Grand Lodge of Masons.

The one hundred and thirty-third annual communication of the Grand Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New York, will be held in Masonic hall, West Twenty-fourth street, New York City, Tuesday, May 5, at 2 o'clock. The convocation will last three days, and action on matters of much interest to the 180,000 Masons in the state will be taken.

The Masonic hall in New York City and the Home at Utica are owned by the fraternity of the entire state, and represent an investment of $4,000,000 on which there is an indebtedness Grand Master Charles Smith, of Ore-onta, in trying to clear the property, has raised voluntary contributions from the lodges amounting to $150,- 000. It is expected that this will be greatly increased at the Grand Lodge sessions and the property relieved of debt.

The master of each of the 825 lodges in the forty-two districts of the state will attend the convention.

A MISTAKEN IDEA

There are some people who still resort to drugged pills or alcoholic syrups to overcome colds, nervousness or general debility, and who know that the pure, unadulterated nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is eminently better, but refrain from taking it because they fear it may lead to excessive fat or obesity.

This is a mistaken idea, because Scott's Emulsion first strengthens the body before making flesh. Its blood-forming properties aid nature to throw off sickness by building health from its very source, and flesh is forced only by its continued use.
Avoid alcoholic substitutes for SCOTT'S.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of

She was at Ithaca with her husband for a long time. She felt as if she would enjoy coming home, but when she came she was not able to reach her home here and was very kindly cared for at Mr. Breed's. She has been sick a long time and was a great sufferer. She was so patient always and everything that loving hands could do for her was done. It is truly said that none knew her but to love her. She was always of a cheerful disposition, having a pleasant word and smile for everyone. She will be greatly missed in the neighborhood but nowhere as in her own home.

She was 54 years of age. She leaves besides her husband, James D. Remer, one daughter, Mattie De-Remer, two brothers, Hiram of Union Springs and George of this place, and resides with George Jump. The fun-home of her brother, George and family last Saturday at 3 o'clock.

The Rev. E. I. Dresser of Ithaca officiated. The flowers were lovely including a beautiful piece from the Odd Fellows of which Mr. DeRemer is a member and also one from the Rebekahs of which the daughter is a member, and others that your scribe has not learned. They were all very handsome and such a large quantity.
The family and relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of their many friends in their bereavement. Her remains were placed in the vault in the Maplewood cemetery.

have that happen to a splendid hunter.

Mr. Claude Palmer met the attendants from Willard Monday and took them to get Mrs. Olive Smith and they went back on the noon train to Willard.

pail full, he went farther back in the woods to see how high the cowslips were for greens. The fog was so dense he couldn't see where to go, and finally decided he was lost. After gazing about for some time and not knowing which way to turn, he heard some one chopping wood. By following the sound, he found the man who was chopping, and was soon on the way home.

Farm Bureau Organized.

A formal organization of the Cayuga County Farm Bureau was completed last Friday at the meeting held at the Court House in Auburn. Over 100 representatives were present, farmers and 80 men joined the association. J. Robert Teall, manager of the bureau, has the names of more than 200 men who signified their intention of joining but who were not able to be present. The constitution and by-laws as recommended by the committee appointed for this purpose were adopted.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, William B. Avery of Aurora; vice president, E. B. Rounds of New Hope; secretary, Ernest Taber of Osto;
treasurer, George P. Yawger of Union Springs. The Executive Committee consists of the president, secretary and treasurer of the association; James Avery, representing the Board of Supervisors; Charles Fitts representing the Pomona Grange; B. A.
Dean representing the Auburn Business Men's Association, and Oscar Livingston of Ira representing the Cayuga County Farm Bureau.

Manager J. Robert Teall of the bureau spoke to the farmers briefly.
He firmly believes in the agricultural possibilities of Cayuga county and that with a thorough organization in the county and practical working bureau, with every farmer pulling for the common good, much can be done toward placing Cayuga county among the first agricultural counties of the state and country. The land here, he declared, was fertile and some of it was among the best acres for agriculture in the whole United States. There was an apparent lack of application of modern methods in reducing costs of production and increasing production, he said, but improvement in this line required study and education and it was his purpose, he said, as manager of the bureau to give the farmers of the county every possible aid in bringing their farms to highest profit paying basis.

The principal speaker was M. C.
Burritt, state director of farm bureau. The total number of farms in the county, he said, was 4,785. This is 234 farms less than there were ten years ago. Mr. Burritt said that this was a good sign and that the time would come when there would be less farms. There are 411,170 acres of tillable land in the county. The farm land in the county is valued at $10,612,000. The total value shows a decrease of $145,000 in ten years.
The average farmer, said Mr. Burritt, has about $50 invested in each acre of land. The total amount of money invested in buildings in the county on farms shows an increase of $2,500,000 in the last ten years. This, said Mr.
Burritt, was a commendable feature.
The sum of $2,000,000 is invested in machinery in Cayuga county and $4,- 125,000 in live stock. The increased amount of money invested in live stock for the past ten years is $1,500,- 000.

Cayuga county ranks first in the state for the number of bushels of wheat raised. Last year 388,000 bushels were raised. It also ranks first in the number of bushels of barley raised there being 300,000 bushels last year. Statistics show that the total number of bushels of wheat, oats and corn show a decrease in the past few years while hay, buckwheat and potatoes show an increase.

In the opinion of Mr. Burritt there is no better place in the country to buy farms than right here in Cayuga county.

To Brand With Letter "T."

All tubercular cows are to be branded hereafter with the letter
"T," by order of Commissioner Calvin J. Huson, of the State Agricultural Department. Commissioner Huson has directed a State-wide examination of all dairy herds, with the object of learning to what extent tuberculosis prevails, and whether the disease is making any increase among the dairy cattle.

BILLS PASSED BY STATE SOLONS

Political Division Affected Work of Last Legislature.

EXTRA SESSION IN MAY.

Expect to Amend Appropriation Bill to Suit Both Parties—Many State Wide and Local Measures Disposed Of. Suffragists Win a Point.

Because of the political division of the New York state legislature of 1914 the regular session of that body which ended last month was not productive of many important bills. Political strife entered into the arguments, and only the bills which were a necessity to the state, irrespective of party, together with a large volume of local legislation, were passed.

What was desired most—the annual appropriation bill, carrying sufficient funds for the maintenance of government for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1914, was held up owing to a deadlock—a fact which necessitated the extraordinary session of the lawmakers, which is to be held beginning May 4. At this session the appropriation bill is expected to be so amended as to meet the approval of both the Republicans and Democrats. There is no certainty of this action, however.

A number of state wide bills have been enacted into law since the legislature met last January. Among these laws the following are listed:

Bills Passed.

Extending to Feb. 1, 1915, the time when the housing law for cities of the second class shall become operative and providing for a commission to investigate housing conditions in such cities.

The land bank bill, greatly desired by the governors, which establishes land security banks.

The bill granting cities of the third class a vote upon the question of commission form of government, several of which are prescribed.

The bill prohibiting the indiscriminate use of drugs. Under this law every package of drugs sold must carry a label stating the name and address of the physician authorizing the prescription as well as the name of the person to whom it is sold and the date of such sale. Certain quantities of habit forming drugs are specified as constituting a legal sale.

Requiring the registration of motor cycles.

Providing for the manufacture of brick for state roads by convict labor.

Providing for a commission to be known as the commission on federal legislation for the alien insane, such commission to urge the president and congress to enact remedial legislation to check the importation of feeble minded or mentally defective aliens.

Amending Election Law.

Amending the election law in many ways, with specific reference to the election district. Under the law the present election districts are made more numerous. The form of ballot is changed, and the election machinery is altered in too many ways to permit a brief digest.

Ex-Governor Sulzer made free use of his veto power relative to appropriations, and many a bill which ordinarily would have been enacted into law was disapproved by him because of the condition of the state's finances.

Among the laws created and which embrace a large variety of subjects are the following, which constitute a summary of the statutes for 1914, which are now effective:

Providing for the sharing of the cost of the construction of bridges over streams forming the boundary line between a city of the second class and a town as well as a city of the third class and a town.

Providing that the supervisors of a county, the town board of a town or the common council of a city may determine whether the proportion of the expense for acquiring toll bridges shall be raised by taxation or by the issue of bonds.

Permitting the increase of the salary of a police justice who has served more than twelve consecutive years at such times as the board of estimate and apportionment may see fit.

Increasing from 105 to 125 the number of game protectors in the state.

Centenary Appropriation.

Appropriating $125,000 to be expended by the commissioners arranging for the centenary of the battle of Plattsburgh, such sum to be used for the purchase of a monument.

Increasing from $6,000 to $8,000 a year the salary of the state commissioner of agriculture.

Incorporating the church pension fund by providing for pensions or other forms of support for clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal faith of the United States and churches in communion with said church and for persons dependent upon such clergymen.

Legalizing the acts of notaries public and commissioners of deeds performed since March 1, 1912.

Appropriating $25,000 for a monument to be erected to the memory of General Philip Sheridan in the city of Albany.

Creating a commission to investigate the manner in which manufacture is carried on in cities of the first and second class. This law carries an appropriation of $50,000.

Amending the law governing the ice of the state architect by making the term of office of that official six years instead of at the pleasure of the governor. The law makes other changes relative to the jurisdiction of the state architect over public improvements.

Renact Compensation Law.

Re-enacting the workmen's compensation law in relation to the approval of premium rates of corporations and associations transacting the business of workmen's compensation insurance.

Providing for the compensation of owners of cattle destroyed by the state department of agriculture because of tuberculosis or other diseases.

Requiring all vehicles on public highways to display lights on front and rear between the hours of sunset and sunrise.

Providing that furloughed, pensioned and superannuated employees, persons disabled while in the service of a common carrier or persons traveling to enter the service of such corporations may be carried free.

Providing that school districts in cities shall contribute to the retirement fund for schoolteachers of the state an amount equal to that contributed by teachers employed in the public schools of such districts and cities, such amount to be deducted from public moneys apportioned thereto by the commissioner of education.

Amend City Law.

Extending to rural communities facilities for high school education, including instruction along agricultural lines. Amending the law governing cities of the second class by authorizing the city comptroller, with the consent of the board of estimate, to determine that the whole or any part of a bond issue of a city shall be made payable in the currency of a country other than the United States.

Authorizing convict labor in connection with the construction of state or county highways, the town or county to act as the contractor.

Prohibiting the use of gasoline traction engines on public thoroughfares unless a person is sent on ahead to give warning.

Incorporating a joint commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States to arrange for a world conference on faith.

Providing that when an official advertisement is ordered published in a newspaper in display type or to be displayed so as to leave an unusual quantity of blank space or to contain a picture or diagram such advertisement shall be paid for by measure-ment over all, two square inches to count as one folio; fifty words and under also to count as a folio. Less than fifty words shall not be counted.

Making it a misdemeanor for a person to knowingly make a false statement or rumor derogatory to the financial condition of any private bank.

Penalty For "Stuffing."

Prohibiting the insertion of an unauthorized advertisement in a newspaper, magazine or other periodical. Any person who places printed advertisements between pages of magazines, newspapers, etc., for the purpose of distributing such advertisements shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Providing for the free transportation by common carriers of mail carriers when in uniform.

Accepting as a state park certain lands in the towns of New Scotland and Guilderland, Albany county, known as the "Indian ladder."

Providing for the installation of public telephones in subway stations in cities of 1,000,000 inhabitants or over.

Authorizing the state conservation commission, by order of the governor, to levy upon the state comptroller to the amount of $100,000 for the purpose of forest fighting in case of an emergency.

Appropriating $150,000 for the repair and improvement of mechanical structures along the canals of the state.

Appropriating $50,000 for the purchase of machinery to be used in maintaining navigation on completed sections of the barge canal.

Appropriating $30,000 for the construction of additional or substitute gates for emergency use in barge canal locks.

Providing that masters of all vessels propelled by steam on navigable waters of the state shall display certain lights between sunset and sunrise.

Making it a misdemeanor to wear the button or insignia of the Grand Army of the Republic if not entitled to membership in such organization.

Authorizing the governor to purchase articles of uniform, equipment, military and naval supplies from the United States.

Providing that unless the head of a municipal department or subdivision thereof shall approve in writing of an assignment of salary for any officer or employee such assignment shall not be valid.

Appropriating $350,000 to carry out the provisions of the workmen's compensation act.

Appropriating $10,000 for the purchase of a silver service for the battleship New York.

Highway Appropriation.

Appropriating $1,510,000 for paying the proportion of the state for the repair of highways.

Appropriating $100,000 for paying the interest of the Palisades Interstate park debt.

There remain in the hands of the governor approximately 200 bills, most of which, however, are local. The governor has not yet signed the banking bill amending the banking law in many particulars as recommended by the Van Tassel banking commission. He has not signed the bill permitting Christian Science healers to practice nor the measure authorizing osteopaths to enjoy added privileges. The Boylan bill making the maximum time which grocery clerks shall put in seventy hours a week also awaits the governor's action. Another bill which awaits the action of the executive is that providing for license of $500 for a manufacturer, $250 for a wholesale dealer and $10 for a retail dealer to deal in oleomargarine, butterine and other products not made from pure milk or cream.

Numerous bills carrying appropriations of a special nature make up the balance of the measures sent to the executive following the final adjournment of the legislature, which the governor must act upon within thirty days, either by approval or veto.

About Clam Broth.

Clam broth is one of the ideal foods. It is also one of the simplest and least expensive, equally good in winter and in summer, when it is especially palatable served cold with whipped cream. Hot it is considered by physicians to be a fine stomach tonic and healing for all digestive troubles.

A dozen clams will make five or six cups of good broth. Have them opened at the shop and sent home with their own juice. Strain it off and let it get hot before putting in the clams. It must be kept well skinned and allowed to simmer on the fire with asbestos mats beneath the saucepan if the range is a gas one. Butter and salt may be added. Unless the broth is desired very strong in flavor it is improved with a little hot water added. Remove the clams and serve the broth with a spoonful of whipped cream on the top of each cup. Add pepper and powdered parsley.

Milk or cream turns the broth into a very delicate soup, but many prefer the clam juice alone with salt and butter. Thin buttered toast is good with it.

Another Antarctic Quest.

Dr. Nordenskjold, Admiral Poinlander and Gunar Andersen, the Swedish explorers, are planning an expedition to the antarctic, which will cover about the same ground as the British Stackhouse party of 1914. It is probable that the expedition will land an observation party on the east coast of Graham Land. This party will be composed of six men and will remain there for five years.

J. Foster Stackhouse, leader of the British 1914 party, states that one of the objects of the Swedish expedition will be the study of whales, whose habits are still unknown notwithstanding that these mammals have been hunted for years.

Dr. Nordenskjold's last expedition to the polar regions in 1903 came to grief when his ship Antarctic was crushed in the ice off Graham Land and the crew had to make its way north, being ultimately picked up by an Argentine vessel.

The "Rossetti" Face.

Many students of portraiture understand what is still spoken of by artists as the "Rossetti type" of face, which is to be seen in the paintings of Burne-Jones as well as Rossetti himself. Few know, however, that the face was that of Mrs. William Morris, whose husband reformed Victorian ideas of house decoration and furnishing. But the most remarkable fact in connection with the revival of interest in the "Rossetti type" of features is that it is one which has become less commented upon than in the days when it was by no means universally admired. Strangely enough, the great painter's ideal, which he found at last in one woman's face, was that toward which the mysterious trend of human countenances was moving through the ages. The "Du Maurier" face we scarcely discover at all today, but the "Rossetti type" has become almost typically English and modern.—London Graphic.

Executions by Gas.

A well known scientist who for some years has been professor of chemistry in the College de France, Paris, is advocating the use of carbonic oxide for the putting to death of criminals, as employed for the destruction of stray dogs. He states that this is a quiet and painless death and one that does not shock the sensibilities.

Advantage of Being Dull.
There is a quality in certain people which is above all advice, exposure or correction. Only let a man or woman have dullness sufficient and they need bow to no extant authority. A dullard recognizes no betters; a dullard can't see that he is in the wrong; a dullard has no scruples of conscience, no doubts of pleasing or succeeding or doing right, no qualms for other people's feelings, no respect but for the fool himself. How can you make a fool perceive that he is a fool? Such a person can no more see his own folly than he can see his own ears. And the great quality of dullness is to be unalterably contented with itself.—Thackeray.

The Assassins.
The Assassins were a religious and military order who came into existence during the eleventh century in Persia and who devoted themselves to the destruction after stealthy approach of all who opposed the Moslem faith in any way. The crusaders met with a branch of these desperate zealots in Syria, and many of the warriors of the cross were slain relentlessly and with mysterious suddenness in consequence. The Tartars exterminated the Persian Assassins in 1256, and fourteen years later the Syrian band of murderers was wiped out by an Egyptian ruler. But the name they bore remains as a designation of dread.

OUR NEW SERIAL
"The Story of Waitstill Baxter"
By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN,
America's Most Famous Woman Novelist, Author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

Origin of "Bonfire."
Stow, referring to the "bonifiers" which the citizens of London were wont to make on the streets on "the vigiles of festival days and on the same festival days in the evening; after the sunne setting every man bestowing wood or labor towards them" and which were an occasion of feasting and merriment, says that "these were called bonifiers as well of good amity amongst neighbours, that, being before at contronerie, were there by the labours of others, reconciled, and made of bitter enemies, loving friends, as also for the virtue that a great fire hath to purge the infection of the ayre."—London Globe.

CURB THE TEMPER.
The peculiarity of ill temper is that it is the vice of the virtuous. It is often the one blot on an otherwise noble character. You know men and women who are all but perfect but for an easily ruffled, quick tempered or "touchy" disposition. This compatibility of ill temper with high moral character is one of the strangest and saddest problems of ethics.

The "Arabian Nights."
The "Arabian Nights" did not become familiar to Europeans until 1704, when Galland translated it into French. Scholars cast much doubt on the authenticity of some of Galland's work, accusing him—like Fitzgerald with Omar Khayyam—of inventing rather than translating, but with the public the success of the tales was immediate and immense. Galland used to complain that the students, returning home in the early hours of the morning, would knock at his door and demand the recitation of a tale.—Chicago News.

DOGS IN ALASKA.

Carry Great Loads Over Snow That Would Not Hold a Man.

Dogs are surely the real thing for "mushing" in the cold country. To my mind they beat reindeer a mile. Most of them weigh less than 100 pounds, and they distribute their weight over their four feet, so that they can trot over a weak snow crust where a man would sink out of sight by breaking through the crust into the soft snow below. On a good level, smooth trail ten dogs can trot along with a ton of freight behind them, and 500 or 600 dogs is a fair load on poor trails. A peculiar thing is that a twelve foot sled, twenty-two to twenty-four inches wide, with runners two and one-quarter inches wide, bearing a load of 600 to 800 pounds, will not sink through a snow crust that will not bear a man. This occurs because two runners two and one-quarter inches wide and twelve feet long give a large area of bearing on the crust. This, coupled with the motion that keeps the sled passing over all the time, accounts for the remarkable fact I am speaking of. One of the greatest dangers in "mushing" is encountering water under the snow on the river ice in very cold weather or breaking through into hollow places where the stream has sunk away from under the ice. This is the most dangerous of all, and often when it happens a man is frozen to death before he can get to shelter or get up his tent and start a fire.—B. S. Rodey in Albuquerque Herald.

THE STUDY OF WORDS.

It's a Helpful Scheme to Use Your Dictionary Every Day.

Writing an article. "Treasure In Books," in the Woman's Home Companion. Laura Spencer Porter gives the following excellent advice about the advantages to be gained from the study of words: "The study of words—it may sound to you a dry thing, yet I promise you it is not; very far from it. "And this brings me to suggest that the habit of one of the great writers of studying carefully from a good dictionary five words each day is one from which we might all of us get a good deal of profit. Or take a good book of synonyms, for instance, and learn from it each day five words somewhat similar, comparing and weighing carefully the meanings and values of them. "Notice the degrees of force in the following: To dislike, to hate, to loathe, to detest, to abhor. Each note struck is a little stronger, higher, we might say, like an ascending crescendo scale. So to instruct, to teach, to educate, are each quite different in meaning, with a great nicety of difference. So, rebuke, reprimand, censure, blame, are all of one color, but of how different shades of meaning. So, too, misfortune, calamity, disaster; so, weak, feeble, decrepit, and what delicate difference between fame and renown or feminine and womanly and womanish."

Kindness of the Boss.
Little Tommy, who was about knee high to a half pint, was employed by a busy broker. One afternoon the broker was sitting at his desk trying to collect his thoughts as well as some coin when he suddenly looked up and signaled Tommy to draw near. "Tommy," said the boss, digging down into his jeans, "here's a fifty cent chunk of silver. Take it and hustle off to some vaudeville show." "Thank you very much, sir," gratefully responded Tommy, freezing fast to the coin. "That's what I call being some good to a poor kid." "Don't think that I'm being good to you," was the quick rejoinder of the boss. "I want you to learn a new tune. I can't stand the one you've been whistling for two months any longer."—Exchange.

Water Power.
Few would expect to find any connection between a modern hydroelectric plant and a prayer. The connection is indeed remote, but not undiscussible. The first application of water power to mechanical purposes was made by Buddhist priests when they employed the energy of running streams to the work of turning prayer wheels. That, then, may be said to constitute the origin of the application of water power to perform man's labors, the foreshadowing of the great industrial development now in progress for the harnessing of the world's waterfalls, rivers and streams.

Sure of Herself.
"Do you think," asked the widower, "you could learn to love my children as you would if they were your own?" "Oh, yes," replied the anxious maiden. "I think I should care more for them really than if they were my own, because I shouldn't have to worry so much about them if they got hurt or were sick."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Not.
"Shall we marry, darling, or shall we knot?" was the short and witty line an ardent lover dispatched to the idol of his heart. But, where the strangeness of the matter comes in, the girl replied: "I shall not. You may do as you please."

Malignous Hint.
"Can you tell me where I am most likely to get a good collection of fairy tales?" "Ask any married man."—Baltimore American.

SIDE LIGHTS ON RULERS AS HOSTS

A Most Remarkable Meeting With the Bulgars' Czar.

FINE TRIBUTE TO AMERICA.

Graceful Hospitality of Ferdinand Charmed Visitors From United States—Held Imperial Train For Guests, Went to Station With Them, Sultan's Fete in Veritable Fairyland.

Colvin B. Brown, chief of the department of exploitation of the Panama-Pacific exposition, and Walter P. Andrews and Thomas Rees, commissioners of that department, have returned from their four months' trip abroad with some interesting impressions of European monarchs. In an interview in the New York Times Mr. Brown describes Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria as a host.

"We were invited to the palace for an audience at 9 o'clock in the evening," said Mr. Brown. "Naturally we thought it would be a formal affair, lasting about a quarter of an hour. Czar Ferdinand received us standing. At the end of twenty minutes he escorted us into the main audience chamber and introduced us to the queen, to the crown prince, to the latter's brother, to the two princes and to the entire court.

"On a big table was spread a map of the Panama canal, with photographs of the Gatun dam and the big locks, and there was piled every piece of literature that has been issued about the San Francisco exposition. The members of the imperial family and the court crowded about the table and kept us talking canal and exposition for two and a half solid hours. It was midnight when he left the palace.

"Arriving at our hotel, we found an invitation from the prime minister to attend a dinner the following evening given by the czar's cabinet. "After that we had an invitation from the czar to lunch with him on the following day at one of his suburban palaces.

"At luncheon the czar sat at the head of the table. Mr. Andrews was on his right and I on his left. The crown prince was on my left. Only the czar's immediate family were at the table. And, do you know, they had for luncheon American trout, American deer and American wild turkey.

Czar Held Train For His Guests.
"The meal lasted longer than I had thought it would, and as the time passed I was sure the Orient express had whizzed by and we were left. But it wasn't up to me to say anything. It was not until 2 o'clock that the czar arose from the table. We put on our overcoats and hats, and he did the same, and he got into the automobile with us, and we drove over a mile and a half to the czar's private railway station.

"It is a one story building of beautiful design. As we approached soldiers threw open double doors, and we drove right in upon a plush carpet and found ourselves in a beautiful drawing room, fitted with couches and chairs and pictures. From the drawing room we stepped out upon a platform on the other side, which was carpeted its full length. Fifty yards below on a siding was the Orient express. It had been waiting these forty minutes by the czar's order.

"Czar Ferdinand raised his hand, and the engine pulled the train in upon the main track. When the engine was opposite us the czar raised his hand again and commanded the engineer to stop. Then he said to us:

"This is the imperial engine. It has a record of 100 kilometers an hour. Never before has it been attached to a public train, and it has never pulled any but royal carriages. You have afforded me great pleasure and entertainment. You are busy men, and I do not desire that the pleasure you have given me shall result in the loss of valuable time to you. The engineer has been ordered to make up lost time between here and the Bulgarian border."

An Arabian Nights Feast.
The Americans on their visit to Constantinople were treated by the sultan of Turkey to what Mr. Brown describes as an Arabian Nights feast. He says: "In Constantinople we met the sultan and the grand vizier and every member of the cabinet. A most elaborate luncheon was given to us in the bazaar district and a very elaborate dinner by the ministry. The latter was a wonderful occasion—made me think I had been rubbing an Aladdin's lamp. "A room had been decorated with furnishings from the dining room of one of the richest shahs of Persia, and a magnificent rug hung as a canopy over the table, while others decorated the walls or were spread on the floor. Rich candelabra lighted the table, and we were entertained during the feast which lasted four hours, by Turkish jugglers and musicians. Prizes were given for guesses as to what the dishes were.

"In Roumania we met the king and the queen, Carmen Syra. It was rather an informal visit we had with the queen, and she asked many questions about American affairs. "In Spain we met King Alfonso. He reminded us of a young Wall street business man by his alert manner and his modish dress."

CONCERNING MOIRE.

It is Used For Many Smart Spring Suits.

Moire suits are popular for spring. Illustrated here is a model which has many of the new style touches. The short loose coat, the plaited tunic and narrow skirt are all exceedingly chic. The sleeves are short in the seven-eighths length to be seen on many new coats.

Fashion clings to the skirt narrow at the foot. Modish for evening wear are caps of gold lace. The latest evening gowns have three-looped tunics.

Evening costumes are striking combinations of color. Accordion plaited skirts are worn in Paris.

Velvet is the successful material for afternoon costumes. The new taffetas are of the chiffon variety—supple in quality.

Brown tulle is introduced on many of the evening gowns. Most of the smart gowns have sashes of a contrasting color. Moire is almost as fashionable for afternoon costumes as velvet. Small buckles are used to fasten vest effects on the new spring suits.

NOVELTIES IN CRYSTAL.

Glass Trays and Gold Decorated Tableware Are Attractive.

Daintiest among the new teapot stands are the circles in clear but thick glass, beveled or plain edged, that exactly fit over circles of finest linen delicately embroidered in white or colors. Although intended to prevent the teapot from scorching the table or the tray, these little circles will go under any medium sized hot dish and look charming when placed upon either a bare or a cloth covered dining or tea table.

Of the same character are the glass trays for serving tea or luncheon and for passing the collation at an evening party. These trays come in round, square and oval shapes, have mahogany, bronze, brass or wicker sides and often high curved or square handles by which they may be carried. The lingerie under mat is easily fastened to the bottom of the tray by means of tiny pins forced into holes bored in the framing of the article. On the same principle are made the new muffin stands, which are handsomest in mahogany and glass because of the marked contrast between the two materials, but they are very stunning in bronze and crystal, and against the heavy metal framework the delicate lingerie matting is very effective.

Many charming and attractive new pieces of glassware are shown in the shops. There seems to be a tendency to favor fancy glass for table use. The gold decorated specimens which are illustrated here are considered very chic.

Sympathy.

I know what the caged bird feels, alas!
When the sun is bright on the upland slopes;
When the wind stirs soft through the springing grass,
And the river flows like a stream of glass;
When the first bird sings and the first bud ope,
And the faint perfume from its chalice steals—
I know what the caged bird feels!

I know why the caged bird beats his wing
Till its blood is red on the cruel bars;
For he must fly back to his perch and cling
When he fain would be on the bough a-swing;
And a pain still throbs in the old, old scars,
And they pulse again with a keener sting—
I know why he beats his wing!

I know why the caged bird sings, ah me,
When his wing is bruised and his bosom sore,—
When he beats his bars and he would be free;
It is not a carol of joy or glee,
But a prayer that he sends from his heart's deep core,
But a plea, that upward to heaven he flings—
I know why the caged bird sings!

—Paul Lawrence Dunbar.

Suffrage News.

We have never held it a reproach to women voters that they have not yet introduced the Kingdom of Heaven into the state of Colorado. It seemed to prove that they were human, and that was what we were most anxious to prove.—The Masses.

"No," said he, "for you see I believe that woman's place is in the home." Investigation showed that in order to run his home, educate his children, and manage his office he was keeping thirteen women out of their homes and only one in it.—Alice Duer Miller

About 33 women were elected to office in the state of Illinois on April 7. What kind of office? Tax collectors. But, you say, they haven't any pockets! Perhaps that is why. For man with his sixteen pockets has made such a record as the guardian of public funds that the only offices, aside from those connected with the schools, that women are found in in any number are the office of treasurer and tax collector.

"I see daily in my work in the Department of Correction reasons why women should have the vote. I don't see how anyone dealing with human refuse can fail to see it. We need all the intelligence there is to help settle the problems. The administration of the city has been too much a political game. There hasn't been enough connection between the government of the city and the needs of the city."—Katherine Bement Davis, Commissioner of Corrections, New York City.

A man on the street was heard to say, "The men in Illinois would probably have closed those thousand saloons that the women voters are claiming the credit for. Look at the anti-saloon victories in Minnesota where women do not vote." But according to the press reports, where accurate figures are available, they showed that the men voted 60 per cent wet and the women voted 70 per cent dry. So Minnesota to the contrary notwithstanding, it was the women and not the men who closed those saloons in Illinois.

May Ball, May 8.

A grand May ball will be given by Mrs. Stearns' dancing class on Friday evening, May 8, at Armstrong's hall, Genoa. Selover's full orchestra of Auburn has been engaged for this occasion. Mrs. Stearns has appointed different committees to have charge of the affair, as follows:

Patronesses—Mrs. David Smith, Mrs. James Myer, Mrs. Arthur Landon, Mrs. Herbert Gay, Mrs. Sherman Wright, Mrs. Sidney Reeves.

The KITCHEN CABINET

THE man who spends all of his time grumbling, is a self-confessed failure. If things are always wrong with you it is your fault. Don't waste time and energy in proclaiming the facts. Put them right.

DISHES FOR THE DAY.

The following dishes are some that will be acceptable for various occasions, to give variety to the diet:

Clam Soup.—Take two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; when the butter is bubbling hot, add the flour, stir slowly until well blended, then add a quart of rich milk, and when smooth season with celery salt, salt and a few dashes of red pepper; then add a cupful of finely minced clams with the juice. Let boil up once and serve.

Crosby Pie.—Chop fine two medium sized apples; after peeling and coring, add the juice and rind of a lemon, one cupful of sugar, one egg well beaten and one tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix well and bake in two crusts.

Chopped Canton ginger stirred into whipped cream makes a delicious sauce for ice cream or in fact any kind of steamed pudding which would use the cream as a sauce.

Chicken Souffle.—Make two cupfuls of cream sauce, using thin cream and a tablespoonful of butter to four of flour, add onion juice and chopped parsley for seasoning, then add two cupfuls of finely minced chicken; add the beaten yolks of three eggs and cool, then fold in the beaten whites and season well with salt, a dash or two of red pepper and put into a buttered dish to bake. Bake until the eggs are set.

Banana Pie.—Pass enough peeled bananas through a vegetable ricer to fill a cup. To this add a half cup of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of molasses or the rind and juice of half a lemon, half a teaspoonful of salt, one beaten egg, a dash of cinnamon, a half cup of milk and a third of a cup of cream. Mix all together and bake in one crust. Cover with whipped cream and serve.

CHILDREN'S LUNCHEONS.

I wonder how many teachers and parents realize that often the dull pupil is either under-nourished or really ill.

The child, to do good work in school, should be started out in the morning with a wholesome, nutritious breakfast, one which will "stay by" until noon.

Lack of appetite in the morning is more often the result of sleeping in poorly ventilated rooms or too late hours. The bad taste in the mouth in the morning should not be thought unworthy of attention.

A "grown up" may miss a meal without evil effects, or in fact with good results, but a child who uses all its energy in building tissue cannot well omit a meal. Children are hungry more often than adults, because their digestive processes are very active. It is for this reason that lunches are necessary for the child between meals. The continuous lunching is much worse than none at all, so that discretion should be used to see that the lunch is served not too near a meal.

The food for growing children should be simple and easy of digestion. Tea and coffee are not children's beverages; milk, cocoa and water will be found a sufficient variety.

All highly seasoned foods, which tend to unduly excite the digestive juices, should be used only by those who have lost the appetite of childhood and need a whip to stimulate the digestive functions. Their continued use has been the cause of the craving for strong stimulants.

A luncheon for the child should be put up in such a way that it is attractive and will be appetizing.

Learn to pack a box or basket neatly. Have plenty of cheap paper napkins, a package of paraffin paper, some rubber bands, all very inexpensive, and a supply lasting a year will cost but little. A dinner taken from a tin pack packed carelessly, and in many cases frozen on the way, is not the kind of food which will produce good blood and clear brain work.

Variety is another thing which should be studied, for children like surprises better than "grown ups." A fig or a date or two, or even a bit of candy hidden in the lunch, is a source of keen delight to the youngster. Let us never grow too old to forget our own youth and youth's desires.

A Complete Salvation

By Rev. PARLEY E. ZARTMANN, D. D.
Secretary of Extension Department
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT.—Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.—Heb. 7:25.

That is exactly what Christ is to the believing souls he saves "completely." It is not only a fact but an assurance as well that the Jesus who is the only Saviour also is an all-sufficient Saviour. He is not only the Name, he is the all-prevailing Name. He is able to save to the uttermost; it is a complete salvation, extending to all particulars. No wonder those who put their trust in him unite in saying, Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

The Epistle to the Hebrews is a series of contrasts between the good things of Judaism and the better things of Christ. He is better than angels, than Moses, than Joshua, than Aaron; and the new covenant than the Mosaic covenant. In the section of the Epistle where the text occurs he is set forth as the Great High Priest and certified as superior to Melchisedec and any of the Aeonian priesthood. He is the eternal one who abideth a priest forever. "This man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood." The life that abides unchangeable. His priesthood is an everlasting one, ever living, ever active. There is never a moment in which his priestly action, his watchful care of us, his loving sympathy and succor, his working in us in the power of an endless life, is not in full operation. Therefore he can save completely.

Unto the Uttermost.

We have here the very promise we need, lest we hesitate to begin the Christian life, or having begun, faint by the way. This is not only the heart of the gospel, but also the secret of Christian perfection. The salvation wrought by Christ for us and in us is not only negative, saving us from sin, but also positive, conferring on us eternal life.

The work of Christ is set in contrast with that of the law. In verse 19 we read "for the law made nothing perfect;" but Christ saves completely. It has availed for the worst characters; the thief on the cross, Saul of Tarsus, John Bunyan, S. H. Hadley. It reaches the greatest numbers: 3,000 on the day of Pentecost, multitudes in mission fields, thousands under the preaching of Whitfield, Moody, Chapman, Sunday, and finally a nation in a day. It leaves nothing undone, it is a complete salvation. It meets the uttermost need of any man, anywhere, any time. What a word that is: What ever you need, Jesus is able.

You have doubted it; some days you think you are saved, and some days you are in despair. The real trouble is, you are leaning upon some experience, looking for the repetition of some unusual feeling, depending upon favorable circumstances. You have forgotten what manner of Saviour Jesus is—the unchanging, eternal, interceding, complete Saviour. Nothing is too hard for him. Start your thought of salvation not upon your feeling or your experience, but by apprehending what Christ really is for the human race: perfect God and perfect man; with God's love and power, with man's sympathy and experience, meeting our enemy and conquering him, and now gone into the holiest of all there to appear in the presence of God for us, ever living to intercede—his whole work appealing and availing that we may be made the righteousness of God in him. Get hold of what Christ's finished work has done for you. Regenerating, justifying, sanctifying; then remember that true faith takes what God provides, and needs no more for its ground and gladness than the fact that God said it.

I Am Included.

This complete salvation is for them that come unto God by him. You may be of the great and goodly number who receive it and rejoice in it. When the Lord said, Whosoever, he included me. John 3:16 is still true; Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today, yes, and forever; still he says: No man cometh unto the Father but by me. Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out. Still Christ is able to save unto the uttermost. What more could be done? What more could one want than a complete salvation? Believe what God says; accept what God offers. "Your sins he will more than pardon; your cares he will more than bear; your temptations he will more than overcome; your doubt he will more than dispel; your crosses he will more than carry; your perplexities he will more than resolve; your bereavements he will more than sweeten."

"Lord, I'll trust thy wondrous love, Mighty to save."

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

DOES MODERATE DRINKING PAY?

Answering the argument of the moderate drinker that there is a certain quantity of alcohol which can be used without danger, Dr. Henry Smith Williams, the well-known investigator, says:

"Conceivably that is true, though it is not proved. In any event no man can tell you what that safe quantity is—If safe quantity there be—in any individual case.

"But this much I predict with confidence: Whatever the 'safe' quantity of alcohol for you to take, you will unquestionably at times exceed it. In a tolerably wide experience of men and of many nations, I have never known a habitual drinker who did not sometimes take more alcohol than even the most liberal scientific estimate could claim as harmless. Therefore, I believe you must do the same.

"I am bound to believe, in the light of what science has revealed, if you take alcohol habitually (1) that you are tangibly threatening the physical structures of your stomach, your liver, your kidneys, your heart, your blood vessels, your nerves, your brain; (2) that you are unequivocally decreasing your capacity for work in any field, be it physical, intellectual or artistic; (3) that you are in some measure lowering the grade of your mind, dulling your higher esthetic sense and taking the finer edge off your morals; (4) that you are distinctly lessening your chances of maintaining health and attaining longevity, and (5) that you are entailing upon your descendants yet unborn a bond of incalculable misery.

"Such, I am bound to believe, is the probable cost of your 'moderate' indulgence in alcoholic beverages. Part of that cost you may pay in person; the balance will be the heritage of future generations. As a mere business proposition, is your glass of beer, your bottle of wine, your highball, or your cocktail worth the price?"

Never were the cottons more varied or beautiful than they are now, and there is an equal diversity in prices. Ratines and crapes are sharing favor, with a noticeable preference for the latter, and the long popular volles are again in great demand. This is but natural, since these fabrics are ideal for draperies and the clinging effects that are again fashionable.

Printed effects are especially popular, and the flowered crapes are very dainty. In volles the embroidered designs seem to be preferred, and many of the new ratines are in stripes, checks and plaids.

In the white crapes there are many beautiful fancy weaves. The jacquard and broche designs on crape grounds are new and pretty. White goods generally show the preference for rough surfaces. Ratine is largely used to produce this effect, and it is applied in broken checks or stripes and in conventional or floral designs.

Printed crape in bordered material was used for this very pretty spring gown. The skirt was very fully draped and cut in the front to give a glimpse of the flounce of lace. The long shoulder lines were imparted by means of the deep collar. The wide satin girdle was adjusted above the short tunic with clasp fastenings so that it was removable. The little hat with the ribbon crown was finished with a smart feather ornament.

OFFICIAL TEMPERANCE INSTRUCTION.

The following manifesto has been indorsed by the minister of education in Germany, and is being sent out by public places:

Do not give your child a single drop of wine.

Not a drop of beer.

Not a drop of spirits.

Why? Because alcohol in every form and even in small doses injures children.

How? First—It checks their physical and intellectual development.

Second—Consumption of spirits brings with it exhaustion and causes weariness and inattention in school children.

Third—Alcohol helps increase disobedience to parents.

Fourth—It causes sleeplessness and premature nervousness.

Fifth—It causes infant mortality.

Sixth—It weakens the body's powers of resistance and prepares the ground in this way for many sicknesses.

Seventh—It increases the duration of various sicknesses.

Eighth—It awakens thirst continually, and can in this way make men habitual drinkers.

DRINK NOT STRENGTHENING.

Intoxicating liquors can supply you with no energy, no force. They cannot add to your strength. Alcohol, like whip or spur applied to a horse, draws strength from you, or rather out of you, but it can give you none. So far from helping you, beer, wine and spirits will hinder you in whatever work you have to do. Other things being equal, you will have the greatest steadiness of hand, firmness of grasp, and clearness of mind, by total abstinence from every kind of intoxicating liquor.

This has been my own experience, and it has been the experience of vast numbers of men and women living in every country, and following every kind of occupation. Alcohol has been found to reduce the strength, and the hardest work has been best and most easily accomplished under total abstinence.—Dr. Norman N. Kerr.

NOT ADVERTISED AS A BENEFIT.

"How would you answer a man who says saloons help build up towns?" By saying it is not true, and I challenge the proof. Talk is not proof. In advertising the advantages of cities and towns, banks and all sorts of useful business, and manufacturing enterprises, schools, churches, and railroads are mentioned, but saloons are never mentioned, or hinted at. Why is that?—Exchange.

OUR COMING VOTERS AND LAWMAKERS.

The statesmen of tomorrow are to be found in this year of our Lord 1913 among the little folk of our own neighborhood, of our own town or city. In that company there are boys who will some day sit in congress, occupy places in the state legislature, be called to the position of chief executive of the state, act as mayors, or chiefs of police of our great cities. Is it not well worth our time to devote ourselves to preparing these prospective statesmen for their tasks.

PRINTED CRAPES.

They Are Fashionable For Spring Costumes.

CRAPE AFTERNOON GOWN.

Never were the cottons more varied or beautiful than they are now, and there is an equal diversity in prices. Ratines and crapes are sharing favor, with a noticeable preference for the latter, and the long popular volles are again in great demand. This is but natural, since these fabrics are ideal for draperies and the clinging effects that are again fashionable.

ADVANCE PLANTING.

Flowers for the Garden May Be Started in Window Boxes.

Sow hardy annual flowers in the window boxes this month. You will then have good sized plants ready for putting out of doors in May. Here are the names of a few of the best to sow: Sweet alyssum, mallows, godetia, annual chrysanthemums, larkspurs and lupins, cornflowers, gladiolus, linnus, mignonette.

But don't forget that plants with a "taproot," such as poppies, eschscholtzia and yellow barbonia, do not like transplanting, so do not sow these in the greenhouse. Keep them to put in a little later in the outdoor garden.

Don't forget that perennial flowering plants can be raised most successfully from seed sown in the house now. Sow some seeds of perennial phloxes at once. They will flower the first year after planting out if you are lucky.

Put the seeds in shallow boxes of sandy soil in a warm spot. Later you will be able to transplant the seedlings to the garden, first putting them in a cold frame to "harden off," as it is called.

Lighting the Dining Room.

The preferred custom for lighting a dining room is to have shaded electric side lights from the walls and to use lighted candles in old fashioned silver candlesticks on the table. Colored silk candle shades or openwork silver shades lined with a colored silk are liked. If no side lights are in a room and there is the necessity of having a light from overhead, at least it should not be glaring. Although a dining room should not be too brilliantly lighted it is undesirable to go to the other extreme and have it dimly lighted. That is unbecoming and depressing. Flowers, candlesticks or ornaments should be arranged so that they may not interfere with the view across the table or with conversation with guests opposite.

Care of the Basket.

To save a clothes basket from getting dirty and worn at the bottom, get four clothes pegs (those with a tin band), split them as far as the head and insert them at each corner of the basket. They will then act as a bar, preventing the basket from the ground.

The Order of Fools.
On Nov. 12, 1381, the Order of Fools was instituted by Adolphus, count of Cleves. Members were not by any means idiots, however, for the word had a different meaning then. They were the prototype of our modern fraternal orders, doing a similarly benevolent work. Their insignia consisted of a mantle, upon the left shoulder of which was embroidered a jester, or fool, in cap and bells, yellow hose and silver vest. So these cheery, useful jokers had a bright, happy outlook upon life and met together to dispense the earnest of their healthful existence at stated intervals, the chief day of which was Nov. 12.

America.
Amerigo Vespucci's letters about the new world were made the basis of a book (about 1507) called "Cosmography," by a certain Waldseemuller, who suggested that, as Amerigo was the discoverer of this "fourth part of the world," it should be called after him. The name took and, first applied to South America, was given later to the entire western continent. James Bryce remarks: "The series of incidents by which the name of a Florentine adventurer was given, first to a continent he probably did not discover and then to another which he never saw, is as curious as anything in geographical history."

INDUSTRY.
Exertion, whether called labor, recreation or amusement, is essential to health, and, as the body was made for labor, work is its natural and honorable duty. An idle man or woman is a discredit to the race and unusually liable to fall into disease, while an industrious person adds to the wealth of the country and is more likely to be healthy and happy.

"A HANDSOME WOMAN IS SOON DRESSED."

She does not require such careful "setting off." But she does require perfect teeth. A handsome woman with broken, decayed teeth is an anomaly. Silk Sheath Gowns and Peach Basket Hats attract attention, but styles soon change. Perfect teeth always have and always will attract attention. They are the marks of woman's beauty. They show refinement. Why not attend to your teeth to-day? A clean tooth is better than powder and a good filling than rouge—for beauty.
