The Idle Editor.
If any of you folks think it is an easy job to get up a newspaper every week, you should try it. Just for a sample of what it is like, sit down some leisure moment and write a few items describing such local events as you can call to mind. Then reflect that a sheet of note paper will contain about enough matter for two inches or one tenth of a column. Now fill from five to ten columns every week, hustle the subscribers, look after the funds, see to the advertising, make up the forms, run the press, take a turn at typesetting, kick the job press a few thousand times, and you have an idea of what a country editor does for a pastime.
—Rhea County News.

Uncle Eben.
"Some men gits credit foh habbin' a good disposition," said Uncle Eben, "mos'ly because dey is so fixed—that dey's in a position to have purty much deir own way."

A WORD FOR MOTHERS
It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.
If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excited; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.
It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.
Scott's is strengthening thousands of mothers—and will help you. No alcohol.

Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. W. H. Lane attended the Sunday School convention in Auburn last Wednesday.

Rev. E. F. Nedrow returned home from the conference at Hershey, Pa., last Thursday evening. One hundred thousand people attended the conference on Sunday and there were between 17,000 and 25,000 automobiles there. Mr. Nedrow will give his report next Sunday morning and the subject for the evening service will be "A Model Preacher."

Mrs. Henry Campbell's mother, Mrs. Shields, and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, arrived here last week from Missouri to spend part of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weibly entertained Paul Faba and family and Mr. and Mrs. D. Van Nest Sunday. Clarence Bower has purchased a new Maxwell car.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Swayze drove to Moravia and Locke last week and visited friends a few days.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler to take from our midst our brother, Sir Knight Commander W. A. Smith, and that while we mourn at the loss, we submit to the Divine will, therefore be it

Resolved: That we as members of North Lansing Tent, No. 833, K. O. T. M., extend a fraternal sympathy to the sorrowing family, and brothers, praying that Divine consolation in all its infinite tenderness may be bountifully vouchsafed to them;

Resolved: That we drape our charter in mourning for a period of sixty days, that a copy of these resolutions be sent the wife and daughters, and to THE GENOA TRIBUNE for publication, and be placed on the records of our order.

Mrs. Josiah Streeter was in Auburn part of last week.

Frank Main and wife of Ledyard called on relatives in this place Thursday.

Truthful Anyhow.

A census taker made his rounds in an isolated village. He gave one of his official papers to a woman that she might fill in the required answers. One of the questions, instead of reading, "Married or single," had it, "Conditions as to marriage." The woman filled in the answer thus: "Awful hard up before. Wuss after."

West Venice.

June 14—The Wilburite Friends have been holding quarterly meeting at the church north of Poplar Ridge. There were quite a number present from across the lake, a minister from North Carolina, also Mr. and Mrs. Copeland and son from North Carolina and some from Pennsylvania and Ohio. There were quite large audiences both at the forenoon and afternoon meetings.

Mrs. M. Louisa Moon and daughter Marion of Woodbourne, Pa., were attending the meetings and visiting their cousins. They were at J. W. Cook's from Saturday afternoon until Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brill and son Kenneth of King Ferry were callers at Jesse Cook's Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. W. Cook is quite poorly with the grip.

Mrs. Emeline Shaw has very poor health.

Mr. and Mrs. Titus VanMarter of Syracuse were visiting Mrs. VanMarter's mother, Mrs. Susie Haines, Sunday.

Mrs. Susie Haines is making great improvements and enlarging her barn. J. H. Peckham of Poplar Ridge is the carpenter in charge of the work.

J. W. Corey made a couple of trips across the lake the past week. Mr. Corey is making a lot of improvements on the buildings on his east farm.

Beautiful weather—everything is growing especially weeds. Locust trees are in bloom the latest this year we ever saw them.

Jesse H. Cook is quite a sufferer from a carbuncle.

East Genoa.

June 15—Mrs. Oscar Tift of Moravia was a Monday caller at Frances Bothwell's.

There will be an ice cream social at the home of Miss Celia Atwood on Thursday evening, June 24, for the benefit of the church. Everybody invited.

Frank Gillespie and wife of Genoa and Arthur Landon and family of Poplar Ridge were calling on relatives here Sunday last.

James Lane and family visited their daughter, Mrs. Raymond Karn, Sunday last. Raymond's mother visited them also.

Mrs. Amorella Young and Bert Smith and wife accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Myron Canaday of Chicago to Moravia last week. Mrs. Canaday was formerly Miss Ruby Tift.

Joel Coon and wife are spending a few days with relatives in Moravia. Warren Westmiller has gone to work for David Raynor.

Mrs. Fred A. Bothwell and children are spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Teeter, at East Venice.

Mrs. Ida Lester is in quite poor health. We hope she may improve rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Younglove attended the funeral of Wm. Smith at North Lansing Sunday last.

Venice Center.

June 15—John Owens spent Sunday in Syracuse.

School closed Friday. The teacher, Miss Ketchum, invited the mothers to be present in the afternoon at which time she treated all to ice cream. Miss Ketchum remained until Sunday when she returned to her home in the east part of the town.

Mrs. L. E. Wood and sons, Theodore and wife, Floyd and a lady friend of Cortland, and Earl of Syracuse were in town Sunday, coming with two autos.

John Owens has sold his property here to Leo Heffernan. Possession at once.

Stephen Donovan fell from a load of baled hay on Thursday last week, a bale falling upon him and injuring his back quite badly.

Frank Mosher is preparing to build a barn.

Wm. Whitman has added a nice large porch to his residence, also treated the house to a coat of paint, both of which adds very much to the appearance.

R. J. Coulson's house with its new dress and other improvements looks very neat.

King Ferry.

June 15—Mrs. Howard Pidcock spent Friday in Auburn. Her daughter, Miss Rose Pidcock of Syracuse, accompanied her home for over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Finmore and son, accompanied by Jay Shaw and family all of Syracuse, motored Sunday to the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Shaw. Miss Mary Shaw of Ithaca is also spending a few days with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Turney and children spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. M. Cannon, of Poplar Ridge.

Sunshine choir meets on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The decorator begins his work in the church on next Tuesday. The contract for this work is let for $245.

Prayer meeting on Thursday evening.

The amount raised for the Board of Sunday school work last Sunday was about $43.

Rev. and Mrs. Perry leave King Ferry for their vacation on July 5, the last church service before vacation being July 4, when communion of the Lord's Supper will be administered and new members received.

Inasmuch as the church is behind in the payment of its current expenses, at present, it would be much appreciated if the pledges could be paid now.

Ledyard.

June 14—Even the slight shower of yesterday was welcomed as the roads were very dusty and crops suffered for rain.

The people of Ledyard are feeling quite isolated now as the road west of us is closed on account of bridge building, and the bridge north of the church is up and we can only go south as far as the town line.

Children's day was observed at the church here yesterday. A small attendance on account of the condition of the roads.

Mrs. Roy Holland is improving from injuries received in the automobile accident, although still confined to the bed.

Miss Marilla Starkweather closed her school here Friday, after another year of successful work, with a picnic for the school which was much enjoyed by the scholars. She has been engaged for the coming year.

Roy Holland and daughters and Miss Mary Fallon were in Auburn on Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Bradt is visiting her granddaughters in Venice.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Parmenter and Mr. and Mrs. F. Main were at the county seat on Wednesday.

A straw stack on the farm of Frank Main took fire on Saturday about 3 o'clock and burned to the ground. Fortunately there was not much wind at the time so that the farm buildings were saved. It necessitated an all night watch for the men.

Chaffee Reunion.

The seventh annual reunion of the Chaffee family will be held at the home of Dana Chaffee at South Lansing on Saturday, June 26, 1915. All relatives cordially invited.

Corra Chaffee, Sec'y.

Mrs. Thos. Donovan, who has been ill with typhoid fever at the home of her brother, James Whalen, is recovering quite rapidly.

Mrs. Eunice Battey is the guest of her nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Gray near Scipioville.

Mrs. Brock of Ledyard spent Thursday last with her cousin, Mrs. Herbert Brewster.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. White and A. S. Ward were Sunday guests of friends in Scipio.

Regents examinations are bringing a good many pupils from other schools.

Friends quarterly meeting at the Wilberite meeting house also brought a good many strangers to town.

Mrs. Geo. Wallace of Canandaigua is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Collins.

If any who have been pupils at S. S. S. have not received an announcement of the reunion on Wednesday, June 24, all day, please remember that it was a mistake and be sure to come.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wycoff and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wycoff and son Paul of Aurora were Saturday callers at Mrs. M. C. Hudson's. They were driving a new Reo.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. DeShong and son Claude with James Van Buskirk and David Armistead also of Aurora called at the same place on Friday last.

Armena DeCamp Woodruff.

Mrs. Armena Woodruff died at her home in North Lansing Sunday evening, May 30, 1915, aged 71 years.

Funeral on Wednesday, June 2, at the M. E. church, Rev. F. J. Allington officiating. Mrs. Woodruff had lived all her life in or near North Lansing. She had been in very poor health for many years, but had been confined to the bed only a few weeks, and was a great sufferer. She leaves an only child, Jay Woodruff, and his wife and one grandson, four sisters and one brother. She belonged to a large family, and up to the time of her death there were five sisters, all widows. Early in life she was married to Ezekiel Woodruff of North Lansing. He died twenty years ago. Burial was in North Lansing rural cemetery.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

FRIENDLY ADVICE.

A Parting Shot by Josh Billings to a Cheeky Drummer.

About Christmas time once the some time famous Josh Billings, humorist, was on his way to his old home at Lanesboro, Mass. On the train were three traveling men who wanted a game of whist. One of them pointed to the unpretentious and unprepossessing Josh and said:

"Let's ask Rubie into the game and bomb some of the hayseed out of his hair."

"My venerable friend," he said as he laid his hand on the shoulder of the old man, "will you join us in a game of whist?"

"Ya-as; we will get there in about three hours," replied Josh, putting his hand to his ear.

"You don't seem to understand," said the young fellow in a louder tone. "We want you to take a hand!"

"Ya-as; the stard o' corn has been unusual good this year."

"My friend," the young fellow then yelled, "will you take a hand in a game?"

"Ya-as; I was tellin' Mandy this mornin' how plenty an' how fat the game is this year."

"Oh, you go to the devil!" shouted the young fellow as he took his seat, while the other drummers unmercifully pestered him.

When Lanesboro was reached the old fellow got up, handed one of his Josh Billings cards to each one of the trip and then said to his interlocutor:

"Young man, while you are traveling on your cheek don't get any hayseed on your clothes or the other drummers will take you for a Rubie and get you into some game and skin you."

Bright and Dark Days.

There are bright days and dark days, and we must take advantage of the former and be as little discouraged as possible by the latter. They are all in a lifetime.

A Tramp of Resource.

Much experience of thirsty tramps had caused the author of "An English Holiday," J. J. Hissey, to foreknow almost exactly what they would say to

"I BE MORTAL THIRSTY."
One day, when sending his motorcar slowly along a shady English road, he met one of this guild, who accosted him with the preliminary touch of his cap. Mr. Hissey anticipated him by exclaiming:

"I be mortal thirsty! Have you, good sir, the price of a glass of ale about you? I've driven nearly fifty miles to-day, and since the morning not a bite of food has passed my lips."

The look of astonishment that tramp gave me was a delight to observe. But this tramp was a man of ready resource, and, seeing I was a hopeless case, he rose to the occasion and promptly exclaimed, with what dignity he could command and with a comically serious expression:

"If there were a policeman in sight I would give you in charge for begging, that I would!"

Suits or Suit.

Pat had seen the word "suit" used in connection with furniture. Being in need of bedroom comforts, he entered a store with the purpose of buying some.

"Pat—Hey yes a cheap bedroom suit? Clerk (producing a pair of pajamas)—How would this do?"

And the fight was on.—Minnesota Minnehaba.

WOMEN WATCH CONVENTION

Suffragists Will Sleep With One Eye on Albany Until the Constitutional Delegates Decide Fate of Suffrage Amendment.

Keeping up with suffrage is a strenuous occupation that grows more strenuous as each day brings the Woman Suffrage amendment nearer to Nov. 2, which will be "suffrage day at the polls." As if suffragists didn't have enough to do in conducting the educational and political campaigns always necessary to keep any issue foremost in the minds of voters, along comes the constitutional convention with all sorts of possibilities up its sleeve.

One of the leaders of the woman movement, who is most deeply interested in the deliberations of the convention and most acutely alive to the whole political situation, is Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, chairman of the publicity council of the Empire State Campaign Committee for Woman Suffrage. Mrs. Whitehouse says frankly that she does not assume to comprehend the intricacies of constitutional law and precedent involved in the present crisis. What she does comprehend is that no matter how far-minded the members of the convention may be, no matter how honorable their intentions, there are pitfalls to be watched lest suffrage be ditched, and precautions to be insisted on lest suffrage be overlooked.

"Part of the complication, of course," she reminds you, "grows out of the fact that the constitution now in force provides that if two amendments on the same subject are submitted to the voters, one coming from the legislature and one from the constitutional convention, the one submitted by the convention supercedes the one submitted by the legislature."

For instance, it is said that there is apt to be some minor amendment proposed, changing the length of residence in a district now required of a voter. In that case such amendment, innocent as it seems, would knock the woman suffrage amendment into a cocked hat. Even if both carried, the woman suffrage amendment would be void, because it wouldn't be the one submitted by the convention.

Two convention delegates have come to the rescue, one with a resolution, the other with an amendment. One is Herbert Parsons; the other is Louis Marshall. Mr. Parsons' plan is under fire, because resolutions are not in order in this convention, according to expert opinion. Mr. Marshall's amendment provides that if the legislature's woman suffrage amendment be ratified at the polls it shall be construed as a part of the constitution, whether the voters decide for the old constitution or for the new one submitted by the convention.

"Prominent members of the convention, suffragists and anti-suffragists alike," says Mrs. Whitehouse, "assure us that some action, not yet determined, will be taken to insure a clean cut decision binding on the new constitution. Senator Root advises us to go home and devote our attention exclusively to the voters and trust the convention to take care of our interests."

"Well, we accept the assurances and go home. Next morning come reports that a new amendment has been offered requiring that an amendment to enfranchise a class must be re-approved by a majority of that class, after the voters have accepted it. That is just a scheme to defer the coming of suffrage. Of course the women would vote it in when it got to them, but meantime we are kept waiting just that much longer for the ballot. Besides to require a majority of all of a certain class to vote on any constitutional amendment is a burden against which all campaign leaders rightly protest. The constitutional convention itself is sitting by the grace of the decision of just 16 per cent of the voters of New York state."

This is the literal truth. Eighty-four per cent of the men of New York did not care enough about a constitution to vote whether the Empire State should have a constitutional convention or not. Of the 16 per cent who did vote a little more than 8 per cent (1,300 voters more than the 8 per cent to be exact) voted for the convention. A little less than 8 per cent voted against it. Eighty-four out of every one hundred men stayed at home and plowed or kept shop!

"Who knows what new amendment, directly or indirectly affecting suffrage will be introduced from one day to another?" asks Mrs. Whitehouse. "The friends of suffrage in the convention will do what they can, no doubt, but their attention is given to many things. The attention of the suffragists is concentrated. Just as a devoted but inexperienced mother feels she can care for her own child better than any professional nurse, so the suffragists feel that they, as well as friendly statesmen and far-minded foes, must watch the action of the constitutional convention."

"Certainly the convention situation adds greatly to the stress and anxieties of a campaign that was already anxious and stressful enough. Now and then anti-suffragists make a division of labor between the sexes and classify voting as 'men's work.' Voting is not work. It should never in this world be set over in any such classification. Voting is the more significant matter of voicing opinion as to the conditions under which all classifications of work shall be done. But trying to get the vote is work and hard work, such hard work that it is not much wonder that suffragists yearn for the actual 'burden of the ballot'—yearn for that more leisureed time ahead when dropping a bit of paper into a ballot box will take the place of the endless canvassing and street meetings and mass meetings and suffrage teas and baseball games and parades and suffrage shops and lunch rooms and publicity schemes which today are required of women in order to convince the public that suffrage has got to come."

SUFFRAGE DAY ON THE DIAMOND.

Society Turns Out in Force to See Giants and Cubs Play Ball.

Suffragists swarmed into the Polo Grounds on May 18 to see the battle between the Giants and the Cubs. It was "Suffrage day on the diamond," by arrangement with the New York Baseball Club. For weeks suffrage fans had been in training trying to master the fine points of the game from the viewpoint of baseball fans. If the result left something to be desired, especially in the way of a baseball vocabulary, the fusion of suffrage and baseball interests certainly resulted in a great turnout for the game on suffrage day. Society, headed by Mrs. John Jacob Astor, was there in force. Mrs. Bourke Cockran, who used to captain a baseball nine herself when her hair hung down her back in a pigtail, had a box full of friends, to whom she explained the game with the finesse of Ty Cobb. Mrs. Richard Derby, she who was Ethel Roosevelt, was another interested box hostess. In fact, from tip to tip the big horseshoe of boxes looked not unlike the other big horseshoe on opening night at the Metropolitan in so far as well known people were concerned.

The suffragists had offered $5 a run to Giants and Cubs alike, so that interest in the outcome was pecuniary as well as aesthetic. Only one man, Schulte of the Chicago team, made any inroad on the suffrage strong box. Before the game ended, however, so many suffrage fans had evolved into perfectly good baseball fans that there were reckless promises of $10, $25—any old number of dollars—to the Giant who would save the day for little old New York.

"Well, it's over," said one suffragist who had been actively identified with the "big stunt" of getting suffrage out on the diamond, "and I believe that in the result suffrage fans know more about baseball and baseball fans know more about suffrage. Anyway, life is going to be a lot simpler for me now that I am off the job of trying to make women talk baseball intelligently."

SUFFRAGE CAMPAIGN FUND.

More Than Committee Asked Pledged in One Afternoon.

The suffrage luncheon given at the Astor hotel, New York city, in May by the Empire State campaign committee was attended by 1,400 men and women. Governor Whitman was not able to be present, but Mrs. Catt, who presided, introduced Mrs. Whitman as the "first lady of the state." After stirring speeches by Granville Barker, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw and Dudley Field Malone Mrs. Catt told the guests that the campaign fund must be brought up to $150,000.

At the great mass meeting at Carnegie hall last November $105,000 was raised, and $10,000 had been pledged on condition that the fund reach $140,000 by May 15. So it was obviously necessary to raise $35,000 that afternoon. The pledges kept pouring in until $50,000 had been added to the fund, $15,000 more than the high water mark asked for by the committee.

Mrs. Catt referred to the fact that the committee was accused of raising this sum to buy votes and added, "We need 900,000 votes, and with $150,000 we could give 24 cents apiece for them." She also took that occasion to deny the story recently published in the papers that within a month the Leslie bequest would be available for suffrage work. Many suffragists have felt that their hard earned dollars would not be needed when this sum, which the papers say equals $1,500,000, was turned over. Mrs. Catt said that even if Mrs. Leslie's will were eventually respected there was no hope that a dollar of the estate would be paid in until long after election.

MODEL FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Building at Clarksville, Mo., Might Be Copied to Advantage by Country Communities.

The McDannold rural school, located two and a half miles from Clarksville, Pike county, Missouri, is considered the prettiest country schoolhouse in that state.

It was made possible by the public spirit of E. C. Dameron, a wealthy landowner of the county, who desired his children to attend a country school, but did not consider the old wooden building good enough for them or the other youngsters of the district. Mr. Dameron furnished the plans and the brick, the county furnished the rest of the material and the labor.

The interior of the building is thoroughly modern and is quite in keeping with the outside appearance. The vines, shrubbery and ornamental trees were furnished by Mr. Dameron, and his landscape gardener keeps them in trim.

Dean W. W. Charters of the school of education of the University of Missouri is using this school as an example in his campaign for the beautification of rural schools and their surroundings.—Exchange.

WORK FOR COMING SUMMER

Alabama City Has Plans for Beautification That Are Deserving of Imitation.

"We are in receipt of a letter from United States Senator Frank S. White," said Prof. E. E. Smith, chairman of the executive committee of the Birmingham (Ala.) Home and School Garden association, "in which he offers to send the usual vegetable and flower seed to persons desiring them."

"The senator wrote as follows: 'As you are aware, members of congress are furnished with vegetable and flower seed and farm bulletins on home gardening, for distribution among their constituents. If anyone desires vegetable and flower seeds, or the bulletins on home gardening, and will drop me a postal, I shall gladly send them what they desire.'"

"Our association wishes to encourage children particularly to write a postal to Senator White. We have now or will have in two weeks an approximate enrollment in this association of 10,000 children, and through them we hope to work wonders in the city beautiful work of the coming summer."

"This association is working under the auspices and supervision of the city government and we intend to create as much enthusiasm and love of flowers among children as we possibly can."

The idea might well be copied in the several states.

Ideal Civic Center.

A civic center should have a central location, and all buildings should harmonize and group with each other so as to form a compact unit system.

It should contain the municipal and federal buildings, such as the city hall, courthouse, hall of records, federal court building and various city departmental buildings.

Its central location should make it readily accessible from all parts of the city and surrounding suburban districts. Several main arteries of traffic should radiate from the civic center, making it the center of the city's street plan, the keystone in the arch of its design.

Few Live to Be 100 Years Old.

According to census reports, persons who live to be one hundred years or more are a good deal like the snakes of Ireland—very scarce. The United States, with a population of more than ninety millions, is given credit for only 46. Germany's population is 60,000,000, and its quota of centenarians is 70. Great Britain, with a population of 46,000,000, has 94. France, with 40,000,000, claims 164. Bulgaria, with 4,000,000 inhabitants, boasts of 3,300, and Roumania, with 6,000,000 people, has 3,320 centenarians. The last named little countries eat little meat and drink a great deal of sour milk, and to this fact some attribute their much greater longevity.

MAKING BEST OF DIRT HIGHWAYS

Many Communities Unable to Maintain Other Roads.

THE GRADER AND DRAG.

The Trouble with the Good Road Movement is That in Many Communities It Gets Mixed Up in the Minds of Taxpayers With the Motor Speedway.

The trouble with the good road movement in nine out of ten neighborhoods is that it gets mixed up in the minds of the taxpayers with the motor speedway and the trail of the joy rider, says a contributor to the Farm Progress. A good many farmers are getting automobiles and more farmers will get them in the future, but even this has failed to do much toward removing the prejudice against the building of permanent roads.

There are some communities that are financially able to build the wide, permanent, brick, concrete or macadam roadways. Most communities are unable to assume such a burden. The dirt road is about the best we can look forward to, despite the statements of the radical road builders. We do not care to tax ourselves to death at the present time, and we dislike to bend our backs to the burden of paying off a series of road bonds maturing at the end of twenty or thirty years and at the same time keeping up and maintaining the splendid but costly roads.

Therefore a great many of the plain people, those who suffer most from bad roads, are in favor of setting about the task of doing the best we can with the dirt highways. We would like the sort of a road that machines could travel over twelve months in the year, but feeling that these are out of our reach we are going to do the best we can with what we have and hope for the days when federal and state aid will really amount to something. This means that we are taking a great deal more interest in the building, repair and dragging of the none too good highways that we now have.

Certainly a great deal can be done by the community that makes up its mind to help keep the roads in good shape. One man in a district can, by dragging the trails, make the difference easily seen. I was in northwest Missouri for a week in the fall of 1914, and I saw work being done that should be copied.

I was visiting a man who lived three and a half miles from town, and he, his sons or some one of his hired men spent a part of a day dragging the roads every week. They did not wait for the "road boss" to "warn" everybody out for a "road working," but whenever they found that they had an hour or two of time that could be spared they hitched up to a road drag of the D. Ward King pattern and smoothed some of the bumps off the highway. Sunshine or freezing made but little difference on these roads that were being steadily worked down twelve months in the year. That is the kind of work that will count, particularly where you can get a whole neighborhood interested.

By the use of the grader in summer and spring and the road drag in fall, winter, spring and summer we can put the surfaces of these dirt roads in such shape that they will be reasonably passable all the year round. Then we ought to turn our attention to narrowing the actual roadway down to a track of not more than sixteen feet in width. What is the use of working, grading and dragging a full thirty foot width of track? I have no idea who is responsible for the idea that a country highway ought to have a sixty foot right of way, but whoever he was he made a sad and costly mistake. We will be forced to pay more attention also to bridges and culvert work. It is remarkable to see how easily the public money can be wasted in this item.

By making the most of our present roads and resources we may possibly get to a point where we can build more permanently. At least we should not give up all hope simply because we cannot have the very latest thing in permanent highways.

THE ROAD MAKER.

The civilized man makes roads; the savage does not. That is the safest test of civilization.

Among us, in all communities, are individuals who are not really civilized. They do not take any interest in roads.

A man's scale in civilization is very correctly tested by his attitude toward the stone which has rolled into the road or the tree which has blown down across it. The man who drives around the obstacle day after day is one sort of man; the one who stops his team and rolls or drags it away is another. And a person passing along a road which he does not expect to retrace who removes the obstruction for the sake of the stranger who comes after him responds to a very high test of civilization. He feels socially.

When the snow piles up in the road the man who goes ahead and breaks the path for others bears the burden which he who has made progress always must bear. There is snow in every road—to co-operation, to better schools, to better business methods. There must be road breakers for every path. The road maker is the great civilizer.—Farm and Fireside.

ADVOCATES BRICK ROADS.

Initial Cost Comparatively Heavy, but Maintenance Much Less.

W. O. Griffith, editor of the Monthly Bulletin of the Automobile Club of Philadelphia, has studied the results of road building of various kinds in different states and concludes that brick roads are far superior for mixed heavy traffic, including horses and motor-trucks, as well as pleasure cars.

Cut stone, or Belgian blocks, and brick are both too noisy for use in cities, where wood blocks are the most efficient. For building roads in the country, cut stone is too expensive, and where there is heavy traffic the cost of maintenance of macadam roads is also too expensive. Mr. Griffith advocates the use of brick on all well traveled roads as real economy. The initial cost of laying down good macadam road varies from $8,000 to $12,000 per mile, and brick road varies from $12,000 to $16,000 per mile. The maintenance cost of macadam road, however, is approximately $1,000 per mile per year, while for brick it is estimated at $75 per mile per year—in fact, New Jersey has spent $1,500 per mile per year for her macadam roads.

"The vital principle in road construction," Mr. Griffith says, "is that of the cost of maintenance. New York has used patent bituminous pavements since 1908, and the experience of western New York in the vicinity of Rochester and Buffalo is that for the market roads in the towns, where horse traffic is heavy, brick is the only possible road to use, although its first cost is high. They find that for high speed automobile roads, bituminous surfaces of a good grade, such as coated stone, have been found satisfactory. However, on such roads where horse traffic becomes heavy, or at curves, maintenance cost immediately increases rapidly, while the same does not appear to be the case with brick roads under similar conditions."

GOOD ROADS MOVEMENT.

Remarkable Progress Made in United States During Recent Years.

That remarkable progress has been made in the building of good roads throughout the United States during the past few years is proved by data recently published in the official Good Roads Year Book for 1915. It has been found that more than 34,000 miles of surfaced roads have been constructed during 1913 and 1914 and that during the ten year period from 1904 to 1914 more than 90,000 miles have been completed. That this progress has been really amazing may be understood from the fact that in 1904 there were only 153,000 miles of surfaced roads of all types in the United States. That the movement is attaining momentum as it goes is proved by the fact that while the average mileage constructed per annum during the past ten years is 9,000 miles, the total completed for 1914 exceeded 18,000 miles. The report shows that something like 30,000 miles of highway have been completed with the aid of state funds, of which over $200,000,000 have been expended. The state aid movement began in 1892 and has therefore continued for twenty-two years. Only recently has it got well under way, as the results accomplished for 1913 and 1914 comprise a total of 10,000 miles of state aid highways completed, or in two years' time one-third of the entire mileage constructed with the aid of state funds has been completed.

Only six states now out of a total of forty-eight are without state highway departments, and thirty states have granted actual money aid to the building of roads.

Highway Commission and Earth Road.

In some of the states, particularly those in the Mississippi valley, the state highway commissions are rendering valuable aid in the improvement of earth roads. These commissions prepare addresses and issue bulletins on road subjects, and some of them have officials who give at least a part of their time to the earth roads. Of these commissions perhaps that of Iowa is doing more for earth roads than that of any other state.

Genoa Presbyterian Church.

Morning service at 11 o'clock. Every one cordially invited to attend. Children's day last Sunday brought out a fine congregation. Those in charge of the program are to be warmly congratulated upon the quality of the program and upon the manner in which it was rendered. The program, under the direction of Mrs. Keefe and committee, was thoroughly appreciated by the large congregation present. Special musical numbers were: A solo by Miss Mary Hahn, a duet by Misses Virginia and Emma Bush, and several selections by a chorus of young people from the church. The rest of the program consisted of recitations by Helen Armstrong, Blair Knapp, Randolph Hagin, Clifton Myer and by a drill given by six girls of the school. The decorations consisted of ferns, peonies, daisies and lilies and were very pretty.

Sunday school at 12. Efforts will be made to close the school promptly at 1 o'clock. Classes for those of all ages. Because of the Children's day program last Sunday, there was no session of the school that day.

Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Topic: "Christ's Call to the Young Women of To-day." Last Sunday the topic was: "The Call to the Young Men." Such topics are of interest to the young people because of their especial timeliness.

Evening service at 7:30 o'clock. We hope to make this a service of unusual helpfulness in that it is to be an echo meeting of the great Sunday school convention held in Auburn last week, and to which a delegate from our school went. Our school was represented by many different ones who attended certain sessions. It is hoped to have a report from our delegate, and also brief impressions gained by other visitors. Especially if you were unable to attend the convention, you are urged to attend this service next Sunday night.

Mid-week service Thursday evening at 7:45. Topic: "The Reward of Kindness"—Matt 10:42.

Friday evening of this week the young people of the Christian Endeavor society will meet on the lawn of R. W. Hurlbut for a social evening. In case of rain, the gathering will be held in the upper room of the church. The young people of the church are urged to come and spend a social evening together.

Big Celebration at Genoa.

A Fourth of July celebration will be held on the fair grounds at Genoa on Saturday, July 3, for the benefit of St. Hilary's church, Genoa. It will be a big day of sports—baseball, horse racing, driving contest, running races, dancing and other games. The following prizes will be given: Slow race—1st prize, ton of coal, donated by J. D. Atwater; 2nd prize, box of cigars, donated by D. W. Smith.

Farmers' road horse race—1st, a $15 suit or $15 in trade, donated by Genoa Clothing Store; 2nd, 1/2 ton of coal donated by C. J. Wheeler.

Ladies' Driving contest—1st, a rocker; 2nd, copper tea kettle, donated by Banker Hardware Co.

1/2 mile bicycle race for boys—1st, pair of shoes, donated by R. & H. P. Mastin; 2nd, book, donated by F. C. Hagin.

Other prizes—Baseball and glove, donated by F. C. Hagin; bottle of perfume, donated by Hagin; ham, donated by Geo. D. Nettleton.

Baby Show, for babies under 2 years of age—Grand prize, Three Minute washing machine, donated by Peck & Hand.

Music will be furnished both afternoon and evening by "Happy Bill" Daniels' popular orchestra.

Dinner will be served during the day. Admission to grounds, 25 cts.

Auction Sale.

Ray and Fay Snyder will sell at public auction at the Snyder residence, 3 miles south of Genoa village Saturday, June 19, at 1 o'clock the following property: New milch cow, calf by side, 7 years old, extra good, 2 shoats, 30 hens and chickens, 40 potato crates, hoes, shovels, rakes, Dockash range, oil range, washing machine, bedsteads, beds, tables, stands, couch, lamps, general house-keeping goods. J. A. Greenfield, auctioneer.

We print noteheads, letterheads and envelopes for the farmer or business man at reasonable prices.

North Lansing.

Mrs. Knapp, the nurse, will stay with Mrs. Chas. Bower for a time.

Mrs. Esther Hill came on the evening train Friday night to attend Chas. Bower's funeral on Saturday. She stayed over night with Mrs. Small and returned to Cascade Saturday evening, where she is camping.

Ernest Teeter has recently put a very nice monument in the cemetery.

Benton Buck is running a new automobile.

Coral DeCamp is sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gay and their daughter of Genoa attended the funeral of Chas. Bower last Saturday at North Lansing.

The meeting of the Willing Workers had to be postponed because of the sickness of Coral DeCamp.

Mrs. Susie Schenck of Lansing, Florida, sent a box of oranges to her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Boyles, for her birthday, June 8, when she was 93 years old.

Harry Sandwick, the Groton mail carrier, comes through with his automobile.

June 14—Mr. Smith of Elmira has been spending some weeks with his children here—the late Will Smith and his family and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Boyer.

Mr. Filkins is driving a new car—very useful in his work.

Children's day exercises at the church June 27, at 2 p. m.

Coral DeCamp is better.

Grant Halsey, the teacher here, took his scholars on Friday for a picnic to Forty-foot falls.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Benton Buck next Wednesday afternoon, June 23, at which time the county president, Mrs. Mary B. Wood of Ithaca, will be present. A large attendance is expected.

Charles A. Bower was born in the town of Groton in August, 1843, and died at his home in North Lansing June 2, 1915. He had been in poor health all the spring, but most of the time he was around attending to his work. His last sickness was of three weeks' duration and he was very sick from the first. He came with his parents into the home where he died, when he was six years old and his home had been here his entire life since in the same house. He has spent much time in Michigan but his home has been here. Mr. Bower was a man highly respected by all. He was one of the early members of the Grange and in his boyhood he accepted Christ as his Saviour and the guide of his life, and joined the Baptist church. He was a Christian man. A man of integrity, he had a keen sense of right and wrong; a friend one could depend upon—the same kind of a friend in your absence, as when you were present; a good neighbor, kind and obliging. The world needs such men and they leave a vacancy when they go away. He was the son of Joseph and Prudy Bower, and thus belonged to the old Bower family of which five brothers came from Pennsylvania and from these sprang the large Bower family, the grandfather taking up land from the government, settling on the farm now owned by Frank Tarbell, and included the Lobdell farm, and where Wm. Pearce lives, and where Charles Bower lived and died. The old Bower house was built during the war of 1812. In 1871, Charles was married to Miss Helen Short of Pontiac, Mich., who survives him. The funeral was held on Saturday, June 5. Rev. F. J. Allington officiated. He spoke words of comfort and appreciation. Mrs. Mangang, a cousin, sang two selections tenderly and beautifully. The pall bearers were John Miller, Andrew Brink, Frank Tarbell and Edd Buck. There was a large gathering of friends and relatives from Ithaca, Groton, Locke, Moravia, Venice, Lansingville, and South Lansing. Burial in the original Bower plot in our beautiful cemetery. Great sympathy is felt for the widow, who has been in poor health for many years, and the only sister, Mrs. Sara Pearce. They were a very devoted family, and the separation is very hard to bear, but we bow with submission to the will of One who never makes a mistake, and doeth all things well.

If you have anything to sell, or you want anything, have lost if found an article, make it known through a special notice in THE TRIBUNE.

—During the electrical storm Sunday night between 11 and 12 o'clock, lightning struck a large barn on the farm of Manley Townsend in the town of Scipio, about two miles south of Fleming village, just over the town line in Scipio. The barn, wagon shed and a tool house were totally destroyed by fire with nearly all the contents. There was no stock in the barn. It is stated that the bolt seem to spread over the entire building and fired it in a dozen places, so that in a minute or two, it was a mass of flames. Wagons, harnesses, tools, baled hay and straw, about 250 bushels of oats, a quantity of barley and phosphate were destroyed. Loss partly covered by insurance.

HE TOOK THE CAKE.

A Story of William Black, the Novelist, and Mary Anderson.

One time when Mary Anderson was playing in "The Winter's Tale" in Dublin William Black, the novelist, who was very intimate with Miss Anderson and her family, insisted upon assuming the part of one of the supers who was dressed as a very old man with a venerable beard and locks that fell upon his shoulders.

"YOU TAKE IT."

was doing in a play in which neither Shakespeare nor the stage managers ever intended him to appear.

Presently came the time when it was the business of Perdita to distribute flowers among the peasants, among whom Black had his place. Miss Anderson, carrying on the practical jokes of the family circle, had prepared a surprise for this moment, and, having distributed flowers among the less favored supers, she handed to Black a large cake crowned with a wreath of laurel, saying as she did so, "You take it, in allusion to his triumphs in the contest of wits at the supper table."

To her consternation Black showed that he was quite prepared to carry out the jest, for, taking the cake from the hands of Perdita, he immediately distributed it in substantial portions to his hungry fellow supers who, finding it to be of excellent quality, began to munch it greedily, while the audience roared with laughter at the unusual sight until the curtain fell upon the scene.

Count Your Blessings.

Reflect upon your present blessings, of which every man has many; not on your past misfortunes, of which all men have some.—Charles Dickens.

Why Did He Do It?

One of the guests of a seaside boarding house had picked up a curiously shaped stone on the seashore that looked exactly like a half eaten crust of bread. It was being passed around the room, and the finder was evidently feeling pleased with himself at having found something really unique. Every one who saw it exclaimed how like a crust of bread it really was. It at last reached the quiet man in the corner, and the finder went up to him to get his opinion. "Yes," said the quiet man, "it is a striking resemblance. Didn't you think it was a crust of bread when you saw it on the sand?" "Yes," replied the proud finder. "I was completely taken in with it." "Then what on earth did you pick it up for?"

Started the Actor.

Wilton Lackaye had invited a San Francisco editor to dinner. "How about 7 o'clock?" asked Lackaye. "I can't," the editor said. "We have our conference at 7." "Conference?" Lackaye echoed. "Yes; we all get together every night and decide what shall go into next day's paper."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed Lackaye. "You don't mean to tell me you get out that paper deliberately?"—F. P. A. in New York Tribune.

An Article Balzac Didn't Write. Balzac was once asked by a French publisher to write an article on the Rue Richelieu. He named his terms, which today would not seem excessive, but the publisher considered them outrageous, whereupon Balzac replied: "If I am to describe the Rue Richelieu in a way worthy of the street and of myself, I must know it thoroughly and must not upon any account fail to investigate all that specially characterizes it. I shall have to commence by sneaking at the Cafe Cardinal; then I must buy a gun and a cravat pin at the two shops next door to each other. After that I must go to the tailor's at the corner of the Rue St. Marc."—"Oh, don't go any further than that," interrupted the publisher in alarm. "You would come to the Indian shop next, and things there are a fabulous price!"

The Scrap Book

Wanted Her Body.

An American woman invited to an English country house was assigned to the room of a gaunt looking governess, who solemnly transferred herself to another bedroom. The visitor, tired, soon fell asleep, and then: "Not until the first dismal streaks of dawn began to show did I wake, and then because of a presence in the room.

"I could plainly make it out, standing near the door—a tall form in white—and, while I looked, it moved, and, having moved, it spoke in a deep, throaty voice.

"I want my body," it said. "I don't know what kept me from fainting. I do know what kept me from screaming—it was because I was too frightened. I watched that dreadful figure move to a tall wardrobe in the corner and thrust its head and shoulders inside. I saw it tug and wrench something, and then turn toward me, holding the something in its hands. And then, in the brightening dawn, I saw that it was the stern looking governess, holding the waist of her dress!

"How on earth was I to know that in England a waist—even a shirt waist—is called a 'body,' I'd like to know?" demanded the young woman energetically. "I think I had a perfect right to be scared."—Youth's Companion.

Unattained. Deal gently with us, ye who read. Our latest hope is unfulfilled—The promise still outruns the deed; The tower, but not the spire, we build.

Our whitest pearl we never find; Our ripest fruit we never reach. The flowering moments of the mind Lose half their petals in our speech. —Holmes.

Quaintly Described. President Lincoln frequently showed that he knew how to avoid a direct answer and evade inquisitive visitors when he thought it was impolitic to make known his opinions. One wanted to know his opinion of Sheridan, who had just come from the west to take command of the cavalry under General Grant. Lincoln said:

"I'll tell you just what kind of a chap he is. He is one of those long armed fellows with short legs that can scratch his shins without having to stoop over."

Took No Chances.

John Sharp Williams stepped out of the senate chamber in response to the card of Bob Gates, who is a Washington correspondent of distinguished appearance and much political sapience. Bob asked him a number of questions, and then in parting he asked:

"By the way, senator, have you got a good cigar about you?" putting the request under the head of unfinished business.

"No, I haven't but one left, and I just now bit the end off it preparatory to lighting it," replied John Sharp.

"If I'd just been a minute or two sooner," suggested Bob.

"Not exactly," said the senator. "The fact is, when I started out here I bit the end off the cigar just for fear you might ask for it."—Detroit Free Press.

"Good Credit."

At a very fashionable and equally expensive tailor shop about town a certain middle aged, out of town customer discovered that he lacked sufficient change to pay for his humble purchase—a pair of gray gloves.

"May I charge them?" he asked. "I find I haven't my check book with me."

"What was the name," demanded the rather displeased tailor in peremptory manner.

He was told the name and address. "Oh, that's all right, sir," exclaimed the tailor, now beaming with exaggerated affability. "Your son trades here." —Yale Record.

The Other One.

A tourist relates the following reminiscence: "I was traveling through England on foot with a knapsack on my back and in company with a facetious friend of mine, and in our wanderings we came to an inn. It was late at night, but by the bright moonlight we were able to see that the sign bore a counterfeit presentation of two asses' heads, with this legend over the picture: 'When shall we three meet again?' We stood for a moment gazing at it. Then my friend went to the inn door and began thumping upon it with his cane, while the echoes rang through the house. I was just going to expostulate with him over his unseemly conduct when an upper window was thrown open, and the innkeeper thrust out his head and demanded what we wanted. 'That's all right, old man! Don't get excited!' called one of the friend in the most affable voice. 'There are only two asses' heads on the sign, and I just wanted to see the other one!'"

An Amended Epitaph.

Duncan's wife had the reputation of being a class shrew. When Duncan died his neighbors put a tombstone over his grave with the epitaph "Asleep in Peace."

Widow Duncan was wild. It was meant as a slam at her, and she knew it was. It meant that she did not let him sleep in peace when alive. "The neighbors assured her that it was not meant that way."

"Then it ought to say so." To please her they got a stonecutter to add, "We all believe that he did have peace here—when he slept."—Baltimore Star.

SOME HOME RUNS BY BILLY SUNDAY

"Many Deacons Never Do Anything but Deak."

JAIL FOR POPULAR WRITERS

"When a Boy Drinks or Swears or Sneers at Religion It's Simply Because He is Keeping Bad Company or His Lobster of a Father Swears In His Hearing."

AMONG the striking expressions in a sermon recently preached by Billy Sunday, the evangelist, were the following:

"If I were a preacher and was afraid to preach the truth, I'd give up my job and go to farming.

"I don't want to be subsidized by a gang of mutts or a dirty bunch.

"Too many deacons never do anything but 'deak.'"

"I believe that an honest newspaper is invincible. You can't stop it any more than you can sink a battleship with a shotgun, smash Gibraltar with a pea shooter or dam Niagara falls with toothpicks and hair combs. If the newspapers were all suppressed I believe that crime and sin would increase 100 per cent overnight, and all hell would hold a jubilee."

Telling of the action of Ahaz in closing up the churches and building idols, Billy said that Ahaz was "the limit and a bad egg."

"You must clean up," he said. "The Holy Spirit doesn't want to take a bath in beer and swim around in a pool of booze."

He said the Holy Spirit didn't want a man to look at the Bible one day and then "gaze into a theater to see a woman dance around on her toes without enough clothes on to flag a hand car."

Asserting that the greatest influence on the child was exerted by the mother, Sunday said, "A good many boys succeed with a good for nothing father, but show me a boy who has reached the pinnacle of righteousness who had an empty headed, low down, gum chewing, theater going, society flip of a mother."

The audience voiced its approval when Sunday told them ours was a nation of opportunities and that if they "couldn't be something" they were "mutts, mollycoddles, excess baggage and mere ciphers."

"The boy who goes to school," he said, "is bigger than the young lobster who loafs along the streets, smokes cigarettes, goes into the booze joint and tries to drink the whole bunch under the table."

Attacks Dime Novels.

"Develop a desire. A raw necked, freckle faced, pigeon toed, cross eyed kid, with a stone bruise on each heel, can ride a horse to water, but a professor with forty-nine diplomas can't make him drink if the horse hasn't the desire."

"If you want to become a robber read 'Deadshot Sam' and 'Deadwood Dick' and stuff like that and you'll be one, all right."

Sunday said he would like to sentence fifty of the popular writers of today to serve in the penitentiary for their teachings to young America.

"When a boy drinks or swears or sneers at religion it's simply because he is keeping bad company or his lobster of a father swears in his hearing," said Sunday.

"Have an aim in life," he added. "There are lots of you gray haired men here," pointing to several in the front rows, "that have walked on and on for fifty years and all you have to show for your life is a bleary eye and a whisky breath."

"Grit is one of the most important parts of the boy or girl who would be successful. Lots of boys are all right, but they lack the punch that produces the 'sleeper.' Grit is the Samson in youth that isn't afraid when the lion roars. You're a mutt if you're a quitter."

In telling the students of the value of grit Sunday paid a tribute to Abraham Lincoln and said his success would never have come about without grit. "Those are the kind of fellows who hang their 'mugs' in the hall of fame," he said.

Self conceit was also attacked by the evangelist, who said the conceited man was like "the stripes on a barber pole" or a newspaper with "big scare heads and no telegraph news."

Sunday spoke of the necessity of cheerfulness, saying:

"Every smile is a crimp in the undertaker's business. By smiling you can keep them from pumping you full of embalming fluid and your hair from being singed."

"One of the worst things that a minister can say over a man's coffin is that he had no enemies. If he was the kind of a man that he should be and led the life that he should he would have a pack of enemies. The man who has no enemies is a carbuncle on the neck of the body politic."

"Every church is cursed by a small minority which attempts to run it. They think, because they have a little money, they are the only pebbles on the beach. As with the Pharisees, everything with them is either the non-invasive 'I,' the possessive 'my' or the objective 'me.'"

He Believes Entire Bible.

"A whole lot of ministers are scared to death if you do anything for Jesus out of the ordinary way. They would rather go to hell than be saved through an innovation. On the other hand, you don't find people as a rule so scared of the innovations of the devil. You know the thousand and one 'isms' that the devil has invented to drive you off the path of life."

"I believe in the Bible from cover to cover. I don't pretend to understand it all. I would consider myself low-down and damned if I with my infinitesimal mind and my jack rabbit and pigheaded intellect should undertake to tell God that I disapproved of His plan of salvation."

"But they say that the consensus of the latest scholarship shows that the Bible is wrong. Well, the consensus of the latest scholarship can go plumb to hell."

"All the booze sellers, the brewers, the distillers, the white slavers, the red light element, the thieves and the hoodlum men hate me and hate revivals. That these manifestations of evil exist is not God's fault. It is the fault of the churches which have become dormitories in which the devil administers opiates, instead of being beehives of industry."

Revivals Are Defended.

"I am for a revival which will result in a man's buying suits for his own wife instead of helping to pay for the silks on the back of the wife of the saloon keeper. But they say that revivals are abnormal. They lie. They say that revivals are followed by reactions. They lie again. Even if this were true they would be more than worth while. If a drunkard reforms for a year and brings his pay envelope to his family and then backsides it is worth while."

"I don't scoff at other clergymen. The man that knocks religion is so low-down that he has to reach up to touch bottom."

"They say that a revival is but temporary. So is a bath, but it does you good. They say that a revival exalts an evangelist over a pastor. Nothing of the kind. Oh, you mutts make me sick."

"You could as well expect to see an Egyptian mummy talk and bear children as see a revival in a city where

Home is on a level with the women; the town is on the level with the homes.

There was no humanitarianism before Jesus Christ came.

It's everybody's business how you live.

Some persons think they have to look like a hedgehog to be pious.

Look into the preaching Jesus did and you will find it aimed at the big sinners on the front seats.

A revival gives the church a little digitails instead of an opiate.

Theology bears the same relation to Christianity that botany does to flowers.

Morality isn't the light; it is only the polish on the candlestick.

The dance is immoral. Every man and woman carries a breast full of passions, the same as are possessed by the bad, and those passions become a tinder box to consume morals whenever brought into contact with the temptress.

If you live wrong you can't die right.

Some homes need a hickory stick a good deal more than they do a piano.

Churches don't need new members half so much as they need the old bunch made over.

I believe that a long step toward public good will have been taken when sins are called by their right name.

The bars of the church are so low that any old hog with two or three sets of clothes and a bank roll can crawl through.

Home is the place we love best and where we grumble the most.

The man who lives for himself alone will be the sole mourner at his own funeral.

When your heart is breaking you don't want the dancing master or saloonkeeper. You want the preacher.

The church gives the people what they need; the theater gives them what they want.

If I was a devil I would rather live in a good, decent hog than in lots of men.

The saloon business has cost the country fifty times more than the revenue derived from it.

What the church needs is not a larger membership, a new carpet, a bigger pipe organ, but more men who know how to pray.

Don't try to feed the intellectual giraffes of your congregation. If you do the sheep will starve to death.

There's no better anchorage on God's earth, young fellow, than your mother's apron string.

Being a king, an emperor or a president is mighty small potatoes compared to being a mother or the teacher of children.

You might as well expect a motor-man to pull a car uphill by blowing his breath on the vestibule as for you to be saved by some other power than that of Jesus Christ.

Hugging and kissing a poodle dog is mighty small business compared to moulding the life of a child.

There are slaves of fashion, women who are chained to the Moloch of pride and vanity, all noble longings and ambitions of motherhood dead.

Just think, when at last they put the clods on your coffin and your wife and children go home, if all they remember is your curses and blows.

Your reputation is what the people say about you. Your character is what God and your wife know about.

Starving Out The Enemy

PUBLIC HEALTH HINTS

Prepared Each Week For the Readers of This Newspaper by the New York State Department of Health.

NEW YORK state is at war this summer with a race of very numerous and very persistent enemies who are actively mobilizing for an attack upon our citizens during the warm months, which are most favorable for their military operations. These enemies are sometimes called "house flies," but may better be known as "FILTH FLIES." They attack us directly with a great deal of noise and disturbance, but their really deadly work is done quite quietly by depositing filth bacteria and sometimes disease germs on our food, for these enemies follow none of the rules of civilized warfare.

We may accomplish something against these foes by means of open warfare, but a campaign of starvation carried out by a thorough blockade of the places where they live and breed is far more effective. The fly lays its eggs by preference in horse manure, but it will breed in any kind of organic refuse—in decaying grains, brewery waste, decaying vegetables or fruit, old moist papers and sacking and the like. The first thing to do in order to keep down the fly nuisance and the fly danger is to CLEAN UP, so that there shall be no needless accumulation of garbage or rubbish about the premises for flies to breed in.

Horse manure, which is the favorite breeding place of flies, must often be kept about the stable or the farm, but it may be effectively blockaded so that flies cannot breed in it by keeping it in a dark vault or pit from which flies are shut out by screens or in a covered box and treating it with a chemical to destroy fly maggots.

DIAGRAM SHOWING A MANGRE BIN OF PROPER CONSTRUCTION. MAY OR MAY NOT BE RAISED ON LEGS TO FACILITATE REMOVAL TO WAGON.

The United States Department of Agriculture (Bulletin No. 118) recommends ordinary borax for this purpose and for the treatment of garbage, refuse, open toilets, damp floors and crevices in stables, cellars or markets. The government investigators found that 0.63 of a pound of borax or 0.75 of a pound of calcined colemanite (crude calcium borate) would kill the maggots and prevent practically all the flies ordinarily breeding in eight bushels of horse manure from developing. If this amount of borax is not exceeded the manure so treated will not injure growing plants, provided that not over fifteen tons of the borax-treated manure is applied to an acre of land.

The method of using this substance in the case of stables is to sprinkle the borax or colemanite in the quantities given above by means of a flour sifter or other fine sieve on the pile of manure. The manure should then be sprinkled immediately with two or three gallons of water to eight bushels of manure. It is essential, however, to sprinkle a little of the borax on the manure as it is added daily to the pile instead of waiting until a full pile is obtained, because this will prevent the eggs which the flies lay on fresh manure from hatching. As the fly maggots congregate at the outer edge of the manure pile, most of the borax should be sprinkled there.

Borax costs from 5 to 6 cents per pound in 100 pound lots, and it is estimated that at this rate it would cost only 1 cent per horse per day to prevent all breeding of flies in city stables. If calcined colemanite is purchased in large shipments this cost should be considerably less. At the same time if the borax is used on the manure only in the proportions stated its value for use in the garden or for sale to farmers will not be lessened.

The Straight Gate

By REV. JAMES M. GRAY, D. D.
Dean of Moody Bible Institute
Chicago

TEXT—Strive to enter in at the straight gate; for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.—Luke 13:24.

The occasion for this warning of Jesus was a question asked him by one of his followers as he went through the cities and villages teaching and journeying toward Jerusalem. The question was, "Are there few that be saved?" As Matthew Henry says it may have been a serious question, a curious one, or a cautious one, but nevertheless it was one of deep and momentous importance to us. As another says, if one needs to know the number of the saved in this dispensation he has only to look around him and compare the ways of man, with the word of God. He will soon come to the conclusion, if he is an honest man, that the saved are few. It is an awful conclusion, and our souls naturally turn away from it, but Scripture as well as fact shut us up to it. Salvation is offered to all, but few are willing to comply with its terms.

The Need of Effort.
Our Lord answers the question in an indirect way by a solemn exhortation to this duty. "Strive to enter in at the straight gate." Whatever others may think about it, he would have us feel the need for exertion. This need is not because salvation is so difficult in itself, for it is written that "Whoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Romans 10:13). But the striving is necessitated (1) by the power of the counteracting influences of the world, whose gate is "wide," as we see from Matthew 7:13 and (2) because of the subtlety of false teachers, as we see in the same Scripture; and finally (3), because of the urgency of the times, inasmuch as the day is coming, and perhaps sooner than we expect, when "The Master of the house" shall "shut the door."

The Self-Deceived Ones.
Our Lord enforces his exhortation by describing that day, adding: "For many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in and shall not be able." The long-suffering of God towards men will some day have an end. It will be the day when our Lord shall come again, and we know not how soon it may be. The throne of grace will be removed then and the throne of judgment set up in its place.

But the most astounding part of it is that so many in that day will find themselves to have been self-deceived. In this place in Luke, and in the parallel place in Matthew's Gospel, Christ calls attention to four kinds of self-deception. He speaks of those who have been his guests, so to speak, eating and drinking in his presence; he speaks of those who have listened to his teachings; of those who have taught his word, and of those who have wrought his signs. None of these on that account merely have any claim upon his blessing in the life to come. What need there is for solemn self-examination here.

The Meaning of the Gate.
Of course when our Lord speaks of the "gate" he really means himself, and he said at another time, "I am the door; by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved and shall go in and out and find pasture. (John 10:9)." We enter in by believing on the Lord Jesus Christ as our Savior and confessing him as our Lord. Have you yet definitely done this? If so, why not do it now as you think upon these words? The distinguishing mark that we are saved, that we are his disciples, and that eternal glory is before us, is the fruit that we bear. Christ makes this very plain, in this same discourse, but blessed be his name, when we receive him as our Savior he gives us his Holy Spirit so that we are enabled to bring forth this fruit, indeed he himself produces it in us. Who would not trust himself to such a friend? Let me urge you to do it as the first and most important of all things for your well-being in time and eternity. I know there are other things, other allurements, holding you back, but what are they in comparison with this?

There was a shipwreck on the Pacific one or two winters ago, when a certain vessel went to pieces, on which there was a passenger who had with him a bag containing $1,500 in gold. Survivors said that he frantically offered that bag of gold to anyone who would place him ashore but his gold lay on the broken deck, kicked under foot, no one stopping to pick it up. How this impresses us with the importance of salvation and eternal life above all things which this world can offer, and the importance of our striving to "enter in at the straight gate" while the opportunity offers.

Virtuous and noble deeds are better than the scholar.—Euripides.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

DRINKING BEFORE MEALS.

At a meeting of a medical society a prominent physician read a paper on "Appetizers," in which he gave the results of scientific experiments made at Yale university. Dr. E. H. Cleveland of Flower hospital, New York city, writing of these to the New York Times, says:

"It seems that to one group of students a good dinner was given without alcoholic accompaniment, and in their case, a couple of hours later, normal digestion was found well advanced. To the other group of students the same dinner was given, preceded in each case by an 'appetizer,' such as cocktail, gin fizz, etc. After the same interval the digestive processes of this second group were found on examination to be imperfect. Certain chemical elements in the food taken showed that the digestive juices had failed to act upon them, owing to the presence of alcohol in combination with these elements.

"Serious and permanent interference with normal digestion was clearly proved by these experiments in every instance. Had the investigations been carried further, so as to include the efficiency of mental action and nerve reaction, as well as efficiency of digestive faculties, there is no doubt that precisely similar results would have been obtained.

"The appetizer, so called, is not in reality an appetizer at all, but is a devitalizer, pure and simple, destructive of the normal processes of the digestive apparatus and of the mental powers in direct proportion to the frequency with which it is taken."

CONCERNS DEMAND ABSTINENCE.

The Milton Manufacturing company, the American Car & Foundry company, and S. J. Shimer & Sons of Milton, Pennsylvania, have issued orders demanding that their employees abstain from alcohol and refuse to sign license petitions of otherwise indicate sympathy for the saloon.

Thirty men were discharged by the American Car & Foundry company because they signed liquor license applications.

These companies do not desire to influence the opinions of the employees in regard to prohibition, but they take the stand that the man who signs a liquor license application does not properly appreciate the danger of liquor to himself and the community. He is, therefore, not a safe employee for a concern demanding efficiency.

"Indulgence in the use of liquor is a menace to all business interests," declared Mr. George S. Shimer, president of the Milton Manufacturing company. "If the employees should be protected by the employer, why shouldn't the employer be as well protected by the employee? Our employees have congratulated us upon the step we have taken."

KANSAS' TAX RATE DECREASES.

In 1880, under license, the Kansas tax rate for state purposes was 5.5 mills on the dollar. The Nebraska rate was only 3.9 mills. In 1881 the Kansas rate dropped to 5 mills, while the Nebraska rate increased to 6.1. In 1882 the figures stood: Kansas, 4.5; Nebraska, 6.7. In 1883 the rate was, Kansas, 4.3; Nebraska, 7.8. In 1885 the Kansas rate had further dropped to 3.9, but Nebraska, with saloons to pay part of her revenue, had been compelled to raise her rate to 7.7.

In 1914 Kansas had reached the remarkably low figure of 1.2 mills, while Nebraska, whose people failed to follow Kansas' example in outlawing saloons, was suffering under a rate of 7.8 mills.

"And yet," says the Portland (Me.) Evening Express, "the booze representatives in local option contests have the effrontery to warn the people against outlawing the saloons because 'You will have to pay more taxes!'"

INCREASED SAVINGS.

M. Kharitonoff, comptroller of the currency for the Russian empire, in a speech before the duma budget committee announced that "the national savings which in December, 1913, amounted to 700,000 roubles ($350,000), had increased to 29,100,000 roubles ($14,550,000) in December, 1914. The total savings for 1913 amounted to 34,000,000 roubles ($17,000,000) as compared with 84,000,000 roubles ($42,000,000) for 1914."

STRIKE AT THE ROOT.

A gentleman having called in his physician, said: "Now, sir, I want no more trifling; my illness is serious, and my desire is that you should strike at the root of my disease."

"It shall be done," said the physician, and, lifting his walking-stick, he smashed to atoms the wine decanter which stood on the table.

ALSO LOSES INDEBTEDNESS.

Moundville, W. Va., has reduced its floating indebtedness from $52,000 to $6,630. "This floating indebtedness was piled up several years ago while the city had a big income from saloon license," says the Moundville, Echo. Now that the city has lost the saloon revenue it has also rid itself of the indebtedness.

DON'T WANT BOOZERS.

"Alcohol slows a man down. I don't bother with youngsters that drink."—Connie Mack.

The KITCHEN CABINET

The things that never happen are often as much realities to us in their effects as those that are accomplished.

The affections may not be so easily wounded as the passions, but their hurts are deeper and more lasting.—Dickens.

VEGETARIAN DISHES.

The following dishes will add variety to any diet and are especially appreciated by those who are not eating meat.

Mock Sausage With Apple.—Pick over and soak overnight one-half cupful of lima beans. Drain and cook in boiling salted water to cover until soft. Drain and force through a puree strainer; there should be three-fourths of a cupful of bean pulp. To the pulp add one-fourth of a cupful of rolled bread crumbs, three tablespoonfuls of heavy cream or butter and one egg slightly beaten. Season with salt sage, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, and a few dashes of pepper.

Shape in the form of sausages (making thirteen), dip in egg and crumbs and fry in olive oil. Pile on a hot platter and surround with slices of cored apple which have been fried until brown on both sides. Serve while piping hot.

Smothered Cabbage.—Chop a small head of cabbage, removing the heart. Put three tablespoonfuls of butter in a frying pan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and turn in the cabbage after the butter and flour are well blended, then pour on gradually a cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point and add two teaspoonfuls of salt, a few dashes of pepper, mix thoroughly and cover tightly and cook for forty minutes on the back of the range. About five cupfuls of cabbage is used for the other ingredients. All vegetarians will relish this toothsome dish. Its flavor is delicate and delightful.

Cheese Pudding.—Cut the crusts from a stale baker's loaf and cut slices in finger sized strips. Cover the bottom of baking dish in lattice fashion and also place pieces around the sides of the pan. Spread these with butter. Cut half pound of rich cheese in bits and put into the dish, add two eggs well beaten and a cupful of thin cream or top milk, salt, mustard, paprika and red pepper. Bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes and serve hot.

The KITCHEN CABINET

When the weather suits you or not, Try smiling.

When your coffee isn't hot, Try smiling.

When your neighbor doesn't do right, Or your relatives all fight, Sure it's hard, but then you might Try smiling.

MORE OLD FAVORITES.

Serve dried salted herring some evening for supper. Serve with hot German potato salad and the meal will be complete.

Fish Salad.—Take any boiled white fish, chop fine; add the same quantity of celery, finely cut, moisten with three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one of olive oil and a teaspoonful of mustard, a few dashes of red pepper, five tablespoonfuls of cream and enough vinegar to make the dressing of the right consistency. Garnish with thin strips of sour pickle.

Steak With Banana.—Broil a steak in a hot frying pan, cut in halves four bananas, and lay in the pan, sprinkle with hot butter, melted and serve arranged around the steak.

Oatmeal Bouchees.—Turn any leftover oatmeal in small cups and when cold, unmold and scoop out the centers, leaving a wall thick enough to hold the shape, fill this with any fresh fruit, mixed with powdered sugar, heap over whipped cream, sweetened and flavored. If one has no whipping cream, a thin custard may be served. Be sure that it is well chilled.

Special Seasonings.—It so often happens as we read some recipe that sounds so good we find it calls for a little curry, chutney, mushroom sauce, tabasco or some other seasoning which does not find its place on our shelves. The buying of all these things at once might be too large an expense for the modest housewife, but once a month add to your bill a bottle of one of these desirables and before long you will have a stock which will be a constant delight. As you need but a drop or two of many of these seasonings they will last for years so that the expense is slight when spread over the time of their use. A five cent package of bay leaves will last you a lifetime and you will then have plenty to leave to your grandchildren.

Nellie Maxwell

Common Human Follies.

"Every man," said Uncle Eben, "thinks he's right 'most' of de time. An' de rest' of de time he thinks his mistakes is perfectly excusable."

HOME TOWN HELPS

MAKING WAR ON BILLBOARD

American Civic Association Regards it as Objectionable Form of Advertising.

From its very institution, the American Civic Association has devoted itself to the protection of the public against three great nuisances—smoke, poles and wires, and billboards. At the annual convention of the association in Washington one of the important subjects discussed was billboards, with a principal address, entitled "The Passing of the Signboard," by Jesse Lee Bennett of Baltimore in which he recounted the steps that had been taken for the legal control of the billboard in all parts of the United States.

Concerning the sentiment against the billboard, Mr. Bennett said: "The feeling against the signboard has become nation-wide and in the past few years the agitation of civic organizations has been so successful as to awaken resentment against it so widespread that, from coast to coast and in almost every state and city, there are now, or have been, vigorous movements seeking the abolition or regulation of these unnecessary and disfiguring objects.

"There has been much agitation, and from it there has been distilled one thing—the recognition of the fact that what is called the signboard problem is a question more complex than the mere removal of the signs. The signboard has been found to be inextricably intertwined with two questions of even greater importance—The awakening of civic sentiment and the recognition by legislators and judges of the validity of arguments based upon esthetic considerations.

Commenting on what ought to be the attitude of the law and the courts toward the billboard, he added:

"It would take our psychologist but a few minutes to show that it is not a question of ear, or nose, or eye, but a question of the brain and of the very consciousness that is life itself. No law should permit any man to intrude or force himself or his business into another man's consciousness to the extent that outdoor advertising has come to permit, an intrusion immeasurably increased by the fact that it is impossible to avoid seeing signboards."

SERVED A DOUBLE PURPOSE

Scheme of New York Man Improved Appearance of Garden and Protected Birds.

Bird lovers often find it a most difficult problem to devise means to prevent neighborhood cats from frightening away their feathered pets and robbing the nests of their young. A New York man who makes his garden an aviary, and who at the same time is not a hater of cats, planted climbing-rose vines about the base of the poles supporting his bird houses. While these added greatly to the appearance of the garden, they also served very efficiently in keeping cats from crawling up the posts. The birds, understanding their security, were no longer frightened from their nests.—Popular Mechanics.

Combination of Property Owners. A general maintenance tax of two mills per square foot, which amounts to $4 per year on a lot 20 by 100 feet, besides the regular city tax, must be paid by lot owners in a section of Philadelphia. This special assessment is for the upkeep of the property, and is applied towards the cost of garbage collection, snow cleaning, lighting, maintaining the park and sewerage system, replanting trees and shrubbery, cleaning vacant lots, and repairing streets and sidewalks. The fund is administered by a company and assures the lot owner that all repairs in streets and sidewalks will be promptly made when needed, and will not be subject to the idiosyncrasies of private ownership or the slow methods of municipal departments.

Paint Your Residence. If your residence needs painting or repairing now is the time to have the work done. In the first place you will get the labor much cheaper and in the next place you will add those who need work. If it is true that we are bordering on prosperous times it will not be many months until labor will cost much more than now, so there is a double saving—the house will be saved injury and the owner dollars. It will pay you to look into this matter.—Alliance (Tex.) Reporter.

Obituary.

William Albert Smith died at his home in North Lansing, June 10, 1915, aged 46 years. He was born in Dudley, England, and was the son of Thomas and Frances Smith. When two years of age he came with his parents to this country and settled in Elmira, N. Y.

In 1889 he was married to Miss Cora Hubbard of North Lansing, and came here to live, and has lived here or near here ever since.

His health has been very poor for some years, but he kept at his work as long as possible, and each year he seemed less able to do the work of the farm, until this year he was compelled to cease trying, but he has kept around. Just one week before he was buried he was at Dr. Skinner's office in Genoa. On Wednesday he had a shock and only lived a few hours.

Will was a fine singer, and for many years he sang at funerals and wherever needed. It was common to hear people say that he was as good as a whole choir; for a few years he has not been able to sing. He was a genial man and stood high in the esteem of his neighbors and friends and he will be greatly missed, but especially in the home circle where a loving wife and two little girls are left alone. His aged father and an only sister, Mrs. Fanny Boyer also mourn his loss.

He was a member of the Grange and of the Maccabees, who were at the funeral in a body.

The funeral was held at the church on Sunday at 2 o'clock and was very largely attended. Rev. F. J. Allington officiated, taking for his text "Be ye also ready." Burial in his beautiful "City of the dead." We mourn with the sorrowing ones, a brother beloved has gone, a kind and obliging neighbor, a father and husband.

There were present at the funeral Thomas Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manning and Mrs. Edward Morgan of Elmira, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Owen and son of Elmira Heights, Mrs. Libbie Lester, Misses Clara and Mina Searles of Syracuse, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Doan of Endicott, John Boyer of Wolcott with others from Ithaca and Auburn.

The family are especially thankful for the help given by friends and neighbors during his sickness and death.

North Lansing, June 15, 1915.

Anti-Saloon League Year Book.

We have received from the Anti-Saloon League of New York the Anti-Saloon League Year Book for 1915, published by the National League and printed at the League printing plant, which prints nothing except temperance literature, and has turned out as high as a hundred million book pages in a single month. It is a book of 250 pages. It contains wet and dry maps of the various states, with a large amount of other information, classifying the population, giving state liquor figures and the names of all dry counties and dry cities of 5,000 or more. It shows the spread of the prohibition movement and gives figures showing the consumption of liquor and the extent of the liquor traffic. It contains a running history of the temperance movement, a list of books on the temperance question, and figures as to the cost of the liquor traffic and its relation to crime, pauperism, insanity, education, etc. The League has just sent this book free to every pastor in New York State of every denomination opposing the liquor traffic, aggregating over a million pages, and will furnish it free to any public library in New York State which asks for it. The book can be obtained from the League office, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, at 25c, postpaid.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas: It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to remove from our midst our brother, Charles Bower,

Resolved: That we sincerely sympathize with the family of our deceased brother in their bereavement.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and also that they be published in THE GENOA TRIBUNE and that they appear in the minutes of the Grange.

North Lansing Grange, No. 334.

Mrs. Henry Carson,
Mrs. Garfield Townley. } Com.

Atwater.

The Ladies' Aid will have a tea Thursday, June 24, at the home of Wm. Bunnell. Everybody invited. Come and have a good supper for 10 cents.

A RARE DECORATION.

Austria's Grand Cross of the Order of Maria Theresa.

The grand cross of the order of Maria Theresa is today one of the most exclusive as well as one of the most brilliant of surviving orders. It was founded by the great empress of that name in 1757 in honor of the victory of her troops over Frederick the Great at Kolin. Its members are elected by ballot on the part of the chapter, the sovereign having no voice in the matter unless he happens to possess the order, although he is the instrument of its bestowal and the signer of the patent.

In the past hundred years, until August, 1914, only fifty-eight members had been thus admitted to the order, and at the beginning of the war in 1914 there were but three knights left, all of the third and lowest class. One was the Emperor Francis Joseph, who won the cross in 1848 on the battlefield of Santa Lucia against the Italians.

The second was the Duke of Cumberland, father of the sovereign Duke of Brunswick, who received the cross for gallantry at the battle of Mergensalza, where as crown prince of Hanover he helped his father, the blind King George, to direct the operations of his troops. The third was Prince Alphonse de Bourbon, claimant to the throne of the two Sicilies and popularly known as the Count of Caserta. He won his cross by the part he played in the superb defense of Gaeta, the last stronghold of the Bourbons.

The eldest son of the holder of this coveted decoration is entitled to free education in Austria's military academy.—Argonaut.

A Farewell Reception.

A farewell dinner and reception was given last Friday afternoon and evening by the congregation of the Scipio Universalist church to Rev. and Mrs. Arnold S. Yantis. About 50 guests gathered at the home of Miss Eliza and Jacob Post in Scipio where a delightful afternoon and evening was spent. Because of a sudden shower dinner was served inside instead of on the lawn as had been planned. About 6 o'clock the older people sat down to the bountiful dinner which was served by the young men and women of the parish.

Much sorrow and regret was expressed at the loss of their pastor, Mr. Yantis, and his wife.

Family Reunions.

The Sellen family reunion will be held with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Swartwout at West Groton, on Thursday, June 24. All members of the family will be cordially welcomed.

The DeCamp family will hold its reunion on Saturday, June 26, at the home of Mrs. Kate DeCamp, east of North Lansing. All friends of the family will be welcome.

Y. P. S. C. E. of Five Corners will collect old newspapers, books and magazines, and those who wish to dispose of the same can do so by leaving them at Albert Ferris' or by notifying Mrs. Dannie Moore.

Her Choice.

Mrs. Davenport gave her two children some fruit one afternoon. Handing it to Joseph, she bade him let the little sister have the first choice.

Shortly after she called him and said:

"Joseph, I noticed that your little sister took a very small apple. Did you let her have her choice, as I told you to?"

"Yes, mother," replied the boy; "I told her she could have the little one or none at all, and she chose the little one."—Harper's Bazar.
