Ever Eat It?

There is a dish of the olden time that has been crowded almost out of memory by the ruthless tide of common events. It was a cold weather food that came with the snow and hog killing time and then vanished with the angry clouds and howling winds.

When one ate it the green grass melted away the snow, the birds sang in the blossoming cherry trees and old frigid winter became the middle of May. It was so easy to eat. It melted in the mouth like ice cream, it was so soft and delicate. Let a person fully satisfy his appetite on it, and he could go out in zero weather and enjoy a tropical blessing. This food did not last long, for it was part of an event that soon hurried by, and this was a grateful dispensation, too. for a person would be apt to eat too much of it if it lasted long. But it is well it passed away. This degenerate generation, filled with caramels and angels' food, couldn't appreciate it. But in those beautiful days before the war it was a beloved diet. We refer to hogshead cheese .- Ohio State Journal.

Moods of the Bay of Fundy.

The bay of Fundy is full of strange and contradictory features. Grand Manan island, which lies to the port hand of a vessel entering the bay, is one rocky graveyard-on the reef to the southeast an impaled ship is a common sight. Every indentation, nay, every rocky cranny, bears some terrible and suggestive name descriptive of some maritime tragedy. On the island, twelve miles in length and scarcely inhabited, is a graveyard filled with the bodies of unknown satiors. A little above Trinity rock the coast of Nova Scotia rises in rocky parapets from the sea and a narrow inlet admits to the Annapolis valley where, strange to say, the eye rests on

Cold and Colds.

"Without having gone anywhere near either pole," writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, "I have had my experience of the fact that intense cold outside stops the cold in the head. We were six men essaying the ascent of the Grand Combin in the Alps (over 14.000 feet). From our first attempt we were driven back by a thunderstorm, and a stay of some hours to dry in the but with the stove going woke up all the microbes. When we returned to the hut next day from the valley there were at least four severe colds among us, with sneezing and sore throats. On the third morning we traversed our peak. slowly cutting snow and ice steps in weather memorably bitter even for that height. On the other side it suddenly occurred to me that I had no 'cold' left, and the others made the same discovery."

Not on the Play Bill.

Miss Mary Moran, the English actress, tells of an incident that occurred. when she was playing Belle, the wicked lady in R. C. Carton's play, "The Tree of Knowledge." to a holiday audience. At the end of the fourth act Belle leaves her husband and goes away with the villain of the piece. In a moment of remorse she bends over her sleeping husband, kisses him and. taking from her neck his mother's chain, she places it beside him, remarking as she exits: "The best and the worst of us are fools." On this particular occasion the clasp of the chain refused to unclasp. Twice she tried to remove it, when a voice from the gallery exclaimed: "Keep it, Belle. You'll want something to pawn if you're go-

Prosperity Is Communistic.

A man cannot prosper in any honest business without benefiting the community as well as himself, for he cannot induce men to deal with him without offering them an advantage; and, taking all the transactions of life together, the advantages which men offer to others must, on the whole, be equal to those which they receive themselves. Doing business, therefore, is a very effectual and extended mode of doing good, and the fortune which is acquired in doing it is, in a very important sense, the measure and index of the good done.-Jacob Abbott.

The Ship's Rat.

The black rat is the ship's rat, and it travels from country to country. The animal is found universally over the Monte Bello group of islands, even on the small outlying islets which are never visited, on which it occurs most abundantly. Its presence is attributed to a schooner which was wrecked some. twelve years ago, for it is well known that this rat is a good swimmer. It is curious to find that this animal, which is now so rare in its native countries as to be looked upon as a great curiosity, should usually be one of the first species to populate new lands where it is comparatively free from competition. Driven from all civilized countries by the brown rat, it has taken to the sea, being better adapted for a life on board ship than its otherwise victorious rival.-P. D. Montague in Geographical Journal.

Curious Ball Play.

A ball club in a regular game made six hits in one inning, one of them a triple, and yet not a single run crossed the plate. This terrific bombardment with freakish result was pulled off in the first inning of the game. The first man to face the pitcher smashed the ball to the corner of the lot for a triple and was thrown out at the plate trying to stretch his hit into a home run. The second batsman swatted a single and, like his predecessor, tried to make an extra base and was heaved out at second. The third batsman and the fourth and fifth also singled. filling the bases. . The sixth man at the plate hit the ball between first and second base, and the runner who had been on first was bit by the batted ball, retiring the side without a run scoring .-- Chicago Tribune.

Analyzing a Raindrop. Rain water as it leaves the clouds is pure. As it passes through the atmosphere it absorbs more or less carbonic acid gas and air, which it carries with, it into the ground. As it seeps through the upper soll it will generally absorb still more carbonic ac'd gas from the decaying animal and vegetable matter almost always present. Should the water fall on insoluble rocks, such as granite or marble, it will remain fairly pure. But if it passes through a layer of limestone the carbonic acid gas which it carries will cause it to dissolve away this rock, and as a result bicarbonate of lime will be present in the water. Should it pass through a layer of sulphate of lime or gypsum. the water will contain a large amount of this material. It is generally known that the birarbonates of lime and magnesia when present in the water form a compara-1.7ely soft scale; the chlorides and nitrates are apt to cause corrosion. and the salts of soda and potash present, while not scale forming, are apt to cause foaming when sufficiently concentrated.-Power.

Sunlight and Fresh Air.

The word disinfectant has become a household term, and almost every one knows that it means something that destroys germs, though comparatively few know what our best and cheapest disinfectants are.

The most useful and efficient all round disinfectant that we have is the sun, and the air is his worthy ally. Fresh air dilutes germs as water dilutes filth, and the lustiest germ will quickly curl up its toes and die if exposed to the sunlight. But fresh air and sunlight are abundant and cheap. so of course we usually prefer to use some disinfectant that smells bad and

REDUCE CONGESTION.

There are commercial and industrial interests which, blinded by the privileges of the present. fail to see the advantages of the golden era of the future. These interests, therefore, while yielding to the growing demand for city planning, adhere to the antiquated ideals and methods which have been so well expressed in Paris and Berlin and which are based wholly on the principle of workaday commercialism and industrial profits rather than upon the principles of human efficiency and Importance of Local Rural Building social progress. Unless we realize the importance of reducing congestion, distributing adequately and equitably the advantages of parks, playgrounds, social and educational centers, give easy and cheap access to the opportunities for employment to the people as a whole, this country will be developing slums and their products - poverty, immorality, crimes, disease and death .- Dr. Carol Aronovici.

WHAT "BOOSTING" DOES.

Good Deal Comes From Faith In One's Own Town.

To make money in your own community you need faith in that community. If you haven't got that faith you'd better move out, says John M. Oskison in the Chicago News.

In my youth I went to school in a little town which was said to have a population of 3,500. About four or five new houses a year were put up, and about every five years a little mill, a steam laundry or a small private school would be erected. The town grew so larger profit by selling their products slowly that everybody began to believe in the same co-operative manner. The that it wasn't growing at all. co-operative plan is spreading. It

Week of March 23-28

The Syracuse Chamber of Commerce has offered silver cups to the merchants who display the best trimmed windows during the week. These windows will be judged Thursday, March 26, by experts from New York City and Chicago.

Special music will be provided by several of the stores and interiors will present a gorgeous and beautiful effect.

need. Every boy or girl desiring the equivalent of a good high school education in and for agriculture should have the opportunity of acquiring that training.

Fourth .- Join in the demand for the passage by congress of the Lever bill appropriating federal money to the several agricultural colleges for extension work in agriculture and home economics. This means the democratizing of agricultural education the nation over. It means that the best knowledge gained in agricultural research will be placed at the disposal of of boosters had been good for it. the humblest farmer; that a great educational campaign for better farming in all its aspects will be carried into every farming community.

This bill, if enacted into law, promises not only a distinct advance in the agricultural educational field, but indeed a national intellectual uplift of an air which says, "You may think I'm great proportions and significance. Fifth.-Strive for at least, prelimi- quite recovered from the temporary nary steps to bring together on a na- slump!" tional basis the various agencies that are seeking rural welfare. We should try to solve it on large lines and with solidified endeavor.

Sixth.-Above all, perhaps, try to stir religious forces to new effort in the rural field. The country church faces a crisis. Rural advance is leaving the church behind. But the rural movement must not become materialistic. It can easily be spiritualized. It needs stands supremely for the great ideals of love and brotherhood and service. The rural Sunday school, the rural Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. should be encouraged and strengthened everywhere. We need their point of view, and above all we need their ideals of character building and of community building.

So may the new year set a new standard in all rural life endeavor.

A Municipal Theater.

The little town of Lewes, Del., has conducted a successful municipal theater for several years, where clean amusement for its citizens is offered. The theater was built by public subscription several years ago and is in cuarge of a small commission, which looks after its affairs. When the young men and Madles of the town want to hold a dance the hall is turned over to them free of charge. For all home talent affairs as well the hall is given gratis. A plano has been purchased and is being paid for by celebration of that little town's possibilities and see the amused smiles on the faces of those business people he talked with. It seemed to me a hopeless task Brown had undertaken.

But Brown had faith enough in the town to keep on and to put up as much other mills and industries. By the time I left that town to go to callege it Clover and Timothy Seed. had become almost popular to boost.

Last fall I dropped into the old place. and I had a talk with Brown. Long ago, through his capacity for waking the sleeping faith of men. Brown had risen out of his harness and saddle shop and was a factor in a great industry which had been developed since I went away to college. The town itself was changed. The new blood brought in by Brown and his crowd

It is true that the town is in a slump. Not even Brown will attempt to deny it. But it is just as certain as anything economic can be that Brown and his regiment of believers in the town's should be correlated. You can make your faith in your community pay.

Playgrounds In 1913.

Industrial work, study classes, debating, gardening, dramatics, music, motion pictures, dancing, skating, swimming, story telling-these are among the activities which have characterized playgrounds and recreation centers the leadership of that institution that during the past year. In at least seventy cities supervised playgrounds were opened for the first time. Altowether 642 American cities were active in developing and maintaining playgrounds and recreation centers, an increase of 109 during the year. In 342 of these there was regular paid supervision. In fifteen cities streets were set aside for play, and in ninetysix cities coasting was permitted on certain streets. These are some of the interesting facts of the recreation census for the year ending Nov. 1, 1913.

The Daisy.

The Latin name of the daisy comes from a word meaning "pretty," and all will agree that it is well named. Our English word daisy is really "day's eye," and that is what it was called many hundred years ago. Like the dandelion, each of its flowers is made up of a number of little ones, the tiny golden "disk flowers" in the center and the long white "ray flowers" around them. Daisies growing on the prairies from Kentucky to Texas have violet or purple rays. To this same big family or "order" belong the asters, robin's plantain, goldenrod, dahlia, boneset and many other common but beautiful wild flowers that all know so well. If you look at the flowers in the yellow center of a daisy through a microscope you will find that each is shaped like a bell and has pointed teeth ou its edge.

Robbing the Crabs.

In some of the islands of the Malay archipelago and neighboring countries the cocoanut husk is obtained in a curious manner. An enormous crab is found there that lives on the fruit, climbing the trees and tearing them off, either hurling them down or breaking them by tearing off the husk and then beating them against the rocks with its huge claws.

The husk that the crabs take from the fruit they carry to their holes at the foot of the trees and make a bed of it and, knowing this, the Malays visit and rob the crabs once or twice a year, using the husk to weave into mats.

THE THE NEW CONCRETE CITY A HOME FOR WORKINGMEN.

Coal Company's Settlement Provides Good Quarters at Low Cost.

Every one of the twenty double conrete houses in Concrete City, the modof village built by the Delaware, Lack-(waama and Western Coal company near Nanticoke, Pa., is occupied. A park, which is surrounded by houses. tone remains to be completed.

The houses are two story structures, 50 by 25 feet, built of concrete, with flat roofs and dark green triunnings. They are modeled in one piece, after the idea of Thomas A. Edison, but under another mau's patent and adaptation, according to the Coal and Coke Operator. Floors, walls, roofs, stairways and even sinks and wash basins are made in a mold of "poured" concrete. They are so constructed that on occasion the furniture may be all removed and the entire house thormighly washed out with a hose.

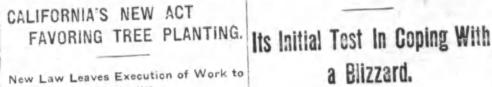

Each house contains seven rooms and has a stationary washtub, a buttery and a dry cellar. Wooden strips are embodied in the floors, so that carpets may be tacked down. Below the French windows, opening outward, window boxes for flowers are set in the walls. There are also boxes for flowers set in the sides of the front steps, above which small overhanging roofs are supported by chains.

There is ample space behind each house for a truck garden, and prizes will be given for the best kept grounds. A complete sewage system has been installed, concrete walks surround and will intersect the central square, and the whole place is surrounded by a stout wire fence. The effect of the rectangle of the houses. with their little red chimneys and trim lawns in "apple pie" order, is said to be most effective.

TREES BEAUTIFY PARIS.

One Hundred and Twenty Men Are Required to Care For Them.

A report on the raising, planting and upkeep of the trees which so beautify the streets and boulevards of Paris has been made to the department of commerce at Washington by Vice Consul General Lucien Memninger, stationed at Paris. From statistics furnished by the municipal department having charge of the trees of Paris Mr. Memninger learns that they number all told 86,-686, cared for throughout the year by a force of men numbering 120, at a cost of nearly $100,000.

The new tree planting act now in force in California cities leaves the execution of the work to the municipali ties rather than to contractors and brings each city into direct relation with the property owners in the matter of tree planting, says the American City.

Before ordering any work to be done the city council must adopt a resolution of intention describing the proposed work and referring it to the city board, commission or officer in charge of tree planting, or, in the absence of such, to the city engineer. This board or officer then makes a report on the proposed improvement, with plans and specifications for the work, including a statement of the kinds of trees and the air most important bulletins of the shrubs, their approximate ages and traffic between Scranton, Pa., and sizes, together with an estimate of Binghamton, N.ºY., together with occacost, a diagram and a statement of the proposed assessment.

Proceedings may be stopped for six months by property owners representing a majority of the frontage on the proposed work. After hearing the protests the city council may confirm, correct or reject the proposed assessment. If the work is ordered done the city clerk gives the diagram and assessment to the tax collector, who records them in his office and fixes a time limit for the payment of assessments. After due notice, property representing delinquent assessments is sold. The work is done under the supervision and control of the board or officer that made the initial report on the proposed improvement. From Hoboken west to Scranton trains were dead in the drifts because of impeded tracks or because the telegraph signal service was ruined. Sagging poles and fallen wires prevented all usual means of communication. From Scranton eastward not a Lackawanna wire was working.

First Test In a Storm Crisis.

All news of the road from Buffalo back to Scranton would have been held up at the latter city had it not been for ly for the first time in a storm crisis. But from the two big wireless stations the road maintains at Binghamed to the New York stations on the roof of a department store, on the tower of the Woolworth building and to the Marconi office. These bulletins were received at President Truesdale's office every half hour or so.

They gave the news that westward from Scranton the road was in excellent shape, but that the division superintendent at Scranton had learned of numerous trains stalled between Dover and Scranton. They reassured the president and officials with the tidings that there had been no wreck or acci

-----FACTOR IN ACCIDENTS. During the last few years a number of very startling accidents have been clearly traceable to mistakes of persons using intoxicants. In most cases this fact is suppressed, since, if known, the responsibility would center on some individual and become the basis for damage suits. Dr. T. D. Crothers of Hartford, Conn., who has made a study of alcohol's connection with recent disasters, gives some of his findings in investigating the causes of railroad and steamship casualties, factory explosions, fires, automobile accidents and the like. We quote: "Laboratory studies and the assertions of the most competent experts testify to the fact that no appreciable dose of alcohol is safe to the human body. To many men this seems a very extravagant claim and seemingly contradicted by experience, when apparent good work is done by persons who use spirits. The laboratory shows that the action of spirits is that of an anesthetic on the senses and in this way the integrity of the brain is impaired and the evidences of the outer world through the senses are deranged, lowered and lessened. The laboratory shows that reasoning under these conditions is very apt to be taulty. It lacks in rapidity and accuracy. Conclusions are reached on insecure basis and judgment of events lacks clearness. Laboratory studies show a cell and motor derangement.

and loss of control, which may be slight at first, but later increased. The ordinary caution seems to be diminished and persons act recklessly, and both say and do things which later are proved to be faulty. There is a species of egotism which follows the anesthesia from spirits that is very misleading and dangerous."

Features of New York Tercentenary New York city's celebration of the tercentenary of the beginning of her commercial prowess will open on March 27, which is the three hundredth anniversary of the granting of its first general charter for regular commerce, and is scheduled to continue for six months. The celebration will close on Oct: 11, the tercentenary of the granting to New Netherlands of the first special charter for trading. In April and May the celebration will be confined to commemorative exercises in public schools and higher in stitutions of learning, including a com parative exhibition of commercial edu cation in America and foreign coun tries. In June, July and August it is proposed to hold a series of exhibi tions of the material resources of the various states. Notwithstanding the celebrations in San Francisco in 1915 of the opening of the Panama canal, New York will celebrate the practical completion of the canal as a part of the tercentenary be the holding of a pan-American con-

"The city of Paris," continues Mr. Memninger. "has large and varied plantations just outside the fortifications, where flowers, exotic shrubs and trees are grown. One hundred and thirteen hothouses for plants, exotic shrubs and flowers are heated from one central heating plant, distributing bot water through a nine and ore-half title system of pipes. The object of this control heating organization is not. as the head gardener explains, with a view to economy. In fact, such a system is far more costly than separate installations for each group of hothouses, but is thus arranged to avoid the existence of a series of unsightly blaineys which would destroy the artistic effect of the grounds, which are more or less a public resort and show phiree."

NEW KIND OF LIFE PRESERVER

Inventor Says It Will Sustain One Week In Roughest Seas.

As the result of a remarkable dem enstration of a new sort of life preserver Representative J. M. Gudger, Jr., of North Carolina will ask the government to assign an expert to the task of looking into the possibilities of the device as an article which will minimize the dangers of sea travel. The inventor is J. W. Buchanan of Asheville, N. C. The preserver is in the form of a union suit and is fleece lined and vulcanized. W. J. Staples. with a preserver on, remained in the ice cold water of the Swannanoa river over an hour, while those who witnessed the demonstration shivered in the cold as they stood in two inches of snow.

The inventor claims that the suit will keep the wearer allve in the ocean for more than a week, regardless of the roughness of the waves or the temperature of the water. It has a compartment for the storage of food and drink of sufficient quantity to last a person a week.

It is then either emptied litto the sewer, or disposed of in some other legal way. The deputy said, 'Some surprise has been expressed to see so much liquor in Portland, but all there is in these three rooms would not be sufficient to stock one licensed saloon in Boston, New York, or Chicago.' He further said 'But for the Webb law we could not have touched any of the stuff in the large room, and very little of what is in the other two rooms.""

Two surgeons stood over a man who was near death from taking an anaesthetic-so near that both believed he would never pull through. They did hercic work to save him, and for some time it seemed their efforts would be in vain. Life's current ebbed and flowed and sometimes seemed to cease entirely. So tense were the moments that the sweat stood on their foreheads. At last there was a faint glimmer of hope, and when it was seen that death for a time had been beaten, one of the doctors, a leader in his profession in this county, stood up and said: . Temperance work today is very practical as compared with the sentimental exhortations of yesterday. In these days when "efficiency" is so general a watchword in the world of business and labor, we are finding not so directly that a man is a knave who drinks to excess, or even at all, as No other Newspaper in the that he is a fool. A runner who ties a weight about his leg is no greater dunce than the workingman or the merchant who puts a dram of liquor into his digestion or his brain. It is capable of proof by figures and diagrams that the drinker of even an occasional glass of wine or beer or whisky injures the work of both his hands and his mind, while the habitual drinker sews up his mental and manual machinery permanently. This

"No," she said. "I will remain here, My influence with him has not been sufficient to prevent this misfortune, and my presence with him would do more harm than good. If there is anything left when you get there you may save it."

There was the same sad look in the eyes, the same peculiar smile on the lips, as those of the "Mona Lisa," and they were as unintelligible to me on the living face as in the portrait. What prompted me to ask the question I rannot explain, but I said:

"Do you think you could influence me to do your bidding?"

"I am quite sure I could." The smile with which she said this reminded me more than ever of the smile on the lips of the "Mona Lisa."

I accepted her suggestion and went over to Monte Carlo. Mrs. Twining had informed me that, the day before When Roy and I left Miss Gooding my arrival at Nice. Roy had changed he spoke not a word to me as we his hotel. She did not say why, but I saw by her look she inferred that he he was saying mentally, "Well, what had been called upon to pay his bill and had not the means to do so. She had not yet been informed of his new address. I arrived at Monte Carlo about 9 o'clock in the evening and. after registering, went immediately to the gambling pavilion, expecting to find Roy there. I was surprised not to see him and was about to leave when an attendant stepped up to me, asked me my name and, upon my telling him. said that I was wanted at the telephone. On taking up the receiver and asking who was waiting for me Roy said:

> "I'm not feeling well enough to go to the pavilion tonight, and I wish you to lay a stake for me. Put $10 on the red and leave it there till I send word for you to take it off."

> "Roy," I said, "I must see you at once. At what hotel are you staying?" I waited for a reply, but no reply came.

"Roy," I called-"Roy, are you there?

All was as silent as the grave. I did not know where he was stopping, but resolved to go at once and search the hotels for him. As I was about to leave the pavilion the face of Mrs. Twining

Fresh Air.

There is throughout the civilized world an increasing knowledge of the value of sunlight and of fresh air. Benjamin Franklin in 1754 wrote: Physicians have discovered that fresh air is beneficial to those who are ill. Perhaps in 100 years they will find it does not hurt those who are well." It has taken over the century prophesied by Franklin, but at last boards of health, bureaus of charity, trustees of schools, commissions on housing, intelligent bodies in all phases of civic life urge the need of securing all possible sunlight and fresh air. - Exchange.

MONUMENTS TO THE POTATO

There Are Several Handsome Ones In England and Germany.

Although America is the original home of the potato, it is only in Europe that monuments have been erected to honor the familiar vegetable. There are several such monuments in Germany and England costing large sums of money and presenting the work of famous sculptors. The most elaborate is that at Offenburg, which honors Sir Francis Drake as the first man to introduce potatoes into Europe. The monument consists of an excellent statue of Drake, rising from an elaborate base decorated with garlands of the potato plant, with full grown tubers. Several tablets are placed about the base stating that Drake first brought the potato to Europe, with various laudatory inscriptions as to the value of the potato to civilization. A similar monument to Drake and the potato has been erected As a matter of historic fact, Drake had nothing whatever to do with introducing the potato to Europe. It is generally supposed that Sir Walter Raleigh was the discoverer of the potato, and stories are told of his appearing on the streets of London wearing a buttonhole bouquet of potato blossoms in order to attract attention to the new According to one version, the potatoes were first planted by Drake in Ireland.

The fact is that the potato was first taken from America by the Spanish long before the exploration of either Drake or Raleigh .- Pittsburgh Dispatch._

Many are the eccentricities to which wills have borne testimony from time to time. The Earl of Portarlington left instructions that he should be buried with all his rings on his fingers. The late Earl of Orkney stipulated that he should be taken to the cemetery in an old fashioned hearse, so that the coffin could not be seen and that no flowers should be placed on his grave. He also left word that his coronet would be found by his nephew and successor "in a cellar" of his house

A Vienna millionaire, who died recently, left a sum of money with which to defray the cost of tweive months' electric lighting, not only of his vault, but even of the very coffin in which he was buried. Roy and Miss Gooding were married. Roy was well fixed in the matter of income; the wife had nothing. They went abroad on a wedding trip and had been there about a year when Mrs. Twining wrote me about Roy. She said he had joined a club in Parls where gambling was much in vogue and had lost considerable money. She said further that she wished she could get her husband back to America. where I would help her in the matter. for she was aware that I had considerable influence on Roy.

The letter was evidently an appeal for me to come over to Paris and save what remained of Roy's fortune. There were reasons besides my interests in the Twinings to induce me to go over. a was a man of business and had been working too hard, with the result that was threatened with nervous prostration. The winter was a cold one. and my doctor had advised me to quit work and go to a warm climate, recommending a trip to the Mediterranean and Nice as a stopping point. This would help me to draw Roy away from his club in Paris. I wrote him to meet me in Nice.

The Twinings had been in Nice a fortnight when I arrived. I found Mrs. Twining there, but not her husband. He had gone to Monte Carlo. bad evidently got Roy out of the fryfog pan and put him in the fire. His wife told me that he had lost nearly everything he had in Paris, and she was prepared to hear that he had lost the rest at Monte Carlo. He had asked her on arriving at Nice to go there with her, hoping to recoup. She had refused, and he had gone alone She did not break down under the or fancied it as saying: "Do as Roy has bid you. If you don't you may have cause to regret it. If you do it may result in a run of luck." I hesitated and turned toward the room where a crowd about the roulette table listened to the monotonous call of the croupier, "Make your bets!"

I went in, stood over the table for a few moments, looking on, then took a United States gold eagle from my pocket and placed it on the red. I felt that I would rather lose that amount than refuse Roy's request. After it was gone that would end the matter, and it was sure to go at last, because I would obey his instructions not to take it off till he sent word to do so.

The ball spun and the red won, many times the amount of the stake-I have forgotten how many, for I have never bet a cent since. And I kept on winning; I have forgotten how many times the red won before the same attendant who had summoned me to the telephone tapped me on the arm and told me that Mr. Twining had telephoned I was to take the stake off the red and place it somewhere else. I remember moving a heap of money several times after that, but where I placed it I don't know, though 1 do know that every time I moved it there was a greater abundance. I have lost remembrance, too, of the instructions I received or whether I received any instructions after the first or second. nor can l positively assert that I was not playing on my own responsibility. There came at last a sudden awakening, and I seemed to realize what I had been doing. I saw a heap of money on the remained there a long while. They table and, gathering it up, bore it away.

When I awoke in the morning and went downstairs the landlord asked me if I knew the American who had killed himself the day before. I asked the name and was told that it was Twining.

This is all the statement I have to make except that Twining was dead when I heard his voice. His wife when I saw her again had that same "Mona Lisa" look on her face, and 1 fancied I could see traces of the smile. But that should naturally be referred to the imagination.

The money I had won was about half what Twining had lost after his marriage. I was obliged, literally, to force. Mrs. Twining to take it.

There are three hypothetical explanadons:

First.-Was I not in an abnormal physical condition? Did I not create most of the experience and win a lot of money at gambling?

Second .- Did Twining in the spirit play through me in order to provide for his wife?

Third.-Did Mrs. Twining cause mg axperience? If asked to which of these
