PROGRESSIVISM.

Progressivism, aside from the political aspects of the case, is playing a tremendous part upon the stage of present day municipal, state and national life. The trend of the times is improvement in every branch of government, civic and institutional. Organization is the battle cry. Community betterment is and ought to be the local watchword. No better spot for planting the germ of civic improvement can be selected than chambers of commerce and boards of trade throughout the country. Centered there is, or should be, the best interest of the very best element of every community, large or small, no matter where located. Example is better than precept. Then let the prominent man of business in every city and town throw off his cloak of ultra-conservatism, roll up his sleeves and by his own determination to do and to dare set an example that every other citizen will gladly follow. This is progressivism that means something!

FARMERS' COUNTRY CLUB.

Schoolhouse Utilized For Social and Business Meetings.

A steam heating plant had just been installed in the large, well equipped district school in a Wisconsin community. Two young farmers, says C. J. Griffing in the Farm and Home, conceived the idea of a country clubroom in the schoolhouse. When the furnace was started in the fall it cost very little more to turn the heat on for evening use.

The clubroom is open every evening in the week. The evening from 6 to 9 o'clock is spent in reading and from 9 to 11 p. m. in discussing agricultural matters and in social intercourse. Except during this period none may speak without recognition from the chairman of the club, otherwise he is fined. Thus order is maintained, and an air of seriousness is established without which it could not continue.

The fact that the originators of the plan are farmers who take many prizes each year at both the state and county fairs gives them a well deserved leadership in the community. When they get up and express their opinion of those farmers who allow their buildings to run down and take no pride in the general appearance of their stock and farms certain men sit up and take notice, and soon a marked change is seen.

Socially the club is a grand success, as all get to know and trust their neighbors better. A common interest draws them all closer together. The women no longer complain of the restraints of farm life and, knowing that the club is for progress and not for gossip, are greatly benefited by it. The young people of the neighborhood are brought up to realize the possibilities of farm life and are never guilty of even a thought of leaving for the city.

The schoolteacher claims that her success is half due to the fact that the parents have become intimate with her through this medium and that she now has their co-operation, which is the greatest aid to a teacher in her work. It would be hard to reckon just the amount of good this club has done. Every one is wiser and happier, and it has greatly increased the sum of human satisfaction to its members.

The average daily attendance is from fifteen to twenty in a village of about 3,000 inhabitants. The annual fee is $1, payable quarterly. The officers are president, secretary, treasurer and marshal. The teacher or president acts as librarian.

TOWN'S BEST ADVERTISING.

A Municipality Without Flies is a Desirable Place to Live.

"A town without flies is the best advertising a town can have," said a business man the other day. And when he was asked why he thought so he replied: "There are several reasons. First, everybody knows that a town without flies is a clean town, a healthful town, where health matters receive due attention. You would expect to find in it clean streets and alleys, clean food shops and markets and clean grocery stores and restaurants. It is where you would feel easy to sit down and eat without feeling suspicious about the food that is served you. In the second place, it is a town that has no filthy, fly breeding stables and open surface closets. It takes care of its sewage and garbage and deems the health of its citizens worth protecting. For this reason you feel that such a town is a good place in which to live. In the third place, it would be a town practically free from typhoid fever, infantile diseases, cholera and other fly born diseases, to say nothing of other improved health conditions and the comforts brought about by cleanliness and the absence of flies."

"But how are you going to have a flyless town?" the speaker was asked. "By going after the stables first," said he, "and then by cleaning up the rest of the town and keeping it clean. To afford flies no place to breed," said the speaker, "is the only way not to have flies. Towns that have succeeded in controlling the fly menace went straight for the stables first and then for the open closets and other dirty places where flies find breeding places. Dr. L. M. McCormick, the fly fighter of Asheville, says, 'There is no royal road to freedom from flies, but clean up and keep clean is the winning slogan.'"

Put the price of a few hours of farm labor into a subscription for the national farm weekly, and save yourself many hours of labor and money and worry for a year to come.

Every crop, every kind of farm question is covered by The Country Gentleman. Practical farmers, stockmen, dairymen, orchardists, write for it. It has correspondents in every state.

How to get back out of your land the money you put in it is the big idea behind The Country Gentleman.

It deals with selling crops as well as growing them.

300,000 farmers bought it when it was $1.50 a year.

Now it is $1 a year—52 issues—every week.

How to Pack Books to Take on Your Vacation.

Vacation time is coming, and not a few of us will want to take books along for pleasure or study. There is a wrong as well as a right way to pack books. Pack in small packing cases, stand the parcels on end with the edges next to the sides of the cases and the back of the bindings pointed toward the inward, placing crumpled newspapers between them to ease the pressure on the round part of the books, which may be otherwise pressed flat. Line the case with wrapping paper, place a thickness of paper over the top and fasten on the cover with screws in preference to nails.

How to Tell if the Valves of Your Car Are in Good Shape.

The fit of the valve head and the valve seat is usually tested by coating the valve head with Prussian blue pigment and pressing it in place against the seat. The valve is then turned about one-fourth of a revolution and removed. If the valve and seat are a proper fit the entire seat will show blue, though if the valve head and seat do not fit only the high spots or ridges on the valve seat will receive a coating of blue. In such an event the grinding process should be continued until the valve head has an even bearing all over the seat.

How to Adjust Gas Mantles Without Puncturing Them.

You should learn to adjust your own gas mantles instead of sending for a man and paying anything from 30 to 50 cents for them. They can be bought for 10 cents and are easily adjusted. After fitting the mantle over the burner the principal thing to do is to "burn" the mantle as soon as it is adjusted. Apply a match and don't be startled when the whole mantle flames up. The coating is simply burning off—a necessary operation.

Military Masters.

Alexander the Great's active military career began when he was only eighteen years old and ended at thirty-three; Hannibal's lasted from thirteen to forty-seven; Caesar's from forty to fifty-five; Gustavus' from sixteen to thirty-eight; Frederick's from twenty-eight to fifty-one, and Napoleon's from twenty-seven to forty-six. When thirty-five years old Napoleon said of himself: "One has only a certain time for war. I shall be good for it but six years more; then even I shall stop." His downward career began when he was forty.—New York Sun.

Wig Wearing Very Old.

The ancient Egyptians all wore wigs, and the early Christians from A. D. 427 to A. D. 917 considered a false head covering a badge of distinction—this, too, in direct opposition to Tertullian, who in vain declared them devices and inventions of the devil.

Little Words.

Bradley--Atwater.

About eighty relatives and friends assembled at 2 o'clock on Thursday, Aug. 3, 1916, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dwight Atwater at Clear View, N. Y., overlooking the beautiful waters of Lake Cayuga.

The occasion was the marriage of their youngest daughter, Marian Elizabeth, to Archibald Parkhurst Bradley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Bradley of King Ferry, N. Y.

A ribbon lane was formed by Misses Margery Chase, Henrietta Ely, Anna Atwater and Elizabeth Atwater. Mrs. Loren W. Chester, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Ruth Bradley, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. The bride came down stairs on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. Loren W. Chester, and was met by the groom who was attended by his brother, Mr. Eugene P. Bradley, who acted as best man. The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Frank King and took their places in front of a background of ferns, studded with pink and white carnations.

The marriage ceremony was performed in a most impressive manner by the Rev. Wm. E. Roe, D. D., of Jamestown, N. D., the ring service being used.

The bride was gowned in white Georgette crepe over white satin and carried a shower bouquet of cream roses and snap dragons.

The matron of honor's dress was pink crepe de chene and she carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. The maid of honor wore pink Georgette crepe and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a four-course luncheon was served by Mrs. Christina Dunn of Auburn, N. Y., assisted by Mrs. Eugene Mann of Atwater, N. Y. Fourteen were seated at the bride's table and the color scheme was pink and white. The place cards were painted by Miss Margery Chase, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. King played during the serving of refreshments.

The bridal gifts included money, many beautiful pieces of silver, cut glass and other articles.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Cortland Chester and Mr. and Mrs. Loren W. Chester of Albion, N. Y., Mrs. Lyle G. Chase and daughters of Richmond, Va., Rev. and Mrs. Wm. E. Roe, Jamestown, N. D., Mrs. Harry Ehler of Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., Mrs. Cora Pratt of New York City, Mrs. W. C. Brass, of Dryden, N. Y., Miss Frieda Cleaver of Syracuse, N. Y., Mr. Fred Shaw, of Ithaca, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Knapp and sons of Genoa, N. Y., Miss Florence Atwater, Atwaters, N. Y., Mr. Joseph Atwater, Venice Center, N. Y., and Miss Henrietta Ely, Poplar Ridge, N. Y.

It is interesting to note that Mr. and Mrs. J. Dwight Atwater, parents of the bride, were married by Rev. Wm. E. Roe, D. D., twenty-eight years ago. Mr. Roe was pastor of the Presbyterian church of King Ferry at that time. Four generations of the family of the bride and also of the groom were present at the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Union Springs High school and spent one year studying music at Syracuse University. The groom is a graduate of Sherwood High school and spent two years at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Both have always resided at King Ferry and are popular in the community and church, where they are members and active workers.

They left with the best wishes of their friends and amid a shower of confetti, for an automobile trip to the Thousand Islands, through the Adirondacks and to Lake George. Upon their return they will commence housekeeping in Genoa, N. Y., where Mr. Bradley has engaged in business.

The Point of View.

"The darkest cloud has a silver lining," remarked the optimist.
"But it is a dark cloud, just the same," insisted the pessimist.—Exchange.

Silly Fellow.

"You are the only girl that can make me happy."
"Are you sure?"
"Yes; I have tried all the others."—Philadelphia Record.

Daniel G. Ellison.

At 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening, July 16, Mr. Daniel G. Ellison died at his residence near Five Corners in his eighty-fifth year, after a long illness accompanied at the last few weeks he was under the care of trained nurses, previous to which he was most tenderly cared for by his niece, Jennie Ellison, who with her son, Dannie and his wife Bertha, composed the Ellison household.

In the death of Mr. Ellison, the town of Genoa loses one of its most prominent and successful townsmen. Mr. Ellison was born in the town of Urbana, Steuben Co., N. Y., and was the last of eight children. He moved to the town of Genoa in the year 1858, and for several years worked in the mill at the Forks of the Creek, living with his employer, Mr. Halsey. While here employed he married Miss Roxie Palmer, a most successful school teacher at the Forks and who taught this same school for twenty successive terms. Shortly after their marriage the Ellisons moved to the Aldrich farm on the town line between Genoa and Locke and from there in 1868 to the farm one-half mile east of Five Corners, which has been his residence ever since.

Mr. Ellison was a model farmer and had in his wife a most capable helpmeet. Together they strove and thrived to their mutual gratification, and when the bank of Genoa was instituted Mr. and Mrs. Ellison and family were of its most ardent supporters and were among its largest stockholders. Mr. Ellison was made one of the original directors which position he held until failing health compelled him to resign.

He leaves a number of nephews and nieces. His last words were "Good-bye, I am going, tell everybody good-bye."

+ HUGHES FAVORS PROMPT SETTLEMENT OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE QUESTION.
+ As I said in my speech, I think it to be most desirable that the question of woman suffrage should be settled promptly. The question is of such a nature that it should be settled for the entire country. My view is that the proposed amendment should be submitted and ratified and the subject removed from political discussion.—Mr. Hughes' Personal Views as Telegraphed Senator Sutherland on Aug. 1, 1916.

"Doubly Significant."
Mr. Hughes' telegram to Senator Sutherland, stating that he favors the federal amendment granting the vote to women and hopes that it will be quickly passed, is doubly significant. It shows, in the first place, that he is a complete convert to the suffrage cause. He explains that in his speech of acceptance he did not come out for the constitutional amendment because his party was not committed to it, but personally he has no objection to letting his stand be known. We see now that Mr. Hughes has no hesitation in going outside his party platform.—Evening Post, Aug. 2, 1916.

"Does Not Lightly Promise."
Mr. Hughes does not lightly promise. He fights with energy for the reforms to which he pledges himself. The suffrage amendment will be no exception to this rule of constructive action by the Republican nominee.—New York Evening Mail, Aug. 2, 1916.

"What Hughes Stands For."
For woman suffrage he declares unequivocally, and, believing it inevitable, he would have it granted without delay.—New York Globe, Aug. 1, 1916.

CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT.
Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president National American Woman Suffrage

association, said: "I find Mr. Hughes' statement satisfactory. The suffragists who had conferred with him did not expect that he would go further than this in his formal speech of acceptance. The Republican party has not thought best at this time to take any stand upon the federal amendment."

"Can You Beat Them?"
The women! Can you beat them? It seems not, even if you should desire to do so. With both presidential candidates asserting that "Barkis is will in," what is poor man to do but to grant them suffrage? It seems to us that the outspoken stand taken by Charles E. Hughes on this question has driven home a spoke in a wheel which is now about completed. Certain it is the stand taken by the Republican candidate means victory for women's demands.—White Plains Argus, Aug. 2, 1916.

MRS. NORMAN DE R. WHITEHOUSE.

Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, chairman of the New York Woman Suffrage party, made this statement concerning Mr. Hughes' speech: "Mr. Hughes' suffrage declaration is satisfactory in that he not only recognizes the inevitability of suffrage, but deplors delay. He says the contest for suffrage should be ended promptly, and he foresees only one end—the triumph of suffrage. Not many political leaders now oppose the demand for suffrage. With those who still do we hope Mr. Hughes' attitude will have great effect."

Duncan Smoked in Church.
Sir Walter Scott in his "Heart of Midlothian" refers to one Duncan of Knockdunder, an important personage, who smoked during the whole of the sermon from an iron pipe tobacco borrowed from other worshippers. We are told that at the end of the discourse he knocked the ashes out of his pipe, replaced it in his sporran, returned the tobacco pouch to its owner and joined in the prayer with decency and attention.

—William Fox of Davenport Center harvested about 1,700 quarts of strawberries from less than a quarter of acre of land.

—The only surviving pensioner of the War of 1812 living in New York state is Mrs. Benjamin Holmes who is now staying with her nephew, Charles Sweet, of Fayetteville. She is 84 years old and in good health, being very active for one of her age.

—A potato-club boy of Utah is reported to have raised 720 bushels of potatoes on a single acre of raw land and sold them at an average of $1 a bushel. Another boy of the same club raised 600 bushels of tomatoes on an acre, while another club member raised 85 bushels of shelled corn per acre.

—The ninth annual Rochester exposition will be held at Exposition Park Sept. 4 to 9. All of the old features which made the exposition such a success will be retained, and in addition, there will be several new departments which should find favor with the agriculturalist. The most important innovation for 1916 is to be the use of one of the big exhibition buildings as a show stable for farm, draft and breeding horses.

—The presentation services and unveiling of the E. Ernest Scribner memorial took place at 4 o'clock last Sunday afternoon, at the Trumansburg High school building of which school Prof. Scribner was principal from 1891 to 1898. The tablet is cast entirely in one piece of United States standard statutory bronze, from a sculptured model. It measures 31 inches wide by twenty inches high. The tablet was unveiled by Mrs. Scribner.

Suffrage For All.

Mr. Hughes' advocacy of a woman suffrage amendment to the federal constitution proves him a thorough-going believer in equal suffrage. Holding, as he does, the view that "opposition may delay, but cannot defeat, this movement," and that delay will produce "a struggle increasing in bitterness, which I believe to be inimical to our welfare," he supports the cause which promises to end that struggle sooner by giving to women in all the states the advantages and protection of the ballot.

Woman suffrage must come, and it will come, sooner or later, for every state in the land. Women need the ballot. They want it. They are entitled to whatever help it gives in meeting the difficulties of life. It is silly to argue, as do some of the anti-suffragists, that a defeat of the movement in any state means anything but a temporary setback, to be followed by a renewal of the fight from the beginning. Mr. Hughes wisely recognizes all this and proposes not only the submission, but the ratification, of the federal amendment to end the long and wasteful fight. His is a strong and logical advocacy of the women's cause. They could gain no more powerful recruit.—Tribune, Aug. 2, 1916.

—The play "Home Ties" by local talent drew large audiences three evenings last week at Academy hall, and it was a great success. The characters were all well taken and the play was pronounced good by all who saw it. Bower's orchestra of five pieces, composed of the following people: Geo. Bower, H. P. Mastin, Frank Whitten, Leo Smith and Mrs. Frank Riley, played each evening, and their music was a pleasing feature of the entertainment. The receipts of the three evenings were over $80. The club go to Sherwood to-night, the 11th, instead of to-morrow night as we announced last week. It was necessary to change the date. They will also present the play in McCormick's hall, King Ferry, Friday evening, Aug. 18. Remember the proceeds are for the benefit of the Genoa Fire Dept.

—John A. Sleicher, editor of Leslie's Weekly, says: What is called "the little country weekly newspaper" comes nearer reaching the hearts of the people than most of the big dailies. The little weekly, as the recorder of local happenings, tells them as they happen. If it did otherwise, it would be promptly challenged. The great dailies, not in close touch with their readers, can print whatever they please in pursuit of the sensational and go unchallenged.

—Says the Trumansburg Free Press and Sentinel: "A. E. Trea and family have decided to take up their residence in Ithaca, and will be at home there at 515 East State Street after this week. It is with regret that they leave Trumansburg, having formed so many pleasant associations here, but frequent trips by auto back to the old home town will help to allay the attachment formed, while new, and we trust, pleasant associations are made in the Forest City. We believe Mr. Trea intends to engage in the optical business as soon as suitable offices can be secured."
