From time to time the association has received by donations and bequests various sums of money and it now has a large fund, the income of which is to be used for care of lots and improvement of the grounds. It is the purpose of the Bylaws to protect and safeguard this permanent fund in the most careful and efficient manner. The best of legal advice has been obtained and every means taken to make the regulations so thorough and complete that everyone who has contributed or may hereafter contribute to this fund can feel perfectly contented and assured that the money so contributed is amply secured and will be used for the purpose intended.

TOO MANY CHILDREN
with pinched faces and poor blood; they do not complain but appetite lags, they have no ambition and do not progress.
Such children need the rich medicinal nourishment in Scott's Emulsion above everything else; its pure cod liver oil contains nature's own blood-forming, flesh-building fats which quickly show in rosy cheeks, better appetite, firm flesh and sturdy frames.
If your children are languid, tired when rising, catch cold easily or find their studies difficult, give them Scott's Emulsion; it supplies the very food elements that their systems lack.
Scott's Emulsion contains no alcohol and is so good for growing children it's a pity to keep it from them.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. ### Miss Penelope's Thanksgiving

By JEAN DOUGLAS.

At the end of Maple street stood a lovely white house with green shutters. This was the home of Miss Penelope Semple, the last of an honored and loved family numbered among the first settlers of Concord. For some twenty years she had dwelt with Anne Barnes, her maid, a descendant of those who had served the original Semples—in the house of her forefathers, and none but the oldest inhabitants could recall the times when the family consisted of Judge Joel Semple, his wife Elizabeth and their children, Richard, Penelope and Martha. The son was a bitter disappointment to the judge, because he refused to study law and succeed his father in that honorable profession. Nature had endowed him with a talent for reproducing her beauties, and he worshipped before the shrine of Apollo in preference to that of the wise Athena. As a result he quarreled with the judge and departed for Europe. For several years he communicated with Penelope, but finally his letters ceased to arrive.

The gentle mother succumbed to an attack of pneumonia and was followed a year later by her younger daughter. Shortly afterward the judge was discovered dead in his office, a victim of apoplexy, and Penelope was left to face life alone in the large white house. She exerted every effort to locate her brother, only to experience failure. In the days when there were many branches to the family tree it was the custom for the Semples to assemble at the home of the judge for Thanksgiving. Since the death of her parents Miss Penelope continued to throw open the hospitable doors of the white house for Thanksgiving celebration.

For the twentieth time she waited in happy anticipation the arrival of the advance guest. Her eyes swept with an appreciative glance the candlesticks and old family plate shining with newly acquired brightness, the cut glass decanters and the dustless mahogany furniture ready for the morrow's feast.

The knocker summoned her to the door, and, throwing it open, Penelope greeted her cousin and his wife. From that time on until late evening the Semples continued to gather about the hearthstone of the white house. The evening was happily spent, the younger generation dancing, while their elders exchanged reminiscences, and at midnight they retired to await the dawn of Thanksgiving day.

Dinner time came in due season next day, Miss Penelope seated her guests, and the radiant circle was complete.

Then the various dishes were placed upon the board—roasts, broiled fish, vegetables, pastries and sweetmeats, and each vied with the other in quality and toothsome. They crunched the celery, reveled in the browned sweet potatoes, and nodded approval at the pumpkin pie. There stole over every one a sense of peace and contentment, which comes when love and kindness permeate the atmosphere.

Then Dr. William Semple rose from his chair and, holding aloft a slender glass filled with wine of a rare vintage, said in a voice of unusual richness: "My kinspeople, I want you to drink to the health and happiness of our dear Penelope, whose unselfish love and delightful personality are a benediction to us all."

When he ceased speaking everybody was standing, with the exception of Penelope, with glasses uplifted ready to drink, when there came a loud knock at the door.

One of the younger boys answered its insistent demands and found on the threshold a youth of his own age.

"I have come to see Penelope Semple," he said simply, and was ushered to the lady's chair.

He bowed low over her hand and kissed it, then stood tall and straight before the fragile, gray old woman. The years rolled from her shoulders like raindrops from a window and, clasping the boy to her, she cried, "Dick, my own Dick!"

"Not Dick, Aunt Penelope, but Dick's son. He only told me of my family last month before he died and insisted that I reach here for Thanksgiving. Father described this scene so vividly that when the door opened I feared that it might not be real. Tell me that it is—and that I am welcome."

Dr. Semple placed a chair at the left of Penelope's for the new found member of the old Semple family.

The arrested host was completed, and when they were all seated Penelope arose and, placing a hand lovingly on the lad's shoulder, addressed her guests.

"I have much—very much—to be thankful for. My Dick has returned, not as a brother, but as a son, for as such I shall love him. What a heaven my declining years will be with him to plan for! Truly, God is good."—Philadelphia North American.

TURKEY BECOMING EXTINCT.

We'll Have to Find Another Center-piece For Thanksgiving Dinners.

It is a sad fact to state, but if the truth must be told it looks very much as if the great American turkey, the center of our Thanksgiving festivities, will after not many years become as extinct as the auk, says the Washington Star. According to the census in 1890, the number of turkeys that year was 12,000,000. The population at that time was at least a dozen million less than it is now. But the last census returns place the turkeys at only 3,688,708, their valuation being $6,605,818.

Hence it is easily seen that, while the turkey eating population is increasing by the hundreds of thousands, the fowls themselves are decreasing at an even greater rate. We have a nation of 90,000,000 people and only 3,000,000 turkeys.

Turkeys are very delicate birds, and in spite of their huge size they cannot stand the hardships that chickens can easily endure. By nature wild, they pine and die in confinement, yet it left to wander too young are killed by wet grass and vermin. They do not like to roost in a house like chickens, but prefer to sit in rows on the boughs of tall trees. Even in storms and blizzards they sit calmly as druids perched high on the swaying limbs and seemingly heedless of rain or cold. But put them in a warm house or in a cramped yard and they do not thrive. So the difficulty of raising them has been a large factor in the high price of their meat and their growing scarcity.

Thanksgiving in Cromwell's Day. That Thanksgiving day was 200 years ago popularly and generally observed in England is well shown by the following passage:

For Hudibras who thought he 'ad won the field as certain as a gun. And, having routed the whole troop, With victory was cock-a-hoop. Thinking he 'ad done enough to purchase Thanksgiving day among the churches.

Thus wrote Butler in 1651, during Oliver Cromwell's tenure of power, and it clearly proves that at a time when the observance of the day was but just beginning to be regularly kept in this country, the English recognized the day very generally as one of joy and feasting.

A Thanksgiving Wish. We wish everybody good cheer, a finely whetted appetite, vigorous digestion and a pleasant reunion of the scattered members of the family. From the tottering grandfather to the tottering baby, a pleasant Thanksgiving to all!

Thanksgiving a Dual Holiday. Thanksgiving is the one holiday that combines religion and patriotism. We should try to impress on the child each Thanksgiving both a feeling of thankfulness for his own blessings and a feeling of high patriotic pride.

The Scrap Book

A Warm Welcome.

A bibulous old Scot, a golf caddie, who was as sharp and sarcastic as he was convivial, had a wife who was much troubled by her husband's loose way of life. He could never have a good day on the links but he must end it with a wet night at the tavern. So to cure him the woman lay in wait on the road one evening, dressed in a white sheet.

AN AWFUL WHITE FIGURE.

"Who the de'il are you?" asked the intemperate caddie as he gazed unsteadily at the supposed ghost.

"I'm Auld Nickie," said the figure in a hollow voice.

"Gie's a shake o' yer hand, then," said the tipsy caddie. "I'm married tae a sister o' yours. She'll be waitin' for us up at the house, an' nae doot she'll mak' ye welcome."

The Real Treasure.

The real treasure is that laid up by man or woman. Through charity and piety, temperance and self control.

The treasure thus hid is secure and passes not away. Though he leave the fleeting riches of this world, this man takes with him—A treasure that no wrong of others and no thief can steal.

Let the wise man do good deeds. The treasure follows of itself. —Nidhikanda Sutta.

Spoke Her Mind.

The artistic temperament is accountable for many things. Mary Garden possesses it. Which leads to the story of a company with which she sang the leading role in a western city. In the last act but one of "Louise," where Louise is supposed to kneel on the grass and see the lights of Paris, when it came to the situation Miss Garden found no grass and saw no lights. When the drop fell, so it goes, she flew at the stage manager. "What kind of a management is this? Here I have had to sing with that midget (pointing to the small and unfortunate tenor), no grass to kneel on and not a light in all Paris!"

Gave Orders to the King.

Shortly before the European conflict broke out the king of the Belgians, one of the most democratic of European monarchs, spent a few weeks in Switzerland. At Territet the king and queen were motoring. His majesty was driving, and there were no attendants. The queen went into a shop to make some purchases.

The king was standing by the car reading a newspaper when an American woman came out of the shop, jumped into the car, which she mistook for a public conveyance, and bade the monarch to drive her quickly to her hotel. "Certainly, madam," said the king and deposited the woman at the hotel.

Accounts vary as to whether the king accepted or did not accept any fare.

In the meanwhile the queen had come out of the store and was surprised to find that her husband and the car were absent. However, they speedily returned, and their majesties laughed over the incident together.

Force of Hotel Habit.

After several years of hotel life Percival's parents took up their residence in a city suburb.

"What were you doing, son?" the mother asked him when Percival came into the house one afternoon. "I was just out on the front porch," replied Percival, "listening to a man with a pushcart paging blackberries." —Judge.

A Stage Manager's Ruse.

The house bill of the Imperial theater of La Roche-sur-Yon announced for the evening performance "La Tour de Nesle," a five act melodrama, and "La Soeur de Jocrisse," a one act farce. The drama had been disposed of, but the low comedian was missing and could not be found. What was to be done? A luminous idea finally entered the manager's mind. The orchestra played an overture, then another, then a third, then a polka and finally a quadrille. At last, when the audience had grown quite obstreperous, the stage manager appeared. He addressed the three conventional bows to the spectators and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, you are anxious, I know, to listen to 'La Soeur de Jocrisse.' The piece has just been acted, but through an unaccountable oversight on the part of the stage hands they forgot to raise the curtain."

Fourteen Carat Love.

Into a New York jewelry store there came a shy, pretty young lady with her engagement ring, which had been bought there and which she would like to have changed.

The ring fitted her exactly, and she was greatly pleased with the noble sentiment of the inscription, "Whatever betide let love abide," but she did not like its arrangement.

Examination showed that the stolid, unimaginative old engraver had carved in the sentence regardless of the ringmaker's little stamp of quality, and so it read, "Whatever betide let 14K. love abide." —Judge.

ENTIRELY TOO REALISTIC.

That's the Way it Struck the Leading Actor's Substitute.

In a certain southern locality one day they hanged a white criminal, or, rather, started to hang one.

Now, it was very unusual to hang a white man in this particular county, for 90 per cent of the population is negro.

As hangings are public in that region and as this particular one was of a white man, a big crowd turned out.

The prisoner had been led out of the jail, stood upon the trap, his hands tied, he had said his last word, had made peace with his maker, the black cap had been put on, the noose adjusted and the trap was ready to be sprung when someone yelled "Fire!"

A fire, it seems, is more unusual than a hanging in that county, and all put off for the blaze, a big tobacco barn a mile down the road, and left the prisoner standing on the trap unattended.

An aged belated negro came shuffling along past the scaffold on his way to the fire, looked up, saw the man about to be executed was alone and observed from his hand, which remained exposed, that he was white.

"Say," said the old negro, "what you all doin' up there, white mah?"

"I'm workin' for a movin' picture show," came the reply from under the black cap.

"What's you all gettin'?" asked the negro.

"Oh, $25 a day," said the white man. "Law, law," exclaimed the old negro, "it beats all the ways you white folks do study up to make money. You all don't want no help, does you?"

"Yes," said the white man. "You might stand here awhile so I can get my dinner."

The negro consented, climbed up on the scaffold, untied the white man, who in turn tied up the negro, adjusted the noose, put the black cap over the negro's head and then proceeded to "beat it."

After the fire was out the sheriff and the crowd returned to the scaffold. They found the supposed prisoner still standing there waiting to be hanged.

So the sheriff sprang the trap. But the rope broke, and the negro, noose, black cap and all came tumbling down on the ground. As he got up on his feet he clutched off the black cap, looked around at the crowd and yelled: "Say, white folks, look out what you all is doin'. You gwine to hurt somebody yet wit' dis heah movin' picture business."—Cottrell's Magazine.

Peevishness.

To be peevish means to create misery. Peevishness may be considered the canker of life that destroys its vigor and checks its improvement, that creeps on with hourly depredations and taints and vitiates what it cannot consume.

Saw Him.

Ebenezer Holcombe had a 1,200 pound hog which he had exhibited in a tent at the fairs for three years, charging 10 cents admission.

One day a traveling man who was passing through the town in which Mr. Holcombe lived called at the house and asked if he might see the hog of which he had heard so much. Ebenezer proudly led the way to the hog house, but at the door he turned. "Cost you 10 cents," he drawled.

The visitor took a dime from his pocket, passed it to the farmer and turned back.

"Why, you ain't seen the prize hog?" called Ebenezer.

"Yes, I have," retorted the traveling man. "I've seen him," and continued his walk back to the country store.

Natural Mistake.

Four British tourists entered a Paris restaurant one evening and announced that they wanted dinner.

"And we don't want any of your frogs or snails or horses," one of them told the waiter severely. "We'll start with soup—some sort of plain soup."

"Certainly, sir," replied the waiter, and next minute the four Britons gasped as they heard him shout down the speaking tube to the kitchen, "Cat soup!"

"CAT SOUP"

Without a word the tourists seized their hats and bolted. It was not until some time later that they discovered that in French "Four soups"—"quatre soupes"—is pronounced almost exactly like "cat soup."

The Fly in the Ointment.

A Scotch lady from the highlands, being taken to Edinburgh and hearing modern singing in a church for the first time, was asked by the lady who took her there what she thought of the music.

"It's verra bonny, verra bonny; but, oh, my laddie, it's an awfu' way of spending the Sabbath!"

State Sanitary Rules For Dairy Farms

PUBLIC HEALTH HINTS
Prepared Each Week For the Readers of This Newspaper by the New York State Department of Health.

THE Public Health Council recently issued Chapter III of the Sanitary Code dealing with MILK AND CREAM, which for the first time gives the cities and villages of New York State a simple and uniform system of dairy regulations. This chapter took effect on Oct. 15.

Milk is one of the most nutritious and most universal of all food-stuffs. At the same time it is VERY LIKELY TO CAUSE DISEASE if improperly handled. These new rules, therefore, mean much for Public Health.

In order to insure proper handling of a milk supply the public must know where it comes from. So the foundation of the milk code is the requirement of a YEARLY PERMIT, which must be obtained from local health officers by every farm or individual selling milk or cream.

The local health officer must INSPECT each dairy farm at least once a year and score its sanitary condition on a standard score card. Under the code he shall not grant a permit unless he finds the premises CLEAN and SANITARY and unless the farm or dairy scores at least 40 out of a POSSIBLE 100 points on the score card.

The milk from farms which pass this test is furthermore to be GRADED in one of seven classes and labeled with its proper grade. The highest grade of milk is Certified Milk. This means that it is "certified" as coming up to the regulations of a recognized medical milk commission. Then follow three grades, A, B and C. In each of these grades there is a raw milk class and a pasteurized milk class.

One of the most important regulations in the code is the one that defines just what PASTEURIZATION is. Often so called pasteurized milk has been heated only for a few seconds, and there is no certainty in such a case that disease germs will be destroyed. The code defines pasteurized milk as milk heated to 145 DEGREES Fahrenheit for not less than THIRTY MINUTES. Any milk so treated CANNOT CARRY COMMUNICABLE disease unless infected afterward.

Grade A milk, raw, must come from herds tested by the tuberculin test within one year. All other milk, except Grade C, must come from cows shown to be healthy by an annual physical examination.

The dairy score and the maximum bacteria count are also fixed for each of these grades of milk and of cream. Exactly what each one stands for is stated in the code, which may be obtained by any one interested upon application to the State Department of Health at Albany (enclosing 2 cents for postage). It need hardly perhaps be pointed out that Grade A IS THE HIGHEST and Grade C the lowest grade.

Grade A milk must be labeled in large black type on the caps or tags. Grade B in large green type and Grade C in large red type. It will take time to put this chapter of the code into full effect when it is in full operation, however, the buyer of milk can know from the label on the bottle or can JUST WHAT HE IS BUYING. Through this code the clean and sanitary dairyman will RECEIVE THE RECOGNITION he deserves.

Don't Be Irregular Attending Church; Be a Consistent Performer; Go Every Sunday

GO TO CHURCH!
Reports from all over the country show that the GO TO CHURCH movement is exceeding all expectations. Pittsburgh was one of the cities that made a record. Religious fervor there attained a high pitch when thousands of people who had been remiss in their spiritual duties for years responded to the invitation to make GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY a success. Practically every church benefited by the innovation and some to such an extent that they were at a loss to care for the large crowds assembled.

WHILE NO ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO TABULATE THE PERCENTAGE OF INCREASED ATTENDANCE ON THE PART OF THE EVANGELISTIC COMMITTEE WHICH ORIGINATED THE MOVEMENT, SUFFICIENT IS KNOWN TO SAY THAT IT EXCEEDED ALL EXPECTATIONS BY MANY FOLD AND GIVES WARRANT FOR THE BELIEF THAT AT LAST THE TIDE HAS TURNED IN THE CHURCHES' FAVOR, TAKEN ALL IN ALL, IT WAS THE OCCASION FOR THE RECEPTION OF HUNDREDS WHO WERE LIFE LONG STRANGERS TO CHURCH AND THE WELCOMING BACK INTO THE FOLD OF MANY WHO HAD STRAYED INTO OTHER PATHS.

Featured by a special MESSAGE OF APPROVAL FROM PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON to churches in the Allegheny valley, Pennsylvania, GO TO CHURCH day was observed there. Advertising in newspapers, by posters, cards and personal calls was largely responsible for an unusually large turnout. The observance was under the auspices of the Allegheny Valley Ministerial association. Each church member endeavored to take with him five friends, who were urged to invite five more. The services were made attractive by special sermons and music.

Now that the GO TO CHURCH movement has been fairly launched throughout the country, don't let it lag. KEEP PLUGGING. Those who have returned to the church should not be spasmodic in their attendance. BE CONSISTENT. BE STEADY. GO TO CHURCH every Sunday!

BABYLON AND NINEVEH.

The Incident That Led Sir Henry Layard to Explore Their Ruins.

The first man to undertake extensive and important explorations among the ruins of Babylon and Nineveh was Sir Henry Layard. It was due to his friendship for a young man who had a great fear of seasickness that he was led to begin what was to be his life work. Layard was educated in the law and started for Ceylon to practice his profession.

He was accompanied by another lad who had a horror of the ocean, and Layard readily agreed when his companion suggested that they make the trip by land across Europe, Asia Minor, Persia and India. It was while on this journey that Layard was inspired with the ambition to delve among the ruins of the ancient cities of Asia.

"When I first beheld the mounds of Nineveh," he wrote, "a great longing came over me to learn what was hidden within them."
He yielded to the desire and largely at his own expense carried on these excavations at Babylon and Nineveh, which were chiefly responsible for the discovery of the lost records and relics of a people who lived 3,000 years ago. Many cities and palaces, including the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar, were unearthed by Layard, and the most valuable treasures in the British museum serve to commemorate his name and fame.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

"What's your excuse for speeding?" asked the judge.
"Oh, we live in rapid times, your honor," answered the motorist flippantly. "Everything has to speed up a bit these days."
"Not at all," said the judge. "And you will observe the contrary if you will sit down and spend the day in this courtroom. Ten dollars."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Ancient Builder.

Probably the greatest builder the world ever had was Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon from 604 to 561 B. C. There is scarcely a ruin in Babylonia which does not show traces of his work. Nearly everywhere in Mesopotamia and even in Persia are found bricks bearing his name. He delighted in restoring the old temples. He surrounded defenseless cities with walls and moats. He confined the rivers to their courses with huge brick embankments. Shortly before his time Babylon was completely destroyed, but he rebuilt and enlarged the city.

GEORGIA BLOODHOUNDS.

Keen Scent Enables Them to Perform Almost Incredible Feats.
What the Georgia bloodhound can do seems almost incredible. A convict sleeping in one bunk of a hundred, shod and clad precisely as the hundred convicts about him, may slip his chain and flee. Ten miles away he may meet his fellow prisoners again, may run to and fro among them or walk with them a mile and leave them.

Six hours after these bounds, put on his track where he slipped the camp, will follow him to where he met his gang, will tread his track in and about with hundreds of tracks, take it up where he leaves them and run him down though he cross convict gangs every mile he runs.

This escaping convict, clad in stripes cut from the same bolt with a hundred others, may run through the woods, kushing weeds and bushes as he runs. Fifty other convicts may run through the same woods in every direction. The dogs will hold his scent, running full tilt, breast high. If he makes a curve of forty-five degrees the dogs will not run the line, but will catch his scent thirty yards away and across the angle, though it were filled with the convicts who had eaten and slept with the fugitive.

Often a dog will carry a scent in a gallop, running parallel thirty yards to the windward. An uncanny and terrible little beast is the red bone hound trained for the hunting of man.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Compensation.
If it is true, as our business philosophers tell us, that "those who never do more than they get paid for never get paid for more than they do," then it is quite clear that if you want to get paid for more than you do you must do more than you get paid for. Even a philosopher ought to see how impossible that is, but, of course, the true philosopher cannot be expected to heat tate over a mere impossibility.—Life

Comfort For The Needy.

The time has come and gone for the sailing of the first Christmas ship to carry cheer, if such a thing can be, to the destitute wives and children of those who suffer from the awful war. (When will nations learn wisdom?) Now comes a call for Christmas presents for the lepers, an isolated company of outcasts. Presents are desired for lepers in eighty-nine stations and for thirty homes for untaught children of lepers in the Orient. These are under the care of representatives of the mission of lepers.

In the present condition of the world, we can hardly make the coming holidays a day of much feasting and spending of money for useless presents. Shall we let this call go unheeded; or shall we add something to the things being sent? Among the list of presents named are socks in bright wool, (for China white preferred), pieces of cotton four yards long, bandages made of old clean linen or cotton, all lengths four inches wide and a safety pin with each bandage, dolls not wax, pen knives, small looking glasses, old spectacles, colored handkerchiefs, shoulder shawls, etc., small sums of money to defray cost of transportation.

Send by parcel post or prepaid express to Mr. Fleming H. Revell, Treasurer U. S. A. Committee of the Mission to Lepers, 158 5th Ave., New York. Mark all "For the Mission to Lepers."

Mrs. Mary A. Small,

Dr. Shaw Re-elected.

The entire administration ticket of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, headed by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw of New York for president, was elected at the annual convention of the association at Nashville, Tenn., on Monday.

In addition to Dr. Shaw the following officers were elected: First vice-president, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, New York; second vice-president, Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, Kentucky; third vice-president, Miss Katherine B. Davis, New York; recording secretary, Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, Massachusetts; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Orten H. Clark, Michigan; treasurer, Mrs. Henry Wade Rogers, Connecticut; first auditor, Mrs. Helen Guthrie Miller, Missouri; second auditor, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Illinois.

The convention adopted a motion fixing the first Saturday in May as "suffrage day" for a nationwide celebration in the interest of "votes for women."

Lansing Man Dead.

Calvin Lane, a well known and respected resident of Lansing, residing near Lansingville, died quite suddenly at his home on Thursday, Nov. 5, aged 72 years. Mr. Lane was a veteran of the Civil war, serving in the 10th New York Cavalry. He had been a member of the Lansingville M. E. church for twenty-two years, and was also a prominent member of Lansingville Grange. He is survived by a wife and two daughters, Mrs. Ada Lane of Ithaca and Mrs. Margaret Gallow of Lansingville. The funeral was held on Sunday, Nov. 8, at 1 p. m. at the home and at 2 o'clock at the Lansingville church, Rev. G. W. Hiney officiating.

Convention of Ministers.

All the evangelical ministers in the western half of New York state are cordially invited to attend a Convention of Ministers to be held at Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 7 to 9. There are about two thousand churches in this territory, representing sixteen different communions. It is hoped that at least one thousand ministers will be present. The churches of Rochester have graciously undertaken to provide free entertainment for delegates in the homes of the city.

"The Church at Work for the Community, the Nation and the World" will be the main theme for consideration. Men with a real experience on some vital phase of this comprehensive subject are being secured as leaders in the discussions.

Among the speakers will be Dr. Robert E. Spear of New York, Dr. Worth M. Tippy of Cleveland, Chas. G. Trumbull of Philadelphia, and other experienced workers.

The convention is being organized by the Laymen's Missionary Movement. All sessions will be held in the Central church, corner Fitzhugh and Church streets, beginning Monday, Dec. 7, at 2:30 p. m. and concluding with a special session for delegates only on Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m.

In order to insure the provision of adequate entertainment for delegates, it is highly important that those expecting to attend should report as soon as possible to Mr. H. F. Laflamme, Cutler Building, Rochester, New York.

Red Cross Seals.

New York, Nov. 16—The American Red Cross announced to-day that tangible recognition would be given to the cities and villages of the country which lead in the fight against tuberculosis by selling the most Christmas seals. Pennants will be awarded in a national competition conducted by the Red Cross, and also in a New York State competition conducted by the State Charities Aid association. Two sets of pennants are open to New York State communities.

In order to make the competition even in all parts of the country the cities and towns have been grouped according to population in 1910 in seven classes as follows: from 500 to 2000; from 2000 to 8000; from 8000 to 25,000; from 25,000 to 50,000; from 50,000 to 150,000; from 150,000 to 500,000; and over 500,000. A pennant will be given to the city or town or village in each class anywhere in the United States selling the largest number of seals per capita, and six additional pennants will be given the leaders in each class in New York state.

All the proceeds from the sale of Red Cross seals, except the expenses of the sale, go to fight tuberculosis in the community, state, city or town where the seals are sold.

Mrs. Sarah Seccomb.

Mrs. Sarah Seccomb, widow of John L. Seccomb, died early Tuesday morning on the 92nd anniversary of her birth, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Marshall M. Bancroft on Clover Leaf farm in the town of Locke. For 20 years Mrs. Seccomb resided in Auburn, but came to Genoa with her daughter about four years ago. When the family moved last April to Locke, Mrs. Seccomb went with them.

Besides her daughter the deceased leaves two sons, Joseph Seccomb of Summerhill and Milo Seccomb of Port Byron. Funeral services will be held at the undertaking rooms of Gross & Mosher in Auburn this (Friday) afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment will be made in Scule cemetery. Rev. L. W. Scott, pastor of Genoa Presbyterian church, will officiate.

Very Awkward.

Two Frenchmen, one an artist and the other a subeditor, fought a duel. The combatants faced each other with grim determination, both being confident of victory.

After much parleying the subeditor managed to get in an overwhelming cut, which severed the artist's nose. The wounded man dropped his sword with a groan, but in falling had the misfortune to fall across the big toe of his right foot, cutting it clean off. After this interesting state of affairs he was rendered hors du combat.

The doctors rushed up to replace the pieces, but in doing so they made the fatal mistake of putting the toe on the artist's face and his nose where the toe should have been, and ever since the accident when the unfortunate fellow wanted to sneeze he has been obliged to take off his boot.—Strand Magazine.

 Next week is Thanksgiving week. Surely as a nation we have more to be thankful for this year than in any year past for a long time. Our nation is at peace while almost the rest of the world is torn by war. All parts of our land are reporting a rapidly advancing wave of prosperity. Should we not then meet together on Thanksgiving day to offer up our thanks to God for his goodness to us? A Thanksgiving service will be held at the church next Thursday morning at 10 a. m. This service will take the place of the usual mid-week service. Further announcement will be made next Sunday morning.

Autumnal Glories For Thanksgiving

The autumnal glories left to us in the fields and woods in November in many parts of the United States furnish material for charming and seasonable decorations for the Thanksgiving dinner. In addition, of course, the florist may be called upon, especially for the chrysanthemum, always a seasonable and favorite bloom.

While the smoked bamboo basket is well liked as a fashionable centerpiece table basket, the woman who is not fortunate enough to possess one may substitute a wicker basket and carry out a pretty scheme. This is to fill the basket with a mixture of oranges, late pears, apples and other fruits. To give a mass of the silvery clematis around this and bring it over the edges, putting alternately red, brown or yellow oak leaves mixed with scarlet bitter-sweet in the decoration, extending it well out over the white cloth. To brighten add berries and leaves wherever taste suggests—in trailing lines of clematis and leaves or irregularly.

The table lights should be of candles in mahogany, glass, brass or silver sticks, shaded with autumn colors. To make these use a silvery gray paper and stencil or paint on the shades tiny autumn leaves or shape the four sides of each shade like a maple or oak leaf, tinting them with autumnal colors. A spray of bittersweet berries at each plate, with place cards to match the candle shades, completes the decorative ensemble.—Philadelphia Record.

"THANKS-LIVING."

Proper Way to Show Gratitude is Doing Good to Others.

Thanksgiving presupposes thankfulness. One cannot give thanks unless he feels thankful, and this feeling is a cultivated habit. As an expression of simple politeness it is not an innate but an inbred trait. Much more is this the case when we consider the thanks that are due to a beneficent Creator. In a time when luxuries are counted as necessities a sense of repletion or dissatisfaction is often felt which makes us blind to the everyday, commonplace favors that we enjoy. Make a list of the essential and vital boons with which your life is blessed and your heart will begin to glow with thankfulness.

It is no accident that "think" and "thank" come from the same root. Thanklessness is usually the result of thoughtlessness. But we are more apt to be thoughtless about the favors that come from God through the working of his beneficent laws than about the material gifts that come from the hand of a fellow man. Stevenson has well said: "Keep your eyes open to your mercies. That part of piety is eternal, and the man who forgets to be thankful has fallen asleep in life."

Above all, the true thanksgiving is thanks-living, in the deed of the hand as well as the word of the lip. By giving some one else a reason for thankfulness through your kindness you provide a proper outlet for the brimming, overflowing gratitude of your own heart. For the common prosperity, for your individual blessings, for what you have not as well as what you have, "In everything give thanks."—Rev. Robert J. Pilgram of Pittsburgh.

SPREAD THANKSGIVING!

By the Rev. J. H. JOWETT.
I regard Thanksgiving day as one of the most gracious and heartening anniversaries in the American year. That a people should be called by their president to reckon the mercies and privileges received at the hands of God is to me a most hallowed and sanctifying ministry and most assuredly enriches and invigorates the national life.

But Thanksgiving should not be confined to material bounty. It should extend its range and include the blessings found in the broadening day of knowledge and in the lifting of all forms of oppression from those who are bearing a needless yoke. It should even go beyond the range of patriotism and become cosmopolitan as it contemplates the heaven of freedom and humanity which is working in every part of the world.

Thanksgiving of this wide and ennobling kind would surely send a thankful people into the ways of unselfish and chivalrous service.

Bessie and Her Thanksgiving Pies

LITTLE Bessie Gray looked up from her story book with a sigh, and as she looked up she caught the reflection of her face in a mirror over the table and sighed again.

"Oh, dear! If I were only slender and graceful and a grown up young lady or a princess and lived in a palace and had heaps of money and could carry bunches of flowers to sick people! But here I am, nothing but Bessie Gray—short, stout and homely, with a broad face and a wide mouth and not exactly poor, but then I have to work rather hard for a little girl, and as for the troubles of this world, somehow I don't feel so badly about them as I ought to, or else the people around here don't have any to speak of."

"Now's your chance," said a little squeaking voice. Where did it come from? There was nothing in sight but a heap of pumpkins on a board just outside the window and a little colored girl passing the garden fence, scantily clad and shivering in the cold November sunshine. All that Bessie knew of her was that her name was Poppy, and she belonged to a family that were very shiftless, it appeared, from their unwillingness to work and their ignorant ways of doing the little they could do.

But it could not be this little girl who spoke. She was hurrying on without turning a glance toward the house, eager, no doubt, to reach her miserable shelter from the cold.

Bessie's curiosity was fully aroused. She went out and stood upon the doorstep. The colored child was still but the wind, and that hardly whispered through the leafless boughs of the pear trees. But there was the voice, close to her now. "Help me down," it said. And Bessie's mouth opened wider than ever as she saw the topmost pumpkin of the pile at her side moving itself without aid of hands. She took hold of its stem, and, although it was one of the heaviest of the lot, she scarcely felt its weight at all.

"Carry me in," said the voice again pantingly.

Bessie had not believed her own ears until now. A pumpkin talking! That was more wonderful than Aesop's fables, truly. But why shouldn't it speak as well as the brambles and oak trees and brass kettles? So she turned the great thing over upon its side and rolled it, or, rather, let it roll itself, up the steps into the kitchen.

"Cook me," said the little, panting, squeaking voice again. "Cook me." Just then her mother came in. "Mother, may I make some pumpkin pies?" said Bessie.

"Well, I don't care," was the answer of the busy woman. "None of us seems to be so very fond of them, but you can make them if you'll only promise to get somebody to eat them."

But the pumpkin began to squeak impatiently: "Cut me up! Cut me up! And Bessie obeyed without more ado. Determined to have her pies as nice as they could be made, she poured out her milk, stirred in spice and sweetening and made the crust light, wondering while she rolled it out who would eat the pies when they were done.

But the pumpkin told her as it boiled in the kettle—no longer with that low squeak, but with a deep, musical rumble, as if laughing with joy over its own fate—"Black Poppy's people; black Poppy's people." And why shouldn't a pumpkin rejoice in the sacrifice of its own life for a benevolent purpose?

And Bessie herself, when she carried the pie to Poppy's wretched home, having first set one aside in the cupboard that her mother might see that she could bake pies worth anybody's eating, looked almost beautiful with the excitement of doing a kindly deed. Her sun browned hands and stout arms were just fitted for the beautiful work they had been doing, and she had as much reason to be proud of them as any lady of her delicate fingers, for certainly those are the prettiest hands that do most willingly the work they were made for.

And black Poppy's people could not have received one of the graceful ministering spirits of the story books with more eloquent gratitude than they did the homely little girl and her heavy basket of pies. Indeed, to those half starved beings she was a vision of loveliness, a real angel of mercy!—New York Press.

One Thanksgiving on July 4.

According to Gabriel Furman, "Governor Peter Stuyvesant made a communication to the church (Reformed Dutch) of Brooklyn, on Long Island, on the last day of June, 1663, directing the 4th day of July following to be observed as a day of thanksgiving, because among other things the English had been defeated in their attempt to take possession of the whole of Long Island by the timely arrival of a Dutch fleet of armed ships in the Bay of New Amsterdam, New York."

Fast Instead of Feast.

Thanksgiving day, 1860, was a memorable event in the United States. From many a pulpit that day fell a warning that abnegation before God was more fit than the usual enjoyments of the day. So widely did this impression prevail that President Buchanan was appealed to by associations and various persons to appoint a special day of fasting and prayer to avert the dreaded coming of civil war. He yielded to the request, and Friday, Jan. 4, 1861, was set apart to that purpose.

WHAT A WRITER SAW.

A short time ago I noticed him as he came into town, with his wagon full of vegetables, and chickens, and eggs. He found a ready market for his produce, and I thought how happy his little ones would be when he returned home in the evening with toys, and dresses, and shoes, and food for the morrow, and some clear money in his purse. I thought I could see his wife standing in the doorway to give him a cordial greeting on his return, so destitute was I that he should make the home ones happy and contented. I could almost see his cheerful face as he returned to his family after a day's absence. So I thought, and returned to my work. But evening came, and he passed by my window again. He had nothing I thought he would have. The bed of the wagon was bare. No little shoes, nor food for the morrow, nor money in his purse, I dare say. The man was drunk. He had changed, and this changed my thoughts of his home. I could see the children shrinking from his approach, and the wife, so care-worn and sorrowful. She could not meet him with the tender smile with which she had intended greeting him. He was breaking her heart, and preparing to make a desolate home for his wife and children.—W. H. Engler.

COST OF A BOY.

(By MRS. ELLA A. BORLE, President New York State W. C. T. U.)

If I were to place a money value on what that mother does for the boy from the time he is born until he is twenty-one years of age, I am not putting it too high when I assert it is worth say two dollars a week—you could not hire it done for that—which means that the mother has invested in the boy from the time he was born until he is twenty-one years of age more than twenty-one hundred dollars in hard work.

What has the father done for the boy? He has provided the home, the food and lodging, paid the doctor's bills, paid for his books, his clothes, his schooling, and his bills when he went to college, so that when I make the average amount expended by the father $100 per year my estimate is low. This means that when the boy has reached twenty-one years of age his father and mother have expended upon him in cash and hard labor more than $4,000.

If I had a house valued at $4,000 and some one were to destroy it by fire, I would have the man arrested and sent to the penitentiary, but if I had a boy, and a house, I would a thousand times rather some one would set fire to my house and burn it to the ground than have the saloon get hold of my boy and ruin him body and soul. Wouldn't you?

SMALL PROFIT TO FARMER.

The manufacturers of intoxicating liquors quite frequently represent themselves as indispensable to the farmers, on account of the market they afford him for his grain. But investigation shows that only a very small part of the farmers' total products are taken by the breweries and distilleries. For instance, during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, 114,509,855 bushels of barley, wheat, rye, corn and oats were used in making alcoholic liquors. But the farmers raised, during the year 1910, a total of 5,143,187,000 bushels of these same grains and this shows that the liquor traffic uses less than two and a half per cent. of the five leading grain crops of the land. For every bushel of grain used by the breweries and distilleries more than forty-four and three-fifths bushels are used for legitimate food purposes.—Prof. John A. Nicholls.

JUSTICE TO WIFE AND CHILDREN.

The court was hearing a case of "drunk, third arrest." The judge turned to the woman who stood near, whose worn, sorrowful face had touched his heart, and said: "I am sorry, but I must lock up your husband." The injured wife, victim of the legalized liquor traffic, one of the many who "take the consequences while the husband takes the drink," had no thought of touching deep moral or economic problems, but only of plain, every-day, common sense, when she replied: "Your honor, wouldn't it be better for me and the children if you locked up the saloon and let my husband go to work?"

COMMON SENSE IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN.

There are a hundred miles of railroad through northern Wisconsin with but one saloon town on the whole route. This station retained its "wetness" at the last election by a majority of only four votes. And yet northern Wisconsin is the home of the foreign emigrant, the lumberman and the copper and iron workers!

TWO INVESTMENTS.

Part of the exhibit in a Quincy (Mass.) shop window during the poster campaign was a little cottage with the announcement that: "Henry saved one dollar per week, which he invested in a building fund. At the end of 25 years he had to show this little home all paid for." Close to the cottage was a pile of miniature barrels with the legend: "John spent one dollar per week for beer. At the end of 25 years he had this pile of empty barrels to show—and even these he did not own."

Woman's World

Miss Genevieve Clark, Who Originated Plan to Boom Cotton.

MISS GENEVIEVE CLARK.

The clever and attractive daughter of Speaker Champ Clark gave the stimulus to the nation wide movement to promote the sale of cotton and thus help southern cotton growers, mill workers and people generally.

Miss Clark originated the idea for the cotton fashion show in Washington. Also she suggested the plan of the nation wide bargain day sale of cotton goods. Her ingenuity has done much to popularize cotton goods and promote their sale.

In a recent interview Miss Clark said:

"It has been said that no person can live so that his life only affects himself, and so, while this problem is essentially the problem of the south, it affects the northern section of our country by eliminating $400,000,000 spent annually by southern cotton growers in the north.

"It has been said by the business men of the country, who understand the financial situation, that there is no real lack of money in this country; that the trouble lies in the fact that people, anticipating a stringency, are holding on to what they have. Thus should this idea of a great nation wide bargain sale in cotton appeal to 10,000,000 women, each buying $1 worth of cotton materials on a certain day would put in circulation $10,000,000 of the hoarded gold, as most hoarded money is in gold, and to that extent alleviate the stringency.

"The cotton factories of the country are at this time putting out only about one-half of the materials that they are equipped to turn out. The reason for this is that the merchants will not buy any more cotton materials until they have sold what they have on hand.

"All the women of Europe, to meet the crisis which they have had to face, have gone in training for hospital and commercial service. If the women of America by using more cotton can avert this crisis it is certainly their patriotic duty to do so."

One of the most charming and popular girls of the younger set in Washington, Miss Clark is also clever and energetic. There is no doubt that in her cotton has a valuable champion.

WHEN PAPERING WALLS.

Artistic and Simple Papers Are the Most Useful and Satisfactory.

The following in regard to papering are useful facts to remember: Choose a ceiling paper with a small design in silver, which is almost invisible when put on. The plain pulp ceiling paper does not wear as well and will not clean satisfactorily. It does not pay to calcimine a ceiling over paper if durability is desired.

For side walls an oatmeal paper in tan, taupe or putty color is inexpensive, artistic and it has splendid wearing qualities, as it fades very little if any and makes an excellent background for pictures as well as harmonizes with any color of rugs, draperies and upholstery. This paper is wide and is 30 cents a roll. Being heavy it covers poor walls much better than a thinner quality, as cracks and defects are not visible.

For sanitary reasons new paper should never go on over old. A thorough soaking and a good scraper will remove the old very quickly, and if the good man of the house has time he may do it and save the time of a professional workman.

ECONOMY HINTS.

Reducing Gas Bill by Cooking and Heating Irons at the Same Time.

When ironing over a gas flame it has been found decidedly economical to use an iron lid over the gas under the irons. When this iron lid is once heated it retains the heat and the irons can be kept piping hot with a slow fire.

A way of saving gas while ironing is to cook over the same burner that heats the irons. When two irons are kept continuously on the stove a flat bottomed kettle can be placed over them, and even with the interruptions caused by changing the irons the contents can be kept at the boiling point.

This is a very important point when cooking fish, soup and other foods that demand a slow but steady heat.
