> CHAPTER XIX. The Quiet Afternoon.

ERHAPS middle aged people might discern nature's real intentions in the matter of pain if they would examine a boy's punishments and sorrows, for he prolongs neither beyond their actual duration. With a boy, trouble must be of homeric dimensions to last overnight. To him, every next day is really a new day. Thus, Penrod woke, next mornning, with neither the unspared rod, nor Mr. Kinosling in his mind. Tar. itself, so far as his consideration of it went, might have been an undiscovered substance. His mood was cheerful and mercantile; some process having worked mysteriously within him, during the night, to the result that his first waking thought was of prefits connected with the sale of old iron or perhaps a raginan had passed the house, just before he woke. By 10 o'clock be had formed a partnership with the indeed amiable Sam, and the first of Schoueld & Williams plunged headlong into commerce. Heavy dealings in rais, paper, old iron and lead gave the arm a balance of 22 cents on the evening of the third day, but a venture is glassware, following, proved disappointing on account of the skepticism of all the druggists in that part of town, even after seven laborious hours had been spent in eleanding a wheelearrow load of old medicine bottles with hydrant water and ashes. Likewise, the partners were disbeartened by their failure to dispose of a crop of "greens," although they had unrooted specimens of that decorative and unappreciated flower, the dandelion, with such persistence and energy that the Schofields' and Williams' lawns looked curiously haggard for the rest of that summer.

The fit passed, business languished, became extinct. The dog days had

One August afternoon was so hot that even boys sought indoor shade. In the dimness of the vacant carriage house of the stable lounged Masters Peurod Schofield, Samuel Williams, Maurice Levy, Georgie Bassett and Herman. They sat still and talked. It is a hot day, in rare truth, when boys devote themselves principally to conversation, and this day was that

Their elders should beware such days, Peril hovers near when the fierceness of weather forces inaction and boys in groups are quiet. The more closely volcanoes, western rivers, nitroglycerin | do married people do except just come and boys are pent, the deadlier is their action at the point of outbreak. Thus, parents and guardians should look for outrages of the most singular violence and of the most peculiar nature during the confining weather of February and August.

The thing which befell upon this broiling afternion began to brew and stew peacefully enough. All was inbocence and languer; no one could have foretold the eruption.

They were upon their great theme; "When I get to be a man!" Being human, though boys, they considered their present estate too commonplace to be dwelt upon. So, when the old men gather, they say: "When I was a boy." It really is the land of nowadays that we never discover.

"When I'm a man," said Sam Wil liams, "I'm goin' to hire me a couple of colored waiters to swing me in a hammock and keep pourin' lee water on me all day out o' those waterla' cans they sprinkle flowers from. I'll hire you for one of 'em, Herman."

"No; you ain' goin' to," said Herman promptly. "You ain' no flowuh. But nev' min' nat, anyway. Ain' nobody gotn' high me whens I'm a man. Goin' be my own boss. I'm go' be a rat'road man!"

"You mean like a superintendent, or sumpthing like that, and sell tickets?" asked Penrod.

"Senators live in Warshington," Mauvice Levy contributed the information. "I been there. Warshington ain't so much. Ning'ra falls is a hundred times as good as Warshington. So's Tlantic City, I was there too. I been everywhere there is, I"-

"I bet you don't!" exclaimed Maurice. "What'd you do in winter?"

"What you goin' to do when it's winter, out in a hammeck with water sprinkled on top o' you all day? I bet

"I'd stay right there," Sam declared, with strong conviction, blinking as be looked out through the open doors at the dazzling lawn and trees, trembling in the heat. "They couldn't sprinkle too much for me!"

"It'd make fcicles all over you.

"I wish it would," said Sam, "I'd eat

"Yay! I'd swaller it as fast as it'd come down. I wish I had a barrel o' snow right now. I wish this whole barn was full of it. I wish they wasn't anything in the whole world except just good ole snow."

Peaced and Herman rose and went out to the hydrant, where they drank long and arriently. Sam was still talking about snow when they returned, stick it all round inside my clo'es and fill my hat. No, I'd freeze a big pile of it al' hard, and I'd roll her out flat and then I'd carry her down to some ole tailor's and have him make me a suit out of her, and"-

"Can't you keep still about your ole snow?" demanded Penrod petulantly. 'Makes me so thirsty I can't keep still, and I've drunk so much now I bet I bust. That ole hydrant water's mighty near bot, anyway."

"I'm goin' to have a big store when I grow up," volunteered Maurice.

"Candy store?" asked Penrod. "No, sir. I'll have candy in it, but not to eat, so much. It's goin' to be a deportment store-ladies' clothes, gentlemen's clothes, neckties, china goods. leather goods, nice lines in woolings and bee goods"-

"Yay! I wouldn't give a five for a cent marble for your whole store," said Sam. "Would you, Penrod?"

"Not for ten of 'em, not for a million of 'em. I'm goin' to have"-"Wait!" chamored Maurice. "You'd be feelish, because they'd be a toy deportment in my store where they'd be a bundred marbles. So how much would you think your five for a cent marble counts for? And when I'm keepin' my store I'm goin' to get mar-

"Yay!" shrieked Sam derisively. "Married! Listen!" Penrod and Herman joined in the how! of contempt.

"Certunly I'll get married," asserted Maurice stoutly. "I'll get married to Marjorie Jones. She likes me awful good, and I'm her beau."

"What makes you think so?" inquired Penrod in a cryptic voice.

"Because she's my beau, too," came the prompt answer. "I'm her beau because she's my beau. I guess that's plenty reason. I'll get married to her as soon as I get my store running Penrod looked upon him darkly, but for the moment held his peace.

"Married!" jeered Sam Williams. 'Married to Marjorie Jones! You're the only boy I ever heard say he was goin' to get married. I wouldn't get married for-why, I wouldn't forfor"- Unable to think of any inducement the mere mention of which would not be ridiculously incommensurate. he proceeded: "I wouldn't do it. What you want to get married for? What home tired and worry around and kind of scold? You better not do it, M'rice. You'll be mighty sorry."

"Everybody gets married," stated Maurice, holding his ground. "They

"I'll bet I don't," Sam returned hotly. They better catch me before they tell me I have to. Anyway, I bet nobody has to get married unless they want

"They do, too," insisted Maurice They gotta."

"Who told you?" "Look at what my own papa told me!" cried Maurice, heated with argument. "Didn't be tell me your own papa had to marry your mamma or else he'd never'd got to handle a cent of her money? Certurly people gotta marry Everybody. You don't know anybody over twenty years old that isn't married except maybe teachers." "Look at policemen!" shouted Sam triumphantly. "You don't s'pose anybody can make policemen get married, I reckon, do you?"

"Well, policemen maybe," Maurica was forced to admit. "Policemen and teachers don't, but everybody else gotta."

"Well, I'll be a policeman," said Sam. Then I guess they won't come around tellin' me I have to get married. What you goin' to be, Penrod?"

"Chief police," said the laconic Pen-

"What you?" Sam inquired of quiet Georgie Bassett. "I am going to be," said Georgie con sciously, "a minister."

This announcement created a sensa tion so profound that it was followed by silence. Herman was the first to speak.

"You mean preachuh?" he asked incredulously. "You go' preach?" "Yes," answered Georgie, looking like St. Cecilia at the organ. Herman was impressed. - "You know al) 'at preachuh talk?" "I'm going to learn it," said Georgie simply. "How loud kin you holler?" asked Herman doubtfully. "He can't holler at all," Penrod interposed with scorn. "He hollers like "Well, anyway," said Sam Williams, a girl. He's the porest hollerer in arriving at a decision.

"How good kin you clim' a pole?" "He can't climb one at all," Penrod answered for Georgie. "Over at Sam's Georgie said with dignity. "Good ones de," declared Herman. "Bes' one ev' I hear, he clim up an' down same as a circus man. lujah, praise my Lawd!" " Herman possessed that extraordinary facility for vivid acting which is the great native gift of his race, and he enchained his listeners. They sat fuscinated and spellbound.

"Herman, tell that again!" said Penrod, breathlessly. Herman, nothing loath, accepted the encore and repeated the Miltonic episode, expanding it somewhat, and dwelling with a fine art upon those portions of the narrative which he per-"No, I wouldn't just roll in it. I'd ceived to be most exciting to his audience.

> The effect was immense and instant. Penrod sprang to his feet.

"Georgie Bassett couldn't do that to save his life," he declared. "I'm goin' to be a preacher! I'd be all right for one, wouldn't L. Herman?"

"So am I!" Sam Williams echoed loudly. "I guess I can do it if you can. I'd be bette'n Penrod, wouldn't I. Herman?"

"I am, too!" Maurice shouted. "I got a stronger voice than anybody here, and I'd like to know what"-

The three clamored together indistinguishably, each asserting his qualifications for the ministry according to Herman's theory, which had been accepted by these sudden converts without question.

"Listen to me!" Maurice bellowed, proving his claim to at least the voice by drowning the others. "Maybe I can't climb a pole so good, but who can holler louder'n this? Listen to me-e-e!"

"Shut up!" cried Penrod, irritated. 'Go to heaven; go to --!" "Oo-o-ch." exclaimed Georgie Bassett, profoundly shocked.

Sam and Maurice, awed by Penrod's daring, ceased from turmoil, staring

Conclusion of the Quiet Afternoon,

CHAPTER XX.

HE three laughed bitingly in chorus. They jeered, derided, scoffed and raised an uproar which would have had its effect upon much stronger nerves than Georgie's. For a time be contained his rising choler and chanted monotonously over and over: "I could! I could too! I could! I could too!" But their tumult wore upon him, and he decided to avail himself of the recent decision whereby a big H was rendered innocuous and unprofane. Having used the expression once, he found it comforting and substituted it for "l could! I could too!" But it relieved him only temporarily. His tormentors were unaffected by it and increased their howlings until at last Georgie lost his head altogether. Badgered beyond bearing, his eyes shining with a wild light, he broke through the besieging trio, harling little Maurice from his path with a frantic hand. "I'll show you!" he cried in this sudden frenzy. "You give me a chance, and I'll prove it right now!"

"That's talkin' business!" shouted Penrod. "Everybody keep still a minute-everybody!"

He took command of the situation at once, displaying a time capacity for organization and system. It needed only a few minutes to set order in the place of confusion and to determine, with the full concurrence of all parties, the conditions under which Georgie Bassett was to defend his claim by undergoing what may be perhaps intelligibly defined as the Herman test. Georgie declared he could do it easily. He was in a state of great excitement and in what the preacher said. Ain't it, Eer- bly he would not have made the at-confident. It was during the discussion of the details of this enterprise that Georgie's mother a short distance down the street received a few female, callers, who came by appointment to drink a glass of iced tea with her and to meet the Rev. Mr. Kinosling. Mr. Kinosling was proving almost formidably interesting to the women and girls of his own and other flocks. What favor of his fellow clergymen a slight preciousness of manner and pronunciation cost him was more than balanced by the visible ecstasies of ladies. They blossomed at his touch. He had just entered Mrs. Bassett's front door when the son of the bouse. followed by an intent and earnest company of four, opened the alley gate and came into the yard. The unconscious Mrs. Bassett was about to have her first experience of a fatal coincidence. It was her first, because she was the mother of a boy so well behaved that he had become a proverb of transcendency. Fatal coincidences were plentiful in the Schofield and Williams families and would have been familiar to Mrs. Bassett had Georgie been permitted greater intimacy with Penrod and Sam.

Mr. Kinosling sipped his iced tea and looked about him approvingly. Seven ladies leaned forward, for it was to be seen that he meant to speak. . "This cool room is a relief," he said. eyes followed, his own included. "It is a relief and a retreat. The windows open, the blinds closed that is as it should be. "Oh! Penrod Schofield!"

"Georgie does not play with him," said Mrs. Bassett quickly-"that is, he avoids him as much as he can without hurting Penrod's feelings. Georgie is very sensitive to giving pain. I suppose a mother should not tell these things, and I know people who talk about their own children are dreadful bores, but it was only last Thursday night that Georgie looked up in my face so sweetly after he had said his prayers, and his little cheeks flushed as he said: "Mamma, I think it would be right for me to go more with Penrod. I think it would make him a better boy."

A sibilance went about the room. "Sweet! How sweet! The sweet litte soul. Ah. sweet!" "And that very afternoon," continued Mrs. Bassett, "he had come home in a dreadful state. Penrod had thrown far all over him."

"Your son has a forgiving spirit," said Mr. Kinosling, with vehemence; "a too forgiving spirit perhaps." He set down his glass, "No more, I thank you. No more cake, I thank you. Was it not Cardinal Newman who said"-

He was interrupted by the sounds of an altercation just outside the closed blinds of the window nearest him. "Let him pick his tree." It was the, voice of Samuel Williams. "Didn't we ome over here to give him one of his own trees? Give him a fair show. can't you?"

"The little lads!" Mr. Kinosling miled. "They have their games, their outdoor sports, their pastimes. The young muscles are toughening. The sun will not harm them. They grow, they expand, they learn. They learn fair play, bonor, courtesy, from one another as pebbles grow round in the brook They learn more from themselves than from us. They take shape, to ask you."

"My dear Miss Cosslit," Mr. Kinosling responded, again waving his hand and watching it, "I am entirely at your disposal."

'Was Joan of Arc," she asked fer vently, "inspired by spirits?" He smiled indulgently. "Yes-and no," he said. "One must give both answers. One must give the answer, yes; one must give the answer, no."

"Oh, thank you!" said Miss Cosslit. blushing. "She's one of my great enthusiasms, you know." "And I have a question, too," urged Mrs. Lora Rewbush after a moment's hasty concentration. "I've never been able to settle it for myself, but now"-"Yes?" said Mr. Kinosling encouragingly. "Is-ah-is-oh, yes-is Sanskrit a mastering, in conquering either." "And may I ask one?" ventured Mrs. Bassett. "Do you think it is right to wear egrets?" "There are marks of quality, of caste. of social distinction," Mr. Kinosling began, "which must be permitted, allowed, though perhaps regulated. Social distinction, one observes, almost invariably implies spiritual distluction as well. Distinction of circumstances is accompanied by mental distinction. Distinction is hereditary. ed curse with a big H. With an ejaculation of horror Mrs. Bassett sprang to the window and threw open the blinds.

Georgie's back was disclosed to the view of the ten party. He was endeavoring to ascend a maple tree about twelve feet from the window. Embracing the trunk with arms and legs, he had managed to squirm to a point just above the heads of Penrod and Herman, who stood close by, watching him earnestly, Penrod being obviously in charge of the performance. Across the yard were Sam Williams and Maurice Levy, acting as a jury on the question of voice power, and it was to a complaint of theirs that Georgie had

With a loud scream Mrs. Bassett threw herself out of the window, alighting by some miracle upon her feet with ankles unsprained.

Mr. Kinosling, feeling that his pres ence as spiritual adviser was demanded in the yard, followed with greater dignity through the front door. At the corner of the house a small de parting figure collided with him violently. It was Penrod, tactfully with drawing from what promised to be a family scene of unusual painfulness. Mr. Kinosling seized him by the shoulders and, giving way to emotion, shook him viciously. "You horrible boy!" exclaimed Mr. Kinosling. "You ruffianly creature! Do you know what's going to happer to you when you grow up? Do you realize what you're going to be?" With flashing eyes the indignant boy made known his unshaken purpose. He shouted the reply:

CHAPTER XXI.

"A minister!"

Twelve. HIS busy globe which spawns us is as incapable of flattery and as intent upon its own aftair, whatever that is, as a gyroscope. It keeps steadily whirling along its lawful track, and, thus far seeming to hold a right of way, spins doggedly on, with no perceptible diminution of speed to mark the most gi gantic human events. It did not pause to pant and recuperate even wher what seemed to Penrod its principal purpose was accomplished, and an enor mous shadow, vanishing westward over its surface, marked the dawn of his twelfth birthday. To be twelve is an attainment worth the struggle. A boy, just twelve, is like a Frenchman just elected to the academy. Distinction and honor wait upon him Younger boys show deference to a per son of twelve. His experience is guaranteed, his judgment, therefore, mellow; consequently his influence is profound. Eleven is not quite satisfactory. It is only an approach. Eleven has the disadvantage of six, of nine teen, of forty-four and of sixty-nine. But, like twelve, seven is an honorable age, and the ambition to attain it is laudable. People look forward to be ing seven. Similarly, twenty is worthy. and so, arbitrarily, is twenty-one; for ty-five has great solidity; seventy is most commendable and each year thereafter an increasing honor. Thirteen is embarrassed by the beginnings of a new colthood. The child becomes a youth. But twelve is the very top of boyhood. Dressing that morning, l'enrod felt that the world was changed from the world of yesterday. For one thing, he seemed to own more of it. This day was his day. And it was a day worth owning. The midsummer sunshine, pouring gold through his window, came from a cool sky, and a breeze moved pleasantly in his hair as he leaned from the sill to watch the tribe of chattering blackbirds take wing, following their leader from the trees in the yard to the day's work in the open country. The blackbirds were his, as the sunshine and the breeze were his, for they all belonged to the day which was his birthday and therefore most surely his. Pride suffused him. He was twelve! His father and his mother and Margaret seemed to understand the difference between today and yesterday They were at the table when he descended, and they gave him a greeting which of itself marked the milestone. Habitually his entrance into a room where his eiders sat brought a cloud of apprehension They were prone to look up in pathetic expectancy, as if their thought was. "What new awful ness is he going to start now?" But this morning they laughed. His mother rose and kissed him twelve times. So did Margaret, And his father shouted: "Well, well! How's the man?" Then ins mother gave him a Bible and "The Vicar of Wakefield." Margaret gave him a pair of silver mounted hairbrushes, and his father gave him a Jonathan Wild.

Nothing in the way of thieving is likely to disturb the record of Jonathan Wild, thief taker and receiver of stolen goods, who did such a flourishing business with his lost property office in the Old Bailey two centuries ago. He organized his thieves into gangs, allotting them to the different main roads to London, to churches, theaters and public functions, while a special brigade was trained for domestic service. Wild's practice when receiving stolen goods was, if possible. to inform the person who had been robbed that they had been detained by a dealer and would be restored on payment of commission. Other stolen property was warehoused, and a staff of mechanics was kept for altering watches and jewelry, which were convered to the continent by his own vessel. A trifling matter of the restoration of some stolen lace proved his downfall, and he was hanged at Tyburn on May 24, 1725.-London Tatler.

Lazy Tropical Laborers.

The most considerate employers of tropical labor agree with the most inconsiderate in saying that in general it is useless to attempt to spur the natives by any motive beyond the actual demands of food and shelter. Kindness and consideration on the part of the employer undoubtedly promote faithfulness, but they seem rarely to arouse ambition or energy.

It is literally true in Guatemala, for Instance, that the more a native is puid the less he will work. If one day's pay will buy two days' food he will work half the time; if the pay is increased so that one day's pay will buy food for three days he will work one-third of the time. The experiment has been tried again and again, and there is practically universal agreement as to its result .- Professor Ellsworth Huntington in Journal of Race Development.

Edison Heads Advisory Board and Will Improve Submarines.

NNOUNCEMENT by Thomas A. Edison of his acceptance of an advisory board of civilian inventors for the proposed bureau of invention and development in the navy department was received with gratification by all naval officials. Secretary Laniels was especially pleased, because upon Mr. Edison's acceptance dependthe secretary's plan of utilizing the inventive genius of the country to aid in perfecting the navy as a fighting Extraordinary appropriations will be asked for also by the war department, in which the development of inventions is handled by the board of fortifications and ordnance and the bureau of ordnance.

Among the names suggested to Mr. Daniels as possible members of the new board were those of Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer; Charles P. Steinmetz, one of the world's authorities on electrical engineering; Hudson Maxim, inventor and maker of guns and explosives; Orville Wright, one of

The plans for this net, which can be raised and lowered, have already been practically completed. The department is considering also the adoption of sea sleds as naval scouts. These vessels are very shallow and have a guaranteed speed of fifty-six statute miles an hour. They will carry ten or more men and carry guns and are believed to be thoroughly seaworthy in rough weather. They would be used also for defense against submarines.

Wright Ready to Serve.

"I am ready to serve on the new naval advisory board, and I shall not go into the British or any other foreign service," said Orville Wright.

"I have heard nothing direct from Secretary Daniels, but I have had talks with Thomas A. Edison and with army and navy officers who realize the imperative necessity of preparing an adequate air as well as sea fleet. The board of invention should work in harmony with the regular army and navy departments. They are all right.

"Whatever fault exists lies with congress in not providing sufficient approprintions. It has granted a beggarly million for experimentation and building of a few ships. Secretary Daniels extended his invitation to Mr. Edison in a letter in which he expressed his admiration for the inventor's "splendid and patriotic attitude in refusing to devote your great inventive genius to warlike subed almost entirely the development of jects except at the call of your own country."

Can Render a Great Service.

"Such an attitude in these all too commercial times is one that should be an inspiration to our young men," the secretary continued, "and a lesson in to the best that its citizens have that will be of tremendous benefit to us all. There is a very great service which you can render the navy and the country at large and which I am encouraged to believe you will consent to undertake, as it seems to me to be in line with your own thoughts.

Naval Officers Would Help.

"In addition, our naval-officers, partheularly those at sea, are in a position to note where improvements are needed and to devise ways in which these improvements can be made. They have, however, neither the time nor the special training nor in many cases the natural byventive turn of min! needed to put these ideas into definite shape. Were there a place where they could be sout to be worked out and perfected I am sure we would get many noteworthy improvements from this source alone

"The department is also unprovided with the best facilities for work of pure experimentation and investigation, with the exception of our testing station at Annapolis, which is as yet a small affair. Most of all, as I have said, there is no particular place or particular body of men, relieved of other work, charged solely with the duty of either devising new things themselves or perfecting the crude ideas that are submitted to the department by our naturally inventive people.

"I have in mind a general plan of organizing such a department which is still very hazy as to details, but which in a general way meets, so far as the navy is concerned, with your ideas of such a department for the government in general. I want to use such facilities for experimental work and investigation work as we have, under the direction of men particularly selected for ability shown in this direction, to whom would be referred all suggestions of new devices sent in to out such ideas to a practical point.

"For our part, we will endeavor not to bother you with trivial matters, as we will probably have sufficient facilities to handle such small matters as they come up. This is a great deal to ask, and I unfortunately have nothing but the thanks of the navy and, I think, of the country at large, together with the feeling of service to your country that you will have to offer you by way of recompense. Yet so clearly have you shown your patriotism and your unselfish loyalty to your country's interests that I feel justified in making this request.

"If you feel that you would be willing to do this, I would like a little later, when my plans are somewhat more matured, to consult with you as to the details of the organization proposed, so that I can make it as effective as possible for the purpose in-

Edison Gladly Accepts.

In announcing that he would gladly secretary Daniels' invitation Mr. Edison said that he believed the proposal so important that it should be attended to at once, while the war in Europe was bringing before the pubtic the importance of encouraging and developing ideas and inventions of Americans, especially officers and men of the army and navy.

"The United States is far behind in hese matters," said Mr. Edison. "1 believe it is highly important for a board of civilians made up of engineers from leading industries to be formed for the purpose of looking into the feasibility of ideas developed by young men. While all ideas that will be submitted may not be fensible, at least they will have the benefit of expert judgment and advice.

"In addition to the advisory board of engineers I would also suggest a department of experimentation, where ideas might be tried out. The cost would be nominal. Only a few acres of land would be required, with proper buildings and a corps of efficient men calculated to carry out experiments under the direction of those suggesting them after they have been approved. "The European war has served to

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

In shaping a little farm program to embrace a variety of money making products the owner will find that muskmelons fit nicely into the scheme.

Muskinelous thrive in northern latitudes almost as well as in the south. They will yield good crops on ordinary soil, are easily cultivated and return an acreage profit equal to other high class commodities.

Muskmelons do well where watermelons will not mature at all. It is not to be inferred that this crop does not need rich soil, but the general experience is that ordinary garden cultivation will give good results. A light, the department and who would work well drained piece of land is to be chosen. A field that has had clover for a couple of years is best. When the sod is turned in the fall eight or "I feel that our chances of getting ten tons of barnyard manure should be plowed in to a depth of seven or eight inches. drained, but select a sandy loam if be seasoned with either French or Engpossible, and fertilize it as seems necessary.

While melons will not stand soggy land, they need regular moisture. Therefore the ideal place is a drained field, and in a drought it pays to put on water. Sod land is porous to a good depth and so remains for a season after breaking. In case there is no clover on the farm a field of blue grass or other sod can be worked up nicely for the muskmelon crop. The big money in growing muskmelons lies chiefly in the production of a high grade of stock, and therefore it must be the aim to have uniformity. Quality and a good yield generally go together. The preparation of the soil should include disking and harrowing in the spring. This not only works the soil into nice condition but clears out the weeds. As early melons usually prove most profitable, the plants are started in hotbeds or cold frames. They can be grown in flowerpots or plant boxes. using different sizes for this purpose. A compost may be made for these boxes or for the hotbeds. This is composed of about two parts of rotted horse manure to one part rich, sandy soil, new soil from the woods being preferred. Poultry droppings added to this compost are beneficial. Have this prepared soil thoroughly mixed before placing it or the seeds will not get an even start. Keep the ground moist, but not drenched. After the plants are ten days old they are to be thinned down, and only the strongest and healthiest are kept for the open field. When plants are a little more than a month old or when danger of frost is over they should be transplanted to the field. Mark off the plot both ways and set the plants five feet apart without disturbing the roots. Soft should be pressed armly around them, care being taken not to injure either plants or roots.

This kind of treatment brings on an early can and gets the highest profits. at the same time later pantings can s made in order to lengthen the seaen. In starting the crop outdoors an we of seed will plant fifty hills. no speci attention cannot be given o contitution. Keep the ground clean of he a mulched condition. Where ater is scarce or has to be hauled a ong distance it will not pay to irrigate. at I hence it may not pay to raise large patches of mclons. In a good growing season or where the water supply can be controlled it is not unreasonable to expect a crop of muskmelons worth $500 an acre. This is a product that is easily marketed, as it ships well and does not spoil very fast. Those intending to cultivate the crop regularly for market need to give some attention to the selection of seed in order to get early and popular varieties.

Growing Potatoes. To guard against disease and inferior quality of potatoes it is necessary to rotate crops. Grow alfulfa, clover or peus two or three years, grain one year and potatoes one year is a good system.

Select good seed. Too much indifth recard to the quality

hints for housewives

French Toast Sandwiches.

French toast sandwiches are among the favorite tea room novelties that housewives find it easy to duplicate at home. These sauted slices of bread, put together in pairs, with any preferred filling have the advantage of being adaptable to any of the three meals of the day, while their particular mission is to afford something a little out of the ordinary for the Sunday night ten table or the after theater supper. The occapion must decide what filling is appropriate and whether the French toast sandwich shall be served crisp and dry from the griddle or accompanied by a suttable sauce.

The novelty consists in the fact that after the sandwich is made it is pressed closely together and then dipped in a thin batter made in the proportion of one beaten egg to a half cupful of milk. If the filling of the sandwich is a savory mixture of egg. cheese, fish, meat or fowl, a pinch each of pepper and salt should be added to the batter. If, however, the sandwich has a sweet filling, the batter should be slightly sweetened and flavored with a teaspoonful of sherry. Cook the moistened sandwich on a hot, well greased griddle, browning first on one side and then on the other. A shallow iron frying pan will answer the same purpose and olive oil will be found an excellent substitute for butter.

For those who like something more than the ordinary breakfast of fruit, cereal and eggs several variations of the French toast sandwich will be found appropriate to accompany the morning coffee. Flaked salt codfish, made a little less moist than in the popular dish known as creamed codfish, is an excellent filling for a breakfast appetizer of this kind. Half fish and half finely chopped hard boiled egg makes an equally good mixture, or a little finely chopped cold boiled potato may be used. Season well and dip in batter. When thoroughly browned on the griddle serve hot, either with or without a little white sauce.

A particularly appetizing combination, suited to serve at breakfast, luncheon or Sunday night supper, calls for equal parts of finely chopped cold boiled ham and tongue. This should lish mustard and moistened with a little cream or rich milk.

Lovers of cheese will enjoy a hot cheese sandwich with filling of softened cheese moistened with cream and highly seasoned with Worcestershire sauce and paprika. The batter should also be seasoned, and the finished sandwich when toasted and served piping hot should have much the flavor of a Welsh rabbit,

As a simple sweet course at luncheon or family dinner French toast sandwiches with fresh fruit or jam filling will be found delicious.

The story goes that we are indebted to a thrifty housewife for this particular brand of toasted sandwiches. In her endeavor to utilize an oversupply of dainty sandwiches prepared for an afternoon tea the idea occurred to her to brown a few of them on the griddle for her luncheon the next day.

A French Dainty.

Tenderloin and mushrooms is the plain name in this country, but this way of doing the cookery is purely French.

Peel six mushrooms and take out the stems. Then drop them for five minutes in cold salted water. Take them out, dry on a fresh cloth and put them in the plat with a teaspoonful of butter. Cover the plat with a saucer or breakfast plate, set it over the blaze and saute the mushrooms for fifteen minutes without uncovering. Then dump them in a hot little vessel, cover that and keep warm until the steak is Scrape the tenderloin steak with a knife, rub it over with the cut side of a lemon and put on a faint dust of salt and pepper. .Then place the plat with all the mushroom taste and a little of the sauce over the fire and when piping hot put in the steak. It should brown a little on either side, but still be pink inside. When cooked pour the mushrooms back into the pan, add a pinch more of butter if the sauce has dried out, cover the plat, set it in the oven for three minutes and serve at once. As mushrooms draw their own juices, only enough butter to start them cooking must be used when they are first prepared.

Chocolate Cake.

One-half cake of chocolate, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of milk, one egg yolk and a pinch of salt. Cook in double boller until smooth.

One cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of butter, creamed together well; add two ergs boaten light, one cupful of milk and one level tenspoonful of soda dissolved in milk, two level cupfuls of flour and one tablespoonful of vanila. Mix this with the other, beat well and bake one-half hour.

Tomato Eggs.

Beat one-half dozen fresh eggs lightly. Rub one-half cupful of tomatoes through a colander and mix with the eggs. Stir in one tablespoonful losson juice, one small onton finely mineral. one tablespoonful mineed parales, son tenspoonful each salt and colory sull on dash of as

Resolutions of Respect.

From the Ledyard W. F. M. S. and W. H. M. S.

Whereas; Death has entered our organizations and removed our sister, Mrs. Eliza A. Corey, for many years a noble, worthy and active worker, therefore Resoled; That by her death our societies have lost one of their most valued members.

Resolved: That while we bow in numble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things wisely and well, we deeply mourn the loss of our departed sister and recognize the goodness of God in permitting us to enjoy her wise counsel and hearty cogood dwelling house, one acre of operation in the missionary work. Perry, aged 92, received the chairs land, well water and plenty of fruit. Her association with us gained our admiration and love by her true womanly traits of character, as she was faithful to every duty and exhibited in her daily life the graces of her Saviour. A loving, helpful, trusting Christian woman has gone to her renoble life will be cherished in sacred > memory forever. Resolved; That we tender to the bereaved husband, father, sister and brothers our deepest sympathies for their irreparable loss and pray that He who giveth comfort to those who mourn, may give them His abiding Write or presence in this their great trial.

Resolved; That a copy of these resolutions be entered upon the secretaries' books and that a page thereof be set apart as a memorial page for that purpose, also that a copy be presented to the family of

Two men were hurrying along Park row when the wind seemed to be blowing from all directions to the peril of umbrellas and anything not tirmly anchored. One of them noticed the handle of a wrecked umbrella which had been thrown into the street along with many others and, stopping to pick It up, remarked to his companion that it was too good to pass. As he stooped a gust of wind captured his hat, and it went spinning along toward St. Paul's chapel, be after it. He ran into a man, slipped, fell in the mud and arose in time to see his hat run over by a truck. At a nearby restaurant, where he was drying his clothes, he said: "I lost a five dollar hat and spoiled a suit of clothes for the handle of a thirty cent umbrella. That would not be so bad, but I see the handle is broken."-New York Tribune.

MINERS HOLD MEMORY OF JOSEPH A. HOLMES SACRED.

Originator of Safety First Idea Died a Martyr to His Work.

Although Joseph Austin Holmes originator of the "Safety First" slogan died the other day at his Denver home his name will always be a sacred mem ory to the men who daily risk their lives in the mines of the country. In his death the country lost one of its greatest men

In 1904 Dr. Holmes was appointed by President Roosevelt as chief of the United States geological survey labora tories, which have headquarters in St. Louis and Pittsburgh and are used for the testing of fuels and structural materials. His services in this position were so noteworthy that he was apis in charge of the investigation of mine accidents.

President Taft in 1910 appointed Dr. Holmes head of the newly created bureau of mines. This appointment came as a surprise, as it was known that h was one of the interior department men regarded by Secretary R. A. Ballinger as inimical to him.

Under Dr. Holmes' management great progress was made in perfecting methods of saving lives in mine accidents and for lessening the dangers to which underground workers are exposed. He organized the first national mine safety demonstration, which was held in Pittsburgh in 1911, which was largely attended and resulted in mine owners, superintendents and miners learning many ways of preventing danger and loss of life.

One of Dr. Holmes' most important discoveries was that the dust from bituminous coal was more dangerous to miners than firedamp. This was contrary to the old theory, which taught that coal dust could not explode without gas and which had cost many thonsands of lives.

It is thought that Dr. Holmes' frequent visits to mines in which there were disasters and his continual insistence on going only where his trained rescue crews should go, sharing the dangers that should have gone only to more robust men, seriously affected his health. His trip to Alaska two years ago to learn concerning the great coal fields there met with many hardships and severe exposure, and it is believed that this hastened the end.

SIZE OF PARCELS INCREASED

and Length May Be Sent In Mails. Postmaster General Burieson has ordered that the size limit of packages for parcel post shipment be increased to a combined length and girth of eighty-four inches, which will permit the mailing of standard sized fruit and berry crates. The old limit was seventy-two inches length and girth, and there has been a widespread demand for its increase.

The postmaster general also authorized the establishment of a receipt system of parcel post packages similar to that employed by express companies.

Ninety-nine of Those Transferred Were Formerly British.

Under the new law admitting foreign built vessels to American registry. 149 ships, with a gross tonnage of 527, 071 tons, were transferred to the United States flag during the fiscal year ended June 20.

Figures announced by the department of commerce show that of this number ulnety-nine formerly were in the British merchant marine, thirty in the German and six in the Beigian. One Italian, three Norwegian and four Cuban ships also were transferred.

THE HIGH AND LOW COST OF VOTING.

Women as Voters Could Save the State Money.

According to the Times' analysis of March 28 of the gubernatorial elections of 1914, male elections cost New York state's public purse $4,079,171.42. That sum was supposed to provide for every voter in New York state. Now. notice, 43 per cent of the Democrats. 44 per cent of the Republicans, 33 per cent of the Progressives, 11 per cent of the Socialisis. 18 per cent of the Prohibitionists and 23 per cent of the Independence League's enrolled voters Shines the dream, leading life to the lilles availed themselves of this voting machinery, leaving unused more than half the supply; hence the suggestion that if New York state women had voted only in the proportion of New York men they could have been accommodated with the unused tickets, voting booths, registrars, judges, etc., which men voters were too unappreciative to

Another thing that the cost per voter of this election bill suggests to the suffragist is that women might be able to reorganize the whole voting machinery and include her own voting expenses without costing the state a cent. It cost the men of Greene county; for instance, about 14 cents each to vote; of Chautauqua, 15 cents; of Oswego county, 16 cents. But it cost the men of Rockland county $2.50 each and the men of Hamilton $4. It cost Clinton county $1.36 per capita for male electors last November, and it cost Delaware county 19 cents. The Albany Knickerbocker Press gives an account of fifty-eight voters who cost the county $14 each. On the other hand, the Hempstead Sentinel reports that its spring elections were run at the small cost of 68 cents apiece. Women feel sure that with this wide and uneven range of election expenses they could as voters help inaugurate a new era of would save the state money instead of costing it any.

WOMAN'S SPHERE IN 1915.

An Innovation In Railway Stations. If Englishwomen are not going to the front they are daily proving their pointed chief of the technological capacity in the work that has to be branch of the geological survey, which done at home. The enlistment of thoumany new channels of work to women. Today in England one finds women ticket collectors, bookstall keepers, train cleaners, tram conductors, commercial travelers and farm hands. The underground station, Maida Vale, on the Bakerloo railway, has the unique distinction of being staffed entirely by women.

> Suffrage Presence of Mind. "Woman suffrage will surely win in New York this fall if the presence of mind shown by the suffragists in asking the men to vote for it is any indication," said Mrs. Alice Sankey Ellington, one of the "Arkansas Travelers" recently come to New York to assist in the campaign. "When we go back to Arkansas to bring our own state in I am going to tell all our girls when they see a man drowning to do as Miss Grace Hank of Troy did when she rescued Elbert Vause from a watery grave, make him promise to vote for the suffrage amendment in return

THE SUFFRAGE GIRL.

She is Stepping Along.

She is stepping along, that girl in the striped skirt with her light, sure steps. One watched her first stand out in her glad, brisk way from the corner of Columbus circle. New York city. She has beckoned to the com muters and hailed the passing tourists She has gone into remote sections, where summer visitors will welcome her as a reminder of the city left be hind them. Also, she has gone to Roch ester, Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse, Bing hamton, Elmira, Poughkeepsie. Utica Lately she has entered Malone: N. Y. and shrills her bugle from a broad ex panse where the Franklin county men who are already rapidly enrolling for suffrage, can hear her clarion call.

She is popular, for she is a beautifa young woman. She marches. The figure seems alert and intent on its task.

COMING OR GOING?

Suffrage Victories Prove the Cause Is Gaining Steadily.

The suffrage forces attacked much new territory last year. Thirty-one states considered the question of votes for women. This marks a tremendous advance in public interest. It means equalized election disbursements that that out of the total population, which the antis are constantly advertising as more important than area, more than 65,000,000 people were brought face to face with woman's advancing cause. This, with the more than 13,000,000 in the suffrage states, left about one-tenth of the total population of the country not vitally concerned in 1914-15 with this question. Of the six states attacked by suffrage forces in 1914 two were irretrievably gained-not a bad advance for a party or an army. To aim at six trenches and gain two is coming, not going, in military language. This year suffragists aimed at thirty-one states. They gained seven for campaign purposes. Two states. Kentucky and Louisiana, have run ahead of their schedule. Popular approval has seized the woman's measure before it could get to the legislature. Three states returned actual legislative majorities for suffrage, although they missed the necessary three-fourths vote. The collective vote of Delaware. West Virginia, Tennessee, Arkansas. North Carolina, Florida, Oklahoma. Texas, was about two to one in favor of suffrage. In Minnesota there was an "anti" majority of one, in North Da kota of five, and so on.

Militarism Versus Feminism.

The countries which, from position or circumstances, have been most free from military domination are the ones that have granted the most freedom to women. War plays but a small part for the favor of saving his life. It's in the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Norway, Finland and Iceland.

DISHES.

We often forget the old and satisfying dishes of which we used to be so fond in the multiplicity of newer dishes appearing every day. It is well to look over the recipes that have been marked by much using and see if we cannot surprise our families with an old favorite.

Apple Dowdy.-Line a baking dish with slices of brown bread, buttered; fill the spaces with apples which have been pared, cored and chopped; mix a teaspoonful of cinnamon with a half cupful of brown sugar, sprinkled over the apples; add a half cupful of water, lay on another layer of bread buttered side up. Bake slowly for one hour and serve with clear sauce. Use a cupful of cider thickened with two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter, cooked together.

Prune Souffle .- Remove the stones from half a pound of stewed prunes; press the prunes through a sieve; add to them the yolks of three eggs, slightly beaten, and four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Fold in the wellbeaten whites of six eggs; turn into a baking dish; dust the top with powdered sugar, bake in a quick oven for 15 minutes or until the egg is set. Send immediately to the table and serve with cream and sugar.

Fruit Gelatin .- Stone and chop a quarter of a pound of dates; mix with the same amount of figs; a sliced banana, the pulp of an orange and a few shredded almonds; cover a box of gelatin with a half pint of cold water and let soak for half an hour. Add to it a cupful of sugar and a quart of boiling water; stir until dissolved; add juice of two lemons and one orange and two teaspoonfuls of caramel. Strain into a mold over the fruit and set away to harden. Serve with whipped cream garnished with candied

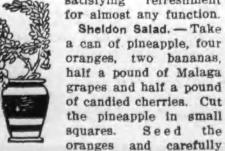

Favorite Dessert (Mrs. Rorer's) cherries, chopped and grated pineapple with powdered sugar. Fill sherbet cups with two tablespoonfuls of this; add a tablesponful of 1emon ice and four tablespoonfuls of whipped cream. Serve at once.

One sip of this will bathe the drooping spirit in delight Beyond the bliss of dreams.

MORE SALADS AND SANDWICHES.

A sandwich or two with a dainty salad and a hot drink makes a most satisfying refreshment break into small pieces. Cut the grapes in halves and take out the seed. Cut cherries in halves and the bananas in slices very thin. Mix and heap on lettuce leaves and pour over the following dressing: Take the juice of the pineapple, one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, and a cupful and a half of water. Mix the starch with the sugar before adding the water and cook until smooth and thick, boil at least five or six minutes to thoroughly cook the starch. When cool, add a cupful of finely cut wal-

Apple and Cheese Salad. - Mix chopped pecan meats with twice their bulk of cream cheese. Add a little thick cream to blend the mixture. Season with red pepper paprika, and salt and make into small balls. Pare good tart apples, remove the cores and slice into rings about half an inch thick. Arrange the slices on lettuce leaves and put a cheese ball in the center of each. Serve with a French dressing. made with lemon juice instead of vine-

Jellied Salmon Salad .- Take a pint of canned salmon, drain and remove the skin and bones. Mince fine, add a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a dash of red pepper, a teaspoonful of minced parsley, and salt to taste. Mix together with any good salad dressing which has been thickened with a tablespoon ful of gelatin, softened in a quarter of a cupful of water. Fill small molds and set them on the ice to chill. Turn on crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with olives. Serve with mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

Tartar Sandwiches.-Chop together three boned sardines, a cupful of boiled ham, three small cucumber pickles. Add a teaspoonful of mustard or some chow chow or mustard pickle Mix to a paste with catchup and lemon

GOOD ROADS DAY.

The holding of a good roads day in which rural and urban citizens shall join in the construction or improvement of a 5 piece of the public highway is a means of not only securing a piece of improved road, but the observance of such a day can be used to stimulate interest in road work and also to secure a more cordial understanding between the inhabitants of the country and the city. It would not be difficult to offer objections as to the possible efficiency of a good roads day as a means of constructing or improving roads, but such an occasion can be fully justified provided considerable attention is given to arousing more interest in the roads and to an interchange of views on highway problems between the different classes of people who use the roads. The experience in some such attempts has been that there was a surprising readiness to co-operate in such public improvements. In not a few instances city chambers of commerce and city automobile clubs have made very substantial contributions for the improvement of the earth roads leading to the cities in which these organizations had their headquarters.-Ira O. Baker.

IMPROVING MICHIGAN ROADS.

Farmers Now Appreciate the Value to Them of Better Highways.

It is a strange fact that the state of Michigan, in which more than 75 per cent of the world's automobiles are manufactured, has some of the poorest roads in the whole country. The fact | $1.65. that a large portion of the state is low lying and that another large portion of it is saudy accounts for this to a large extent.

The country in which Michigan's metropolis, Detroit, is situated had until recently notoriously bad roads. This was due to the swampy nature of the section, which, geologists tell us, was formerly the bed of a great inland sea. Time after time appeals were made to the automobile manufacturers to aid Mix orange pulp, white grapes, cut in in the good roads movements in varihalves with seeds removed, candied ous sections, but most of them have been ignored for two reasons-first, a natural disinclination to pay out their own money for the general good even though it was conceded that the automobile profits very largely by good roads, and, second, because the automobile manufacturers maintained that their support for good roads really served to prejudice the farmers who are, in fact, the greatest beneficiariesagainst the movement.

Your old time farmer was liable to ump to the conclusion that if it beneits some one else it must necessarily injure him. So in his early hatred of the automobile he condemned any good roads movement.

Of late the farmer has been the most enthusiastic user of the automobile and also of the motor truck. Incidentally he has found that a strip of good road from his farm to the city not only enabled him to transport his farm produce to the market at a great saving of time, but means great saving of equipment-horses, wagons, harness, etc.

It is difficult to realize now that the farmer didn't appreciate the tremendous expense he incurred by hauling heavy roads over rutty, rocky, muddy roads. He wore his borses out in half their normal life, and his wagon and harness equipment lasted even less than that length of time; also he has to use a much heavier equipment than is necessary on good roads, with the consequent greater deterioration of horseflesh.

With the building of a few sections of good roads around Detroit came an appreciation of them on the part of farmers as well as motorists, and now there is an insistent demand for more of them.

Proposed Road Work In Ohio.

Over $2,000,000 will be spent during the coming season in Cuyahoga and adjacent counties in the northern portion of Ohio, according to recent re-

New road work in Cuyahoga county will be undertaken to the amount of more than $1,000,000, it is stated, while the cost of repair jobs will amount to over $70,000. Lake county is to build eighteen miles of concrete road on the highway between Buffalo and Cleveland and eight miles of brick road between Palnesville and Willoughby. Lorain county is to expend about $12. 000 for the construction of something less than a mile of concrete roadway and $16,000 for the repair of two miles of the La Grange-Elyria-Akron road Medina county will undertake the construction of thirty miles of concrete and water bound macadam pikes with state aid. Genum county will commence the work of grading twenty miles of the Cleveland-Youngstown road at a cost of $65,000. The present plan is to pave the road with brick next year.

Improving the Macadam Road. The breaking up of a water bound macadam road under motor vehicle traffic can be readily overcome by the rpplication of a bituminous wearing dirt. reface, and, with so many opportuni ties to make use of the macadam road to at least local advantage, the time little mercury in the oil hole and allow lit to remain a few minutes, then use oil.—World's Advance.

Sleep Without Drugs. "Doc, how can I get to sleep without msing dope?" asked a man troubled with insomnia of a noted physician.

"On going to bed assume a comfortable attitude in which every muscle is relaxed," said the doctor, "but not the attitude in which you are accustomed to go to sleep, though something re sembling it. Every movement, even coughing and yawning, must be strictly repressed, especially the desire to turn over. Maintain the same attitude without change, constantly resisting the longing to move or turn over. As a rule, by the end of lifteen or twenty minutes of this you will find yourself growing very drowsy and then, just as the desire to roll over becomes absolutely uncontrollable turn with the least possible effort and assume the position in which you habitually go to sleep. #### Heated Bearings.

Sometimes when a bearing becomes heated and requires oil it will be four. I that the oil will not flow down in the oil bole. Either the hole is clogged with dirt or the best may cause the air to rise and prevent the oil from entering. Where a wire cannot be used effectivety the following remedy, although it is uot infallible, is almost sure to make the oil reach the bearing.

Fill the hole with oil and quickly place the thumb over it to prevent the air from escaping, and if the oil cupdoes not leak the heated fir inside will rise above the oil, and in two or three minutes it will be forced into the bearing, even if it has to pass considerable

GETTING RID OF MOSQUITOES

PUBLIC HEALTH HINTS

repared Each Week For the Readers of This Newspaper by the New York State Department of Health.

LAPPING at mosquitoes is a crude and unsatisfactory way of fighting these vexatious and sometimes dangerous pests. It is much better to KEEP THEM FROM EVER BEING born into the winged state by doing away with their breeding places.

Mosquitoes breed in standing or slowly flowing water, in sluggish, veedy brooks, in swampy pools, in ditches where the water is stagnant, in old wells and cesspools and cisterns, in stopped up roof gutters, in barrels, in tin cans and bottles, in any place where water stands quietly for a week or two. They do not breed in rapid streams or large open ponds, for the wind and waves would prevent the mother mosquito from laying her eggs, and the fish and larger insects found in such places would soon eat up the wigglers which hatch from the eggs.

If you want to get rid of mosquitoes in your neighborhood the first thing is to find out where they are breeding by dipping up water from all sorts of likely places. If you find little blackish wigglers like those shown below, threeeighths of an inch

long or less, jerking

themselves about in the water, you may be sure that the place where they were found is a mosquito nursery. In a few days these wig-

glers will change to a curiously shaped from which the winged adult mosquito will finally come out. The way to get rid do away with these water breeding places. Where there are extensive marshy or swamp lands this may, of course, be quite expensive. Such lands can only be freed from mosquito breeding pools by digging ditches through them to carry off the water in free open channels. Even in such cases, however, the cost is not prohibitive, for many communities, on Long Island, for instance, have carried out such drainage projects and have PRACTICALLY ELIMINATED the mosquito nuisance.

Where there are no extensive swamps the problem is much simpler. If sluggish brooks are the breeding places the weeds may be cleared out and the bed straightened so as to give a rapid flow. If isolated pools are at fault they may be filled in or OILED. The mosquito wiggler has to come up to the surface of the water every little while to breathe, and if kerosene or crude oil is poured on a greater joy than this, unless it be that families." ool it will spread out over the surface in a thin film, which prevents the wigglers from getting their breathing tubes up into the air and so stifles them. One pint of light fuel oil costing about 8 cents a gallon and the oil treatment should be repeated every eight to ten days. A pond in a garden which would be spoiled by oiling may be prevented from becoming a mosquito nursery by stocking it with fish that will destroy the wigglers in a pond fifteen to twenty feet in diameter, will eat up the wigglers.

Success in mosquito control requires, in addition to these more obvious things, a careful and thorough search for the UNSUSPECTED BREEDING PLACES. Oftentimes a distant swamp is blamed for mosquitoes, which are really breeding in one's own back yard in a disused water barrel or a collection of tin cans which have caught and held the rain. All such minor accumulations of water must be located and done away, with if the porch is to be a peaceful place on an August night

Young Man, if You Want to Make Good, Go to Church!

VOUNG men should GO TO CHURCH!

The flippant youth of the day is wont to remark that the churches are for old men and women. He treats lightly the GO TO CHURCH movement. Many of the young men of the day say that they intend to have their fling while they are young. It is time enough to think of the church when they get old. Where is the young man who can say that he will live to be old? Where is the young man who, with certainty, can say that he will live another day? Delays always are dangerous, but a delay in making your peace with God is doubly so. Pick up your newspaper any day and see the long list of persons who, without a moment's warning, are plunged into eternity

THE CHURCH WANTS THE YOUNG MAN. THERE IS NOTH-ING MORE INSPIRING THAN TO SEE A CHURCH FILLED WITH YOUNG MEN. THE YOUNG MEN SHOULD BE LEADERS IN THE GO TO CHURCH MOVEMENT. THIS IS THE DAY OF THE YOUNG MAN. NO GREAT MOVEMENT CAN HOPE TO SUCCEED WITH-OUT HIS HELP. IF THE YOUNG MEN GET INTO THIS GO TO CHURCH MOVEMENT IT WILL BE THE TREMENDOUS SUCCESS IT DESERVES TO BE. THE YOUNG MAN WHO IS ANXIOUS FOR A FUTURE; THE YOUNG MAN WHO WOULD EARN THE RE-SPECT OF THE COMMUNITY; THE YOUNG MAN WHO WANTS TO MAKE GOOD WILL GO TO CHURCH. HE WILL BE SEEN IN CHURCH EVERY SUNDAY.

The really great men of the country went to church when they were boys. They went to church when they were young men. And they GO TO CHURCH today. Their greatness in life may be traced to GOING TO CHURCH. The church is not alone for the old men and the old women. It is for the young. It is for the strong. It is for the vigorous.

Yes; the church needs the young men. The young women do not need urging. They GO TO CHURCH. Let all young men follow their good example.

An Appeal to Students

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE ent of Men, Moody Bible Institut

TEXT-Study to shew thyself approved into God.-II Timothy 2:15. Mr. Gladstone was once asked what was the leading question in England at that time. He replied that there was but one leading question at that time, or at any time, and that was the question of one's relation to the Lord Jesus Christ. He then went on to say that the brainiest men were those who paid most attention to this subject. "I have known personally all the men who have been prominent in England during the last fifty years, in business, politics, or literature, and of the sixty most prominent men, fifty-four have been professing Christians." If Mr. Gladstone was right, and if the question of one's relation to Christ is the leading question which confronts a student, it is very important that he settle it early. Indeed this question lies at the basis of all education. What is the real object of education? It is to increase one's capacity to know God, and to make him known to others. This is what education is for, what life is for. "And this is life eternal that they should know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent" (John 17:3). 1. The keenest delight of which we are capable comes to us from knowing God. When the devout astronomer Kepler made his great discovery, he exclaimed, "O God, I think thy thoughts after thee." There is no in our lives. If this be true, then education is not optional with us, but imperative. We are bound to cultivate every talent which we possess, because each is an avenue through which God can reveal himself to us. We are bound to open every window of our soul "towards Jerusalem," and let in the light of God's glorious

II. The superior advantages which students enjoy make it doubly important that they should become acquainted early with the Lord Jesus. Education enlarges one's capacity to see and foresee, to do and to undo. It multiplies his influence, and thus increases his responsibility, since the welfare of others depends upon his action and attitude. No educated person can possibly live a Christless life without leading others to do the same. This consideration should have great weight. A professor in a large military school recently told the writer that it was the thought of his influence with the boys which led him to decide for God and put himself on record as a Christian.

III. Again, the peculiar temptations which confront a student make an acquaintance with Jesus indispensable.

Among these may be mentioned: (a) The freedom from home restraint. The strong, steadying hand of the father and the indescribable influence of the mother is lacking. There is no younger brother or sister to be considered, not even the restraining influence of someone else's sister. The consequence is that one grows selfish and comes to think that all the world was made for him.

(b) The petty vices which prevail side of the writer in college sat the ing sentiment against the drink trafvaledictorian of the class. He was and more frequent, and having no ac- intoxicants. Possibly he sees some of his instructors, for whose ability he has the highest respect, utterly indifferent to the claims of the Gospel. Literature is full of covert sneers at religion. Some, indeed, think it a sign of superior intellect to doubt, but this is a mistake. It is sometimes a sign of spiritual blindness, and often PAY TAXES WITH MONEY. al obliquity. A large part of the skepticism of students is of the heart rather than of the head.

WILL GET THEIR EYES OPENED.

"When liquor is put out of America I believe it will be by the men who drink," says Hon. Seaborn Wright of Georgia. "If they could realize how they are being deceived there would tion. be ten thousand Boston tea parties today."

"Do you know," he continued," that | Saturdays to 9:30 p. m. it costs less than twenty cents to make one gallon of whisky? Then why is it that the man who drinks pays two or three dollars for an article which costs less than twenty cents to produce? I wonder how many men who drink stop to ask, 'Why do I pay twelve hundred per cent above the cost to produce it, twelve hundred per cent more than my father paid before the Civil war?' The answer is simple. The federal government has placed a revenue of one dollar and ten cents on each gallon of liquor. If it ended there then a revenue of two billion dollars would be paid. But the manufacturer turns to his clerk and says. 'Add the cost of production to the price.' Never on earth has the liquor trust paid one dollar to the federal government and it never will."

NORTH CAROLINA CONDITIONS.

Speaking of the conditions in North Carolina, Mr. M. L. Shipman, state commissioner of labor, says: "Whisky distilleries have been displaced with industrial plants and over the remains of the saloon have been erected splendid school buildings and magnificent church edifices. In Gaston county alone 26 distilleries were in operation under former conditions. It now boasts of 47 textile plants, employing more than 7,000 people, and makes the further claim of having one of the finest systems of public schools in the state. This condition prevails generally throughout the commonwealth. Instead of spending their weekly earnings in saloons, and frequently in police stations, the wageearners of North Carolina are now providing an abundance of wholesome food and adequate clothing for their

EFFECT OF A GLASS OF BEER.

It has been scientifically demonstrated by experiments made in the Swedish army that even a small quantity of alcohol decreases the marksmanship of the man behind the gun. Under Lieutenant Bengt Boy a squad of soldiers were put through a test after having gone without beer for a certain period of time. Out of a total of 30 targets their average was 23

Later these same soldiers were allowed a glass of beer apiece one evening and another glass the following morning, and the average number of hits that afternoon was three. To check up this result which seemed out of reason, another test without beer was made some days later, when these same soldiers averaged 26 hits.

BREWERIES REPLACED.

From Spokane, Wash., comes word that the Dollar Brewery building, located on the fort grounds, is being torn down to make way for a paper mill. The North Yakima brewery is to be connected with a fruit preserving and fruit canning factory, and will also make grape juice, vinegar and other fruit extracts. The manager of this brewery is not only reconciled to but is enthusiastic over the change. Thousands of tons of fruit go to waste every year in Washington and Oregon, and, he says, a great industry can be built up in the packing and canning business which will bring great prosperity to these states.

The Associated Charities of Columbus, O., says the organization gave aid to one in every forty people in the city last year. It gives fifteen causes for the necessity of such assistance, and intemperance heads the list.

LIQUOR IS BARRED.

The training school for nurses, conducted in connection with the Ithaca City Hospital has recently been officially recognized and approved by the state department of education.

The local training school was established about a year ago and at first commencement, which will be held in the near future, a class of eight young women will be graduated. The state approval of the local school, which was given by Commissioner of Education Augustus Downing gave the graduates of the local institution the right to take the state board examinations for registered nurse, no others being allowed to take the examinations or use the title "registered nurse."
