She lay very still against his heart. "He is not sure he is on the trail. He comes on like a wolf; then I speak, and he crawls on his belly. He has a streak of fat. We will go north." "When?"

"In two days."

So they packed quietly, and in two days, though the sun still only showed itself a few hours each day and the cold was intense, they went north toward the wilderness beyond the Yukon. At Koyuk Pierre became trail sore, and until they came in at last to Valdez they left a scarlet trail.

But at Valdez, forsaken Indian village of Valdez, there were kind hands to help the woman with the baby, and Pierre healed his feet so that soon they were well again.

But in July three men and a dog team came quietly into town, and Pierre, standing by his cabin door, greeted them and smiled. But one of the men was Trotter. From then on Pierre played into

Then one day Pierre and Tanana, stringing the red salmon to smoke and dry on the racks before the cabin, heard a clamor toward the river, the Chena rapids, which lay just back of

In an instant Pierre was running toward the water, and she followed him swiftly.

All of Valdez was there, calling out loudly, running uselessly up and down the steep bank while the man in the whirlpools, a bobbing black cork in their surging foam, struggled desperately, silently, without a chance.

Here the Chena was broad, though shallow, with a powerful current that was stronger than any living thing. Here, too, were jutting rocks, ugly gray peaks, by which no boat had ever safely passed. Two of the Indians had already ventured out and been driven in again, one of them almost dead. "Who is he?" Pierre questioned.

Trotter told him-Trotter, who was always beside him these days. "He had got a good woman, too-an Innuit," Trotter said after a minute, "and three children." Pierre's face softened.

Still the man fought indomitably in the black waters, grasping at the rocks that tore him.

He had great strength. Once he raised himself by a jagged gray spar, his face strained toward the nill, black with familiar faces. "Why don't they throw him a rope?" Pierre asked, and his voice was

"They did twice, but it is so far out to him. It either falls short or he can-he gave me half his grub and more for many weeks because I was sick. I cannot forget."

For a little she was silent. Pierre strode forward suddenly.

"Give me the rope," he said. The crowd parted and let him through, and some one handed him what he asked for.

A great hush came over them as he motioned them from him and coiled the rope. That finished, he called loudly to the sinking man: "Cooer-i, Charley; cooer-i!"

Then he squared his great shoulders. He poised himself as though to run and with a peculiar swing of his right arm threw the lasso.

Out and up it went, straight as an arrow flies, and then dropped down, slowly, slowly, and uncuried like some beautiful thing about the drowning

"Not yet." "But you saw his face?"

"Louis Framway."

"Yes, I saw his face." Trotter came with the daylight, and Pierre met him at the door.

"There is a man due here today from Yukon." "Yes," said Pierre.

Pierre said nothing. "He knows you. I depended upon him for a sure identification before I took you back with me. Of course now it is not necessary. It was worth a lifetime to see that rope trick of yours vesterday. You are the only one ever heard of who could do it."

"Non. I had hunted him for a year. He took my sister from our lodge She died after," Trotter's face changed a little.

"I wondered what the reason was, had never heard." Trotter moved uneasily.

"The man will be here by noon. By tomorrow noon we will be on our way back to Yukon. You had better stay here quiet until then, so he will not see you. I will see that he hears nothing. That-yesterday-was a big thing to do, Pierre - a big thing. And me watching. Goodby, Pierre. It was a long trail, but I am glad to lose this time.

Trotter held out his hand. Pierre stared at him stupidly.

"I do not go?" he whispered at last. "I guess not. You are too big a man to be dragged back there. I'll hunt for smaller fry next time. Goodby, Pierre."

Pierre watched him go. Then he went into where Tanana still crouched, closing the door gently behind him.

The Forgiveness of Sin

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL

TEXT-Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered. Blessed is the man unto whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no guile.—Psalm 32:1, 2.

Psalm 32 is supposed to have been written after the visit of Nathan to David. The guilty king has found pardon for his sin and here voices his gladness. In our text, three words are used to describe our offenses against God: "transgression" means rebellion against authority; "sin" is missing the mark, both of God's standard and our anticipations; "iniquity" is distortion, crookedness. Likewise, three words are used to describe God's gracious dealing with sin: it is "forgiven," lifted up as a burden; "covered," and so hidden from sight; it is not "imputed," but canceled like a debt. Men speak lightly of forgiveness until a deep sense of sin settles upon them, then they wonder whether their guilt may be put away; they no longer question the Bible teaching on the punishment of sin, but find it difficult to believe in its forgiveness. For such troubled souls we have good news.

To begin with, the Bible revelation of God is full of comfort for them. He is "the Lord God, merciful and graclous, long suffering and abundant in goodness and truth; keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin." God was revealed in Jesus Christ, and we knew our Lord's attitude to the penitent during the days of his flesh. The woman who bathed his feet with tears, the shrinking adulteress, publicans and sinners, all attest that there is forgiveness with the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Peace Through the Cross.

But it is at Calvary, especially, that assurance for the penitent is found. Such a soul will not be satisfied lightly. He demands that, for the awfulness of his sin, some awful reparation be made. But the cross fully meets this demand. God's Son, our substitute, holy and undefiled, hung there, and all God's waves and billows swept over him. Calvary tells of love, indeed, but it also tells of wrath, for the wrath of God against sin exhausted itself in the dark hour of the crucifixion. This is the meaning of the Savior's cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" That such provision has been made is further attested by the experience of men. Luther tells us that the pains of hell got hold upon him, but when he looked to the wounds of Christ he found peace. John Wesley, after seeking rest for his soul for years, trusted in Christ and felt his heart strangely warmed and assured. Spurgeon was so happy when he experienced forgiveness that he wanted to tell the crows of the field about it. These men were not deluded; the experience of Luther led to the Reformation, that of Wesley to the Evangelical revival and that of Spurgeon to years of a fruitful minis-

Sin Against the Holy Ghost.

But though so clearly attested, we occasionally meet one who declares this blessing is not for him, for he has committed the sin of which Christ said it "hath never forgiveness"—the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost. But what is this sin? As the result of careful study one writer gives this definition: "The blasphemous manifestation in word or deed of an internal state of soul to which a man has arrived by a continual resistance and increasing opposition to the clearest and most undoubted revelation of God's spirit; which state, when once attained, is one of contemptuous and malicious hatred of all that pertains to the Son of God and which, by its very nature, is bound to manifest itself as such." We never met a soul, troubled over this sin, who gave evidence of having descended to such depths of willful opposition to Christ. Indeed, one who has committed this sin will not be distressed over it, and the fact of distress is itself an encouragement. Over against all our fears stands the word of Christ, "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out."

How we should love him who forgives so much! the psalmist says, "There is forgiveness with thee that thou mayest be feared," fear here meaning reverent love. A story is told of General Havelock which illustrates this text One of his soldiers violated regulations and continued to do so in spite of discipline. Someone asked the general if he had "tried forgiving" the offender, and the suggestion was acted upon. The soldier was sent for, and came defiant, expecting another reprimand. He was surprised when his officer said, kindly: "Johnstone, I have determined in the queen's name to forgive you all these offenses." He went away a subdued and changed man and gave no further trouble.

Extend City Planning.

English and French town planners are now at work upon a comprehensive plan for the reconstruction of Belgium. We fortunately have not gone through the tragedy of the devastating influences that the little country of the north of Europe has been subjected to, but stupid city and state engineering, grafting contracting interests, inefficient and grasping corporation methods have all conspired in the destructive work of isolation of communities from each other and have fostered provincialism, with its destructive effects of reduced co-operation, unfair and wasteful competition and unsympathetic division of interests, says Carol Aronovici in the Town Improvement

Competition by isolation has had its day, and we are beginning to learn that the business interests of individuals, as well as the interests of the cities, can best be served by intensive cooperation rather than by blundering and isloated competition. To accomplish this comprehensive community planning that will respect no artificial political or social boundaries and which will intensify human contact by a coordination of the human activities on the broadest possible scale is neces-

We are ready in this country for something more extensive and more comprehensive than city planning. We need the adequate planning of great areas of our country that will allow our cities and states to work together for the development and efficient use of our natural and human resources and give every community a chance to take its place in the work of developing its natural and human poten-

Cleaning Lace.

Lace that is too delicate to be washed in the usual way can be cleaned in this way: Make a strong soapsuds of some good soap and allow the lace to remain in it for several hours at least, although it is well to shake it out occasionally. A wide mouthed bottle is most convenient to handle. When the lace is thoroughly soaked let the soapy water out of the bottle and keep adding clean water until the soap has all been removed from the lace. Do not handle the lace at all; shaking the bottle will rinse it thoroughly.

If the lace is narrow wind it round bottle that has been covered with a piece of soft flannel, and do not re move it until it is dry. If it is too wide to care for in that way dry it on a large cushion. First cover the cushion with a heavy towel, then pin the points of the lace in place and allow it to dry. It is better not to use steel plus on account of the danger from rust. When dry the lace will look like new.-Youth's Companion.

Famous Temple and Statue.

Since about the year 752 the grand ceremony of Kaigen, or "opening the spiritual eye of the statue," has been celebrated but five times at the temple commonly known as the Daibutsu of Nara, at Tokyo. The original statue has suffered grievously since 752. Once, in 855, the head dropped off Since then it has suffered twice from fire, and upon each occasion the head was destroyed. The statue in its sitting posture measures fifty-three and a half feet, the length of the face being sixteen feet. The two Bodhisattvas flanking the Daibutsu are as high as thirty feet. The temple is 188 feet in frontage and 166 feet in depth and is known as the largest wooden building in Japan, though it is much smaller than the original, built 1,100 years ago It was not built to protect the status from bein; exposed to the weather but the statue was made to enshrine as the chief figure of the temple.

MANHATTAN ISLAND.

ft Was Once a Spot Apart From the Itland of Manhattan.

The Magazine of American History has called attention to a distinction in New York nomenclature that, despite the authority it quotes, "every Manhattanese" does not know. The magazine cites the following footnote to "The Spy," by James Fenimore Cooper and then comments on it:

"Every Manhattanese knows the difference between Manhattan Island and the Island of Manhattan. The first is applied to a small district in the vicinity of Corlear's Hook, while the last embraces the whole island, or the city and county of New York as it is termed in the laws.

"In other words, the latter is the present borough of Manhattan. Manhattan Island was a knoll along the old water front of the East river about an acre in extent surrounded by creeks and salt marsh and made an island by the tide. Near it was Henry Eckford's shipyard, an ancient landmark. It may be identified on General Egbert I. Viele's map of the water courses.

"In the reticulation of the present streets it lay between Rivington and Houston, Sheriff and Cannon streets. Columbia and Stanton streets intersect on what was about the center of the island. Just north of it was one of the tidal mouths of a stream that arose near First avenue on Sixth street. flowed through Tompkins square and reached the river between Manhattan Island and Burnt Mill or Branda Munah Point, about Third and Lewis

ALASKA'S FERTILE LANDS.

Fants About Our Vast and Little Understood Territory.

Alaska is the most misunderstood and misrepresented section of the United States. People generally, and sincerely, believe that the name Alaska is synonymous with snow and ice and couple it accordingly with ice cream freezers and cold drinks. Yet the principal cities of Alaska along its southern coast line-Juneau, Ketchikan, Cordova, Valdez and Seward-do not average as cold in midwinter as New York and are seldom as cold as Baltimore and Washington during cold

Alaska is one-fifth the size of the whole United States, and its prodigious area of about 600,000 square miles, nearly three times the size of the German empire, spreads from the temperate zone to the arctic circle. Not onequarter of it is in the latter. Below the circle lies a magnificent belt of fertile soil.

It is estimated by government authorities that the agricultural area of Alaska's fertile valleys and plains, on many of which cattle can be wintered without feeding, aggregate 30,000 square miles, with a climate like that of northern Europe-Norway, Finland and Sweden. This land is richer and more productive than that of any other country in the world, well watered, fairly well timbered, and 320 acres are open free to the settler if he wishes to take up a homestead.-John A. Sieicher in Leslie's.

The Story of "Hard Hit."

"Mr. Orchardson, if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like yours I would stab you to the heart." Such was the remark made by Pellegrini, the famous caricaturist, to the Royal academician, Sir William Orchardson, when at a private view he first saw "Hard Hit," the picture of the ruined gambler. "It was," said the artist, "the greatest compliment I could have had." Curiously enough, the model who sat for the ruined gamester was rather fond of cards himself. One day the artist noticed that he looked somewhat depressed. "What is the matter?" he asked. "I was awfully hard hit last night," he answered. "By Jove," replied the artist, jumping up with delight, "I've got it at last! 'Hard Hit,' of course." And that is how the picture got its

Where Shelley Was Drowned.

Spezia, the principal naval station of Italy, and about fifty miles southeast of Genoa, described as "the Portsmouth of Italy," has interesting literary associations. It calls up memories of Byron, Shelley, Leigh Hunt, Charles Lever and Mary Somerville. Lever was in residence at Spezia intermittently for some years, and there wrote three of his books. But a more tragic interest is attached to the magnificent bay, for it will be recollected that it was while sailing in a new boat across the gulf to his home at Lerici that Shelley was drowned,

BUSINESS BOOMS ALL OVER NATION

Federal Reserve Agents Report Improvement.

WHOLESALE TRADE IS GOOD

Cotton, Selling at Excellent Prices, Has a Bright Future, and the South Is Happy-Railroads Announce a Big Increase In Freight Traffic, and Optimism is Reigning Everywhere.

Improved business conditions in practically all sections of the United States are reflected in reports from federal reserve agents in the twelve districts made public by the federal reserve board.

The three southern districts where cotton is the big factor report that present prices and efforts of the federal board to finance the crop have had a beneficial effect on other lines.

Boston reports general improvement in all lines over last month, which is 'very slight," but is in addition and apart from European orders, which is taken as an encouraging sign. New York reports retail business poor good for fail and winter business.

Philadelphia reports little change from a business point of view. General business conditions are spotty, with unusual activity in the manufacture of munitions. The steel business is good, coal mining is quiet, and oil is showing improvement.

The largest railroad in that district reports no idle good order cars. Of more than 500 representative firms in the district reporting conditions early in September 135 said conditions were normal, 240 not normal, 157 good, 81 fair and 80 poor.

Improvement is General.

Improved conditions, confined to special lines in the Cleveland district, have found their way into general trade. The steel business continues to boom. but little domestic business for 1916 is reported sold.

With cotton at present prices, Richnond reports, a large part of the dis trict's crops will move from first hands, be generally helpful. Leaf tobacco personal check; acceptance of order opprices are said to be holding well. Conditions are described as sound and with excellent promise. Bright outlook in the cotton market in the Atlanta district, says the report, is an important factor. Railroads show considerable increase in freight traffic. The tobacco belt indicates a crop in good condition, with an average better than last year.

Chicago notes that any change there in general conditions is for the better and that there is apparent a feeling of more confidence in the future. Crops continue to look good.

Failures Are Decreasing.

The wholesale trade of the St. Louis district shows increased activity, with a large jobbing business and commercial failures decreasing in number. The corn crop is expected to go above that of 1914 and the ten year average. A feeling of doubt is said to be turning to one of confidence among merchants. Minneapolis says the district will contribute between 290,000,000 and 300, 000,000 bushels of hard wheat to the 1915 crop, compared with about 160, 000,000 bushels a year ago. The report says it is already clear that farmers are showing a disposition to hold in the expectation of better prices. General business is said to be prosperous and is moving at about normal. From Kansas City it is reported that wheat farmers are inclined to hold for better prices. If there is no killing frost Kansas and Nebraska are expected to show one of the largest corn crops in their history.

General conditions in the Dallas district are said to show some improvement over August. The Texas cotton crop is estimated at not more than 3,250,100 bales.

San Francisco says conditions have not changed greatly, with the lumber business slow.

Governor Walsh Urges a Plan of Military Education.

Compulsory military education for all youths over fourteen years of age, with exemption from poll taxes for those serving three years in the militia, was advocated by Governor Walsh of Massachusetts at a hearing before a newly organized state commission on military education and preparedness.

The governor suggested that camp duty be required for one week in a year, and that there be included in the courses of the Massachusetts public schools calisthenics as taught at West Point, military history, personal hygiene, sanitation in camp, home and city; flag signaling, telegraphy and first aid to the injured.

De Lisle's Tragedy. An affair of the youth of Rouget de Lisle, author of the "Marseillaise," is told by a French journal. In 1870, they manufacture. when he was about twenty years old, Rouget de Lisle, a pupil of the military school, was deeply smitten with the charms of a young girl of Courbevoie, Mile. Camille, whose father was a captain on half pay. The betrothal was made the occasion of a family fete, in the course of which some fireworks were to be set off. The future officer could not leave to others the care of touching off the powder. When the moment came to fire the principal piece, which showed the figure of his well beloved, he approached with a light in his hand, the guests meanwhile taking their places on a terrace opposite him. The piece was lighted, but a rocket badly directed struck the young girl on the forehead, and she died some days after in consequence of her burns.

A Queer Fish. One of the queerest of odd creatures is the mud skipper, or jumping fish, which inhabits the large rivers of India and the neighboring seacoasts. At ebb tide these little fishes leave the water to hunt for tiny crabs, flies, etc., and their strong pectoral and ventral fins, aided by their tail, enable them trees, grass and leaves.

With their huge eyes, seeming to project far out of their sockets, they can see as well on land as in the water. They progress in short, quick leaps, effected by sharply bending the rear third of the body to the left and suddenly straightening it. In color they are usually light brown, with dark bands, though they sometimes appear light green. They are easily caught and are much used in Burma.

The Neglected House Number. Without realizing it the home builders and home owners of this country have shoved the poor house number into a rut, out of which it will take months and probably years for it to climb, says Albert Marple in the Countryside Magazine. People seem not to have awakened to the fact that the house number is really a part of the home, that it is always placed in a position where it is seen by the passing public and that it is entitled to consideration as surely as the porch. the chimney or the pillar. Numbers set in an original surrounding cause one to forget that they are the same old metal figures that are to be seen on every hand. Lucius A. Goodyear.

Lucius A. Goodyear was born Dec. 19, 1838, and died suddenly in King Ferry, Oct. 24, 1915. He had been in poor health for a long time. Mr. Goodyear spent the greater part of his life in the vicinity of King Ferry, having lived over 60 years in the same school district.

He was a veteran of the civil war, having enlisted in 1863 in Cowan's Battery, and was wounded in battle. Nearly all the members of this battery are now dead.

On Feb. 6, 1867, he married Lydia B. Fessenden, whom he survived by only three weeks.

In politics, Mr. Goodyear was a staunch Republican. He served this town as assessor for a number of years, and was always faithful in the discharge of his duties.

The Village Improvement Association of Canton, Pa., Is Very Active In Civic Affairs, and the Town Is a Much More Attractive and Sanitary Place Because of These Efforts.

A foremost organization in the Bradford County (Pa.) Civic league, one whose founding antedates that of the league, is the Village Improvement association of Canton, Pa. The Bradford County Civic league is an association of women's clubs devoted to town improvement in its various developments.

The Village Improvement association of Canton was established in 1903 and entered the league in 1913.

The V. I. A. meets each month in the year, considering as basis for ac- dressing, marquisettes, cocoa with tion topics in their timeliness. The first meeting of this year was devoted to a review of the borough ordinances, In February the anti-fly campaign be- pickles, pineapples and tapioca sponge, gan, and garbage disposal was studied. | tea. In March protection of the town's birds was the subject. The water supply and advisability of establishing a playground followed in turn. With the season of natural growth at its height, the August meeting was given to discussing "What Is the Next Step In Beautifying Our Town?" Another question, "What Can the V. I. A. Do to Aid the Cause of Temperance at Home?" is to be taken up in October.

The membership of the association now exceeds 100. From the first it has peppers, celery, olive, tiny baking powbeen active in civic affairs, and its home town is a much more attractive tea. and sanitary place because of the thorough and systematic efforts of the club to make and keep it so. Its activities have included the annual cleanup make the meal more palatable. week in May-keeping weeds cut and papers and rubbish picked up. Anti- a chafing dish luncheon. Prizes have been given for beautifying front yards and for the greatest sanitary improvements in back yards.

To the public library $600 was donated, and in the interest of good roads $500 was given into the borough treasury. Contributions have been made to the volunteer fire department, and the Canton band has received donations to its fund for uniforms. An attractive band stand has been built near the public square, and in the basement of this pavilion is a room in which food sales and other local enterprises for fund raising are arranged.

Metal street signs have been placed at all intersections of streets, and a modern street sprinkler has been bought and successfully operated for two seasons. All money for this enterprise was collected and paid out by the association.

The women consider as the greatest achievements of their club the thorough, daily flushing during the summer season of the water plugs in the town and the keeping constantly before the board of health the necessity for an adequate filtration plant for the water system. Success has met this effort in an order from Harrisburg calling for such a filtration plant as soon as it can be constructed

The association was one of the first organizations in the town to contribute and humane work is continually mingled in its civic duties.

The most ambitious work yet attempted is the purchase of land to be used as an athletic park and play- butter a tenspoonful of ground cinnaground. Two acres of land near the mon, a teaspoonful of ground allspice, Tenter of town have been secured. The price, $2,950, is a reduction of teaspoonful of salt and one-half cupful $600 from the real value, a concession good cider vinegar, boiling slowly an made possible by the interest of an active member's husband in encouragement of the association's valiant undertaking. The improvement and equipment will add to the cost, and the association members prophesy that the town will be a busy place unitl these funds are in hand. Immediately after the purchase of the play park site its use was donated during Chautauqua week for the site of the entertainment tent. This act was a natural sequence and in line with the asociation's records for good work, for it was largely through this indorsement that Chautauqua week was made possible to the vicinity.

The local board of health and borough council have learned to respect and depend upon the women of the club for active work and constant vigllance in making their town a better place in which to live.

WAR AGAINST ALCOHOL.

"Get on the water wagon!" is now the slogan of the New York health department. Its head, Dr. Sigismund S. Goldwater, says that "anything which affects the health of the people of a city is a subject of concern to the health officials," and in accordance with this view he has declared war on liquor. "It is nonsense," he says, "to go on fighting disease and crime if we don't do something to abolish the chief factor in causation. There are too many people sick from liquor in New York city—that's enough for me. . . I want it understood that this is to be a real fight. It is not enough to make occasional deprecatory mention of alcohol and its results; we must have a definite antialcohol program. The work of the health department in this field will henceforth be systematic, aggressive and unremitting." Every means of publicity will be utilized in this campaign. It will be spectacular and in the vernacular, the rich man's champagne and highballs, as well as the poor man's "third rail" whisky and beer, will be the object of attack.

For months the New York state was at the rate of 27.04 knots. board of health has been giving out medical profession, and without doubt or cope with such a foe. health officials of other cities will follow the lead.

SECRET PLANS PREPARED.

New Vessels Will Carry Eight Fourteen-inch Guns and Rival Speed of Express Trains Could Cross Atlantic In Three Days and Eight Hours-To Cost $18,000,000 Each.

A battle cruiser-such as proposed in our new naval program-plowing her way through the waters at thirty-five knots an hour, if it were possible to keep up that speed, would make the passage from the Ambrose channel lightship to Queenstown; the course over which the steamship Mauretania made her record of 4 days, 10 hours and 41 minutes, in approximately 3 days and 8 hours. The distance between these points is estimated at 2,814 knots, or nautical miles. The fastest day's run by the Mauretania

The battleships to be recommended in this year's naval program will also cost about $18,000,000 each. Officials of the navy department refrained from disclosing the detailed characteristics of the projected battle cruiser. Secretary Daniels admitted that the vessel was designed for thirtyfive knots. Another high official said the propelling machinery would consist of turbines. Beyond this no information was obtainable from any source as to the essential characteristics of the projected warship. When one high official was asked how it was proposed to obtain the speed of thirty-five nautical miles an hour he responded:

"That's our secret." The American navy has no battle cruisers and is lacking in scout cruisers. DOMESTIC SCIENCE COURSES INCREASING IN POPULARITY.

Rich and Poor, Foreign Born and Native, Want to Cook Well.

Increased enrollment this year in schools specializing in domestic science and domestic art is directing attention to the growth of the popularity of those courses during the last few years. Where a few years ago subjects coming under those heads were but little known to the general public and indeed regarded by many largely as experimental, they are today among the most popular, the best known and the most widely taken studies. This holds true equally of the children of the laboring 12 Temple Court, Auburn, N. Y. man and of the daughters of men high in official, business and social life. One of the interesting phases of this form of education is that it seems to appeal to many foreigners who come to America. The desire seems to prevail with many to learn how Americans by cited to show cause before the Surkeep house, and they want to know the scientific and best methods.

Theories of housekeeping are being used in the various schools where the subjects are taught, but emphasis is placed on the practical side. In learning cooking, interior decoration, sewing and sanitation the students are given opportunity to learn for themselves by actual practice. In many well equipped schools, of which Washington has a number, a real house or apartment is used, and the students learn all the details "from the ground

Experts, among them Dr. Harvey W. Wiley of "pure food" fame, are obtained for lecture purposes. All correlating subjects are given attention. For instance, in one of the Washington schools a lecturer discussed current events in order that wives may have an understanding of the topics of the day and be able to discuss them intelligently with their husbands. Attention is also given to athletics.

It has been pointed out that a woman graduating from such a course is not only better fitted for the business of life, but also has a profession upon which she can rely in case she has to make her own living. Expert managers of homes are in no small de-

Woman Suffrage Lost In the Empire State by Approximately 200,030, New York City Polling Over 92,000 Votes Against Fair Sex-Republicans Have 95 In Assembly, Democrats 55, Progressives 1, Socialists 1.

New York, Nov. 3 - Elections were held yesterday in eight states of the Union. The states were Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

In New York, the returns at present indicated that only three counties in the entire state voted for the new constitution. This is said to be the severest jolt ever given to a proposed fundamental law of the Empire state of the Union.

The Hon, Elihu Root, formerly United States senator, and formerly secretaries of war and of state, was the chairman of the constitutional convention and he threw all the weight of his great influence for the constitution's adoption.

The overwhelming defeat of the instrument, it was -aid, might shill up a large vote against the proposisome of the indicate enthusies of for tion that women should be given the Mr. Root as the cartillate of a very right or privilege of voting. in New York state, in the Twentysecond, Thirty-first and Thirty-eighth districts. In voting for congressmen the voters of New York had the only chance to show where they stood on national questions. The Thirty-first and Thirty-eighth districts are safely Republican and returns indicate that former Congressman W. S. Bennett, Republican candidate, carried the Twenty-third district.

The lower house of the Republican legislature is safely Republican, the returns at present indicating that the assembly will stand: Republicans 95, Democrats 53, Progressives 1, Socialists 1. The lone Progressive in New York assembly is Hamilton Fish, Jr., whose father was once speaker of that body and whose grandfather was once secretary of state of United States,

In New York county the Tammany ticket won easily.

In Pennslyvania, Temple, Republican and Progressive candidate for congress in the Twenty-fourth district, was elected by about 10,000.

Maryland Elects Democratic Governor In Maryland the Democratic candidate for governor was elected and the home rule for cities proposition was probably carried. In Maryland only did international politics crop The Citizens' Union of that state, whose membership includes the members of nearly all of the German societies of the state, advised its members to vote against the Democratic candidate for governor as a German protest against the administration of Woodrow Wilson, and as will give at least 107,000, perhaps an indication of what the Maryland more. The returns from the uprtate counties, where the antis had spread their efforts widely and where they had made a special appeal against votes for women on the ground that "woman's place was in the home" were saddening to the suffrage leaders. One county after another sent in a majority-Albany 5,000, Duchess 6,700 Erie 14,100, Niagara 900, Westchester 8,000. Here and there though the spots were few, though precious to the sorrowful leaders, there were close contests.

Rockland, in fact, seems to have given suffrage a majority of 51, and Cortland, one of the most prosperous counties in the state, turned down the proposition by a bare 50 votes. It was close in Fulton-Hamilton and in Nassau and there were several other counties where the antis vote was nothing to brag about.

ALLIES LAND AT KAVALA

British and French Transports Bring New Expeditionary Forces.

London, Nov. 3. - British and French transports, bearing what is described as a new expeditionary force for service in the Balkans, have arrived off Kavala, the Greek port on the Aegean, 80 miles northeast of Salonica, where the earlier expeditionary forces were landed, according to the Berliner Tageblatt.

This port, is only about 20 mfles Asgean and, therefore, much nearer Bulgarian territory than is Salonica. Also it is the nearest Greek port to the Gallipoli penineula. Because of this, it is assumed that should. Franco-British troops be withdrawn from the peninsula for the campaign against Bulgaria and the Austro-German forces in Serbia, Kavala might be selected as their landing place.

The railway from Salonica to Kedeagatch, Bulgaria, is only a few miles of Kavala.

The Berliner Tageblatt's Athens correspondent, according to the Overover the possible occupation of Kavala by the allies and that the Greeks are increasingly resentful towards the attitude of the allies in Salonica. The German correspondent describes this attitude as causing the belief that the stay of the allied forces in Salonica will be permanent.

Want Greece to Demobilize.

Rome, Nov. 3.-Colonel Falkenheim, the German military attache at Athens, who went to Sofia before the mobilization of the Bulgarian army as the bearer of the kaiser's message to King Ferdinand urging Bulgaria to enter the war, has now gone to Athens accompanied by several other officers, including a son of Prince von Buelow, and will have an audience with King Constantine, A correspondent is informed through diplomatic sources that Colonel Falkenheim is striving to secure the demobilization of the Greek army which the Greek government is delaying lest France should decline to advance the second installment of the Greek $4,000,000 loan.

Serbian Capital Moved Again. London, Nov. 3.-Cacak, the latest temporary capital of Serbia and of military importance as a railway point, has been captured by the Austro-German troops, according to an official statement issued in Berlin. The town is 30 miles southwest of Kragujevatz. The Serbian capital has been moved to Mitrovitza, A dispatch from Rome says that 50,000 British and French troops are advancing from Krivolak, and are outflanking the Bulgarians. The Bulgarian losses at Veles (Kuprili) are estimated in the Rome dispatch at exceeding 25,000 men.

Majority of Smith For Mayor In the City of Brotherly Love Will Be Close to 80,000-Every Republican Candidate Was Swept Into Office By a Big Vote.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3. - Thomas B. Smith is conceded to have been elected mayor of Philadelphia by a majority of from 60,000 to 80,00, and with hen is swept into office every other one of the Republican organization candidates for important local offices.

Despite the sensational efforts of Mayor Blankenburg and his reform cabinet to bring about the success of the campaign to elect George D. Porter, independent, to succeed him as chief mag strate of the city, the organization rolled up a vote of tremendous proportions.

At the same time the organization smothered the woman suffrage proposition in an avalanche of ballots and the local majority will vitlate the Republican pluralities in the upstate counties for the suffrage amend-

Women suffrage lost in Pennsylvania by a about 70,000 majority. Because of the size of the ballot, the computation of the woman's suffrage vote is very slow, especially in the cities. From late reports received, however, it was difficult to estimate the pluralities which the suffragists will receive in the country districts. It is considered highly improbable that they will be so large as to offset the majorities against them in the cities.

Pennsylvania elected three superior court judges. They are John B. Head and George B. Orlady, present judges, and J. Henry Williams of Philadelphia. Although chosen on a non-partisan ticket, Judge Head is a Democrat and the others are Republicans

GLOOM IN WASHINGTON

Administration Officials Disappointed Over Results of Election.

Washington, Nov. 3 .- Taken as a whole officials of the administration were disappointed over the results of west of the Bulgarian coast on the Tuesday's elections. With the early returns indicating the election of Samuel W. McCall, the Republican candidate for governor of Massachusetts, and Maryland in doubt, the feeling in Democratic circles was one of intense gloom. Some consolation was obtained in the election of Augustus O. Stanley, the Democratic candidate for governor in Kentucky.

Great interest was aroused over the defeat of the proposed constitution in the state of New York. The opinion seemed to be quite general that the rejection of this amendment by the people of New York might handiseas News agency of Berlin, says cap the movement that has gained that prominent Greeks are exercised headway in various section of the country favorable to the nomination of Elihu Root as the Republican presidential candidate.

It is admitted on all hands that the rejection of equal suffrage by New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, following the defeat of this proposed reform in New Jersey, will intensify the fight to be made before congress this winter to obtain votes for women.

The defeat of Governor Walsh in Massachusetts by former Representative McCall is considered a rebuke for the administration. Mr. Walsh appealed for votes on the record of President Wilson. His followers were fond of repeating the slogan; 'A vote for Walsh is a vote for Wilson."

While administration leaders declined to comment on election it is known that they entertain the view that the results show that if the Republican party is united in 1916 the Democrats will have a rocky road to travel. Nevertheless administration leaders insist that while the elections indicate that the Domocratic organization is not as strong as they believed, they are still of the opinion that Mr. Wilson is stronger than his party and that he cannot be beaten in 1916.

Buffalo's First Charter Election. Buffalo, Nov. 3 .- Arthur W. Kreinneder, Charles M. Heald, Charles B. Hill and John F. Malone were elected councilmen in the first election under the new charter, finishing in the order named.

of 3,000,000 Machine Guns to Allies. Toronto, Nov. 3. - William Marshall, a Toronto consulting engineer, produced documentary evidence of the consummation of a contract with St. Louis Car company for the purchase of the right to manufacture in the United States the recently invented Marshall-Weden machine gun. In this announcement is involved a story of romantic interest, telling how Marshall staked the penniless Weden, an ingenious Dane, to the extent of $1,000 and, how later, they evolved the wonderful instrument which is returning to Marshall the stupendous income of $30,000,000 in commissions on the sale of 3,000,000 guns to the French and Russian governments. Marshall returned from New York carrying with him a contract signed Elever Per after a conference in that city with the financial interests behind the production in America of munitions for the allies.

Weden, the inventor of the gun, Son which weighs only 10 pounds, was re now and r. the army of General cently "fired" by the Russell Motor Fr. sen company, Toronto, on suspicion of being a German spy.
