CONSTITUTION

Senate Leader Says New Draft Is Autocratic and Extravagant.

"It Makes the Governor the Most Powerful Autocrat North of Mexico," Declares the Senator From Watertown. Legislature Stripped of Power-Radical and Experimental Changes In Organic Law.

Elon R. Brown, leader of the Senate. has just issued a statement in opposition to the adoption of the proposed new constitution. His first ground of objection is that it will make the governor of this state the most powerful autocrat north of Mexico. Some of his points are as follows:

Governor an Autocrat.

First.-The most conspicuous of these changes is the provision conferring upon the governor the appointment without confirmation by the Senate of nearly all the state officers, with unrestricted power of removal, and giving to him the initiative in all appropriations, which may not be increased efther in amount or items by the legislature. The plan is apparently drawn from the federal government at Washington and from the city of New York conferring on the governor executive powers analogous to those of both president and mayor, but freeing him from every restraint imposed by the congress and senate of the United States in the case of the president and the board of estimate in the case of

and are filled with innumerable bureaus, which are separate departments in all but name. The budgets in the city of New York, prepared by the mayor and board of estimate, are huge and burdensome. While some unheeded suggestions have been made to conof the United States, no one would have the hardihood to propose to give the power of budget making in the city Consignments to the November sale of New York to the mayor alone, even budget system has grown from $300,-000,000 in 1898 to $1,300,000,000 in 1915, without either of these provisions be debt free but for debts incurred by direct vote of the people on referendum for canals, highways and parks. Debts are made by men and not by systems and avoided by prudence and not by statute. The form of government, though made over new every

> OBJECTIONABLE FEATURES OF THE PROPOSED CON-STITUTION.

2. Initial extra cost of government $500,000 annually. 3. "Home rule" for big cities, but not for small ones, is unjust, inconsistent and tends to disrupt among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.-II Peter 2:1.

The title of this sermon is taken from the Revised Version of the Holy Scriptures, and at first glance this would seem to be less portentous than the expression in the Authorized Version, "damnable heresies." . As ordinarily understood, "damnation" or

"c o n d emnation" suggests the eternal punishment of the finally impenitent, and in such a text as this the meaning would be that those who present such heresies will be subjects of this condemnation.

What Is Heresy? Scripturally, one meaning is that it refers to sects or persons, and another that it refers to discords or dissensions. In Peter's time there were persons in the communities to which he wrote, who were giving out teachings that were not in accord with what he had taught. Notwithstanding that all that is not in accord with the accepted teaching of the church is not "damnable" nor "destructive," it is a simple matter of fact that there have been men, and it is sad to say women, too, who have been bringing in "heresies of destruction." We receive the suggestion in the text, "false sies, even denying the Lord that bought them." The ordinary result of such work has been the securing to these teachers many followers, and bringing upon themselves the de-

Many Heresies of Today.

Probably never in the history of Christian thought and teaching were there so many "destructive heresies" as today. These are not in accord among themselves, and the man who does not like the truth of God's Word and has rejected the people of God is greatly perplexed to know what one of the many heresies he should adopt. The followers of these heresies as a natural result, contend with each other just as bitterly as any one of them contends with the Gospel as accepted by the church through all of its history, everywhere, and by all (semper, ubique, et ab omnibus). And never in the history of the church were Christians needing to be under guard as today, for these false teachers are not always outside of the church. Peter says they are "among pudiated the church formally, but in many cases they cling to the church, wear its livery and pose as its teachers and leaders.

A heresy of today may be one of two things. It may be by an adding to the Word of God, or by omission, or ignoring some of it. There is hardly a modern religious fad that does not connect itself in some way with the Bible. The Bible may not be the chief literary authority, but in this country the religionist must come to the people with a profession of love for the Bible. The country is run over by religionists who sell, or if need be, give away religious literature, and oftentimes this literature is professedly based on the Bible. Paul avoided heresy and told the elders of the church at Ephesus that he had not failed to declare unto them the whole counsel of God. The most prominent of the modern teachers of the "destructive heresies" teach much that is in the Bible, but they leave out much which, if given out, would utterly change their teaching, and it is because of this that we speak of their teachings as heretical.

Peter sums up the heresy in mind in these words, "denying the Lord that bought them." Here we have a safeguard when we come to define heresies of destruction. They are in one way or another denials of Jesus Christ, either of his person or of some phase of his work.

Person and Work of Jesus Christ. The great question of questions is, What think ye of Christ-whose Son is he?" We are confined to the work of Christ as the Son of God. Now, briefly, what is the truth about the is that Jesus Christ is the very Son of God, born of the Virgin Mary, was historically a person in the days of Pontius Pilate, was absolutely sinless in his thought, teaching and life, died as the only sufficient sacrifice for the sins of the world, rose again from the dead, ascended into heaven, where he now sits on the right hand of God, from whence he will come as judge and to be the meditorial king on earth, and after manifesting his kingship in that form, will yield that kingdom up to God, that God may be all in all.

BETTER COUNTY GOVERNMENT. The adoption of the proposed constitution will make possible much needed improvement in the government of our counties. County administration has been one of the weak points in our Improvement in counties has not kept pace with improvement in cities. Only recently, with the increase of interurban traction lines and the improve ment in highway construction, has there been awakened a livelier appreciation of the needs of the country districts.

The constitution of 1894 in this state did almost nothing for the counties. In two other respects the administration of counties is benefited by provisions which should result in vastly improved business methods.

One of these allows the legislature, in the interest of efficiency, economy and uniformity of administration, to transfer to county officers functions respecting highways, public safety and the care of the poor, which are now generally within the province of town authorities. This will make for the elimination of wasteful and slipshod methods and will mean a considerable saving to the taxpayer.

Another change provides that hereafter debts contracted by counties shall be based on serial bonds to be paid off in annual installments, thus saving approximately half of the interest charges. These bonds are to be lin ited to fifty years, and debts shall not be contracted for a longer period than ductive, the probable life of the proposed work or public improvement. This provision would not only make the financial policy of counties conform to that proposed for cities and state, but will certainly prove to be a check on extravagant administrations, which can no longer unload their debt on future gen-

Moral "Risks."

It is pointed out by a modern thinker that there is no such thing as a moral risk, for when we talk about a "risk" we mean that there is a possibility. but not a certainty, that harm will result. A boy takes a physical risk when he goes skating on that part of the river where the ice is thin. He may fall through and injure his health or lose his life. But when we venture on thin ice in our moral life there is no risk in the matter at all. There is assured catastrophe from the moment we start in that direction. No one can do anything which he knows involves possible moral danger without thereby definitely passing beyond the line of mere danger into positive injury to his

of the state can now for the first time count upon the assistance of the state conservation department in reducing damage from forest fires.

In the past the power of the state did not extend beyond the twelve Adirondack and four Catskill counties. According to the new conservation article, the suppression of forest fires in any part of the state is made a specific function of this department.

Third.—The state will aid the farmer in reforestation. Possibly you own part of the vast area of idle land within the state that the new department of conservation aims to help make pro-

State Aid For Reforestation.

According to the census of 1910, there are within fences no less than 7,000,-000 acres of land which the owners themselves say is idle. This land should be made to yield a revenue, and the extension of forestry throughout the state, provided for in the new conservation amendment, will ultimately add a considerable revenue to the farmers of New York state.

This reforestation will carry a further direct benefit to agriculture, because with improved forest conditions and their influence on stream flow. run-off and ground waters there will be a more stable supply of soil moisture, on which successful agriculture so closely depends.

Viewing the constitution as a whole it presents a striking improvement over the old document. No wholesale changes have been made. Of the original 154 sections seventy-four have been left as they were, sixty-seven have been amended to a very slight degree and only thirteen repealed. Many other instances could be given showing how the farmers and landowners of the state will be benefited if the new constitution is adopted. There will be a more responsible government. The new budget system will inform the citizens of the state how their money is being spent and fix the responsibility for the expenditures. Taking it all in all, the farmers of the Empire State should not fail to cast their ballots in favor of adopting the School and Farm of the Future.

Albany, Oct. 22.-Beverly T. Galloway, dean of the New York state college of agriculture at Cornell, spoke at the convocation of the university of the state of New York on "The school and the farm of the future." He outlined his conception of the future farm and its place in the life of the nation, then analyzed the forces which are making for rural development in this country, and third, gave his ideas of the proper organization of these forces to secure a permanent agriculture and a satisfying country life.

The great problem, according to Dean Galloway, is whether the United States will be able to develop a permanent agriculture without peasantizing those who must look to the land for a living. None of the old-world countries, he says, have succeeded in doing this.

In conclusion, Dean Galloway quoted the following paragraph from the report of the country life com-

KEEP ASSEMBLY

Majority In Sympathy With the Indirect Taxes Revenue Insuf-State Administration.

LEGISLATION IS

To Complete the Restoration of Orderly Government Begun Last Year-New Constitution Must Be Made Effective.

The present Republican state administration has cleared off the indebtedness of four years of Democratic administration in less than one year. This is a record to be proud of and one that deserves the hearty indorsement of every taxpayer. The most emphatic indorsement that the taxpayers can give the administration will be the election of a strong Republican majority in the assembly of 1916, which will permit the entire rehabilitation of the state government.

The Civil Service Investigation.

The investigation of more than 16. 000 places in the public service by the civil service committee of the senate with a view to eliminating unnecessary positions and correcting objectionable conditions will be completed in time for presentation to the next legislature. and as a result of this investigation it is expected that large savings can be made in many of the state departments To insure such action a Republican majority of the assembly is absolutely essential. A Democratic majority in that branch of the legislature would use its utmost endeavor to maify the results of this investigation and could be relied upon to block any remedial legislation.

Every Voter Interested.

Every voter in the state who is in sympathy with the aim of the present administration to restore orderly and efficient government should make it bis particular duty on election day to vote for a Republican assomblyman and to urge his neighbors to do likewise.

Important Work For 1916 Assembly. One of the most important duties of the legislature of 1916 will be the enactment of legislation to make operative the provisions of the new const

The new constitution provides for the entire reorganization of the state government. State officers now elected will under the new constitution become appointive, and many departments now independen will be consolidated with other departments or abolished altogether. There will of necessity be an unusually large amount of statutory law to be enacted that will call for the best efforts of the most capable men that can be elected, men in sympathy with the state administration. A Democratic majority in the assembly would use its utmost endeavors to hamper the state administration and obstruct the passage of important administration measures.

Kee, Tammany Out.

The election of a Republican majority in the assembly of 1916 is vitalty important to the people who voted Tammany out of power last fall. A Democratic majority in the assembly means Tammany control of that branch of the legislature. The only candidates for Democratic leader in that body thus far announced are Martin G. McCue of the Sixteenth district of New York county and Charles D. Denohue representing the Ninth district, both Tammany men. A Democratic majority would unquestionably mean a Tammany speaker and a Tammany organization throughout. This is perfectly evident when you stop to consider that the city of New York furnished a majority of the Democratic votes cast for governor last year and that forty-two of the fortynine Democratic members in the present assembly are from that city.

Pointed Out by Speaker Sweet. The importance of a Republican majority in the assembly of 1916 was pointed out by Speaker Thaddeus, C. Sweet of the assembly of 1915 at the close of its session last April. He said: "The neglect to give attention to the legitimate business of the state, the failure to provide appropriations absolutely required, while incurring tremendons financial obligations, had driven the state almost to the verge of bank-

"The legislature of 1915 was strongly Republican in both branches, and before it finished its labors the muddle in which four years of Democratic admin-Istration bad left the state's finances was cleaned up. It required courage and hard work. The legislature of 1916 has an equally hard task before it. The new constitution reconstructs the entire fabric of state government, and new statutory laws must be enacted to make the constitutional provisions operative. That will be the work of the coming session of the legislature. THE IMPORTANCE OF THIS WORK MAKES IMPERATIVE THE ELEC-TION OF A REPUBLICAN MAJORI-TY IN THE ASSEMBLY IF THE WORK OF RESTORING HONEST, DRDERLY AND EFFICIENT GOV-ERNMENT BEGUN THIS YEAR IS TO GO FORWARD TO COMPLE

ficient to Meet Expenses.

NEEDED LAST YEAR'S TAX BILL VETO

Depleted the Surplus In the State Treasury and Added Greatly to the Amount Necessary to Be Raised This

Why does New York state need a direct tax this year?

Because the money collected by the state from indirect taxes like the stock transfer tax, motor vehicle tax, excise tax, inheritance tax and others is not sufficient to pay the running expenses of the state government and make the required contributions to the sinking funds provided for paying off the bonds issued for great public improvements. such as good roads, barge canals, canal terminals, Palisades park and others. What is the total amount required to run the state? Between $63,000,000 and $64,000,000. The actual total of appropriations approved by Governor Whitman was $63,370,982,63. How much of this sum will be produced by the indirect taxes?

Approximately $44,000,000 if the emergency excise law enacted at the 1915 session of the legislature meets expectations.

How will the balance be made up?

Ev a direct tax of 1.70 mills. How much will that raise?

In round figures $19,500,000. How was a direct tax avoided last

By the veto of necessary appropriations and by wiping out the state's working balance to pay the contributions to the sinking funds What effect had last year's financial policy upon this year's direct tax?

It practically doubled it. Is this statement susceptible of proof? It is. The direct tax bill vetoed by Governor Glynn would have vielded about $7,000,000. Its veto necessitated the withdrawal of a like amount from state's surplus to pay the contributions to the sinking funds, with the result that the surplus was wiped out and the state comptroller was forced to borrow $6,000,000 in anticipation of this year's tax collections to pay the running expenses of the state.

Does a direct state tax bear inequitably upon the city of New York? It does not.

New York city pays 72 per cent of the direct state tax because the assessed valuation of New York city's taxable property is 72 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the entire state.

If some things are maintained by the state largely at the expense of New York city, other things are maintained for New York city at the expense of the rest of the state.

The state makes appropriations according to the needs of the state without discrimination as to locality and with equal justice to all of the state.

Seventy per cent of the expense of the election bureau, the industrial commission, the tax commissioners, the banking department and the insurance department is chargeable to New York city, and 70 per cent of the total number of incrates in the state's penal institutions come from New York city. The state also contributes over $2,000,-000 to the support of New York city's

SOMETHING FOR VOTERS TO BEAR IN MIND

In order to appraise the criticism of the present administration at its true value it is necessary to bear in mind that this criticism comes from the par ty which when in power was responsi ble for-

The highway scandals, which aroused the state from one end to the other.

The prison scandals, The notorious Levy election law.

Percentage contracts on the recon struction of the capitol, The impeachment of the governor.

The creation of 4.151 new state jobs. Stuffing ballot boxes to carry the election to determine the question of holding a constitutional convention.

Postponing payment of the state's honest debts.

Padding payrolls and neglecting public business.

How these critics would run the state if they had the chance is clearly indicated by the manner in which they did run it when they had the chance. Their administration was worse than a failure; it was a scandal.

No argument is necessary to convince any reader of this paper that the administration of the state's business since the 1st of January of this year has been houest and orderly. A year ago all the arguments put forth in support of the Democratic administrations from 1910 to 1914 failed utterly to convince the voters that they had been either the one or the other.

The Democratic Position.

Creating expensive state departments and then spending the public money to tell the people how good they were and how necessary for the public welfare failed to convince the taxpayers last year of the desirability of a Democratic administration. Now the Democratic campaign managers are asking the taxpayers to admit that they made a mistake in voting for simpler and less expensive government and return Democrats to power to create some more new jobs at the taxpayers' expense.

 VOTE FOR THE CONSTITU-

If state convention platforms mean anything as declarations of principles formulated after due conference it is the duty of loyal Republicans to vote for this constitution.

The campaign for the approval of that constitution should be treated just like a campaign for the election of a governor nominated by our party; just like any campaign which involves the assertion and maintenance of the established principles of the party; like a campaign for sound money or for the principle of protection. - Frederick C. Tanner, Chairman of the Republican State Committee. *************

When you enter the polling booth to cast your ballot for member of assembly recall to mind the record of the last Democratic assembly. The assembly of 1913 remained in session throughout the year, and its record was one of continual disorder and disregard of the public interest. It will be remembered chiefly for its impeachment of the governor.

Do you want another Democratic assembly?

$$ IMPORTANCE OF A FULL VOTE.

A year ago conditions in the state government were so bad that every thinking voter felt it incumbent upon himself to assist in correcting them, and the resuit was the wresting of the control of the state from the Democrats. A full vote this fall will insure the continuance of the work begun a year ago. ~ ~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~~

IDEAL HOUSING FOR WORKINGMEN

Town Planning Aiming For Better Conditions.

EXAMPLES FROM ABROAD.

Main Object In This Country Has Been to Obtain More Sanitary Conditions, While Little Attention Has Been Directed Toward Selection of More Suitable Locations.

By FRANK KOESTER, [Author of "Modern City Planning and Maintenance."]

Cities and towns throughout the United States are drifting very rapidly toward the regulation of modern city c'anning, and one of the foremost principles of city planning is the provision of adequate housing facilities for the working classes.

The principal object is to obtain more sanitary conditions, while probably little attention has as yet been directed toward the selection of more suitable location for the workingmen's houses and the constructive features of such buildings, a subject which has been developed abroad for many years, usually under the direction of the municipalities, whose aim also is to secure low renting facilities.

Many German cities have undertaken the construction of such houses. However, such problems are not only un dertaken by municipalities, but large manufacturing concerns provide housing facilities for their working classes. The workingmen's colonies, the prototypes of the garden cities, had their origin in the workingmen's quarters established by the Krupp company at Essen, beginning in 1855 with barracks affording lodging and board for 200 men to start with, and followed in 1863 by a colony of 160 dwellings at Alt West End, the first actual colony continuing with various additions to the present, time until, with other added colonies, the Krupp works house 12,-800 men and their families, a total of 46,000 people.

The colony Cronenberg, the largest and best known, was mainly erected in the years 1872 to 1874.

The buildings are partly set up in rows of three storied houses, containing thirty to forty dwellings in each block, and partly form isolated three story semidetached houses with twelve dwellings, six of them accessible from each gable front. The buildings are constructed in brick or quarry stone without ornaments and are surrounded by gardens and lawns. Throughout each staircase gives access to six dwellings, two to each floor, from a small landing through a private front door. The streets are lined with trees, and in the midst of the colony is a spacious park, which in connection with the gardens surrounding the houses gives to the whole a pleasant

Subsequent to 1891 204 additional dwellings were erected, so that the entire colony contains 1,454 workmen's dwellings of two or three rooms and some up to six rooms.

Within recent years much attention is being paid to garden cities, as the almost invariable desire of the city dweller is to have a place in the country where he may at least spend the summer months. The unrelieved monotony of city life, with cramped quarters, absence of healthful recreation and sultry temperatures on the one hand and the love of nature and the desire of owning a home on the other. draw people to the country. Only the lack of transit facilities and the time that must be lost from business pre- ing. That these advantages are very vents a vastly greater proportion of great is evident. ADVANTAGE OF CHEAP LAND. The first condition to secure wide distribution of population is to have land near the city cheap and unhampered by speculative interests. This condition is requisite to enable the worker to get advantages in the suburbs which will compensate him for two disadvantages in moving out from the central districts-viz, first, sufficient saving in rent and taxes to pay for his extra cost of traveling and, second, sufficient attractiveness in his environment to compensate for his daily journey to and fro and his loss of social attractions. The development of the transportation also requires that the public and not the private land speculator will get the advantage of these facilities in regard to cheap and attractive land.-American City.

DISPOSAL OF GARBAGE.

Process of Rendering Is the Most Economical of Various Methods.

With the exception of sewage, garbage is the greatest class of waste materials whose disposal presents a serious municipal problem. Garbage is unlike sewage in this respect—that its value has been recognized from the beginning, and various methods of disposal have been devised with a view to the recovery of its useful constituents. Militating against this, on the other hand, has been the desire to get rid of it with as little manipulation as possible, because of the objectionable character which it usually bears and the readiness with which it becomes a cinerating and rendering. The most mportant from the standpoint of sanitation are incinerating and rendering. A number of the larger cities of the United States have installed incinerators for the combustion of ashes, rubbish and garbage together. Their operation is attended with success, from the sanitary point of view, and they offer a simple solution of the problem of disposal. Where this method is used a single collection is made, which simplifies that operation also. The economy of the method is open to serious question.

The rendering of garbage for the preparation of grease and fertilizer consists essentially in cooking in steam, pressing to remove water and grease, drying, extracting-washing with gasoline-to recover the remaining grease, and grinding. Rendering is conducted in apparatus of various designs and is varied to conform to the ideas of the operators. The process of rendering is at present regarded as the most economical, although there are various other processes in vogue.

The most distinguished company of white wings" that ever repaired local streets was a company of indignant and determined women, representing the first families of Coudersport, Pa., who, enraged at neglect of the borough authorities to put the residential section of East street in appropriate shape for Chautauqua week, turned out in silks, laces and diamonds galore and flashed hoe, shovel, spade, rake and wheelbarrow as well as gravel along the line till their fair and intelligent faces glowed with exercise and indignation over the way their fine homes were disfigured by mudholes and weeds of neglected streets.

"Our patience has been exhausted in appeals to city fathers." declared one silk petticoated worker, "and we won't stand for it any longer."

Advantages of Brilliant Street Lighting.

General Gorgas For County Hospitals

PUBLIC HEALTH HINTS

Prepared Each Week For the Readers of This Newspaper by the New York State Department of Health.

THE voters of five counties, who will vote next Tuesday on the question, "Shall this county make an appropriation for a county tuberculosis hospital?" are fortunate in having for guidance the opinion of a sanitarian of worldwide renown. General William C. Gorgas made the building of the Panama canal possible by making the canal zone habitable. Previously he had made yellow fever practically unknown in Havana. These two feats of sanitation have made him a world leader in health work. General Gorgas controlled yellow fever, malaria and other tropical diseases in places where they hitherto had been uncontrollable. No one is better fitted than he to discuss the question of disease prevention.

The voters of Jefferson, Niagara, Herkimer, Steuben and Rockland counties who vote "Yes" on the question of establishing the county tuberculosis hospital will be glad to know that GENERAL GORGAS, WITH ALL HIS EXPERIENCE IN HEALTH WORK, WOULD ALSO VOTE "YES" WITH THEM if he had a vote in these counties.

"HOSPITAL CARE FOR SUF-FERERS from tuberculosis, if every patient could be placed in a hospital, WOULD UNDOUBTEDLY STAMP OUT THE DISEASE IN A FEW YEARS," SAYS GEN-ERAL GORGAS. "There was probably as large a percentage of the population of England afflicted by leprosy in the fifteenth century as is

IT SHOULD BE REMEMBERED THAT EVERY VOTER-NOT MERELY THE TAXPAYER-HAS THE RIGHT TO VOTE ON THIS OUTSTION. The importance of the question is so great that every voter in these counties should see to it that he gets the ballot with the hospital question on it and that he expresses his opinion by a cross mark in the proper square.

The county hospital costs money, but it SAVES FAR MORE than it costs. A single case of uncared for tuberculosis was reported in this column a very ago which actually cost the county $7,725, while it could have been cared for for $320 in a county hospital.

By providing that no moneys or property shall be appropriated for the construction or improvement of any building, bridge or other work except grade crossings and highways until plans and estimates of the cost of such work shall have been filed with the secretary of state by the superintendent of public works with a certificate of its necessity as a state charge.

If this restriction on legislative power to increase executive control was dangerous to the public welfare in the matter of eliminating grade crossings agencies into seventeen great adminand constructing highways, how can istrative departments will not only it serve the public interest when applied to education, hospitals for the insane and institutions for the blind?

No Power of Confirmation.

This power has been too little and not too much exercised. The instances of party contumacy and interference with executive action have been rare. Its real value consists in its influence upon executive discretion. If the name of an appointee must be sent to the senate for confirmation before he takes office the formality of the presentation is really not to the senate, but to the people of the state. It inspires care and caution in the governor and affords an opportunity for public criticism and the withdrawal of a bad nomination. If the governor may name important officers without being subjected to this scrutiny or review he may hide himself behind the excuse that he was not aware of the criticism when he made it. In ten years' service in the senate I have never seen this power abused.

New Constitution Extravagant.

Third.-The scheme of the new contitution is extravagant. The mandatory expenses amount to a fixed charge of at least $500,000 per annum, including an increase of the governor's salary from $10,000 to $20,000, three additional supreme court judges in the city of New York, $50,000; five county judges in the larger counties, $50,000; 201 senators and assemblymen, $201,-000 increase in salary; printing senate and assembly debates, $50,000; railroad Homer would lead to the inference fares of legislature, $10,000; three additional judges of the court of appeals, $41,000, with the expenses incidental to these new creations and changes.

Experiments In Autocracy. The new constitution should preserve to the people of the whole state the greatest practicable power of doing their will under a representative form of government and not shackle popular expression by artificial and untried experiments in autocracy. New York is one of the few states among the states and nations of the world distinguished by progress and success in all that goes to make a state or nation great. It has achieved its success under the present representative government, with checks and balances on governors and legislatures. While we hope for patriotism in both, experience teaches that the people are not always satisfled with their choice and look with anxiety for restrictions on executive even more than legislative power. The legislature changes annually, but it may be that the new powers of governors chosen more for availability than experience will not be exerted in harmony with the popular will. Efficiency cannot be secured by a change of autocrats every two years, and representative government cannot be had through autocrats.

Constitution Not a Party Measure. Equal liberty of judgment must be enjoyed by the electors. No political committee has been commissioned by its constituents to indorse the proposed changes. The New York Times, in reporting the meeting of the Republican state committee, says;

"Henry L. Stimson urged the adoption of the constitution as a matter of vita' political necessity on the eve of the presidential campaign."

Citizens without regard to party will uecline to regard the adoption or rejection of the constitution as a mere acident of a future political campaign

It is as though the constitution, simplified, read:

Sec. 1. The governor shall take all the responsibility and only a part of the Sec. 2. Other officials and special interests shall take the rest of the power with-

"If there is a single maxim of political experience it is that power and responsibility must go hand in hand. Responsibility without power is a slam and inevitably means that somewhere else there is power without responsibility. This is simple common sense, and the people of this state are far too intelligent to be deceived by demagogic appeals to senseless fears.

"Then it is viciously and untruthfully said that the proposed constitution favors special interests. The only specific allegation in this charge is that the public service commissions are put into the constitution. They are under conditions which mean in effect that the members of these commissions cannot be legislated out of office every two years. But, of course, those who make this unfounded allegation of favoring special interests neglect to tell you that the governor retains an absolutely unimpaired power of removal and that members of these commissions may also be impeached by the legislature.

We know that the legislature, by its nature, its organization and its lack of the proper machinery for study of individual cases, cannot exercise the power of specific regulation with any degree of justice, and beyond that we know that the attempt to do so creates powerful temptations for strike bills and the activities of the lobbyist.

"It is for these most excellent reasons and indisputable facts that the proposed constitution seeks to make secure the protection of the legislature from corruption and to take from the public service corporations the excuse to get back into politics.

"Some persons talk of opposing the proposed constitution because some new provision was not inserted. One would think that the choice was between perfection, as seen by each one of a million voters, and what is now proposed. It cannot be repeated too often that the simple question before the state is, Shall the present constitution remain in effect with all its known defects, or shall it be superseded by the proposed constitution with all its manifest advantages and its courageous reform of known abuses?

"In comparison with the present constitution the proposed constitution can stand exhaustive scrutiny.

France's National Museum.

The Musee Carnavalet of Paris is also known as the National museum, for it contains objects pertaining to the history of France and especially of the French revolution. The sacredness of antiquity clings to the building it self, which was begun in 1544 and enlarged in 1660 by Mansart, the famous architect of Louis XIV. In 1677 it became the home of Mme. de Sevigne, who lived there for eighteen years and after whom the street is named that faces the principal entrance. Among the contents of this museum are fragments and statues from noted old buildings which no longer exist. There are also a weird portrait done in wax of Henry IV. made the day after his assassination. and an autograph order from Louis XVI, for the defenders of the Tuileries to cease firing. Things of historic interest are numerous, but none more sangulnary than the copy of the constitution of 1798 bound in human skin.

NO MODEL LICENSE LAW.

Major Dan Morgan Smith was for four years general counsel for the liquor organization known as the Model License league. The following paragraphs from an address of his shows why he threw up that position and is now speaking and working for prohibition.

"For four years I advocated the passage of a model license law as a means of lessening the evils of drink. As the head of the law department of one of the three largest liquor associations in America, I maintained that its passage would take the liquor dealers out of politics and the lawbreakers out of the liquor business.

"Was I wrong? I shall never know, for the liquor crowd were paying me to talk reform and paying others to defeat reform!

"The model license law was effective as a vote-getter, but it never cleaned out one dive, never effected one reform, for, although advocated in every fight against prohibition in the last six years, it has never been enacted in any place. Its advocacy has fooled more decent people into voting with the liquor crowd than all the specious nonsense about taxes and personal liberty put together. Can we expect laws from the liquor camp that will eliminate the dive, or lessen drunkenness or stop the sale of liquor to minors? Can we expect brewery agents to pass laws that will take away the license of brewery-owned saloons? Can we expect legislators, nominated and elected by the brewery interests, to pass laws that will take the liquor business out of politics? No, the only thing we can expect from the liquor people is just what we have received in the past-lying promises.

PLEA FOR THE CHILD. (From Address by FATHER PATRICK

MURPHY of Texas.)
I contend tonight that there are helpless children whose little bodies are crying out for nourishment—the food they need-and yet the mother cannot cook it for them because that bunch got all the money first! The little child is crying. I'll tell you, and I am sure any doctors in the audience will bear me out, when a child in the poorer homes is not properly nourished, its pain is not in the stomach alone; there is not a blood cell in its little body that is not suffering.

I maintain that you men who are going to vote wet, should think of this: There is not a blood cell in the child's body that is not crying out to your God against you.

In your city there are little wasted hands raised up in pleading. You will find them in the homes of your drunkards. You will see the faces of the little ones, thin, emaciated and telling pathetically of their hungry bodies. These little children are praying that you will decide a great question regardless of what you seem to lose

The following is quoted from a letter written by Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota to George W. Perkins, chairman of the Progressive national committee: "The prohibition movement today differs from that movement in other times. When you and I were boys, every spring there was seen a temperance agitation and everybody took the pledge. Some kept it and some did not. The present movement is entirely different. There is no hysteria or excitement about it. It is simply a calm, deliberate judgment on the part of the American people, from the man who employs to the man who is employed, that the saloon is a menace. Having come in this quiet way, free from hysteria and excitement, and as a result of deliberate judgment, I am inclined to think it is here to stay, and if times are good, is liable to be more of a factor than we sometimes recorded in Petrograd in 1913 ninetyseven suicides, but in 1914 only fourteen. The same phenomenon was observed in Warsaw, where during the first half of 1914 there were recorded 419 suicides, and during the second half only 205. The reduction of the number of small loans made by the pawnshops, and the increase of the deposits in the savings banks, were among the further gratifying results of temperance. For the first two months of 1915 the savings banks of Petrograd received deposits exceeding the figures for the corresponding months of 1914 by one and a half million rubles (£150,000), while throughout Russia the quantity of deposits increased by a hundred billion rubles (£10,000,000).

During the last time in Brussels I had done different little vacation jobs that were interesting in they could, close to the numberless themselves, but only loosely connected ruins of peaceful human settlements with the mighty life of our titanic time with the world war.

It was a proud, blessed night. And now 'Iphigenie' was to be played in Antwerp.

"There we had, instead of the tiny rococo stage of Brussels, the gigantic stage of the Vlamish Opera House. One morning I traveled the actors to the metropolis on the Scheldt, and in an extended and lively rehearsal we adapted our production.

"Suddenly I was called to the telephone. Colonel von E., the commissioner for assignments of the governor general, spoke to me from Brusselswhether I still insisted on my often repeated request to go back to the front,

Of course I did! "'You can have a battalion in the east immediately. Do you want it?'

"'All right, then; return to Brussels at once. The governor general and we comrades would like to be with you in cheerful company and to bid you farewell. You will leave tomorrow at 10 o'clock.'

"And so it happened that I went from 'Iphigenie' to the trenches on the Narew. In Berlin I embraced my wife and my eighteen-year-old daughter and my son, sixteen years old, who will join my regiment in a few days to fight as a volunteer.

Now comes the community center. It is a device for fully meeting the leisure problem. It : appeals not to special elements, not to the child only or to one sex or to the ragamuffins or to the very elite and prudent, but to the whole population. It occupies a public building, a school or park or library, a pier or even a street prohibited to traffic. Within the physical limitations of its habitat the community center gives to the people what they want, what they know that they want and also what they don't yet know that they want.-Town Development Magazine.
