifts that can alone make sweet the bitter draught that life holds out to all, should most abound. And least be threatened in the Fields and Groves." Cowper.

This is the time of year, when crops are growing, to look at farms. No chance of being deceived nor of buying a pig in a poke if you look at a farm now. Prices too, are at the very lowest, as you can see by the few we quote:

$30 per acre for a farm of 160 acres within five miles of Auburn, with ten acres of heavy beech and maple timber, fair buildings, and well fruited and watered. Two miles to railroad station, milk station, churches, etc. This is an estate and must be closed out.

1,600 for twenty acre farm 7 miles from Auburn, all tillable land, one-half acre of blackberries, good location.

1,100 for 17 acre farm, with house and barn, three miles from railroad station. $300 down payment.

1,700 for 27 acre farm, well fruited, with good house and barn. R. F. D. 14 acres of meadow. Will exchange for other property.

45 per acre for 141 acre farm with 16 acres maple and beech timber, first growth. Ocean of fruit, well watered, large barns, good house, near milk station and first class farm. Aged owner cannot take care of it. $1,000 first payment, balance easy.

1,500 for 28 acre farm, with good house, some fruit, would make a good garden or poultry farm.

4,200 for 55 acre high grade farm four miles from Auburn, good buildings, good land, everything first class.

4,800 for 123 acre farm, good buildings, good location, plenty of fruit, well watered and all right. Would exchange for City or Village property.

60 per acre for a rattling good farm of 100 acres on main road, five miles from Auburn. Everything on this farm that any one could desire. $2,000 down payment.

4,000 for 96 acre farm near Woodport, N. Y. Running water in every field, soil gravelly loam. Would like to show you this farm.

2,800 for 67 acre farm in town of Scipio, Cayuga county, R. F. D. and near creamery. $1,000 down payment.

40 an acre for a 191 acre high grade farm, with 10 acres timber land. $500 down payment. Owner has other business and must sell.

1800 for 57 acre farm, 6 miles from Auburn, fairly good buildings, 10 acres heavy growth timber. Owner is clerk in store and has no time to look after it. $700 down payment, or would exchange for other property.

50 an acre for 150 acre farm with fine buildings, windmill, one mile from creamery. Must be sold, to divide the estate.

Farm of 158 acres with several barns and outbuildings, good house, near school, creamery, and large amount of personal property. Would exchange for farm property in any western state.

3,500 will secure one of the very best bargains we have in the farm line. First class buildings, 80 acres of choice land and only $2,000 down payment.

1,000 for a nice little 12 acre farm, with fair 1 1/2 good house and barn, about 5 miles from Auburn. $300 down payment. Will exchange for 100 acre farm.

1,800 for the nicest little 25 acre farm in a high state of cultivation. Good buildings, six miles from Auburn. $300 down payment.

2,500 for 74 acre farm, nine miles from Auburn. New barn with a basement 30x40 good house, one-fourth mile to school, well watered. $500 down payment, balance bond and mortgage.

FEED MILL and about 15 acres of land with dwelling and barn to exchange for other property.

Write or call on

HOYT'S

Real Estate Office, over Big

Store, Auburn, N. Y.

Making Friends Every Day.

This can truthfully be said of JELL-O ICE CREAM POWDER, the new product for making the most delicious ice cream you ever ate; everything in the package. Nothing tastes so good in hot weather. All grocers are placing it in stock. If your grocer can't supply you send 25c. for two packages by mail. Four kinds: Vanilla, Chocolate, Strawberry and Unflavored. Address, The Genesee Pure Food Co., Box 295, LeRoy, N. Y.

Best Jap Tea 45 cents per pound at H. P. Mastin's.

Edition De Luxe.

The Grand Trunk World's Fair folder, which is the finest specimen of railway literature yet produced on the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, is in great demand. A good supply has been issued and anyone sending four cents in stamps to Robert Bushby, traveling passenger agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, Cortland, can secure a copy.

"Simply Miraculous." That is what a lady said the other day about Hutchins Corn Cure. She had used it in removing several corns and was perfectly delighted with the easy and effective way in which it took off her corns. She bought a bottle for a friend. Lots more like her. It's a wonder. Hutchins Corn Cure, 15c. Sagar Drug Store, Auburn.

Best fine Tea 20 cents per pound at H. P. Mastin's.

Wanted—Young or middle aged men to act as agents for Grand Union Tea Co., largest retailers of Teas, Coffees, Spices and Baking Powder in U. S. Steady employment with good pay for reliable men. Security required. For further information call or address A. P. Hemans, Mgr. 95 Genesee street, Auburn. Only steady and industrious men need apply.

Positively Brutal.

Mrs. Wederly—What is the difference between exported and transported? Wederly—Well, my dear, suppose you were on board a ship that had just sailed for some foreign land and I remained at home.

Mrs. Wederly—Yes; and then— Wederly—Then you would be exported and I would be transported.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Both Sides of It.

"Get a divorce if you want to!" exclaimed the angry husband. "I can easily get another wife, and I've been on earth long enough to know that one woman is just as good as another, if not better." "And I," coldly replied his better half, "have been on earth long enough to know that one man is just as bad as another, if not worse."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Friendly Critic.

Dr. Thirdly—How did you enjoy my sermon this morning, deacon? Deacon Knox—Well, there was one portion of it especially gratifying. Dr. Thirdly—To what portion do you refer? Deacon Knox—To the part where you said, "And now, brethren, one word more and I have finished."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Couldn't.

Said he: "You are a peach, fly with me!" She replied, as she dashed all his hope: "You're mistaken. A 'peach did you say? Well, I'm not—I'm a cantaloupe."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

FROM FORCE OF HABIT.

He—Newspop's done for? She—How so? He—He was so used to rocking the cradle that he rocked the boat.—Chicago Journal.

A Trained Ear.

Quickly he answered the bugle call; Was he a soldier bred and born? No, gentle reader, he was not. He thought the thing was the dinner horn.—Yonkers Statesman.

Still Pulling Hair.

Yeast—You say Eastmark is growing a beard? Crimsonbeak—Yes, you see, his wife got all his hair out, and now she's making him grow a beard so she can handle him properly when she's displeased at something.—Yonkers Statesman.

Squirring Out.

"Oh, George!" she exclaimed, bitterly. "I heard you tell your friend that you didn't love me any more. Boo hoo!" "Don't cry, dear," he whispered tenderly, "I mean it as a compliment. Of course I couldn't love you any more than I do now."—Chicago Daily News.

DR. MILLER,

Eye Specialist & Optician.

Graduate of two colleges of ophthalmology, three years' experience in New York eye clinics and 11 years' practice, will be on his regular visit at Hotel DeWitt,

Genoa, Tuesday, Aug. 9
11 a. m. to 8 p. m.
at the Kendall House.

King Ferry, Wednesday,
Aug. 10th.
12 m. to 3 p. m.

Eyes scientifically examined; glasses accurately fitted. We have succeeded in difficult cases where others have failed. Chronic headache is very often a reflex action of eyes. Call at the hotel parlor; call made at residences by request.

Notice.
I wish to announce that from this date J. F. Demmon & Son of Locke will assist me in my undertaking business which will assure prompt and satisfactory service to all patrons.
—MRS. MARY THAYER.
Genoa, July 8, 1904.

Artistic Stylish Jewelry.

Our jewelry has the distinction of being style governed. We are in close touch with fashion centers—always first to exhibit the latest conceptions. Interesting to examine all the pretty, new ideas.

Tice & Benson's,
Jewelers, Auburn, N. Y.

When You Send Money

By mail why don't you come to this bank and buy a draft? 10c for any amount up to one hundred dollars. Cheaper than any express or postoffice money order.

CITIZENS BANK, LOCKE.

Painless DENTISTRY.

Teeth without plates a specialty. Old roots and discolored teeth restored to beauty and usefulness, by my new system of Crown and Bridge work. Teeth extracted without pain. Also the making of artificial teeth Specialties.

At Aurora every Monday afternoon.

King Ferry, Friday, Sept. 2-16th

H. M. Dommett, Dentist,
Union Springs, N. Y.

KILL THE COUGH AND CURE THE LUNGS

WITH Dr. King's New Discovery

FOR CONSUMPTION, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGHS and COLDS

Price 50c & $1.00
Free Trial.

Surest and Quickest Cure for all THROAT and LUNG TROUBLES, or MONEY BACK.

G. W. RICHARDSON & SON.

FURNITURE. CARPETS.

Great Reduction Sale of Lamps

Now Going On.

Some great bargains in metal bodied lamps as follows:

- One in deep red, luster trimmings; was $6 Sale Price $3.50
- One in dark olive green, soft finish, metal trimmed; was 8, Sale Price 3.75
- One in rich hue of red, handsomely decorated, old brass trimmed; was 8, Sale Price 3.75
- One of soft shades of brown, brass trimmed; was 6, Sale Price 3.75
- One in deep maroon, gun metal trimmed, very handsome; was 8.50, Sale Price 5.00
- One beautifully decorated, gold plated Roman finish trim; was 9, Sale Price 5.00
- One in famous Rookwood shadings, gold plated lacquer trimmings; was 10.75, Sale Price $5

Also some wonderful values in china lamps:

- One in deep rich red, beautifully decorated in cerysanthemum design, wrought iron trimmings; was 7.50 Sale Price 4.00
- One in soft red, handsome design, Indian Rose decoration, soft brass finish, was 12.50 Sale Price 7.00
- One in maroon tones, beautiful design in wild rose pattern, gun metal trimmings; was 14 Sale Price 9.00
- One magnificently decorated, 14 inch dome, soft finished brass trimmings; was 16, Sale Price 10.00
- An excellent line of nickled student lamps Sale Price 2.50

Everything in carpets, furniture, matting, shades, draperies, wall papers, rugs, and house furnishings at

G. W. RICHARDSON & SON,
AUBURN, N. Y.
WALL PAPER. DRAPERIES.

Genoa The Milling Company

will tell you something interesting next week. Watch out.

Rochester Business Institute

BUSINESS AND SHORTHAND COURSES.
Young people fitted and placed in Business Positions. More positions to fill than candidates to recommend. New 1904-'05 Catalogue ready.
—ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Carpets, Rugs, Mattings, Curtains, Shades, Linoleums, Oil Cloths, &c., Department of

ROTHSCHILD BROS. DEPARTMENT STORES

Is complete in every detail for full business. Our prices for the coming season are now based on the very lowest market prices.

Ingrain Carpets at 25c, 33c, 39c, 48c, 59c and 69c per yard. Tapestry Brussels at 50, 59, 65, 85 and 1.00 per yard. Velvet Carpets, 75, 85, 1.00 per yard. Axminster Carpets at 85, 98, 1.10, 1.25 per yard. Wilton Velvets, Body Brussels, and other grades, at very lowest prices. Rugs. Our stock of Rugs is the largest you can find even in the very largest cities and nothing but the very best quality is handled by us. We have them in all sizes, grades and designs from the small 19c Mats to the finest Orientals of hundreds of dollars. We are proud to show them.

Lace Curtains and Portieres in all the new, nobby, stylish effects from the cheap Bush Curtains of 25c per pair to the finest Brussels Net of 85.00 per pair. The truth is we are ready to serve you and serve you well at Rothschild Bros., - Ithaca.