Obituary.

In the death of Mrs. Sarah DeCamp. Lansing has lost one of its oldest residents. She had lived near North Lansing in the same house for 63 years. Last fall they purchased the late Eben Brown farm and moved there. Mrs. DeCamp was a good Christian woman and one without an enemy. In her earlier days she attended the old Christian church at West Groton. We think she was a member of that church and sang in the choir there, as well as her brothers. They all had natural voices for singing.

At the time of the burning of the barn, Mrs. DeCamp was in very poor health. The family did not dare to let her know it was burning. From that time she recovered somewhat until the week before her death, which occurred Wednesday morning, March 25, at 1:15 o'clock She was of an amiable disposition never and Was heard to say ought against anyone. She will be greatly missed in the home, as she was always there. She and her son Morris were never separated as he has always lived at home with her. The funeral obsequies were held from her late home on Friday, March 27. Rev. F. J. Allington officiated and the remains were laid to rest in the North Lansing cemetery by her husband, who passed away several years ago. She leaves four daughters and one son, several grandchildren and one greatgrandchild. The family and relatives have the sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereave-

Soak Your Seeds.

It is a great mistake to plant gar den seeds dry and hard, as they come from the store. They will germinate better if they are first soaked over night in water. When first poured over them the water should be hot "nough to give the finger a sharp tinge, but, of course, nowhere near the boiling point Onion seeds are particularly benefitted by this treatment. Dry ashes will make the seeds easy to handle and at the same time surround them with a mild dertilizer .- Portland Oregonian.

An Ignoble

Secret

By CHARLES LEWIS PHELPS

"My son," said my father when I went' to sea, "you're going into the world, and a rough one you'll find it. I've been a sailor myself, as you know, for tifty years and any glad to find a .F.ug harbor here at home. You'll have to go through some pretty narrow holes, and your getting through at all will depend on your courage, your coolness and your wits. I can give you a way by which I once saved myself from being put under the table at a drinking bont. We'd gone ashore, a liberty prety. I was a beardless boy at the time, and my mates, who were all oldor than I, thought it would be a fine thing to get me drunk. We went into an inn and called for drinks. The landlord, seeing their game and disposed to favor me on account of my youth, 1 suppose, beckoned to me to come into a side room and, pointing to a tumbler on the table, told me to drink it. The stuff was olive oil. That olive oil kept me sober when all the rest of the gang one by one slid down under the table That's all the experience I can give you, my boy. The day may come when it will help you out if some one is trying to lay you out.

It would seem that this was but a poor quantum of experience for a father to give his boy, but the time did come when it served me well, and that time wasn't long coming, either. Anyway, it was while I was still before the mast. We sailed for the West Indies. taking out a cargo of cotton goods to make clothes for the negroes, and were to bring back dried fruits and whatever could be bought cheap and sold dear when we got back to England We first struck the Bahamas, then Haiti and lastly Jamaica. Those were the days of the buccaneers, and Kingston, Jamaica, was a rendezvous for them.

One day when we were at anchor off Kingston a piratical looking chap came aboard and had a long talk with our captain. The next day he came back with a box in the bottom of his boat. It wasn't more than three feet square. it was hoisted on deck by block and tackle, and it took four men to carry it below. Considering the looks of the man who brought it and its weight, I suspected that it was full of gold that had been looted from some Spanish ship, to be transferred to England. The next day we sailed back through the Windward passage, striking the Atlantic to the southward of Turks islands and after that pointing due north. When we were about 26 degrees north of the equator one morning we noticed a ship that carried a good deal of sail for her tonnage coming out from among the Bahamas in the neighborhood of San Salvador. I saw that our captain had his eye on her, suspicious like, and every few minutes he would bring his glass to bear on her. After rounding San Salvador she pointed due north on the course we were sailing, but after a few hours she seemed to be a little neurer us. About noon the captain called the crew aft and told us that the ship to the westward looked mighty suspicious. True, she showed British colors, but there were plenty of British ships in those days that had been privateers when the war between England and Spain was on that didn't have to change much to become pirates. The vessel was apparently sailing the same course as we, but really a point or two toward us. She was between us and the islands, and all she had to do was to keep getting nearer all the while till she joined us. If we sheered off she would, if she was after us, sheer off 100.

been brought aboard, but since I had not seen it stored I couldn't tell him where it was. But I would know it if I saw it again. All I could do was to hunt for it among the cargo, and that was like looking for a needle in a haystack. It was rather late in the day to begin then, for it was growing dara. I told him there was some choice wine in the ship which I could point out to him that had been taken aboard when we had touched at a Spanish port on our way southward, and the ship was well stocked with provisions for the homeward voyage.

He decided to remain aboard him self with a prize crew of eight men till the treasure had been found. He ordered one of his captives to prepare a supper, and 1 filled a demijohn of wine and brought it to him.

He seemed to wish to appear friendly to me. His reason was plain. I might belo him in the matter of the treasure and I might stand in his way From what I had told him he believed that a box of gold coins-probably pieces of eight-had been brought aboard to be taken to England, for pirate ships were fitted out there, and investors must get their share of the plunder. When supper was ready my captor invited me to join him, and l accepted his invitation.

A scheme was forming in my mind. There was but little chance it would win, but it was not hopeless. We were five unarmed prisoners, guarded by eight pirates. With death staring us in the face we were all ready for any desperate enterprise. I hoped a possibility for such might arise during the night and would have liked to speak to my mates about it, but dared not be seen talking with any of them. ] therefore went in to supper with the captain without having been able to tell them to be on the lookout.

There was hard drinking in those days, and many a villain who would have been invincible while sober got his deserts from his thirst for liquor. It was soon plain to me that the captain was bound to drink hard, but he was smart enough not to get drunk, leaving me sober. He would not begin a fresh bottle himself without forcing me to finish the one before me.

Suddenly 1 remembered the experience with olive oil that my father had given me. There was none on the table, but a-plenty in the ship, that had been taken aboard when we took on the wine. I told the captain that with his permission I would make him a salad such as he had never before oil. He consented, and, taking a small

Very much as ultimate reto sults depends on answer the this question. Sin Against Self. It is not very difficult to show a man that a certain kind of life will land him in poverty, shame, consequent and wretchedness. It is among those who thus fall that rescue missions have their field That which is referred to is often spoken of as sin against one's self. and sad to say, much of the preaching of this day is the appeal to self, as far as sin is concerned, and the strength of this appeal is in the consequences of sin that are in this life and so desire. temporal. The words: "He that soweth to the flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption," are frequently quoted and their truth is rarely questioned. But even in this there is something forgotten, the consequences of such a life in the future world. The hell beyond this life is not alluded to frequently, except often in a sneering way as suggesting the hell on earth into which so many fall. There are many who work along religious lines, who appear to have very little in view, except the consequences of sin as seen in the present life. Many who are enthusiastic in the support of foreign missions are so simply because they wish to lift up the heathen who live in huts and caves of the earth into which they crawl as the wild beasts crawl into their dens, who are altogether unclothed, or slightly clothed. delicacies of the modern dining table

True enough, the ship kept edging nearer to us all that afternoon. Toward evening the captain ordered out every bit of canvas we had and turned the ship's nose due eastward. The other vessel turned at once to follow us. showing distinctly that she would overhard us if she could. She ran up more cantas, and it was soon evident that per salling qualities were far better thin ours.

I'm not going to describe a chase that e on brought the ship up with us or the light that was sure to be a losing one for us, because these chases and t'chts are all the same. And I'm not coing to tell how the captain and most of the crew walked the plank, I watchhad them struggling in the water. When it came my turn an idea popped 11to my head. The pirate captain. a can with a long black curly beard, was superintending the job, and as I Uns ordered on to the plank I said:

"Captain, there's a treasure aboard the ship, but I don't believe you can find it."

A covetous look came into his face, and he ordered me to step aside.

"I'll help you to hunt for it if you'll let the rest of us off," I continued.

He agreed to the proposition at once. If there was a treasure aboard he didn't care to drown any man who might be able to give him any information about it. He could continue the plank walking after finding it. So he ordered-me and four men who had not yet been put into the sen to be left where we were and the plank hauled in.

"Now, young man," he said to me, carried it, with a head of lettuce taken on with supplies at Kingston, and went back to my host. I then prepared a salad of the lettuce and fruits. which the captain pronounced excellent.

After, this I kept up with the captain beaten by a beardiess boy, and he poured down bottle after bottle, I doing the same, but feeling comparatively little effect from the fumes of the wine.

Suddenly I heard a loud laugh fora yelp. My heart bounded with deme drawing the wine from the cask is known to the occidental world. and had appropriated more of it to noise, and it tended to sober him since do so. I passed him his bottle and filled his glass. He forgot what he had intended to do and drained it. I now waited for the captain to fall into a stupor and the men outside to follow his example. Their shouts grew louder for awhile, then fainter as one after another they dropped off into unwas snoring under the table.

Seizing a pair of pistols, I went out, in which my mates were confined and released them. As soon as they were the captain and his men with a viewif we could get away-to take them to largest extent. England for trial. Rope is easily found on a ship, and without awakeneach one in a separate compartment. Our next problem was to get away from the pirate vessel, which was standing near us. We must not hoist a sail for fear of being heard. Besides, there was a scant breeze. The night was cloudy, with no moon. We lowered a boat, muffled the oars, attached a hawser to the capstan, took the other end to the boat and pulled away. We could see the pirate, but not plainly. and hoped that our movement would not be noticed.

It was not long before we lost sight of her. Then we redoubled our efforts and after an hour's pull returned to our ship, hoisted a jib and with this slender motive power sailed till we dared hoist more canvas. When day came the pirate was hull down on the southern horizon.

Our crew was small, but we managed to get the vessel safely to Engbox and found it under the flooring in skein. the captain's cabin. Put a small square sheet of iron over the top burners of the stove. Then light one burner only. The heat Was ever man saved from death and travels through the Iron very quickly The Effect of Sin on Others.

The appeal here is not as strong as in the first case, but there are persons who have so much of the better man in them that they really regard the welfare of those who are about them. The husband has regard to his obligations to his children, and he recognizes that the father and mother have deepest love for him, and if he acts in a way that wounds that love he feels that he has sinned against them. This is all very worthy, and it is proper on certain occasions to call the attention of certain persons to their sinning in this regard.

Sin Against God.

There is another sphere that in these days needs notice. Harry Monroe, the man who in years long gone, knew the depths of sin, but who for thirty years at the Pacific Garden Mission in Chicago has been the means of leading hundreds of sinful men and women to God said to the writer of these words only a few days ago: "It is not hard to get men and women to raise their hands, and to stand up and go forward to the altar -but that is not enough, the trouble is, there is not enough conviction of sin," and he quoted the words of David, "Against thee, thee only have sinned." One of the greatest difficulties that workers for God have to meet is to get men and women to get hold of the idea of God. A man's moral degradation may be acknowledged with very little thought of God. Even one's sins against others may be conceded with very little or no thought of God, and there are many men and women who are faithful to their dependents who do not know God. But in deeper thinking on sin Clover and Timothy Seed. practically everything is lost if God is left out. There is no proper apprehension of sin until God is brought into the foreground. The man readily says: "Yes, I have sinned against myself, and I have sinned against soclety," but when asked if he has sinned against God he is dazed, and is silent. If the man who acknowledges sins against himself and soclety, would only think a little, he would ask the question, "Who established the law that enforced these results?" he will soon come to the place where he must acknowledge God, and if he does so, the solution of the problem of his sin is at hand. David was near that solution when he said: "I acknowledge my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me. Against thee, thee only have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight." Job was near it when he said: "Behold, I am vile; what shall I answer thee? I will lay my hand upon my mouth."

buy.

This is properly called conviction of sin. It is not produced by trial in a court of justice, nor is it the result of carrying an abstract proposition to its logical conclusion, but to a sense of personal wrong doing in the sight of God. A great evangelical teacher of the last century said that conviction of sin involves a sense of wrong doing, distress in view of the past and an apprehension in view of what is to come. How much of the conviction of the present day contains

A Nervous Tree.

In Idaho there exists a species of the acacia tree which is entitled to be classed as one of the wonders of plant life. The tree attains a height of about eight feet. When full grown it closes its leaves together in coils each day at sunset. When the tree has thus settled itself for its night's sleep it will futter violently if touched, and if you shake the branches it will emit a nauseating odor strong enough to bring on a headache.

In Idaho it is called the "angry tree," and it is said that it was discovered by some men who were making a of a canvas covering over one of its sensitive branches to use it as a support. Immediately the tree began to jerk its branches sharply. The motion continued with increased nervousness, until at last there came a sickening odor that drove the tired men to a more hospitable camping place.

If the child appears quite satisfied with supper at 7 p. m. it is sufficient until 7 a. m. the next morning. On the other hand, should ways. baby want to be fed when it awakes at 10 p. m. (and most bables do), it may be given the following: Milk, six tablespoonfuls; water, one tablespoonful; limewater, one tablespoonful; sugar of milk, one teaspoonful.

Blisters on the Lips. Sulphur is a good, safe corrective for blistered lips, and glycerin and borax should be applied locally. Give the child so afflicted half a teaspoonful of flowers of sulphur in a dessertspoonful of molasses before breakfast. It is an old fashioned remedy, but most effective. Mix half an ounce of borax with two ounces of glycerin and smear on the tongue and lips where blistered.

growth of the Farm Bureau movetablishment of the Bureau in Broome Greenfield, auctioneer county in the winter of 1911

Farm Bureau is an organization of vice president, secretary and treasurare determined by a Board of Directors elected by the association. An advisory committee is usually ap pointed, representing every town in the county. The committee for the town of Genoa is George Easson of Genos and Jerome G. Barger of King Ferry.

In connection with the Bureau, Mr. Teall conducts a Labor Bureau He has on file a large number of ap plicants for farm help, and has already assisted eight or ten different parties to get in touch with the right ones. All the farmer has to do is to write the manager of the Bureau, and he will at once give him the information which will secure him the needed help. The Farm Bureau headquarters is in the Auburn Sav. ings Bank Building, Auburn. A general meeting, for organization, etc , will be held in the Court House, Auburn, on Friday, April 24, at 1:80 o'clock. All are urged to attend this meeting.

To the Unbeliever

Is it too much to lay Your unbelief aside Just for this one brief day. Just for His sake who died Nailed to the cruel tree. There where the darkness fell? is it too much, since He Gave so freely and well?

Is it too much to give Him they could crucify For teaching men how to live, For showing them how to die? Humbly He came, and so He went on His righteous way. Is it too much to throw Doubt aside for today?

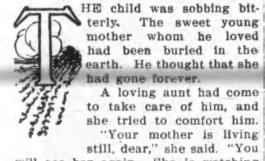

Is it too much to bow Humbly a little while? Think of His bleeding brow. See His pitying smile! He gave us His all and took Nothing but sin away; Is it too much to look Upward with love today?

gun?' "No," she told him. "It is not pepper, nor powder; but it seems just as dead, doesn't it?" "Yes," he answered again, positively.

"It is just as dead as it can be.'

"I am going to drop it into the earth here," she said gravely; and she took up a trowel and dug into the rich earth. Then she scattered the dead powder in the hole that she had made, and covered it carefully. A fortnight later she took the child to see it. "You remember that dead black powder that we sowed here," she reminded him.

"Yes," he answered quickly. "It was just here. This is the little board you put in so that we might know."

"And yet these pretty little graygreen plants came from those dead, black seeds," she told him.

"Right out of them?" he asked breathlessly.

"Yes. They seemed so small and black, you know; yet there was the germ of a little plant in each one of them, and soon they will be covered with bright flowers. We could never believe anything so strange if we did not see it right before our eyes. And so it is with the loved ones that we think are dead. They are not dead; and in some other world, we do not know where, they bloom from their cold, lifeless bodies, just as the leaves broke from the tree, and these little plants from the dead seeds."

"Yes-yes, I see," breathed the child, through starting tears.

"But men were dull," went on the loving aunt, trying to make it very plain to him. "For hundreds of years men had seen the dead trees leave out, and the plants spring from dead seed, and still they could not really believe that if a man died he would live again. So God sent Christ to show us all these things. He taught us how to live; and then he seemed to die, but he rose from the dead on the third day, and talked with his friends, to show us that, as he lived after death, so we should live also. And the great apostle Paul made it plainer still. He said that we were sown a natural body and we should be raised a spiritual body. We do not understand it, any more than we understand this marvelous change of the seed into the flower; but we must believe that it is true."

"Yes," breathed the child; "I see, she tried to comfort him. and I must believe that my mother is "Your mother is living up yonder"-he waved his little hand still, dear," she said. "You __ "with a beautiful new body; not Toads eat the common housefly, which is such an annoyance to us. A toad has been seen to snap up eightysix flies in less than ten minutes.

Toads are sometimes kept for pets. and they are not lacking in intelligence. Once a toad lived in a garden, and every day at the dinner hour he came to be fed. It happened that the dinner hour was changed, and when the toad came there was nothing for him to eat. Mr. Toad made up his mind that he would not lose his dinner twice. On the second day he came at the new hour, and after this he was as punctual as the rest of the family. No one could tell how he knew that in the future his dinner would be served two hours earlier.

Adjectives-A Game.

The game of "adjectives" is good to fill in a half hour. Select one of the party to go out of the room. Then each person chooses an adjective, which he or she will represent, while the one outside comes in and asks questions. trying to determine the adjective being enacted. For instance, the interlocutor may say, "Did you have a happy vacation?" and the person who has chosen the word "happy" pours forth a perfect torrent of words, describing his vacation. To another person the question may be, "Do you like dancing?" The reply should come in tearful accents that parties always make him so weary and life is such a bore, at which he begins to weep. Of course the word is "sad." This may continue indefinitely, and if the company is a responsive one it is very amusing. After one person has guessed several adjectives have another one go out.

THE MISSING BANK TELLER Part a Dog Played In Clearing Up a Mystery.

The country homes of the Rudds and our family adjoined, and Walter Rudd and I grew up together, bosom friends. Walter was fond of animals, I of books. Among his pets was a yellow collie, the most intelligent being of the brute creation I ever knew.

I remember especially an instance in evidence of this. One rainy day, needing exercise, I concluded to walk around the house. Dick, the dog, was with me and, seeing me getting on my hat and coat, inferred that I was going for a stroll and was rejoiced at the prospect of going with me. There were two gates to the place, and when I came to the path leading to the nearest Dick was there. I kept on. Dick looked up, surprised; but, inferring that I was intending to go out of the other gate, immediately went to it. When I passed the path leading to that gate. too, Dick's astonishment was beyond bounds. "What does the fellow mean?" he said plainly with his attitude and expression. Then, seeing that I was not leaving the grounds, he went [[L.S.] away disappointed.

One morning I was awakened by a scratching mingled with a dog's moans at our front door. I went downstairs and found Dick. He ran down toward the gate, indicating that I was to follow him. I was not long in understanding him and after getting on some clothes went with him to a wood several miles away. He led me to a point near a brook, but when he got there looked about him surprised and disappointed, moaning piteously. Then, putting his nose to the ground, he followed a scent to the brook, where he lost it.

All this was unintelligible to me. After waiting developments and getting none 1 went home.

I found there a messenger from the Rudds to ask if Walter had spent the night with us, since he had not come and the salary $10,000. As chairman home. At once I began to suspect that something was wrong with him, and the dog's action might be an explanation. Possibly there had been foul will see her again. She is watching you this minute. She loves you just, the same as ever."

"No, no," wept the child; "she is dead. The doctor said so; and I know it is true, because I kissed her, and she did not kiss me back again. If the had known, she would have kissed me back again-for she always did. And, oh, oh-my mother is dead!"

"I know it seems so, darling," sighed the aunt, whose own heart was sore and heavy, "but under that still face there was yet life. Christ showed us that when he rose from the dead. He did not answer when his mother and his disciples called him: but one day he rose from this seeming death, to show us that no one really dies. That was the first Easter day. Men had always hoped-but they had never surely known before then-that the dead could rise again. Is it not beautiful, dear?"

The child for a little seemed comforted. Then he looked over to the familiar chair where the sweet mother had been wont to hold him and pet him, and again he broke into sobs. He was only five-and his little mind could not grasp the great, sweet truth which his aunt had been telling him. At last she said: "I will show it to you some time so that you will understand."

It was in the early springtime that the young mother had been laid away from his sight. The cold winds were blowing, the trees looked bare and gaunt and dead.

Out among the leafless woods the aunt led the grieving child.

"See these poor trees," she said to him. "Does it not look to you as though they were quite dead?"

He felt carefully of the branch which she held out to him. "Yes," he answered; "it is only an old dead stick-just good to burn in the fire.'

"It seems so," she admitted, "but walt a while, and we will come back here again."

One warm, sunny day, a few weeks later, she took him to the same spot and showed him the same bough again. It was covered with soft, tender green leaves were bursting of all." from them.

"This is the same bough that you thought was dead," she said. "What do you think now?"

'It wasn't dead, was it?" murmured the child slowly. "What pretty leaves! I am glad it wasn't dead.'

"And it is so with our dear ones who die," she reminded him gently. "They seem dead, but they really live; and somewhere they are happy and beautiful-more beautiful thap they were here-just as the leaves are more beautiful than the bare tree."

The child gazed after them. Then he looked back at the once dead-looking, bare trees. He remembered well the queer, brown sticks. How wonderful it was!

"They seemed dead," she reminded him again, gently; "but you see that they were not."

Day of the Goddess of Dawn.

Easter, or, as it is called in Germany, Ostern, was the day of the Goddess Ostra (her Anglo-Saxon name was Eastre), the goddess of dawn, of the coming morning light. In her honor the bonfires were lighted, and deep-rooted indeed must the worship of her have been, for the name was kept and applied to one of the highest Christian 'feasts.

World's Coldest Town.

Where the rivers freeze to the bot tom and small trees snap off from the biting force of the cold stands the coldest inhabited city in the world-Verkoyansk, in northeastern Siberia.

It is a place of some size, stands 150 feet above the sea level and in winter boasts of a temperature S5 degrees below zero. Its annual average temper ature is 3 degrees above zero.

The Russian government owns the town and is interested in having an administrative center where clever and industrious Kokuts, fur trading Jews of Siberia, carry on their operations .-American Woman.

A Strange Family.

An Indiana farmer reports an interesting case of affection between animals. When a horse of the farmer became affected with fodder poisoning recently a family cat became the companion of the sick animal. After the horse's death the cat refused to leave the stall the horse had occupied. Soon afterward it died, and the farmer expressed the belief that its death was caused by grief for the loss of its companion.

The Paper Knife.

Perhaps the earliest mention of a paper knife on record is that in Swift's work (1755); "I said to Lord Bolingbroke that the clerks in his office used a sort of ivory knife with a blunt edge to divide a sheet of paper, which never failed to cut it even, only requiring a strong hand, whereas if they should make use of a sharp penknife the sharpness would make it often go out of the crease and distigure the paper."

How to Grow Tall.

When the company grows weary of idle talk ask some of the boys if they wish to be instructed in the art of looking tall. It is a funny optical illusion that must be tried to be really realized or understood, yet it is very simple. It merely consists in raising the shoulders, and it is astonishing to see how the simple movement will add to the appearance of height.

I caught Dick by the collar and dragged him away, striking him with my cane at the same time. Griffin seemed very much affected by the encounter, paling and trembling like a leaf, but I was not surprised at this. as it is no light matter to have a dog suddenly spring at one's throat. I did' not have an opportunity to apologize to the man, for Dick was so eager to get at him again that I was obliged to drag him away by main force, and Griffin hurried on.

Had Griffin been some rough unknown man I might have suspected that the dog's action had something to do with the mystery attending Walter Rudd's disapearance. As it was, I put it down to one of those unaccountable dislikes a dog will take to some especial person. But some months after this, when Griffin's schemes turned out burst bubbles and he no better than a common swindler, the thought came upon me that while he and Walter were in the bank together the cashier might have had some reason for getting rid of the teller.

I asked the president of the bank for information bearing on the case and was confidentially informed that during the time referred to Griffin had been carrying a large defalcation. which was discovered only after it was made good.

After consultation with the Rudd famlly I was authorized to employ a detective to get evidence, with a view of confirming our suspicious. It turned out that Rudd knew of JOINT RESOLUTION. Introduced in the house of representatives, December 4, 1911; reintroduced August 5, 1913, and again December 10, 1913, by Congressman Richmond P. Hobson.

Introduced in the senate December 10, 1913, by Senator Morris Sheppard. Whereas, Exact scientific research has demonstrated that alcohol is a narcotic polson, destructive and degenerating to the human organism, and that its distribution as a beverage or contained in foods lays a staggerders of the people, lowers to an appalling degree the average standard of character of our citizenship, thereby undermining the public morals and the foundation of free institutions, produces widespread crime, pauperism and insanity, inflicts disease and untimely death upon hundreds of thousands of citizens and blights with degeneracy their children unborn, threatening the future integrity and the very life of the nation: Therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled (two-thirds of each house concurring therein). That the following amendment of the constitution be, and hereby is, proposed to the states, to become valid as a part of the constitution when ratified by the legislatures of the several states as provided by the constitution:

"ARTICLE -"Section 1. The sale, manufacture for sale, transportation for sale, importation for sale, and exportation for sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes in the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof are forever prohibited.

"Section 2. Congress shall have power to provide for the manufacture, sale, importation, and transportation of intoxicating liquors for sacramental, medicinal, mechanical, pharmaceutical, or scientific purposes, or for use in the arts, and shall have power to enforce this article by all needful egislation."

ABSTINENCE-ONLY SAFE POSI-TION. Total abstinence is certainly per sonal prohibition, and personal prohibitionists ought to vote for national prohibition. It is the moderate drinker that supports the saloon, sustains the brewery and the distillery and breeds the degenerates that fill our prisons, our hospitals, poorhouses and insane asylums. I have treated some 5,000 inebriates in my professional career, all before without exception were moderate drinkers, and in 600 carefully tabulated records of family history there was shown some form of degeneracy present in the direct line of descent and collateral branches, the use of narcotics in some form being present in the parental history. The descendants of the habitual moderate drinker do not escape the evil of the alcoholic taint, in some form of physical, mental, moral degeneracy. The only safety is total abstinence, and this must be impressed on the people .- L. D. Mason, M. D., Boston.

MALAYS NOT OF ONE RACE Common Error, But Travelers Know That It Has No Foundation

In Fact.

Take the Java Malay, be he Javanese, Soundanese or Madourese. Watch him climb a cocoanut palm; in less than no time he is at the top of the smooth trunk, fifty or sixty feet in height. Notice him in the street, squatting-his toes, like those of a monkey, prominent-on the edge of a step or pavement, note his sinuous movements! Is he not a man of nature all over? All the aboriginal inhabitants of the Malay archipelago are Malays, but in Java alone you find the calm, quiet Soundanese of West Java, the true Javanese of Middle Java-a much finer race-and the treacherous Madourese of Madoura and East Java. It is therefore evident that to talk about "Malays" is really incorrect. Anthropologically only is it really correct to term all these peoples Malays; one would not think of terming all white people Aryans. The term "Malay" merely refers to one of the great families of mankind. The Malay men folk, taking them as a whole, do not make as near so good an impression as their women. Contrary to what they really are, they look puny; they are also short, have shifty eyes, a broad nose, perhaps a mustache, seldom a beard; they are lazy, untrustworthy, will harbor revenge for years, are usually ugly. Being Moslems, they all wear a head covering, made of colored linen. The lower classes wear this carelessly, although the Malays of higher standing are very careful in arranging it, which they do very ingeniously. It looks incongruous to see a Malay with a "topee,' or helmet, above his usual head covering; nevertheless, this is general. A pair of cotton pants, a shirt, and a girdle of printed cloth, called a "sarong," form the average Malay's garb, and he is seldom without his "kris,' or dagger-like knife .- T. P.'s Weekly, London.

WOULD BE OF GREAT VALUE

Idea for a Laboratory of Safety Devices Has Been Put Forward by Employers of Labor.

Why not have a laboratory of safety devices is the question asked by many manufacturers who have been giving honest attention to the subject of preserving the health and physical well-being of their employes. With the many safety devices already offered, the average manufacturer is somewhat in the dark as to the appliances which best could befit his business. With this idea in view, it is proposed that a staff of competent engineers be appointed whose sole duty it shall be to test the numerous appliances offered and decide whether they are fitted to the various industries they represent. Fire prevention naturally would prove one of the biggest subjects to be taken under consideration. Many inventions have to do with hose, doors. shutters, etc., and under present conditions the only way for a factory owner to determine their value is to put them to a test-those tests ofttimes being made under conditions where a great loss in human life results.

things are necessary: To honor him present, praise him absent and assist him in his necessities. -Italian Saying.

COMPANY DISHES.

Lobster Canape.-Chop a small onion and fry until a delicate brown in a tablespoonful of butter; add a bunch of water cress finely chopped; one cup of cream, and stir until it bubbles. Season with salt and pepper and a pinch of curry powder. Add a pint of minced lobster; spread on rounds of buttered toast. Sprinkle with cayenne and brown in a very hot oven.

Beet Salad .- Arrange cooked beets which have been finely chopped on lettuce. Cover with a half cupful of stoned and finely cut olives, then with mayonnaise dressing. Sprinkle with chopped capers or hard cooked egg.

When making a plain white layer cake, use the following for a delicious filling:

Pineapple Filling .- Cook a cupful of grated pineapple with a fourth of a cup of sugar ten minutes, then add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, and stir in confectioner's sugar to make it of the consistency to spread. This may be used on top of the cake also.

It is a delicious filling for angel cake baked in layers or for a frosting on a square of angel cake. If you want the cake especially nice, cut in small squares and cover all the surface with the frosting.

Nougat Ice Cream .- Take a quart of plain vanilla ice cream and stir into it a half pound of peanut brittle which has been put through the beat chopper twice. The candy gives the cream a beautiful color and it may be served in meringue cups or in nests of spun sugar.

Anchovy and Cheese Canapes .--Make circles of toast and divide into quarters by putting riced egg white in one and yolk in the opposite and in the other two a relish made by mixing grated cheese with cream and sensoning with paprika and a teaspoonful of anchovy paste. Over all sprinkle a little French dressing and garnish with half a stuffed olive.

PROTECTION OF HOME.

Our chief object is the protection of the home from whatever hurts or destroys. We have learned through the stern yet ofttimes pitiful logic of events that alcoholic drink is the great home-destroying, heart-breaking evil. We are working for the overthrow of the legalized liquor traffic. Our last national convention unanimously voted to use its extensive equipment and its utmost influence in the effort to secure an amendment to the national constitution in accordance with the resolution introduced in congress by Hon. VIEWPOINT OF THE ENEMY. WM. HUSON, Genoa, N. Y.

We always scan the liquor papers with interest and growing satisfaction. They indicate from the viewpoint of the enemy the very encouraging advance of the temperance march, and the reports from their watch towers strengthen our faith and increase our courage. What is meant for a note of warning to the liquor interests comes as a word of cheer to the tectotaler. Indeed, if it were not that we object to supporting the liquor trade by subscribing for its periodicals, we should say to every anti-liquor man and woman, especially to the weak-kneed among us, "take a liquor journal." Their news columns and their editorial writings do not mince words when it comes to setting forth the situation.

A Useful Dunce.

During the Civil war, General Sedgwick had on his staff a very dull lieutenant, who seemed never to be able to do anything without making mistakes. One day a friend asked the general:

"Why do you keep Jones on your staff? He seems a perfect dunce." "Do you know," replied General Sedgwick, "Jones is one of the most useful members of my staff? Before I issue an order, I always have Jones read it. If he can tell what it means, I am sure there can be no chance that anyone will misunderstand it."-Youth's Companion.

Keats a Great Poet.

One of the highest of authorities declares the "Ode to a Nightingale" to be "one of the final masterpieces of human work in all time and for all ages." The same high authority refers to the odes to "Autumn" and to the "Grecian Urn" as being unequaled and unrivaled, the "triumphant .accomplishment of the very utmost beauty possible to human words." In Keats' larger poems are passages that approach very near to poetic perfection. Keats died at twenty-six. And yet he lived long enough to have written some of the finest things in literature.

GOOD BITS FOR OCCASIONS.

For those who are fond of fruit soups this is one worth trying:

Cherry and Pineapple Soup .- Stone a cup of sour cherries (canned ones will answer as well). Cut one or two slices of pineapple into cubes and add to the cherries. Add a cupful or two of grated pineapple to the kernels of the cherry pits with a pint of cherries, add a quart of water and cook 20 minutes. Mix half a cup of sugar with two teaspoonfuls of arrow root, and stir into the hot soup. Cook ten minutes, strain and set aside to cool, or it may be served hot, garnished with the fruit.

Huntington Salad .- Chop very fine some white cabbage (there should be two-thirds of a cupful); add a softened cream cheese to the cabbage; mix well. Season with salt, roll into balls. sprinkle with paprika and serve with French dressing on lettuce.

Crab Meat and Red Peppers .- Remove the yolks from four hard cooked eggs, mash and add two tablespoonfuls of fine bread crumbs; chop the whites fine, add these with a tablespoonful and a half of red pepper finely chopped. The canned will do nicely. Put into a saucepan four tablespoonfuls of butter; when melted stir in the egg mixture and cook until smooth, adding a little at a time a cup of cream, then add a cupful of crab meat, season highly and serve in patties or on circles of buttered toast.

Cherry and Almond Mousse .-- Cook a cupful of sugar and water together until it threads, then pour slowly over the whites of three eggs well beaten; when cold fold in a pint of whipped cream. Add a cupful of orange juice. Put into a small covered pail and pack in ice and salt for five hours. Turn out on a platter and press lady fingers all around the mold, each with a candled cherry on top, and scatter chopped cherries and almonds over all.

Mexican Tomato Salad .--- Rub n salad bowl with the cut side of a clove of garlic; line the bowl with lettuce. Dispose allces of tomatoes sprinkled with chopped green pepper and onion in the dish and garnish, with thin slices of olives. Serve with five tablespoonfuls of olive oil, two of lemon juice and salt and cayenne to taste.

Cut bananas into balls with a potsto cutter, roll in French dressing and nuts, and serve in nests of wabss oreas. with French dressing.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES

Next Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p. m. a man from Cornell University who attended the Student Volunteer convention at Kansas City last winter, will address us on a most timely theme. All welcome. There were 129 people present last Sunday morning and 145 in the evening. We should not let our attendance fall below that next Sunday.

The services last Sunday were very impressive and beautiful. At the morning service the choir sang two well rendered anthems; and the pastor preached on "Some of the Evidences of Immortality". Mrs. Couse had decorated the church so as to remind us of the significance of Easter. In the evening, the Sunday school and choir joined in a service of almost one continual flow of music in honor of the Risen Lord. The Ladies' Aid is to meet with Mrs. W. H. Peckham at her home, next Tuesday after noon. Supper is to be served for .0 cents.

A call is being issued for old magazines and newspapers. If you wish to dispose of your magazines and papers bring them to the parsonage barn When collected they will be sent away.

The choir have decided to meet regularly on Friday evening, each week. We are glad for this because we need their Major General George Barnett, the new commandant of the United States marine corps, has been connected with that branch of Uncle Sam's military establishment for over thirty years. He succeeds Major General W. P. Blddle, who is to be retired.

The United States marine corps is an independent branch of the military service of the United States, serving generally under the direction of the secretary of the navy. The corps may be detached by order of the president for service with the army, and on various occasions parts of the corps have so served. The authorized strength of the corps is 346 officers and 9.921 enlisted men. The officers comprise 1 major general commandant, 11 colonels, 12 lieutenant colonels, 28 majors, 107 captains, 90 first lieutenants and 97 second lieutenants. Commissioned officers are appointed from graduates of the Naval academy, from worthy noncommissioned officers and from civil life. Among the duties of the corps are those of garrisoning the Panama canal zone and furnishing garrisons for navy yards and naval stations; also to serve on board all battleships and armored cruisers of the navy and such other vessels as may be directed in detachments of not less than 8 per cent of the strength of the enlisted men of the navy on said vessels. The new head of the corps is a native of Wisconsin and in his fifty-fifth year. He was educated at the United States Naval academy, from which he was graduated in 1883. He was at once assigned to the marine corps and has since seen service in all parts of the world.

is wearing and dangerous because the inflamed. mucus-filled tubes interfere with breathing and the fresh air passes through that unhealthy tissue.

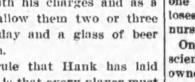

Probably no other remedy affords such prompt and permanent relief as Scott's Emulsion; it checks the cough, heals the linings of the throat and bronchial tubes and strengthens the lungs to avert tuberculosis. This point cannot be emphasized too strongly-that Scott's Emulsion has been suppressing bronchitis for forty years and will help you.

More Tailored Suits Than We've Ever Had Before.

A really extraordinary showing of good values at $15 to $65. A tailored suit is the bread and butter of every woman's spring wardrobe an indispensable part-no matter how many dressy suits (which may be likened to cake and pies) she may own. Critical Auburn dressers have never had an opportunity to choose from such a large and striking diversity of models as are gathered here now at $15 to $65. The tailored suit this season is quite different-more dainty, feminine, more "dressy" if you will. It has lost a good deal of its severeness and plainness and has become a "real beauty and thing of joy." In the wonderful collection we are showing are models to suit every preference, all very recent creations, many being exact copies of imported Paris models. Other clever adaptions. The materials cover a wide range of fashionable fabrics and all the latest colors-New blue, tango, green, brown, as well as black and navy are represented from the least expensive at $15 to

REFLECTS LIFE OF SECTION

Homespun Language Welf Described as Having Race-Old Distillation of Wisdom.

The life of every section is reflected in its speech. Why should it not be taught pride in the very archaisms it possesses? We have a storehouse on which we can never afford to turn the key. Take a lower Mississippi sentence that Clemens might have copied: "There's been a fray on the river-I don't know how the fraction began, but Dan and Bill feathered into the Joneses with their rifles." Agincourt bowmen would have understood "feathered into."

In the tongue of the Appalachians storm is tempest, gay is gamesome, strong is sur-vigorous, the air is the element, agriculture is tilth and husbandry, medicine is physick. The people speak in metaphor as readily as the Tudors. One can hear in the Great Smokies, as in Marlowe, of cowards whose blood is snow-broth and heroes bold as brass.

To become ashamed of speech with a colloguial flavor is to become ashamed of the very speech that is primitive thews and muscles. The orable, generous, and, in the main, homespun language has a past; in it maniy as it is possible for a man to beats the heart of democratic feeling, be. Burns had his faults, but they and its sayings and phrases have a race-old distillation of wisdom .- New Chicago Examiner. York Post.

Whistler Did Not Care. One day the late James McNelll Whistler, the famous artist, went into a London hat shop. He stood there bareheaded, as the clerk had taken his hat to another part of the shop to match it. As he leaned idly against the counter, a man rushed up to him, took off his hat, thrust it into Whistler's face, and exclaimed in anger: "Look here, I want you to understand that I know something about hats, and I insist that this hat doesn't fit me!"

Whistler looked at the man with interest; then he smiled politely, "Please put the hat on," he said, and the angry man did so. Whistler looked him over critically from head to foot; then in his peculiar, drawling manner, he said: "Quite right, quite right, sir, it does not fit. Neither does your cost; and furthermore, your waistcoat is too large, and your trousers are a horrible color."

The Winner.

A benevolent old lady in one of the streets which still retain the redbrick houses of old-time New York looked out of her parlor window one day and saw a man walking up and down the sidewalk, apparently in great dejection. There was something pathetic and appealing in his manner; so she took a dollar bill, put it in an envelope and wrote on the envelope. "Never say die."

She slipped out of the house in the most casual manner she could assume and handed the envelope to the man as she passed him.

Next day the same melancholy man called at her house and presented her with ten dollars.

"It's funny," he said, "you're the only one that backed that horse called Never Say Die."
