PROMOTED THE KING.

Italian Zouaves Once Voted to Make Their Ruler a Corporal.

During the battle of Palaestro, in ! 1859, the Austrians in three columns attacked the Piedmontese in order to throw them back across the Sesia. The right and center columns were repulsed, but the left continued to advance and threatened danger. At that moment the Third zouaves, led by Colonel Chabran and obeying the orders of Victor Emmanuel II., attacked the Austrians with the bayonet, threw the enemy back across the bridge over the Sesia and drowned many of them in the Sasetta canal

In this memorable battle the king was constantly in the fiercest of the fight. The zouaves were enchanted with his prowess, and in the evening a sergeant of the regiment proposed that they should send a congratulatory address to his majesty.

"Let's raise him to the rank of corporal," suggested one, which proposition was unanimously adopted. The scholar of the company thereupon set down in his finest calligraphy:

"By the wish of the Third regiment of zouaves Victor Emmanuel, by trade king of Sardinia, is appointed unanimously a corporal in the said regi-

Then, while the wish was hot, a deputation of corporals and men went to Castle Torione, where the king was staying. The deputation was announced. The king was pleased to receive it at once, notwithstanding the fact that he was in his shirt sleeves. He was greatly moved by the token of admiration, pressed the stripes to his heart and conveyed his thanks in such terms that the zouaves, in a delirium of joy, cheered him as if they would never stop, and in taking their leave one and all embraced their newly appointed corporal.-Pearson's.

PERSONAL FLAGS.

Special Emblems For the President and Other Chicials.

Until 1881 the president of the United States had no personal flag, his presence on board an American naval vessel being indicated by hoisting the national emblem at the head of the mainmast, and the garrison flag, reserved for times of special ceremony, was displayed on the staff at army posts whenever he visited them,

The need of a special flag for the president was frequently felt, especially when visiting royalty was entertained in this country. In August, 1882, it was directed by the secretary of the navy that "the flag of the president of the United States shall consist of a blue ground, with the arms of the United States in the center. The flag shall be hoisted at the mainmast of the vessel of war while the president is on board and shall be carried in the how of his boat.'

For years after this the national flag was used for indicating the presence of the vice president or of an ex-president, but this use was more or less How the Veiocity of Cannon Balls and confusing, and, besides, it was argued, the stars and stripes properly stand How fast does a bullet travel? SEEKING HAPPINESS.

Little Things That Make Living a Joy Are Not Always Appreciated.

We are told that happiness comes by pieces and that it is these small bits linked together that make our lives worth while. Some of us are not content to take our happiness by degrees or at intervals. We want it all the time in bi, pieces, and if we cannot deprived of our natural rights and look -Philadelphia Record. upon ourselves as injured beings.

Perhaps those of us who know what the joy of living means have experienced both of these attitudes at different periods of our lives and are in position, therefore, to appreciate a varying viewpoint, but even so it is only after we lose something of that joy of living and have found out for ourselves that there are shadows which no amount of sunlight can disperse that we can readily appreciate the se safe.-Goethe

Gardens In the Ice.

A glacier when it dislodges itself and sails away over the Arctic ocean never travels alone. In the wake of every large one floats a line of similar companions. The Eskimos call this phenomenon "the duck and ducklings," and any one who has watched the progress of the wild duck followed by her brood will appreciate the aptitude of the name. Strange as it may seem, plants grow and blossom upon these great ice mountains. When a glacier is at rest moss attaches itself to it, sawdust does. After a time the moss decays and forms a soil, in which the seeds of buttercups and dandelions, brought by the wind, take root and flourish.

ITHACA TRUST COMPANY

Acts as Executor Administrator

For Exactly Same Fees as Does an Individual

A generation ago administrators, guardians, executors and trustees were individuals. They were almost always inexperienced, very often poor business men, frequently irresponsible and usually careless or neglectful. Then came the trust companies with their large responsibility, skilled officials, trained to do safely and well what individuals were doing with hazard and frequent loss. Already the discerning and well informed are placing such matters with trust companies. To-morrow everybody will be doing so. Mankind always forsakes ultimately the faulty for the improved.

Virus and Venom.

The difference between venom and a virus is very marked. Both are poisons and both of organic origin, but a venom is produced in secreting organs, commonly called poison glands, and is introduced into the system by means especially adapted for the purpose, such as stings or fangs. On the other hand, a virus is the result of disease or putrefaction and generally possesses the property of exciting in the system into which it is introduced the disease which produced the virus. A virus commonly produces little if any local disturbance. A venom generally causes great pain, often severe inflammation and swelling. Venom has marked local effect. Virus causes a eneral disturbance of the system.

System In Saving.

"The only good plan for saving is to make it an invariable rule to deposit something each week or each month," "Having thus put the money aside, it should be considered out of reach and on no account to be drawn upon except in case of sickness, loss of employment or death. It is surprising how money will pile up when such a system as this is followed. If every one who possesses any income at all would adopt the practice and stick to it, no matter how small the deposits might be, poverty would be well nigh abolished."

Plainly Unjust.

"Great rackets this here art bizness s!" exclaimed the maid in an angry "Missus hez got a Wenus in ther parlor with both arms broke off above th' elbers, an' then she comes out an' docks me a dollar fer chippin' jes one han'le offen this slazy little old teacup."-Puck.

Thanksgiving

HANKSGIVING in the language from which it is derived really means thought giving, and that reminds me of the lines,

'There is nothing, good or bad, But thinking makes it so."

If we are not thankful it is our own fault. There are few of us whom fortune has so abused, but on this one day of the year we cannot find something to be thankful about-if we but think. We can at least be thankful for the free blessing of light, the blue sky so clear and deep in the November days, the sunshine that brightens the earth and the life that runs in our veins.

There are few of us too, so poor we cannot give a thought of gratitude for other blessings we have. There are few of us so placed in life that we cannot help someone else to be thankful if we try.

From the first Thanksgiving day when Governor Bradford sent out men to bring in wild turkeys for the feast, in honor of the first harvest in Plymouth, there has been a general opinion that this is a harvest festival and so it becomes a home festival. That is one of the blessings of the day to mothers and fathers. They can give thanks in truth when they see their children and grandchildren around them. It ought to be in the minds of sons and daughters, a pleasant duty, to pay especial attention to their parents on this day. If they cannot be at home they can at least send a letter or a telegram of greeting to the "home folks."

The thought of Thanksgiving being a home festival sometimes is a stumbling block in the minds of men and women, who have either no home ties or are prevented by circumstances from being in their own home circle or from joining the circle of their friends. So they shrug their mental shoulders and say to themselves, Why should I be thankful? No one cares. Something like that was the first thought of a young woman, alone in a large city, making her own way in the world. Her second thought was better. She reasoned: here with no one to give me a Thanksgiving dinner, there must be a great many others in the same position, and maybe some who cannot buy even a good dinner.

"If I'm going to show any gratitude for the blessings of health and strength and courage, I'll look out for someone else." She did so, by going to the superintendent of a newsboy home and asking for three boys who had no relatives or friends in the city who should be her guests at a Thanksgiving dinner. The superintendent entered heartily into the plan. On Thanksgiving day she made these boys her real guests (not charity guests), in every sense. There was a turkey dinner with all the "fixings," and there were tickets to a matinee in the afternoon. But best of all, she became acquainted with them to such a degree that these boys looked upon her as a friend and showed in different ways later how much they appreciated the Thanksgiving treat.

SCHOOL teacher way out on the A Pacific coast felt as if she were in exile. She had no friends or relatives within two thousand miles. At first she did not look forward with any pleasure to the first Thanksgiving day to be spent among strangers. But it is her disposition to make the most of life. If she cannot have what she likes she looks for something to like in what she has. She decided to give someone a good Thanksgiving dinner. It was out of the question for her to entertain anyone and the idea of just sending a basket to a worthy family did not seem to be sufficient. She wanted a personal touch somehow. She consulted with a woman, who, while not a social worker, knew the city and the needs of many a family. Through this woman she found a widow with two sons who was just about ready to give up the struggle and break up her home. She had been sick, was discouraged and lonely and was losing spirit and energy. The school teacher took in the situation with keen sympathy. A basket of groceries, a chicken, vegetables and fruit made a Thanksgiving dinner possible. It was a dinner that more than fed the bodies of the mother and children. It put new courage into them. The school teacher forgot her own loneliness in being thankful she could lend a hand to a less fortunate sister. The mother shouldered her responsibilities with new courage which never flagged until finally a neat and comfortable home for herself and her children was the result. It pays sometimes to replace "For what I am about to receive make me truly thankful" by another prayer: "For what I am about to give make me truly thankful."

PASS ON THE JOY OF THANKSGIVING

Making Others Glad Should Be thanked God for their own blessings Considered One of the Chief

Duties of the Season.

T'S the easiest thing in the world Thanksgiving." waiting, grim and terrible, for. count your blessings in a negative give someone else a chance to be sort of way, by saying, "Yes, it's very nice, but it could be much nicer." It's quite the usual thing to hear folk complain-and complaining is heard more often than praise and thankfulness. Yet—so they tell us—a little over three hundred years ago a band of sturdy, venturesome Christian folk were very thankful indeed and praised their Lord fervently over a handful of parched corn and a bit of unleavened bread.

Once a year we set apart a day, consecrated to their memory, and try to throw aside the customs and complainings of the world as we know it. We gather together-families of us-and eat turkey and plum pudding: we talk of commonplaces and sometimes we feel bored and tired. Yet we are supposed to be celebrating.

We have bushels of things to be glad for this year-hundreds; it seems more than we ever had. As we offer up our blessings it won't be hard to remember that across a dividing bit of ocean other people are starving to death, and that ought to make us just a bit more thankful. As we see our families sitting around talking commonplaces it may help us to think of other families in other countries that are fighting and dying on blood-stained battlefields. As we hear the crisp November wind banging in the trees, we ought to be mighty thankful that it isn't the sound of cannon and bugles and screams that we're hearing. Oh, friends of mine, it won't be very hard to be thankful this year!

As I was walking down Fourth avenue a few days ago I was thinking, with my head in the clouds, of many things; thinking so hard that I did not notice exactly where my feet were taking me. It was only when I stumbled against a little boy who was running around a corner that I came down to earth with a bump.

"Oh! I'm so sorry," I said. "Did I hurt you?"

"Dat's a' right, lady," said the little boy with a dirty Raphael-cherub grin. "I was only running!" "Oh!"-he was lingering at my side.

so I felt it necessary to make conversation-"you were running-playing "Huh!" the little boy grunted beatifically as he pulled up one ragged stocking. "Oh, no; I was jus' running fer fun." His little face crinkled with smiles again and he trotted on out of my Just running for fun, for the pure joy of living. A little boy with nothing else to make him happy-and yet a number of us frown and fret in the midst of all sorts of pleasures. I was talking to a chum of mine not long ago, and some way our conversation drifted around to Thanksgiving time, and our interpretation of the "It's all wrong!" said my chum earnestly, "all wrong!"

"Why?" I asked curiously. "I'm always thankful for my blessings on Thanksgiving; so are most people. Why is it all wrong?"

"Well," answered my chum, "on Thanksgiving day we sit around and talk and eat-principally. I once asked a little girl what Thanksgiving day meant, and she said 'turkey and aranberry sauce!' And then we thank God complacently for our harvests. and our food, and our clothes, and his love. Isn't it so?"

"Yes," I admitted.

"Well," continued the girl, "the Pilgrims did that, too, years ago. But they did not stop there. After they they tried to pass on the joy to folk less fortunate than they were. They even invited the Indians, beings that they had every reason to be afraid of, into their homes and gave them a little of the season's cheer. They kept rather carefully-"then your idea is your search. It isn't very hard to not to be thankful yourself-only to thankful?"

"But," asked the girl softly, "isn't that the right way to be thankful?" Isn't it?

It's a very easy thing to pass along the outside of life without even dipping down into the depths, and ever so many people do it because it is the easiest way. Somehow it is hard to convince folk that things that tear at their heartstrings are the things that they should see and know. It's mighty easy to eat our Thanksgiving dinners without a thought of our brothers and sisters who are starving on some other street in the same city, and it's only because it is so much easier, I reckon, that people do forget to pass a bit of their plenty and peace.

But, as I write, I can't help thinking of filled-to-overflowing baskets that I have seen in missions, of eager children grasping fat turkeys, of mothers crying happy tears over coal and wood that will keep them warm and happy. I can't help having my mind slip away from the well-filled tables and the happy smiles and the cheerful commonplaces of our own country, to the dreary homes in Europe that are being brightened because the people of this land were willing-yes, more than willing-to share their blessings with

Oh, friends of mine, it's the easiest thing in the world to look for trouble. and it isn't very hard to find people who are fretting and crying and counting their blessings in a negative sort of way instead of just being happy. But somehow, when we stop to look around us and think, the world seems to be a pretty nice place at Thanksgiving time.-Margaret E. Sangster, Jr., in Christian Herald.

Mrs. Nancy Goodman Dead.

The death of Nancy J. Goodman widow of Geo. Goodman, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Peck, in Genoa, on Tuesday Nov. 16, aged 73 years.

Mrs. Goodman had been in feeble health for several years, having suffered a shock about nine years ago and subsequently a number of light shocks. Two weeks before her death she was taken ill with heart trouble, but improved so that she was able to sit up. On Thursday of last week, she suffered a relapse and slowly failed until death released her from suffering.

Mr. Goodman died eleven years ago at their home in Locke, and much of the time for the past nine years she had spent with her daughter, Mrs. Peck, in Genoa, going to visit her other children during the summer season. She returned here about Sept. 1, after spending some time away.

Mrs. Goodman had been a member of the Baptist church of Locke for many years, and during her residence there, was a faithful worker in the church.

SEEK TO SOLVE TAX PROBLEM

Legislative Committee to Hold Further Hearings.

SEVERAL PLANS OFFERED.

Rising Cost of Government Not Confined to State, but Is, if Anything, More Serious In the Localities-Three Substitutes For the Taxation of Real

New York, Nov. 15 .- The joint Logislative Committee on Taxation will hold further hearings beginning Novomber 20th in Syracuse, Buffalo and Rochester. For the benefit of those who desire to be heard at these hearings, and in order to acquaint the public generally with the progress of the work and of the character of the suggestions that have been made, the Committee submits a brief summary of the general situation, as testified to by the witnesses examined to date. There is also added the three principal measures offered as substitutes for the present personal property tax and as means of raising the additional revenue, which revenue is apparently necessary, both for State and local purposes. The arguments for and against each of these plans are also presented. These summaries have been prepared by the advocates of the measures at the request of the Committee. The Committee is in no sense responsible for any one of them, nor is it committed to any plan. They are simply presented for the purpose of inviting discussion and suggestions,

State government increased $15,328,-665, or 40 per cent and at an average rate of 8 per cent a year. In the opinion of the State Comptroller, the revenue from indirect taxes is not likely to increase, and even if the State succeeds both in stopping the increase of the cost of government and in keeping its general administrative expenses at the present figure, it will be necessary to impose during the next five years a direct State tax of from fourteen and a half to nineteen million dollars.

That the rising cost of government is not confined to the State, but is, if anything, more serious in the localities, is reflected by the fact that in the seventeen principal cities of the State, except one, there has been a per capita increase in taxes. Thus in Schenectady the tax levy per capita has risen from $4 in 1903 to $12 in 1913; Niagara Falls from $8 to $21, and i Buffalo from $11 to $17. In the matter of net indebtedness, the increase has been notable in all but three cases.

Consider the situation in New York City, for instance. According to the testimony of Mayor Mitchel, even if we assume that the cost of government can be kept at its present level. the City will have to raise, (exclusive of the State direct tax), for the purposes of interest on serial bonds, redemption of serial bonds and the quota of public improvements, and (beginning with 1918) interest on Subway for the tax. bonds, the following amounts which are additional to its present budget of almost two hundred million dollars: 1917. $10,137,000; 1918, $19,400,000; 1919, $34,719,000; 1920, $34,554,000. The testimony of the experts in many lines of trade and commerce all pointed unmistakably to the fact that this great and increasing burden has been largely borne by one class of individuals, to wit, the real estate owners and their tenants. Whenever the real estate owner is able to shift the tax to the tenant, it means that the largest burden is borne by the poor, who are least able to pay the taxes. If, on the other hand, the owner of real estate is unable to shift the tax, the new burden amounts to a decrease in his income, and therefore to a fall in the capital value of the real estate. At the New York hearings two important facts were brought out: (1) That real estate in many localities cannot bear any increased burden without destroying cap-Ital value; (2) that the investments of insurance companies, savings banks, etc., having a large part of the savings of the poorer classes invested in real estate mortgages, might be seriously impaired by any considerable decrease in the value of real estate.

All witnesses have united in condenning the present personal property tax in its application to both individuals and corporations, as unequal, unjust and in large part uncollectable.

Three substitutes have been suggested

OUTLINE OF THE PROPOSED IN-

COME TAX. What Kind of a Tax. It is a tax upon net income which shall include interest, rent, royalties, dividenda and gains, profit or income derived from salaries, wages or compensation for professional services of whatever kind, or from professions, businesses, trade, commerce or sales or dealings in property, whether real or personal, also from securities.

Who Shall Pay Income Tax.

but the income of property held by is not taxable.

What Net Income Shall Be Taxed, The entire net income from all sources, except that from property located, or from any business, trade or profession carried on, without the State. Also entire net income from ail property and of every business, trade or profession carried on in this State by persons residing elsewhere.

The net income of corporations is to be determined practically as it is under the Federal Income Tax.

Alternative Plan For Taxing Income of Corporations.

As an alternative plan, the taxable income of corporations might be defined as the amount paid out in dividends and interest during the year, in which case there would be no deduc-

Under either plan, the taxable broome of corporations doing business within and without the State would be apportioned on the bashs of the capital employed within the State.

Deductions to Individuals.

Necessary expenses of carrying on business, including depreciation, taxes. losses, etc.; also dividends from stock of corporations subject to this tax, and under the alternative plan for the taxation of corporate income, interest also; but only in that proportion which the taxable income of the corporation bears to its entire income.

Income Exempt From Taxation.

Pensions; salaries of United States officials; interest upon Federal, New York State and municipal bonds. To an individual $1,500; to a husband and wife living together, $1,700; for each additional child, $100, but with a maximum exemption of $2,000. No such exemptions for copartnerships or corporations.

Corporations Not Taxable Under Income Tax.

Public service corporations of all kinds; moneyed corporations, including commercial banks, trust company From 1910 to 1914 the cost of the banks, savings banks and all insurance companies.

Distribution of the Yield.

Two plans are proposed: First.-That a certain percentage be returned to the localities, the amount so returned to each locality to be de termined by the amount of income tax collected in the county in question.

Second.-The second plan is to return the tax collected to the localities and to distribute it according to the assessed value of property within the several localities,

In either case the State might continue to levy the direct tax and pay the entire amount of the income tax to the localities, or else do away with the direct tax and divide the balance among the localities.

The Yield.

It has been estimated that an income tax at the rate of 2 per cent upon gen-Wrate, including individuals, firms, co. | eral business corporations and upon | individuals, with the exceptions noted marcantile, manufacturing and above, would yield between $34,000,000 Market value to be determined just as own house the rental value shall be agents acting in any fiduciary capacity, by all students of taxation as the best der this plan all stocks, bonds, notes or apartments and the tax is applicable and most equitable substitute for the running more than one year, deben- to those who have occupied the apartthem for nonresident cestul que trust personal property tax. It has already met with notable success in Wisconsin. Last year Connecticut and West Virginia imposed an income tax on general business corporations, while at the general election held in Massachusetts on November 2nd, the people adopted a constitutional amendment by a vote of over 2 to 1, authorizing the imposition of an income tax. It is the fairest and most equal tax, because it taxes each man according to his ability to pay. Taxes are paid out of income, and income is the best criterion of ability to pay taxes.

Second.-The income tax is a much better business tax than the property tax. The property tax throttles business; it must be paid in bad times as well as in good times, and it must be paid by the struggling new enterprise as well as by the established prosper ous concern. It falls with the same weight on property which is heavily incumbered as the property which is owned free. The income tax spares the small business, the new business and every business, big and small, in an off year.

Third.-The rates are low: In general terms, 1/2 of 1 per cent. A man with a $2,500 income pays $2.50; a man with a $3,500 income pays $10; a man with a $12,000 income pays $180; a man with a $25,000 income pays $440. The last man with ten times the income of the first man pays 176 times as much tax. This is not unfair. The big fellows have the incomes. The tax on them never exceeds 2 per cent. This is low rate in one sense, but it must be remembered that these men pay a Federal income tax rising to 7 per cent on the highest class of income.

The proposed State income tax will not burden the farm, the homestead or the owner of real estate who is not making money. If a family has nothing above a living income, it will have no income tax to pay. The farmer and wage-earner are not exempted as such. If they have an income sufficient to keep them in comfort, i. e., about $2. 000 a year, they will pay the income tax: they ought to pay. But the average farmer or wage-earner will not be taxed because their incomes will not be high enough to justify it. In Wisconsin, for instance, where exemptions are 5 per cent lower than those imposed here, less than five per cent of the farmers and less than one per cent of the laborers pay income tax.

Fourth. - Notwithstanding the low rates, the yield of the tax will be large A large proportion, if not the full amount, should be returned to the localities, so that in many towns the proceeds of the income tax will make denced by continued possession and of taxation on property.

Fifth.-The income tax is the only tax which can equitably reach such classes as professional men who earn a large income but pay no tax under the questions have been fairly settled. present system.

Sixth.-Will the tax work? The Federal income tax works. The Wisconsin income tax works. There is no reason why a good law will not work in New York. Taxpayers are not liars. They will not pay property taxes at 2 per cent on securities yielding 5 per cent a year. No wonder they will not pay such a tax! But Wisconsin experience proves amply that they will pay an income tax of 2 per cent, and the State gets more revenue out of an equitable low tax than it gets out of an inequitable high tax.

Seventh.-The argument that the tax is unnecessarily inquisitorial and troublesome is not sound. The proposed law is modeled generally on the Federal law for purposes of convenience. Taxpayers will be given the option of making their reports on the copies of the Federal blanks, with a brief rider asking for data in regard to those parts of the law which are different.

Eighth.-The tax reaches the great class of people who do business in New York, enjoying most of the privileges of citizens of the State and who under the present law pay no taxes whatso-

Ninth.-It is important that the State should appropriate this source of revenue for itself, before the Federal Government proceeds to take it all. This is particularly true of the State of New York, which pays a large percentage get at the income indirectly and by of the Federal income tax. From the outward signs, utilizing certain defistandpoint of New York taxpayers and nite facts of expenditure as affording citizens, it is better that an income tax should be raised and spent at home. rather than paid to the Federal Government and spent for the benefit of other States.

THE CLASSIFIED PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX.

General Plan of the Tax. To extend the system of classified property tax. It is now already applied to banks, trust companies, mortgages, etc. The next step is to extend it to those intangibles comprised in stocks, bonds and debentures, but not to moneys and credits. The present plan contemplates the gradual extension of the classified property tax at some future date to all other forms of personal property not included by this act and not specifically exempted.

Tangible Personal Property.

Exempt all household goods and workers' tools and implements and farmers' domestic animals, etc., to the that the taxpayer will pay a sum that amount of $2,000. The balance to be taxable at 8 or 10 mills. That part of tangible personalty represented by merchants and manufacturers' wares, of stocks and goods to be reached by a tax framed as a new law hereafter but not included in this proposal.

Intangible Personalty. Rate.-Two mills upon market value:

eral government, New York state and municipal issues, and bonds registered under the 1915 "Secured Debt Law" for a period of five years.

Intangible Personalty Not Included. -Such as non-interest-bearing securities, current liquid accounts, cash de-

Debt Deduction. No debt deduction of any kind. Who Pay Tax.

Every resident and every other individual, whether residing in the State or not, whose securities are so held in New York as to prevent taxation thereon by the State of his residence.

Yield.

It is estimated that the two-mill tax would reach $10,000,000,000 of stocks. bonds and securities, so that a yield of $20,000,000 would be obtained.

Administration.

Every corporation to return a list of its intangible property similar to what it is now required to do by law. Tangible personal property of corporation not to be listed under this tax. Such property to be reached in another way under a business tax not elaborated in this paper.

Individuals to file a general list of intangible personal property subject to the tax, but not to file any other kind of a list.

The general administration of the tax to be carried out by a system of county supervisors, who will act as intermediaries between the State Tax Commission and the local tax officers.

Arguments For and Against. First.-The tax rate is adjusted to the class to which it applies and meets the great objection to the general property tax which attempts to impose the same rate on all classes, regardless of income of each. Second.-Is in line with reform efforts in nearly every State in the Union during last ten years. Thus it has been tried in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Minnesota, Rhode Island and Iowa with satisfactory progress. Most recent reforms have been in the good revenue producer, and what is equally important, an efficient agency in bringing about greater equality in distributing the tax burdens.

Second.-If no allowance is made for indebtedness, the tax is unjust. If allowance is made for debt, inducement is given to the creation of fictitious debt, which will again result in inequality.

Third.—The whole system of modern times is to estimate taxpaying ability in terms of profit or income, not in terms of property.

Fourth.-The low rate tax will not reach large salaries or professional in-

Fifth.-The low rate will not begin to yield the necessary income. The Increase in revenue in other States has been very moderate.

111. The Ability or Presumptive Income

Tax. The ability tar, so called, is a tax on the abilities of those who profit from the opportunities afforded by the State of New York. Conceding that the fairest test of ability to pay is income, and assuming that a direct income tax is unattainable, the proposition is to some indication of relative income. The ability tax, as a presumptive income tax, would therefore be composed of three parts;

A. A habitation tax.

B. An occupation tax.

C. A salaries tax. with provisions by which only one of these taxes would be payable by any particular person.

A. The Habitation Tax.

The habitation tax is to be levied upon individuals occupying houses or apartments for residential purposes. It proceeds upon the theory that what a uan spends for rent is a rough indicaion of his ability to contribute to the public burden. Inasmuch as the ratio of house rent to income decreases as the amount of rent increases, it is obvious that, in order to secure approximate justice, the fax must be rather sharply graduated. The tax is accord ingly based upon a progressively gradnated scale. The tax is so calculated is about equivalent to 1 per cent of his income, as indicated by his house rent, Moreover, in order to prevent miscarriages of justice, it is provided that if any one finds that the tax amounts to more than 1 per cent of his actual 1 :come he shall have the right to declars and prove his actual income his income. Where a man lives in hiit is now determined under the in- calculated at 7 per cent of the assesse value of the property. Provision is Intaugible Personalty Included .- Un- glao made for people who live in hotels tures or other funded debt, and Fed- ments continuously for at least three or four months.

It might be alleged that the tax is a tax on the poor man. In reality the opposite is the case. All rentals below 30 a month, that is, $600 a year, are exempt. This corresponds to a total expenditure of from $2,500 to $3,-(00). Every one, therefore, with a presumptive income under this amount. pays no tax at all. Moreover, the seen from the following scale: On rentals from-00-$701 (-11.0 $30) () (-Sq(a) $126

In the seand place, it might be alcred that the habitation tax falls upon the coni comite owner, for the reason that a prospective tenant of, let us say. a grantment would insist upon aving his tent reduced to $600 in orer to escape the tax. This argument. tow wer, is to a large extent fallacious. in the first place, the $650 tenant will the saure the owner's consent to a re luction of $30 in rent in order to enthe the tenant to save $5 in tax. The same would be true of somewhat higher rentals, because according to the scale proposed a reduction of every To in rent would involve a saving of mly $5 in tax. So that even at the ver; worst, it would only be at the marrin of each class of tenants that there would be any pressure at all to denoral any reduction of rentals The habitation tax, therefore, is not tax on the small man nor is it a tax on the real estate owner. The habitation tax will, however, affeet those who earn their living in New York, but who do not live here. 12 Temple Court, Auburn, N. Y. They, too, possess an ability which ought to be reached. These it is proassed to reach by

B. The Occupation Tax. The occupation tax is a flat tax on the premises occupied for business or on the bas's of the annual rental value amendments of constitutions, so that of the premises. The tax is 7 per cent of the annual reatal value, with a reill tam or $25 in every case. Where York. This plan only extends principle for business purposes or for purposes of livelin oil, the rental value is estimate i, as in the case of the habitation tax, at 7 per cent of the assessed valuation. The occupation tax is not a tax upon the small business man. Business premises are liable to the tax only when the rent exceeds $600, and as the tax is levied at the rate of 7 er cent only on the rental exceeding that sum, the amount of the tax is insignificant. On even the more moder-> instance, the tax is only $50. The occupation tax, although conrededly not ideal, is far better than a tax on the stock-in-trade and assets of the business man. No one, moreover, will be held to both the habitation tax and the occupation tax. The habitation tax will hit large classes who do not pay the occupation tax; the occupation tax will hit large classes who do not pay the habitation. In both cases, any tax paid on personal property may be deducted.

ately successful business man, whose business rentals are $1600 a year, for

C. Salaries Tax.

The third part of the project is a tax on all salaries paid or received in the State of New York except salaries paid by the Federal government. The exemption is in all cases $2000 and the tax is graded from 1 per cent up to 5 per cent, the last rate being levied on the excess of salaries over $30,000. Provision is made for the reporting of

The salaries tax is not a tax on the small man. Since all salaries under $2000 are exempt, the recipient of a $5000 salary would pay only $30 a year. On the higher salaries like those of the more successful professional men and of well paid corporation officials the tax is graded according to a progressive scale. The salaries tax is, therefore, in reality a tax on large incomes derived from personal exertion. It is a tax upon the wealthier class, not upon the poor man.

Moreover, it would be equally false to state that salaries are taxed while other incomes are not taxed. Just the reverse is true. Business incomes are reached by the occupation tax; other incomes in general by the habitation tax. No one is to pay more than one of these taxes. The object of the salaries tax is not to single out for taxation people with salaries; but on the contrary, to prevent people with large salaries, but living outside of the State and who carry on no other business in the State-from escaping justice.

The salaries tax, instead of being an unequal tax on a special class is an attempt to secure equality of taxation by reaching those who would otherwise

The ability tax would be exceedingly easy to administer, and the revenue would be very large. In the City of New York alone at the rates suggested. the revenue would be from twenty to twenty-five million dollars a year. In the other cities of the State, the revenue would be proportionate.

N. B.-It is very doubtful whether the "Ability Tax" would be successful in the rural districts or smaller towns It is essentially a city tax, and if the tax situation is found to be acute in cities only or in certain cities, it might e well for the Legislature to give to have his tax reduced to 1 per cent of each city the authority to impose such a tax in order to distribute more equally the local tax burden.

Wonder of Mechanism.

Half a century ago there was not a watch in existence capable of meeting the requirements of the American railway time service today. Rallway time inspection has set the limit of variation from true time for its employees' watches at 30 seconds a week. This means that the balance wheel shall not vary in its motion to the extent of one vibration out of every 20,000. Taking into consideration the various causes of disturbance to which a railway engineer's watch is subjected, the jolts to the proximity of large masses of iron and steel, this performance is marvelous, and justifies the claim that the watch of today is the most wonderful piece of mechanism that the ingenuity of man has ever produced .-'cientific American.

Prisoners and Spies.

A prisoner of war, according to The lague regulations? in attempting to esape does not commit a crime. It is his duty to escape if a favorable opportunity presents itself.

No distinction is drawn technically on account of sex, and women spies caught in the act have been put to death.-New York Times.

Criticism. Many an unpleasant thing needs to be done in a pleasant way. Teachers and parents and people in business life who are responsible for the work of others must from time to time speak provement can be made in the way of doing things. Such a word of criticism or correction or of suggested improvement can have the effect of being elther a shove down or a lift up. The word can be spoken with a disarming smile of reassurance or a hard and discouraging look of condemnation. And the heartening, lifting, smiling word 502 Metcalf Block, of admonition or suggestion brings a hundred per cent better response than the other sort. It gets the very results that we are after, while the word that antagonizes is liable to defeat the whole thing.—Exchange.

His Size. He Often when I look up at 'the stars in the firmament I cannot help thinking how small, how insignificant, I am, after all. She-Gracious! Doesn't that thought ever strike you except
