Allen's Foot-Ease for the Troops.
The antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes or used in the foot bath. Young men in every community are using Allen's Foot-Ease in their drills for Military Preparedness. Used by the Allied, French and English troops because it rests the feet, takes the friction from the shoe and makes walking easy.

State Automobile Inspectors.

Albany, April 2—The State automobile inspectors start in this week in covering the upstate counties, those employed in New York City being in the field practically the entire year. Two inspectors will again work out of Secretary of State Hugo's Albany office in covering thirty counties in that district. One inspector employed in the Buffalo bureau will handle violations in the western part of the State. Local authorities will co-operate with Secretary Hugo in securing as complete an observance of the law as possible.

DO YOU DREAD WINTER?

If every man, woman and child in this vicinity would only take one spoonful of after meals for one month, it would put vigor in their blood to withstand the rigors of winter weather and help prevent colds, grippe and winter sickness. SCOTT'S is a fortifying medicinal-food of particular benefit in changing seasons, and every drop yields direct returns in richer blood, stronger lungs, and greater resistive power. No alcohol in SCOTT'S.

Many acres of marsh land could now be cultivated, producing the best vegetables, as the land is rich and the soil of a black muck. Many acres have been plowed up.

Farm and Garden

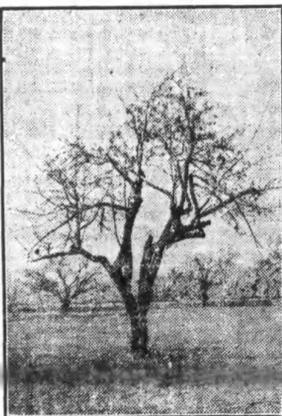

ORCHARD WORK IN JANUARY.

Many Things May Be Done to Improve Conditions.

January is the off season for orchard work, but by making use of the slack times the good orchardist keeps ahead of his work. A little observation will disclose a number of things that may be done at this season to improve the condition of the orchard.

Some pruning is likely to be needed, especially in bearing orchards. In mid winter, however, pruning is best confined to the removal of dead and broken limbs and the thinning of particularly dense portions. Very heavy pruning at this time is apt to result in more or less sun scald, especially if the trunks or principal limbs are much exposed.

After the pruning is completed all brush and dead limbs should be removed from the orchard and burned since such debris provides a good harbor for pests of various sorts, including rabbits, mice, borers, bark beetles, curculio and tarnished plant bugs.

REMOVE DEAD AND BROKEN LIMBS.

Scraping off the very rough and scaly bark with a dull hoe or similar implement will reduce the number of harbors for apple worms or larvae of the codling moth. Some of these worms will thus be killed directly, and the rest will be exposed effectively to attack by their chief natural enemies, the nuthatches and the hairy and downy woodpeckers. A little suet hung in the trees occasionally may attract these natural tree inspectors in the orchards.

The dormant sprays for San Jose scale and similar pests are best applied in the fall soon after the leaves drop and in the spring just before the buds start. In midwinter, however, spraying machinery may be put in good running order, or the necessary equipment for making one's own supply of lime-sulphur concentrate may be secured, provided the amount of spraying is sufficient to justify it.

Such an equipment will usually save from 40 to 60 per cent on the cost of lime-sulphur required, and its total cost need not exceed $15, so that any one using seven barrels or more of the ordinary commercial concentrate should be able to save enough in the first year to pay for his equipment. It is well to locate sources of good lime and sulphur before they are needed. If enough of the lime-sulphur concentrate is made up, sales to neighbors may provide an additional profit.

On Growing Alfalfa.

Practically no injury to alfalfa from summer heat has been recorded in dry climates, but high temperatures combined with much moisture in the atmosphere are so injurious that it is difficult to grow the crop successfully under these conditions.

Correcting Soil Acidity.

For correcting soil acidity one ton of burned lime is practically equal to one and one-half tons of slaked lime or two tons of ground limestone in case all three forms are of equal grade of purity.

BRIEF FARM NOTES.

The most practicable means of controlling grasshoppers is by the use of poisoned bran baits or the modified "fiddle mixture."

It has been found that a few thorough applications of crude petroleum to the interior of poultry houses will destroy completely the common red mite infesting chickens.

A device has been originated by specialists of the department of agriculture which promises a more satisfactory and practical application of the hot water treatment for the prevention of loose smut of wheat and barley.

Extensive researches by plant pathologists of the department of agriculture upon the development of crown galls upon plants show that these galls, which are caused by a bacillus, have very many points of resemblance to human cancer.

Study your markets as well as your soil. Know the markets you can reach and see what it is those markets want of your farm.

STATE POLICE for PROTECTION of COUNTRY

The mustering of the national guard into the federal service has called particular attention to the need for a state police. The entire military forces of the state may soon be needed elsewhere, and there will be no force upon which the governor can call in time of internal disorder. The real purpose of a state police, however, is not to take the place of the national guard, but establish a rural patrol system for the protection of the country.

With the good roads development which has made almost every portion of the state readily accessible the once quiet districts, so long protected by their isolation, now suffer from the incursions of disorderly and criminal elements from the cities.

It has been estimated that the loss of fruit and garden products by theft and the damage by trespassers inflicted upon the farmers of New York every year amount to more than the entire cost of such a force.

It has been pointed out that, despite the ever increasing number of automobiles on our roads, no supervision is exercised, and no one feels the need of this more than the careful driver, who knows that his chief danger comes from reckless and irresponsible motorists. The enormous number of motorcar thefts reported seems to demand some state wide organization to combat it.

The state police system has been tried out in Pennsylvania for the past ten years with excellent results. More than 5,000,000 miles of otherwise unprotected highways have been patrolled, and more than 27,000 arrests have been made for crimes committed in the country districts. The above pictures show the men of the Pennsylvania force at work.

Ontario Women Get Vote.

Ontario is the latest one of the great Canadian provinces to line up for Woman Suffrage. Through Premier Hearst, the Government has endorsed the bill of J. W. Johnson, providing for equal suffrage. The opposition has already announced itself as favorable to suffrage so that the measure is expected to pass the Legislature without opposition. In 1916 four great Canadian provinces conferred the franchise upon women. They were Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Drier Than the Camel.

The "wild cow" of Arabia, in reality an antelope, the Beatrix oryx, is said never to drink, which is probably correct, for unless these animals can descend the wells they can find no drinking water for ten months in the year. There is no surface water, and rain falls but precariously during the winter. Only once during my journey did I find a pool of rain water, caught in a hollow rock, and even this I should have passed by without knowing of its existence had not my camels sniffed it from a distance and obstinately refused to be turned from going in that direction. These antelopes, however, are provided by nature with a curious food supply, especially designed as a thirst quencher. This is a parasite which grows on the roots of the desert bushes and forms a long spindle full of water and juice. The antelope dig deep holes in the sand in order to get at these.—Wide World Magazine.

Vulgarity.

"Why do you say he is vulgar?" "Because he has at least ten times as much money as I have."—Chicago Herald.

Be pitiful for every man is fighting a hard battle.—Jan MacLaren.

Heavy Money.

How to keep your money safe from thieves is a problem that was solved by the inhabitants of Uap, in the Caroline Islands, when they devised a currency too heavy for burglars to carry away. The money used by the natives is in the form of huge wheels of stone, weighing as much as 500 pounds and roughly shaped in the form of a grindstone. A large hole in the center is a feature of the Uap money. Even the clam shell pennies are perforated. The stones are used for large purchases only. If an islander becomes wealthy enough to purchase a pig he must part with a 500 pound circular stone, but if he is required to deliver it for any distance the pork is well earned.—American Boy.

HOW To Care For Your Auto In Cold Weather

THE first tinge of frost in the air means that the motorist has something additional to look out for in the care of his car. He stands chances of having his water circulation system give trouble unless he pays it proper attention. Cars that are not kept in warm places overnight will not start readily, and oftentimes the battery will get pretty well run out before the self starter performs the function for which it is built. If the garage is not heated about the best thing when coming in at night is to put a heavy blanket or other covering over the radiator or the entire bonnet and not to remove it in the morning before the motor is running.

Standing out of doors in the cold weather will turn a motor refractory, unless there is an anti-freeze mixture in the water system. It is most essential that motorists make use of some formula, to be procured from an expert, in order to insure against freezing. Furthermore, the radiator front should be partly covered in order first to prevent cold air being drawn in through the radiator and also to insure that the water as it comes down through the radiator tubes is not allowed to cool too much for efficient running.

Calcium chloride and other soluble salts, which have always figured in the antifreeze solutions suggested by motor authorities, are not recommended because of harmful effects on metals. It is possible, too, to use too much glycerin, for this has a bad effect on rubber hose connections.

Another matter of winter care of cars is to see to it that the battery electrolyte is kept up to the proper gravity. At between 1.28 and 1.30 it is hardly likely to freeze. As the gravity drops the chances of freezing increase, and a discharged battery will freeze at about zero. Where the weather is extremely cold it is advisable anyway to wrap the battery with a cloth.

The bad effects produced on motors by cold weather are added to by low test gasoline, which increases difficult starting, missing fire, inefficient running for some time after the engine is started and fouling of spark plugs. Sometimes gasoline gets mixed with the oil in the base on account of condensation in the cylinders. Extra care should be taken to see that the oil base is frequently drained and refilled with fresh oil. In very cold weather this should be done at least every thousand miles. The grade of oil to use in cold weather is a medium heavy grade or often a comparatively light oil.

How to Cleanse Curtains So They Look Like New.

After shaking out the loose dirt cover curtains with cold water. Cut up half a bar of good white soap, add a large tablespoonful of borax and melt to a jelly with hot water. Take this from the stove and add half a cupful of kerosene. Make a thick hot suds with part of this mixture and boiling water. Squeeze curtains from cold water and dip one at a time into the hot suds. The dirt will simply run out. Put through a second lighter suds rinse in hot water, starch, adding a little bluing, and put on stretchers. The result is curtains which look almost like new and are not worn out in washing. With two large pans this can be done in bathroom or kitchen. This mixture is sufficient for four pairs of curtains.

How to Dry Heavy Clothes on an Outdoor Line.

If you wish to dry anything very heavy, such as a blanket or comforter, hang it halfway over the clothesline and slip two or three wooden coat hangers under it on the line. This will separate the thing to be dried, fast fashion, and allow the air to circulate between the two parts.

Men and Women.
Men ought to be mighty good to women, for nature gave them the big end of the log to lift and mighty little strength to do it with.

The President's Easter Guests

THE president of the United States fittingly enough has perhaps the largest and certainly the most attractive back yard of any resident of this republic. Ordinarily this back yard at the White House is about as quiet and deserted a place as one could imagine. It is only at rare intervals that any member of the presidential household (for whose use it is reserved) is seen walking about the parklike expanse, and it isn't often that this stretch of lawn is made to serve as a playground—that function of so many less conspicuous “back yards” up and down the land.

However, there is one day at this smiling season of the year when the president's big back yard is anything but deserted. It is on a Monday, too—Easter Monday, to be exact. Now, you know Monday is “wash day,” and in the ordinary household it is the one day of the week when if the weather is nice mother needs the back yard and Johnny and Susie and all the rest are admonished that for the time being they must find some other place to play. Not so at the White House, however. As a matter of fact, the family wash at the executive mansion is hung to dry in a lattice screened inclosure that occupies only the smallest corner of the big back yard, but even at that the colored “mammies” in the presidential laundry could scarcely be induced to do the washing on this particular Monday, for Easter Monday has been from time out of mind the occasion of the great annual egg rolling festival on the White House grounds and is in consequence regarded as something of a holiday throughout the capital city.

On the day following Easter the president's back yard not only assumes the normal and rightful function of all back yards as a playground for young people, but it does it in no half hearted fashion. It is the one occasion of the year when during an entire day these private grounds are open to the public, and the democratic invitation is universal. Any child is free to come and go at will, without any card of admission, and they do come in swarms that cover the greensward and have been variously estimated at from 10,000 to 20,000 in different years—dependent somewhat upon the state of the weather.

During the past few years an important change has been made in the management of the president's back yard on Easter Monday, with a view to reserving it for the children who are its tenants for seven or eight blissful hours. Before this change was made it was found that the crowds attracted by this annual spectacle were assuming such proportions that they were not only difficult to handle; but, worse yet, they seriously hampered the youngsters in their egg rolling. In the old days everybody who came, young or old, was admitted to the egg rolling. But the odd antics of the little folks at their unique pastime proved a magnet for sightseers, who come not merely from Washington, but from towns far and wide. Particularly in the afternoon, when there is a band concert on the lawn, did the crowds become so dense that it was impossible for the juvenile visitors to romp freely, much less roll eggs in the traditional fashion. Accordingly there was put into force the new rule, which reserves the big yard primarily for children and stipulates that no adults shall be admitted unless accompanied by children. This allows the attendance of the little tots who require the presence of mother or nurse to look after them.

A Favorite Easter Trip.

The schoolteachers and public school pupils throughout the country seem to have by common consent adopted Easter week as the ideal interval for a sightseeing trip to Washington. They have been going by the thousands each Easter these past few years, and they besiege the White House office building in throngs—for the chief aim and purpose of this class of visitors is to actually shake hands with the president instead of merely inspecting his house and gazing at his estate, as do most sightseers. And, moreover, the president, being good natured and imbued with something of the Easter spirit, usually grants the requests of these Easter pilgrims who clamor for an audience.

NEW JAUNTINESS.
Picturesqueness For One Piece Frocks Is the Last Note.

Put up in navy blue velvet and satin, this straight lined gown gets its piquancy from the hip drape, which also contains a pocket, and from the girle of disks in steel beads, as many as five of them circling the slender waist. Double rows of velvet buttons close the front.

DON'T BE PERSONAL.

The Crudity and the Cruelty of Being Plain Spoken.

Among the immediate members of our families, our nearest and dearest, there frequently prevails a form of affectionate personal service that is irksome and trying, yet cannot be avoided or rebuked without giving offense. There are mothers who harass independent and sensible daughters with silly little admonitions about wearing rubbers and getting home early; who bemoan continually in public their daughters' predilection for tennis and dislike for fine sewing; who never find it possible to understand why their daughters have views or feelings that differ from their own, says the Woman's Home Companion. And, likewise, we find daughters who adopt the maternal attitude to their mothers and exercise a censorship over their clothes, occupations and recreations in a fashion truly exasperating. It makes the onlooker want to shout violently at these types, “Let each other alone.” Even though these attentions are actuated by the fondest love they are an infringement on individual rights. Mother should let daughter play tennis, and daughter should not try to select mother's hats. The result would be a great gain in family peace.

There ought to be a special chapter on “Being Impersonal” in every book of etiquette, and, since books of etiquette are usually consulted only by those who may want to know how many cards to leave on twin sisters or what is the time limit on dinner calls, perhaps this special chapter ought to be included in travel stories—yes, even works of fiction—so that every one who reads may see it. It should consist first of advice on how to be impersonal, with helpful hints, such as: “If your friend looks tired don't tell her so, but do something definite to help her rest.” “Never condole with any one on being either married or unmarried. Both may be fortunate states.” “Never criticize any piece of clothing worn by any one, not even awning stripes on a fat woman or an elbow sleeve on a skinny one.” “Never remark on any family likeness. It's bad enough to have it without being told about it.”

Grandmother's Pumpkin Pie.

Two cupfuls of pumpkin thoroughly mashed after having been steamed in a colander, two cupfuls of milk, one egg, half teaspoonful of ginger, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of molasses, half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of raisins. Boil the raisins half an hour, let the water boil away, slip out the seeds and add the pulp to the pumpkin. Scald the milk and mix with the pumpkin, add the seasoning, molasses and egg last. Bake in a plate lined and rimmed with crust.

Long Chains Worn.

Long chains of various sorts are in fashion this winter. The woman who seeks individuality nowadays outnumbers the woman who merely follows the fashion—which means that most women try to find something just a little different in the detail of their dress than that of their friend and neighbor. So it is that there are a dozen and one different sorts of long chains to be found, each as interesting as the one before it.

Suede and Jersey.

Callot introduces a sensational new sport suit made up from a side plaited skirt of white silk jersey and a short coat of white suede. It is lined with Indian red silk jersey, and collars and cuffs of the kid are faced with the red.

For a Large Easter Party

CHILDREN are so fond of the Easter rabbit and chickens that the giving of an Easter party for children is a simple matter for the hostess who is willing to accept the assistance of these amiable animals, says the New York Tribune. Such affairs range from the simple hunt for Easter eggs to the elaborate dancing parties with fancy dress and cotillions. One which is being planned this season by a woman to whom expense is nothing will provide simple games for the youngsters in quite an elaborate stage setting. One hundred children are to be invited.

A good old fashioned Punch and Judy show will be the first number on the program, and then will come dancing to lively music, as children have to be kept active. The musicians will not be in uniform, as many tots who have an unfortunate fear of policemen have been known in times past to be frightened by the bandsmen in blue and brass buttons. A picturesque ducky, with a banjo, will eliminate all danger of howls at this party.

After the dancing “Going to Jerusalem” will be played for a short time, ending with a cakewalk, the children in pairs, headed toward the dining room. Judges at the door will be on the watch for the cleverest performers, to whom, of course, prizes will have to be awarded later.

The supper's the thing, always, at a child's party, and will be here also. There are to be five tables, each seating twenty children, and the spaces between the tables will be transformed into green fields and barnyards. Large toy horses will be pastured there, as well as real live goats borrowed from the farms in the neighborhood of this country house. Milking stools will be placed for seats around the low tables, which are to be built especially for the party. The enormous glass inclosed pinza adjoining the dining room will be used for some of the tables, so that they need not be too close together. In far corners under small cedar trees will be coops with real hens and tiny chickens. Real ducks will be swimming in the basin of the fountain at the conservatory's end. Canary birds will be let loose, and it is hoped they will fly about and sing. The only animals not real will be the toy horses and a make believe cow cleverly manufactured from rugs and a horn rack.

The five tables will be decorated with Easter animals, though here no attempt is to be made to have them alive. At the center of one table a large papier mache rabbit will hold a large pink candy egg filled with presents for every child at the party, and at each table will be a wee rabbit to match, with a chocolate egg to eat. The second table will have a lovely fat hen in a big sugar nest, with wee candy chickens in groups near her and also one at each child's plate, standing on a place card. The third will have a duck on a mirror, edged around with green spun sugar and looking just like a tiny pool of water. Twenty small candy ducks will be in the pool, and each one will be tied to a spoon in front of a child's place, so that it will sail toward him when the string is pulled. A spun sugar nest containing candy eggs will be at each place. The fourth table will have another mirror lake with sugar grass at the edges and candy frogs and Japanese dragon flies disporting themselves upon it. A pepper mint snake will be at each table to feed the candy frogs with. The fifth table will have an Uncle Remus group. There will be a tar baby, with Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox, and at each table will be chocolate turtles.

The supper itself will be simple, including creamed chicken, sandwiches and ices. The latter will be in the shape of little chickens, and the cakes will be egg shaped, with frosting in different colors. After supper a little more dancing will be allowed, prizes awarded and animal souvenirs distributed. A feature of the party will be the bringing in of a basketful of Easter eggs to be distributed.

Care of the Teeth Prevents Disease

PUBLIC HEALTH HINTS

Albany.—The following bulletin was issued today by the New York State Department of Health:

At the moment of birth the mouth is free from germs. All through the remaining years of life it harbors the greatest variety—harmless and harmful. Those that cause the common infectious diseases are most apt to select the tonsils, surrounding parts of the throat and the nose as their site of entrance and growth. Those that are the cause of a number of more or less chronic ailments are very frequently found in the CAVITIES and ROOT SOCKETS of DISEASED TEETH. Here they multiply and either migrate by way of the lymph and blood vessels to other parts of the body or manufacture POISONOUS PRODUCTS, which are being constantly thrown off to the detriment of the general health. Among the diseased conditions thus caused may be mentioned disturbances of the heart action or actual DISEASE OF THE HEART, frequently in a very rapidly fatal type; ACUTE AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM, INDEFINITE MUSCULAR PAINS, SWOLLEN NECK GLANDS, DIGESTIVE DISTURBANCES, NERVOUS BREAKDOWNS, ANAEMIA AND GENERAL BLOOD POISONING.

THE TETH OF THE LOWER ANIMALS and primitive MAN take care of themselves. Highly civilized man must care for his teeth or suffer the consequences of neglect. The importance of MOUTH HYGIENE is at last obtaining a widespread recognition, and the GOSPEL OF THE TOOTHBRUSH is being spread abroad, as well as the fact that ARTISTIC DENTISTRY, which fails to include ASEPTIC DENTISTRY, may be a grave menace to the health and even to life itself.

The habit of BRUSHING THE TEETH thoroughly morning and night with careful RINSING OF THE MOUTH should be taught in early childhood and the practice never abandoned. A DENTIST should be consulted at least once a year and always at the first moment that the teeth give signs of trouble.

THE CHEWING OF FOOD, with the accompanying flow of digestive juices which it stimulates, is the first and very important act of digestion. If the teeth are not allowed to perform their proper function on account of the constant use of SOFT AND PARTIALLY DIGESTED FOOD, they will inevitably deteriorate and require frequent dentistry or else become the source of serious illness.

YES, you drew a reindeer when you drew No. 7. Of course you know it is very cold where the reindeer makes his home. Reindeers are the automobiles of the icy regions. They make fast time on the ice when attached to sleds. The reindeer works like a horse, furnishes meat and milk to people in cold countries and helps Santa Claus every year. Now, get ready for another cold weather animal. Start your pencil at No. 1, push it along to 1, 2, 4, etc., until all numbers are connected.

"Be Kind to Animals" Week.

Monday, April 16, will be the opening day of "Be Kind to Animals" Week, which will be followed by Humane Sunday, April 22. Interested individuals everywhere, as well as all humane organizations, are earnestly urged to observe this special week of emphasis upon man's duties to the weak and defenseless, those "who cannot speak for themselves." "Be Kind to Animals" Week was first generally observed two years ago, and last year the celebrations became so general that nearly every prominent society for the protection of animals had some part in the good work. Publicity was the keynote of the movement, and this was obtained in a great variety of ways. It is affirmed by competent authorities that more space in the daily and weekly press was given to the subject of kindness to animals and to the work of humane societies during the period of "Be Kind to Animals" Week last year than ever before during an equal time.

Humane lectures, talks in Sunday schools, and young people's meetings, humane story hours for little folks, essay contests for school children, and the active co-operation of Boy Scouts, and Campfire Girls, and similar organizations, are among the plans that should be made everywhere for a general observance of "Be Kind to Animals" Week.

Masonic Relief Association.

The annual meeting of the Masonic Relief association of Cayuga county was held in Masonic Temple, Auburn, Saturday evening with a large attendance of the members. Great interest was shown in the work done by the association.

During the year just closed the amount paid to the widows and orphans was $11,200. This association during the past thirty-five years has paid funeral benefits amounting to $178,526. The Masonic Relief Association of Cayuga county is purely a mutual organization and never was formed as an insurance company nor does it expect to be.

The officers are: William F. Claudius, president; A. L. Dewdney, vice president; Joseph W. Bryant, treasurer; W. E. Taylor, secretary.

There are twelve directors in Auburn and a number throughout the county. Those in this section are: William C. Mersereau, Union Springs; Robert Lee, Cayuga; G. Stanley Aikin, King Ferry; Howard H. Hunter, Ensenore; special directors: Frank E. Saxton, Venice Center; Robert Mastin, Genoa.

Died in Cortland Hospital.

Henry Karn, a resident of the town of Lansing for many years, died at the Cortland City hospital Friday night, March 30, after a few days' illness of pneumonia. The deceased was born 55 years ago in the town of Lansing and lived there many years, but for the past few years had resided in Cortland. Surviving are one brother, Alson Karn of North Lansing, and three sisters. Mr. Karn was never married.

Funeral services were held in the M. E. church at North Lansing on Tuesday at 1 o'clock, Rev. F. J. Allington officiating. Burial at North Lansing.

Bird of Sweetest Song.

It is said the larks of Scotland are the sweetest singing birds of earth. No piece of mechanism that man has ever made has the soft, sweet, glorious music in it that the lark's throat has. When the farmers of Scotland walk out early in the morning they flush the larks from the grass, and as they rise they sing, and as they sing they circle and higher and higher they go, circling as they sing, until at last the notes of their voices die out in the sweetest strains that earth ever listened to.—Our Dumb Animals.

Joint Piano Recital.

The last great concert in the world's great artists course, which Mr. Hennessy has given this winter for the people of Auburn and vicinity, takes place on Tuesday evening, April 10, at the Auditorium, Auburn. Two of the world's greatest artists will give a joint piano recital, Harold Bauer, the master French pianist, and Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the greatest Russian pianist. This will be a sensational recital and no one should miss it. You can hear two such artists only once in a lifetime. Either artist always fills the largest auditoriums. A special train will be run from Aurora for the concert. Write and reserve your seats. Remember and reserve also Wednesday evening, April 18, when Mme. Alma Gluck comes to the Auditorium. Address now for both concerts, Mgr. Hennessy, Box 192, Auburn, N. Y.

Entertaining at Easter

FOR luncheon and dinner on Easter Monday and Tuesday the decorations should express the Easter spirit. Rabbits, chicken and eggs must appear in one form or another. The shops are filled with lovely place cards and favors.

One effect which is charming for a luncheon table has yellow and white for its color scheme. In the center of the table is a mound of daffodils surrounding a big white egg, from which a little white chicken peeps. From the center streamers of yellow ribbon lead to the four corners and finish in a bow. At each place is found a little candy-filled rabbit standing on its hind legs with the front feet extended.

On the feet is placed the little card with the name of the guest whose place it is. The upper half of the rabbit comes off, and the body is filled with tiny hambons. These serve as both place cards and favors.

At such a luncheon the colors must be preserved throughout, starting with grapefruit and a golden chicken bouillon, followed by salmon or eggs in one fashion or another. Chicken may be served as the meat, or if chops are preferred little yellow rufflets can be put on their stems. Orange salad keeps up the color scheme and a banana or deep yellow vanilla cream finishes it. Little egg candies are appropriate and attractive.

For a children's party there is a larger field for variety. A new version of an old game may be rung in very neatly. A couple of hundred little egg candies may be concealed in every imaginable corner of the house. These are to be sought by all the little ones. The child finding the most should receive the prize of a fuzzy chicken filled with candy, the second prize being a smaller rabbit, and the booby prize should be a cardboard rabbit drawing a cardboard egg, on which should be inscribed "booby."

For prizes in other games the chocolate or nut eggs make delicious and acceptable gifts. There are so many old fashioned games in which prizes may be given, and this always adds a zest to the games.

A costume party for the children affords a great deal of amusement and plenty of room for originality. The invitations should direct each guest to come in Easter costume. One of the best costumes along these lines seen in a long time was invented by a small miss of ten years.

It was made of cardboard to represent an egg and tied in the back. It was a perfect oval from head to foot. It was very narrow at the bottom, where her feet came through, and on her head she wore a white oval cap made like a sou'wester, which had an opening for the face, but joined the rest of the costume at the neck. Round holes were made in the cardboard at the shoulders for the arms to come through. When she was in this costume it was really remarkably like an egg.—New York Evening Telegram.

Legend of the Cross

THE legend of the cross most widely spread and most generally believed in the olden time is as follows:

Adam, having lived to a great age and feeling that death was not far distant, bade his son, Seth, bring to him either the fruit of life which grew in the garden of Eden or the oil of mercy which flowed there and which had been promised to Adam upon his expulsion from the garden. Seth made his way to paradise by the footprints of Adam and Eve, over which no grass had ever grown.

The angel to whom Seth made known his errand gave him three seeds from the fruit of the tree of which Adam had eaten and directed that they be placed under Adam's tongue just before his burial. In the course of time Adam died, and the angel's instructions were carried out.

Soon there sprang from Adam's grave in Hebron three trees—a cedar, a cypress and a pine tree. These long grew together, forming one trunk, which came to be regarded as a symbol of the holy trinity. This tree, transplanted by Moses and later by David, grew to be very beautiful.

But even its beauty did not prevent Solomon from cutting it down in order to complete his temple, for which a beam of enormous size was lacking. But each time that the beam cut from the tree was fitted it would be either too large or too small, and such a strange circumstance was taken as a sign that it should not be used.

Some time afterward, most versions agree, the beam was buried under the roof of Bethesda was at a later time discovered. During passion week the wood was used and floated on the surface of the pool and was used for the crucifixion.

STRUGGLE LIKELY IN NEW HOUSE

Spirited Fight Is Seen Over the Speakership.

NEITHER PARTY CONTROLS

Outcome to Depend Upon Votes of Six Independent Members, Who Will Balance of Power—Will Be No Dickering or Trading of Appointments For Votes.

The tug-of-war scheduled for April 10, when the house of representatives of the Sixty-fifth congress meets to choose a speaker and to elect committees, is going to be one of the most adroitly managed tests of political strength the old capitol has seen since the night the rules fight began. On paper neither one side nor the other has enough strength to elect a speaker, the death of Representative Sulloway of New Hampshire reducing the membership to 214 Republicans, 214 Democrats and 5 independents, two of whom will undoubtedly vote for Clark and two of whom will probably vote for the Republican candidate for speaker, Representative Martin of Louisiana, "protectionist Progressive." It is still the prime object of mystery even to himself. He says he doesn't know how he is going to vote.

But when the politicians on the hill take stock of what strength they have, regardless of paper showing, it is apparent to many that the Democrats still have a shade the better of the argument because they are actually undivided. They will put up a solid front for Clark on the speakership fight, and there has been no inkling yet that the Democrats will divide on the committee membership vote. On the other hand, the Republicans have dissatisfied members in the ranks. These members are trying out their strength on various lines, and it may be they will carry out their threat never to vote for Mann as speaker.

Neither to Dickering For Votes. These grumpy fellows have learned, or will learn quite soon, that neither of the main bodies is going to dicker for votes. It is no secret on the hill to say that two or three men have been hanging back on the presumption that one side or the other would want to promise a nice prominent committee chairmanship in exchange for a vote for the speakership. This sounded ominous several days ago, but the general feeling on both sides today is that there will be absolutely no dickerings. This, it is argued, would be undignified, and from a practical standpoint it would weaken the party accepting a vote from the other side on any such terms. Experienced politicians believe that a Republican who votes for Clark as speaker in return for a committee assignment will have buried himself politically.

One representative, elected by half a dozen kinds of political organizations, who is neither Republican nor Democrat, but a little bit of both, with a large flavoring of Socialist, labor vote, etc., has given it out he can give the Democrats ten votes from the Republican side on organization matters, provided the house rules are modified so that a roll call vote can be had in committee of the whole. Now that a really practical voting device seems likely to be installed, the committee of the whole may have a record vote after all, but Republicans do not fear any loss of ten men on that account.

Looks Like Long Drawn Battle. So the two main divisions will probably meet April 16. Clerk South Trimble will call for nominations for speaker, and from present appearances it looks like a long drawn battle before one side or the other gets the required 218 votes. Representative Martin, the Louisiana mystery, is claimed by both sides. The Republicans claim him because he is a protectionist, and the Democrats claim him because he is from Louisiana, where it is understood no one can vote for anything Republican and maintain any social status.

Contest Over Committees. Where a most interesting political battle is to take place will be in the election of committees. The Democratic slates will be made up without difficulty. It is assumed. The Republican slates will not be so easily framed. Several days before the convening of the house the Republicans will meet in caucus or open conference. The existing committee of twenty-seven Republicans will have brought matters to a point where the conference will probably appoint a Republican committee on committees, made up of all kinds of Republicans—old guard, standpat, progressives, eastern and western.

That committee will work out a series of committee memberships, with the understanding that every one will have a voice in the choosing before final action.

Then the committee matter will be taken up by the house. Representative Kitchin will suggest the membership of the Democrats, and Representative Mann will suggest the Republican members. Here is where the Republican hearts will stop beating for a minute while they wait to see if one of their dissatisfied members offers another suggestion or list of suggestions.

Temperance Notes

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

CHALLENGE OF A BIG TASK.

A few paragraphs from the address of Miss Anna A. Gordon, president National W. C. T. U., at Indianapolis, Ind., November 17, 1916:

"Exultant praise fills our hearts as we meet in our forty-third annual convention. These are glorious fruition days. We praise God for the resistless sweep of state-wide prohibition on November 7, 1916. Michigan victorious! Nebraska victorious! South Dakota victorious! Montana victorious! Alaska victorious! Washington beat the brewers and held her law! Colorado beat the brewers and held her law! Arizona beat the brewers and held her law! Arkansas beat distillers and brewers and held her law. Idaho, already blessed by statutory prohibition, voted three to one to place prohibition in the bedrock of her state constitution. In seven of these eleven states women not only worked for victory but helped vote it in—on election day. Great Britain recently presented to the government a memorial more than eleven miles in length for national prohibition during the war and six months after. There were over 2,000,000 signatures to the huge petition. Mrs. Humphrey Ward, one of its influential endorsers, lately said, 'There will be a new wind blowing through England when this war is done.' This same prohibition wind has blown the liquor traffic out of nine of Canada's ten provinces, from far northern Newfoundland, from the vast areas of Russia and its near neighbor Roumania; it is whistling over the banks and braes of Bonnie Scotland; it is driving before it the liquor makers and liquor sellers of sunny France; it is felt in the restriction of the traffic in Germany, Italy and other European countries. It bids fair to reach the proportions of a prohibition cyclone that in the present generation shall drive the commercialized drink evil from the entire world.

"Many members of the W. C. T. U. who at the recent general election were 'first voters' cast their ballots for the presidential candidate on the prohibition party ticket. Yet as an organization we are not partisan. We rejoice that one of the chief citizens of our hostess city, ex-Gov. J. Frank Hanly, presidential candidate on the Prohibition party ticket, received 350,000 votes. We thank Mr. Hanly and Doctor Landrith for their intense campaign to help focus the attention of our nation on the paramount question of prohibition for our republic. We also heartily thank the voters of all parties who at the ballot box in state or national elections registered their convictions in favor of a prohibitory law and its strict enforcement. We are all one in a supreme effort to secure a federal amendment for prohibition. State-wide prohibition victories have been secured only when people of all political faiths have united. Our campaign for a federal amendment must be conducted on the same omnipartisan lines.

"During a prohibition campaign the hearts of the busy toilers are cheered and upheld by the enthusiasm such an effort creates. There is unity of action, fervor of spirit, joy of service and the thrill of coming victory. Election day comes. Victory is won. What next? Too often the campaigners consider their work is well over. They think they have earned the right to rest on their laurels and to enjoy the results of their arduous labors. There could not be a greater mistake. Let us never for one moment indulge the fancy that a prohibitory law can accomplish the miracles of enforcing itself. Populations rapidly change in these swift moving days. If public sentiment for prohibition and for total abstinence is kept at white heat the vast area now under prohibition can everywhere and always resist the attacks of our strongly organized foe. The same fervor of spirit which aided in securing a prohibitory law must with equal ardor be exerted to enforce it. The chorus of humanity must be kept up to prohibition concert pitch. Unity of action is still necessary.

"This year for the first time 4,000,000 women have voted for a president of the United States. The 12 suffrage states, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, Kansas, Oregon, Montana, Nevada and Alaska, together with Illinois, where women vote in presidential and municipal elections, have a total of 91 electoral votes.

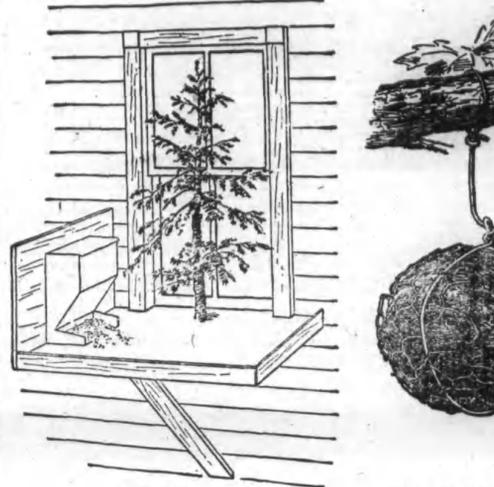

"Closely studying the strategy of the liquor forces of our country—through their journals and the output of their publicity bureaus—and noting the vast sums of money they expend to defeat suffrage elections, we are convinced that more than any other forward step of the temperance forces they fear the votes of women."

BUSINESS THAT SUFFERS.

It is true that prohibition throws some people out of business. In Denver during the first dry month it was found that about forty washwomen gave up their work. Their husbands spent their earnings for home supplies instead of booze and the women could stay at home and take care of their families. At the same time one large laundry gained about 400 new patrons. Is prohibition bad for business? Why? Why is it that pawnshops and jails suffer a falling off in business under prohibition?

INVITE the BIRDS to be NEIGHBORS

Food Shelf. Coconut Larder.

FEEDING AND FOOD SHELTERS.

Birds may be attracted about the homestead by furnishing them with an abundance of food. It is important to note that an ample supply of food prior to and during the nesting season tends to increase the number of eggs laid and also the number of broods in a season. Bird food may be supplied in two ways—by planting trees, shrubs and herbs which produce seeds or fruits relished by birds, and by exposing food in artificial devices. The most familiar phase of the latter method is winter feeding.

Artificial Food Supply. During the season when the natural food supply is at its lowest bird food responds most readily to our hospitality. Winter feeding has become very popular, and the result has been to bring about better understanding between birds and humankind.

The winter foods commonly used include suet or other fat, pork rinds, bones with shreds of meat, cooked meats, meal worms, cut-up apples, birdseed, buckwheat, crackers, crumbs, coconut meat, cracked corn, broken dog biscuits or other bread, hemp seed, millet, nut meats of all kinds (especially peanuts), whole or rolled oats, peppers, popcorn, pumpkin or squash seeds, raw or boiled rice, sunflower seed and wheat.

The methods of making these supplies available to birds are as varied as the dietary itself. A device very commonly used is the food tray or shelf (Fig. 1). This may be put on a tree or pole by a window or at some other point about a building, or strung upon a wire or other support on which it may be run back and forth. The last device is useful in accustomed birds to feed nearer and nearer a comfortable observation point. A fault with food shelves is that wind and rain may sweep them clean and snow may cover the food. These defects may be obviated in part by adding a raised edge about the margin or by placing the shelf in the shelter of a wall or shielding it with evergreen branches on one or more sides.

Feeding devices not affected by the weather are preferable. An excellent one is a coconut with a hole bored in one end (Fig. 2). The cavity is filled with chopped suet and nuts or other food mixture, and the nut is suspended by a wire from a limb. The size of the hole regulates the character of the guests; if small, large birds cannot gobble the supply. The coconut meat as well as the stuffing is eaten. Cans with small openings may be substituted for coconuts. Food baskets of any desired size made of wire netting or a metal grating may be hung up or fastened to the trunk of a tree. Food mixtures in melted fat may be poured into holes made in a branch or stick (Fig. 3) or in cracks of bark or over evergreen branches. All of these devices minimize or obviate the disturbing effects of stormy weather.

Everybody Doing It.

"It surely does beat all!" The thin carpenter knew when the fat plumber made the above exclamation that it invited an inquiry, so he asked: "What beats all?" "I went to a theater the other night and heard a nutty monologue." "Yes?" "And then I went into another place and heard a campaign orator shouting off his gab." "Uh huh."

"And in the next place, which was a moving-picture theater, blamed if I didn't run up against the arena scene from 'Quo Vadis'."

"I must say I can't just get the drift of your talk." "Can't you see? Everywhere I went I found somebody throwing the ball." —Youngtown Telegram.

The Thrice-A-Week Edition OF THE New York World

IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly

No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half-way into its third year, and, whether peace be at hand or yet far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many a month to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues. THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and THE GENOA TRIBUNE together for one year for $1.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.00.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM A reliable preparation of herbs. It is used by thousands of people. For Restoring Color to the Hair. For Itching Scalp. For Dandruff. Sold at all Drug Stores, and $1.00 at Wholesale.

He Will Arise!

Easter Day

Oh, day of days! Shall hearts set free

No "minstrel rapture" find for thee! Thou art the sun of other days. They shine by giving back thy rays.

Enthroned in thy sovereign sphere, Thou shedd'st the light on all the year.

Sundays by thee more glorious break. An Easter day in every week.

And week days, following in their train,

The fullness of thy blessing gain Till all, both resting and employ, Be one Lord's day of holy joy.

Then wake, my soul, to high desires. An earlier light thine altar fires. The world some hours is on her way, Nor thinks on thee, thou blessed day.

Or, if she thinks, it is in scorn. The vernal light of Easter morn To her dark gaze no brighter seems Than reason's or the law's pale beams.

"Where is your Lord?" she scornful asks.

"Where is his hire? We know his tasks.

Sons of a king ye boast to be. Let us your crowns and treasures see."

We in the words of truth reply (An angel brought them from the sky):

"Our crown, our treasure, is not here.

'Tis stored above the highest sphere.

"Methinks your wisdom guides amiss To seek on earth a Christian's bliss. We watch not now the lifeless stone. Our only Lord is risen and gone."

Yet even the lifeless stone is dear For thoughts of him who late lay here, And the base world, now Christ hath died, Ennobled is and glorified.

No more a charnel house, to fence The relics of lost innocence, A vault of ruin and decay— The imprisoning stone is rolled away.

'Tis now a cell, where angels use To come and go with heavenly news And in the ears of mourners say, "Come, see the place where Jesus lay."

'Tis now a fane, where love can find Christ everywhere embalmed and shrined—

Aye gathering up memorials sweet Where'er she sets her dutiful feet. —John Keble.

One Way of Decorating Eggs.
I saw my Polish washerwoman carefully saving the little bits of wax from some honey which I had given her for her lunch, says a writer in the New York Mail. I laughed at her and asked her, "What for?" She answered, "Me make pretty eggs." I finally got out of her limited English that she melted the wax and put it on the eggs. Then she drew figures in the wax and boiled the eggs in various colors—a kind of crude etching. She brought me some eggs last Easter, and they were really very pretty. Her delight when I gave her a chunk of paraffin with which to coat the eggs was like that of a child.

An Easter Luncheon

THE decorative possibilities of Easter time are numerous, as tradition makes hares, doves, chicks and butterflies, as well as lilies and spring flowers, appropriate attendants upon the festival. Of late years little kittens, squirrels and ducklings have been added to the list and are sometimes given for variety's sake as favors at Easter luncheons and dinners instead of rabbits and chickens. Butterflies, emblematic as they are of the awakening of spring, make particularly appropriate favors, says the New York Tribune.

Large yellow butterflies as favors, with a centerpiece of spring ferns and catkins, make a delightful color scheme, for by Easter time the catkins are usually a mass of feathery yellow blossoms. As far as may be, a pale green should be the predominating color, the yellow in the favors and catkins being merely attractive highlights. The china may be white and gold or white, with delicate decorations on it in green.

The menu should as far as possible be suggestive of spring or, in other words, seasonable and not in any pronounced color that will be out of harmony with the green and yellow tints. Lamb loaf, decorated with squares of mint jelly, makes an attractive piece of resistance at a simple luncheon, or slices of lamb may be masked with mint aspic, allowed to harden into a nice mold and then served upon boiled "artichoke bottoms," seasoned with French dressing, and finally arranged around a mound of peas or asparagus dressed with mayonnaise. Tiny sprays of mint may decorate the dish, or, if preferred, the mint sprays may appear in a plate of mint sandwiches.

For a dinner a stuffed breast of veal with watercress is attractive or a crown roast of lamb with mint jelly. A salad of spinach, peas or asparagus may be served in paper cups.

A pistachio ice cream, tinted a delicate green and ornamented with snowy whipped cream, may be used. At this season some hostesses may not care for a frozen dessert. In that case a delicate grapefruit sponge may be served. It is made by adding a beaten white of egg to a grapefruit jelly just before it congeals. The pale green of the jelly may be brightened by adding a little green coloring matter. Add a little extra sugar, so that it may be appropriately served with ornamental whippings of cream, cream hardly being appropriate with a sour jelly.

A genuine diplomatic pudding is also an attractive dessert. It is like the ordinary diplomatic pudding except that a white Bavarian cream is masked by a green jelly, each flavored appropriately. The dessert should be prettily decorated with pistachio nuts or angelica and whipped cream.

The Day of Lilies.
The scent of the lilies is bound and holden; Its incense rises in bordered aisles; There's the promise of spring in the sunlight golden;

There's the joy of spring in the children's smiles! And yesterday's toll and hurried clamor, The city's throng and the city's strife, Its cluttered scene and its fevered glamour That makes up the struggle we dare call life—

We leave it all at some fair, dim portal, (The lilies gleam in the bordered aisles!) And oh, the message and gift immortal! (There's the joy of spring in the children's smiles!)

And we hear of that faroff Syrian garden Where Mary's Master stilled her fear And the angel's words of hope and pardon: "For he is risen. He is not here."

Risen! Sweet Christ of the distant ages! Like Mary, we listen and know the voice, And more than the story of hallowed pages The touch of his love and life rejoice. For in any sadness of some tomorrow If we hear his answer we lose all care, And above forgotten tears and sorrow The scent of the lilies shall linger there! —Adin Ballou in New York Tribune.

Two Easter Lilies

"You have heard, my boy, of the Man who died, Crowned with keen thorns and crucified, And how Joseph, the wealthy—whom God reward— Cared for the corpse of the martyred Lord, And piously tombed it within the rock, And closed the gate with a mighty block.

"Now, close by the tomb a fair tree grew, With pendulous leaves and blossoms of blue, And deep in the green tree's shadowy breast A beautiful singing bird sat on her nest, Which was bordered with mosses, like malachite, And held four eggs of an ivory white.

"Now, when the bird from her dim recess Beheld the Lord in his burial dress And looked on the heavenly face so pale And the dear feet pierced with cruel nail, Her heart nigh broke with a sudden pang, And out of the depths of her sorrow she sang.

"All night long till the moon was up She sat and sang in her moss-wreathed cup

THE LORD IS RISEN INDEED

AN EASTER POEM BY CORA A. MATSON DOLSON

COME, listen to the anthem that we sing!

Listen, and let your doubts take wing, take wing.

Listen, and let your hearts be comforted, for Christ, your Lord, is risen from the dead.

That tomb of stone no longer is his prison. The door is open, and your Lord is risen.

Legend of Easter Eggs

TRINITY bells, with their hollow lungs And their vibrant lips and their brazen tongues, Over the roofs of the city pour Their Easter music with joyous roar Till the soaring notes to the sun are rolled As he swings along in his path of gold.

"Dearest papa," says my boy to me As he merrily climbs on his mother's knee, "Why are these eggs that you see me hold Colored so finely with blue and gold? And what is that wonderful bird that lays Such beautiful eggs on Easter days?"

"You have heard, my boy, of the Man who died, Crowned with keen thorns and crucified, And how Joseph, the wealthy—whom God reward— Cared for the corpse of the martyred Lord, And piously tombed it within the rock, And closed the gate with a mighty block.

"Now, close by the tomb a fair tree grew, With pendulous leaves and blossoms of blue, And deep in the green tree's shadowy breast A beautiful singing bird sat on her nest, Which was bordered with mosses, like malachite, And held four eggs of an ivory white.

"Now, when the bird from her dim recess Beheld the Lord in his burial dress And looked on the heavenly face so pale And the dear feet pierced with cruel nail, Her heart nigh broke with a sudden pang, And out of the depths of her sorrow she sang.

"All night long till the moon was up She sat and sang in her moss-wreathed cup

A song of sorrow as wild and shrill As the homeless wind when it roams the hill, So full of fears, so loud and long, That the grief of the world seemed turned to song.

"But soon there came through the weeping night A glimmering angel clothed in white, And he rolled the stone from the tomb away Where the Lord of the earth and heavens lay, And Christ arose in the cavern's gloom And in living luster came from the tomb.

"Now, the bird that sang in the heart of the tree Beheld this celestial mystery, And its heart was filled with sweet delight, And it poured a song on the throbbing night. Notes climbed on notes till, higher and higher, They shot to heaven like spears of fire.

"When the glittering, white-robed angel heard The sorrowing song of the grieving bird And heard the following chant of mirth That hailed Christ risen again on earth He said, 'Sweet bird, be forever blest— Thyself, thy eggs and thy moss-wreathed nest!'

"And ever, my child, since that blessed night, When death bowed down the Lord of light, The eggs of that sweet bird change their hue And burn with red and gold and blue, Reminding mankind in their simple way Of the holy marvel of Easter day." —Fitzjames O'Brien.

Duck Eggs For Easter.
In some places one can easily obtain ducks' eggs for Easter. Whether you like the taste of these eggs or not, you will find that their size makes them bring delight to the youngsters. A pretty centerpiece for Easter day is made from a small round basket lined with grass or straw and filled with ducks' eggs. Brooding over these eggs or perched on the side of the basket you can have one of those delightful little yellow ducks sold at the confectionery or favor store.

What Easter Should Mean

DOES Easter mean to you only the wearing of a new hat, a new frock and the studying of fashions as worn by others? Do you let it bring to your little ones only the rabbit's nest of colored eggs or the fluffs of yellow chicks? Does it strike no higher chord in your being than the fact that spring is at hand and you must have light and becoming apparel?

Easter is more than all these. It is the force in nature that brings the leaf, the bud and at last the glowing blossom from the clod. It is the resurrection of the life of those things we call inanimate because they cannot talk to us; how much more than the springing into being of the good that may be dormant in our hearts.

What the little ones should be told this Easter morning is that the life of the world itself is new; that the grave cannot hold within its confines the mighty spirit of growing things. So I beg of you to not dwell too largely upon the sadness of the cross and the crown of thorns, but rather upon the glorious truth that those were but small in comparison with the glory of Christ's rising.

If the remembrance of the freeing from the tomb means anything in teaching Christianity it means the beauty of the resurrection; it means that the very spirit of "Christ risen from the dead" is to be carried out in real life; that joy and fresh, glowing happiness are to be taught and believed in. Gloom has no place on Easter day. What is past is past; troubles that have come are gone; pain that has been suffered and cured is to be forgotten, and this is the meaning that Easter should bring into every mother's morning greeting to her little ones. "You were ill yesterday, but you are well today." You are to live as if the sun was newly born, the skies newly washed in their sunny blue, the stars but just freshly placed to shine to give you pleasure, the moon sailing like a beautiful round globe for your eyes to see. All these mean a keener enjoyment, a better understanding, and you will find response in each small body and loving heart if the practice be the teaching of the Golden Rule, not only today, but all the year.—Emma Irene McLagan in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Queer Palm Sunday Custom.
In Lincolnshire, England, there is a singular ceremony on Palm Sunday in Calstow church. A deputy from Broughton brings in a very large whip, with large thongs of strong white leather. During the early part of the service in the church a man named for the purpose comes to the door and cracks the whip three times, then, with much ceremony, wraps the thong around the stock of the whip, puts some rods of mountain ash upon it and binds the whole together with a whipcord. Then he ties to the top of the whip stock a purse containing 2 shillings (about 50 cents), then takes the whole and marches into the church, where he stands silently until the first lesson of the service is finished. He then goes up nearer, waves the purse over the clergyman's head, kneels down on a cushion and there waits, with the purse suspended, until the lesson is ended. After the service is over he carries the curious whip to the next hamlet.

Easter Song.
How shall I know the swallow's wing Will cleave once more the air of spring, And the rattle crocus bud again Shoot upward in the April rain Until it bursts to blossoming?
How shall I know the velvet moss, Frost unnumbered, will renew its gloss, The thicket-hidden thrush rehearse The music of its vesper verse, And joyance follow after loss?
Through all the darkness and the dole, Like some transcendent aureole, Like some fair pharos on a height Flung its beams athwart the night, Faith shall reveal the way, O soul! —Clinton Scollard in Denver Republican.

Happy Easter Thoughts

Easter Morning

WHAT tidings of reverent gladness are voiced by the bells that ring

A summons to men to gather today in the courts of Christ the King! We come to our dear Lord's altar.

What brightness greets us there! The gloom of the winter has vanished, and beauty is everywhere. Oh, beautiful, beautiful lilies, what truths you typify!

You seemed to die in the autumn, and yet you did not die.

"Alleluia!" the choir is chanting, with joyous, jubilant voice.

"The Lord is risen, is risen! Rejoice, rejoice, rejoice!"

"He is risen!" Oh, glorious message! "He lives who once was dead!"

And hearts that were heavy, with sorrow bear and are comforted.

From the censer cups of the lilies rise scents of myrrh and balm, And the soul, like a lark, soars upward, winged with the Easter psalm.

And on this Easter morning, while joyful voices sing,

You repeat to all the lesson of the miracle of spring.

From the tomb in which men laid him the stone is rolled away.

And, lo, the Christ they sing of is here in our midst today!

—Eben E. Rexford in Christian Herald.

The Lily

THE lily, whose purity and beauty have become the symbol of the Christian Easter, is, according to the flower genealogists, Chinese, though it appeared as long as 3,000 years before the Christian era as a theme of decoration on Egyptian and Assyrian monuments.

"The original lily," says the Southern Workman, "is believed to be the oldest of all plants," and it observes that it is the only one that has none but recent relatives. The kinfolk of the rose are very poor. The chrysanthemum has been brought out of almost the weed state, but the lily is an aristocrat that seems to have been so divinely molded that man has been unable to change it materially. Even the Japanese are content almost to worship it as it is. Little Japanese tots never look so charming as when they are admiring this thing which brings the divine beauty of the wonderful world into even the most menial surroundings. Often this queen is found standing majestic and adored in a simple vase or bottle in the workshops, even in blacksmith shops.

On this side of the world Bermuda is the great lily storehouse. Those who visit the islands in the month of April can ride for miles over the finest natural roads in the world—those in Barbados alone excepted—among fields of pure white flowers, growing in such profusion that the ground is not visible.

Nothing is to be seen but masses of white and green. There are over 300 such farms, some from thirty to forty acres in extent, devoted exclusively to lily growing. The heavy perfume can often be discerned a mile or more away. The fragrance of a bunch of lilies delicately scenting a room or church is very different from the overpowering fragrance exhaled from an immense farm. The natives, however, are quite resigned to the heavy perfume, knowing that acre for acre the growing lily is three or four times as profitable as the other products of the islands. Lily bulbs were first brought to the islands from Japan.

Cayuga County Bee Keepers.

The nineteenth annual meeting of the Cayuga County Bee Keepers' society was held in Auburn last Friday with two sessions. Fully forty members of the society were present and the morning session which opened at 10:30 o'clock was taken up with choosing committees. In the afternoon the principal duty of the meeting was to elect officers for the coming year and by acclamation the officers of last year were re-elected as follows:

N. L. Stevens, Venice Center, president; George L. Ferris, Atwater, first vice-president; George M. Sowarby, Cato, second vice-president; S. L. Coulson, Moravia; J. W. Pierson, Union Springs, secretary and treasurer. The present term makes twenty successive years that Mr. Pierson has acted as secretary and treasurer.

The committee on resolutions was George Ferris, Atwater; J. R. Conklin, Moravia; Claude Whitten, Genoa; auditing committee, George Sowarby, Cato; Miss I. H. Beckwith, Auburn.

E. C. Wetherby, manager of the Cayuga County Farm Bureau, explained the agricultural law regarding the protection of apiaries, and told the bee-keepers of their rights in regard to protecting bees from being poisoned by unseasonable spraying of trees by fruit growers. This question came up during the discussion of "What Should Be Discussed at Bee-keepers' meetings?" and was led by C. B. Howard of Romulus, former secretary of the State Association. Mr. Howard contended that the question was of paramount importance and was largely a matter of education of the fruit growers because the spraying of trees with poisonous substances during the flowering season worked harm to the fruits and often killed whole apiaries of bees.

Mr. Marks of Geneva spoke of adopting a uniform carton for the sale of honey and plainly marking it "New York State honey." He submitted a sample carton recommended by the State Association and it was adopted. The carton will be used solely for first grade goods.
