From Nearby Towns.

Ensenore Heights.

APRIL 1—Mrs. Helen Botford is visiting in Moravia.

The funeral of Loren Grover, who died after a lingering illness, was held from his late home on Saturday. Rev. A. H. Wright officiated; burial was made in Sand Beach cemetery.

Ernest Turner and wife went to Auburn Sunday to meet their brother, Harold Turner, who just arrived from England.

Frederick Wyant entertained a party of fourteen young people at his home Saturday afternoon. March 23 A very enjoyable time was reported.

Miss Edith VanLiew goes to Moravia Tuesday to begin the spring term in millinery.

George VanLiew is on the sick list. A mistake in last week's items. It is Joseph Close, not Joseph Pease, who has moved into the Pickens house.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Pope, Wednesday, March 27, when their eldest daughter, Ethel, became the bride of Ivan A. Coulson. Precisely at 4 o'clock the happy couple preceded by Miss Mae Pope, sister of the bride, and Fay Coulson, brother of the groom, entered the parlor to the strains of the march from Tannhauser played by Mrs. Claude Wyant, where Rev. A. H. Wright spoke the words which made them one.

The bride was gowned in cream colored Crepe Egyptia with bead trimmings and the bride's maid in tan poplin. Both carried pink and white carnations. Pink and white was the color scheme of the house decorations. The bridal presents were many and beautiful, much silver and fine linen being in evidence. After congratulations and dinner Mr. and Mrs. Coulson left for Rochester. On their return they will reside in Niles, where they will be at home to their many friends after May 1.

Merrifield.

APRIL 1—Edward Orchard has returned from a few days' visit with relatives in Auburn.

Henry Elliott and wife of Auburn were Sunday guests of Alfred Berkenstock and family.

Gershon Nichols has been quite sick for a few days, but is a little better at present.

Mrs. J. A. Kilburn of Auburn visited at Allen Hoxie's last week. Mrs. Sarah Miller of Michigan was a guest at the same place.

John R. Eaker has returned from a week's visit in Unadilla and Binghamton.

The sleighload of young people, who came to this station from the wedding at Wm. Pope's last Wednesday evening, to give the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Coulson, a good send off on the Short Line, were badly left, as the couple by a clever strategy, eluded them and boarded the trolley at Sand Beach.

Lansingville.

APRIL 1—Naomi Casteline and Lucy Iaman are seriously ill with whooping cough.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Boles went to Auburn Thursday. Mrs. Boles remaining until Monday.

Mrs. Wm. Broese met with a serious accident one day last week. As she was ascending the stairs, she stepped in such a way as to break one of the bones in her foot. Dr. Willoughby of Genoa set the injured member.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith are moving into their home, which was occupied last year by Wm. Hamilton and his mother, who have moved this spring to Clayton Swayze's.

Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Buchanan have moved to their farm, which they recently purchased of A. D. Rose.

Mrs. Cyrenus Reynolds has returned to her home here after spending a few weeks with her sons in Syracuse. While there she sustained quite severe injuries by a fall down the stairs.

Quarterly conference will be held Saturday night at the church and quarterly meeting Sunday morning. District Superintendent O. E. Jewell, will be present.

Poplar Ridge.

APRIL 1—Miss Jane Searing of the Sargent School of Physical Training, Cambridge, Mass., returned to her duties Monday, after enjoying a ten days' vacation at her home.

Jerome Aldrich, wife and mother, Mrs. Lydia Meador, who have been in Auburn for the winter, have returned to their country home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baker entertained relatives last Wednesday, the occasion being that of their golden wedding. It was an informal gathering, the only friends present outside of the immediate family being Mr. and Mrs. William Manchester, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hazard and Mary A. Simpkin. The following children of the couple were present to help them celebrate the day: W. H. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Baker and son George of Rochester, Mrs. G. H. Owen and S. G. Baker of Cortland.

Miss Mary Husted spent a part of last week in Ithaca where she participated as bridesmaid at the Cross-Jacobs wedding.

A half hour's illness Thursday morning terminated the life of Mrs. Wm Spiller, for many years a resident of this vicinity. Funeral services were held at the Friends church Saturday afternoon, Rev. Robert Ivey officiating. The body was placed in the vault at King Ferry.

April first makes the following changes in our community: Alfred Simkin and family will move into the house vacated by Paul Ward; the latter will occupy Henry Wheeler's house just east of Ridge road; Mike Sullivan and Arthur Shiels are taking possession of the places recently purchased by them on the same street.

Mrs. Mattie Beardsley of Auburn has been a recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Cook.

Samuel Searing and wife leave the latter part of the week for a visit with relatives in western New York.

Miss Marion Manchester and Mrs. S. A. Haines were recent guests at George Husted's.

W. B. Wilmore has returned from a several days' visit to the Metropolis. Charles Hazard and wife gave an evening long to be remembered, to about seventy their friends, Thursday, the 28th. The dining room was most inviting with its pink and green decorations, the centerpiece of which was a lavish bouquet of American Beauty roses and ferns. Delicious viands were served by a caterer from Ithaca. The social hour was prolonged until nearly midnight when the guests departed, regretting that their host and hostess were so soon to change their residence, but wishing them much enjoyment in their future home on Lawton avenue, Auburn.

Mrs. Clara Beebe spent last week in Auburn.

Miss Pearl Sprague has been entertaining her cousins, the Misses Beulah and Gladys Judge, who with their parents are moving to the county seat.

Clarence Smith is temporarily engaged in Auburn.

North Lansing.

APRIL 2—A little daughter has come to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noble Keeney.

Fred Sharpsteen is spending some time among friends here.

New cases of whooping cough are developing.

Mrs. Sara Pierce has been quite sick the past week.

Buth Stanton has not been able to attend school for two weeks.

Mrs. Howard Beardsley and daughter, Camilla, with Mrs. Fred Wilcox, spent Sunday in Ithaca.

Mrs. Mary Small and Mrs. Kate DeCamp were in Moravia on Wednesday.

Miss Pearl Boyer of the Central attended the Jacobs—Cross wedding in Ithaca last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Singer were in Ithaca on Monday.

Mrs. Mary Small attends the convention in Ithaca this week as a delegate.

Quarterly meeting next Sunday; Rev. O. E. Jewell will preach.

Mr. and Mrs. George Boyer visited their daughter, Mrs. D. A. Doyle, Thursday and Friday. Asa Coon and wife were Sunday guests at the same place.

West Venice.

APRIL 1—E. P. Barnes is moving to the Lorenzo Mason farm, which he is to work this year.

Mrs. J. J. Otis, who has been sick for some time with pneumonia and heart trouble, is reported some better.

Mrs. Mattie Beardsley of Auburn is spending a couple of weeks with her parents, Elisha Cook and wife.

Mrs. Genevieve Cook visited her brother, Lyman Lyon, and family at the old homestead near Aurora a few days last week.

Mrs. Wm Spiller died very suddenly Thursday forenoon. She was getting her things in shape to have an auction that afternoon, expecting to live with her sister, Mrs. Dexter Wheeler.

Miss Clara Cook, one of the contestants in the piano contest, while looking up votes, met Geo. Arnold of Delavan, Wis., and they soon found out that each had taught the same school at Tupper's Corners—Miss Cook last year and Mr. Arnold in 1847. Of all the 'old pupils' he inquired after, Lorenzo Mason is the only one living that she knew anything about. Mr. Arnold said one of his pupils lived in Wisconsin. Among those he mentioned were Lot Husted, Charles Tupper, Henry Purdy, Nelson Mason and Mrs. W. P. Purdy. The writer of this met Mr. Arnold two years ago and in speaking of different ones he remarked that Wallace Murdock was a nice little boy, (meaning Captain M. W. Murdock of Venice Center). Mr. Arnold does not seem nearly as old as he is, as he is quite spry. It is wonderful to think of the many changes since he was a boy; almost all the inventions of any account have been gotten up during his life time.

Sherwood.

APRIL 1—M. L. Georgia and family leave next week for Earlville, where they expect to make a home.

Miss Alpha Clark of Ensenore was a guest last Sunday of her aunt, Mrs. Maude Fordyce.

P. Donovan and family have moved from the A. G. Searing place to a farm near Merrifield. James Kibler, formerly of Syracuse, has hired out to Mr. Searing and has moved into the farmhouse vacated by Donovan.

Harry Brewster and wife of Poplar Ridge, and Earle Brewster, wife and son were Sunday guests at George Brewster's.

Mrs. Fred Slocum and daughter were week end guests at Franklin Allen's in Union Springs.

Elizabeth Finn of Bolts Corner spent Saturday and Sunday at her uncle's, John Cannon.

Chester Allen has returned from Montgomery county, where he has been visiting relatives for the past few weeks.

Miss Jessie Hoxie will spend Easter with friends in Washington, D. C. Michael J. Fanning, the noted Irish orator of Philadelphia, Pa., will give a lecture in Association hall, Tuesday evening, April 16, on the subject of temperance. Mr. Fanning is a veteran leader. "In his youth he was led to consecrate his life to the warfare against the liquor traffic. For more than one-third of a century he has traveled about our country and Canada in pursuance of his life's work, probably making more speeches against the saloon during these years than any other living person. He stands to-day with few equals, and certainly no superiors, on the temperance platform." Frances E. Willard said of him: "A man of exceptional power on the platform."

Another says: "His Irish wit, his platform experience and his honesty of purpose make him one of the most effective speakers in the field."

An Eye to Business.

"I want to marry you," said the rising young author bluntly. "Why?" coyly asked the great heiress, preparing to listen to his impassioned confession. "Well," he replied, "it would be a great advertisement for me."

Human foresight often leaves its proudest possessor only a choice of evils.—Colton.

Asphalt.

Asphalt was originally called Jew's pitch because of its abundance in the Lake Asphaltites or Dead sea of Judea.

Venice.

MARCH 30—John Streeter and wife visited relatives in Palmyra recently. Ross Armstrong returned from Cortland with his hay press Tuesday.

R. H. Thorpe, wife and son, R. Lyle, visited Ledyard relatives last Sunday.

Rachel Armstrong is in Moravia this week.

Wm. Penn Purdy, Jr., entertains the Young People's Club on Saturday night. All members of the club are cordially invited to be present.

The Ladies' Aid will meet with Mrs. J. P. Northway on Thursday, April 4. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

APRIL 1—The Ladies' Aid of the Venice Baptist church has secured the services of the Venice Center Dramatic club and they will present their play, "Uncle Josiah," in the Venice Baptist church on Friday evening, April 12. Admission 25 and 10 cents.

Ross Armstrong was in Cortland over Sunday.

Mrs. R. H. Thorpe was in Auburn yesterday.

Ross Armstrong has rented James Farrell's tenant house and taken possession of same.

Henry Purdy and U. D. Divine were in Auburn Monday.

George Green has been on the sick list.

Ida Wallace is visiting her grandparents in this place for a few days.

Robt. Jones and wife expect to move to Moravia in the near future.

Ludlowville.

APRIL 1—The donation for Dr. Evans last Friday night was not very well attended on account of bad roads. About $21 was received.

Mrs. Edna Morgan, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Fred Bailey, has returned to her home in Warren, Pa.

Mrs. Emma June and son have moved into the house with Mrs. Arvilla Love and M. E. Sperry and wife, have moved in the house vacated by Mrs. June.

Harry Exton and son, Harry Jr., of West Groton and P. H. Underwood, of Cornell were Sunday guests of Mrs. I. A. Underwood.

There was no preaching service in the Presbyterian church yesterday as the pastor, Dr. Evans, was called back to his old home in Atlanta, N. Y., to preach a funeral sermon.

Miss Julia Krotts of Dryden was a recent guest of her mother, Mrs. Harriet Krotts.

The Benjamin homestead was not sold last Saturday and the sale has been indefinitely postponed until the lawyer can look up the water rights.

Ray Grannis of Myers was recently called to Brockport by the illness of his father.

Seymour Biggs of Lansing, Mich., is spending a few days with Charles Howell.

Next Sunday evening Easter will be observed in the Presbyterian church. There will be special singing assisted by the Wright orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sperry entertained Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Swift and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drake last Thursday.

The Boy Scouts were entertained at the Methodist parsonage last Wednesday evening. Supper was furnished by the Lend-A-Hand.

Herbert Bachelor has moved into part of LeRoy Beckwith's house and will work the Beckwith farm the coming year.

There has been a week's vacation in the Union school. Prof. Maloney went to his home in Baldwinville; Miss Stedman to her home in Cortland; Miss Hough visited relatives in Dryden and Miss Krotts visited friends in this vicinity and Auburn.

The high water of last Friday did considerable damage to the roads here, which has kept Commissioner Buck quite busy.

Several from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. David Lowe of West Groton last Friday.

There is going to be quite a little moving this spring. Hugh Grant is moving into the Moe house, Mrs. J. C. VanAukon in the Bacon house, and Wm. Minturn in Chas. Campbell's house.

Five Corners.

APRIL 2—News is very scarce this week. The traveling is in such a terrible condition that the ladies can not get out very much. See!

Miss Florence Todd of Oakwood seminary is spending the Easter vacation with her parents.

Miss Effie LaBar is quite ill at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Lyon.

Mrs. Cornelia Corwin received a postcard shower last week from her many friends, for which she extends many thanks.

Mrs. George Jump was at Locke last week helping to care for her sister, Mrs. John Snover, who has been ill some time. We learn while writing that she passed away Sunday.

How much a good physician is needed here. We sincerely hope that a good one may come and locate some day.

Mr. and Mrs. Mulvaney of Moravia visited at the home of her brother, James O'Daniels, and family and were callers at C. G. Berger's.

Miss Cora Goodyear spent last week Thursday in Ithaca.

A dancing school is in progress here. The teacher is a gentleman from Moravia. Some practiced the two step on the icy sidewalk. They did well to keep on their feet.

H. E. LaBarre has gone to spend the summer with Orin Miller and family in Groton.

Allie Palmer and family have moved from the Morrison place and are now near the lake in James Young's tenant house, where he will work this season. Leroy King is assisting him.

Daniel DeRemer expects to go to Locke this summer to spend the summer.

K. B. Ferris and Harry Ferris made a business trip to Auburn last week Tuesday.

Mrs. Mary Beardsley is expected soon to come back and reside in her home here for the summer. Her many friends will be pleased to see her.

The Ladies' Aid society which was to meet with Mrs. Oscar Hunt last Friday, was postponed indefinitely. The day was so rainy no one could get out. There were so many nice days and good sleighing during the winter it is regretted that more dinners were not served which would help the society, as it is for a good cause and all are interested.

Miss Iva Barger of Ludlowville was a guest of her grandparents here last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Corwin are the happy parents of a little daughter, born Thursday, March 28, who has been named Luella. Miss Lizzie Wager is caring for mother and daughter.

Frank Young and wife and Fred Young, wife and son made a business trip to Ithaca Tuesday.

Earl Smith had the misfortune to lose one of his fine work horses Tuesday.

S. S. Goodyear and wife were in Ithaca Tuesday, Mrs. Goodyear remaining until last night.

Ensenore Heights.

APRIL 1—Mrs. Helen Botsford is visiting in Moravia.

The funeral of Loren Grover, who died after a lingering illness, was held from his late home on Saturday. Rev. A. H. Wright officiated; burial was made in Sand Beach cemetery.

Ernest Turner and wife went to Auburn Sunday to meet their brother, Harold Turner, who just arrived from England.

Frederick Wyant entertained a party of fourteen young people at his home Saturday afternoon. March 23 A very enjoyable time was reported.

Miss Edith VanLiew goes to Moravia Tuesday to begin the spring term in millinery.

George VanLiew is on the sick list. A mistake in last week's items. It is Joseph Close, not Joseph Pease, who has moved into the Pickens house.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Pope, Wednesday, March 27, when their eldest daughter, Ethel, became the bride of Ivan A. Coulson. Precisely at 4 o'clock the happy couple preceded by Miss Mae Pope, sister of the bride, and Fay Coulson, brother of the groom, entered the parlor to the strains of the march from Tannhauser played by Mrs. Claude Wyant, where Rev. A. H. Wright spoke the words which made them one. The bride was gowned in cream colored Crepe Egyptia with bead trimmings and the bride's maid in tan poplin. Both carried pink and white carnations. Pink and white was the color scheme of the house decorations. The bridal presents were many and beautiful, much silver and fine linen being in evidence. After congratulations and dinner Mr. and Mrs. Coulson left for Rochester. On their return they will reside in Niles, where they will be at home to their many friends after May 1.

Mrs. Cyrenus Reynolds has returned to her home here after spending a few weeks with her sons in Syracuse. While there she sustained quite severe injuries by a fall down the stairs.

Quarterly conference will be held Saturday night at the church and quarterly meeting Sunday morning. District Superintendent C. E. Jewell, will be present.

Poplar Ridge.

APRIL 1—Miss Jane Searing of the Sargent School of Physical Training, Cambridge, Mass., returned to her duties Monday, after enjoying a ten days' vacation at her home.

Jerome Aldrich, wife and mother, Mrs. Lydia Meader, who have been in Auburn for the winter, have returned to their country home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baker entertained relatives last Wednesday, the occasion being that of their golden wedding. It was an informal gathering, the only friends present outside of the immediate family being Mr. and Mrs. William Manchester, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hazard and Mary A. Simpkin. The following children of the couple were present to help them celebrate the day: W. H. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Baker and son George of Rochester, Mrs. G. H. Owen and S. G. Baker of Cortland.

Miss Mary Husted spent a part of last week in Ithaca where she participated as bridesmaid at the Cross—Jacobs wedding.

A half hour's illness Thursday morning terminated the life of Mrs. Wm Spiller, for many years a resident of this vicinity. Funeral services were held at the Friends church Saturday afternoon, Rev. Robert Ivey officiating. The body was placed in the vault at King Ferry.

April first makes the following changes in our community: Alfred Simkin and family will move into the house vacated by Paul Ward; the latter will occupy Henry Wheeler's house just east of Ridge road; Mike Sullivan and Arthur Shields are taking possession of the place recently purchased by them on the same street.

Mrs. Mattie Beardsley of Auburn has been a recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Cook.

Samuel Searing and wife leave the latter part of the week for a visit with relatives in western New York.

Miss Marion Manchester and Mrs. S. A. Haines were recent guests at George Husted's.

W. B. Wilmore has returned from a several days' visit to the Metropolis.

Charles Hazard and wife gave an evening long to be remembered, to about seventy of their friends, Thursday, the 28th. The dining room was most inviting with its pink and green decorations, the centerpiece of which was a lavish bouquet of American Beauty roses and ferns. Delicious viands were served by a caterer from Ithaca. The social hour was prolonged until nearly midnight when the guests departed, regretting that their host and hostess were so soon to change their residence, but wishing them much enjoyment in their future home on Lawton avenue, Auburn.

Mrs. Clara Beebe spent last week in Auburn.

Miss Pearl Sprague has been entertaining her cousins, the Misses Beulah and Gladys Judge, who with their parents are moving to the county seat.

Mrs. Mattie Beardsley of Auburn is spending a couple of weeks with her parents, Elisha Cook and wife.

Mrs. Genevieve Cook visited her brother, Lyman Lyon, and family at the old homestead near Aurora a few days last week.

Mrs. Wm Spiller died very suddenly Thursday forenoon. She was getting her things in shape to have an auction that afternoon, expecting to live with her sister, Mrs. Dexter Wheeler.

Miss Clara Cook, one of the contestants in the piano contest, while looking up votes, met Geo. Arnold of Delavan, Wis., and they soon found out that each had taught the same school at Tupper's Corners—Miss Cook last year and Mr. Arnold in 1847. Of all the old pupils he inquired after, Lorenzo Mason is the only one living that she knew anything about. Mr. Arnold said one of his pupils lived in Wisconsin.

Among those he mentioned were Lot Husted, Charles Tupper, Henry Purdy, Nelson Mason and Mrs. W. P. Purdy. The writer of this met Mr. Arnold two years ago and in speaking of different ones he remarked that Willie Murdock was a nice little boy, (meaning Captain M. W. Murdock of Venice Center) Mr. Arnold does not seem nearly as old as he is, as he is quite spry. It is wonderful to think of the many changes since he was a boy; almost all the inventions of any account have been gotten up during his life time.

Sherwood.

APRIL 1—M. L. Georgia and family leave next week for Earlville, where they expect to make a home.

Miss Alpha Clark of Ensenore was a guest last Sunday of her aunt, Mrs. Maude Fordyce.

Miss Jessie Hoxie will spend Easter with friends in Washington, D. C.

Michael J. Fanning, the noted Irish orator of Philadelphia, Pa., will give a lecture in Association hall, Tuesday evening, April 16, on the subject of temperance. Mr. Fanning is a veteran leader. "In his youth he was led to consecrate his life to the warfare against the liquor traffic. For more than one-third of a century he has traveled about our country and Canada in pursuance of his life's work, probably making more speeches against the saloon during those years than any other living person. He stands to-day with few equals, and certainly no superiors, on the temperance platform." Frances E. Willard said of him: "A man of exceptional power on the platform."

Another says: "His Irish wit, his platform experience and his honesty of purpose make him one of the most effective speakers in the field."

An Eye to Business. "I want to marry you," said the rising young author bluntly.

"Why?" coyly asked the great heiress, preparing to listen to his impassioned confession.

"Well," he replied, "it would be a great advertisement for me."

FRECKLES

Freckles reached up and turned the angel's face until he compelled her eyes to meet his.

"Angel," said Freckles at last, catching her wrist, "are you trying to tell me that there is somebody hunting a boy that you're thinking might be me? Are you belavin' you've found me relations?"

Then the angel's eyes came home. The time had come. She pinched Freckles' arms to his sides and bent above him.

"How strong are you, dear heart?" she breathed. "How brave are you? Can you bear it? Dare I tell you that?"

"No," gasped Freckles. "Not if you're sure! I can't bear it! I'll die if you do!"

The day had been one unremitting strain with the angel! Nerve tension was drawn to the finest thread. It snapped suddenly.

"Die?" she flamed. "Die, if I tell you that! You said this morning that you would die if you didn't know your name, and if your people were honorable. Now I've gone and found you a name that stands for ages of honor, a mother that loved you enough to go into the fire and die for you, and the nicest kind of relatives, and you turn round and say you'll die over that! You just try dying and you'll get a good slap!"

The angel stood glaring at him. One second Freckles lay paralyzed and dumb with astonishment. The next the Irish in his soul rose above everything. A roar of laughter burst from him.

The terrified angel caught him in her arms and tried to stifle the sound. She implored and commanded. The tears rolled from Freckles' eyes and he wheezed on. When he was too worn out to utter another sound, his eyes laughed silently.

When he was quiet and rested the angel commenced talking to him softly. "Dear Freckles," she was saying, "across your knees there is the face of the mother that went into the fire for you, and I know the name—old and full of honor—to which you were born. Dear heart, which will you have first?"

"Me mother!" She lifted the lovely pictured face and set it in the nook of his arm. Freckles caught her hand and drew her down beside him, and together they gazed at the picture.

"Me mother! Oh, me mother! Can you ever be forgiving me? Oh, me beautiful little mother!" chanted Freckles over and over in exalted wonder.

"Wait!" cried the angel to the mute question she could no more answer than he could ask. "Wait, I will write it!"

She hurried to the table, caught up the nurse's pencil and on the back of

"Me mother! Oh, me mother!"

"Wait!" cried the angel to the mute question she could no more answer than he could ask. "Wait, I will write it!"

She hurried to the table, caught up the nurse's pencil and on the back of

"Me mother! Oh, me mother!"

"Now you are all right, dear Limerlost guard," she said. "You go to sleep and don't think of a thing but just pure joy, joy, joy! I'll keep your people until you wake up."

Freckles caught her skirt as she turned from him.

"I'll go to sleep in five minutes," he said, "if you will be doing just one thing more for me. Send for your father. Oh, angel, send for him quick!"

One instant the angel stood looking down on him. The next a crimson wave darkly stained her lovely face. Her chin began a spasmodic quivering and tears sprang into her eyes. Her hands caught at her chest as if she were stifling. Freckles' grasp on her tightened until he drew her up to and then down beside him. He slipped his arm about her and drew her face to his pillow.

"Don't angel; for the love of mercy don't be doing that," he implored. "I can't be bearing it. Tell me. You must tell me."

The angel shook her head.

"That ain't fair, angel," said Freckles. "You made me tell you when it was like tearing the heart raw from me breast. And you was for making everything heaven—just heaven and nothing else for me. If I'm so much more now than I was an hour ago, maybe I can be thinking of some way to fix things. You will be telling me?" he coaxed softly, moving his cheek against her hair.

The angel's head moved in negation. Freckles did a moment of intent thinking.

"Maybe I can be guessing," he whispered. "Will you be giving me three chances?"

There was just the faintest possible assent.

"You didn't want me to be knowing me name," guessed Freckles.

The angel's head sprang from the pillow and her tear stained face flamed with outraged indignation.

"Why, I did, too!" she burst out angrily.

"One gone," said Freckles calmly. "You didn't want me to have relatives, a home, and money."

"I did!" screamed the angel. "Didn't I go myself, all alone, into the city, and find them when I was afraid as death? I did too!"

"Two gone," said Freckles. "You didn't want the beautifullest girl in the world to be telling me—"

Down went the angel's face, and a heavy sob shook her. Freckles' clasp tightened about her shoulders, and his face, in its conflicting emotions, was a study. Despite all it meant to him to know at last his name and that he was of honorable birth—knowledge without which life was an eternal disgrace and burden—the one thing that was hammering in Freckles' heart and beating in his brain past any attempted expression was the fact that, while he might really have been nameless, the angel had told him that she loved him. He could find no word with which to begin to voice the rapture of his heart over that. But if she regretted it, if it had been a thing done out of her pity for his condition or her feeling of responsibility, if it killed him after all, there was only one thing left to do.

"Angel," whispered Freckles with his lips against her hair, "you haven't learned your history book very well, or you've forgotten."

"Forgotten what?" sobbed the angel.

"Forgotten about the real knight, ladybird," breathed Freckles softly. "Don't you know that if anything happened that made his lady sorry a real knight just simply couldn't be remembering it? Angel, darling little Swamp Angel, you be listening to me. There was one night on the trail, one solemn, grand, white night that there wasn't ever any other like before or since, when the dear boss put his arm about me and told me that he loved me, but if you care, angel, if you don't want it that way, why, I ain't remembering that anybody else ever did—not in me whole life."

The angel lifted her head and looked into the depths of Freckles' honest gray eyes, and they met hers unwaveringly, but the pain in them was pitiful.

"Do you mean," she demanded, "that you don't remember that a brazen, forward girl told you, when you hadn't asked her, that she—the angel eboked on it a second, but she gave a gulp and brought it out bravely—that she loved you?"

"No!" thundered Freckles. "No! I don't remember anything of the kind."

But all the song birds of his soul burst into melody over that one little clause, "When you hadn't asked her."

"But you will," said the angel. "You may live to be an old, old man, and then you will."

"I will not!" cried Freckles. "How can you think it, angel?"

"You won't even look as if you remember!"

"I will not!" persisted Freckles. "I'd rather give it all up now and go out into eternity alone, without ever seeing a soul of me same blood or me home or hearing another man call me by the name I was born to than to remember anything that would be hurting you, angel."

CHAPTER XXIV.
KINGS AND A FEATHER.

THE angel's tear stained face flashed into dazzling beauty.

"Oh, Freckles, forgive me!" she cried. "I've been through so much that I'm scarcely myself or I wouldn't be here bothering you when you should be sleeping. Of course you couldn't. You're too good a knight to remember a thing like that. Of course you are! And when you don't remember, why, then it's the same as if it never happened. Oh, Freckles, I'm so glad! I'm so happy! It's dear or you to not remember, Freckles; perfectly dear! It's no wonder I love you so. The wonder would be if I did not. I should like to know how I'm ever going to make you understand how much I love you!"

"Pillow and all, she caught him to her breast, and then she was gone. Freckles lay dazed with astonishment. At last his battling eyes rolled about the room, searching for something approaching the human to which he could appeal, and, falling on his mother's portrait, he set it up before him.

"For the love of life! Me little mother," he panted, "did you hear that? Did you hear it? Tell me, am I living or am I dead and all heaven come true this minute? Did you hear it? You are only a pictured face, and of course you can't talk, but the soul of you must be somewhere, and surely in this hour you are near enough to be hearing. Tell me, did you hear that? I can't ever be telling a living soul; but, darling little mother, that gave your life for mine, I can always be talking of it to you! Every day we'll talk it over and try to understand the miracle of it. Tell me, are all women like that? Were you like me Swamp Angel? If you were then I'm understanding why me father followed across the ocean and went into the fire after you."

Freckles' voice trailed off, his eyes dropped shut, and his head rolled back from sheer exhaustion. Later in the day he insisted on seeing Lord and Lady O'More, but he fainted before the look of his own face on that of another man.

The next morning the man of affairs, with a heart filled with misgivings, undertook the interview on which Freckles insisted. His fears were without cause. Freckles was the soul of honor and simplicity.

"Have they been telling you what's come to me?" he asked without even waiting for a greeting.

"Yes," said the angel's father.

"Do you think you have the very worst of it clear to your understanding?"

Under Freckles' earnest eyes the man of affairs answered soberly, "I think I have, Mr. O'More."

That was the first time Freckles heard his name from the lips of another man. One second he lay overcome, the next great tears filled his eyes, and he reached out his hand. Then the angel's father understood, and he clasped that hand and held it in a strong, firm grasp.

"Terence, my boy," he said, "let me do the talking. I came in here with the understanding that you wanted to ask me for my only child. I should like, at the proper time, to regard her marriage, if she has found the man she desires to marry, not as losing all I have, but as gaining a man I can depend on to love as a son and to take charge of my affairs for her when I retire from business. Bend all your energies toward rapid recovery, and from this hour understand that my daughter and my home are yours."

"You're not forgetting this?"

Freckles lifted his right arm.

"Terence, I'm sorer than I have words to express about that," said the man of affairs. "But if it's up to me to choose whether I give all I have left in this world to a man with a hand off his body or to one of these gambling, tipping, immoral spend-thrifts of today, with both hands and feet off their souls and a rotten spot in the core, I choose you, and it seems that my daughter does the same. Put what is left of that right arm to the best uses you can in this world, and never again mention or feel that it is defective as long as you live. Good day, sir!"

"One minute more," said Freckles. "Yesterday the angel was telling me that there was money coming to me from two sources. She said that me grandmother had left me father all of her fortune and her house because she knew that his father would be cutting him off, and that me uncle had also set aside for me what would be me father's interest in his father's estate."

"Whatever the sum is that me grandmother left me father, because she loved him and wanted him to be having it, that I'll be taking. 'Twas hers from her father, and she had the right to be giving it as she chose. Anything from the man that knowingly left me father and me mother to go cold and hungry and into the fire in misery when just a little would have made life so beautiful to them and saved me this crippled body—money that he willed from me when he knew I was living, of his blood and on charity among strangers, I don't touch, not if I freeze, starve and burn too! If there ain't enough besides that and I can't be earning enough to fix things for the angel!"

"We are not discussing money!" burst in the man of affairs. "We have all we need without it. If you don't feel right and easy over it, don't you touch a cent of any of it."

"It's right I should have what me grandmother intended for me father, and I want it," said Freckles, "but I'd die before I'd touch a cent of me grandfather's money!"

"Now," said the angel, "we are all going home. We have done all we can for Freckles. His people are here. He needs to know them. They are very anxious to get acquainted with him. We'll turn him over to them and go home. When he is well, why, then he will be perfectly free to go to Ireland or come to the Limerlost, just as he chooses. We will go right away."

McLean bore it for a week, and then he could stand it no longer. Communing with himself in the long, soundful nights of the swamp, he had learned to his astonishment that for the last year his heart had been circling the Limerlost with Freckles.

He started for Chicago, loaded with a big box of goldenrod, asters, fringed gentians and crimson leaves that the angel had carefully gathered for Freckles' room, and a little, long slender package. He would not admit it even to himself, but he was unable to remain longer away from Freckles and leave him to the care of Lord O'More.

In a few minutes' talk, while McLean waited admission to Freckles' room, his lordship had genially chatted of Freckles' rapid recovery, of his delight that he was unspotted by his early surroundings and his desire to visit the Limerlost with Freckles before they sailed. He said they were anxious to do all they could to help bind Freckles' arrangements with the angel, as both he and Lady O'More regarded her as the most promising girl they knew and one that could be fully fitted to fill the high position in which Freckles would place her.

Every word he uttered was pungent with bitterness to McLean. The swamp had lost its flavor without Freckles, and yet as Lord O'More talked McLean fervently wished that he was in the heart of it.

All the tan and sunburn had been washed from Freckles' face in sweats of agony. It was a smooth, even white, its brown rift showing but faintly. What the nurses and Lady O'More had done to Freckles' hair McLean could not guess, but it was the most beautiful that he had ever seen. Fine as floss, bright in color, waving and crisp, it fell about the white face.

They had got his arms into and his chest covered with a finely embroidered pale blue silk shirt, with soft white tie at the throat. Among the many changes that had taken place during his absence, the fact that Freckles was most attractive and barely escaped being handsome remained almost unnoticed by the boss, so great was his astonishment at seeing both cuffs turned back and the right arm in view. Freckles was using the maimed arm that heretofore he had always hidden.

"Oh, Lord, sir, but I'm glad to see you!" burst out Freckles, almost rolling from the bed as he reached for him. "I'm picking the angel's ring stone that me Aunt Alice ordered. It's an emerald—just me color, Lord O'More says. Every color of the old swamp is in it. I asked angel to have a little shamrock leaf cut on it, so every time I saw it I'd be thinking of the love, truth, and valor of that song she was teaching me. Ain't that a beautiful song?"

Freckles flitted about a tray of unset stones that would have ransomed several valuable kings.

"I tell you I'm glad to see you, sir," he said. "I tried to tell me uncle what I wanted, but this ain't for him to be mixed up in, anyway, and I don't think I made it clear to him. I can be telling you, sir. I told him that I would pay only $500 for the angel's stone. I'm thinking that with what he has laid up for me, and the bigness of things that the angel did for me, that seems like a stingy little sum to him. I know he thinks I ought to be giving a lot more, but I feel as if I just had to be buying that stone with money I earned meself, and that is all I have saved of me wages. I don't mind paying for the muff, or the dressing table, or Mrs. Duncan's things, from this other money, and later the angel can have every last cent of me grandmother's, if she'll take it, but just now—oh, sir, can't you see that I have to be buying this stone with what I have in the bank?"

"In other words, Freckles," said the boss, "you don't want to buy the angel's ring with money. You want to give for it your first awful fear of the swamp. You want to pay for it with the loneliness and heart hunger you have suffered there, with last winter's freezing on the line and this summer's burning in the sun. You want the price of that stone to be the fears that have chilled your heart—the sweat and blood of your body."

Freckles' face quivered with feeling. "Dear Mr. McLean," he said, reaching up with a caress over the boss' black hair and along his cheek. "Dear boss, that's why I've wanted you so. I knew you would know. Now you will be looking at these? I don't want emeralds, because that's what she gave me."

Freckles heaped the pearls with the emeralds. He studied the diamonds a long time. The diamonds joined the emeralds and pearls. There was left a little red heap, and Freckles' fingers touched it with a new tenderness.

"I'm thinking here's me angel's stone," he exulted. "The Limerlost, and me with it, grew in mine, but it's going to bloom, and her with it, in this! There's the red of the wild poppies, the cardinal flowers and the little bunch of crushed foxfire that we found where she put it to save me. There's the light of the camp fire and the sun setting over Sleepy Snake creek. There's the red of the blood we were willing to give for each other. It's like her lips and like the drops that dried on her beautiful arm that first day, and I'm thinking it must be like the brave, tender, clean, red heart of her."

Freckles lifted the ruby to his lips and handed it to McLean.

"Freckles, may I ask you something?" he said.

"Why, sure," said Freckles. "There's nothing you would be asking that it wouldn't be giving me joy to be telling you."

McLean's eyes traveled to Freckles' right arm, with which he was pushing

"ME MOTHER! OH, ME MOTHER!"

a prescription tablet wrote, "Terence Maxwell O'More, Dunderry House, County Clare, Ireland."

Before she had finished came Freckles' voice, "Angel, are you hurrying?"

"Yes," said the angel, "I am. But there is a good deal of it. I have to get in your house and country, so that you will feel located."

"Me house?" marveled Freckles.

"Of course," said the angel. "Your uncle says your grandmother left your father her dower house and estate, because she knew his father would cut him off. You get that, and all your share of your grandfather's property besides. It is all set off for you and waiting. Lord O'More told me so. I suspect you are richer than McLean. Freckles."

She closed his fingers over the slip and straightened his hair.

SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS IN

PRIZES

TO BE DISTRIBUTED BY

THE GENOA TRIBUNE

IN ITS GREAT

PRIZE : VOTING : CONTEST

The Capital Prize which will be given by
THE GENOA TRIBUNE
is to be an Elegant $400 Obermeyer & Sons Piano like cut shown here.

Most of the merchants of Genoa have contributed Valuable Prizes and will give "TRIBUNE" Prize Vote Coupons with $1.00 Cash Purchases.

Rules and Regulations Governing Contest are as Follows:

1. Announcement.—This Piano and Popular Ladies' Voting Contest will be conducted fairly and honestly on business principles strictly, with justice and fairness to all concerned. With the above principles it will be an assured success.
2. Prizes.—The capital prize will be an Obermeyer & Sons Piano. Also other valuable prizes to the amount of many dollars which are announced herewith.
3. Candidates.—Young ladies in this and adjoining towns are eligible to enter this contest and the party receiving the largest number of votes shall receive the beautiful $400 Obermeyer & Sons Piano and other premiums will be distributed in accordance with the contestants' standing at the final count.
4. Tie in Votes.—Should any of the contestants tie in votes, The Publishers' Music Company will award a similar prize according to standings at the final count.
5. Votes Classed.—Votes will be issued in the following denominations:

New Subscriptions, 600 votes.....	$1.00
Renewals, 500 votes.....	1.00
Renewals, more than one year, 600 votes.....	1.00
Back Subscriptions, 400 votes.....	1.00
5 years new subscriptions, 5,000 votes.....	5.00
10 years new subscriptions, 12,500 votes.....	10.00
20 years new subscriptions, 30,000 votes.....	20.00

6. Instructions.—Results as to standing of votes will be issued after 30 days. No votes accepted at less than regular price of paper concerned in this contest. No one connected with this paper will be allowed to become a candidate in this contest or work for contestants.

Votes after being voted cannot be transferred to another. Be sure you know whom you are going to vote for before coming to the ballot box, as the editor or anyone will positively not give you any information on the subject. The keys to the government ballot box shall be in possession of the awarding committee during the contest.

For the first thirty days the paper will run a 25-vote coupon which can be voted free for any lady contestant.

Contest to run not less than 90 days. Closing of contest will be announced 25 days in advance of closing. The right to postpone date of closing is reserved if sufficient cause should occur.

The contest shall close on a day which will be announced later. 10 days prior to closing contest, the judges will carefully lock or seal ballot box and take same to a bank, where the same will be in a place where voting can be done during business hours and locked in a vault at night until close of contest, when the judges will take charge and count same and announce the young ladies winning in their turn.

The last ten days all voting must be done in a sealed box at the bank. If you do not wish anyone to know whom you are voting for, place your cash for subscription together with your coupons in a sealed envelope which will be furnished you and put same in ballot box. This will give every one a fair and square deal.

Miss Cook Winner of First Cash Prize-- Mrs. Sellen Second.

Time getting short--Hustlers must put in best work from now on

The second count in THE TRIBUNE'S Voting Contest was held Thursday afternoon, March 28, but too late to get the report in last week's issue. The count showed that Miss Clara Cook had won the first cash prize of ten dollars in gold, and Mrs. Lewis Sellen the second cash prize of $5.

The following shows the result of the total vote up to the present time for each contestant:

	1st. Count	2nd Count	Total
Clara Cook.....	87,000	108,800	170,800
Florence Norman.....	95,125	32,025	127,150
Mrs. Lewis Sellen.....	45,850	57,300	103,150
Lillian Warren.....	37,200	8,925	46,125
Mrs. Titus VanMarte.....	23,800	6,900	30,200
Mrs. Jay E. Smith.....	100	28,925	29,025
Ethel Bowler.....	6,700	10,800	17,500
Mrs. Leslie Underwood.....	6,525	8,500	15,025
Mrs. Ray E. Smith.....			2,100
Agnes Kelley.....	125
Mrs. Howard Bush.....	50
Hazel Brogan.....	50
Lida Nolan.....	25
Lora Armistead.....	25

You cannot tell, however, how many votes a candidate really has by the score that is published, for the reason that several of the contestants are voting but a portion of their strength, thus keeping their real standing covered up from their opponents.

There is absolutely no truth in the statement that this is the closed season for hunting subscriptions to THE GENOA TRIBUNE. The law, (made by the TRIBUNE) permits live, active, aggressive contestants to hunt subscriptions until the close of the contest and there is a bounty on them too. Some happy young lady is going away from the TRIBUNE office in a few weeks wearing the smile that won't come off, because that young lady will have won the Obermeyer & Sons piano, now on exhibition in R. & H. P. Mastin's store.

There are only a few more days left of this contest. That means that the race still belongs to anybody who has just a little initiative. The fact of the matter is that no one yet has such a start that it could not be easily overcome in a few days of consistent work. This is certainly the best opportunity that the young ladies of this community have ever had.

The contest department wants to urge on every contestant the necessity for making the next few weeks count for all they are worth. The time is growing short and it is only the real hustlers who will have much of a show after this issue. That's why it will pay to get in the game with all the energy you can command from this time until the end.

And remember that the bonus on clubs of seven will remain the same until the final count on Thursday, April 25, at 3 o'clock. The answer is plain. Get busy--and keep busy--from now on.

The bonuses on this count will be as follows:

For every seven new subscriptions 4,000 extra, making a total of 8,200.

For every seven renewal subscriptions 3,000 extra, making a total of 6,500.

For every seven back subscriptions 2,000 extra, making a total of 4,800.

For every three 5 year subscriptions either new or renewal 25,000 extra votes, making a total of 40,000 votes.

For every 40 merchants coupons brought to this office and counted by the publisher or her assistant we will give 500 extra votes, a total of 1,500.

These merchants' coupons may be collected from any and all merchants who are giving coupons, and must be brought to the TRIBUNE office in batches of forty tickets, to be counted by the publisher or her assistant before the coupons will be issued.

The following are the enterprising merchants who give coupons:

D. W. Smith                      A. B. Peck
R. & H. P. Mastin              B. J. Brightman
F. C. Hagin                      J. G. Atwater & Son
M. G. Shapero                      James Mulvaney
Mrs. D. E. Singer                      C. J. Wheeler

PLAYING CARDS.

An Interesting Study From Historic and Pictorial Viewpoints.

Quite apart from their use in various games, playing cards are an interesting study from historic and pictorial points of view. Take first their numerical arrangement—52 cards, 365 pips or dots and 13 tricks, representing the weeks and days in the year and the lunar months.

There are four suits, representing four classes of people as they were divided at the time the pack of cards we now use was devised by the French. The "spades" stood for pikemen or soldiers, the clubs for clover, typifying farmers; the diamonds for building tiles, representing artisans, and the hearts for choirmen or ecclesiastics.

The "kings" and "queens" at that time were more or less correct likenesses of certain royal and noble personages. Even in our modern packs it is said that one of the queens is a conventionalized portrait of Elizabeth of York, who was engaged to the dauphin of France.

The "knaves" were then the king's jesters, and even these cards may be portraits. All the court cards, in fact, retain their sixteenth century characteristics. Cards are among the few things that have not changed with the centuries.—Brooklyn Eagle.

NAPOLEON'S DESTINY.

Summed Up In Four Mottos Bonaparte Learned at School.

In 1784 Bonaparte, then fifteen years old, arrived at the military school of Paris from Brienne, being one of four under the conduct of a minor priest. He mounted 173 steps, carrying his small valise, and reached, in the attic, the barrack chamber he was to occupy. This chamber had two beds and a small window opening on the great yard of the school. The young predecessors of Bonaparte had bescrewed the whitewashed walls with charcoal, and the newcomer could read in this little cell these four inscriptions, which we ourselves read there years ago:

An epaulet is very long to win.—De Montgivray.

The finest day in life is that of a battle.—Vicomte de Tintinnac.

Life is but a prolonged lie.—Le Chevalier Adolphe Delmas.

The end of all is six feet of earth.—Le Comte de la Villette.

With the trifling substitution of the word "empire" for "epaulet" these four sentences contain the whole destiny of Bonaparte and formed a kind of "Mene, Tekel, Upharsin," written in advance upon that wall.—Victor Hugo.

Two Signs.

"To snuff a candle out accidentally is a sign of marriage."

"Yes, and to turn down a lamp intentionally is a sign of courtship."

Handicapping the Burglar.

Burglaries in private houses in Vienna are rare, because the doors are locked from 10 o'clock at night to 6 in the morning by order of the police. Admission and exit between those hours are given by the house porter, who receives a fee for unlocking the door and is bound to report to the police the doings and mode of life of all the inhabitants of the house. This system of lock money is tiresome, but in Vienna, as at Naples, where it also exists, it obliges burglars and other criminals to operate during the daylight and diminishes their chances of success. The landlords tried a few years ago the system of giving the key of the house door to tenants, but the majority of the keys have been withdrawn.

Wonders of Modern Drama.

The heroine of the play had just received the telegram from her faithless lover. Then she fainted, and the curtain went down.

Loud applause followed, particularly in the gallery.

Instantly the curtain went up.

The heroine, having miraculously recovered, was on her feet, bowing and smiling.

More wonderful still, the faithless lover stood by her side, also bowing and smiling, having traveled a distance of 287 miles in ten seconds in order to be on hand to acknowledge the applause.—Chicago Tribune.

A Good Goer.

"That's a fine watch you've got there, Calhoun," said a friend. "Is it a good goer?"

"A good goer?" said Calhoun Clay. "Well, you bet your life it's a good goer. Why, it can do an hour in half the time!"—Exchange.

He Can't.

"Before you were married you said that you couldn't do enough for me."

"Well, I guess that time has proved that I was right."—Detroit Free Press.

The motto of chivalry is also the motto of wisdom—to serve all, but love only one.—Balzac.

Dangers in Paint.
"Turpentine and benzine," says a department of agriculture bulletin, "are very inflammable, and special precautions should be taken not to bring paint containing these substances near any light or open fire. Many pigments are poisonous, and the workman should be particularly careful to remove all paint stains from the skin and not under any circumstances allow any of it to get into his mouth. A man should not eat in the same clothes in which he has been painting and before eating should not only change his clothes, but wash all paint stains from his skin. It is not advisable to use turpentine or benzine in removing paint stains from the hands, but by oiling thoroughly with linseed oil or in fact with any fatty oil and then thoroughly washing with soap the paint may be removed, provided it has not been allowed to dry too thoroughly on the hands."

PEER-HO

—Miss Dora Addy of Ithaca was a guest at the home of D. C. Mosher, Saturday and Sunday.

—E. F. Keefe and family moved the first of the week to the Sill residence near the station.

—Mrs. B. F. Samson returned the first of the week from a short visit in Cortland and Preble.

—Mr. and Mrs. A. Armstrong of Lansingville were guests last Saturday of A. L. Loomis and family.

I wish to say to the ladies of Genoa and vicinity, that on April 12, I will open millinery parlors with a full line of up-to-date goods opposite Dr. Skinner's.

LENA G. MACK.

—Mrs. Lisk, her daughter, Miss Anna, and her son, Murray Lisk, of Ledyard, were week-end guests at B. J. Brightman's, going from here to Homer to visit relatives.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. O'Hara left Tuesday morning for their new home at Cazenovia. Their Genoa friends regret their removal from town, and the best wishes of all go with them.

Easter opening of millinery at Mrs. D. E. Singer's on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 1, 2 and 3. Call and see the spring styles in hats and ladies' furnishings.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Booker moved this week to their village residence on Maple street, formerly owned by Mrs. Christina Lester. Howard Bush and family will occupy the Booker farm.

—Mrs. A. G. Avery arrived in Genoa Saturday last from Spokane, Wash. She left Monday night for New York to remain until June with her daughter, Miss Ruth Avery, who is studying music in the metropolis. Mr. Avery cannot leave to come East for some time, at least.

—Of all the slogans we have seen, this one from "Scribe" in the Cayuga Chief (Weedsport) most fittingly expresses the spirit which characterizes a progressive town: "One for all, and all for one." Your success is mine, and mine is yours. The better each of us does, the better we all do. Ever think of that? Then in the name of common sense and common prosperity, let us all pull together. Co-operation is the proper spirit of the age.

—Stephen Donovan, who resides several miles north of this village, was the victim of a most unfortunate accident on Friday last. He slipped and fell on the ice between his house and barn, suffering a painful, and it is feared, serious injury to his hip. Physicians who were called have not determined whether the hip is broken or not, but he suffered greatly for several days. On Tuesday he was reported to be resting easier.

—The death of Mrs. John Snover occurred at her home in the town of Locke on Sunday morning. She had been ill since the middle of January and her suffering was intense for many weeks. She was 82 years old and is survived by her aged husband, and one son, A. D. Snover, also three sisters, Mrs. Snover, Miss Maria DeRemer and Mrs. George Breed, and two brothers, W. J. and Daniel DeRemer, all residing at or near Five Corners. The funeral was held on Wednesday at 1 o'clock at her late home, Rev. H. E. Springer of Locke officiating. Burial in Genoa cemetery.

—Don't forget to read the Contest article on page 3.

—Mrs. D. C. Hunter has been spending this week in Moravia.

—Harold Sullivan of Auburn has been visiting relatives in town the past week.

—The hop announced for April 12 at Venice Center hall has been indefinitely postponed.

—A big snow storm Tuesday, followed by cold northwest winds, gave us another taste of winter.

—Mrs. Reuben Lane is caring for the infant child of Frank Starner, at her home in this village.

—Miss Fanny Crosby, the noted hymn writer, now blind, celebrated her 92d birthday recently at her home in Bridgeport, Conn.

—Mrs. Matilda Saxton has sold her house and lot in Locke to I. J. Main and has moved to East Genoa to live with her son, Arthur Saxton.

—Miss Augusta Howell is spending some time with her niece, Mrs. Alonzo Mason, while the O'Hara family are getting settled in their new home at Cazenovia.

—Mrs. Viola Buckley returned Tuesday from Genoa, where she has been caring for Mrs. Frances Green at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Hurlbut.—Locke Courier.

Our feed mill at the Genoa elevator is now ready for custom business. We can handle grain or ear corn; Will grind Tuesday and Friday of each week.

J. G. ATWATER & SON.

—Mass at St. Hilary's church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, services conducted by Father Doran. There will be special music. Protestants of the village are invited to attend.

—It is stated that the town of Sterling has already spent $1,800 in cleaning its highways of snow which fell to an unusual depth the past winter. It is said that the snow is still five feet deep in the town, where snow fell 39 consecutive days beginning Jan. 1, with the exception of one day.

—Congressman John W. Dwight of Dryden offers a trip to Washington to see the next President inaugurated and entertainment for five days, all expenses paid, to one boy in each town of Tompkins county between 14 and 18 years of age, who with his own work grows the highest yield for one acre of shelled corn of any boy competitor in his town. Full particulars of this offer can be obtained by applying to Mr. Dwight at his office in the Savings Bank building in Ithaca.

—Miss Lulu May Mabey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Mabey, formerly of Genoa, and Robert Miles Holcomb, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, 21 Sherwood St., Auburn, on Saturday evening last. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. J. Rosengrant, pastor of the First M. E. church of Auburn. The couple left immediately for a trip, and will reside in Waterloo, where the groom has been appointed revenue officer.

—One week from next Wednesday, April 17, Cayuga County W. C. T. U. hold their annual institute in Genoa Presbyterian church. The morning session begins at 9:30 o'clock, and the program will include discussions and talks on interesting and important topics. In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, the program will be continued with addresses and a medal contest, closing at 5 o'clock. In the evening, at 7:30 o'clock, the witty Irish orator, Michael J. Fanning of Philadelphia will give an address. It has been said of him: "No other man ever attracted such audiences, made so favorable an impression, or received such universal commendation." Such a speaker is worth listening to and the people of this vicinity, without respect to belief or creed, should hear this address. The delegates and visitors will be served with dinner and supper at 25 cents each, by the Ladies' Aid society, in the vacant room on the second floor of the school building. All are urged to attend the sessions of the institute.

—Mrs. T. J. Searls has been quite ill this week.

—Harry Hoskins was home from Auburn last Sunday.

—John Arbuckle, the well-known coffee man, died in Brooklyn last week, aged 74 years.

—Mrs. Lena Fulmer was absent from Mastin's store several days this week by reason of illness.

—The death on Wednesday of Wm. P. Sisson of the town of Ledyard, west of Scipioville, is reported.

—The Presbyterian church of Scipioville has extended a call to Rev. Joseph Kerr of the senior class of Auburn Seminary at a salary of $1,000 and a manse. Mr. Kerr has been filling the pulpit for some time.

—The theme for the Easter sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning will be, "If not, then what?" Sunday school and other services as usual. Any one who has any flowers to loan for the Easter service, will kindly take or send them to the church.

—A meeting of the teachers of the Fifth district of Cayuga county has been arranged by Superintendent Henry Greenfield to be held in the Moravia High school, Saturday next. All persons interested in educational work are invited to attend the sessions.

—Wednesday evening, Grand Master Steitz and Grand Marshal Sherman of Rochester made an official visit to Genoa Star Lodge, I. O. O. F. There was a good attendance and all were highly entertained. A banquet was served in the rooms and all report a fine time. Among the visitors were Superintendent of the Poor Smith, Robert Bush and Clark Patchen of Auburn. The initiatory degree will be conferred at the meeting of the Lodge next Wednesday night.

—Rev. Horatio Yates died Wednesday, April 3, at the home of his son-in-law, Rev. N. S. Lyon, at Cortland. The clergyman is one of the best known ministers of the Central New York conference and for several years was chaplain in Auburn prison. He was stricken with paralysis two years ago and recently a second stroke bringing loss of speech and inability to use the left side of the body. Mr. Yates' last appointment was at Moravia.

—Fred Adolph this week received a copy of the book, "A Tenderfoot with Peary," written by George Borup. The book was sent by the author, with this inscription on the fly leaf: "To Fred Adolph with sincere thanks for his interest and help in the Crockerland expedition." The book is profusely illustrated and is dedicated "To the memory of Ross Marvin," who will be remembered as the Cornell man who lost his life in this expedition. He has also recently received a copy of Stewart Edward White's "The Riverman," with the author's compliments.

—The Groton Journal stated last week that there was but one case of scarlet fever in that village, and that school was closed for the spring recess three days earlier than had been planned, in order to avoid any possible danger from the spread of disease from that source. In the family of B. W. Knapp, near West Groton, five children are sick with the disease, coming down with it within six hours of each other. There is little doubt that the cases were taken from Miss Bessie Blaisdell of Wolcott, who came to their home a little more than a week before. There are twelve persons under quarantine in the Knapp home.

Dancing class at Jump's hall, Five Corners, on Friday night, April 12, from 7 to 9 o'clock, with hop after class. Ercanbrack brothers of Moravia conduct the class and there will be an orchestra of three pieces. Guarantee to teach waltz and two step. Come and enjoy the music and hop anyway. Lessons 50 cents, dancing 25 cents.

Not Charged.

"Pardon me," said the smiling customer, "but is this mineral water charged?" "Not any," replied the fair girl at the counter. "You pay the cashier."—Baltimore Times.

Easter Gifts of Quality.

Do not forget April 7th is Easter. Have you selected your Easter gift yet? A token at Easter is in demand now as much as a gift at Christmas. ## Fine April Number.

Kathleen Norris, who became famous as the author of "Mother," begins a new serial novel in the April Woman's Home Companion. It is a love story laid in California. Other fiction is contributed by Mary Stewart Cutting, Carolyn Wells, Mary E. Wilkins Freeman and Mary Hastings Bradley.

Among articles of note in the April Companion are the following: An autobiographical chapter by Howard Pyle, the great American artist; an account full of personal details of the life of Germany's present Crown Princess Cecilie, who is twenty-five years old and the mother of four children; "Making the Most of Moving Pictures," an account of the moving-picture business as an educational factor; "Getting Rid of the House Fly;" "Good Health a Business Asset," in which the author gives much practical advice, particularly to women who work in business for a living; and an Easter talk by the pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle in New York City.

The regular household, fashion and home decoration departments are filled with new, interesting facts and suggestions. A notable contribution to the fashion department is entitled "A Day in New York With Miss Gould," in which Grace Margaret Gould, the well-known fashion editor of the Companion, takes the reader to see the new fashions at a smart modiste's, then to Fifth Avenue, where at afternoon tea the newest and latest gowns are to be seen, and in the evening to a theater, where more of the latest ideas in this line are exhibited.

An Appeal to Seedsmen.

The demand for good seed by New York farmers this spring is becoming very great. The New York Plant Breeders' Association is attempting to serve as an agency to bring into closer touch persons having good seed for sale and those who wish to buy such seed. The co-operation of all is solicited. The State Plant Breeders' Association wishes, to stimulate the production of highly bred seed by seedsmen and farmers in New York State.

Growers of seed are urged to write to the Secretary of the New York Plant Breeders' Association, Dr. A. W. Gilbert, New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, New York, and list a description of the seed which they have for sale.

One of the greatest factors in the production of good crops is the seed. It should not only be true to name, clean, heavy, and of high germination, but it should be carefully selected from high yielding parent plants. Attention to the seed is equally important with attention to fertilizers and cultivation to produce profitable crops.

"Slovenly Speech."

Whenever you hear an unfamiliar word or pronunciation, refer at once to your book if possible; if not, keep it in your mind and do so at the first opportunity. When you have discovered the meaning of the word and its proper pronunciation, you have learned a valuable lesson. In addition you will have enlarged your vocabulary, which is a very important matter, particularly with the young.

Take particular notice of words that are always spelled the same and are sometimes nouns and sometimes verbs; for instance, "abstract," the verb, is accented on the last syllable, while "abstract," a term in law, is accented on the first syllable.

"Squalor" is given the long sound of a, and "America" should be pronounced as spelled, and not "Amurica." If you persist in using "papa" and "mamma" instead of "father" and "mother," do not add an r to the last syllable. In using the word "been" say "bin," not "ben"; say "leg-end" not "le-gend"—The Ladies' World for April.

The Scrap Book

The Brass Ornament.
The junior member of the old law firm of Goldsmith, Colston, Hoadley & Johnson having used the phrase "a shining ornament of the Cincinnati bar" in referring to some other lawyer, Murat Halstead seized upon the phrase and thereafter invariably referred to Mr. Johnson as "the brass ornament of the Cincinnati bar." At an evening gathering Mr. Halstead saw a handsome woman. He begged to be presented and was to Mrs. Johnson. It did not occur to him who the lady might be. He was curious about her. "Johnson, Johnson?" he repeated. "I have never had the pleasure of meeting you before, Mrs. Johnson. Do you live in Ohio?" "Oh, yes," replied the lady, brimming over with smiles: "I live in Cincinnati." "Indeed?" said Mr. Halstead, quite astonished. "May I inquire of what family of Johnsons you are?" The smiles were more than merry this time. "Mr. Halstead," she replied, "for fifteen years I have been trying to polish up the brass ornament of the Cincinnati bar."

The Way to Live.
Let me but live my life from year to year
With forward face and unobscured soul,
Not hurrying to nor turning from the goal,
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils, but with a whole
And happy heart that pays its toll
To youth and age and travels on with cheer.
—Henry van Dyke.

Her Leap in the Dark.
The wife of a leading minister in a New Jersey town was sitting on the porch of the manse when a man with a grip in his hand started to come up the steps. Spotting him at once for a book agent or a peddler, she said firmly, "Nothing today."
"Have you one?" queried the stranger.

Fearing that an affirmative answer might lead to further conversation in which the salesman would try to demonstrate the improvements made in the article since she had purchased hers, the minister's wife answered shortly, "No!"
Shaking his head, the man retreated down the steps, repeating this sentence several times, "Hasn't got one, doesn't want one."
The man's manner and tone of voice awakened the woman's curiosity, so very soon she went over to a neighbor's house where she had seen the man stop and asked:
"What was that man who was here a few minutes ago selling?"
To her astonishment and chagrin the neighbor replied, "Bibles."—Lippincott's.

Looking Ahead.
David A. Ball of Pike county, Mo., was once state senator and acted as lieutenant governor during the two years he presided over the senate. He had an ambition to be lieutenant governor in fact.
One day he confided this ambition to his old family doctor. "The old man," Ball says in telling the story, "walked two blocks with me without making any comment. Then he turned and said:
"That's all right, Dave, but look here: Suppose you were elected and the governor should die. Wouldn't that leave Missouri in a mighty bad fix?"—Saturday Evening Post.

Missed His Customer.
"When I was a cub reporter, struggling along on a minute salary," said George Ade, "I had just one asset in life which enabled me to 'tide over' that period in every week when poverty seemed to be staring me in the face. This consisted of a handsome gold watch, keepers of college days in Indiana. Tuesday was payday at the newspaper office. By Friday I would be 'broke,' and I would tote the watch over to the pawnshop of a man who now conducts a handsome jewelry shop in State street. On the watch I obtained $5, and by administering my affairs carefully I managed to worry through until payday. Then when I had received my small salary I would hurry to the pawnbroker's and release my watch.
"Finally, after this had gone along for many months, I received a raise in pay. It was enough to release me from the necessity of pawning my watch regularly. So I visited the pawnshop no longer.
"One afternoon about ten years afterward I was accosted in State street by a man. I recognized my old pawnbroker friend, now the prosperous jeweler.
"What's the matter, George? were his first words. 'Did you lose that watch?'"

Judge Hoar's Retort.
Of innumerable occasions when Judge Hoar indulged in the retort mordant perhaps none gave him greater satisfaction than the following: B. F. Butler, his chief adversary at the bar in the Siffles as counsel for the defense, closed with this emphatic appeal to the jury: "We have the highest authority for saying, 'Everything which a man hath will be given for his life.'" When Hoar's turn came he said: "It has for a long time been suspected by those who have watched Mr. Butler's career that he has recognized as the highest authority the individual upon whom he now relies. For, gentlemen, as you well know, the statement which he quotes from the book of Job was made by Satan."—Harvard Graduates' Magazine.

ALWAYS IN ORDER.

The Subject That Roused the Interest of Every Woman Present.
Elizabeth Jordan, who recently finished a play the second act of which is laid in a beauty parlor, was talking the other day about women beauty parlors and conversation.
"There are a good many things that a good many women are interested in," she said. "But there is one subject of conversation that will draw every woman's attention. She'll forget everything else in the world to discuss it. To illustrate my conviction I'll tell you a story. This actually happened:
"One day last winter I was at a dinner where there were fifteen or twenty other women guests. When we went to the drawing room after dinner, leaving the men to their cigars, it happened that all the women but myself and one other got into one corner of the room, and I and one fellow guest were left alone. I've forgotten why, but that's the way it was.

"We were talking of a subject in which we were both interested, and we were having a beautiful time. But it occurred to the hostess that one or both of us might feel neglected. So she called out from the other side of the room:
"Why, Miss Jordan, what are you and Mrs. Blank talking about all by yourselves?"
"Mrs. Blank is telling me how she lost ten pounds," I replied.
"Well, you ought to have seen the center rush! Every woman in the room made a wild dash for our corner, and all crowded around us. The eyes of every woman were all alight with eagerness. And from every woman's throat burst the one impassioned word: "How?"—New York Times.

Hard on the Other One.
One hot summer day a Kentucky beau stopped at a florist's to order a box of flowers sent to his lady love. At the same time he also purchased a design for the funeral of a friend. On the card for his girl's box he wrote, "Hoping these may help you bear the heat." The other card bore the one word, "Sympathy."
Very soon the girl telephoned. "Thank you so much for the flowers, but why did you write 'Sympathy' on the card?"
There was no word from the other card.

Fellows in Distress.
An efficient woman principal of a New York grammar school, though devoid of good looks and bearing the marks of long service in her profession, still retains the charm of a delightful frankness. One day while watching the pupils pass out of her building two by two, as usual, she noticed one boy marching alone, with his arm to his eyes, sobbing tumultuously. In answer to her solicitous inquiry as she drew him from the line the little fellow wailed, "I-I haven't g-got no pardner!"
The principal extended a prompt and sympathetic hand. "Shake, dear boy, shake!" she invited. "I haven't, either."

A Safe Place.
It was at a dinner party. The bright young man sat next to the young woman with beautiful arms and neck. The fair companion suddenly exhibited signs of nervousness. Two of his best jokes passed unnoticed. Her face wore a look of alarm. "I am in misery," she said. "In misery?" echoed the man. "Yes. I was vaccinated the other day, and it has taken beautifully. I can almost scream, it hurts so." The young man looked at the beautiful arms. No sign there. "Why, where were you vaccinated?" he asked surprisedly. "In Boston," she said, the smile chasing away the look of pain.

A Mean Trick to Save Himself.
Not so long ago a knowledge of Latin was essential to an orator, and long quotations from the Roman poets embellished every debate. James Payn, the novelist, was once at a dinner party where a learned, distinguished and very dignified statesman insisted on quoting Greek. The lady sitting next to Payn asked for a translation. Payn's Greek was rusty. Accordingly he assumed a blush and hinted to the lady that it was scarcely fit for her ear.
"Good heavens," she exclaimed, "you don't mean to say—"
"Please don't ask any more," murmured Payn. "I really could not tell you."

Horses are the noblest of animals from God, and Huson Claims they ought to be well Shod. Please call and see The new Giant Grip which All the people say cannever Slip.
Wm. HUSON, Genoa, N. Y.

Puts End To Bad Habit.
Things never look bright to one with "the blues." Ten to one the trouble is a sluggish liver, filling the system with bilious poison, that Dr. King's New Life Pills would expel. Try them. Let the joy of better feelings end "the blues." Best for stomach, liver and kidneys. 25c at J. S. Banker's, Genoa, F. T. Atwater's King Ferry.

A New Jabot.
The white lingerie jabot has become rather a momentous item after years of popularity, but we can hardly do without some adjunct to take its place. A substitute has been adopted which is well worth considering and is specially suitable to wear when the corsage is of soft satin to match the coat and skirt, while it is very easily adjusted. Two frills are used, but with nicely plucked out edges, the lower one being of fine white net and the other of black net of exactly the same size, which veils the under one.
These are mounted on a black velvet ribbon and are fastened in position with three handsome paste buttons. Much coquetry is shown in the choice of these buttons or studs, and mock gems are often turned to account in their manufacture. The handsomest are the little clusters of five good sized corals with a pendent drop at the end of each.

It Looks Like A Crime.
to separate a boy from a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve. His pimples, boils, scratches, knocks, sprains and bruises demand it, and its quick relief for burns, scalds, or cuts is his right. A UNIQUE PARTY.
How to Give a Jolly Hurdy Gurdy Dance.
The quaint hurdy gurdies which have so long been the delight of city children and the despair of the fastidious music lovers are in danger of becoming fashionable. A hostess at a summer resort hit upon this novel manner of furnishing music for her guests to dance by.
So successful did it prove that other hostesses quickly followed her example, and the hurdy gurdy, with its soft voiced Italian owner, was greatly in demand. Young people danced until nearly dawn to the alluring strains of "The Pink Lady" and the fashionable rhythm of "The Blue Danube."
It is proverbial that youth never tires of dancing, and apparently hurdy gurdies never tire of playing. The two are equally matched, for the hurdy gurdy man stops only long enough to change his tune, while youth stops only long enough to catch its breath. The hurdy gurdy simplifies things immensely for the hostess who dares not wish to entertain elaborately. It at once knocks pretension in the head and does away with the execratable torture inflicted by the sometimes incompetent musicians who play for dancers.
For the hurdy gurdy has the advantage of really keeping time, and that is more than can be said of the average musician.
One has only to engage the hurdy gurdy man, turn on the lights, move the furniture and give an informal dance.
Promptly at the hour the picturesque strolling Italian with his hurdy gurdy arrives. It is tenderly taken from its wheels and placed in a corner of the hall, and immediately he plays on and on with never a sigh nor a complaining word until dawn unless you stop him.

YOUR EASTER SUIT AT A SAVING

If you're limited in what you can put into your Easter Suit come down to 56 State St. and let us show you how far your money will stretch—you won't find quite the style in store front fixtures, etc., that you do "up-town" but you'll find all the style in the clothing—and you're not charged a bit extra for it.

At $10, 12.50, 15, 18, 20, 22, 25

You'll find values that you'd have to pay $12.50 to $30 to people "up-town." They couldn't sell any cheaper and live.

You'll find here those popular grays, browns, tans, blues and fine fancy mixtures in suits, that you perhaps have admired in the windows of "high-prices" but felt you couldn't afford. You can afford them if you come to Saperstein's.

SATURDAY SPECIAL--For Saturday only, just one day at this price, regular $2.50 Derbies and Soft Hats $2.00.

What We Are Trying to Do.

In buying this space we have an object in view, we wish to sell you a suit of clothes this spring—provided we can convince you that it will be to your interest.

We want your business, but only upon the above conditions: if you think that you can buy a better suit than we can offer you, buy it, but we doubt very much your ability to find clothing made any better, that will fit any nicer or more perfectly, or of any better quality.

Remember, no one is giving things away, as a rule you get about what you pay for, no more, and all we can offer you is 100 cents worth for every dollar you spend here.

Suits from $12.50 to $25.00.

Easter Egg Party.

One clever hostess gave an egg party to a friend who was to be married after Easter, the entertainment taking the form of a novel shower. A large basket on the table, says the Housekeeper, was filled with egg shaped packages on which was a placard, "Spring Eggs—Strictly Fresh." Then followed some clever tableaux of the old woman who went to market her eggs for to sell, falling asleep on the king's highway. The peddler "stout" comes in, steals her basket and runs and presents it to the bride to be (who is in the audience). The awakening of the old woman, her woe over the discovery of the loss of her basket and of her petticoats cut all round about and the entrance of the family dog, which began to bark while she began to cry, were all strictly in accordance with the well known nursery rhyme.

After the bride had examined her eggs and the parcels containing her gifts all went to luncheon, where the Easter motif was observed throughout. A basket of fancy-eggs formed the centerpiece. Oval shaped frames of stiff white paper were slashed to represent a broken egg, and the face of the hostess peeped out of the novel souvenir at each place, while violet tinted, egg shaped baskets served for bonbon dishes.

The menu was chiefly in gold and white, while artificial violets added a dainty touch to many of the dishes.

the jewels about.

"Oh, that!" cried Freckles with a merry laugh. You're wanting to know where all the bitterness is gone? Well, sir, 'twas carried from me soul, heart and body on the lips of an angel. Seems that hurt was necessary in the beginning to make today come true. The wound had always been raw, but the angel was healing it. If she doesn't care, I don't. May I be asking you a question? Well, then, if this accident and all that's come to me since had never happened, what was it you meant to do with me?"

"Why, Freckles," answered McLean, "I figured on taking you to Grand Rapids and putting you in the care of my mother. I had an idea it would be best to get a private tutor to coach you for a year or two, until you were fit to enter Ann Arbor or the Chicago university in good shape. Then I thought we'd finish in this country at Yale or Harvard, and end with Oxford, to get a good all round flavor."

"Is that all?" asked Freckles.

"No; that's leaving the music out. I intended to have your voice tested, and

"DEAR BOSS, DEAR FATHER, DON'T BE DOING THAT!"

If you really were endowed for a career as a great musician, and had inclinations that way, I wished to have you drop some of the college work and make music your chief study. Finally, I wanted us to take a trip over Europe and clear around the circle together."

"And then what?" queried Freckles breathlessly.

"Why, then," said McLean, "you know that my heart is hopelessly in the woods. I will never quit the timber business while there is timber to handle and breath in my body. I thought if you didn't make a profession of music, and had any inclination my way, we would stretch the partnership one more and take you into the firm, placing your work with me."

Freckles lifted anxious and eager eyes to McLean.

"You told me once on the trail, and again when we thought I was dying, that you loved me. Do these things that have come to me make any difference in any way with your feeling toward me?"

"None," said McLean. "Nothing could make me love you more, and you will never do anything that will make me love you less."

"Glory be to God!" burst out Freckles. "When I'm educated enough, we'll all—the angel and her father, the Bird Woman, you, and me—will go together and see me house and me relations and be taking that trip. When we get back, we'll add O'More to the lumber company, and golly, sir, but we'll make things hum! Good land, sir! Don't do that! Why, Mr. McLean, dear boss, dear father, don't be doing that! What is it?"

"Nothing, nothing!" boomed McLean's deep bass; "nothing at all!"

He abruptly turned away and hurried to the window.

"This is a mighty fine view," he said.

"I'll be glad to see Ireland," said Freckles, "but I ain't ever staying long. All me heart is the angel's, and the Lumberlost is calling every minute."

"Me heart's all me Swamp Angel's, and me love is all hers, and I have her and the swamp so confused in me mind I never can be separating them. When I look at her, I see blue sky, the sun rifling through the leaves and pink and red flowers, and when I look at the Lumberlost I see a pink face with blue eyes, gold hair, and red lips, and, it's the truth, sir, they're mixed till they're one to me!"

"I'm afraid it will be hurting some, but I have the feeling that I can be making my dear people understand, so that they will be willing to let me come back home. Send Lady O'More to put these flowers God made in the place of these glasshouse legencies, and please be cutting the string of this little package the angel's sent me."

As Freckles held up the package, the lights of the Lumberlost flashed in the emerald on his finger. On the cover was printed: "To the Lumberlost Guard!" Under it was a big, crisp, iridescent black feather.
