COUNTY COURT IS ON.

Trial of Huson, Genoa Blacksmith, the First Moved.

AUBURN, Nov. 27.

The adjourned term of County court convened at the Court house this morning with County Judge A. H. Searing presiding. He ascended the bench at 11:10 o'clock and the roll of jurors on the extra panel was called. All but one were present. When Court Crier Squire O. Stockwell called the jurors who wished to be excused from serving at the term to the judge's bench there was a grand rush forward. Fifteen presented excuses and of these 10 were excused by Judge Searing for various reasons.

It is expected that the term will last at least three weeks. Criminal matters only will be tried.

District Attorney Dayton wishes to close up all cases in his hands at this term, which include the Huson manslaughter case, the trial of Michael Coughlin and Timothy Hayes for burglary, second degree, the excise case of John O'Toole and Frank Dabinett of Auburn and Seymour Barns of Union Springs, also the case of Carrie K. Smith, for writing threatening anonymous letters to Sarah J. Bell of Fleming, and Herman Bartels Sr., for attempted arson, if a decision is received on arguments made before the Appellate division regarding a change of venue.

The trial of William Huson, the Genoa blacksmith, on an indictment charging manslaughter, first degree, was the first one moved by District Attorney Dayton. Huson was taken into custody for striking Charles Durnburg, a blacksmith whom Huson had employed and with whom he resided, over the head with a flatiron, fracturing the skull and death resulting. The story of the alleged crime is that Huson and Durnburg became involved in a quarrel January 9, 1905. It is alleged that Durnburg started the row, that they came to blows, and that Huson struck Durnburg over the head with a flatiron, fracturing his skull. Durnburg died about a week later from the effects of the alleged blow. Huson claimed that Durnburg was intoxicated and fell against an iron sink which caused the injuries which resulted in his death. Huson was indicted at the May term and the case was moved for trial at the June term of County court. At that time Huson was ill and the case was put over to the September term of County court. At that time one of his attorneys, Frank M. Leary, was confined to his home with carbuncles and the case was again put over the term.

Huson was in court today with his attorneys Amasa J. Parker and Frank M. Leary. He had not previously been arraigned in court and when District Attorney Dayton called upon him to stand up he entered a plea of not guilty in a firm, loud voice and waived the reading of the indictment. The work of selecting a jury was then taken up.

The following jury was secured: James Murdock, Aurelius; Charles Bigler, Brutus; Elihu Sherman, Venice; J. H. Locks, Conquest; Charles Locke, Conquest; Charles Dalton, John Oliver and Calvin Ruth, Aurelius; E. R. Worden, Fred Miller, John W. Hubbard and R. H. Galbraith, Auburn.

Assistant District Attorney Burritt opened the case. He said that Charles Durnburg was hit on the head with a flatiron. He declared that the contention of the defense that Huson was blameless; that Durnburg was drunk and received his fatal injuries by falling against a sink in the kitchen was not reasonable.

Coroner O'Neill described the wounds and told of the post-mortem examination made by Dr. Foran and Dr. Skinner. He said that death was due to fractures of the skull.

These seven went to the premises on the day following the alleged assault and saw the pool of blood on the floor and other evidences of the wound sustained by Durnburg. Expert Chemist A. H. Hamilton testified that he examined a flatiron, which is alleged to be the instrument used by Huson, and found traces of human blood on it. The attorneys for the defense made strenuous efforts to shake his testimony.

Coroner O'Neill, Dr. Foran and Dr. Skinner testified regarding the post-mortem examination and stated that Durnburg died from inflammation of the brain tissues caused by concussion and forcing in of the skull. No traces of alcoholism were found in any vital part of the body at the examination.

Durnburg's testimony at the time of Huson's arraignment before Justice W. D. Norman was to the effect that on the night of the tragedy Durnburg went to Huson's house about 8 o'clock and retired. He was then working for Huson and boarding there. Some time later Huson came home and came into Durnburg's bedroom and accused him of illicit relations with defendant's wife. Durnburg denied the charges and defendant left the room but returned immediately and struck Durnburg on the head with a flatiron. Durnburg became unconscious and did not revive until next morning, when he found himself lying in the doorway leading to the kitchen and his shirt and undershirt soaked in blood. This testimony was objected to by defendant's counsel for the reason that it was not complete in direct questions and answers. However, it came out that both prosecution and defense at the time of the examination waived the usual form and were satisfied with the story as told by Durnburg.

Several other witnesses were sworn by the prosecution, all testifying to minor points. The People closed their direct examination Wednesday afternoon and the defense was begun about 3 o'clock. Several witnesses were sworn, testifying to the apparent friendly relations between the two men on the day following the alleged assault, and also to the statement of Durnburg that he fell against the kitchen sink and was hurt.

It is expected the case will go to the jury Friday afternoon.

Pie That Blows Up.

Commenting on the explosion of a huckleberry pie in a Paterson (N. J.) boarding house a few days ago, the Washington Star has this to say: "Many warnings have been promulgated against pastry. Some persons regard it with such timidity, may terror, that they would have it baked in a bomb-proof, served under cover of a red flag and have lanterns hung on it after sunset. Some persons consider pastry such a menace to society that they would no sooner think of engorging themselves with it than to dispute the right of way with a haughty chauffeur. They have weak knees and weak stomachs. Perhaps as many uncomplimentary and insubstantial things have been said about pastry as have been said about hash, and the number of things in hash, and the number of things in hash. It is hoped that the things in hash are more becoming, polite and decorous than the things said about it. But of this one cannot be certain. There is always more or less uncertainty in the matter of hash. But pastry, despite the carping of dietetic sensationalists, digestion calamitists and stomachic pessimists, continues to be an American institution, and in the eyes of some patriots whose patriotism is as sensitive as a soft corn, 'tis treason to say 'bah!' or 'fudge!' or to use other disrespectful or discordant speech against an American institution. Of course, those traitors who reproach the American institution of pastry have certain facts to encourage them. It used to be thought highly un-American to protest against spitting on the sidewalk, and Fourth of July crackers, crushers, busters and other toys of dismemberment were things sacrosanct. But of late men have been bold enough to assail these national institutions without being hanged and quartered without benefit of clergy and attainder of blood. So it may be that men may protest against certain kinds of pastry without being convicted of felony or contempt of pie. The opponents of pastry only admit three kinds of pastry; first, the kind that mother used to make; second, the kind that cannot be eaten, and, third, the kind that should not be eaten."

Our Ruling Passion.

It is often said of Americans that they have a passion, if not a genius, for organization. They are certainly fairly subject to this observation. Let three citizens of the United States fall into close association for any length of time and they will by at least tacit agreement follow a leader and perhaps they will in a spirit of semi-seriousness dub themselves a club, or a society, or a lodge. The average American is not quite happy unless he is helping to elect somebody or other to an office. He wants to exercise his right of suffrage in every possible direction. He joins fraternal organizations and electioneers for officers. He organizes social clubs and maneuvers for political advantage. He marches with the yard clubs and becomes a politician. If there is the least shadow of mutuality of interest or labor or opportunity a society comes into being as naturally as the plant develops from the seed.

There is a very general cry that children are becoming every day less child-like, that they are being pressed far beyond their strength. Of course, the fanatics tell us that it is not so, that all this outcry is the outcome of misplaced sentiment and of ignorance of the true inwardness of educational methods. But this we know, says the Philadelphia Ledger, that forced minds are very like forced plants—curiosities, perhaps, but not such as the experienced cultivator keeps as "stock." Nature is very jealous for her nurslings. You may fool considerably with adult specimens, even to the degree of making them hideous; you may experiment almost indefinitely with this, that and the other kind of feeding, pruning, grafting, but let a cold wave or a hot wave but once blow upon your tender nurslings and they are gone without hope of resurrection.

The scampering cashier hereafter can flee Canadaward in a bank of his own. This motor bank, for which patents have been issued, is an electric car to be built of chilled steel, with double walls, with one-inch space between. In one corner is located a burglar proof safe, while desk and working room for several clerks are also provided. The car has a touring radius of 50 miles and will cost over $5,000. It is to be used by the bank in collecting from depositors, especially from shopkeepers at night, and is to be sent to various parts of the city to receive deposits of commercial and savings accounts. This can be done with perfect safety, since the automobile bank is to be absolutely burglar proof.

A combination of the automobile horn and the gramophone is announced. When the chauffeur desires to clear the way he presses the device and a hoarse voice shrieks: "Get out-get out-toot-toot." And nobody ever stops to call back.

The Disappearing Appendix.

How many veriform appendices are there in the world to-day? A few savage and semi-civilized nations retain them but the supply in lands where the surgeons flourish must be small, says Everybody's Magazine, for Slasher has been at work all over. Like a sportsman who cries "Save the buffalo!" Joseph Kidd, M. D., of England, rises and cries "Preserve the appendix!" and tells how it may be done. Chills following overheating, and imperfect mastication make trouble for the appendix. The grape seed of horrid memory deserves not half the odium it has received—and too much aperient water and salts are bad for this mysterious organ, just as they are for all the rest of man's internal economy. Don't let the chill get you, chew the food thoroughly—Gladstone masticated every mouthful 40 or 400 times—and make nature do the work below the diaphragm without chemicals and drugs except when a doctor says they are necessary. We are the great drug-swallowing nation. We flood our insides with nostrums, fill the intestines with mercury, and bolus ourselves not merely when it is unnecessary, but when it is positively harmful. Dr. Legs and Dr. Arms properly employed will cure most of our minor ills. Their fees are nominal, and they pay big dividends. Ten years ago a war of extermination was waged against the human appendix. To-day it is regarded less as a foe, but many surgeons delight to cut. Many charges brought against it were unfounded. Let those who may preserve theirs, and let all remember that surgeons do not work for nothing.

The Modern Woman.

One of the blessings which modernity has brought to women is that it has taught them to lean upon themselves instead of upon a man. The clinging ivy business is entirely out of date, and, really, when all things are taken into consideration, it is better for everyone concerned, observes a wise contemporary. The man finds he has got a companion, where he used to have a delicate creature who shivered at every draught of air and collapsed in a strong breeze. And the woman has discovered that she can do without a man's help and aid altogether if she wishes to. She doesn't want to cling, and she doesn't have to. She is independent, earns her own good money, and can vie with man nearly every time in his own business if she tries. She has fine positions at her command and can pick and choose. The verdict has gone forth that she is reliable; and then she neither gambles, drinks nor smokes. No one thinks of reproaching her if she doesn't care to marry. The term "old maid" has lost its significance. She travels—she studies—she invents. Every avenue in the business world is open to her. Cultivating and developing her will power and ambition, she is bringing out all her strength, both mental and physical, and overcoming her weaknesses, remnants of the past. Instead of looking up to men in the old-fashioned way, she looks down upon them, sees all their weaknesses, small vanities and large vices. The modern "old maid" tolerates them in business, but in her home life she will have none of them.

Food Economy.

Economy in food does not imply prohibition. It is neither vegetarianism, fruitarianism, nutarianism, or any kind of "ism." It means, writes the author of "Economy in Food," in Century, simply temperance in diet, with the application of available scientific knowledge; the use of reason and intelligence, combined with a due appreciation of the dignity of the body and the necessity of meeting the daily wants without imperiling that high degree of efficiency which helps to render man physically and mentally supreme. Practically this implies the avoidance of large quantities of proteid food so commonly used by civilized man, with the substitution of a dietary characterized by a predominance of the lighter vegetable foods. In this respect it leans somewhat toward vegetarianism. The heavier meats of our daily diet can be advantageously replaced in part by lighter articles of diet less rich in proteid and with more frequent addition of green vegetables, fruits and corresponding articles of food less prone to yield objectionable decomposition products.

The first arrest in the history of South Dakota of a woman on a gambling charge has been made by the authorities of Aurora county. The defendant conducts a restaurant in White Lake. Her alleged violation of the law consisted of raffling off a phonograph. The complaining witness is an Italian, who alleges he invested in tickets for the raffle.

The stories that Kansas newspapers are now printing of the big corn crop recalls Lincoln's story of the big hay crop in southern Illinois. "What," inquired a visitor, "do you do with such big crops of hay?" "We stack all we can on the ground," replied the veteran story teller, "and the rest we put in the barn."

Texas Mob Lynches 3 Negroes.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 14.—A mob two hundred strong broke into the jail at Henderson, Tex., by battering down the doors and overpowering the jail officers and took from the cells five negroes suspected of murdering Elias Howell, white, last Thursday. Three of the negroes were lynched and left hanging to a sycamore tree on the public square.

"What do you think of government ownership?" "It is a great idea," answered Senator Sherman. "I don't see how all that property could be sold to the government. I don't see how all that property could be sold to the government."

Prosperity of the Farmers.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The Secretary of Agriculture in his annual report says that it is in the highest degree gratifying to present evidence of the unprecedented prosperity which has in recent years rewarded the diligence of the farmers. Corn has reached its highest production, over 2,700,000,000 bushels, of a total estimated value of $1,218,000,000. Hay comes second, with a value of $605,000,000. Cotton is expected to yield $575,000,000. The short wheat crop of last year is followed by one of 684,000,000 bushels, and its value, $525,000,000, overtops the highest value ever before reached.

May Be Dismissed on the Spot.

Washington, Nov. 29.—In the future if a civil service employee of the government misconducts himself in the view of the President or of any head of an executive department he is liable to dismissal on the spot, with no further explanations, according to an executive order issued to-day. The Civil Service Commission shall have no jurisdiction to investigate any removal unless it is alleged that the procedure required by section 2 of rule XII, had not been followed, or that the removal was made for political or religious reasons.

Auto Kills Mrs. F. B. Harrison.

New York, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Mary Crocker Harrison, wife of Francis Burton Harrison, ex-Congressman and recently candidate for Lieutenant-Governor on the Democratic ticket with D. Cady Herlick, was killed in an automobile accident on the Thomson Avenue hill, about a mile southeast of the court house in Long Island city. The machine was going at about 35 miles an hour when a front tire burst. The automobile swerved to the side of the road, ran more than 200 feet, hit a telegraph pole and overturned. Mrs. Harrison was pinned under the machine. Her neck was broken. She sustained other injuries which of themselves would have been sufficient to cause death.

Mexican Anti-Trust Bill.

Mexico City, Nov. 29.—A bill has been introduced in the National Congress by direction of President Diaz, to prohibit the operation of trusts in Mexico. It is said that the proposed law is directed particularly at the U. S. Steel Corporation, the Standard Oil Co., and other lesser American companies, which have a grip upon the business of this country. The provisions of the bill are very drastic.

Mrs. Chadwick Offers to Tell All.

Equitable Corruption.

Equitable—Characterized by equity or fairness and just dealing; impartial; as, an equitable division of property.—Standard Dictionary.

Valuable information upon what life insurance should cost was given Wednesday by Vice-President Tarbell of the Equitable in response to Mr. Hughes' questions.

He admitted that deferred-dividend policies are more costly to policy-holders than straight life insurance and that the agents receive an additional commission to sell them. For the same amount of money invested in a non-participating policy a policy-holder buys more life insurance by a third than in a deferred-dividend policy, and about three times as much as in an endowment policy.

It would appear from this that policy-holders who have straight life-insurance policies should continue their premium payments. They cannot be bettered except by a reduction in rates, and the price of this class of policy is little greater than cost, so that reduction cannot be material.

The holders of deferred-dividend policies on which only a few years' premiums have been paid might well apply for straight non-participating policies, and if they pass the medical examination and have their applications accepted they might save money by taking the surrender value of their present policies and new policies at the lower rate. The same advice would apply to all the forms of investment policy.

If a man wants to insure his life—and most men who have families dependent upon them should do so—he should buy straight life insurance without any frills and keep his investments separate from his life insurance.

No policy-holder, however, should abandon his present policy without a thorough arithmetical study of it and without making sure of his acceptability as a life-insurance risk should he desire to continue insurance upon a cheaper plan.

Incidentally Mr. Tarbell's testimony threw illumination on the fact that life-insurance officials do not pay the same premium rates as ordinary policy-holders, and that the section of the Insurance law which prohibits discrimination between policy-holders is habitually violated by life-insurance officials and agents in the interest of themselves and their families.—World.

Thanksgiving.

FROM THE OUTLOOK.

The gratitude of men, like all their emotions, is limited by their insight and intelligence. They are often deeply thankful for happenings which are apparently prosperous, but which in the end prove to be overwhelmingly disastrous; and they are often rebellious against happenings which seem unfortunate at the moment, but which in the end prove to be the highest prosperities. To be grateful for obvious gifts is natural; but gratitude ought to go much deeper. There can be no adequate thanksgiving unless gratitude is based more on faith than on sight, and is born of a profound sense of the blessedness of life and the beneficence of the whole order of creation. The plan of Providence is so vast that only rarely does any clear disclosure of it flash into view, only here and there at long intervals in the happiest life does its beneficence distinctly reveal itself. For prosperous events and happy hours do not of themselves constitute a basis for that all embracing gratitude which is the response of the son to the father, of the human to the divine. No sensitive man or woman can be happy, and therefore grateful in the obvious sense of the word, for a prosperity which is simply individual. No man of heart could dream a dream of happiness in a sheltered garden when the homes of his neighbors were swept by desolating storms. True gratitude is as unselfish as true love, and in the degree in which it is unselfish will it be adequate and comprehensive. This Nation has ample reason to be grateful for the fertility of its fields and the wide distribution of material comforts; for better homes, better food, and better clothes than are given to the men and women of most races; but these are not the things for which it ought to be most profoundly thankful. It ought to rejoice this year in the uncovering of greed, selfishness, and low aims among men high in position; it ought to rejoice that, instead of going on piling up money and spending greater and greater sums on its body, it has been brought face to face with the condition of its soul. It is the awakening conscience of the American people, shown in their indignation at the ignoble uses of great opportunities by influential men of finance, against the sordidness of political bosses and machines, the bartering of the rights of men, the usurpation of the authority of the people, that ought to stir the whole country to profound thanksgiving; for we are now in the way of spiritual prosperity, of cleanness, rectitude, self-respect, and the redemption of some of the promises which our fathers made to the world when this country became the custodian of the ideals of popular government.

Russia in Revolution.
FROM THE OUTLOOK.

The Russian Revolution continues throughout the Empire. At Vladivostok a state of war has been declared; the foreigners have taken refuge in the vessels at the harbor. In Manchuria disaffection exists in the army. In Siberia atrocities have taken place. In the Caucasus battles between the Tartars and Armenians continue, and the lack of troops makes it impossible for the authorities to restore order. Following the lead of Finland and Poland, the ancient kingdom of Georgia has now plucked up courage and has demanded autonomy. In southwestern Russia hardly a city or town has escaped massacres of Jews, a reactionary movement believed to have been encouraged by the local administrative officials. With characteristic promptness, the Jews of other countries have subscribed generous sums for relief, but it should not be left to the adherents to any single creed to furnish what alleviation money can bring. In Moscow reactionaries and troops attacked a procession of school children who bore red flags, beating the children into insensibility and in some cases actually tearing them to pieces. In Poland and the Baltic provinces riots, incendiarism, and murder continue. Meanwhile the only political party from which salvation to Russia can come, the Moderates, has announced that it will not support the present Witte government unless it is prepared immediately to convoke a constituent assembly which shall frame a constitution. The government is thus left with no choice between the anarchy which the revolutionists are trying to create and the autocratic repression which the reactionaries would re-create. The efforts of the revolutionaries were specially directed towards Poland last week, where the government had acted as the Russian government often does; it had not made "the punishment fit the crime." Polish unrest was made to bear the burden of martial law throughout the ten provinces constituting Russian Poland, the government's explanation being that such military control was necessary to avoid anarchy on a large scale. This explanation of course did not appeal to the revolutionary proletariat of St. Petersburg. It decided to renew the general political strike, "in order to show brotherly solidarity with the revolutionary proletariat of weak and oppressed Poland," about which "the iron ring of martial law had been encircled." Already a hundred thousand men walked out in obedience to the strike order, while at Moscow nearly fifty thousand men struck. At a great meeting in the capital it was declared that—

We do not believe in the partial constitutionalism of Count Witte . . . we see only thousands of corpses and thousands of wounded and beaten persons and the seas of blood that have flowed. We will continue to struggle for the amelioration of our position, the immediate apportionment of the land to the tillers of the soil, the liberation of every political prisoner. . . . We appeal to our brothers the peasants to aid in the struggle. Our watchword is: "Bread to the workmen! Land to the peasants! Liberty to the people! Down with absolutism!"

On this Count Witte issued a personal appeal to his "brother workmen," to which they returned a scornful reply. Their appeal to the peasants, however, was hardly necessary. Agrarian disturbances have for some time been increasingly in evidence in the famine-stricken province of Saratov and the contiguous eastern districts, and are now so alarming that the military authorities have been compelled to rush troops and machine guns to the affected areas. These now extend from Saratov on the east to Poland on the west. But if the government has repression in one hand, it has concessions in the other. In order to pacify the peasants the Czar last week issued a manifesto providing that the payments by the peasants for the redemption of the crown lands which they occupy shall be reduced one-half, beginning with January, 1906, and that after January, 1907, they shall be abolished altogether. Forty-odd years ago, when the serfs were emancipated, it was arranged that they should pay installments of money on lands allotted to them, these installments to stretch over a long period. At that time the arrangement seemed fair. It was soon seen, however, that in many cases the allotments were too small and the payments exacted too large. These grievances were afterwards aggravated by the growth of the rural population. At the present time many peasants are unable to live from the product of their allotments, still less to pay the installments due. It is to Count Witte's credit that he has proposed no. only to ease the situation by remitting many millions in arrears, but also to aid the peasants directly by advances of money to local banks to those village communes which are in direct need. The question arises, however, have not these proofs of consideration come too late? Will they stem the peasant rising, the nucleus of every real revolution?

Mead-Young.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Young of Locke was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday, when their daughter, Lillian May, was united in marriage to Mr. Ernest B. Mead of Genoa. Promptly at two o'clock, to the glad strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Luella Smith, the bridal pair entered the parlor, preceded by a little niece of the bride as flower girl, where the Rev. Mr. Booth of Locke performed the simple but impressive ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Young, and Mr. Thomas Young of Moravia officiated as groomsman. The bride was becomingly gowned in white chiffon tulle with lace trimmings, and carried bride roses. Miss Young's gown was pink and she carried chrysanthemums. The decorations were in pink and white and green. After congratulations by the relatives and friends present, and a luncheon had been served, Mr. and Mrs. Mead left for unknown parts, amid rice, confetti and other omens of good luck. An unusually fine list of presents, including cut glass, linen, silverware, $100 in cash, were given by the admiring friends of the young people. The bride presented the waiters and waitresses with opal pins and Miss Smith with a garnet pin, as mementoes of the happy occasion. Guests were present from Syracuse, Auburn, Moravia, Groton, Cortland, Dryden and Genoa, to the number of eighty, and were received by Misses Chandler and Smith of Moravia.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Mead and is one of Genoa's most respected young men, and the bride is a beautiful and accomplished young lady. Both have host of friends, young and old, who extend hearty good wishes for their future. After January first, they will be at home to their friends at the residence of his parents.

Double Wedding.

A double wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Arnold at East Venice on Wednesday afternoon, when Misses Myrtle and Emogene Jennings, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Cranson Jennings were married to Messrs. Bradford Parker of Venice and Claude Y. Whitten of Genoa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Lyon of Moravia in the presence of the near relatives of the contracting parties. There was a large list of valuable presents to the brides. After the refreshments were served the newly wedded people left for a trip, starting out with all sorts of good wishes from their friends present and the usual accompaniment of rice, shoes, etc.

Man's Unreasonableness
Is often as great as a woman's. But Thos. S. Austin, Mgr. of the Republican of Leavenworth, Ind., was not unreasonable when he refused to allow the doctors to operate on his wife for female trouble. "Instead," he says, "we concluded to try Electric Bitters. My wife was then so sick, she could hardly leave her bed, and 5 physicians had failed to relieve her. After taking Electric Bitters she was perfectly cured, and can now perform all her household duties." Guaranteed by J. S. Banker, Genoa, and A. E. Clark, King Ferry, druggist; price 50c.

He Remained.
"Ah," he said, rushing to where she sat, "I'm awfully glad to see you." "Isn't it splendid," she replied, moving over about a hair's breadth; "won't you sit down?" "I'm afraid there isn't room enough for two."

"Oh well, if you're afraid and—that sort of thing—perhaps—"
But later they walked home together in the gloaming.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Learned a Lesson.
He—You don't seem to care a straw whether I am comfortable or not. You are not as good a wife as your sister was to her husband. As long as he lived she was perfectly devoted to him, and never tired of seeking his happiness.
She—Yes; and what was the result? He got to love her so well that he made a provision in his will that she should not marry again.—Cassell's.

Idleness Justified.
Diggsby—I don't see how you can afford to loaf so much of the time.
Higgins—I can afford it because I only get 75 cents a day when I work.
Diggsby—But that is just the reason why you should get in more days.
Higgins—Oh, I don't know. When I don't work I don't lose much. See! —Chicago Daily News.

Bright Boy.
"How is your son getting on in his new position?"
"Splendidly," answered the fond mother. "He has only been there two weeks, but he knows exactly who ought to be discharged and is merely waiting to get promoted, so that he can attend to it."—Washington Star.

Drawing the Line.
"I like to believe that all men are honest," said the moralizer.
"Same here," rejoined the demoralizer; "still, I always draw the line at taking the same patent medicine for liver complaint that I use for toothache, no matter how the label reads."—Chicago Daily News.

Change.
"The dime novels that we read in our youth have gone out of existence," said the man with iron-gray hair.
"Yes," answered the man with the bald spot; "if you want that kind of reading now you've got to go to a regular book store and pay a dollar and a half for it."—Washington Star.

Egotism.
She—I wouldn't marry the best man in the world.
He—Pardon me, but your remark was entirely uncalled for.
She—Why, pray?
He—Because I never asked you to marry me.—Chicago Daily News.

Cause for Thanks.
Mrs. Bacon—Who was that man you were bowing and scraping so to at the gate, just now?
Mr. Bacon—Oh, that's the installment man. He's just been taking the piano away from next door, and I was thanking him.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Benefit of Contrast.
"Do you think that industry is essential to happiness?"
"A little is," answered the easy-going person. "If a man had never done any work he would never realize how much comfort there is in having none to do."—Washington Star.

Example.
Lines of auto fends remind us
We can make our lives sublime
By the smells we leave behind us—
Fogs upon the shores of time.
—Life.

ESCAPED IN TIME.
"So you've been and got married since I've been away, Sally? That's a nice way to treat your old sweet-heart!"
"Yes, Jim says as 'ow he owes yer a grudge for going."

Looked That Way.
She—Can't you trust me, dear?
He—I would trust you with my life, darling!
"Oh, then, you're not insured?"—Yonkers Statesman.

What?
"Why don't people go to the theater in summer time?"
"Because there is lots more to be seen at the sea shore."—Houston Post.

CASHIER BANTA TESTIFIES

Payment of $59,000 Out of Steel Co.'s Profits
M'CURDY LIKELY TO GO

Banta Tells of Plan by Which Central National Bank, Aided by Insurance Co.'s Officials, Evaded Payment of Taxes—Bonds Returned in a Few Days.

New York, Nov. 29.—The New York Life Insurance Co. was again on the rack before the Armstrong investigating committee. John A. Perkins, its vice-president, and Theodore M. Banta, its cashier, were on the stand. It was shown:

First—That at the beginning of 1901 or the end of 1900, $700,000 of New York City bonds were taken out of the vaults of the New York Life and a check of the Central National Bank substituted. These bonds are not taxable and their possession by the bank at that time of the year enabled it to escape payment of a large sum in taxes. After a few days the bonds were returned to the vaults and the check removed.

Second—George W. Perkins in an effort to explain the payment to him of $40,000, representing the profits on a loan of $930,000 made by the New York Life, declared that he turned the money over to Nyllic, an organization of New York Life agents. He deposited this money to the credit of his personal account, as he did with all of the Nyllic funds. All efforts to trace the final disposition of this money failed.

Third—That the $59,310.79 paid to Andrew Hamilton by J. P. Morgan Co., out of United States Steel syndicate profits belonging to the New York Life by order of Mr. Perkins was the result of directions a few days the bonds were returned given him by President John A. McCall.

Fourth—That since 1896 Hamilton and Edward E. McCall, now Supreme Court Justice and brother of President McCall, had notes aggregating $88,000 discounted by the Central National Bank and the New York Security and Trust Company between the years 1896 and 1901. All the money obtained by E. E. McCall, it was declared by President McCall, was turned over to Andrew Hamilton.

Fifth—Neither Mr. Perkins nor Mr. McCall could explain how Morgan & Co., by the payment of $59,000 were able to take up all of these notes. Of the $88,000 of notes, $12,000 had previously been paid, leaving a total of $76,000, which the payment by Morgan & Co. evidently offset. Neither could explain this discrepancy nor how the exact sum paid by Morgan & Co. had been arrived at.

Sixth—It was clearly established that the payment of $59,000 by Morgan & Co to Hamilton was kept off the books of the New York Trust Company. It was established that the payment to Perkins of the $40,000 which he declared he subsequently turned over to Nyllic was also kept off the books of the New York Life.

Gage E. Tarbell practically admitted before the Armstrong insurance committee that he had received rebates on policies taken out on his life since he became vice-president of the Equitable. The Equitable's agency department under the management of Mr. Tarbell, professes to regard rebating by an agent as an act warranting his dismissal. Mr. Tarbell testified that he carried about $500,000 on his own life and the lives of members of his family.

William S. Manning, to whom John A. Nichols referred in his letters to Senator Depew as "our rattle-tanquerous friend from up the river," was a witness before the Insurance Investigating Committee.

His story, after all, proved to be so sordid and petty. Mr. Manning, years ago, had published a book containing an attack upon the management of the large New York insurance companies. When he had sold a few hundred copies of the limited edition printed at his own expense, the insurance companies known as the "Big Three" retained Nichols to silence Manning and his book. Nichols succeeded in doing so and Manning parted with the forty or fifty volumes which he had left on his hands at $10 apiece.

Nichols then professedly retained him in the interest of the policy holders of the big companies for an indefinite period for a few hundred dollars a year. For this service Nichols received an annual retainer of $1,000 from each of the three insurance companies. Manning says he never received more than $450 a year and the remainder of the $3,000 paid by the three companies annually was presumably retained by Nichols.

President McCurdy has not tendered his resignation to the Mutual's board of directors. He has, it is understood, notified certain of his friends on the finance committee that he stands ready to get out if they think it to be the best interests of the company.

You and each of you are hereby cited to appear before our Surrogate, in Surrogate's Court in and for the County of Cayuga, at the Court House, in the City of Auburn, in said County, on the 15th day of December, 1905, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the judicial settlement of the accounts of Lewis H. Smith, as administrator, will the will annexed of Elijah Smith, deceased.

In Testimony Whereof, we have caused the seal of our Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed.
Witness, Hon. Walter E. Woodin, [L.S.] Surrogate of the County of Cayuga, at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Auburn, the 30th day of October, 1905.

WALTER E. WOODIN, Clerk of the Surrogate's Court.
A. H. SHARING, Attorney for Petitioner, Office and P. O. Address, Auburn, N. Y.

Mortgage Sale.

WHEREAS, Default has been made in the payment of the money secured by a certain mortgage bearing date the first day of April, 1896, made and executed by Jerome S. Ashton, Matthew Ashton and Harriet Ashton all of the town of Locke, Cayuga County, N. Y., to Joseph Harris of the same place which mortgage was duly recorded in the Clerk's office of the County of Cayuga in Book 122 of Mortgages, at page 569, on the 26th day of June, 1897, at 8:30 A. M., and no suit or proceeding having been begun or instituted at law or equity to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof; And whereas the amount claimed to be due on said mortgage at the first publication of this notice is the sum of $164.72, namely $160.50 principal and $4.22 interest and that the whole amount remaining due and unpaid is the sum of $164.72.

Now, therefore, notice is given according to statute in such case made and provided, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, duly recorded in the office of the said mortgage will be foreclosed by the premises therein and herein described, by the subscriber, the mortgage herein, at public auction, on the 2d day of December, 1905, at ten o'clock in the forenoon at the front door of the First National Bank of Moravia, N. Y., in the town and village of Moravia, county of Cayuga and State of New York.

The following is a description of the mortgaged premises to be sold as they are contained in said mortgage: "All that tract or parcel of land situated in the town of Locke, county of Cayuga and state of New York, on Lot No. 23 in said town of Locke on the south side of the highway running east and west from the village of Locke, N. Y., east of the grist mill formerly owned by W. W. Alley, Jr., at a point beginning at the north west corner of a village lot situated on the south side of the highway opposite the lot now owned and occupied by William Miner, running thence south as far as the south-west corner of said lot as it is now fenced, thence east to the lot now occupied by said Ashton, thence south parallel with the east line of said lot to the north line of land formerly owned by William Main, now deceased, thence east along said Main's north line to the line of said Main's land bounding this lot on the east, thence north along said Main's west line to the highway, thence west along the highway to the place of beginning, and being the same premises divided by William Keeler and Lucy Keeler to Oliver P. Ashton, Dec. 18th, 1905.

WHOLE NAVY MUTINOUS

Revolting Sailors and Soldiers Hold the Barracks — Several Officers Killed — Naval Staff Seriously Alarmed — Night Conferences Held With the Czar.

Odesa, Nov. 29.—Gen. Zaulbars, the military commander here, has received a telegram from Admiral Chouknin, commander of the Black Sea fleet, now at Sevastopol, saying: "The mutineers to-day left the battleship Panteleimon, which is now in my hands. The sailors, with the mutinous soldiers of the Brest regiment, have shut themselves in the Lazaroff Barracks, with some guns.

"I intend to attack them with fresh troops, which have arrived, although I fear the artillerymen may join the mutineers.

"A most serious condition of affairs prevails to-day. Several officers have been killed."

Details received here from Sevastopol show that 800 of the crews of the battleship Panteleimon and the cruiser Ouchakoff mutinied and raised red flags on the masts of those vessels. Meanwhile the mutineers at the naval barracks ashore and some of the crew of the Panteleimon, who had landed, held a meeting, at which they received a deputation from the Brest regiment, who said the regiment regretted not having joined the mutineers last June. They were then unorganized, but now the whole regiment was prepared to stand by the sailors to the utmost. Both forces then paraded through the town, waving red flags.

Admiral Chouknin boarded the Panteleimon and addressed the mutineers. He asked them what they wanted, and assured them that the Czar, who was deeply grieved, was willing to meet all requests from the army and navy. He added that their condition would be greatly improved shortly.

A sailor thereupon shouted: "We know the value of the Czar's promises, and we no longer trust them."

St. Petersburg, Nov. 29.—The actual position at Sevastopol cannot be learned, but it is known that the government is extremely uneasy. It is reliably reported here that all the crews of the Black Sea fleet have joined the mutineers. The military authorities at Sevastopol have notified the government that isolation and exhaustion of the mutineers are the only means they have of coping with the revolt. They say it would be unsafe to employ troops hitherto peaceful against the mutineers. They advise the government not to send any large body of troops into the vicinity of Sevastopol.

London, Nov. 29.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says that according to a private telegram from an eminently trustworthy source in Sevastopol the rebels are so completely masters of the situation that the government will be compelled to accede to all their demands.

Mrs. Hetty H. R. Green, the wealthiest woman in the United States, who owes her wealth principally to her own thriftiness and business shrewdness, celebrated her seventieth birthday on November 21. She has been in business about forty years and during that time has accumulated a fortune which is estimated at $50,000,000. She is still vigorous and does not intend to retire from business.

19 Killed; 40 Hurt in Wreck. Boston, Mass., Nov. 29.—A rear end collision occurred between two passenger trains on the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine Railroad near Lincoln at 8.15 o'clock Sunday night, resulting in the death of at least sixteen people and the injury of forty others.

Mrs. Rogers to Be Hanged. Washington, Nov. 29.—The denial by the Supreme Court of the appeal of Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers for her discharge by a writ of habeas corpus removed the last stay to the execution of the death sentences on December 8 for the murder of her husband at Bennington, Vt., in 1891, by administering poison to him.

Shot By a Sister's Suitor. Nyack, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Harry Britton, 18 years of age, was shot dead at his home in Nyack early Wednesday evening, and his brother Frank, 20 years of age, lies in a critical condition with two bullet wounds which may prove fatal. The tragedy grew out of the murderer's infatuation for Jessie Britton, who is a school girl about 16 years of age. W. H. Jones, who is 35 years of age, is the murderer. Early next morning a body of policemen and citizens started out in search of Jones. But they had no occasion to use the heavily-loaded guns they carried. The trail led them to the Baptist Church here about dawn. Back of the building they found the body of the murderer. There was a bullet hole in his heart and his right hand grasped a revolver. He was buried in Potter's field.

Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, wife of the steel king, and considered one of the most charming women among the American millionairesses, was formerly Miss Louise Whitfield of New York. She married the ironmaster in 1887 and bore him one child, Margaret, who will be the heir to the Carnegie millions.

U. S. Senator Burton Guilty. St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 29.—United States Senator Joseph Ralph Burton of Kansas, was found guilty on six counts in the United States Circuit Court, for using his influence as a United States Senator in preventing the issuance of a fraud order against the Rajto Grain and Securities Company, a get rich quick concern. The maximum punishment is two years in jail and a $10,000 fine. He cannot be sentenced to the penitentiary. Conviction, however, causes him to forfeit his office as United States Senator.

May Fight in the Isle of Pines. Havana, Nov. 29.—Owing to a report that reached here that a number of American residents of the Isle of Pines intended to attack Nueva Gerona, the capital, and seize the government, the authorities here sent a commissioner to the island to report on the situation. Secretary Andrade says the matter is a Cuban affair and if necessary the Cuban government will crush any revolt without consulting Washington, which has nothing to do with it.

The King's Cup a Yachting Prize. New York, Nov. 29.—A yacht race that for number and quality of entries will surpass any race that was ever held in American waters is to take place at Newport next August for a cup presented to the New York Yacht Club by King Edward VII. At a special meeting of the New York Yacht Club the offer of the King to give a challenge cup for great racing yachts of America was accepted.

Long Island Wreck. Three freight cars and a caboose were entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday near the Long Island Railroad station at Newtown, the result of a collision with a passenger train. No one in the cars was badly injured, but a number of women and men were slightly hurt when the collision occurred, and for a while there was a mild panic.

Sweetheart Dead, Girl Ends Life. Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 29.—Miss Mary Ross, of this county, shot herself to-day with a revolver. It is said she killed herself on account of the loss of her sweetheart, Robert Wyatt, who was killed in a duel with "Jack" Jones about a month ago. Both young men were suitors for Miss Ross and the duel came about through Wyatt's jealousy.

Teamsters Strike in New York. New York, Nov. 29.—Up to noon Monday, it was said by one of the chief of the Truck Drivers' Association that 320 trucks had been tied up by the strike which went into effect that morning. The members of the Team Owners' Association do most of the heavy trucking in the wholesale districts.

May Abandon Quay Statue. Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—Governor Pennypacker is being showered with letters and petitions from all over the State urging him to abandon his project for the erection of a statue of the late Senator M. S. Quay in Capitol Park.

31 Pound Turkey for Roosevelt. Westley, R. I., Nov. 29.—The producer who has made it a practice since the administration of President Grant to send a Thanksgiving turkey to the President, on Monday shipped a fowl weighing thirty-one pounds to the White House.

THE New York World

THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION.

For the autumn season now at hand the most valuable paper to you will be the New York Thrice-a-week World, because it offers you more at the price than any other paper published anywhere in the world.

This is a time of great events. We are having great wars, and other changes of a stirring kind are occurring both at home and abroad. The Thrice-a-Week World comes to you every other day except Sunday with all the news fully, accurately and promptly told.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, and that is what you want.

The Thrice-a-Week World always has a serial story running and it is always a first-class story by a first-class author. It publishes better fiction than any other newspaper in the United States. Special attention is also given to markets and there are many other valuable features. The regular subscription price is only $1, and that pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE GAZETTE TOGETHER ONE YEAR for only $1.65. The regular price for the two papers is $2.

GOLDEN FLEECE AND FLEISHER'S YARNS. KING FERRY, N. Y.

News of Auburn.

Nov. 28—In excavating for the foundation of the New York Central passenger station in State street the contractors came upon two walls of solid masonry about 30 feet long and between two and three feet thick. The stones were in as good condition as when first placed and came in handy for the contractors in the construction of the new building. An old resident says it was the old Peep-o'-Day house, kept by one Corbin or Corcoran. It is 51 years since it burned down. The house was sometimes called Immigrants' inn as it was headquarters at that time for all immigrants. The building was painted a dark red. After the fire the lot was used for all manner of purposes until the electric works were built there.

Andrew Kiley of Port Byron, who was removed from the county jail to the city hospital by order of Dr. Heazlitt, died Tuesday from diphtheria. Precautions have been taken to prevent a spread of the disease in the jail.

City Attorney Kerr was served Thursday morning with papers in one more action against the city. The plaintiff is Abram Nostrandt of Moravia, who asks $1,200 as follows: $100 for medicines and physicians' services; $50 for hired help; $1,000 for the loss of the comforts of his wife's society; $50 for the loss of his wife's services. Parker & Wright of Moravia are attorneys for the plaintiff, whose wife recently brought suit for $5,000 for injuries sustained by a fall on a sidewalk here.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. O'Hara of Fleming entertained about 40 of their friends at their home Friday night, the occasion being the twenty-fourth anniversary of their wedding. The evening was pleasantly spent in progressive euchre, the first prizes being awarded to Mrs. Eleanor Wyckoff and Earl Brigden. The consolation prizes were given to William Bunnay and George Baker. Following cards an old-fashioned English supper was served by Mrs. O'Hara.

The will of the late Julia P. Osborne was admitted to probate in Surrogate's court Saturday. Letters testamentary were issued to George Underwood and Alexander J. Porter. The estate consists of $100,000 personal property and $150,000 real estate. According to the terms of the will the husband, John H. Osborne, is bequeathed real estate in Auburn and two parcels in Indianapolis and the decedent's right, title and interest in a tontine investment policy in the New York Life Insurance Company. To a nephew Alexander J. Porter, of Niagara Falls, is left property in that city. All the rest and residue of the real and personal property was left in trust, but now by the terms of the will, or to the children of a sister, Mrs. Jane H. Robinson of Rochester and the other half to children of Alexander J. Porter. The will was drawn August 1, 1898.
