Save the Trees.

In Minnesota they are cutting down oak trees to save the trees from the oak-borer; all the old elms, on Boston common are to be destroyed because of the leopard moth; chestnut trees are being rooted out in the middle states; and so, everywhere, insects are playing havoc. And why? Simply because the birds are being exterminated by many enemies and no adequate steps are being taken to save them. (Don't tell us that insects have nothing to do in causing the chestnut blight, for it is not so.) Are all our forest trees to be swept away because we haven't sense enough to understand the cause to be the lessened number of birds in the land?—Rural Life.

BEST STORIES OF HOW PLUCK IS

Aviator Describes Feelings When Swooped at by Winged Enemy.

ALONG the best descriptive stories of the big war in Europe is one narrated by a Russian aviator. His opinions about certain phases of presentations of aviators blazing away with revolvers led to some interesting information.

Very little has been published about the Russian aviators in war. Russia, however, is very well supplied with this auxiliary—quite as well as Germany. The majority of the aviators are officers who have learned flying, but some of the best are civilian volunteers. M. Azatoff, the Russian aviator referred to, is barely of age, but has already won the coveted decoration of the Order of St. George for valor, as well as a special badge of honor given by the commander in chief. Before the war he took the cup for the Petrograd-Moscow-Sebastopol flight.

"You could not hit anything with a revolver from an aeroplane," he said. "Vibration alone would buffet you, and a revolver is a very uncertain thing anyway. Hand bombs make sure work provided you can get above the other man, as we always can with German aviators. If you have no bombs you rise above your enemy, taking care he sees you plainly, and then you make a dive upon him. No, you don't really intend to ram him, and he knows very well you don't, because that would be certain death for both, and it is not worth while to throw yourself away for one hostile aeroplane.

Too Much For Human Courage.

"We tried once how it felt on Mother Earth when an aeroplane threatens to ram you. A dozen of us stood while our best flier went up and came sweeping down on us. Every man took to his heels. The feeling is much stronger up in the air.

"But fighting, after all, is not our real business. We are scouts. Of course we can drop bombs, but it is extremely difficult to hit anything satisfactorily when you are going fifty miles an hour. On the other hand, nothing is easier than to hit another aeroplane when you are chasing above him.

"Of course you are a mark for every one. We used to mount in the usual way with a short run, but we soon dropped that. Now we get up and circle around a few times to get our own fellows accustomed to us and to show exactly where we are starting from; otherwise they would shoot because it is impossible to tell whose aeroplane it is unless the starting place has been marked.

"The Germans always send up rockets when they sight us, and then the fun begins. They had no special guns where I was, but trained ordinary field batteries upward. They take two points on your course, and the six guns of the battery divide a wide area among them, firing as rapidly as possible."

"A Sausage Grinder."

Colonel Webb C. Hayes, U. S. A., son of former President Hayes, who has returned to this country, has been on the firing line in Europe, has visited the sacked city of Louvain as the guest of Germans in an armored car; he has been in Aix-la-Chapelle to see the havoc of war there and has seen some of the fighting in the historic Alsace struggle.

"It is a sausage grinder," he declared. "On one side are the French and allies, apparently willing to sacrifice their last man in defense of France, on the other are the Germans, seemingly prodigal of their millions of men and money and throwing man after man into the war.

"There can be but one outcome, but it will be a long time ending," he said. "England won't begin to fight really until spring.

"The battlefield these days is far different from what it used to be. There are few men to be seen and practically no guns. All are concentrated. Shrapnel dies through the air and bursts. That is the scene most of the time. In the hand to hand fighting bayonets are used much by the French, while the Turks use knives."

War's Awful Desolation.

An eyewitness describes the state of affairs existing in that portion of Lyublin province which was the scene of recent severe fighting between the Russian and Austrian troops.

In Kransostav and in Zamost a few dozen houses remain unscathed. The remainder form a mass of impenetrable ruins. There is not a trace left of the neighboring villages. Once fertile and blossoming fields are now cemeteries.

Along the whole road one sees nothing but improvised graves decorated with modest wooden crosses. Among them figure conspicuously the large common graves of Austrian and German soldiers with projecting black and yellow flags. From quickly excavated, hurriedly filled pits one sees here and there hands and legs sticking out.

On the river Wepru the Russian soldiers destroyed the bridge by setting fire to it unobserved while Austrian troops were crossing it. As a result

THE BIG WAR; TRIED IN BATTLE

Picturesque and Dramatic Side Lights and Unusual Incidents.

Many thousands perished, some in the trenches, some in the water. Corpses floating in the river in hundreds looked like a long, endless raft.

The banks of the Wepru are littered with countless corpses silently telling the awful tale that at its bottom is a colossal grave. On the road there are thousands of Austrian rifles and knapsacks scattered on the blood stained soil. The fields are sown with guns and cartridges.

Effect of a Land Mine.

The story of a lance corporal of the Lincolnshire regiment who was wounded on the Marne almost takes one into the trenches:

"It is not only on sea that the Germans make use of mines. They do it on land. Nearly all approaches to their trenches are mined for about 200 yards and even 1,000 yards.

"One day an infantry battalion of ours, supported by French infantry and cavalry, fought their way right up to the enemy's trenches and were formed up for the last rush when suddenly the earth under them gave way with a terrific explosion, and the air was thick with bodies blown sky high.

"Our own men seemed to get very little damage, though many of them were stunned for the time being by the awful explosion.

"After a time they were reformed and swept across the intervening space with a ringing cheer that told its own story. The Germans were ready for them, and they had a hard tussle to clear the trenches, but they succeeded in the end."

Girl Among Bursting Shells.

"Today I have been out about a mile and have returned with some carrots, onions and potatoes," writes an English soldier home. "These have been peeled, cut up and are now boiling in a pail, with six tins of corned beef added.

"We are all looking forward to a profound gorge, and I for one have moist lips at the thought of the meal which a commandeerer pail.

"I pity the people who live in the villages about the warpath. With red dened eyes they look to us in mute appeal. We do what we can for them, and they do what they can for us. They give us anything they have, and there is a solemn respect for all that is theirs from the blind Tommies that we all are.

"May God spare our country from such sights as I have seen. I say it as one who has with others broken into a house that we might fire at an advancing enemy through the upstairs windows.

"Imagine a terrified young woman and an elderly man sitting in a darkened room, horror stricken, while shells screamed about their home and bullets whizzed and whined through windows and upon walls! Blood was left upon their bedroom floors when, with three wounded, we left that home just as the roof was blown clean off.

"It was a consolation to know those two sought refuge in a cellar. We retired, shot at with shells and bullets. How many we lost in that engagement we do not know."

Wonderful Searchlight.

One of the most useful articles of the German war equipment is a sky-rocket which gives a powerful illumination, lasting forty seconds, above the ranks of the enemy, enabling the German artillery officers to obtain an accurate range of the trenches.

Mass on Battlefield.

At the request of many French wounded a military chaplain celebrated mass on the battlefield. He improvised an altar from a sundial dressing table, which was raised upon a box containing splints and was covered with a sheet from the hospital. Bunches of flowers were placed in vases made from the bases of German shells.

A soldier priest, serving as a corporal in the ambulance corps, assisted the chaplain. The mass was said to grim music. Shells shrieked above the worshippers and exploded with terrific detonations less than 100 meters away. All about was the clamor of battle. Priests and congregation were near to death every moment, but the service continued until its close calmly and uninteruptedly.

Spy Directs Batteries' Fire.

Of the skill of the German spies this is related:

Near Berry-au-Bac a reserve battalion was skillfully concealed, waiting for the word to move to support the first line. A shepherd with a flock of sheep wandered unnoticed to within a few hundred yards of the rear of the hidden battalion. A very little later these troops were subjected to a heavy accurate artillery fire from the Germans. The shepherd was suspected, caught and forced to confess that he had notified the Germans of the exact position of the battalion.

Foe Amused Kaiser.

The Chicago News prints the following as a cable dispatch from Berlin:

An interview in a railway station between the kaiser and a captured

French general while the king of Bavaria waited is the substance of a story told by a wounded cavalry sergeant on sick leave.

"In the transport in which we were being sent home," the sergeant said, "there were also French prisoners and among these a captured general who at one time had been a military attache at Berlin.

"The train stopped at the station, where the kaiser was expected to meet the king of Bavaria. As the kaiser came down the platform the general among the prisoners, after much argument, managed to get an officer to take his card to the emperor. When he saw the name the kaiser ordered the prisoner brought to him, and a long conversation between them followed. They talked for fifteen minutes, and the kaiser laughed aloud several times, but I have never seen him laugh before—smile, yes; but laugh, never."

Oddities In the War News.

An officer of a submarine, telling of his vessel resting on the bottom for hours after being sighted by German ships and fired upon, said the men played auction bridge while waiting for a chance to come to the surface and escape under cover of darkness.

When a fifteen-year-old boy of Paris was told he was too small to join the army he replied: "A wound is like soup—it makes you grow. If they refuse me I'll find a way to wriggle to the front ranks."

Red Trousers Excite Dogs.

Figaro says some of the German spy dogs captured by the French are highly educated and have been taught to rear at the sight of the red trousers of French soldiers.

Every man in a German battery fighting the Russians at Augustowo was killed, and cavalrymen were drafted to work the guns, which they did until they had only three rounds of ammunition.

When the French submarine Zeelee was sunk off Tahiti by German cruisers a vessel with her was also sent to the bottom. The Germans learned they had sunk one of their own ships, the German merchantman Walkarie, which had been taken as a prize by the submarine.

Passengers and crew aboard the British steamship Consols, from Buenos Aires, had to cook their own meals after leaving Trinidad. Their cook was a German and was taken off by a British warship.

Shells Halt Letter Writing.

From a British lance corporal, who was apparently irritated in his letter writing by interruption from the German guns:

"The Germans don't give us much time for letter writing. This one has been stopped six times already. Just because the beggars were creeping too close, and I had to go out with my bayonet to chase them off before settling down again."

Dieppe doctors found that soldiers would keep quiet if they had a pipe or a cigarette to smoke while wounds were being dressed, and the townspeople almost raided tobacco shops to provide the "smokes." Slightly wounded went to the windows of hospitals and let down shutters, and the crowds tied tobacco and cigarettes to their novel kind of fishing party.

Saying she was content to lose her leg for France, Denise Cartier, the thirteen-year-old girl struck by a bomb dropped by a German aeroplane in Paris, knits jerseys for the soldiers.

NATIONAL LOVE INSURANCE SOCIETY BACKED BY JUDGES

Aims to Promote Happiness and Prepare Men and Women For Marriage.

If you are not happy, though married, consult the Society For the Promotion of Family Happiness. It is the latest love insurance concern organized to assure perpetual bliss. In addition to toning up run down affections, the society purposes to show prospective brides and bridegrooms how to avoid the pitfalls that beset the paths of newweds and how to watch their steps so that the lamp of affection may be kept burning brightly. Here is what it wants to do:

To aid members in the training and discipline of their children and to prepare children for the practical duties of married life.

To help married couples lead proper lives.

To prevent differences from arising between married couples.

To improve the mentalities of those about to be married so that there will be fewer foolish marriages.

The incorporators named in the application for articles of incorporation are Charles Mills, Peter Walzel and George Hoffstetter of New York city.

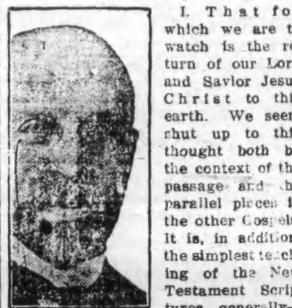

The association is headed by Judge Mayer of the United States court and has received the approval of Justice Pitlake of the supreme court. It has agents in every city in the United States, and when the family happiness group falls in its efforts the bureau of description proposes to step in and receive a frustrated couple, if possible, or, failing in that, bid deserting husbands and fathers and compel them to return to their duties.

It is also disclosed that the description bureau will direct its efforts to aiding in granting amnesty to husbands and heads of families who have run away from the high cost of living and locking. It will try to induce them to emerge from their concealment with the idea of trying to prevent their punishment on the promise to sit tight in the future.

Watching for the Lord

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D. D.
Dean of Moody Bible Institute
Chicago

TEXT—"Watch therefore; for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." Matt. 24:42.

I. That for which we are to watch is the return of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ to this earth. We seem shut up to this thought both by the context of the passage and the parallel places in the other Gospels. It is, in addition, the simplest teaching of the New Testament Scriptures generally—witness the words in I Thess. 1:9, 10, "Ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God; and to wait for his son from heaven."

II. The difficulty of watching is illustrated in the drowsiness of the disciples in Gethsemane—"What could ye not watch with me one hour?" (Matt. 26:40). The spirit was willing but the flesh was weak. A condition of things quite as likely in the region of spiritual truth, if one may judge by the frequent appeals to Christians to awake out of sleep, see Ephes. 5:14; Rom. 13:11, 12; I Cor. 15:34; I Thess. 5:6. There are few of us who are not aware of this from actual experience, alas! As in the physical so in the spiritual sense, the longer we have to watch the more difficult a task it becomes.

III. The danger of not watching is seen in our Lord's warning to the church at Sardis—"If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come to thee as a thief" (Rev. 3:3). "The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy" (John 10:10). This last figure is partly interpreted by another in which Christ says: "But and if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My Lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to smite his fellow servants, and to eat and drink with the drunken; the Lord of that servant shall come in a day when he looketh not for him, and in an hour that he is not aware of, and shall cut him asunder, and appoint him his portion with the hypocrites; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth" (Matt. 24:48-51).

IV. The accompaniments of watching are:

(1) Prayer (Mark 13:33)—"To pray aright is to watch, but surely he is not watching who is not praying? Hence 'men ought always to pray' (Luke 18:1). Not that we must ever be in the external attitude of prayer, as when the Pharisees loved to pray standing at the corners of the streets, but that our inward habit should be one of daily communion with God, for he heareth us always.

(2) Service—"Ye are girded about" (Luke 12:35). See I Kings 18:46, Prov. 31:17, 19. It is the slothful servant who is not watching. The busy servant may not have the particular thought of his Lord's return momentarily present to his mind, but it is nevertheless the underlying motive of his activity.

(3) Testimony—"your lights burning" (Luke 12:35). He who is watching for his Lord's return is speaking of it, witnessing for him. "Ye shine as lights in the world; holding forth the word of life" (Phil. 2:15, 16) that others may see the way of life.

V. The rewards of watching are:

(1) Escape from danger—"Watch ye therefore . . . that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass" (Luke 21:36). Compare the context and the parallel passages with I Thess. 1:5-9.

(2) Bestowal of divine honor—"Blessed are those servants, whom the Lord when he cometh shall find watching; verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them" (Luke 12:37). It is, of course, impossible to apprehend the meaning of this promised felicity (Isaiah 64:4); we simply know that our Lord's language implies an exaltation beyond our highest thought.

(3) Increase of power and opportunity—"Who then is a faithful and wise servant, whom his Lord hath made ruler over his household, to give them meat in due season? Blessed is that servant, whom his Lord when he cometh shall find so doing."

All hail, the Coming Son of God,
He's coming back again,
He's coming in the Clouds of heaven,
He's coming back again to reign!

Sinners whose sins are washed away,
Nor left a single stain,
Go, hail, the Advent of your Lord,
He's coming back to reign!

Let every kindred, every tribe,
Free of Creation's pain,
Aloud acclaim His welcome back,
He's coming back to reign!

Ah! soon with all the ransomed throng,
Beholding Him once again,
We'll see the rolling cloud, and shout
He's coming back to reign!

THE KITCHEN CABINET

A greater quantity of some things may be eaten than of others, some being of lighter digestion. The difficulty lies in finding out an exact measure; but eat for necessity, not pleasure, for Lust knows not where Necessity ends.—Benjamin Franklin.

MEALS FOR SUMMER DAYS.

As the days grow warmer the meals should become lighter. This is the time when the cool, refreshing fruits and vegetables are most welcome. If hot meat is desired for one meal it may be so cooked that it will serve nicely as a cold dish on the day following.

Peanuts and Rice.—Strain enough peanut butter into hot cooked rice to season it well, then add milk, egg and cracker crumbs, leaving some crumbs for the top, and bake a nice brown in the oven. Garnish with parsley when serving.

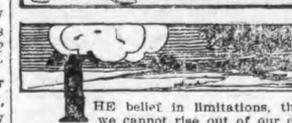

There is no more wholesome vegetable fruit than rhubarb and it is especially good in the early summer. Made into tarts, baked puddings, jams, meringues and charlottes, it is always welcome.

Chicken Salad.—When something good is wanted this is worth trying. Take four cupfuls of finely cut chicken (veal may be used for part of the amount if so desired, and if the chicken and veal be cooked together it will be hard to tell veal from chicken), two cupfuls of minced celery hearts or the most tender portion of the celery, one small green pepper finely chopped, one teaspoonful of onion juice and boiled dressing, which is well seasoned, mixed well with the salad. Much tasting is very essential in the preparation of any dish, for often the lack of a bit of seasoning mars the whole.

Salmon Salad.—One can of salmon carefully shredded and bones and skin removed, a half cupful of finely chopped sour pickles, a half cupful of coconut (if sweet, wash out the sugar in milk and let the coconut soften), a cupful of celery, minced; serve with a good boiled dressing and garnish with eightths of hard cooked egg. Green peppers make a good garnish in place of eggs, or with them. It is better taste to have few colors in the combination of a dish, and have those harmonize.

A very good boiled dressing may be made with equal parts of egg and vinegar cooked together, then when using add cream and all seasonings desired.

Nellie Maxwell's THE KITCHEN CABINET

HE belief in limitations, that we cannot rise out of our environment, is responsible for much wretchedness. Until you erase "fate," "can't" and "doubt" from your vocabulary, you cannot rise.

FOR THE LUNCH BASKET.

The lunch basket must serve more than one or two classes of people. The laboring man at work, in or out of doors, the child at school, the business man and woman. The character of the food need not be radically changed, but there will be smaller quantities and greater variety for the different people, as to age and occupation.

For the growing child we must not only supply food for the daily repair and waste of tissue, but as well for the growth and building up of the framework. That is the reason the small boy seems to be always hungry; nature is taking care that his body is well built.

For those who exercise but little, like office men or women, food that is easily digested should be provided, and not in large quantities.

The one great fault of everybody is eating too much. For the business woman, a slice or two of rye or whole wheat bread, with cheese in the form of a sandwich, and an apple with a glass of milk, makes an excellent lunch. A baked apple with bread and butter, a head of lettuce with French dressing in a small dish, a cup of custard will be with a cup of tea or milk another substantial lunch.

Celery, dates stuffed with nuts, a fig or two or an orange, a banana are always fine accessories to any lunch.

For the school child, two slices of whole wheat bread, with nuts or cream cheese spread on well buttered slices and seasoned with salt. A cup custard or an apple for dessert.

Two slices of white bread well buttered and spread with hard cooked egg well seasoned and a small cup of rice pudding.

For the business man the number of sandwiches could be doubled and coffee added to the above.

For the laboring man more substantial sandwiches filled with meat, cold baked beans, potato salad, pie, cake and coffee, with an apple for a finish, will be found sufficiently satisfying.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

THE ONLY CURE.

"Drunkness presents the greatest problem before the people of this commonwealth today," declared Judge Michael J. Murray of Boston before a meeting of the Twentieth Century club. "No spirit of economy should be permitted to stand in the way of finding a cure for the evil," he said. "During the year ending October 1, 1913, 104,000 persons appeared in our courts to answer to charges of drunkness. Of these 35,000 were first offenders.

"There should be an institution where the drunkard could be kept away from more evil influences. I am not a total abstainer myself, but I see the evil of our system. Nineteen out of 20 persons arrested for drunkness are English speaking. Ninety-six out of every hundred men in our prisons have led intemperate lives. When you talk to a man who is charged with crime you find there is liquor behind it all."

If the judge—if all judges and all others who see in drunkness a "problem"—would first of all free themselves from the personal use of alcohol, which even in the smallest doses hinders clear thinking about itself and its products, they would soon "find a cure for the evil." They would see that what is needed is not "an institution" where the drunkard could be kept away from more evil influences, but an abolishment of that institution which subjects him to the first evil influences.

"Liquor behind all crimes!" And no young man who takes his first glass of wine or beer expects to ever drink enough to make himself a criminal.

LAW MAKES DRUNKARDS.

Following is an excerpt from a sermon on "The Man Slayer in Our Midst," by Rev. Dr. Manley Benson of Canada. The words apply equally well in the United States as in the Dominion.

"Some tell us that the 'revenue will suffer if we stop the sale of strong drink.' There is no revenue from the sale of strong drink. For every dollar received as a so-called revenue you taxpayers pay $20 to get that dollar! Smart (?) business, that, for our young and growing Dominion! Some say, 'You cannot make folk sober by act of parliament,' but we are making drunkards by act of parliament. True, you cannot make men sober by law, but law can remove the temptation. You cannot cure smallpox by law, but you can keep the pest ridden off your streets by law! You cannot make a man honest by law, but you can punish and make it hot for the thief! The law can be made to dry up the sources of this abominable traffic. We use precautionary measures against fire and flood; why not against a business that is burning up the brain and muscles of this Dominion?"

HOW TO BE "FIT."

Sir Frederick Treves, surgeon to the late King Edward, recently said: "There is a great desire on the part of all young men to be fit. A young man cannot possibly be fit if he takes alcohol. By no possibility can he want it. That any one young or healthy should want alcohol is simply preposterous. They might just as well want strychnine. Thus the argument for the young man is: You want to be a man, and you want to be fit. You cannot get fit on alcohol. No man dreams of going into training and taking alcohol. He must reach the acme of physical perfection, and that must be without alcohol."

INTERESTING COMPARISON.

A commission appointed by the German government to compare the descendants of drunkards with those of moderate drinkers has just made its report. It studied ten families of each class, as a result of which it states that 43 per cent of the children of drunkards die within a few months of their birth, against only 8 per cent of the children of moderate drinkers. Among the children of drunkards there are 10 per cent idiots, 8 per cent epileptics, 3 per cent dwarfs, and in only 7 per cent of them does the intelligence develop normally.

ALCOHOL A RACIAL POISON.

At the diamond jubilee of the United Kingdom alliance, held in Manchester, England, Dr. C. W. Saleeby, "declared alcohol a racial poison which greatly reinforced other racial poisons, that public houses were national centers for the distribution of disease, and that the fight against tuberculosis and other diseases must everywhere be combined with the fight against alcohol."

IT REMOVES THINGS.

"Alcohol," says an exchange, "will remove stains from summer clothes." That is true, but it also removes the summer clothes from the summer, also the spring, the autumn and the winter clothes, not only from the one who drinks it, but from the wife and family as well. It removes the household furniture, the cabbages from the pantry, the smiles from the face of his wife, the laugh from the innocent lips of his children and the happiness out of his home. As a remover of things alcohol has no equal.—Boy's World.

Tuberculosis. The Universal Foe

PUBLIC HEALTH HINTS
Prepared Each Week For the Readers of This Newspaper by the New York State Department of Health.

THE most serious of all communicable diseases and one of the hardest to deal with is tuberculosis. The workers in this field have today, however, a clear and definite plan of campaign, and, as the campaign develops, STEADY AND SURE progress is being made in the control of the universal foe.

Sir William Osler, the famous English medical authority, made the startling statement last summer that ALMOST EVERY INDIVIDUAL is tuberculous. The delicate tests made by the bacteriologist show that as children grow up from five to fifteen years the proportion of them showing signs of latent tuberculosis increases very rapidly, and among adults, those who are entirely free from traces of past or present infection, are very rare.

This does not, of course, mean that every one has tuberculosis in the sense of suffering from actual disease. The human body has a wonderful power of defending itself against the germ of tuberculosis, and a few germs entering the healthy body are quickly overcome. If, however, infection be considerable and repeated or if the resistance of the body be lowered by living in overheated rooms, eating insufficient food or breathing in sharp dust particles which tear and injure the lung tissue, or if the strength be reduced by attacks of other diseases, the invisible enemy overcomes the defenses of the body, and active tuberculosis is the result. There is always, too, the likelihood of adults becoming infected from repeated exposure.

The organized campaign against tuberculosis involves three principal steps. The most immediate task of health authorities is to find the early cases and give them proper care. FRESH AIR, good FOOD, REST and regulated EXERCISE are the foundations of the care of tuberculosis, as of all personal hygiene. With these four essentials early tuberculosis may be checked and often entirely cured. Medical examination of school children, free dispensaries and the activities of the visiting nurse are the most important aids in finding these early curable cases and securing for them the care they need. Above all, however, the state needs local TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITALS, where the cure may be effected, for, as a rule, it is only in such institutions that the proper conditions for treatment can be secured.

The next step is to prevent the spread of infection to OTHERS. This can be accomplished by the pasteurization of milk to avoid the danger of tuberculous infection from the cow, by the control of the spitting nuisance and by the supervision of advanced cases of tuberculosis, who as they cough or spit often discharge the germs in enormous numbers. The spitting out of millions of germs by such cases is probably the greatest source of infection. Here, again, the County Tuberculosis Hospital is of primary importance, for the most dangerous cases—THE CARELESS ONES—can only be controlled in such an institution.

Finally, a far-reaching campaign against tuberculosis calls for fundamental improvements in living and working conditions, for good food and fresh air for all the people. When dark, stuffy tenements and overheated schools and dusty, ill ventilated factories are things of the past tuberculosis will be well under control.

Half Entire Population of St. Paul at Service on Go to Church Sunday

GO TO CHURCH!
In every village, hamlet, town and city in the United States the cry is heard. Many have had their GO TO CHURCH Sundays already. The reports are very encouraging. About half of St. Paul went to service on one particular Sunday. The pastors unreservedly pronounced the results BEYOND THEIR EXPECTATIONS. As one pastor described the scene at his church, every man, woman and child in his congregation seemed to have made a special effort to get to church. Other pastors told of enthusiastic responses of persons who had not attended church in years at the end of the service, declaring that "this doesn't mean only once. I'll be here next Sunday too."

WITH FEW EXCEPTIONS THE CHURCHES THROUGHOUT THE CITY WERE FILLED TO CAPACITY, AND MANY WERE OVERCROWDED. SUNDAY SCHOOL ROOMS LONG UNUSED AT SUCH A TIME WERE THROWN OPEN TO CARE FOR THE OVERFLOW IN MANY CHURCHES. THE LARGEST ATTENDANCES WERE AT THE MORNING SERVICES. AT THE KNOX PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH THREE MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH WERE UNABLE TO FIND SEATS. THEY RETIRED TO THE BASEMENT, WHERE, SEATED ON THE EDGE OF THE COAL BIN AND BOXES, THEY HEARD THE SERMON BY THE REV. B. S. BATES.

Grandma Seymour, ninety-five years old, probably was one of the oldest persons who answered the appeal. She attended the morning service at the First Baptist church. She lives at the Home of the Friendless, 469 Collins street. When the GO TO CHURCH call was first issued Mrs. Seymour grieved because she thought she could not be one of the thousands. The Quest Bible class of women of the First Baptist church Sunday school, learning her desire, sent a carriage for her. Accompanied by Mrs. Parr, eighty-four years old, she made the trip without difficulty and was happy. GO TO CHURCH!

Two Schools.

I put my heart to school In the world, where men grow wise. "Go out," I said, "and learn the rule; Come back when you win a prize." My heart came back again. "Now where is the prize?" I cried; "The rule was false, and the prize was pain, And the teacher's name was Pride." I put my heart to school In the woods, where the veeries sing, And brooks run cool and clear; In the fields, where wild flowers spring, And the blue of heaven bends near. "Go out," I said, "you are half a fool, And perhaps they can teach you here." "And why do you stay so long, My heart, and where do you roam?" The answer came with a laugh and a song— "I find this school is home." —Henry Van Dyke.

Genoa Presbyterian Church.

Morning service at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 12 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Subject—The Christian and the Ballot, Luke 19:41-48. Mid-week prayer service, Thursday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Theme for discussion: St. Paul's second Missionary Journey. Theme for Oct. 29; Last Journey of St. Paul.

Everyone is cordially invited to join with us in any and all of the services of the church. These last few weeks have given us services full of helpfulness to all present. The future will contain for us, only what we put into it ourselves. Come and bring your friends. Let us have an enthusiasm for our church and soon we can be proud of the church because it is our church. It is not the responsibility alone of any one person, or group of persons, but it is a community responsibility. If everything is not as you would have it, be charitable. Look at the features which are pleasing and soon the unpleasing ones will have disappeared. Do not send your boy or girl to the Sunday school but bring them yourself, if it is at all possible for you to get out. Your example is worth far more to your boy than is your command.

Some Things it Has Done.

If you want to know what woman suffrage does to election day, ask Alice Stone Blackwell, the veteran editor of the oldest surviving woman suffrage paper in the world. She can produce evidence to refute the hostile argument.

On the question of polling places she will show you a statement signed by the Justice of the Supreme Court of Wyoming saying that the presence of a few ladies is worth more than a whole squad of police. She will show you a statement signed by U. S. Senator Shafroth saying that he can remember the time when a political convention without the drawing of weapons was almost unknown, and that it was due to the women voters of Colorado that that time is past.

From the Chief Justice of Kansas; from a member of the New Zealand Parliament; from the Chief Justice of Idaho, she will show you similar testimony bearing on the effect of the mere presence of women in politics. If woman suffrage had nothing else to its credit would it not be worth while just for this contribution to the amenities of life?

Cayuga County Homes.

The United States Census Department at Washington has recently issued a bulletin dealing with the ownership of Cayuga county homes. The important facts contained in the bulletin relating to this county are as follows:

There are 16,948 homes in Cayuga county. Of this number 4,662 are farm homes. 1,868 of the farm homes are owned by their occupants and are free of mortgaged incumbrance. The mortgaged farm homes number 1,578. Renters occupy 1,307 farm homes in this county. Out of a total of 16,948 homes in the county 12,281 are urban homes. There are 6,083 urban home owners in the county. Of this number 2,904 are mortgaged. 3,708 of the urban owned homes are free of incumbrance. There are 6,063 rented urban homes in the county.

The census enumerators were unable to secure data pertaining to the ownership of a small percentage of both the rural and urban homes in this county.

Lake Ridge.

Oct. 20—Mrs. Jesse Ziegler of Boyersford, Pa., is visiting in this vicinity a week. Mr. Ziegler has charge of the work on Rev. E. F. Nedrow's new house.

Mrs. A. J. Buckingham and daughter Charlotte of Ithaca spent a few days last week with her parents here. Rev. E. F. Nedrow filled the pulpit in the East Lansing church last Sunday morning.

Miss Burdella Purdy of Ithaca was an over-Sunday guest at F. E. Davis'. Mr. Elmer Arnold went to Buffalo to meet Mrs. Arnold's sister, Miss Clara Funderburg of Missouri the latter part of last week.

Mrs. W. L. Davis' condition remains unchanged. She is not allowed to see friends but is very much pleased when they remember her with post cards.

The W. C. T. U. of this place will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Melvin Bush Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 27. A good attendance is desired. The president, Mrs. Slaght is confined to her home by illness.

A cow belonging to W. L. Davis gave birth to twin calves. Both are doing nicely.

The funeral of Mrs. Antoinette Davis was largely attended and the floral tributes were many. Mrs. Davis is greatly missed in her home and in the neighborhood.

Queer Things That Turn Up In the News

Mrs. Harriet Drummond, a recluse of East Rutherford, N. J., left an estate of at least $10,000, although for more than a quarter of a century she lived alone in a little hut.

Walter Zielaska of Minersville, Pa., a freshman at Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa., is said to be the smallest college student in America. He is about three feet in height.

Mrs. Mary Monroe celebrated her one hundred and fourth birthday with a family party at the home of her son, S. E. Monroe of Binghamton, N. Y., and proved she was still spry enough to dance.

A watch stolen from him twenty years ago has been returned by mail to D. J. Applegate of Moberly, Mo. The timepiece was sent from a town in Wyoming and was unaccompanied by any message.

ELECTRIC MARVELS SHOWN; MILK COWS AUTOMATICALLY

Mechanical Folding Bathtub Which Fits Under a Bed—Other Wonders.

Jules Verne would have had an awakening had he been at the eighth annual electrical and motor show in Grand Central palace, New York. He would have seen that the wildest dreams are not beyond realization when once the electrical engineer gets hold of them. Without a doubt he would have taken three or four looks at the "electric cows" and the rapid fire cheese factories on the third floor of the palace.

They only call these cows "electric." As a matter of fact, they are real, well fed Jerseys. They have their heads stuck through rings, but they don't seem to mind it, for they blink with satisfaction. When President Williams of the exhibition, accompanied by Miss Anne Morgan, inspected these electric cows it was just milking time. An electric contrivance was applied, and in about five minutes there were four bucketfuls of nice rich milk on the counter. This was turned over to the cheese factory next door.

There is a bathtub on exhibition which fits under any bed when folded up. The pressing of a few springs will set it up. The washing process is done with electric lights, the effect being that of a Turkish bath. "Save a trip through the cold hall by taking your baths in your bedroom," the sign above the appliance reads—"a ten minute bath for 10 cents' worth of electricity."

These are electric ovens at the exhibition which seem to have more coals and valves than a locomotive. All meals in the palace are served on these stoves.

The United States government and the state of New York installed half a dozen educational exhibits. Twelve processes in the making of coins, including the melting, pouring, cleaning, sheering, rolling, punching, milling, annealing, washing, drying, cooling and testing processes, are shown. The United States army exhibit includes arsenal machinery for the making of ordinary rifle cartridges; also a full equipment of telephones and signaling apparatus used by the signal corps. The United States navy provides demonstrations of gun firing and steering by electricity.

STUNTS OF A NEW TORPEDO.

Plings Water Ninety Feet High and Missile Pierces Steel Protection. Within a circle a mile in diameter in Coddingtown Cove, R. I., hundreds of dead fish floated, killed by the detonation of more than 200 pounds of a new explosive which had filled the war head of a torpedo fired into a steel torpedo net from the torpedo boat Morris. The boat, sunning at a 20 knot clip, was under the direction of Commander John K. Robison of the naval torpedo station.

The torpedo went easily through the net. The trial was a secret one. Nobody except the officers immediately concerned had been informed in advance by the chief of the bureau of ordnance of the navy.

When the torpedo exploded about fifteen feet below the surface a column of water shot ninety feet high.

Pancakes and Maple Syrup

In spite of the advances in the science of dietetics, there has been nothing discovered nicer than the above. Nothing more appetizing—Nothing more nourishing. For breakfast they are perfection—if the flour and the syrup are perfection—which they can easily be. It seems too bad (but it's so) that a lot of Maple Syrup isn't ALL Maple Syrup. The adulteration may be quite harmless, but THE FLAVOR isn't there. We can fix you up right in the pancake and maple sugar line. We know where our Syrup comes from and all about it—Cortland County. $1.25 per gallon.

For the Children

Prince Henry of England
In Scottish Costume.

Prince Henry of England, third son of King George V., has just completed his first term as a student at Eton college. He is now fourteen years old, and a handsome lad he is. When he went to Eton last fall he received no favors, although his royal parents did their best to have an exception made in his case. Their desires, however, did not prevail, and the young prince was treated as any of the sons of dukes, marquises, lords and commoners. He had to make tea, run errands and even black boots for the older scholars, as is the time immemorial custom at Eton. It is to the young prince's credit that he performed his duties cheerfully and won the friendship of his comrades. He is known simply as "Henry" to his more intimate friends, while with the general run of students the being in the low class he was addressed as "Scuz." This shows that there is very little room for snobbery in Eton college.

Intelligent Savages.

It is a common matter for people to speak of savages as though they had no brain. A scientist lecturing recently in London was one of a party to Torres strait, and he found that the head measurement of the natives was just about the same as that of the average junior college man in civilized countries.

In the interior of Borneo the scientists came across a savage tribe who live in houses 100 feet long, raised on twenty foot poles, with chambers for each family and a long corridor where the community life was carried on.

These dwellings proved beyond question that the natives have a keen sense of the value of air and cleanliness and their kindly social relations that they had a highly developed sense of brotherhood.

Riddles.

Why would a woman lose her religion if she changed her sex? Because she would be a he then (heathen).

My first is a point, my second a span. In my whole often ends the greatness of man. Dotage.

Why can you never buy a new chronometer? Because it must always be a second hand one.

What word is that to which if you add a syllable it will be shorter? Short (short-er).

Why is it better to be burned than to have your head cut off? Because a hot steak is better than a cold chop.

Curious Facts About Diamonds.

A file cannot scratch a real diamond, but will quickly spoil an imitation. A sapphire is the next hardest stone to a diamond and is a better test than a file.

Thrust a diamond stone into a bowl of water and the stone will glitter through the liquid, but an imitation stone loses all its brilliancy under water.

Place one drop of water upon the face of a diamond and touch it with the point of a pencil. The drop will keep its globular form and the stone remain dry. If the brilliant is an imitation the water at once spreads out.

A Wise Arab.

Joseph Abou, an Arabian doctor of great fame in scientific matters, upon being asked to solve a difficult problem candidly confessed that he had no knowledge whatever of the subject.

"How is this?" said the man who had put the problem to him. "Does not the caliph pay you for your knowledge?"

"Certainly," answered the doctor. "He pays me for my knowledge, for all his treasures, wonderful as they are, would not be enough to pay me for my ignorance."

The Swastika.

It is interesting to know the meaning of the sign of the swastika so often made into pins and badges. It runs thus: "By this sign may all blessings attend thy footsteps. May the four winds from the four corners of the earth blow gently upon thee. May they ever bring thee good luck and prosperity. May thy life be long and joyful and may perfect peace find thee at last."

VETERAN DIPLOMAT RETIRES.

Calvo, Minister From Costa Rica, Quits After Twenty-three Years.

Washington.—The retirement recently of Don Joaquin Bernardo Calvo as Costa Rican minister to the United States marked the culmination of one of the most remarkable careers in the annals of diplomacy. Senor Calvo was for twenty-three years the representative of Costa Rica in Washington and for many years dean of the diplomatic corps. He first presented credentials to President Harrison in 1881 and has survived six changes of administration in his own country.

Among his literary works is a history of Costa Rica. He was especially well known, however, for his advocacy of closer relations of the Americas by means of better understanding between the republics. He was active in the establishment of the bureau of American republics, since changed to the Pan-American Union; was a large factor in the Central American peace conference in Washington in 1907, at which the Central American court of justice was established at Cartago, Costa Rica; has actively advocated the establishment of a trans-American railroad to link the continents and expects to see its completion in the near future.

Senor Calvo was born in San Jose, Costa Rica, July 10, 1857. There he was educated, and there he first entered the service of his government when little more than a youth by organizing the police department of the capital. Journeying through Guatemala he met and married in 1881 Maria de Leon, with whom he returned to found the first daily newspaper in Costa Rica in 1885. In that same year he was made a member of the war claims commission and in the following year abandoned journalism to become governor of Cartago.

WARRING NATIONS PROTECT COLONIES

Protectorates and Possessions Scattered Over All the World.

London.—Three out of the six powers of Europe which today are engaged in warfare have colonial possessions, protectorates and dependencies scattered all over the world.

Austria-Hungary and Russia have no colonial possessions, though the Russian empire stretches through the continents of Europe and Asia and presents a long coast line on the northern Pacific. Of the others Great Britain has colonies and protectorates the world over; France has colonies and protectorates in Africa, India, China, in South America, in the West Indies, in the north Atlantic and in the Pacific and Indian oceans; Germany has colonial possessions in Africa, in China and in the Pacific ocean. Italy has dependencies in Africa and a concession in China.

England's vast empires—India, Canada and Australia; her holdings on the Malay peninsula, her colonies in Africa and her fortified positions in the Mediterranean—Gibraltar and Malta—put her at the head of the colony holding nations of the world. They also increase the field of her protective operations.

Many of the minor holdings of the four powers with colonial possessions to defend are themselves without military strength. In many cases the protecting powers have only small garrisons on shore, amounting to nothing more than local police forces. This is particularly true in Africa, outside of the French and British colonies, in the Pacific ocean and in American waters.

The continent of Africa presents a notable picture of the juxtaposition of protectorates and colonies belonging to Great Britain, France and Germany.

France has a protectorate over Morocco, and her Algerian possessions facing the Mediterranean, are bounded on the east by Tripoli, a dependency of Italy. Then comes Egypt, where British interests are paramount. On the Red sea and contiguous to Egypt is the Italian dependency of Eritrea. Coming down the east coast are British Somaliland, Italian Somaliland, British East Africa, German East Africa, Portuguese East Africa and then British South Africa, embracing Rhodesia, the Transvaal, the Orange River Colony, Natal and the Cape of Good Hope. On the west contiguous in the order named are German Southwest Africa, Portuguese West Africa, the Kongo State, belonging to Belgium; the French Congo, Kamerun, belonging to Germany; the Niger territories, a protectorate of Great Britain; French West Africa; Togoland, belonging to Germany; the Gold Coast, the British Colony and the Ivory Coast, annexed by France twenty years ago.

EMPEROR EUGENIE'S REVENGE

"Were the Emperor Only Here Now!" She Exclaims—Prays For France.

London.—A dispatch from Rome says: "The aged French Empress Eugenie, who is at Bologna, takes a vivid interest in the war. When Count Pietri, her faithful companion in her long years of misfortune and exile, announced that Germany had begun her offensive against France, she exclaimed: 'Were the emperor here now! May God grant that he should be here now! May God grant that he should be here now!'"

DASHING NEW CAPE.

Gracious New Wrap in Black and White Effect.

LONG CAPE FOR FALL.

The cape is the wrap that now represents ultra chic. Every one is wearing them. The model shown here is all in black and white—of chiffon broadcloth and pussy willow taffeta.

TEA CADDIES.

No Table is Complete Without One of These Attractive Articles.

The tea caddy is a most important adjunct of the tea table, for unless the container of the tea is tightly closed the aroma will quickly escape. China caddies to match tea sets are always liked, but they and the silver caddies usually have single covers which do not close tight.

Japanese pewter caddies beautifully hand wrought are among the very practical ones that look well with any fittings. They have double covers, the inner one sitting into the top by the pressure of the air and the outer sitting out around the rim and also closing by the pressure of the rim.

They cost from $3 to $8 and hold from a quarter to a half pound. But even with these a small quantity of tea should be bought at a time.

Tea deteriorates with time in the best of receptacles. It should always be kept in a cool, dry place.

MIDSEASON HAT.

Elegant Fall Model in Black and White Velvet.

The hat for midseason is smaller than ever. Here in velvet is expressed the size that has at present taken Paris.

FALL HAT OF VELVET.

is by storm. The black and white combination is ultra French, while the white satin bow that shoots out above the lifted brim gives the finishing touch of smartness.

Sensible Motor Hood.

An auto hood is a convenience to the woman who motors much. A comfortable and becoming sort is made with a straw brim, flexible, but wide enough to give protection to the eyes, and a full silk crown that does not disarrange the hair. There are wide chiffon tie strings that keep the hood snugly in place.

New Handkerchief Sets.

Some shops are selling colored handkerchiefs in sets. The idea, it seems, comes from Paris. There are seven handkerchiefs to a set. Sunday's handkerchief is white, Monday's shows blue embroidery, Saturday's gold, Tuesday's rose and Friday's lavender.

Pocketed Skirts.

The smart walking skirt must be short and contain pockets, although whether or not we are to bulge them with handkerchiefs, etc., is a question which the well groomed woman would possibly answer in the negative.

Culinary Notes

Dessert Recipes For Hot Weather.

These tested desserts, delicious and simple, with the added virtue of coolness, are suggested for the hot days by Miss Cora E. Binzel, instructor in home economics, University of Wisconsin, extension division:

Watermelon Cups.—Remove the rind and cut the melon into cubes; sprinkle with powdered sugar and lemon juice; chill before serving.

Apple Marshmallow.—Take one cupful pared apples, one-half cupful blanched almonds, one cupful marshmallows, cut in quarters; two cupfuls whipped cream. Combine and chill.

Mousse.—Take one cupful heavy cream, one saltspoonful salt, one-third cupful powdered sugar, one teaspoonful vanilla. Beat the cream, add the sugar, salt and vanilla. Turn the mixture in a tin mold, adjust cover and seal with strips of cheesecloth dipped in melted lard or butter or seal with melted paraffin. This is to prevent salt water from entering the can. Pack the mold in salt and ice, using two parts ice to one part salt. Allow two hours or more for the freezing. This is a delicious, wholesome dessert very easily prepared and does not require an ice cream freezer. For variety flavor the cream with an ounce of melted chocolate or one-third cupful maple syrup. During the winter the mold may be packed in a mixture of snow and salt. Baking powder or cocoa cans may be used for molds. Fill with water and test to see that they do not leak.

Freshening Vegetables.

Lettuce, parsley and all other green things may be kept deliciously fresh if first washed in cold water, shaken and then packed in a tin pail that has a very tight cover, so that the air may not penetrate to them. This should be set in a cool place.

In the case of lettuce, when the cover is removed the leaves will pop up, and you will find them almost as crisp and fresh as if they had just come from the garden.

Even lettuce that has wilted will revive wonderfully if subjected to a few hours of such treatment. To purify greens that are to be eaten raw use a pinch of boric acid powder in the water in which they are washed.

Preserving Eggs.

To know how to preserve eggs from the time when they are cheap to the time when they are dear is most important. As they cannot spoil without oxygen, they may be kept for a long time in powdered charcoal, which must be renewed at least once a month.

Glycerin is also an excellent preservative for eggs. A mixture of glycerin with half its volume of water should be prepared, the eggs placed in this solution and kept below the surface by a floating piece of wood.

The same solution will serve for constant use for a long time, other eggs being put in when some are removed. Be sure that the eggs are clean when put in.

Timing the Baking.

A clever woman whose hands and mind were filled with small duties all seemingly to be performed at one and the same time, found her bread and rolls often left just the few minutes too long in the oven so they were not appetizing, as she wanted them to be. With her small alarm clock she arranged all this perfectly. She simply set the alarm for the hour that the bread should be looked at, went about her other duties, and at its ring found she had conquered once more by exercising her wits.

Spreading Butter.

There is poor economy in wasting hard butter trying to spread bread, but a knife dipped into boiling water and then used in the butter does away with all trouble and spreads evenly. Especially in preparing sandwiches is it important to have each slice nicely spread with enough, but not too much butter, and this should be done before cutting; then the slices laid ready to have any preferred filling.

Keeping Rhubarb.

To preserve rhubarb so that it may be ready for use at any time wash and cut into small pieces, as for stewing, being careful to remove all strings. Fill the jar to the top with the rhubarb and then stand the jar under a cold water faucet, where the water can slowly run in and out for half an hour. Screw on the cover under water so that no air can get in and keep in a cool, dark place.

The Ice Supply.

It is much more injurious to food to keep it in a refrigerator with a scant supply of ice than to leave it covered on a pantry shelf where there is a good supply of fresh air. If one must be economical with ice wrap each cake in a piece of old woolen blanket, which must be removed and boiled in water and baking soda once a week.

Useful Hint.

If you will take freshly gathered green corn on the cob or carefully shelled peas or beans and dip them in boiling water, then dry them in a room in which there is a free circulation of air, they will keep for a long time and retain much of their freshness and flavor.

Memoirs of Napoleon

In Three Volumes

This man caused the last general European war.

His personal memoirs, written by his secretary, Baron De Meneval, are full of the most absorbing incidents, especially in view of the present great European struggle.

Just a hundred years ago, his ambitions bathed the Continent in a sea of blood. France alone, under his leadership, fought Germany, Russia, Austria, Italy, and Great Britain—and won.

Get these Memoirs Free

By special arrangement with the publishers of COLLIER'S, The National Weekly, we are enabled to offer a limited number of these three-volume sets of the Memoirs of Napoleon free with a year's subscription to Collier's and this paper. The offer is strictly limited—to get advantage of it you must act promptly.

Sherlock Holmes Stories Exclusively in Collier's

All the Sherlock Holmes stories published in 1915 will be printed exclusively in Collier's.

The "Last-minute" pictures of the European War will appear every week in the photographic section of Collier's.

The finest fiction written will appear each week in short story and serial form.

Mark Sullivan's timely Editorials and widely quoted Comments on Congress will continue to be an exclusive feature.

ANTWERP GAY DURING SIEGE

People Become Used to the Sound of Cannon.

DIARY TELLS VIVID STORY.

Woman's Account of a Week's Experiences and Observations While Belgian City Was Under Bombardment—"War," She Says, "Is Not So Alarming as Intensely Depressing."

WHAT A SIEGE MEANS.

Siege—The sitting of an army around or before a fortified place for the purpose of compelling the garrison to surrender; the surrounding or investing of a place by an army and approaching it by passages and advanced works which cover the besiegers from the enemy's fire.—Webster's Dictionary.

Miss Tennyson Jesse, who arrived in London by the last boat from Antwerp, kept a diary of a week spent there during the siege, from which the following extracts are taken:

"Sept. 29.—Antwerp looks like a medieval city at the time of a tournament. All the houses have huge flags draped arraswise from windows. The festive air seems all the more incongruous, now that we have heard that the bombardment has begun.

"6:30.—I just met Mr. — and Mr. — on the way back from an expedition to the forts. They left Mr. — a photographer, to spend the night there. They themselves saw a shell explode over a cluster of houses from which a procession of peasants presently came forth. One man was wheeling a barrow in which was his small stock of worldly goods. The dead body of his little son lay sprawled over the top. Sitting beside it was a girl of three with her face covered with blood. They say the sights are ghastly.

Ghastly Horrors of War.

"Sept. 30.—The photographer came back today. A shell burst in a fort at night and killed nine men in the room where he was, including a waiter from the St. Regis, standing at his side, whose head was blown off. The photographer tore down the road screaming, but he is going back tonight.

"Many wounded women are brought along on stretchers—with their poor, mutilated faces, torn by pieces of shell, covered up. I am writing this in my room at night, with the boom of heavy guns sounding all the time.

"Oct. 2.—This afternoon I was lying down in my room when I heard a terrific banging. Looking out, I saw shrapnel bursting through the air. On running into the street I was hustled under cover by gendarmes. I found that the firing was at a Taube, which was flying just overhead. It got away.

"I went crawling along the house fronts at dark this evening to buy cakes for supper. I saw infantry and artillery going through. Five thousand refugees are clamoring at the city gates, but no more are allowed in. They are being diverted by way of Ghent because of the shortage of provisions.

"Oct. 3.—It appears that the Ostend route is closed to civilians. They have taken all the wounded out of the hospitals. The streets are full of them, and they are being carried along.

Gay Through It All.

"Oct. 4.—Thousands may have left, but Antwerp never looked so gay or so crowded, with the people all in the streets and flags and cars everywhere.

"Oct. 6.—The news today is bad. The Germans have crossed the Nethe Antwerp, like all Belgian towns, is alternately scared and apathetic. This evening the firing is distinctly nearer. War is not so alarming as intensely depressing. At first the ghastly sights are shocking, almost to the point of being stimulating, but after weeks the deadly depression eats into one.

"Oct. 7.—The bombardment is very heavy now. It is impossible to get out via Ghent, as the road and the railway are blocked. Most of the people in Antwerp are still as gay as though nothing was happening, probably because they are all so used to the sound of cannon."

POTATO A WIRELESS STATION.

By Sticking Two Needles in Spud Intercepts Messages Without Apparatus.

Father Alfani, director of the Florence observatory at Florence, Italy, believes that the invention of the priest, Domenico Argentieri, of a system to receive wireless messages without the use of poles or batteries is scientifically sound.

He related that after the declaration of war the Italian government forced all private wireless stations, including that of the Florence observatory, to discontinue. The next day Father Alfani obtained from Argentieri copies of official wireless messages which the priest had been able to intercept without a wireless installation.

There were many ways to do this, Father Alfani explained. One of the most simple was the very elemental expedient of sticking two steel needles into a potato.

OUR $834,000,000 WHEAT HARVEST

Corn Will Bring Farmers of the Country $2,000,000,000.

OTHER GRAINS OVER NORMAL

Wheat Production Greatest on Record in Point of Number of Bushels and Money Value—Yield Per Acre 16.6 Compared With 15.2 Bushels in 1913. Final Government Report.

The wheat crop of the United States this year is the greatest ever harvested, not only in the number of bushels, but in money value as well.

The government experts have figured that Uncle Sam will have almost 900,000,000 bushels in his bins, an increase of more than 100,000,000 bushels over the bumper crop of last year.

This crop alone will put $834,000,000 into the pockets of the farmers at 93½ cents a bushel, the price figured by government experts. With the demand for wheat from many countries, it is expected that none will go to waste. Corn and oats showed even greater gains. The corn crop is worth about $2,000,000,000.

The latest government crop report is the last of importance for the season. It gives the size of the indicated total wheat crop as 892,000,000 bushels as compared with 806,000,000 bushels on Sept. 1.

The deterioration thus indicated does not affect the status of the crop as the biggest in the country's history. The production compares with the next largest crop, which was 763,380,000 bushels last year. The yield per acre was 16.6 compared with 15.2 bushels in 1913. The reduction in the size of the crop from the previous month's estimate was, of course, in the spring wheat crop, which is now estimated to be 217,000,000 against 221,000,000 bushels on Sept. 1.

Winter Wheat Best.

The crop of spring wheat was hardly of normal size. Its indicated size on Oct. 1 was 113,000,000 bushels less than the record spring wheat crop of 1912 and 22,819,000 bushels less than last year's crop. The winter wheat crop of 675,000,000 bushels was the record breaker, being 152,000,000 bushels greater than the crop of 1913, the previous record.

Corn improved in September. The size of the crop on Oct. 1 was estimated to be 2,676,000,000 bushels against 2,598,000,000 bushels a month previous. Condition also improved, being 72.9 on Oct. 1 against 71.7 a month before. The ten year average is 79.1. The production this year is about a normal crop. The record was made in 1912, when 3,124,740,000 bushels were produced. Last year's crop was 2,446,988,000 bushels, the final harvest.

The oats crop improved during the month. The crop as of Oct. 1 is estimated to be 1,137,000,000 bushels against 1,116,000,000 bushels the previous month. The condition is given as 86.4 compared with 89.1 last year. The yield per acre is 29.6 bushels against 29.3 last month and 29.3 last year. The record crop was 1,418,337,000 bushels in 1912. Last year's crop was 1,121,768,000 bushels.

The barley crop as of Oct. 1 is estimated to be 197,000,000 bushels against 200,000,000 the previous month and 178,000,000 bushels, the final crop of last year. The record was 223,824,000 bushels in 1912.

Flax is estimated to be a crop of 17,000,000 bushels against 15,000,000 estimated a month previous and 18,000,000 last year, the final harvest.

The tobacco crop shows a large gain on the September estimate. It is now indicated to be 954,000,000 pounds against 862,000,000 pounds a month before. Last year's production was 954,000,000 pounds.

Apples improved in the month from a crop of 220,000,000 bushels to 230,000,000 bushels.

White potatoes improved during the month in condition from 75.8 to 78. Sweet potatoes declined in condition from 81.8 to 80.7. Buckwheat declined from 87.1 to 83.3.

AMERICAN CIVIC ASSOCIATION.

Convention on Tenth Anniversary of "Town Beautiful" Organization.

Washington has been selected for the annual convention of the American Civic Association Dec. 2, 3 and 4.

The convention will be the tenth anniversary of the association, which was formed in June, 1904, at St. Louis by the consolidation of two then existing organizations, the American Park and Out Door Art association and the American League For Civic Improvement. The society has quickened hundreds of cities to inaugurate movements for the improvement of homes and neighborhoods, for the establishment and maintenance of parks and boulevards, for wise planting and care of trees and for the adoption of comprehensive city plans. It has also worked for the preservation of great natural scenery.

Another undertaking distinctly national in character has been a movement for the creation of a federal bureau of national parks, or, in terms of the bill which proposes this bureau, "a national parks service," making possible a larger administration of the great national areas set aside for the recreation of all the people.

Four Points You Should Consider in Selecting Your Banking Institution.

- First. The security the institution has to offer.
- Second. The men who manage its affairs.
- Third. The rate of interest it pays.
- Fourth. The conveniences it has to offer.

Our Banking Department offers you the following advantages:

1—Security. The double security of careful management guaranteed by state supervision and inspection. The new banking law recently passed in the State of New York now brings every private bank under the direct supervision of the State Banking Department. The Department carefully went over our resources, our records, our investments, and after a most rigid examination found every item in such perfect order that the State issued us a permit to continue to transact a banking business.

With this assurance of security where can you find a safer place to deposit your savings?

2—The Managers. The men who manage and guide the affairs of the institution are men who have served you honestly and faithfully for nearly thirty-five years, and whose records stand before you without a single blemish. Moreover, these men do not borrow a penny of these deposits for their own use, nor do they loan a cent of these deposits to any concern in which they are interested.

3—The Rate of Interest. 4 per cent interest credited and compounded semi-annually is the largest rate of interest paid by any Banking Institution in Tompkins county.

4—Convenience. The central location of our Banking Department on the Mezzanine or Balcony floor in our store appeals to everyone.

The long banking hours permit you to cash your checks, draw or deposit your money at your convenience. Our hours are from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. and until 9:30 p. m. Saturdays. Small savings banks are loaned every depositor to assist them in saving their loose change. Deposit now. 50c or $1.00 will open an account.

W. C. T. U. State Convention.

The forty first annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, was held in Niagara Falls last week, with some 600 white-ribboned delegates from all over the state in attendance. The sessions were held in the First Presbyterian church.

Conspicuously displayed over the speakers' platform when State President Ella A. Boole called the convention to order was the legend in large letters, "Virginia's Gone Dry." From another wall flashed this: "Treating causes 99 per cent. of all drunkenness—Drink is responsible for 90 per cent of all crimes—Stop killing your friends." Another banner was inscribed, "First to be laid off—the man who drinks—last to be taken on."

The annual sermon was delivered by Mrs. Mary S. Todd, State superintendent of Evangelistic Work. She dealt with "Giants in the Way," emphasizing the evil influence of the legalized liquor traffic on the advancement of civilization and Christianity.

In her report on Culfew and Police Women, Mrs. Anna M. Hart set forth that the only police-women in this state are one in Ithaca and four in Westchester county. Mrs. Hart emphasized the need for police-women for the proper protection of women and children.

The delegates to the convention were given a hearty welcome and the keys to the city at their annual banquet in the Temperance House. In the absence from the city of Mayor Laughlin the delegates were welcomed by Corporation Counsel E. C. Anderson. Conventions Manager O. W. Cutler and other leading citizens added words of welcome. Mr. Anderson in his address said: "We are glad to have you in our midst. You can do us good. We have many things in our city of which we are proud. Niagara Falls is the greatest small city in the world. It seems to me that temperance works. I think the liquor traffic is doomed. Ten states of the Union are dry. Large portions of many other states are dry. Secretary Daniels has recently abolished liquor from that department, the Czar of Russia from his army."

Mrs. Boole state president, made response to the welcoming addresses.

A most impressive and beautiful memorial service in behalf of leaders in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union who have died during the last year featured the Wednesday morning's session. Foremost in the list of those to whom this honor was done was the late Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National W. C. T. U. Her memory and works were highly eulogized in a testimonial address by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, State W. C. T. U. president.

A memorial poem and the singing of "Book of Ages" by the Cortland W. C. T. U. trio, consisting of Mrs. Bentley, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Howard, added greatly to the memorial service, which concluded with the singing by Mrs. Frances M. Graham, first vice president, of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." In the assemblage of nearly seven hundred delegates few eyes were dry during this touching service.

A striking feature occurred when a delegation of fifty Buffalo W. C. T. U. members arrived and entered the auditorium. As they marched to seats at the front the convention caught up the words of the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the combined voices of hundreds of delegates carried the militant words far outside the church.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union and its branches have made the biggest membership gains during last year in this state than in any other year of the organization's history. It now numbers 36,727 members, a record breaking gain of 2,482.

These figures were announced in the annual report of the treasurer, Mrs. Ellen L. Tenney, of Albany, at Tuesday afternoon's session of the State W. C. T. U. convention in the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Tenney has been treasurer of the organization for 27 years. Her report contained other significant statistics.

Twenty-one counties in the state made membership increases of ten per cent. and over during last year. The "Y" branch of the W. C. T. U., which embraces the junior members, gained 241 members and now has a roll of 1,399. Ithaca, N. Y., has the largest local branch of the W. C. T. U. in the United States, with 754 members. Mrs. Mary B. Wood is its president. The Loyal Temperance Legion, a branch of the parent organization, has a membership of 3,125 in the state.

Financially as well as in strength of numbers the W. C. T. U. is in good condition in the state. The treasurer's report showed that the receipts for the year were $46,169.23 and the expenditures $27,610.43. The balance each year is used for special funds.

One of the most important sessions of the convention was that held Tuesday night at which Mrs. Ella A. Boole, State president, delivered her annual address. In it she gave a resume of the year's work accomplished by the organization, dealt with the legislation attempted and the progress made and pointed with optimism to the signs of the times relating to those things for which the white-ribboners are working. Mrs. Boole strongly advocated woman's suffrage on the theory that it would bring nearer the realization of a better civilization.

She also advocated international peace among nations through arbitration.

Mrs. Frances W. Graham of Lockport, first vice-president of the State, who is known nationally as "the song bird of the white-ribboners," led a beautiful song service in the opening of the evening session and she also delighted the several hundred delegates with a solo entitled "Victory," by request. The Niagara Falls High School chorus furnished music.

The session concluded with a symposium on "Painting New York White," the state organizers of the W. C. T. U. telling what is being done in this direction. The organizers who spoke were Mrs. Helen L. Bullock of Elmira; Mrs. Cora E. Seberry of Brooklyn; Mrs. Emma G. Dietrick of Lockport; Mrs. Edith F. Lee of Rome; Mrs. Ida Van Valkenburg of Johnstown and Mrs. Lulu E. Walker of Oneonta.

An interesting report was that of Mrs. Emma Graves Dietrick of Lockport, chairman of the committee on anti-narcotics. She set forth that 1,058 persons in the state have taken the anti-cigarette pledge during the year. The executive committee's report strongly favored advertising as a means of promoting the temperance cause.

The convention came to a close on Friday. The sessions were held in the largest church in Niagara Falls and it was filled at every session, many standing and many being turned away. Every county in the state was represented—Cayuga by ten delegates, among them Mrs. R. M. Gale, state superintendent of work among colored people, by Miss H. I. Root, state secretary of L. T. L., and Miss Laura Post, county president of Cayuga county, Mrs. F. M. Harrington, county secretary of L. T. L., also Mrs. Belle Bowen, Mrs. Ella Ball, Miss Fuller, Mrs. Mary Baker, Mrs. G. L. Ferris, Mrs. A. V. Sisson and Mrs. Ida Beach.

On Thursday, there was a parade with over 800 in line. Every county and state superintendent carried a poster banner with facts representing their department work. The organization now numbers 36,727 members and every one is working and praying for state wide and national constitutional prohibition.

The State convention will be held in Ithaca next year.

Baptist State Convention.

In connection with the Baptist Missionary convention of the State of New York, to be held in Syracuse Oct. 26-29, there will be an interesting service for the dedication of the chimes which are being placed in the tower of the First Baptist church of that city. The chimes are the gift of Marshall A. Hudson, founder and national president of the Baraca and Philaetha Union. They cost $4,000 and are given with the understanding that they are to be played at noon every day of the year.

The dedicatory service will consist of a formal presentation by Mr. Hudson to the board of trustees and their acceptance by that body and the dedicatory prayer by Rev. W. W. Dawley, pastor of the church. This service will take place at 9 o'clock Wednesday night, Oct. 28, and the chimes will be played before and after the dedication.

The state convention promises to be the largest ever held. Plans have been made to entertain 1,200 visitors, representing 352 churches. For the first time in the history of the organization the convention is held in a building large enough to accommodate the separate meetings of the men and women at the same time.

The convention will open with an all day conference of pastors of the state. Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge of Troy being president and Rev. D. E. Sprague of Salamanca, the secretary.

The women's societies will meet in the Sunday school room and Tuesday night there will be a banquet for this branch of the convention. The graduates of the different colleges present will devote one evening to banquets.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications that cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; since cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PROFITABLE FARMING.

The United States department of agriculture gives the following ten as the most important factors in profitable farming:

- First—Low real estate prices.
- Second—Farm products of classes deficient in supply.
- Third—Magnitude of the farm business, measured either by land farmed or amount of labor required.
- Fourth—High quality in products.
- Fifth—Reputation of the producer. Applies especially to the production of pure bred breeding stock.
- Sixth—Advantageous marketing.
- Seventh—Productiveness of animals kept.
- Eighth—Largest yield with relatively little labor and fertilizer.
- Ninth—Low cost of production. (Involves good farm organization.)
- Tenth—Stability of profit depends on the staple character of the products.

GRADING WINTER WHEAT.

Experiments Favor Grading Grain by Using the Fanning Mill.

Results obtained at the various experiment stations from sowing graded and ungraded grain have by no means been uniform. In the majority of instances, however, the experimental evidence favors the practice of grading grain by the use of the fanning mill. It can be well understood that in a given measured amount of grain there is a much larger number of seeds in ungraded than in graded grain, consequently it can be seen that where there is no marked difference in favor of grading, this might be due to the thicker seedling which results from sowing ungraded grain.

As a practical everyday problem for the farmer who is called on to settle this matter previous to sowing his spring grain as well as his winter wheat the practice of grading has much to recommend it. In the first place there is always more or less "roughness" among the grain as it comes from the threshing machine. This is in the form of chaff and short pieces of straw. The running of the grain through the fanning mill means the elimination of these, and in turn it also means that such grain will be distributed much more uniformly when drilled. Even though the winter wheat, to begin with, may be a fairly good sample, weighing from sixty to sixty-two pounds per bushel, and even though there may seem to be an exceedingly small percentage of shrunken grain, the elimination of this so called "roughage" becomes quite an important factor as relating to uniform seeding. No drill has ever yet been designed that will handle dirty grain, and that is why our most progressive wheat growers use the combination of the fanning mill and the grain drill. There is another advantage in using the drill. It effects a saving in seed.

We find upon inquiry that the wheat growers who are getting their thirty, forty and fifty bushels per acre are men who emphasize three things—namely, a firm seed bed, the sowing of good plump seed and lastly the sowing of the grain with a good drill.—Iowa Homestead.

Flower Window Shelf.

Here is a good way to make a flower shelf in front of one's windows: Take a piece of board any size desired.

THIS SHELF IS EASILY MADE.

Take four staples and nail two of them in the board at each end as shown at AA; then put this on your window, and eight inches above this, on both sides of the window, nail a staple, BB; then get some wire and cut it into two pieces so that each piece is a foot long and hook this in the staples. After it has been hooked in it can be painted any color desired.

IN THE ORCHARD.

Young fruit falls to the ground from the trees for a variety of causes, most frequent of which are insect pests and imperfect fertilization. Drought and high winds are also responsible. The dropped fruit should be gathered up daily and burned so that any insects they contain will give no further trouble. With apples and pears imperfect fertilization is indicated by the absence of seeds and by their size or failure to swell.

Hardy shrubs should be pruned as soon as they have done flowering, if they require pruning at all. This will insure their flowering the following year. Where pruning is delayed the low growth that follows rarely has time to become sufficiently ripe.

FOSTER, ROSS & CO.

The following was produced by a Kansas editor. It may not be much in the way of poetry, but it's pretty good advice: Early to bed and early to rise, cut the weeds and swat the flies, mind your own business and tell no lies, don't get gay and deceive your wives, pay your debts, use enterprise, and buy from merchants who advertise.

THE REAL RUSSIA.

It is confined to a Very Small Section of the Vast Empire.

In "The Russian Empire, Today and Yesterday," Nevil O. Winter says:

"In a strict sense, real Russia covers only a portion of the more than 2,000,000 square miles that lie within the borders of the continent. This narrower definition would certainly eliminate Finland, Poland, the Baltic provinces, Bessarabia and the Caucasus and probably a part of the land of the Don Cossacks, the Crimea and the sections bordering on the Arctic ocean and the lower Volga. In other words, the real Russia has developed within this narrower section, and whatever of Russian characteristics appear in the eliminated sections have simply been imposed by the conquerors upon a people alien by birth and language."

"The actual visible influence of Tolstoy on Russia seems not to have been great. He was beloved and revered by many, but no party claims or has ever claimed him as a leader. The higher classes rejected him because of his opposition to all established government; the peasantry were repelled by his diatribes against religion; the revolutionists and anarchists repudiated his teaching because he had no definite plan to offer. His influence on thought and opinion in Russia will not compare with his influence in non-Russian nations."

PHOSPHITE NOT PHOSPHATE.

The Proper Sodium Solution to Use in Bichloride Poisoning.

In a recent issue of a well known medical journal the statement is made that mercuric chloride poisoning can be treated by the use of sodium phosphate with excess of sodium bicarbonate. Thus, editorially, the same journal says: "This solution, it is claimed, instantly converts the bichloride to the mild chloride, which can be removed by a dose of castor oil. It is very necessary that the sodium phosphate shall be chemically pure."

"Attention should therefore again be called to the fact," says the Journal of the American Medical Association, "that the names 'sodium phosphate' and 'sodium phosphite' are so similar that a serious error can be made by the misprinting or misinterpretation of a single letter. Sodium phosphite has been suggested as an antidote to mercuric chloride because it acts as a reducing agent to convert mercuric chloride into calomel—mercurous chloride—while the phosphite is changed to phosphate. Sodium phosphate will have no such action on mercuric chloride because it is already as highly oxidized as possible."

Flagg--Buchanan.

The home of Mr and Mrs. B. Frank Buchanan on South Main street, Moravia, was the scene of a quiet wedding Wednesday evening, Oct. 7, when their eldest daughter, Mildred, was united in marriage to Francis J. Flagg of Buffalo. Rev. W. S. Stevens, rector of St. Matthew's church, performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock in the presence of the members of the immediate family and a few close friends.

The bride was given away by her father, and her little niece, Dorothy June Young, acted as ring bearer. After congratulations, a wedding dinner was served, Mrs. Mary VanAllen catering. Included among the bridal gifts were some choice pieces of silver and cut glass. Mr and Mrs. Flagg left in an automobile for a honeymoon trip.

The bride, since her graduation from Syracuse University, has taught successfully and also gained quite a name as an impersonator and reader. The groom is connected with one of the large publishing houses. After Nov. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Flagg will be at home at 22 Bidwell place, Buffalo.

However much one thinks of the great metropolitan newspapers, the little home journal is always welcome wherever it goes, for aside from giving news of the whole world, it speaks of affairs that cannot be obtained elsewhere, —the little happenings of interest in the daily life of friends and neighbors, the people we know best. No one can afford to be without his home newspaper, —just to save a few pennies per week and which otherwise might be expended unwisely.

CLOTHING, FURNISHINGS.

MOSHER, GRISWOLD & CO

Economy in Clothes.

Low prices do not always indicate economy. Good clothes have a known value, and if you pay less than the sum required to produce good clothes you probably pay more than what you're getting to pay for what you're getting.

It's a good practice to buy where you can rely upon getting clothes of known values, for in the long run it means economy. We would like you to see the new suits, balmacans and overcoats now on display. Exceptional values from Stone--Patten.

Mrs. Emma J. Patten of Auburn was united in marriage to George Edward Stone of Syracuse Thursday afternoon, Oct. 8, at 4 o'clock at the manse of the Calvary Presbyterian church in Auburn. Rev. V. N. Yergin, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The attendants were Miss Margaret Edick of Auburn and Frank Patten of Moravia.

Following the ceremony they left for a wedding trip which will include points in the East. On their return they will reside in Crouse avenue in Syracuse.
