VOL. XVIII. No. 26.

GENOA, N. Y., FRIDAY MORNING, JANUARY 28, 1910.

EMMA A. WALDO.

From Nearby Towns.

Venice Center.

JAN. 24.—The social, which was to have been held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Kenyon on Friday evening last, was postponed on account of the weather and traveling.

J. N. Beardsley and Floyd Young of Five Corners were callers on friends in town recently.

The January thaw came in good time and now there is plenty of water in cisterns and some wells that were dry before. It also removed the large quantities of snow and ice from roofs and the huge and numerous icicles that had formed from the eaves, and gave everything such a frigid appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Crawford were guests of friends in Auburn recently.

E. H. Bennett is very sick with pleuro-pneumonia.

In the basket ball game that was played at this place on Saturday evening between Venice Center and Genoa, the home team were the winners, the score being 19 to 11.

Mrs. D. F. Ladd and son Merton of North Lansing called at the home of Mrs. Crippen Sunday.

Lansingville.

JAN. 24.—Mrs. Ella Alger has moved from Genoa back to her home here.

Olive and Clinton Rose took Regents examinations at Ludlowville last week.

Mrs. Geo. Inman is quite ill.

Mrs. Wm. Tucker is recovering from an attack of bronchitis.

Mrs. Ray Smith and Mrs. Bert Knapp of Auburn visited friends here this week.

A. B. Smith spent a few days in Auburn recently.

Bert O'Hara of Spencer made several business trips here recently.

Henry Bower and Mrs. John Smith are both recovering from illness.

Orlando White is visiting friends in Ithaca.

The Ladies' Aid society held their annual election of officers at the home of Mrs. Glen Smith last Thursday.

King Ferry

JAN. 26.—Married, Jan. 17, 1910, in Cheboygan, Mich., Ward B. Atwater of King Ferry, N. Y., to Florence Phillips of Cheboygan, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Atwater returned to this place last week and have the best wishes of their many friends.

Jay Shaw was in Auburn Monday. Robert Bradley has a position in Syracuse.

Miss Mary Detrick is visiting her sister in Seneca Falls.

Miss Rosa M. Pidcock visited friends in Ithaca last week.

Mrs. Alfred Avery has returned from Old Forge, Pa.

Mrs. J. McGoldrick of Seneca Falls visited her parents in this place last week.

Earle Wilbur spent a part of the past week in Genoa taking Regents examinations.

Miss Edith Pine, who has been for the past two years in Ohio, returned home last week to remain here.

Misses Allene Winn, Irene Brennan and Pearl Dillon, Orrin Stewart, Leland Stewart, Joseph Fox and William Brennan were in Aurora and Union Springs taking the examinations the past week.

Mrs. Merritt Winn made a trip to Ithaca Monday of last week.

The young people of Ellsworth and Ledyard consisting of two sleigh loads made an excursion to Genoa one evening recently and were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Brightman. The inevitable tip-over was indulged in, but no accidents happened.

The funeral of Mrs. Charlotte E. Morgan was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stevenson, Wednesday afternoon of the past week. Rev. Sewall of Aurora spoke comforting words to the bereaved ones, and Miss Blanche Sprague of Poplar Ridge sang two beautiful selections. Mrs. Morgan leaves four sons and one daughter to mourn her departure—George Morgan of Union Springs, William of Savannah, Sylvester of Poplar Ridge and Frank of Canandaigua. They were all present at the funeral.

George Cook is very sick with pneumonia. At first, it was pronounced typhoid fever, but we have learned since it is typhoid pneumonia. Mrs. George Crouch is caring for him.

Geographical

My little daughter Helen recently had her first introduction to geography. Her father thinks that perhaps she is destined to become a great Arctic explorer.

"If you stood with your right hand toward the east and your left hand toward the west, you would be facing the north," said the teacher. "Now, tell me, what would be back of you?"

"My hair," answered Helen in a patient tone—Woman's Home Companion for February.

The Scrap Book

Too Realistic.
A fairly well to do but rather miserly farmer said to a friend: "Say, Bill, I'm going to kill my pig but I owe so much pork to my neighbors that I shall have none left for myself if I pay it all back. What would you do?"

"Quite easy to trick 'em," said the friend. "Kill your pig and leave it hanging outside until late at night, so's every one can see it. Then take it in and say some one stole it. Stick to the tale and you'll be all right."

The farmer followed instructions, and the kind friend watched his chance and stole the pig. The poor farmer came around next morning to tell what had happened. "Somebody's stolen my pig!" he cried.

"Good!" said the friend. "Stick to it, and the neighbors 'll believe you, sure enough."

"But it was stolen, I tell you!"

"Excellent!" quoth the friend. "Just you stick to the tale."

"You confounded edass!" yelled the farmer. "Don't you understand? It was really stolen!"

"Superb!" laughed the delighted friend. "You ought to have been an actor, so you ought." Then the farmer slammed the door and went away fuming.

Opportunity.
Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait:
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote and, passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate.
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate.
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore—
I answer not and return no more.

—John J. Ingalls.

Didn't Have to Resort to Numbers.
The school census taker stopped at a little hut in the mountains of Kentucky and, addressing the mother of an unusually large flock of children, said:

"Madam, I am taking the school census. How many children have you between the ages of six and—"

"Lemme see," she broke in, "there's Katy an' Mary an' Annie an' Lucy an' Carrie an' Rob an' Jake an' Will an' Harry an' Jim an'" — She paused for a breath, and her caller made haste to say:

"Now, madam, if you could just give me the number"—

"Number!" she snapped. "Number! We ain't commenced numberin' yet, hank ye. We ain't run out o' names."

Rose in the Occasion.

The consul in London of a continental kingdom was informed by his government that one of his countrymen, supposed to be living in Great Britain, had been left a million of money. After advertising without result to be applied to the police, and a smart young detective was set to work.

When a few weeks had gone by his chief asked him how he was going on.

"I've found the lady, sir."

"Good! Where is she?"

"At my place. I got married to her yesterday!"

The Next Move.

A substantial looking man halted for a moment in the street, pulled out a big wallet and examined a card which he took from it. As he dropped the card back and closed the book a fat wad of bills showed in one of its compartments. A pair of pickpockets passing caught sight of the money, and, with a rapid exchange of meaning glances, they dropped little behind and followed the man for several blocks with the view of availing themselves of the first opportunity to relieve him of the roll. After awhile the man with the wad suddenly turned and entered a lawyer's office, leaving the pickpockets facing each other with looks of dismay.

"What shall we do now?" growled one of them.

"Let us wait for the lawyer," said the other.

Melba's First Appearance.
Melba's first public appearance was made at the age of six, when she sang "Comin' Thro' the Rye" at a school concert. She was eager to hear what her playfellow, and one in particular, thought of her triumph. After many indirect attempts to introduce the subject Nellie at length found herself unable to wait longer and exclaimed excitedly: "But the concert, the concert! I sang last night and was encored." And she looked with interest in the face of her friend, who answered wistfully, "Yes; Nellie Mitchell and I could see your garters." Melba in "A Biography."

LOST HIS MONEY.

Made a Bet and Foolishly Picked the Wrong Member.

There was an eminent English sergeant at law some years ago who had a cork leg that was a triumph of artistic deception. None but his intimates knew for certain which was the real and which was the sham limb. A wild young wag of the "outer bar," who knew the sergeant pretty well once thought to utilize this knowledge of the sergeant's secret to take in a green, newly wedged young barrister. The sergeant was addressing a special jury at Westminster in his usual earnest and vehement style, and the wag whispered to his neighbor:

"You see how hot old Buzfuz is over his case. Now, I'll bet you a sovereign I'll run this pin into his leg up to the head and he'll never notice it, he's so absorbed in his speech. He's a most extraordinary man in that way."

This was more than the greenhorn could swallow, so he took the bet. The wag took a large pin from his waistcoat and, leaning forward, drove it up to the head in the sergeant's leg. A yell that froze the blood of all who heard it, that made the hair of the jury stand on end and the judge's wig almost fall off, rang through the court.

"By Jove, it's the wrong leg! I've lost my money!" exclaimed the dismayed and conscience stricken wag as he fled through the door, while the lacerated lawyer danced on his cork leg and howled in agony.

A Heaven of a Time.

Little Helen had developed the habit of holding her thumb in her mouth, even while eating. The mother had resorted to all sorts of methods to correct the child and finally in desperation said:

"Helen, the first thing you know you will swallow your thumb, and then what will you do?"

"Well, mother, I should hate to swallow it, because I'd have a heaven of a time without it."

"Why, Helen!" said the astonished mother. "Where did you hear an expression like that?"

"Well—well," hesitated the little girl. "I didn't hear it exactly like that, mother, but I thought it would sound better." —Lippincott's.

Don't Be Selfish.

If we avoid sympathy and wrap ourselves round in a cold chain armor of selfishness we exclude ourselves from many of the greatest and purest joys of life. To render ourselves insensible to pain we must forfeit also the possibility of happiness.—Sir John Lubbock.

Her Preference.

The young man who said he'd never eaten any to somebody who asked him if he liked Trollope was outdone the other day in a Fifth avenue book store, says the New York Sun. A girl of seventeen came in and asked the clerk for Prometheus, "by a man named Kelley or Sheets or something like that."

"Oh," said the clerk, "Shelley's Prometheus Unbound?"

"Yes," replied the girl; "that's it. But, if you please, I'd rather have it bound; it's so easy to lose the pages, you know, if it isn't."

The Whole Science of It.

Two women walking along one of the business thoroughfares of New York heard a great shouting of "Extra, extra!" and looked about to see where all the noise was coming from. Across the street they spied one very small boy shouting with all his might.

One of the women, attracting the boy's attention, called him to her and bought a paper; then as she dropped the pennies into the little fellow's hand she said:

"You mustn't make so much noise, my little man. You can sell your papers just as well without yelling so."

For half a second the boy looked at her in surprise, then exclaimed:

"You don't understand, missus; you have got to yell like — to make a living in New York."

Doubly Revenged.

They were a happy pair, bent on enjoying themselves, and they didn't much mind if the other passengers suffered in consequence. Presently the girl started to criticise the clothes worn by an elderly female sitting on the opposite seat, and the youth, wishing to please, entered into the thing heartily.

The old lady's old fashioned outfit was fully criticised, with more or less giggling on the young lady's part; the cut of her skirt was condemned, and there is no telling what might have come next if the woman had not put a sudden stop to the conversation by a bit of clever feminine strategy.

She turned her head, noticed that the girl was considerably older than the youth and in the smoothest of tones said:

"Madam, will you please ask your son to stop staring at me? It becomes irritating."

The Pip and the Slip.
Too much mince pie had done the trick.

Little Malmie got a pain in her sash and had to go to bed.

The family physician and his top hat called and prescribed a pill. Malmie's mother said very well, but the family physician did not know Malmie, and she was quite sure Malmie would not take the pill. The family physician said he would make it a sweet pill, but Malmie's mother replied that so long as it was a pill it would be no use.

Then the family physician was struck with a brilliant idea. The pill should be craftily concealed in the center of a preserved pear and sent up to little Malmie to eat.

An hour later Malmie's mother went to see how her sweetest dear was going on. She appeared to be going on.

"And did my pet eat all her pear?" inquired the fond mother.

"Yes, mumsie," replied the little darling, "all but the nasty seed."

There's many a slip 'twixt the pear and the pip.—London Answers.

Bituminous Coal.

The first bituminous coal mined in the United States, states the United States geological survey, was taken from what is usually termed the Richmond basin, a small area in the southeastern portion of Virginia, near the city of Richmond. This basin is situated on the eastern margin of the Piedmont plateau thirteen miles above tidewater, on the James river. It lies in Goochland, Henrico, Powhatan and Chesterfield counties. The coal beds are much distorted, and the coal is of rather low grade when compared with that from other districts with which it has come into competition. The occurrence of coal was known in the Richmond basin as early as 1700, and in 1789 shipments were made to some of the northern states. At present what little coal is produced in this field is for local consumption only.—Scientific American.

Movement of Icebergs.

In the investigation of the currents round the coast of Newfoundland it has been observed that there is at times a wide difference in the direction of the drift of icebergs and that of the flat or pan ice, which, having no great depth, is governed in its motion by the surface currents and the winds. whereas the icebergs, the larger parts of which are submerged to a great depth, follow only the movement of the ocean water as a whole and are uninfluenced by the winds. In consequence a huge berg may often be seen majestically maintaining its slow advance in opposition to the wind and across the general motion of the fields of flat ice surrounding it. The sealers often take advantage of this fact by mooring their vessels to an iceberg in order to prevent a drift to leeward.—Philadelphia Record.

Hunting the Kangaroo.

When brought to bay the kangaroo jumps like a flash for the hunter's chest and tries to crush it in with his fore feet. To prevent this each man wears across his breast a two or three inch thick matting. Armed with a spear, with a club attachment at the other end, they ride upon swift horses into a herd. With the agility and equanimity of circus riders they stand erect upon their horses and use their spears and clubs.

The kangaroo is able to jump clear over a horse. As the game is bagged it is skinned, and the skin is stretched on the ground and pegged down to prevent shrinkage. The flesh furnishes meat for the camp. Each man places his private mark upon his booty, and when they have 100 apiece they return back to civilization.

Why He Searched.

The old man had evidently dropped something in the muddy road, and he began searching for it. In three minutes about thirty strangers had joined in the search, and every additional minute brought additional searchers, till at last one, bolder than the rest, plucked up heart and spoke:

"What are you looking for?" he inquired.

"My friend," mumbled the old man. "I have dropped a piece of taffy candy."

"But, great Scott," cried another of the crowd angrily, "why do you go looking for it when it will be covered with dirt?"

"Because, my inquisitive friend," replied the old man, "my false teeth are sticking to that taffy."

Strange Hiding Place.

False teeth are occasionally used for secretive purposes. An eccentric old lady boasts of a roof plate which consists of two thin sheets of gold between which a miniature copy of her will is inserted. In a similar manner a dyer preserves a prescription which he declares he would not disclose for a large sum.—London Mail.

Envious.

"Just think of it!" said the student of immigration. "Many men who come to this country cannot write their own names."

"Yea," answered Mr. Pinchpenny, "and when I get down my check book on the first of the month I am inclined to envy them."—Washington Star.

The New Oriental Woman.

Oriental women are casting aside their veils. Even the rank and file of them are revolting against being penned up in harems.

The word harem is Arabic, and means privacy, seclusion. The confining of women in harems, that is to say, excluding them and denying them the privilege of talking with or coming in contact with men, excepting their husbands or nearest male relatives, is a Mahomedan custom, and harems are to be found existing in every country where the influence of the Moslem has been dominant. The downfall of the harem is the greatest good that modernism is accomplishing in Asia, and with it is dying polygamy.

A new order of womanhood is springing into being in all-quarters of the Orient. Masses of Oriental women are willing, nay eager, to share the responsibilities of public life with men. Moreover, they are willing to work with them shoulder to shoulder.

In every Asiatic country you see the "new" woman conducting special schools for girls and neighborhood centers for women of comparatively advanced ages. These institutions are designed to educate the present and rising generations of women to properly discharge their various duties.

In these schools Oriental girls and women are taught what constitutes their real rights. Here they are also inspired to undividedly and steadily labor to obtain and maintain these rights.

Paradoxical as it may seem the most favored and successful manner in which the Oriental woman carries on her propaganda work is through the channels of the newspapers and even magazines.

In various parts of Asia, especially in China, India and Japan, women are conducting publications to further the cause. In Japan the Twentieth Century Woman, a radical monthly magazine, is edited by a woman and many of her contributors are women. China has three flourishing publications edited by and for women. In Hindostan is also a magazine for women. It is printed in English, and, started some two years ago, it has a large and growing circulation.—Travel Magazine for February.

A Lively Office.
In his recollections in Blackwood's Magazine Sir Robert Anderson tells an amusing story of the days when he was employed at the home office. On his arrival one morning at the office he found a note from Sir James Ferguson's private secretary—his intimate called him "Creepier"—announcing that at 3 o'clock precisely an old hat, lately the property of the chief clerk, would be kicked off from the end of the corridor and requesting the favor of Sir Robert's presence. When Big Ben struck 3, Sir Robert heard Creeper's cheery voice ring out, "All on side; play!" They all turned out and the game began. On emerging from an unusually hot scrimmage Sir Robert became conscious of the presence of a stranger at his side, a timid little Frenchman, who weekly inquired, "Is zis ze office for ze naturalization?" Sir Robert adds, "It was!"

Why He Cried.

The sympathetic neighbor asked: "Is your little brother ill this morning, Johnnie? I heard him crying in the most heartrending manner."

"No; not exactly," Johnnie explained, "but Willie pulled down a jug of molasses on himself in the pantry, and mother has been trying to comb his hair."—Exchange.

Livingstone.

Of Dr. Livingstone it was said by Stanley that the missionary lived for years among the most cruel and ignorant savages in the world, but he never fired a shot in anger, never "clubbed or clouted or banned or blasted." His manner was that of a "cool, wise old man who felt offended and looked grave."

Circumstances Reversed.

Unkempt Smith-Mister, would you kindly help a poor man as is all in, down and out? Jocular Citizen—Why, certainly. Just climb the fire escape on that skyscraper across the street and walk in on the top floor. Then you will be all out, up and in.—Judge's Library.

It's Good Point.

"But," asked the long-haired young man, "is there nothing at all about poetry that you like?"

"Yes," replied Crabbe. "Whenever I see a poem it makes me feel good to realize that there's no law to compel me to read it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

No grip is so hard to shake off as that of early convictions.—Maurice Thompson.

The Country Pastor.

A Western writer makes a number of good suggestions in regard to the needs of the country churches. He says "the farmers need the broad-minded, best educated and most magnetic of ministers. The country preacher is revered by his flock and so should be competent in the broadest sense to direct them. He should be broad beyond the narrow bounds of sect, and charitable enough to make allowance for anything. We are told that men of such qualifications will not bury themselves in the country, but the Christian church has too many living examples of brilliant manhood and womanhood, too, buried in the foreign mission fields."

The above is all true. There are strong pastors in the country—men who are revered for their high Christian character, for their ability and usefulness—but more are needed. The country needs workers who will exert the same persistent energy in church extension work as do the successful missionaries in foreign fields.

The country person who considers his duty done when he has preached one or two sermons on Sunday, led the mid-week prayer service, visited

Deacon Jones and Sister Brown, will never be successful in building up a fruitful rural church. In fact the low state of many churches is due to this kind of pastors.

Give the country talented Christian workers, who know the people and their needs. Let them go out of their own small membership and enlist the good will, the support and sympathy of the entire community, and on Sunday have something to say worth hearing, and there will be a rapid and lasting church expansion. There will no longer be talk of church consolidation and the closing of the smaller churches.—Rural Life.

Atwater—Phillips.

On Monday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Levi occurred the marriage of Miss Florence Phillips of this city, to Ward B. Atwater of King Ferry, N. Y.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. M. Todd in the presence of immediate friends of the bride. Miss Phillips is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Levi. Mr. and Mrs. Atwater were the recipients of many beautiful wedding presents. They left on the 11:54 train for King Ferry, where

Mr. Atwater is in business with his father.—Cheboygan, (Mich.) News.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved.

"I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors.

Then that matchless medicine,

Electric Bitters, cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong."

For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at Asking too Much.

The mother of little six-year-old Mary had told her a number of times not to hitch her sled to passing sleighs, fearing that it was a dangerous practice. It was such a fascinating sport, however, that Mary could not resist it, and one day her mother saw her go skimming past the house behind a farmer's "bob."

When she came in from play she was taken to task, her mother saying severely, "Mary, haven't I told you that you must not hitch onto bobs? Besides you know it is against the law."

Mary tossed her head. "Oh," she said, "don't talk to me about the law. It's all I can do to keep the Ten Commandments!"—Woman's Home Companion.

THE IDEAL VILLAGE.

Woman Describes a Town That Would Appeal to One's Fancy.

THE MARKET A BIG FEATURE.

It Should Be Built In Center of the Town and Should Carry a Supply of Good Substantial Foods—Schoolhouse and Clubhouse Necessary.

In a talk before the Civic club of Arlington, N. J., Mrs. Mary Pattison, president of the New Jersey Woman's Federated Clubs, pictured the ideal village in the following manner:

"Let us take an imaginary journey," she said, "to a slightly elevated spot somewhere and build an ideal village or town. Let there be a clean, wide sweep of greenwood shaded with trees and cut with winding roads, a few hills and a cool, picturesquely valley to one side, through which a clear, happy rivulet curls its way untainted with sewage and disease carrying insects and unspoiled by the dumps or refuse usually deposited along such banks. Let us see there instead grass, flowers and birds.

"On one of these hills near by we find a roomy schoolhouse, than which nothing better is known, where the children are being educated in the real things of life, in common sense and in industrial and organic matters, with no danger of forced mentality.

"Here we find usefulness with beauty of method. As a result horse or coarse play and disrespect are unknown. Individual and careful thinking are encouraged, and appreciation is developed, with charm of manner and the cultivation of the healthiest bodies.

"In the center of the town, near a few choice shops and offices, we find an airy and well built market where only the best and purest foods can be bought, not necessarily luxuries, but the substantial varieties that make blood and muscle strong and of good quality—a place where it is not sufficient to simply label the contents of packages, but where it is necessary to tell which beefsteak has had its juice extracted, what fish and fowl have been embalmed, what animals died in disease and what fruit has had its natural fermentation stopped by the use of preservatives.

"It is, in fact, a place to buy food where one is not in danger of one's life or, worse, one's health at every turn.

"Let us perhaps build two churches in our beautiful village, although that may be one too many, but let there be one opening the gate of heaven through the intellectual door or under the portal of the understanding where reason reigns and science proves. Then a little farther on let us find another, bringing God on earth through the aid of the emotions, with the heart as the knower and the senses trained to love. Let them both be beautiful, but let us go first to one and then the other till in the future they unite.

"Our community is made up of homes cheerful, normal, happy homes, individual in expression, co-operate in management and lovely in design, where the atmosphere is the gilding element, where nothing is held that gives more trouble than worth, where harmony, health and happiness leave not a crevice for hell to peek through.

"And now a little walk to the right, and opposite the park we are led to the village clubhouse, a fine pleasure edifice equipped for all ages. It is a place where play and gymnastics are supervised, a place for games of all sorts, with rooms for music, art, dancing, etc., and for that foolish frivolity without which society would lose its charms.

"May we keep our hand to the wheel and help to usher in the new village home if not in detail, at least in essence—a home where one might free the spirit by just living, where doctors and lawyers are the minimum in number and teachers are the maximum, a place where only health is known and where the whole air thrills with life."

Town Named Peculiar.

"Name it something peculiar," was the closing phrase in a letter we received from the postoffice department a score of years ago when half a dozen names had been suggested and were all turned down by the department for our little town in Cass county, Mo., said a leading grain and stock man of that place.

"Well, to make a long story short, we took the word 'peculiar' and sent it back to the postoffice department. They approved it, and 'Peculiar' we named it, and it has been known as that ever since.

"We have a good town and don't mind how many jokes people crack at our expense. The more they talk about us the faster we grow."

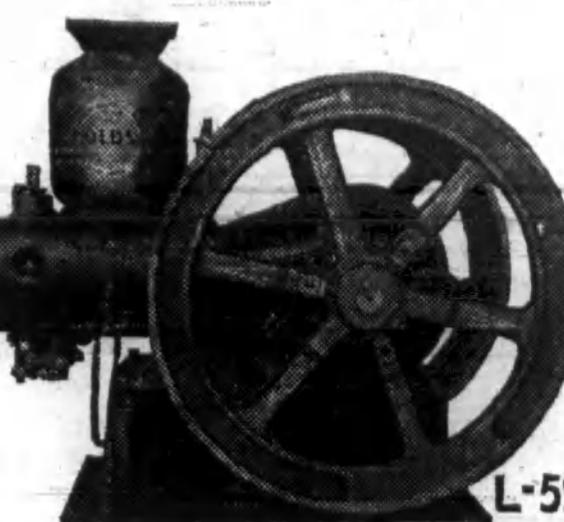

Be a Friend of Home.

When you want to buy an article of merchandise, buy it of a reputable home dealer that the profit may remain to enrich the community. Send your money abroad only for what you cannot purchase at home. Home element, home labor, home industry, home capital and home pleasures are things to be fostered, encouraged and patronized.

He Advertised at Last.

Here is a lesson in the advertising line from the Mail Order Journal: There was a man in our town who thought he was wondrous wise. He swore by all the fabled gods that he'd never advertise. But, alas, he advertised, and thereby hangs a tale. His ad. was set in nonpareil and headed "Sheriff's Sale."

Farmers' Week.

The second week in February 1910, from the 7th—12th, will be known throughout the State, as Farmers' Week. It is just what the name signifies—a week for everyone interested in Agriculture. It is a time when everyone can cease his labors and come to the College for a real good time, and besides the good time he may get something of practical value.

FARMERS' WEEK EVENTS

The week will be full of meetings, reunions, institutes, conferences, etc., a few of which are listed below.

Reunions of former students, winter course, especiale, and regular. Special arrangements for headquarters will be made. The first annual meeting of the Students Association of the N. Y. State College of Agriculture will be held at this time.

The Poultry Institute and Exhibit is now one of the regular features of the week. Both will be of an educational character, and discussions will be given each day.

The New York State Experimenters League will convene here during the week. Special reports will be given by men in the field. $100.00 in prizes are to be awarded.

The New York State Plant Breeders Association will hold its annual meeting during the week.

Instruction and Practical Work During the week discussions will be held on different phases of farm problems. This will be combined with practical work, such as judging animals, fruit and farm produce.

Evening Lectures and the Assembly. Each evening will be given over to persons prominent in public affairs, who will give illustrated lectures. On Friday evening six students will compete for the Eastman prize of $100.00 in public speaking.

THE POTATO SHOW.

Last year a Corn Congress was held during the entire week. It was the largest exhibit of corn ever held in the state. Everyone called it a record-breaker. The demand this year has been for a Potato Show.

Every farmer in the state is asked to send as many varieties of tubers as he raises. Five tubers will constitute a plate. Great care should be used in their selection. They should be uniform in every respect and representative of the variety. Do not attempt to pick out the largest, but have them of medium size, and such as meet your ideal of a good marketable potato.

Prizes will be awarded to single exhibitors, for the best single variety and the best collection of varieties. It is especially urged that Grangers and Clubs sent in exhibits consisting of as many varieties as can be procured. Label each single exhibit in the collection so it will compete for the single prize as well as help the Grange Club to win a banner.

Special Features. Judging demonstrations of steers, dairy cows, hogs, draft, driving and coach horses; a boys' and girls' Corn Congress, prizes being given; potato and alfalfa schools; drainage association and housekeeper's conference.

A Bureau of Information will be established where parcels may be checked, guides furnished, and questions answered.

Railroad Rates. A special effort is being made to secure rates from the railroads. Those interested should write for information.

Rooms and Board. There can be no doubt as to accommodations. Arrangements have already been made for all who may come.

Come and be one of that great body of farmers; meet people who live in the other end of the state; talk with them about practical subjects concerning their livelihood. For further information, address, Farmers' Week, College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Over Auburn Trust

We take pleasure in announcing that we have opened at 63 Genesee St. upstairs over the Auburn Trust Co. with a complete line of

Ladies' Suits, Cloaks, Skirts, Waists and Furs which we will sell at 50c on the Dollar

As we have purchased above stock at an extremely low figure at public auction, we are in position to sell garments at less than manufacturers' prices.

All our goods are guaranteed to give satisfaction and money refunded.

Mr. J. J. Shapero, formerly of Genoa Clothing Store will be pleased to see his friends at the Auburn Store.

Carfare refunded on purchases of $10 or over.
