Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy, of East Wilton, Maine. 25c at J. S. Banker's, Genoa, and F. T. Atwater's, King Ferry, drug stores.

Old newspapers, for shelves and putting under carpets, at this office 5 cents a package.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites should always be kept in the house for the following reasons:

- First—Because, if any member of the family has a hard cold, it will cure it.
- Second—Because, if the children are delicate and sickly, it will make them strong and well.
- Third—Because, if the father or mother is losing flesh and becoming thin and emaciated, it will build them up and give them flesh and strength.
- Fourth—Because it is the standard remedy in all throat and lung affections.

No household should be without it.

Ledyard.

Nov. 23—Every one seems to enjoy the mild weather we are having. Certainly a good time to get things straightened up for winter.

Mr. Crossley preached an excellent Thanksgiving sermon on Sunday.

Frank Riggs of Wolcott was an over-Sunday guest of his grand mother, Mrs. Thomas, and other friends.

The reception at the parsonage was well attended and an enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. John Corey, in behalf of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Crossley, presented them with a purse containing $28, to partly recompense them for the loss of their furniture which was broken in a runaway while moving here. Other tokens were left that will remind them for some time of that evening. Ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

Abbie Main was an over-Sunday guest of her sister in Fleming.

Anna and Clarence Minard were home from Union Springs over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Purdy visited at George Wardwell's on Sunday.

Fred Avery was in Syracuse on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Coon attended the funeral of a cousin in Dryden on Sunday.

Chance for Tribune Readers.

In order to test the TRIBUNE'S great circulation and its superior advertising value, we have made arrangements with J. S. Banker, the popular druggist, to offer one of his best selling medicines at half-price to any one who will cut out the following coupon and present it at his store.

COUPON.
This coupon entitles the holder to one 50c package of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price 25c. I will refund the money to any dissatisfied customer.
J. S. BANKER.
TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia is not an unknown remedy. It has made many remarkable cures right here in Genoa and so positive is Druggist Banker of its great superiority in curing dyspepsia, constipation, sick headache and liver troubles that he will, in addition, to selling it at half price, refund the money to any one whom it does not cure.

If you cannot call at his store, cut out the coupon and mail it with 25 cents, and a 50 cent box of the specific will be sent you by mail, charges paid. Do not put it off. "One to-day is worth two tomorrows."

Gayuga Co. Medical Society.

The 102nd annual meeting of the Cayuga County Medical Society was held in the Masonic parlors, Auburn, last Thursday evening with about 35 members in attendance. Officers were elected and resolutions passed condemning the practice of physicians allowing their names to be published in connection with newspaper reports of sick and accident cases.

The following officers were elected: President, Dr. W. D. Cuddeback of Aurora; vice president, Dr. S. E. Austin of Auburn; secretary, Dr. F. A. Lewis of Auburn; treasurer, Dr. F. D. Patnam of Auburn; board of censors, Dr. George C. Sincereaux of Locke, Dr. C. E. Goodwin of Woodport, Dr. L. F. O'Neill, Dr. R. W. Robinson, and Dr. W. H. Neville of Auburn; delegate to house of delegates, State society, Dr. Frederick Sefton of Auburn; alternate, Dr. Leda Hazlett of Auburn; delegate to Seventh district branch, Dr. C. T. Brandow of Moravia; alternate, Dr. F. E. O'Brien of Auburn.

President Dr. A. H. Brown delivered an interesting address on the causes and manner of infection in typhoid fever cases, in which he stated that 85 per cent of the cases were due to impure water and 15 per cent to impure milk and flies. Also that the cause of the epidemic in Auburn was the contaminated water supply.

At the conclusion of the business session the members adjourned to the City club where the annual banquet of the society was enjoyed.—Citizen.

Church and Society Notes.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First M. E. church of Ledyard will hold its annual fair and chicken-pie supper, Friday afternoon and evening, Dec. 4. Special features of the fair will be a Larkin booth, a home-made candy booth, and potted bulbs for winter blooming, besides the usual table of fancy articles. You will find it profitable to include this fair in your plans for Christmas shopping.

The Ladies' Aid society of East Genoa will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. Amorella Strong, on Tuesday, Dec. 1, for dinner. All are invited.

BAPTIST CHURCH—Owing to the unfinished condition of the chimney on the church, there will be no services held there next Sunday, Nov. 29. The pastor earnestly hopes that the members of his congregation will worship with their brethren at the Presbyterian church. The cottage prayer-meeting will be held with Mrs. Jane Loomis on Dec. 2. On Friday afternoon, Dec. 4, the Ladies' Aid society will meet in the church parlors. Supper will be served at the usual hour.

The Hustler.

Letter from Virginia.

The following interesting letter was recently received from Mrs. E. H. Shangle at their new home in Virginia, and we are glad to share it with THE TRIBUNE readers:

Sabot Hill, SABOT, VA., Nov. 16, 08.

For some days have intended writing to ask you to please change our address to Sabot, Va. Mr. Shangle having taken half interest and the management of this stock farm, which is near our own Belmont farm, we are settled here for a year at least, in this beautiful old colonial brick house, with lofty ceilings, frescoed walls and coal grates or fire places in every room, with marble mantels and backs and no two alike in color or design. The carving on many is beyond description and must be seen to fully understand their beauty.

This place called "Sabot Hill," as you know, has a large yard in which are several very large magnolia trees; when in bloom they must be very pretty with their mammoth white flowers, laden with sweet perfume. At this time of the year they open their cones and drop their seeds.

The first of the month brought a light frost, but the roses still bloom on just the same all over the yard. We have not had any cold weather at all and could scarcely understand how you could be having a cold wave, when it was so warm and sunny here. The white children go by every morning to school a mile away, and nearly all are barefooted, little girls as well as boys, and they seem to enjoy running in the dirt.

You have heard of people "painting a town red;" well, nature has done that for this section of the world, for the earth is as red as paint, but very rich. Vegetables and flowers grow luxuriantly.

Our home is less than an hour's ride out of Richmond on the O. & O. railroad. We went up to the city yesterday and spent the day with friends. It was so warm one needed no outside wraps. I must tell you about the grey squirrels that live in the Capitol Square. In walking up through the park, to reach our nephew's office in the Capitol building, I know I saw a hundred and perhaps more, for the ground and trees seemed to be full of the great big sleek fellows. They will run up to you, sit up and hold out their paws to see if you have something for them to eat. I certainly enjoy watching them.

This old plantation was famous in war time, being the home of the Confederate secretary of war. It is also said that an old love romance saved it from being burned by the Northern army. A certain Northern general rode in here with his men in hopes to capture the secretary and then to burn his house, but while the secretary was making his way to the woods out the back door, his wife stepped out on the front piazza to engage the general's attention away from her fleeing husband. She discovered him to be an old lover and invited him in, when he recognized her and instead of destroying the place, ordered a guard put about the house. In the meantime, her husband reached Richmond safely.

Mr. Shangle was going to write you to-day. On his way home for dinner, one of the men told him there had been a big buck, with horns as long as his arm, feeding with the stock very near the house, and that it had gone over the wheatfield beyond the barn. The telephone was put in use immediately and the gentlemen soon gathered and a deer hunt was started at once. As he left the house, he called back "Write Miss Waldo about the paper." Thus this long letter.

We expect many from old Genoa to come on to Washington for the inauguration, and hope some, if not all, will take a few more hours' ride and come to see us. They will all be welcome at that time or any other, as our Northern friends are very dear to us wherever we may be. Will be glad to hear from any who will write us at Sabot, Va. Love to you and kind remembrances to the friends at home. (Mrs.) E. H. SHANGLE.

The ordinary folding fan was invented in the seventh century by a Japanese artist, who derived the idea from watching a bat closing its wings.

Resolutions.

Worshipful master, officers and members of Lansing Lodge, No. 774, F. & A. M.

Once more we bow our heads in sorrow, as we mourn the loss of a highly esteemed friend and brother.

Luther Hedden, after a long illness departed this life Nov. 17, 1908. He was a man of strong convictions, great energy, and conscientious in all that he advocated, and while his hours on earth are over, his life of kindly deeds, of able efforts, will ever linger in our memory.

In the years to come it must be a consolation to her, who has been left to go down the path alone, that his was the priceless heritage of a name honored, esteemed and loved. May our Heavenly Father give consolation and strength in this hour of sorrow. We tender to all friends our deep sympathy.

With profound respect we present this tribute to the family of our brother and place it upon the minutes of our Fraternal Order.

Signed by committee. EDD E. BUCK, M. H. DeCAMP.

The Basket Ball Game.

About fifty assembled at the rink, Genoa, last Saturday evening to witness the basket ball game between the Genoa school team and the Venice Center Stars. The game was thought to be very exciting as the teams proved to have about the same skill.

Harry Hoskins played center for the Genoa team and Arthur Wood for the Venice. Dennis Doyle of Moravia acted as Genoa referee and Ray Clark of Venice as the referee for his home team. Prof. G. B. Springer kept score.

The game was played in two twenty-minute halves, between which was a ten-minute rest. At the end of the last half, the score card showed the existing scores as 19 to 10. The tie was played off in about 10 minutes. Genoa won, having made the first basket which left the scores 10 to 12.

We all felt quite proud of our boys as it was their first game.

SECOND YEAR ENGLISH

There is one Catholic in this section of the country that all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors resorted to a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 to 20 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The Best That Was Offered.

A prominent attorney of Kansas City succeeded in getting his client out of a bad situation by means of an alibi, which the attorney presented in so novel a way that it was little short of masterful.

At the end of the trial the attorney was overwhelmed by congratulations from his colleagues of the legal fraternity. To these felicitations there were added those of the learned judge himself, who observed:

"A fine alibi, that, and mighty well put."

"Well," modestly responded the lawyer, "I myself think it was rather neat. Of those that were offered me it was by far the best."

THE TOUCHSTONE.

I told mine enemy the truth. His brow At first grew stern, and from his angry eye

The lightnings flashed. But soon he spoke: "Tis now

I see I judged you falsely. Wrong was it: Forgive me for the past and let us forth

To roam through peaceful meads, all strife at end."

So arm in arm we went, no longer wroth. The truth had made mine enemy a friend!

I told my friend the truth. He bravely smiled

And, with a gracious courtesy, averred, "Your candor pleases me!" Yet 'neath his

And glad exterior a smouldering stirred

Which plainer said than words: "We are estranged

Forevermore. Your lance hath wounded me

Past all redress!" Love had to hatred changed.

The truth had made my friend an enemy! —Eleanor C. Donnelly.

Welcome to Him.

"Good morning, ma'am," began the temperance worker. "I'm collecting for the Inebriates' home and—"

"Why, me husband's out," replied Mrs. McGuire, "but if ye can find him anywhere's ye're welcome to him." —Everybody's.

When the Czar Proposed.

The czar of Russia had met the lady whom he wished to make his wife, and he had obtained his father's consent to the match, but it still remained for him to make his proposal to the girl herself.

The sacred words had to be uttered in the old formula which Russian court etiquette prescribes for such occasions.

Seating himself beside the girl, he took her hand in his.

"The emperor, my father," he said, "has commanded me to make you the offer of my hand and heart."

"My grandmother, the queen," she replied, her eyes twinkling with mischief, "has commanded me to accept the offer of your hand."

Then she broke into a merry laugh. "Your heart," she added, "I take of my own accord."

Preventing a Possible Blunder.

A young man who was to be married in church to a Miss Way after a courtship of many years privately requested the choir not to sing "This is the Way I Long Have Sought."

Nerve, Sure Enough.

"The nerviest individual that ever I encountered," says ex-Senator Mason of Illinois, "was a chap that dashed into an accommodation train running from Chicago to Evanston on an occasion when I was occupying a seat near the door."

"Just before this person appeared in my car the other passenger or two and myself had heard a yelling in the train shed, in the confusion of which we heard one shout, 'Stop thief!'"

"Well, when this person did scamper into my car he looked about for an instant with every appearance of a hunted animal. Then he dived under my seat, exclaiming:

"'Sir, I rely upon your honor!'" —Lippincott's.

Might Be With the Butters.

"I hope," said the new-made widow, with a dry sob, "that poor Thomas won't be ragged with the goats instead of the sheep."

"Dear madam," replied the consoler, "your dear late partner was a truly good man."

"Yes, I know he was; but, no matter where he was or what he was doing, Thomas would butt in."

He Wanted to Know the Worst.

A miner who was suffering with dyspepsia consulted a doctor and took his prescription to a druggist.

"Well, how much?" said the miner when the prescription was finished.

"Let's see," began the druggist. "It's $1.10 for the medicine, 15 cents for the bottle. That makes—"

He hesitated, and the miner said impatiently:

"Well, hurry up, boss. Put a price on the cork and let us know the worst." —Ladies' Home Journal.

"The Frolicsome Baste."

A lady and gentleman took a short excursion somewhat early one morning, and the horse commenced kicking in such an extraordinary way that, instead of becoming alarmed, they laughed heartily at the oddity and obstinacy of the animal, which, aided by the apologies and explanations of the driver, were ludicrous.

"Look now, ma'am, it's the quietest baste in Ireland" (kick, kick), "but it's a small taste frolicsome out of play" (kick, kick, kick). (Aside to the horse) "I'll give it to ye, ye baste, when I git ye home, to be exposing me this way."

(Aloud) "It's the blood ye see, sir, the rare quality blood that's in it—sure his mother won the plate at the Curragh o' Kildare, and it's only too quiet this craythur is" (kick). (Aside) "Ah, ve venomous sarpint, ye'r at it ag'in!"

(Aloud) "except when it goes out too early of a mornin'. It understands the fashions, and I never get much good of him before tin or half past tin, anyway."

On the return the man was amply repaid. He turned over and over the money in his hand, glancing up and around with an expression of cunning not easily forgotten.

"Are you not satisfied?" was the natural inquiry.

"Oh, yes, quite satisfied, and I'm sure yer honor war satisfied, too—only the lady laughed so hard at the baste's tricks that I thought your honor would give me another little sixpence."

A Hard Task.

With a scowling brow the vaudeville agent awaited the next applicant. A long, lanky individual came to his desk and in funeral tones said, "Good day, sir."

"Well, what do you want?"

"I need a job just now about as much as anything else," answered the lean person.

"Ever had any experience?"

"Oh, indeed, I have been with"—

"Chop it short. I know you've been with all the big stars from Hamlet to Ophelia. That doesn't cut any freeze with me. What's your line?"

"I—I'm a—a—a comedian."

"Well, then, make me laugh." —Lippincott's.

Thrifty Tenement Dwellers.

Congressman Jacob Ruppert of New York represents one of the most congested districts in the metropolis.

Thinking the people who live in tenements might want to plant seeds in boxes on the window sills and fire escapes, he sent an assortment of his quota of garden seeds to the inhabitants of a model tenement just built by a friend of his.

Later he received a letter reading:

My Dear Ruppert—Please send no more seeds to the people who live in my model tenements.

I went there today, and I find they are all raising cabbages, cucumbers and tomatoes in the bathtubs.

Fun With the Conductor.

He boarded the train at St. Paul, bound for Seattle. As the conductor passed through the car he asked how far it was from St. Paul to Seattle.

"Sixteen hundred and twenty miles," the official answered. The next time the conductor came along the man again asked him how far it was from Seattle to St. Paul.

"See here, my man," said the conductor pompously, "it's 1,620 miles from St. Paul to Seattle, and it's 1,620 miles from Seattle to St. Paul."

"Maybe so," said the little man modestly. "I didn't know. You see, it's only seven days from Christmas to New Year's, but it's a long time from New Year's to Christmas." —Ladies' Home Journal.

My World.

I live in two worlds, one in which I must consider the weather and clothes and meals and bills coming due and a host of duties and obligations, some of which weary me. It isn't really a bad world, and I haven't much ground to complain of. It is comparatively a poor world, however, when set against that other world into which I retire with every opportunity—the glorious, free and perfect world of my imagination.

The common world, the world of meals and clothes and weather, I share with everybody. No preference or special consideration is given to me. I often get a kick or a cuff that I despise, even though I know that I earned it. But the other world is all my own. I am its creator, king and master. Nothing happens in it that does not please me; nothing exists without my consent. It revolves around me; I am its sun and center; all else is subordinate. There is no order, system or law in it that gives me the slightest trouble, for I alter, change or abolish these at my pleasure. Of course I escape whenever I can from the common everyday world in which I am so insignificant into the world which is wholly my own. —Orlando J. Smith.

Always One or the Other.

"But why did you leave your last place?" the lady asked of the would be cook.

"To tell the truth, mum, I just couldn't stand the way the master an' the missus used to quarrel, mum."

"Dear me! Do you mean to say that they actually used to quarrel?"

"'Yes, mum, all the time. When it wasn't me an' him, it was me an' her." —Everybody's.

Why the Blade Is Curved.

Corporal Sandhurst was drilling a batch of raw recruits.

"Why is it," he said to a bright looking chap, "that the blade of your saber is curved instead of straight?"

"The blade is curved," the recruit answered, "in order to give more force to the blow."

"Nonsense!" said the corporal. "The blade is curved so as to fit the scabbard. If it was straight, how would you get it into the curved scabbard, you idiot?"

The Waiter's Preference.

At a dinner one day some men were discussing the merits of different species of game. One preferred canvas-back duck, another woodcock, and still another thought a quail the most delicious article of food. The discussion and the dinner ended at about the same time.

"Well, Frank," said one of the men, turning to the waiter at his elbow, who was as good a listener as he was a waiter, "what kind of game do you like best?"

"Well, massa, to tell you the trufe, almost any kind of game'll suit me, but what I like best is an American eagle served on a silver dollar."

SHORT SERMON FOR A SUNDAY HALF-HOUR

By Rev. Guy A. Jamieson.

An Answer to Despondency.

Text: Why art thou cast down, oh, my soul; and why art thou disquiet within me.—Psalms, xlii, 11.

Perhaps David's despondency was engendered by the ingratitude and rebellion of his son, dissatisfaction with his own life, remorse for his sins. He had cause a-plenty, for being cast down. And so with most of us; if we be honest with ourselves the cause of our depression of spirit will be found in our own acts.

We have refused to live in harmony with the laws of our physical, mental and moral well being. An exhausted body, an overworked brain, a guilty conscience are the answers to the hours of gloom that so unaccountably steal upon us. And yet, the seasons of dejection that occasionally dominate the bravest spirits are not always a sign that we have sinned or displeased God. They may spring out of the inevitable circumstances of life, trying relationships, the narrow, monotonous routine of work, for which we are not responsible, and from which we seek to escape in vain. But whatever the cause, we cannot entertain or indulge gloomy thoughts.

Nothing is so bad for man—body, mind, soul—as despondency. It clouds the intellect, dampens the ardor of life, saps the willow power. It will put colored glasses on his eyes; everything will be seen distorted; molehills will be magnified into mountains. Man can yield himself to moods of depression till the vitality, the joy and beauty of life are gone, and be unfitted for its duties. He can live in shadows and darkness until he becomes unable to see the rainbow in the clouds and forgets that the sun still shines above them.

"Why art thou cast down?" We must assert our intelligence and will power; seek to forget ourselves; think of the condition of others. Go on the street and see the aged washerwoman bending over her load, the cripple hobbling towards the passer-by, to ask alms, the thin, fear haunted faces of half-starved children; think of the hundreds of incurable shut-ins, the hospitals overflowing with the sick and maimed and benighted, the thousands who tramp the streets looking for work; read the newspapers of the disasters by fire and flood and accident that blast homes, break hearts and cast thousands upon the mercy of the world, and perhaps in contrast with the conditions of you neighbor, you will feel ashamed of you own complainings.

But we must not look only upon the woes of others; we must seek actively to lessen them, so far as lieth in us, if we would escape our own. If we can do nothing else, we can cultivate the habit of hopefulness. We can follow the good example of the man, when assaulted by the "blue devil" sought occasion to speak cheerfully to some one who looked as gloomy as he felt. A pleasant face, a sympathetic word, a hopeful prophecy may do more than a hundred sermons about heaven. No higher compliment can be paid one than to speak of him as good humored and good natured, for these qualities usually spring from a healthy body, a healthy mind and a healthy soul. "Laugh and the world laughs with you," weep, and you not only do not weep alone, but you cause others to weep; woe begets woe, just as joyousness begets joyousness. It is more difficult to maintain a bright spirit than to say bright things, and much more commendable.

Then drive away gloom with gladness. Many a man has laughed himself into health, into friends, into success and into heaven.

Finally, "hope in God." But it won't do any good to pray and wall your complaints to the Eternal until you have done all in you power to overcome the cause of your despondency. If the cause is overfeeding, lack of pure air and exercise, exhausted body or mind, remorse of soul, reformation of habits must come before prayer. If we live soberly, keep a good conscience toward God and man, the spirit of gloom will take its flight, life will seem worth while, and we will have entered the kingdom of heaven, the kingdom of goodness.

Duty Neglected.

When house cleaning and a protracted meeting come off at the same times, we all know which gets the worst of it.

Not a Requisite.

Shouting "Amen" may be good for the lungs, but it doesn't make the Christian life.

THE ALCOHOLIC NIAGARA.

Nov. 29, '08—(Isa. 28: 1-13.)

Drunkenness is not a product of modern times as men sometimes claim. The picture presented in Isa 28 is true to life, and must have been drawn by an artist who had stood face to face with a bleary-eyed, red-faced, feature-brutered, foul-smelling, muddle-brained, indecent inebriate. Then, as now, wine was a mocker, strong drink was raging, and whosoever was deceived thereby was not wise.

And yet, familiar as the picture upon which this writer looked, and upon which some look every day they live, it nevertheless is one upon which many to-day look with the indifference of fancied security, or the impatience of ignoble selfishness.

The Bright Side.

See that young man—that one who stands by the bar, under the light of that flashing chandelier, surrounded by well-dressed companions, his ear greeted with volutions and dreamy music, his eye feasting the lust of his heart as he gazes upon the splendidly indecent colorings of the picture hanging upon the wall,—he is not drunk, his companions are not intoxicated, no bloated wreck of manhood is allowed to darken those floors. He will laugh in your face if you touch his arm, and warn him of the dangers of strong drink. He will consider you lacking in ordinary politeness if you venture to hint that at the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder. He is away up stream floating in a gilded barge on a broad and peaceful river, in which there is no sign of a current. And you cannot make him believe that Niagara is only a few miles down that same stream, and the hell of the whirlpool rapids. That is not drunkenness—it is only the amiable side of alcoholic exhilaration.

Below the Falls.

But if you want to see the fate of countless thousands of such beginners you need not go far to find it. Take Isaiah's arm, take Solomon's arm, or better yet, take a modern policeman's arm and go with him where drunkenness holds its orgies of lust and blood. Plunge down, down into what is appropriately called a "Dive," and in the light of the policeman's lantern look at those piles of dirty rags, whereon are lying father, mother and daughter in the stupefaction of drink. Stoop down and look into those faces, bloated, purple, open of mouth and gashed with wounds, and then stagger out into the night to look into other dens where women, or what were once women, are shrieking, fighting, blaspheming or pawing their miserable garments for the beverage of hell, and there you will see drunkenness in all its horrid reality. This is Niagara Falls, this is the whirlpool of destruction.

Where did all these people come from? From up the river. Not one of them jumped in here at first. They all started in the pleasure boat, on the calm bosom of the peaceful river, away up steam. Does every one who begins that pleasure trip inevitably come over the falls? Certainly not. Thousands take warning and disembark before they lose control of the boat in the treacherous current. They are escaping on every side, every day. But alas! How many awake to the peril when it is too late. No, not every one who floats on that stream goes over, but everyone who is in the awful whirlpool of destruction came from up stream. They were once well-dressed, with good health, with fine prospects, with plenty of money, with numerous friends. They saw others drinking, and they imitated their example. They heard others scoff at the arguments of old fogies, and they scoffed with them. They observed others pulling their boats, to the sound of sweet music on the bosom of a softly flowing river, and they said, "We can do it." And here they are, with bleared eyes, shattered nerves, palsied limbs, clouded judgments, besotted intellects, wasted powers, silly, blasphemous, obscene, incoherent, ridiculous, a sight to arouse the ribald mirth of the thoughtless, but to make angels weep.

Seldom Rescued.

For down there there is scarcely ever rescue. Once in a while strong arms may drag a shrieking victim to the shore out of the vortex in which thousands are going down. But such cases are rare. A young man may occasionally be restored after he has gone down into the whirlpool; he may have will power enough, and pride enough, and ambition enough, and self respect enough to co-operate with those who are interested in him so that he may escape a drunkard's fate; but when all of manhood's qualities have been dashed out by the fearful plunge, God only knows whether there is hope for such.

The Warning Fog Bell.

This lesson in Isaiah is a fog bell on a perilous coast. There is no particular music in it. Those who are on shore, and in no danger, sometimes complain at its discordant tones. But the people who have gone over the cataract do not jeer. Down there in the whirlpool there is weeping and gnashing of teeth.

TALK ON MARRIAGE

ONE OF THE BEST DISSERTATIONS ON MATRIMONY.

The Part Played by the Time, the Place and the Girl in That Momentous Event—The Authorship Unknown.

You may say what you like about the "Time the Place and the Girl," but, after all, the time and the place have a lot more to do with the making of matches than the "Girl," said the spinster with a fondness for statistics.

I've been getting up some data on the subject, and I find that in nine cases out of ten the circumstances—the mood a man is in, the clothes a girl happens to be wearing when they meet—have more to do with matrimony than the little blind god himself. And as to marriages being made in heaven—the spinster shrugged away that suggestion with contempt.

"Every wedding leaves some woman wondering 'what he saw in her.' I myself have had the remark apropos of half a dozen married women I know, and in several cases when I knew the people pretty well, I've inquired of the husband where, and under what circumstances he fell in love."

"And what have you learned?" she was asked.

"I learned that two of the things that most appeal to men are helplessness and a certain dainty femininity of attire that some women affect—which puts the tailor-made girl out of business every time."

One man told me that he was first smitten by love's dart while crossing the street behind a lady, who, on lifting her skirts from the dust displayed lingerie of the dainty, fluffy order that stamps a girl, to the masculine mind, as a "sweet, feminine creature." He followed up the girl—and the opportunity. The result was matrimony and a charming flat. Then he awoke to the fact that the femininity was a mere matter of laundry bills; and the lady was in reality one of the sort that insisted on having her own way and his, too; she was, in fact, a bully of the worst type.

"Another man I interviewed met his fate on a railroad train. She was in the act of struggling with a refractory car-window. Her little hands, he said, "looked so pretty and helpless; and, too, when he took the stubborn sash in hand and forced it open, his own brawn and muscle showed up so well by contrast. Then when she looked up at him and murmured admiringly, "Oh, it's lovely to be so strong!" his doom was sealed."

"What though she were freckled, snub-nosed and red-haired? She was a clinging vine, he a sturdy oak. Well, he married her, of course, and he greatly fancied his role for a year or two; but in course of time her clinging became monotonous. He has grown tired of it, and, between you and me, I think he has some times been tempted to bring damages against that railroad company for not having its windows in working order."

"And what conclusion have I reached on the subject you ask? This. That after a few years the result in most cases is the same! Disillusionment, disappointment, and dissatisfaction on the man's part."

"And the woman?"

"As to the woman, she, too, has her disenchantments, but then (this is strictly between ourselves) anything is better than being an old maid!"

Tickling, tight Coughs, can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Warwick castle is held by many to be the most beautiful seat in England. The large baronial hall is a magnificent room. It is decorated with the most perfect specimens of armor, furnished in a luxurious manner, and masses of flowers and large palms abound on every side.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by J. S. Banker, Genoa.

Thanks giving

WHAT was a moving and an enlightening incident of the little girl from the poor-house who, at a Thanksgiving dinner where each guest was requested to mention something for which he was truly thankful, said, after some hesitancy and pause for thought, "I am thankful I have a country to love." Friends or kinsfolk or prospects she had none, but in the dearth of the near and the obvious she had reached out and drawn close the great thought of patriotism; cut off from the common blessings of home and care, she had groped after an ideal and found a country to love. It was, after all, her good fortune that, undazzled by an inrush of small prosperities, she became the more aware of the greater blessings.

Truly the human heart is indomitable, and only the weakest cease to be thankful. "Books and my food and summer-rain," Stevenson enumerates as enough to melt the sullenest heart to gratitude. All great blessings are free and common to us all, but the universally accessible matters of gratitude we are like to forget when we sum up our causes of thankfulness. Foremost, there is the overarching sky, in which we all have part and portion—the sky with all its shifting scenery, its vast dome of night sprinkled with the dust of stars, the splendor of dawn, and the evening pageant; its unending surprises in cloud-groupings, the pomp of its midday depth of blue—these are matters to give a new face to joy every hour. Who cannot remember, too, when he first took the sky into his confidence, became aware of it as a constant friend stretching its beautiful expanse over his personal life and making a grand background to all his little living and being? The odors of summer, of winds blown across the blue heather-land, or salty from the sea, or hot and pine-scented, these are matters that outweigh the frettings and the worries of our little day, and live long in the afterthoughts. "This intellectual being," as Milton calls it, just this power of apprehending, of translating through the senses the colored stretch of space to the mind within, who could lose it without regret? Surely to have been born little as it may seem so at the young moment, is a cause for thankfulness. For the next step after birth is the pursuit of beauty, and beauty knows how to keep the chase exciting to the end, giving us a hint, a suggestion, a trace, enough to start us on, but melting ever into the mystery beyond before we grasp the prey.

Memory, too, is a chief blessing of life, for with memory we piece together the personal existence, we gain the feeling of continuity, of each life forming in some sort a definite whole. And what life, lingered over by memory, does not present itself as having a kind of sacred pathos, a dim and broken beauty like sunlight on a rippling stream? And then we have humanity to be thankful for; humanity, never wholly overborne, facing the mystery and the dark, rising up after disaster, undaunted by helplessness on its spinning ball of a world making it know not whither, ending it knows not when, yet still ever of high courage, each atom laying obligation upon himself to do for others, to bear not only his own share but part of some one else's share of the weight of living; humanity, facing with each new dawn new burdens, new work, unresting, unbreakable, unafraid, dreaming dreams and pursuing visions as high as hope can reach.

And for such measure of dutifulness and courage as shall be meted out to each we have too to be thankful, even if it never is given in the abundance we desire; and also for the thoughtless merriment of childhood and the thwarted hopes of our youth and such virtue as we have met along the way, and, finally, for the peaceful resignation of old age when the blood flows slowly. And for love, even though it dies, and for friendship even after it has betrayed, we have to be thankful, for these are hints and suggestions of what life in completion might be. But above all we have to be thankful for the thirst of the soul after wisdom, a thirst unquestioned and unquenchable, beckoning us on, on, till we lose all count of the years in hunting for the well that holds the sacred water, and time and space drop away from us as we travel, and the great mysterious sleep steals down upon us.

The Thanksgiving Turkey.

How to Prepare it for the Oven and Some Details of the Roasting.
Having decided which kind of dressing you want, prepare it and fill the cavity of the turkey from which the crop was taken, sew up the slit in the skin, fold it over and fasten with a few stitches to the back; put the rest of the dressing into the body of the turkey, sew up the opening, tie the legs down close to the body of the turkey, passing the twine around the rump, so as to draw the legs down close to the body, and secure them by passing twine around the body of the turkey. Lay the wings down flat on each side of the breast in their natural position and secure them by passing the twine or narrow tape around the body, tying it securely. Now rub the turkey all over with butter, dust it with black pepper and flour and it is ready to bake. Put in

History of Thanksgiving

THE autumn of 1621 was a prosperous one for the Pilgrims of Plymouth, Mass., who were both healthy and wealthy. Sickness, though it had destroyed one-half the company of Pilgrims, had ceased, and the crops, as a whole, had been good, the peas alone failing. All the houses in the settlement had been put into condition and a goodly stock of furs and prepared lumber had been made ready for export, to England, by the next ship. The waters swarmed with fish and sea fowl were abundant. The call of the wild turkey was heard in the woods and the patter of the feet of fleeing deer was nothing strange. The summer was past; the harvest ended.

The Pilgrims decided upon a period of recreation. The Governor sent out four huntsmen, who in one day, secured game to last the colony a week. Hospitality was extended to Massasoit, of the neighboring settlement, who brought 90 people with him. The guests remained 30 days. The company engaged in rounds of amusements, in which military drills and religious services formed a part. Thus heartily and loyally, was inaugurated the great New England festival of Thanksgiving. For two centuries it has continued to be observed, at first mostly in the Eastern States, but it has now become national.

Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly an American custom, though there are some writers who claim that it is not possible to determine the date of the first observance. John A. Goodwin, in his historical review, "The Pilgrim Republic," is positive, however, that the first celebration occurred in the fall of 1621, this being followed in 1623 by the first Thanksgiving proclamation, by the Governor of Massachusetts. In 1630 there arrived at Plymouth, fourteen vessels, bringing with them 880 colonists, making the number nearly 1200 instead of a mere 300. On July 8, 1630, another Thanksgiving was held in acknowledgement of his accession to the ranks of the colonists. The Dutch Governors of the New Netherlands, also appointed different dates for public thanksgiving, from time to time, and in some historical works there is record of a dispute as to which of these colonies deserve the credit for having first inaugurated the day. Most of the best founded historians, however, give the credit to the New England States.

The Dutch Governors of New Netherlands appointed occasional days of thanksgiving in 1644, 1645, 1655 and 1664, and the English Governors followed their example in 1775 and 1760, and the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States in its prayerbook ratified in 1789, recommends for Thanksgiving Day the first Thursday in November, unless some other day be appointed by the civil authorities.

The struggle of the Colonies for independence marks the beginning of general observances of days of thanksgiving in this country. The Congress of 1777, the one which prepared the articles of confederation for adoption by the Colonies, adopted a resolution setting apart the 18th day of December, 1777, to be observed as a day of solemn thanksgiving and praise.

Washington, during his administration, issued two thanksgiving proclamations, one in 1789 and the other in 1795, just after the suppression of the "Whisky Rebellion," which had threatened the peace of the country, and President Madison issued one upon the declaration of peace in 1815. However, in the early years of the nation the rule was for the Colonial custom to be followed and the proclamation made emanated from the governors. The Western States, largely people from New England or New York, early followed the lead of these portions of the country. As we have seen, the annual recommendation by the Governors of New York began in 1817. From that time the observance gradually crept southward and westward, and in 1835 Gov. Johnson of Virginia adopted it, and though, in 1857, Gov. Wise of Virginia declined to make the proclamation on the ground that he was unauthorized to interfere in religious matters, in 1858 a Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed in eight of the Southern States.

The day had thus naturally grown to be a National institution of almost universal observance, when the Civil War brought to sudden ripeness this along with many other tendencies, and President Lincoln put upon it the seal of his official proclamation. President Lincoln's first proclamation was in 1863, on account of the first important victory of the National arms. He issued a similar recommendation in 1863.

Yankee Pumpkin Pie.

By JOHN S. GREY

You may talk about your foreign cooks and all the things they make, The thousand dainty dishes that they stew and boil and bake; You may prate about their wondrous skill in culinary arts, How deftly they can manufacture puddings, pies and tarts; Go praise the French and German chefs, and the Italians too, For making salads, sauces, soups and fancy dishes new— But for a toothsome morsel upon which I can rely, Just give to me a solid wedge of Yankee pumpkin-pie.

Let those of fashionable tastes turn up the nose in pride, And think it quite plebeian to be simply satisfied; Let them eat their pate de fole gras, their truffles and such stuff With foreign names, suspicious looks and odors rank enough; Let them eat those airy pastry puffs they think so very nice, Because they've got outlandish names and cost a mighty price— But say, to curb your appetite, and your stomach satisfy There's nothing like a great big chunk of Yankee pumpkin-pie!

Roast beef may have more nutriment, more body-building worth; Veal, mutton, lamb, be nourishing, and stretching of your girth; Your chicken, duck or turkey may suit palates very fine— But these can take a back seat when I'm passing down the line. Fish, flesh and fowl may serve to stay the appetites of some; But you must treat me better when I to your table come. Leave out the high-toned viands, let each dainty dish go by— If I can get my face fast in a piece of pumpkin-pie!

—Mr. Carl Perkins of Auburn was a guest of Mrs. S. J. Haud on Sunday.

—Mrs. Jane Thome, who has been quite ill for a week, is able to be about the house.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Fox of Ithaca are visiting their daughter, Mrs. L. B. Norman and family.

—Mrs. E. F. Keefe spent several days in Syracuse this week. Her mother, Mrs. Rawley, is now her guest.

I am now prepared to repaint wagons, cutters, etc., at the old stand, next to hotel. Also repairs pertaining to such work.
16m2 A. T. VANMETER, Genoa.

—Mr. George Mastin continues very seriously ill with pneumonia. Miss Wager, a nurse, has been caring for him since Monday.

—It is expected that the new Mastin store will be opened to the public on Saturday of this week. See announcement on this page.

—Mr. George Hutchins of New Zealand is expected soon to visit at Charles Foster's in this place. He is at present a guest at Richard Clark's near Venice Center.

—John Stewart of Avon has been in town a few days this week. Mr. Stewart is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Abner Stewart who left Genoa about eleven years ago.

—Mrs. Jane Bower returned on Saturday evening from a four weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. Richard T. Bush and family, who have recently moved from Geneva to Skaneateles.

New lot of Heatherbloom skirts, plain and embroidered, at Mrs. S. Wright's, Genoa.

—The chimney of the Baptist church, which has been defective for some time, has been taken down and is being rebuilt. As it extends from the ground up above the roof, a distance of 45 feet, it will take several days to complete the work. For this reason no services can be held in the church Sunday next.

—A convention of the Cayuga County Sunday School association will be held in Auburn on Friday, Dec. 4. The day sessions are to be held in the Second Baptist church, and the evening session in the First Presbyterian church, where a moving picture exhibition will be given, illustrating missionary work in Eastern countries.

—Under the new highway law which will go into effect on January first next, every highway commissioner will have to make an estimate of the necessary money to lay out on various highways of the town during the coming year. This report has to be made to the town board before November first, and the town board then has to revise it.—Exchange.

Great variety of fancy and tailor wools in white and colors, prices ranging from $1 to $5.
15m3 Mrs. FRANK BRILL, King Ferry.

—The entertainment given by the Munro Entertainers in Academy hall Thursday evening of last week was very enjoyable. Miss Munro, the reader, captured the audience with her first number and each selection was equally pleasing. The playing by the Misses Rynders, violin and piano, showed skill and training, and the applause which greeted them after every appearance was well merited. Miss Hubbard, the soprano, has a very sweet voice and a charming manner and her solos delighted the audience. There was a large attendance and the entertainment was highly commended by all. While in town, the Misses Rynders were entertained at the home of their cousin, B. J. Brightman, and the other ladies at the home of Mrs. Laurerman.

—Dr. J. W. Skinner was in Rochester two days this week.

—Mrs. J. S. Banker is spending the week with friends in Auburn.

—Miss Mattie Waldo is visiting Mrs. Alson Karn at North Lansing.

—Miss Alice Crawford of Auburn was a guest of friends in town last week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Cannon left Wednesday for Rochester to spend Thanksgiving with their son and family.

—A hop has been announced for Friday evening, Dec. 4, at the East Venice hall. Refreshments will be served.

—Mrs. Lafayette Allen has been suffering from an abscess on the lower lip for a week past, but it is very much improved at present.

Ivers & Pond, Krakauer, Krainich & Bach and Solmer Pianos. You don't know any better, do you? 100 other makes.

EARLE C. HENMAN, Moravia, N. Y.

—A long rain is needed, as wells and streams are still low. The pond in this village is very low for this time of year. The Genoa mills have been obliged to use their engine almost constantly for several months past.

—Rev. Willis P. Humie, who during his student days in Auburn Seminary, supplied the Genoa Presbyterian church, has just moved his family to Bergen, Genesee county, where he has accepted the pastorate of the Presbyterian church.

Large stock of extra good house dresses, petticoats, wool and fleeced underwear, hosiery, etc.

Mrs. FRANK BRILL, King Ferry.

—We acknowledge, with thanks, the receipt of a box of magnolia foliage and cones from Mrs. Eugene Shangle in Virginia. As will be seen by her letter on another page, there are several of these large, magnificent trees in their yard. The shining, leather-like leaves are very beautiful, and the cones are full of bright red seeds.

—Dr. J. H. Webber of Cornell University, professor of experimental plant breeding, will give a lecture in Moravia on Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, speaking on the subject "Popular Plant Breeding." Mr. Webber will discuss not only the technical points on the farm, but he will also reach broad questions of general welfare as well.

Beautiful line of stock and linen collars, belts, gloves, ribbons, rubings, etc.

Mrs. FRANK BRILL, King Ferry.

—Dr. A. Rosecrans, who had been ill for a long time, died at his home at Five Corners on Monday of this week. The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon in the Presbyterian church of that place, Rev. Robert Ivey of King Ferry officiating. The Masonic order had charge of the funeral.

—Several Genoa people attended the Ithaca Conservatory Faculty concert at King Ferry Monday evening and were greatly pleased with the entertainment. Messrs. Egbert, Williams and Nordin are artists of high rank, and their ability to entertain in a most delightful manner was fully appreciated by the audience.

Dr. J. W. Whitbeck, dentist, Genoa, N. Y., is prepared to do painless extracting of teeth by the use of Sleep Vapor or Somnoform, the latest and safest anaesthetic known, which can be had at his office administered by a physician. He also has for extracting the best preparation for hypodermic; and also a local application for extracting children's teeth, perfectly harmless. In fact, everything in the dental line can be found at his office. Charges as reasonable as in the city or elsewhere, consistent with first-class work.

—It is no wonder that there are "hard times" in some families, as on an average every seventy families in Fairport support a barroom. There are eleven barrooms in the village and probably not more than 700 or 800 men in the same territory, so that every seventy men have to provide for the running expenses and profits of one of these places.—Fairport Mail.

—Dean Thomas F. Crane of the Cornell faculty has resigned and will retire next spring on a Carnegie pension. He has been connected with the university for 41 years.

—The value of farm products for the past year will aggregate more than eight billion dollars, in the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. This will break previous records.

—A. B. Raymond, aged 70 years, died Nov. 17, at his home near Homer. For 35 years he owned and managed the Raymond House at Little York, which was always very popular during his proprietorship.

The newest and latest shapes and trimmings at Mrs. Wright's millinery parlor, Genoa.

—Frank Howe, who lived near Peruville, died Sunday evening, Nov. 15. He lived alone, was quiet and unassuming, and was respected by all. He was a son of Henry Townley and Sarah Hagin Howe, and was one of nine children, five of whom survive him.

—The infamous South Dakota divorce law, which has been a reproach to the state and a disgrace to the nation, was repealed at the recent election by a vote of the people. The old law permitted people to obtain a divorce after residing in the state six months.

Auction Sales.

O. H. Tuttle, having sold his place, will sell at his residence at Belltown on Wednesday, Dec. 2, at 10 o'clock, property as follows: One horse, top buggy, spring wagon, 2 cutters, harnesses, small tools, etc., large quantity household goods of all kinds. Lunch served at noon. J. A. Greenfield, auctioneer.

Lucius A. Goodyear will sell at his residence, 1 1/2 miles south of King Ferry, on Thursday, Dec. 3, at 1 o'clock, the following property: One horse, 3 cows, wagons, bobs, harnesses, farm tools, potato crates, grain bags, 2 40-gal. milk cans, etc. J. A. Greenfield, auctioneer.

Call at Mrs. Wright's millinery, Genoa, and inspect her line of hats, feathers, pins, etc.

Points For Piano Buyers.

Before you purchase a piano or piano player it will be to your interest to confer with me. I deal directly with the manufacturers, buying 90 per cent of the different pianos from the makers and paying not more than $15 above factory cost for other makes. I can furnish any make or any style of instrument, selling you a piano at a saving of $40 in every $100 or a player at 87 per cent discount. A good piano for $148. Credit given to responsible parties. If you do not come to Moravia, drop me a postal and I will call on you.

Island for Caribou.

An island in Lake Superior has been stocked with caribou. Caribou Island, so named, because it was formerly noted as a home for the animals, again shelters a herd.

Six of the animals have recently been taken to the island and it is expected that they will largely increase in number. The Caribou were produced in Newfoundland.

The herd on Grand Island, the original members of which came from the Canadian wilds, is attaining goodly proportions. There are no hunters to molest or wolves to prey upon it.

After-Effects of the Grip.

Dr. Clouston, of Edinburgh, said it seemed as if no disease of whose effects there was any correct record had such far-reaching evil effects as this one, and among its sequelae he enumerated a depressing influence on the whole nervous energy, melancholia, neurasthenic conditions, premature senility, various forms of paralysis, neuritic affections and a general incapacity for work.

Come See The Frozen Watch.

It still keeps perfect time. We want every man, woman and child to come and see the Famous South Bend Ice Test. We, and 10,000 other leading jewelers are conducting this unique exhibition this week to show you that no freezing or roasting can affect this watch and it will not vary in time under any jolts strains or jars you are liable to give it. Come and see this wonderful test at A. T. Hoyt's and you will realize you are at a reliable jeweler's where you can get a satisfactory time piece.

Have One Doctor

No sense in running from one doctor to another. Select the best one, then stand by him. Do not delay, but consult him in time when you are sick. Ask his opinion of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds. Then use it or not, just as he says.

Ayer's

Always keep a box of Ayer's Pills in the house. Just one pill at bedtime, now and then, will ward off many an attack of biliousness, indigestion, sick headache. How many years has your doctor known these pills? Ask him all about them.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.
In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

A "CO-ED" PARADISE

IDEAL RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TWO SEXES IN WISCONSIN.
The Male Undergraduates Are So Deferential to Their Feminine Comrades as to Call Them "Women Students."

Wisconsin is the paradise of the co-ed—a fact indicated, among other things, in the deferential habit of calling her, not co-ed, but woman student. Days and days I spent trying to track down the co-educational problem, until I seemed, even to myself, to be the victim of an evil mind. There is no co-education problem at Wisconsin. Members of the faculty, and among them recent arrivals from Eastern universities, declared this in so many words. To the undergraduates—and I lived and took most of my meals at different fraternity houses—the only problem with regard to the woman student seemed to be how to get nearer or next. For there is only one woman to half a dozen men, and the most approved use of an idle hour appears to be what is called "fussing."

The unrestrained social intercourse natural to the West, has full swing, and the result is, as always in a self-respecting community, a state of innocence which to any one from a highly chaperoned community, seems little short of Arcadian. About a hundred of the young women room and dine in Chadbourne Hall. Another hundred live in sorority houses. The rest live in their own homes or board in student lodging houses—some of them in houses partly occupied by men students.

Until the present year there had been no dean of women. The new dean is trying, and with success, to prevent men and women students from living in the same houses.

The matter of chaperons is more difficult. Each of the sororities has a matron, but she is largely a figurehead. She has not even a position on the house committee, so that, though she has responsibilities to the university, she has little or no authority over the students.

Buggy riding flourishes. One of the undergraduates admitted to me that it was not unusual for parties of two and three couples to drive out to the several hotels on Lake Mendota for dinner. "I suppose," he added, "that that will seem to you horribly crude." On the contrary, it seemed like the Golden Age—or like my own boyhood in the Middle West. I asked if a single couple ever went on such an expedition. He shook his head. The girl's own dignity, if not the traditions of the university, would forbid this.

When I put the same question to another undergraduate, he smiled and said that occasionally a couple would go forth to dine in single blessedness.

Yet I am convinced that no serious harm is done. Were engagements common? By no means. Sometimes gossiping souls would allege that a couple were engaged—or, if not, they ought to be. But no engagements were announced, except in most cases, as the immediate prelude to student marriages, which are rare. And this was wise, one informant told me, for then if the young woman went home and married a man in her native town no one could prove that she was unduly experienced, or that the undergraduate had been flitted.

And this leads to the only thing approaching a co-educational problem. Though men and women are of much the same age, there is a radical difference in their situation in life.

The women are in a position to be married but the men are not in a position to be married, but the men are not in a position to marry them, as regards either age or worldly goods.

The women, arriving from farm, village or city, regard their life in the university as a social coming out—their first and perhaps only chance for a real good time.

Arrangement of Kitchen Utensils.

For the housewife with a small kitchen where spoons, knives and forks must be kept in one compartment, try having the top drawer of the kitchen cabinet divided into three sections, the partitions extending from the front to the back of the drawer. Use one section for knives and forks, a second for spoons of all kinds and a third for miscellaneous utensils, as egg beaters, skimmers, can openers and pancake turners. By this plan one can see at a glance, the article desired. The drawer will always present an orderly appearance, and will hold a greater number of utensils than if they were laid in a "haphazard" manner.

Home Adornment in Schools.

The "house beautiful" advocates are trying to get into the public schools to talk once a week on the ways to decorate a home with small outlay. It seems a fine propaganda, and eminently practical women look with favor on it.

A Caution.

Never awaken a child suddenly and never carry a baby immediately into a glaring light when he wakes up; the sudden impression of light is bad for the eyes.

LEGAL NOTICES.

COUNTY COURT,
COUNTY OF CAYUGA,
John L. Hunter executor of the estate of Cornelia M. Pear, dec'd, plaintiff, against
George Rowland, Alice Rowland and others, defendants.

Pursuant and by virtue of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in Cayuga County Clerk's office, on the 2nd day of September, 1905, I, the undersigned referee, in and by said judgment duly appointed, for that purpose, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Auburn, N. Y., on the 19th day of December, 1905, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, the following described property, viz: All that tract or parcel of land situated in the town of Sennett, County of Cayuga, State of New York, being a part of lot No. 49, in the original township of Aurelius, beginning on the west line of said lot at a stake standing six chains north from the south-east corner thereof, running north two degrees, east, Cayuga chains and sixty links to a stake on said west line; thence south eight degrees, east, Cayuga chains and six links to the center of the highway fifteen chains and ninety-five links to a stake; thence north eighty-eight degrees, east, Cayuga chains and six links to a stake; thence north two degrees, east, on said Wely's line as formerly owned by him thirty-five links to a stake; thence north eighty-eight degrees, west, on said Wely's north line as formerly owned by him, eight and 84-100 chains to the place of beginning, containing fifteen and 65-100 acres of land be the same more or less.
Dated Nov. 2, 1905.

MARCH THROUGH FIRE.

Ceremony of a Set of Brahmans in Honor of Gods of Fire and Water.

Six thousand Hindus and a select few English officials have recently witnessed in the neighborhood of Madras a remarkable religious ceremony, the principal actors being Solvastas, a sect of Brahmans.

The festival was called "the march through fire," and it is appropriately enough named. The proceedings were in honor of Brahma and Vishnu, the gods of water and fire.

Preparations for the ceremony had been going on for a month. A trench twenty-three feet long and nineteen feet deep was dug, and in it a fire was kindled. At sunrise, forty fanatics, who were to demonstrate their asbestos nature, slowly marched around the furnace, bearing the curious idols. The Solvastas were clothed in yellow tunics, and without hesitation, entered the trench singing a hymn, the refrain of which was "Govinda! Govinda!" After walking around this artificial Genenna three times they emerged apparently none the worse for their experience, and have established an unassailable claim for sanctity among their people.—London Globe.

A Remarkable Test.

A Copenhagen newspaper, with a view to testing the comparative rate of speed of various telegraph systems sent off to itself two telegrams, each of five words; one, telegram went eastward while the other went to the west. One telegram went via Shanghai, New York, and London; while the other went via London, New York and Shanghai. The telegram sent off by Shanghai, or the eastern route, arrived back in Copenhagen in three hours, 23 minutes. Each telegram had to be taken over and telegraphed afresh eight times during transmission.—London Chronicle.

An Underground Wonder.

One of the most wonderful underground waterways in the world, which was constructed at the latter end of the eighteenth century by the Dukes of Bridgewater, is now being used for the conveyance of waste water from the Earl of Ellesmere's collieries at Walkden, near Manchester. This canal, which is entirely underground, with its arms and junctions covers over 40 miles.

Vibration of Wings.

Recent measurements of the vibrations of the wings of a dragon fly in the Stuttgart University showed that they ranged from 1,000 to 12,000 a second. The common house fly makes 600 strokes of its wings a second when flying at its highest speed.

Automobile Disease.

The "automobile disease" has been discovered by Dr. Henry Becker of New York. After studying the malady for a year he says it affects the tissues of the throat and lungs, causing congestion and decay.

The Wonderful Petrel.

The tiny stormy petrel is a bird of immense wing power; it belongs to every sea and, although so seemingly frail, it easily breathes furious storms. Petrels have been observed 2,000 miles from nearest land.

Mohammedan Photography.

Until a few years ago Mohammedans were greatly opposed to photography, but now they have taken it up seriously, and some photographers of real merit are found among them.

Sorrow Is Fleeting.

The compensation that life offers for growing old is finding out that sorrow is as fleeting as joy, and that there are just as many picnics to come as we have missed.

No Flies on This Cow.

Missouri's latest is a cow with two tails, which brushes the flies from both of her sides at once. Man who milks her must have happy times.

Coal in Canada.

A serious problem for the people of Canada to solve is the fuel supply of the future. No coal of any kind has ever been discovered in Ontario.

Taxing the Single.

During the reign of William and Mary, bachelors and widowers over 25 years were taxed one shilling yearly.

New York's Jews.

Within 20 miles of New York City Hall there is a population of 1,000,000 Jews, more than in all America besides.

A Thin Film.

The film of a soap bubble is so thin that fifty millions of them would be required to make one inch.

There are three kinds of lies—white lies, black lies and society fibs.

When misery is at hand there isn't much pleasure in recalling former joys.

In Portugal married women retain their maiden names and are always known by them.

A mole eats as many as 30,000 earth-worms in the course of a year.

A HORSE'S TOE NAILS.

His Hoofs Play the Part and Grow a Third of an Inch a Month.

Few persons realize that a horse's hoof is really the same thing as the toe nails of human beings or of animals having toes. The horn of a hoof grows just as a toe nail does.

The hoof grows more rapidly in unshod horses than in those wearing shoes, and it grows faster in horses which are well groomed and well fed. But on the average the horn grows about a third of an inch a month.

Hind hoofs grow faster than fore hoofs. The toe of the hoof being the longest part, it takes longer for the horn to grow down there than at the heel. For instance, the toe will grow entirely down in from eleven to thirteen months, while the heel will grow down in from three to five months.

As the new horn grows out cracks or defects in the old gradually work down to where they can be cut off, just as with human finger nails you can watch the progress of a bruise from the root to the tip.—New York Sun.

A Venerable Gourmet.

A New Yorker of sixty years was told by a young couple that he might consider himself at liberty to contribute a book to their library, with his autograph and a sentiment on the fly leaf. He had dined at the house several times. One day the expressman left a hefty volume bound in white enamel. It was a cook book. This was written inside: "The family Bible lies on the parlor table untouched. Let the kitchen bible be opened daily and studied with understanding. It contains the best of all religions, and if its advice is followed will turn more to Christianity than all the Scriptures." The venerable gourmet signed his full name, but thereafter was persona non grata. The young wife never forgave him.

United States Cotton.

The United States produces the greatest amount of cotton, but speaking generally it is not of the best grade. The swamp lands of Louisiana when redeemed, will be capable of growing the best quality of cotton and in sufficient quantity to duplicate the long staple cotton crop of the world.

British Patents.

By the patent act which recently passed the British Parliament and has already gone into effect it becomes necessary for foreign holders of patents under British authority to erect and operate works in Great Britain for the production of articles thus patented.

Old-Age Pensions.

Let the old-age pensions be limited to fathers and mothers of seventy years who have brought four children or more into the world. These probably have had no opportunity of providing for old age.—Le Journal, Paris.

Sensitive Plants.

There are plants so sensitive that if, when standing by them, one should suddenly put up an umbrella or sunshade, it would cause them instantly to close together their leaflets and turn down their leaf stalks.

A French Delicacy.

The artificial cultivation of snails is an extensive and flourishing industry in France, no less than 2,500,000 pounds of this succulent delicacy—as Frenchmen consider it—being consumed annually.

Convicts of Java.

Public streets in the towns of Java are daily swept and kept clean by native convicts. The go to work chained together in parties of 20 or 30, under the superintendence of native soldiers.

Arizona Temperature.

The greatest daily change of temperature to be found on the earth's surface is in Arizona. There is frequently a change of 80 degrees in 12 hours.

Animals of the Earth.

About 2,500 different kinds of animals are known on earth—that is, warm-blooded, milk-giving creatures like our common domestic animals.

New Zealand Half Holiday.

In New Zealand everybody is bound by law to take a weekly half-holiday, and there must be no shirking the obligation.

QUEENS AND BULLFIGHTING.

Victoria of Spain Hopes to Win Even If Others Did Fail.

Queen Victoria of Spain is, it is said, anxious to abolish in her country the enormities of bullfighting; she has hitherto consented to attend at this favorite national sport, but the last time she went, shortly before Don Jaime's death, what she witnessed filled her with horror and grief.

So she has caused to be revived the memory of the fact that the great Queen Isabella, when she returned from conquering the Moors, declared that it was her wish to abolish bullfighting as a cruel sport which, she asserted, had been introduced by the Pymts Moors and which was unworthy of a Christian race.

If the Spaniards of to-day are reminded that the queen whose memory they adore was only prevented by her death from putting down the cruel sport it is hoped that they may allow their present Queen to make it at least unfashionable for ladies to attend on such sights.

Queen Christina tried to do so in the early days of her rule as widowed Regent, says the London Illustrated News, but she had so much else to contend with that she had to abandon this unpopular reform.

It seemed impossible not long ago, for duelling ever to be abolished as a means of settling personal disputes and wiping out insults among gentlemen, but Queen Victoria achieved it. Acting through her husband, she so arranged that duelling should never again be resorted to by men in the army to end their quarrels or to defend their own honor, and this was speedily accepted as possible and right in civil life too.

HANDY WALL CLEANER.

Cleans Top of Window Casings Without Standing on a Chair.

A wall cleaner especially adapted for use in cleaning the tops of windows and door casings and places of a similar character which cannot be reached without considerable labor is shown here, recently patented by a Massachusetts man. The device is formed of two sections of bent spring wire, which are attached to a suitable long handle. The piece of cleaning cloth is laid over the under section of wire, the upper portion holding it in place and preventing it from slipping. The peculiar form of the curves in the wire enable the operator to readily clean the tops of window casings, door casings, pictures, moldings and the like without the necessity of standing on a chair or stepladder. The cleaning cloth can be forced to the rear of any elevated horizontal projection so that it can be thoroughly cleaned.

A Picturesque Princess.

This is how Queen Charlotte of England appeared in the streets of Genoa, while she was the crown Princess, as described by Mme. de Boigne:

"There was a kind of phaeton constructed like a seashell, covered with gilding and mother-of-pearl, colored inside, lined with blue velvet and drawn by two very small, piebald horses driven by a small child who was dressed like an operative angel with spangles and flesh-colored tights, and within it lounged a fat woman of fifty years of age, short, plump and high-colored. She wore a pink hat with seven or eight pink feathers floating in the wind, a pink bodice, cut very low and a short white skirt, which hardly came below her knees, showing two stout legs with pink-top boots. A rose-colored sash which she was continually draping, completed this costume."

Queen Wilhelmine's Bath.

It has been said that the young Queen of Holland has rapidly aged of late, and is losing that beauty and cheerful youthfulness which have endeared her so much to the hearts of her subjects. As a matter of fact, however, her majesty never looked better than she does to-day, in spite of the disappointment caused by the non-arrival of an heir to the throne. She indulges in forms of exercise which adds grace to the figure, and carefully studies her complexion. Her majesty is said to have adopted the custom from the Dutch Indies of taking lemon baths. The lemon bath is made as follows: Five lemons cut into slices, are left to soak in a basin of water for half an hour. The lemon water is added to that in the bath, and the whole stirred vigor-

Baking Powder.
Make your own baking powder. Here is a receipt that gives the the best possible baking powder. It has more leavening power than any other formula and is recommended by the National Pure Food Department

Bicarbonate of soda 3 5-8 ounces
Flour, 1 cupful
Cream tartar 3 ounces
This will make about one pound of fresh baking powder.

If you use pure soda and cream tartar be sure to use exactly these weights to have the best results. You have the flour and know it is pure. We will furnish the soda and cream tartar of the exact weights and guarantee them absolutely pure and free from adulteration for 25c. Mix them thoroughly by passing through a flour sieve 5 times.
