AN OPEN LETTER TO THE FARMERS OF NEW YORK

Assemblyman Louis H. Wells,
Himself a Farmer, Asks Interesting Questions About the Opposition to a State Police.

To the Farmers of New York:

Every farmer is facing certain problems today whether or not he is aware of the fact. Take the question of labor for example. Never again will we be able to work the farms of New York as they should be worked to produce the maximum profit to their owners—with American labor.

Farm Labor Problem.

The cities are calling upon us for increased production to supply their ever-growing demands and are continually taking their toll of many of our American-born children. Already in many sections of the state the majority of the work is done by foreign labor, and upon foreign labor, we will be largely dependent in the future.

The development of good roads and speedy transportation has been of inestimable value. The whole tendency has been to bring all of the people of the state so much closer together than would have been conceivable twenty years ago.

Along with the benefits which we all feel as a result of these changes have come certain inevitable drawbacks. The peace and quiet of our isolated rural communities are too often rudely shattered by the introduction of those who in former days would have been barred out by distance. Scarcely any section of New York State is so remote today that it is not readily accessible to some adjacent municipality. With the good comes the bad, and we have to meet the situation—what? The antiquated system devised by our forefathers at the time when practically the entire population of the State was composed of those earnest, hard working, God-fearing settlers who have made this the Empire State of the Union.

Altered Conditions Demand Attention

But what of the conflicting and varied elements which make up society today? They differ by education, training, and character from our forebears. They are not moved by the same ideals, nor are they amenable to the same control of public opinion or public morality. No longer is the country free from elements which our fathers would speedily have eliminated as vile and un-American. In the cities it has long been realized that the apprehension of criminals, for which the offices of sheriff and constable were primarily designed, is but a small portion of the duties of officers of the law. Their chief and most important function is that of preventing violations of the law. When the sheriff-constable system originated the town line and county line seemed less restrictive because a speedy horse was the most rapid method of locomotion.

The Criminal in the Country.

Today the constable and sheriff are still restricted by town and county lines, but the criminal with the railroad, the trolley, the automobile moves from county to county with a speed undreamed of in that earlier day and without restriction. There are thousands of miles of improved highway in this state which give unscrupulous men access to every portion of the State, and these highways are never patrolled from one year's end to the other. Immorality and license of a character dangerous to the peace, harmony, and well-being of our people goes unchecked throughout the length and breadth of this State.

We have become used to and today deem necessities in our life in the country many of those things whose benefits were first thought only available in cities. Running water, bath rooms, electric lights, telephones have all come to make life in the country better worth living; and there is now a bill before the Legislature in Albany, a bill which provides a method of protection for life and property in the country districts, comparable to that which the residents of cities have for years enjoyed. It is designed to restrict no activity of any honest and law-abiding citizen of this State, but it is aimed to check the growing tendency of lawlessness on the part of certain un-American and uncontrolled elements of our society.

A System of Proved Value.

In a neighboring state for ten years a system of rural police patrol has been in operation. It is no experiment; the value is proved. In that time this force covered five million miles of highway otherwise unprotected. More than twenty-seven thousand arrests for murder, rape, arson, larceny, highway robbery, horse-stealing, trespass, vagrancy, drunkenness, violation of the liquor laws, the automobile laws, the fish and forest laws, Sabbath laws, gambling, and many other crimes which menace the peace and safety of the country. These officers have been even more effective in the prevention of crime. Almost every section of the country has in it undesirable citizens who continuously prey upon their neighbors, sowing upon the fear to prevent prosecution. Many a man has suffered the loss of a barn as a result of his effort to do his duty by making a complaint against some such character.

Control Dangerous Element.

With a rural police these dangerous elements of society would be held in check. This force would operate throughout the entire State and would not be bound by red tape when in the pursuit of criminals and obliged to stop all investigation and pursuit at county and town lines. They would be men trained in a knowledge of the law and methods of detecting crime and apprehending criminals.

An appropriation of $500,000 has been asked for the initial cost of equipping and maintaining the 232 men called for to cover New York State with a rural police system. Half of this amount is for the necessary apparatus of horses, motor cycles, arms and equipment. Hereafter the cost of the force would only be about three fifths of this amount, or some $24 per million of taxable property.

In Pennsylvania ninety-five per cent of the force are honorably discharged soldiers of the United States Army, and a recent letter addressed to 400 granges in that State brought back an avalanche of letters praising not alone the benefits derived from the State Police, but adding high appreciation of the excellent character and demeanor of the individual members of that force.

Working Against the Farmer.

Strange to say, this effort to give to the country districts of New York the same protection which its citizens in municipalities now have has resulted in criticism from practically but one source, the leaders of organized labor. These men charge that this force, which can be called upon by the Governor in times of riot and disorder, will be used against striking union men.

The bill provides that the force shall not operate within municipalities unless ordered there by the Governor, but this does not satisfy the men who oppose the bill. They seem to fear policemen and do not hesitate to say so. I wish to repeat, is it not strange that the preservation of law and order and the prevention of riot should prove so distasteful to any body of our citizens?

The Wolf in Sheep's Clothing.

Five of these labor leaders were, I am told, busily engaged at the State Grange meeting in filling the minds of the men there with misleading statements regarding the purposes of a State Police. These men, every one of whom live in cities where they and their families have police protection were there trying by cajolery to convince the farmer that he did not need it. One of the things which these men said and which has been widely reported was that the wealthy residents of Westchester and Long Island desired this force to protect their country homes. The absurdity of this is perfectly apparent to any one who gives it thought. It is the poor man who needs police protection, not the rich one. It is the little farmer struggling alone to whom it is of most benefit, and not the wealthy man who has an estate upon which there are always from a dozen to fifteen employees ever ready to protect his interests and property. What difference does it make to the man who has a small army of employees on his place whether a policeman patrols the roads? But it does make a difference to the man who is trying to operate his farm alone or with scanty help. It is the poor man and the struggling farmer who need the protection and should have it; the man whose cattle are killed in the fields, whose woods are fired by trespassers, whose sheep are murdered by dogs, whose orchards are robbed by unscrupulous automobilists.

What Protection Would Mean.

It has been estimated that the value of the produce stolen from the farms of New York in one year would pay every penny of the cost of this protection. Each year this loss is becoming greater and such stolen goods can be disposed of with practically no chance of identification. The increase in land values which would result from making city people feel that their wives and children were safe in the country would be enormous. Thousands who would buy country property are restrained by lack of protection.

As a man who has lived and worked all his life upon a farm and who knows the problems of the country, I ask for this measure which I have introduced in the Assembly the active support of every real farmer in this State, for I earnestly believe that no legislation now under consideration is more important to the peace, comfort and safety of all of us who live and work in the country than this bill to establish a State Police.

HOW

To Make a Safe Gift For Almost Any Man

THERE is one article which it is safe for a woman to embroider for a man, and that is a handkerchief. Women, too, who object to what they call embroidered fol-de-rols are always glad to accept embroidered handkerchiefs simply because they are useful things to receive. Frequently it is difficult to find the exact initial one desires. There are types of initials that are particularly suitable for certain types of people. For this reason one should use judgment in selecting the letters for handkerchiefs.

Failing to locate a suitable initial among one's collection of needlework designs, the next best thing is to look over the front pages of one's books. On one or more of these one is sure to find an initial of the right size and style. Once found it is quite an easy matter to transfer the letter with carbon paper to the corner of the handkerchief.

Put the letter carefully and then embroider over it in solid stitches, placing the stitches close together, so that the result will be pleasing. White or colored cotton or silk can be used to work the letter.

Bentley can be added to the initial or initials embroidered on the handkerchief by surrounding the letters with a delicate floral wreath. A plain circle of eyelets is also effective.

How to Polish Furniture So That It Looks Like New.

Polished furniture should require no other treatment than washing with warm water, to which a very little methylated spirit has been added, followed by a vigorous rubbing with very soft cloths. For furniture which has been stained and polished and has become scratched it is best to get a good oil and color man or a furniture dealer to put up a French polish mixture, which can be used very sparingly. Polishing with a thin beeswax and turpentine polish answers satisfactorily if there are no scratches.

For the cheaper kinds of furniture a mixture of methylated spirit with a small quantity of orange shellac can be used. This will remove scratches and brighten the furniture, but must be used sparingly. If the furniture needs brightening only a beeswax polish can be used, or a mixture of linseed oil, turpentine and vinegar in equal parts.

How to Make Your Worn Out Garden Soil More Fertile.

In many cases rotted stable manure and humus will prove all that the gardener need add to make his garden fertile, but in some cases, especially where the ground is being worked annually, it will be well to add a commercial fertilizer. The best results are usually gained by the rotation of crops—that is, by never planting the same piece of ground with the same crop two years in succession.

The government agricultural bureau issues charts and pamphlets showing the proper rotation of crops which will prove invaluable to the gardener. They can be obtained, along with much other valuable information, for the asking.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR PET FURS FROM DIRT RAVAGES.

About this season of the year one's furs that were so soft and glossy back in November begin to take on a matted, dingy look which is distressing. If madam's pet Pomeranian ever took on the rusty, matted appearance of her furs in February he would be dropped into the bathtub without loss of time. But furs may not be treated in this simple, practical fashion when they become soiled. For all that is the matter with furs in spring is that they are soiled. No one ever thinks of using a whisk broom to furs, yet obviously the fur coat has acquired as much dust as the broadcloth or velvet suit, and should be brushed every time it is taken off. Dirt and dust do not remain on the surface of fur, but work down into the roots of the hairs, which become matted because of it. All furs should be shaken briskly in the open air once a week, and it will do no harm to hang them on the line and give them a brisk beating with a light wand. A near seal coat will keep its smooth texture better if brushed over lightly now and then with a whisk broom dipped in cold water.

How to Open Sardine Cans Without a Slip of the Tool.

Those who have trouble in opening a sardine can will find this is a good way: Start the key as usual, then insert the blade of a can opener in the loop of the key and turn. This acts as a lever, removes all strain and opens the can easily.

"Just Livin' Along."

Frank L. Stanton of the Atlanta Constitution is one of the best known newspaper men in America. Likewise he is one of America's sweetest poets. One of his dainty lyrics is entitled "Just Livin' Along." It is a song of optimism. It embodies a philosophy which might be adopted with profit by all men and women.

Let us be thankful that we're just livin' along.

Life, joyous, jubilant, vital and thrilling, is all about us. Birds, beasts, plants and flowers live and love and pass to the great change.

Indeed, is there anything other or greater than life in its myriad manifestations? It doesn't much matter how we designate the forms and aspects of being. Let us be thankful that we're just livin' along. We shall continue to live. All our worries and frettings will not affect that fact, though they may hurry us to other conditions, hurry us more swiftly to a new plane of existence.

But let us join in the song of the optimist and be happy forever that we are just livin' along.—Dayton Herald.

Good Journalism.

There are many stories of the journalistic genius of the blind Joseph Pulitzer. One cropped up the other day.

"There was a big championship golf tournament to be played," a golfer said. "This was years ago, before Mr. Pulitzer went blind. Golf at that time was in its infancy in this country."

"Well, Mr. Pulitzer sent for his dozen best reporters and special writers and, lining them up before him, said: "Those who understand golf stand on the left; those who are ignorant of it, on the right."

"The stars separated themselves accordingly. All understood golf but three—three very excellent writers."

"You three chaps will cover the tournament," said Mr. Pulitzer, with his nervous smile. "I want all our readers to enjoy our story of this event, and, since most of them are ignorant of golf, what interests you three will be sure to interest them."—Washington Star.

School Strikes in Japan.

School strikes seem peculiar to Japan, and invariably one is under way. Such a strike is a calamity dreaded by head master and undermaster alike. A head master who has had a strike in his school is under suspicion, even though he may be quite innocent of any unjust conduct, and eventually he must seek a new field for his activities, so unpleasant do the students make his continued stay. When students combine against one of the undermasters he has nothing to do but tender his resignation. If the strike is temporarily calmed down it is tacitly understood that the master in question is on the lookout for a new place. Sometimes strikes take place for the retention of the teacher rather than for his dismissal. In this latter case it is always the head master who suffers the most, as the move is directed against him for not retaining some favorite.

TREAT KIDNEYS RIGHT WAY

The new and proper way to treat kidney, liver and blood ills is to remove the great cause of the trouble—disordered digestive organs (stomach, liver and bowels). This is what Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy does. It tones up the liver and stomach, relieves constipation, casts out poisonous wastes and restores right digestive action; thus the kidneys and bladder have a chance to get right and are cleansed, healed and strengthened, the blood purified. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy has an unbroken record of success; a standard family remedy that never disappoints. Write Dr. David Kennedy Co., Rondout, N. Y., for free sample. HOW TO MAKE A BIRTH-DAY CAKE THAT IS REAL CAKE.

—Weigh seven large eggs (fresh), take their weight in dried flour and a little more than half their weight in sifted sugar. Break the eggs, separate the yolks from the whites. Beat the former in a bowl, add the sugar to them very gradually, together with a little grated lemon rind, a spoonful of orange flower or rosewater or any other suitable flavoring. Add the flour a little at a time and continue to beat the mixture for twenty minutes. Butter a mold, sprinkle powdered sugar upon the butter and shake off all that will not adhere. Tie a strip of buttered paper round the top of the mold to keep the preparation from rolling down the sides while it is baked. Pour in the cake, three parts; fill the mold with it. When done enough let it stand a few minutes, shake it well to loosen it, turn it out carefully, cut it in slices when cool one-quarter of an inch thick. Spread some jam over these and place five or six or more slices together, one on top of the other. Whisk together the whites of two or more eggs, according to size of cake; add half a pound of finely sifted sugar (to the eggs), a dessertspoonful of orange flower water. Whisk the mixture until quite smooth and spread it over the cake with the back of a spoon. Mark the shape of the pieces into which it is afterward to be cut. Place the cake in a very cool oven to dry the icing. Time, half an hour to prepare. Two or three drops of coloring will give it a rose tint. Send to table with lighted candles.

FOR THE BRIDE'S CHEST.

How to Finish Your Bed Linen Attractively and Durably.

Scalloping as a finish for sheets and pillowcases is one of the neatest ways of finishing them. Of course the scallops need to be well padded, and this can be accomplished either by filling in between the marked lines of the scallops with rows of running stitches before applying the buttonholing.

The work can also be given more stability if after the scallops are completed and cut out an extra and tiny buttonhole edge is added to the extreme length of the scallops.

A baby's pillow cover can be simply made as follows: Sew together as for a pillow slip three-fourths of a yard of eighteen inch cambric embroidery of fine quality. Run blue or pink ribbon through small eyelets in scallops, thereby closing the cover. Run ribbon of suitable width through the larger eyelets, forming a bow of the ends on top.

CARE OF YOUR MACHINE.

How to Oil Your Sewing Machine and Save Nerves.

Sewing is not one-half as hard as some people find it if the sewing machine is kept in good order. When the machine works hard and heavy take the needle and shuttle out and give every joint and bearing a generous bath of gasoline.

Of course there should not be a lighted lamp or fire of any kind in the room, and the windows should be open. Turn the wheels briskly for a few moments, to enable the gasoline to penetrate to every part and to loosen and wash away all dirt and grit; then clean it all away.

When all the oil and grime have been removed oil with proper lubricating oil, running the machine for two or three minutes before inserting the needle. Now with a piece of cambric skin wipe away all superfluous oil.

How to Make Delicious Fruit Cocktails For Company Spreads.

A delicious first course for the spring luncheon or midday dinner is fruit cocktail, served ice cold in dainty glasses. Use the fruits of the season—apples, oranges, bananas, grapes, white grapes and perhaps a little chopped pineapple. Skin the grapes, pare the apples and cut the oranges in very thin slices through pulp and rind. Then chop all the fruit in small pieces and soak an hour in their own juice sweetened with sugar. Then stand on the ice until just before serving, when the fruit cocktail may be flavored with a little Rhine wine or claret.

How to Dry Your New Umbrella and So Make It Last.

When you come in from the rain put the umbrella in the rack with the handle downward, because when the handle is upward the water runs down inside to the place where the ribs are joined to the handle and cannot get out, but stays, rotting the cloth and rusting the metal until slowly dried away. The wire fastening the ribs soon rusts and breaks. If placed the other end up the water readily runs off and the umbrella dries almost immediately.

How to Test an Oven Before You Burn Your Cake.

Test your oven before putting in the cake by throwing on the bottom a spoonful of dry flour. If the flour takes fire or quickly turns dark brown color the oven's temperature is too high, and you should allow the oven to cool a little. If the flour remains white after it has been there a few minutes the temperature is too low. If the oven is of the proper heat the flour will slightly brown and look a little scorched.

FOR YOUNG FOLKS

Sleepy Time Story About Two Rather Smart Rogues.

HOW ONE FOUND MISFORTUNE.

Meeting in the Woods Enlivened by a Lively Battle of Wits—The Flatterer Gains His Point, but Gets No Pleasure From the Victory.

Tonight, said Uncle Ben to Little Ned and Polly Ann, I am going to tell you about A FOX AND A CROW.

Mr. Crow was a sad thief. He hadn't been very well brought up, and he didn't quite understand that it is very, very wrong to take things that don't belong to you.

So when he saw a nice piece of cheese in a cottage window he wanted it very much. He waited until no one was about, and then he flew down and took the cheese.

Off to the woods he flew, thinking no one had seen him, but in this he made a mistake. Mr. Fox had seen him. Mr. Fox was prowling about the chicken house, wondering if he could not carry off a nice fat hen for dinner.

When Mr. Fox saw Mr. Crow sneak off with the piece of cheese he started right after him. Mr. Fox liked cheese too.

When he reached Mr. Crow he found him perching on top of a tall pine tree with the cheese fondly balanced in his bill.

"My dear Mr. Crow, how are you?" Mr. Fox began. "I'm delighted to see you. You're looking splendid. But, then, you always do look well, and your high spirits seem never to leave you. I heard yesterday you were the life of that charming party in Farmer Gruff's cornfield."

The crow looked so pleased that Mr. Fox went on:

"As you know, I never flatter, but I want to tell you how delighted I was with a little snatch of song I heard as I passed the cornfield. A more delicious voice than yours I have never heard. I wonder if you could repeat that little song for me? I had a little argument about it with Mr. Owl. He was sure the chorus ended with three caws instead of with a long drawn out caw, as I said it did."

"Caw, caw!" began the crow, and the cheese fell right into Mr. Fox's open mouth. He gobbled it down in a second and then trotted off through the woods, laughing to think how easily he had fooled Mr. Crow.

The cheese which the crow had stolen had been fixed by the housewife for the rats that troubled her greatly. She had only laid it in the window for a minute before she took it to the cellar to put in some dark corner to tempt a rat. Inside of the cheese was poison, and when Mr. Fox swallowed it he began to feel dreadfully ill. By the time the crow came along looking for his cheese the fox was too ill to speak. It took a long time for him to get well, and now I don't know whether he hates cheese, or crows the most.

Snowflakes.

Filmy snowflakes falling down,
Making for the earth a gown,
White and clean, and, oh, so cold,
Piling daintily fold on fold,
Jewels sparkle here and there,
Gown, Queen Earth may proudly wear.
Oh, I love you, snowflakes white,
Falling through the silent night.

Swift Riding Downhill.

This winter there have been all kinds of weather. Sometimes there are lots of ice and snow; and again the ground will be bare and the ice too thin to skate. It was when snow was lacking that the boy pictured was snapped by

HOW

To Make the Garden a Livable Place

To make the garden livable it must be furnished. Nature may provide the setting and the color scheme, but man's ingenuity is required to supply the seats and summer houses, the bird baths and pools, the pergolas and sun dials or as many of these things as it may seem expedient and wise to have. Garden furniture is less expensive than it used to be—less expensive and better. Moreover, there is a great variety. Good rustic pieces may be made at home, or, time and skill being lacking, they may be bought. So also may delightful old English seats and tables, while pergolas and arbors of artistic design and good workmanship may be obtained ready made and set up in the garden with but very little labor. In fact, every sort of garden furniture from summer house down to bird houses is now on the market. There are even artistic bird baths and pedestals made of wood and much cheaper than those of marble or even of composition.

Of course cement has come to take a prominent place in the garden and is used in making pedestals for sun dials, bird baths and pools as well as for benches and seats. To many minds no garden has really been brought to date until it has been equipped with a pool in which water lilies may be grown, with the glistening sides of goldfish flashing among them. Such pools need not be at all expensive and are not difficult to construct when good Portland cement is the material used.

A GARDEN HINT

How to Make and Set Out Flower Cuttings For Spring.

Cuttings from many plants growing in the window garden will root readily at this season, and in conservatories and greenhouses cuttings should be made freely now.

Clean, sharp sand is the best for rooting cuttings generally, though geranium cuttings can be made and potted up in thumb pots. The cuttings should be made just below a bud, trimming off all the foliage except a leaf or two at the top of the cutting, and the top half of these leaves may be clipped off.

Be careful to have the sand firm about the base of the cutting, setting it half its length below the surface. Water thoroughly and shade from the sun, not allowing the soil to become dry.

FOR THE COOK.

How to Fry a Large Chicken the Easiest Possible Way.

Prepare in the usual way for frying; have fat one-eighth inch deep in pan smoking hot; place the chicken in the pan and cover; reduce gas flame until the chicken fries very slowly, turning each piece until rich brown. Pour one cupful of hot water into the pan and let the chicken continue to cook with cover on until all the water has cooked out. Lift the chicken on to a dish and make a brown gravy. This is intended for grown chicken, but not old fowl.

HOW TO MAKE AN EVERGREEN EDGING FOR THE GARDEN.

An evergreen edging is a lovely adjunct to the garden. Round wooden pins, eight inches long, driven into the soil within two inches of their tops and a running wire, stapled to them will support a vine of myrtle or periwinkle or English ivy, Bignonia capreolata or cross vine. Or, if you wish, some of the evergreen roses—wichuriana, for instance—can be used for this purpose.

They must, however, be severely cut back to the wire and closely tied in. If time and money are unimportant factors, boxwood is quite worth while. Another good plant for the border is perennial white candytuft of the dwarf type. It is neat, dense and a free bloomer. Violas or tufted pansies in one color make a very pretty edging.

How to Make Rugs From Selvages Otherwise Quite Useless.

Tailors first cut selvages from the material which they use to make men's suits. These selvages make much better rugs than ordinary carpet rugs when woven in the usual manner. They come in long strips and require little work in preparation for the weaver. In place of sewing the rugs in the usual way lay the end of the strip flat upon the end of another and sew together without doubling. Tailors usually throw these selvages away and would therefore give them away or sell them for a few cents. It is an easy matter to obtain all you wish. If you would like to make braided rugs of these selvages they must be used double. Wind the balls in one color, so that you can blend and stripe your rug conveniently.

How to Clean Zinc in the Easiest Possible Way.

Zinc should be cleansed with kerosene. Soap and water only make zinc look worse. First wipe carefully with a dry cloth, then apply the kerosene and allow it to remain on all night. In the morning rub with a soft cloth and again cover it with kerosene. The zinc will be bright and clean as new. Rub occasionally with a clean cloth wrung out in kerosene.

S. S. Convention in Genoa.

Only a small number of delegates attended the annual convention of the 11th District of the Cayuga County S. S. association held in the Presbyterian church of Genoa last Friday. The bad traveling and threatening weather had much to do with the small attendance, no doubt. Those who were present from Poplar Ridge and Scipioville came by train. A number who were on the program to speak failed to appear.

Cordial words of greeting and welcome were given by Rev. W. H. Barrett, acting pastor of Genoa Baptist church.

The report of the secretary was given by Miss Antoinette Bradley of King Ferry.

Rev. Thos. R. Husk, pastor of the Scipioville Presbyterian church, gave a talk on "The Teacher Training Class" and told of good results from such a class in his experience.

Rev. L. K. Painter, pastor of the Friends church at Poplar Ridge, spoke on "How to run a little Sunday school," and gave some very practical ideas, naming some requisites of teachers in a Sunday school, and how to reach the boys.

Rev. L. W. Scott spoke of the coming Boys' Conference in Auburn, and urged that every Sunday school in the district send delegates to this conference.

At 5:30, on invitation of the president, the congregation went to the Baptist church where a bountiful supper was served, the supper being furnished by the Ladies' Aid societies of both churches of the village.

The evening session opened promptly at 7 o'clock so that those who wished to leave on the 8:15 train would have ample time. Because the other speaker was not present, the only address of the evening was given by Mr. Ernest Young of Poplar Ridge, on "How the S. S. helps the Country Boy."

Miss Hunter of Genoa sang a solo at the afternoon session and another in the evening. Misses Mastin and Bush gave a duet.

The nominating committee, J. D. Atwater, chairman, reported the following: For president, Rev. L. K. Painter of Poplar Ridge; for vice president, Rev. Glenn Brewster of Ledyard; for secretary and treasurer, Miss Lillian Bower of Genoa. The nominations were ratified by the convention.

Rev. L. K. Painter as chairman of the committee on resolutions, read resolutions expressing thanks for the program and entertainment.

G. B. Springer, chairman of committee on time and place of next convention, reported that no time or place could be decided upon at that time, as the committee had not received an invitation from any church which would like to entertain the next meeting.

A Garden for Every Home.

The time to deal with next winter's food disturbances, high cost of living legislation and boycotts or embargoes is now. With reserves exhausted and the world situation what it is, there is no danger of over-production. A national preparedness for either peace or war demands that immediate steps be taken by every individual to do his share in the production movement. A garden in every yard should be our slogan.

When so much is dependent upon a garden crop, it is the part of prudence for every community and every family in a community to concern itself about the situation from the beginning of the season. There are certain common vegetables which make up a large part of the food supply, such as potatoes, onions, beans and beets which do well in all parts of the state and can be grown in a small way without machinery, whose production this year in ample quantities should be assured beyond chance or doubt.

EASTER CLOTHING

At Genoa Clothing Store

My stock of Spring Suits, Top Coats, Dress Shirts, Neckties, Socks, Hats, Caps and Shoes, in fact everything for the Easter season, is now complete.

As I took advantage of early buying, my present prices are but little advanced; much less than as if I had to buy the same stock now, and as goods are getting scarce and prices constantly increasing, the early buyers will save money on spring purchases.

Just received the Spring Sample Book. It has a beautiful display of samples and very reasonable in price. Come in and get measured for your Easter Suit.

Modern Farming

GEESE EASY TO RAISE.

Birds Are Not Subject to Disease and Thrive on Pasture.

Turkeys and chickens are more subject to disease than geese, and, besides, the geese are productive for many years, writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. One rarely ever sees any ailment among a flock, and they will obtain most of their living from "green stuff" during the spring, summer and autumn. Then the feathers from the mature goose, which may be plucked about every six weeks during the warm months, are quite an item. The big, soft feather beds and pillows which may be seen in every farmer's home where there is a flock of geese kept speak for themselves. Besides there is a good market for all surplus feathers and also for the fat goose, which is purchased for many Christmas, New Year and other special dinners.

The young geese, as well as the old ones, will thrive when kept on green pasture. The eggs which they produce are large and rich and find a ready market. Hence the farmer who keeps a large flock of geese will make a good profit. Geese will begin to lay the last of February or the first of March. A neighbor who still raises geese never allows the mother goose to incubate her own eggs. The eggs are set under chicken hens, allowing six or eight eggs to each hen, according to the size of the hen. After hatching the young goslings are not fed anything for a day and night, but are allowed to remain quietly in the nest. After this water is placed before them, and they are fed breadcrumbs mixed with charcoal which has been pulverized. Young goslings will eat green stuff almost from the beginning, as grass is their natural food; grass and other vegetation is chopped up finely and fed to them plentifully. The goslings are kept sheltered from rain and cold until they are strong enough to overcome these evils. When they are fully feathered they, with the mother hen, are placed inside the pasture, where they will need but little more attention except to provide them with plenty of water.

BANISH CATTLE PESTS.

Method of Treatment to Eradicate Lice on Farm Animals.

This is the time of year when lice begin their worst work. Live stock, especially calves and colts, suffer torments and grow thin and rough looking when much of their grief is due to the unchecked ravages of lice. Many a cow has struggled through the winter trying to furnish milk and feed an army of crawling, blood sucking pests besides.

Lice can be got rid of without much expense or labor. The sheep dips on the market mixed to a strong louse solution well warmed and sponged on to the animal, going the wrong way of the hair, will do the business.

Don't just dampen or wet the animal in a few places, but soak every inch thoroughly. Do this in the sunshine on a warm day and provide shelter until dry.

Repeat again in ten days and wash mangers, posts and rubbing places around buildings with the same solution.

Marketing Winter Tomatoes. Especial care must be given to hot-house tomatoes produced during winter, says Professor A. E. Wilkinson. In January and February the market is at its best, but the highest price is only paid for special tomatoes. They are carefully graded as to size, only those of the same size being placed in the receptacle. Each fruit is wiped. It is a decided advantage to wrap each fruit in soft tissue paper, and on this tissue paper many growers are placing a trademark. The tomatoes are packed firmly.

Water a Cheap Hog Feed.

The average farmer has a V shaped trough which he fills for his hogs twice a day. This is by no means sufficient. A hundred pound sows requires three gallons of water per day, and when watering in troughs some of the pigs, being more aggressive than others, get what they want and then lie in the trough, while the weaker ones must go without. Arrangements for getting a constant supply of pure water are essential if live stock is to be produced profitably.

EGGS AT $1 PER DOZEN IF WAR CORNER HOLDS UP.

European speculators operating in the Chicago market have started to corner in advance next season's supply of butter and eggs, with the outlook that housewives may soon have to pay not less than $1 a dozen for eggs, or with a big increase in the price of butter.

For some time past foreign buyers have been placing orders on the butter and egg board, confining their purchases to deliveries to be made between April and December. Contracts are being made also with creameries in Illinois and Wisconsin for much of their output during the summer and fall.

The purchases are at about 25 cents a dozen for eggs and 24 to 28 cents a pound for butter.

Y. M. C. A. WARNED OF KISSES AT "MUSH PARTIES"

Arms For Protection, Not For Spooning, Declares Secretary, Indorsing Plain, Demure Girls.

Charles W. Dietrich, secretary in charge of the central branch of the Young Men's Christian association, imparted additional points on matrimony to the members of the Sunday Morning Breakfast club in Brooklyn recently. A week previously Mr. Dietrich discussed on the ways of bachelors in avoiding marriage, but on this occasion he gave a few hints on the safety first method of rushing into it. And his first piece of advice was to eschew the dark and dangerous "mush party."

"If you mush too much you will get tired of it before you ought to," he said.

Mr. Dietrich then gave a few tips on the marriage market, some of which were:

"Don't try to rush matters. Being overanxious more often does harm than good. Don't call on her every night in the week.

"Cut out the other girls. There are young men who dangle other girls before the noses of their sweethearts just to show them they are not the only ones.

"Courtship is a siege. By trying to go ahead too rapidly one may get himself into a position where he may have to spike his guns and give up altogether.

"Don't think you have done your duty or expect to win a girl merely by decorating the parlor. Take her to a musical entertainment, to a show. Bring her some flowers or candy.

"She is very apt to heed her mother's advice when it comes to a proposal. It is well to get her mother under cover.

"Don't get a ring she will be ashamed of one that she will turn in so no one will see it—but don't go broke buying one that can be seen a block.

"Don't carry your demonstration too far. The kiss for affection, not for passion, the arm for protection, not for spooning."

He advised against marriages in which there was too great a disparity of ages, against marriages for money and against love at first sight or hasty courtships. He urged marriage certificates of health and said his own son-in-law had presented him with one, although he had not required it.

DINOSAUR SKELETONS LOST.

Two on British Ship Sunk by German Raider.

Two skeletons of the duck billed dinosaur were lost to science with the sinking recently by a German raider of the ship Mont Temple, according to Charles H. Sternberg of Lawrence, Kan., who found the bones in the Red Deer country in Alberta, Canada.

The prehistoric specimens were thirty-two feet long and were being sent to the British museum in London, Mr. Sternberg said. They filled twenty-two boxes and weighed 20,000 pounds. When the shipments failed to arrive in England an inquiry was made by Mr. Sternberg. He has received word from Canadian railroad officials of the fate of the shipment.

RADIO TALKS AROUND WORLD.

New U. S. Station Near San Diego, Cal., Proves Its Power.

The new naval radio station at Cholles Heights, near San Diego, Cal., which was formally opened the other day, gave a demonstration of its power when the operators on duty talked with the Arlington station, Darien, Panama, Nome, Alaska and Honolulu, overheard French operators at work on the island of Papeete, south Pacific, and concluded by exchanging the time of day with operators at a radio station near Melbourne, Australia.

No attempt will be made to flash a message to Europe until the various new instruments have been broken in.

Some Kick to This Giant.

A pair of shoes, size 21, said to be the largest ever made in this country has been completed at a factory in Brockton, Mass., for Bernard H. Koyno of Des Moines, Ia.

They will be shipped to Boston and fitted to a pair of rubbers. Koyno is nineteen years old, weighs 270 pounds and is seven feet nine inches in his stockings.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Since trifles form the sum of human things, And half our misery from trifles springs, Oh! let the ungentle spirit learn from thence A small unkindness is a great offense. —Hannah More.

SOUPS WITHOUT MEAT.

A light soup taken at the beginning of the meal stimulates the stomach and prepares it for the heavier food which is to follow.

Clear stimulating beef soups are for this reason the usual dinner soup. When a soup is to be followed by a light course the cream soups are the best, as they contain more nourishment and are especially good for aged people or small children.

Cream of Potato Soup.—This is a good substantial standby which is always welcome. Pare three good sized potatoes, cover with boiling water and boil five minutes, then drain and add fresh boiling water, a slice of onion, a half cupful of celery, finely cut; a bay leaf and three dashes of cayenne pepper; cover and cook until the potatoes are tender, then press the whole through a colander. Put one quart of milk into a double boiler, add two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour, cooked together until well blended, cook in the milk until smooth and creamy, then add the potato; cook for five minutes, then strain through a fine sieve, reheat and serve. Sweet potato, Hubbard squash, or pumpkin may be used in place of potato in this soup.

Bisque of Turnip.—Brown two tablespoonfuls of onion in a tablespoonful of butter, then add a small carrot, chopped fine, and two cupfuls of grated turnip or rutabaga, cover the saucepan and cook slowly on the back of the stove for 20 minutes. Put a quart of milk into a double boiler, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, mixed with a little cold milk, and cook five minutes; add the turnip, a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet, a dash of tabasco and a level teaspoonful of salt; cook ten minutes; add two tablespoonfuls of butter, strain through a fine sieve and serve with squares of buttered toast.

Mock Oyster Soup.—Cook 12 roots of salsify, after scraping and slicing; when tender add a half cupful of codfish, a quart of milk, salt, pepper to taste, and just before serving add two tablespoonfuls of butter. Serve with oyster crackers.

OPENING CHESTNUT BUR.

The chestnut with its own delicacy of flavor is a great favorite everywhere it may be obtained, and countless are the ways in which it may appear to give fresh delight to the palate.

Cream of Chestnut Soup.—Remove the outer shell from the nut and cover with boiling water; as the water cools slip off the brown skin from the nuts. Cook a quart of the blanched meats in sufficient water to cover until quite tender; add, while cooking, one small onion, three stalks of celery, a small blade of mace and a bay leaf. When the nuts are tender mash them through a puree sieve; return to the fire, add two quarts of white stock, a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoon of paprika and a pint of hot milk. When the soup boils, draw it back on the stove and add two beaten egg yolks, mixed with a half cupful of sweet cream. Have ready in the tureen a tablespoonful of finely minced chervil; pour in the hot soup and serve at once.

Chestnuts are excellent simply cooked until tender and served in a rich white sauce, or mashed with butter, salt, and pepper and served as a vegetable they are especially appetizing.

Brussels sprouts and chestnuts are a favored combination. Cook the sprouts until tender, add the nuts, roasted until tender, and serve in a thick cream sauce. Sprouts and chestnuts served with French dressing makes a nice salad to serve with game.

Chestnuts with lentils as a vegetable or as a soup is another good combination.

Chestnut croquettes are a delicacy not largely enjoyed. Serve with lemon quarters and parsley.

Chestnut Entree.—Mash a pound of roasted chestnuts to a paste; add half a cupful of thick, sweet cream, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and two well-beaten eggs; pour into buttered timbale cups and set in a pan of hot water to bake in the oven 25 minutes. Remove from the molds and serve with a cream sauce or a tomato sauce.

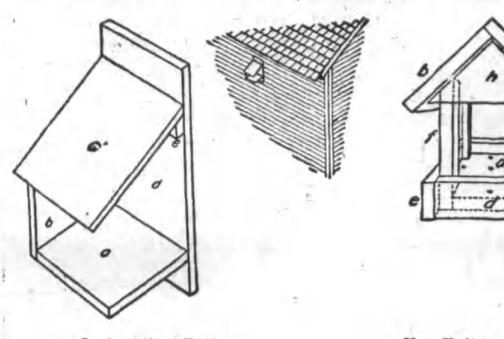

Cooked chestnuts served in a rich lemon strap are delicious served with ice cream.

INVITE the BIRDS to be NEIGHBORS

PREPARED BY THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

NEST SHELTERS.
One of the most valuable and interesting birds to have about the home or farmstead is the phoebe, also called bridge-bird and preacher-bird. It feeds upon almost all kinds of insects and helps to make the country more habitable for man. Phoebes like to nest about buildings, and a simple shelf under the roof of a porch or shed is all they require, it is pointed out by the United States bureau of biological survey. If, however, it is desirable to have them stay outside, the shelf must be provided with a roof. Figure 1 shows a shelf shielded from the

QUESTIONS TO DETERMINE BEFORE BUILDING HOUSES.

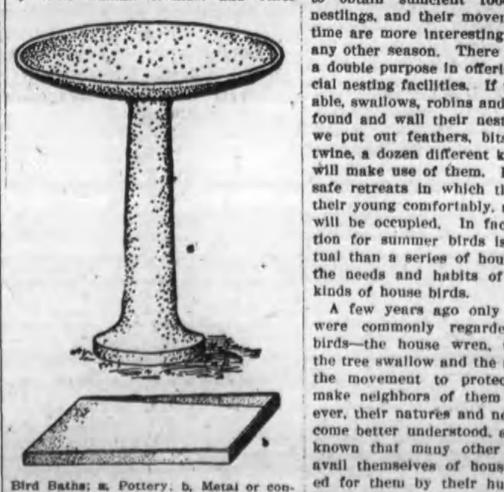

Before erecting birdhouses one should first determine the kind of birds to which his premises are adapted. The question usually next arising is as to the number of birds that can be accommodated. Unless grounds are large, it is generally useless to expect as tenants more than a pair of each species, except martins, according to the United States Biological survey. However, the singular intolerance shown by most birds during the breeding season to others of their kind does not operate between those of different species. A dozen different kinds of birds will pursue their several modes of hunting and raise their families on the same lot, but rarely two of the same sort. Of all our native house birds, martins alone are sociable.

Birds Are Tolerant.

The fact that birds are more tolerant toward strangers than toward relatives was well illustrated by an observation made recently in New Mexico. A one-story toolhouse ten feet square had nailed to three corners of its roof rough birdhouses made from packing boxes. One was occupied by violet-green swallows, another by western bluebirds, and the third by English sparrows. A still more remarkable association of different species has been reported by a resident of St. Louis, Mo., who once had a pair each of flickers, martins, house wrens and English sparrows nesting in the same house.

CATERING TO THEIR NEEDS.

Birds may be gathered about us in all seasons of the year with ease and certainty merely by offering what they desire. In winter they are often pushed for food, and if we supply this need they will report daily at the lunch counter and help to relieve the tedium of our indoor life. In summer they care less for food provided by their human friends, and other means must be sought to attract them about the home. They appreciate fresh water for bathing and drinking. A shallow pool of varying depth, if only a foot across, becomes on hot days a center of attraction for all the birds in the vicinity, and it may be made with little effort and material. Only a small amount of cement is required, or, if that be lacking, a pan with stones in it set in the ground will be equally serviceable. Trees, shrubs

Emergency Prayer

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Assistant Superintendent of Men,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—So I prayed to the God of heaven and I said unto the King—Neh. 2:4, 5.

We are continually meeting emergencies when quick decisions must be made, when we must speak or act on "the spur of the moment." The Christian who would meet emergencies wisely would do well to study how Nehemiah used what might be termed emergency prayer.

It was unspoken by the lips and, as far as we know, it was not formed in words. He had suddenly been asked a question by the king and he must answer at once. Upon his answer depended the fulfillment of his hopes, the realization of his desires and the banishment of his sorrow. Everything depended upon the way in which he met this emergency. How easily and wisely he met it he tells us in the text, "I prayed to the God of heaven and I said unto the King."

Character of Prayer.
It was necessarily a short prayer and a very definite prayer. He had no time to "beat round the bush," he must come to the point at once. It was very sudden, for emergencies do not allow time for preparation; but they are never too sudden for God. We will never find God unprepared for our emergencies. He is always there before they arrive. He says for our comfort: "Before they call I will answer." The writer received a telegram in Chicago one morning at 9:25 which had been sent from Pittsburgh at 9:30 the same morning. He received it before it was sent because of the difference in central and eastern time. God hears our prayers before we utter them and no emergency can ever arise so suddenly that it finds God unprepared. Of what unspeakable value if every time an emergency arose we could have at once the wisdom of omniscience to guide us? What confidence and assurance we would enjoy knowing just the right way to act and the right word to say in all our emergencies?

Circumstances of Prayer.
They were not conducive to prayer. A banquet was in progress at a heathen court and Nehemiah was in the midst as the cup bearer. The world's festivities are not calculated to arouse a prayerful spirit nor are they suggestive of prayer. The gaiety and laughter, the jest and song, the whole atmosphere of amusement in which Nehemiah found himself would not be conducive to prayer. Nor did the circumstances permit of his retiring alone and privately shutting himself away from such surroundings. But here in the midst of the noise surrounding the worldly world he could pray. We sometimes think that we could pray if we could only get alone and quiet away from the noise and the rush of people. But the value of emergency prayer is to be able to have the ear of God and to hear the voice of God in the midst of any circumstances. No emergency, however suddenly it may arise nor however thronged the surroundings may be, need find us shut out from the Lord.

Conditions of Prayer.
First of all, Nehemiah was a man of habitual prayer. He was in the habit of taking everything to God. When he heard the distressing news of the condition of his beloved city, he prayed. When his enemies would stop his work, he prayed. When they plotted and schemed against his life, he prayed.
In the second place, Nehemiah was in the habit of listening to God in his Word. He could remind God of his promises, as his prayer in the first chapter reveals. It is necessary to speak to God, it is perhaps more necessary to allow God to speak to us. He has said "He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall be an abomination." If we close our ears to him he will close his ears to us. He who has God's ears for any sudden emergency is the man whose ear is to the Book. In the third place, he was a man of faith, as the last two verses of the first chapter of his book show. He believed God was what he was and would do what he said, and this gave him quietness and peace at all times. He was habitually prepared for any emergency. Can this be said of us? Is it not true that we move with uncertainty and speak with hesitancy when sudden emergencies arise? Are we not often distressed in mind after a sudden decision has had to be made lest we have decided wrongly? What confidence and assurance, what quietness and rest we might enjoy in the face of those emergencies so frequently met if we had the enjoyment of emergency prayer. It does not need any spoken words, it does not depend on conducive circumstances, it does not demand an outward privacy, but can be used when there is not time even to form the words of the shortest prayer in the midst of the busiest activity of in the heart of the thronging crowd.

RAILROAD SITUATION IS NOW LARGELY UP TO CONGRESS

Must Share Responsibility in Future Development.

ROBERT S. LOVETT'S VIEWS

"Unification of Regulation Is Essential." A Complete, Harmonious, Consistent and Related System Needed—Federal Incorporation of Railroads by General Law Favored.

Washington, March 26. — Responsibility for the railway development of the country, for providing necessary transportation facilities to care for the growing business and population of the country, now rests largely with congress and not entirely with the railroad managers. This was the statement of Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific system, to the Newlands Joint congressional committee when that body resumed its inquiry into the subject of railroad regulation this week.

In making this statement of the changed conditions of the railroad situation Judge Lovett undoubtedly had in mind the decision of the supreme court on the Adamson law, handed down last week, which establishes the right of the federal government to fix railroad wages and to prevent strikes. This decision is regarded by railroad men and lawyers as marking an epoch in the development of transportation in the United States.

"We have our share of responsibility," said Judge Lovett, "but it rests primarily on congress. When the government regulates the rates and the financial administration of the railroads, the borrowing of money and the issuance of securities it relieves the railroad officers of the responsibility of providing and developing transportation systems, except within the limits of the revenue that can be realized from such rates and under such restrictions.

"For a country such as ours, for a people situated as we are, to blunder along with a series of unrelated, inconsistent, conflicting statutes enacted by different states without relation to each other, instead of providing a complete and carefully studied and prepared system of regulation for a business that is so vital to the life of the nation, is worse than folly."

He summed up the present problems and difficulties of the railroads as follows:

First.—The multiplicity of regulations by the several states with respect to the issue of securities, involving delays and conflicting state policies generally dangerous and possibly disastrous.

Second.—The state regulation of rates in such a manner as to unduly reduce revenues, to discriminate in favor of localities and shippers within its own borders as against localities and shippers in other states and to disturb and disarrange the structure of interstate rates.

Third.—The inability of the Interstate Commerce Commission, whoever the commissioners may be, to perform the vast duties devolving upon it under existing laws, resulting in delay—which should never occur in commercial matters—and compelling the commissioners to accept the conclusions of their employees as final in deciding matters of great importance to the commercial and railroad interests of the country.

Fourth.—The practical legality that has been accorded to conspiracies to tie up and suspend the operation of the railroads of the country by strikes and violence and the absence of any law to compel the settlement of such disputes by arbitration or other judicial means, as all other issues between citizens in civilized states are to be settled.

Fifth.—The phenomenal increase in the taxation of railroads in recent years.

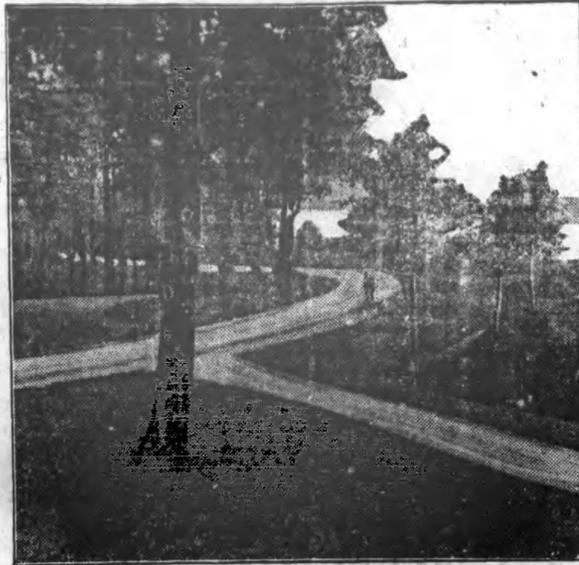

Sixth.—The cumulative effect of these conditions upon the investing public, to which railroad companies must look for the capital necessary to continue development.

"We believe that the unification of regulation is essential," said Judge Lovett, "and that with the rapid increase of state commissions in recent years congress will in time be compelled to exercise its power in the premises. To unify regulation there should be a complete, harmonious, consistent and related system. We believe the best, if not the only practical plan, is the federal incorporation of railroads by general law, which will make incorporation thereunder compulsory, thus imposing on all railroad companies throughout the United States the same corporate powers and restrictions with respect to their financial operations and the same duties and obligations to the public and the government, so that every investor will know precisely what every railroad corporation may and may not lawfully do."

Judge Lovett contended that the solution of these problems and difficulties rested with congress. He told the committee that under the constitution the authority of the federal government is paramount, that congress has the power to legislate for a centralized control of railroads under federal charters and that it only remains for that body to exercise that power.

SOMETHING ABOUT DAHLIAS FALL WORK INTERESTING

By G. T. GEOFFROY.

If you want dahlias roots for next year, plant them in small pots and let them remain all summer. Keep them over winter like old roots; and start them again in the spring. I do not say this is absolute, but it is one of the best ways I know to raise dahlias successfully.

It is the claim of dahlia growers that in dividing the roots almost all the varieties will degenerate. This is the reason we have so few good flowers.

A good dahlia should bloom from July until frost; and if it does not it is not worth keeping. There are dahlias that will.

Dahlias can be grown from seeds. They grow stronger than from cuttings and roots, but it is difficult to find good seeds.

Many believe that a cutting will not flower and make roots and keep over winter, but that is not true. That is the way they are raised all over the continent.

The mode of planting has much to do with the final results of the beauty of dahlias.

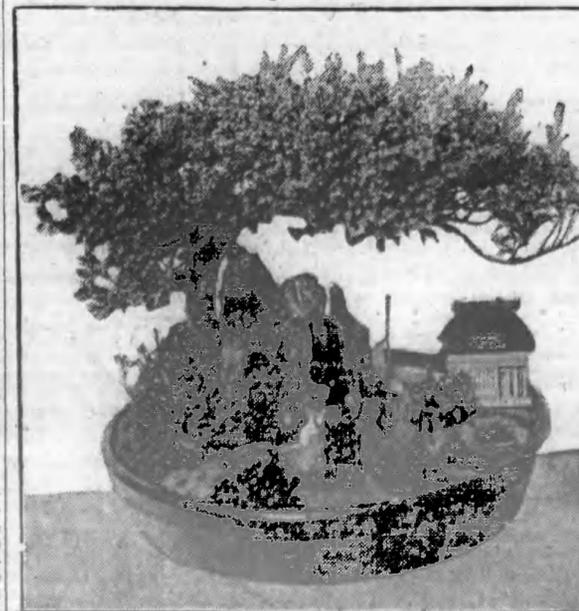

JAPANESE TABLE TREE

There are some curious old trees in Japan that have just the opposite qualities to those which are found in the United States. Out in our great forest country, when a tree has reached the dignity of 100 years of undisputed residence in any one community, it rears its proud old head and stands as a landmark and a leading citizen of the forest.

Japan supplies some very strange specimens that live to be 100 years of age without ever getting off an ordinary table. They are stunted, gnarled little gnomes of trees, made to dwell all their lives in the prison of a bowl, where water is placed to give a tiny landscape effect and miniature houses are built under the shade of the stunted, miserable little semblance of a forest giant.

In the picture one sees how the Japanese use the dwarfed trees for home decorative effect. As all things are really relative, the tree preserves its dignity by being as much larger than the miniature house than a real tree would loom above a sure-enough dwelling.

But it is a dwarf, nevertheless, and the idea can be used for home or garden decoration when one finds a stunted tree that, like Peter Pan, never will grow up.

LABOR UNION VS. SALOON.

From an address by Rev. Father James E. Cassidy of Fall River, Mass.: "Unionism," as I conceive it, stands for brotherly help. Saloonism stands for brotherly robbery. Unionism stands for self-protection. Saloonism stands for self-destruction. Unionism stands for self and brotherly benefit. Saloonism stands for self and brotherly injury. Unionism stands for conservation of strength and increase of wage. Saloonism stands for the dissipation and diminution of both. Unionism stands for the 'full dinner pail.' Saloonism stands for a pocketful of beer-checks. Unionism stands for better homes and the highest standard of workmanship. Saloonism stands for wretched homes and ruined workmanship. Well you know it, better than do I, you whose homes it has made desolate, whose wives and daughters it has devoured, whose sons and fathers it has consumed, whose little ones it has fed upon. You know what the saloon stands for. You know it stands for the fattening of the few while the many perish and die. But you will say to me: If the saloon be such a deadly enemy of labor, why does not unionism fight it? And I answer, sane, skilled, disinterested, farsighted unionism has always fought it and the more skilled the members, the more deadly the conflict. And organized labor is slowly shutting off its wind and will eventually destroy it.

INSURANCE TESTIMONY.

Results of the medico-actuarial investigation based on statistical data from 43 American life insurance companies covering an experience of 25 years shows (1) that individuals who took two glasses of beer or a glass of whisky or an equivalent amount of alcohol in any form, each day, showed a mortality 18 per cent higher than the average of the group; (2) that the mortality among those who had indulged in occasional alcoholic excesses previous to their application for life insurance was 50 per cent higher than the average, which means the loss of four years to such lives; (3) that men who acknowledged the habit of indulging somewhat freely, but who were still considered acceptable for insurance, showed a mortality of 86 per cent higher than the average.

BEER MOST DEADLY.

Dr. S. H. Burgen, a practitioner 35 years, 28 in Toledo, O., says: "I think beer kills quicker than any other liquor. My attention was first called to its insidious effects when I began examining for life insurance. I passed an unusually good risks five Germans, young business men, who seemed in the best health, and to have superb constitutions. In a few years I was amazed to see the whole five drop off, one after another, with what ought to have been mild and easily curable diseases. On comparing my experiences with those of other physicians I found they were all having similar luck with confirmed beer drinkers, and my practice since has deepened confirmation upon confirmation."

DOGS AS JAIL INMATES.

From the Portland (Ore.) Evening Express: Nine months after the prohibition law went into effect, City Marshal Jack Carter of Marshfield, has no prisoners in the jail except four dogs, says the Portland Evening Telegram. From one of the wettest towns in the state this has become one of the driest and the marshal this week started a roundup of all the stray dogs in town. "There's nothing else to put in jail," he said, "and we might as well keep the Hotel-de-Carter open even if it's with dogs."

CUT OUT LIQUOR SHIPMENTS.

Big express companies are refusing C. O. D. liquor shipments into dry territory. "The reason why we do not care to transport liquor into dry territory," says Mr. Simpson, general superintendent of the Wells-Fargo company, "is because such operations are nothing more than conducting saloons. It does not seem fair to vote out the operation of saloons and permit express companies to come right along and conduct the same traffic."

TOURIST BUSINESS BOOMING.

"One of the most logical arguments I heard against prohibition when it was an issue in this state was that it would decrease, even ruin, the tourist business. But if it continues to hurt Colorado tourist trade as it has this year, I am afraid the state will not have enough room to handle the crowds," is the comment of Arthur J. Dodge, manager of the Civic and Commercial association of Denver.

NO CALLS FOR RELIEF.

"In 1915 I distributed over 600 garments and 93 pairs of shoes, besides medicines, etc.," states Mrs. S. J. Merry, chairman relief committee, Rose City Park (Ore.) W. C. T. U. "At the end of the fourth month of prohibition, calls for clothing, medicine and other assistance ceased. The supplies on hand remain uncalled-for."

PROVE HIS CHARACTER.

The only man you have in your town who can prove his good moral character is the saloon keeper.

WOMEN FOND OF SACRIFICE

Seemingly No Extremes to Which They Will Not Go for the Husband They Love.

Women often rush in where angels with any kind of judgment would fear to go. Strong men are faint-hearted by comparison to good-intentioned women in their reckless dashes, usually to give assistance to or throw some protection around a man.

A case in point is that of a California woman who has just offered to give up her children and sacrifice herself in a devoted effort to make a man of her husband, a rancher. Trying to make a man of a husband is a job none but a woman in whose veins flows the blood of martyrs would think of. Many women have tried it, but who knows their names? How many have anything better than the frayed and tattered remnant of a lifetime, wasted in endeavor to make a miracle one of the routine duties of domesticity? Only the woman with the self-sacrificing instinct cultivated to the precipice of genius tries it.

If he is not up to the lowest limit of tolerance—a common weight—by the time he is—oh, whatever age he happens to be when she has him thrown on her hands—she may as well make up her mind to take him as he is. If nature, through the centuries during which men have been evolving, could not do better with him than what she sees has been done, why should one lone woman hope to take it up there and make him into a man? Yet here is a woman who has lived with him long enough to be convinced, offering to give up her children for one more chance to turn a husband into a man before she acknowledges defeat.

It is not alone great military men who don't know when they're beaten.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

ARE A PEOPLE OF CONTRASTS

But the Majority of Italians, Like Their Country, Have Great Physical Beauty and Charm.

Province by province, Italy manifests a varying charm, and the people differ as widely as their surroundings. The hot-blooded southerner observes a different standard of morals and hygiene, fires to anger or interest more quickly, and is generally less dependable and industrious than his northern brother. Both are gifted with the black eyes and hair and the swarthy complexion, as a race, that is a general characteristic of the Latin people. But the Italian is, broadly speaking, like his country, endowed with a physical beauty and charm beyond that of most of his fellows.

In the north, however, remarks a writer in the National Geographical Magazine, there are exceptions—fair-haired and reddish men and women, who seem strangely out of place among their dark neighbors. Cool, temperate exotics they are among the higher colored growths that somehow seem so tropical, with their sultry smiles and fathomless, mysterious eyes, in which forever broods the shadow of the purple mountains that always and everywhere dominate all Italy, even to the delightful carabinieri or rural guards, those Napoleonic-looking officials who parade always solemnly in pairs, hangers at their sides, cockades in their black beavers, the majesty of the law in every line and founstep.

When Life Is Sweet.

It is not the walking merely, it is keeping yourself in tune for a walk, in the spiritual and bodily condition in which you can find entertainment and exhilaration in so simple and natural a pastime. You are eligible to any good fortune when you are in the condition to enjoy a walk. When the air and the water taste sweet to you, how much else will taste sweet! When the exercise of your limbs affords you pleasure, and the play of your sense upon the various objects and shows of nature quickens and stimulates your spirit, your relation to the world and to yourself is what it should be—simple and direct and wholesome. The mood in which you set out on a spring or autumn ramble or a sturdy winter walk, and your greedy feet have to be restrained from devouring the distances too fast, is the mood in which your best thoughts and impulses come to you, or in which you might embark upon any noble and heroic enterprise. Life is sweet in such moods, the universe is complete, and there is no failure or imperfection anywhere.—John Burroughs.

It's "Congress."

The affectation of calling congress "the congress" seems to be quite widespread among those who address that body officially or think they must be strictly accurate in speaking of it. Yet the Constitution of the United States, which created it, called it "a congress" in first naming it, and in other places calls it sometimes "congress" and sometimes "the (with a small 'c') congress," just as the construction of the sentence and the euphony of sound would dictate. Nobody need think he will be unconstitutional if he omits the "The."—St. Louis Star.

WILSON SAYS PARTY SHOULD GIVE SUFFRAGE

Party Plank, According to President, Makes a Moral Obligation.

President Wilson has come out unqualifiedly for party action in favor of woman suffrage, according to a telegram just sent to the State Senate of Tennessee. The President's expression of opinion on the subject was called forth by the action of the Tennessee Senate, which recently rejected the suffrage bill passed by the Lower House of the Legislature.

Upon the failure of the Senate to act in accord with the House after the Democratic National Party had strongly endorsed woman suffrage, President Wilson sent the following telegram to the Hon. W. R. Crabbree, President of the Tennessee Senate:

"Hon. W. R. Crabbree, President of the Tennessee Senate:
"May I not express my earnest hope that the senate of Tennessee will reconsider the vote by which it rejected the legislation extending the suffrage to women? Our party is so distinctly pledged to its passage that it seems to me the moral obligation is complete."
"WOODROW WILSON."

NEW YORK STATE LEADER POINTS TO COMING VICTORY

Victory for woman suffrage at the next election is the message given by Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Chairman of the New York State Woman Suffrage Party, following the recent meeting of the State Committee at Albany. In her message to the State delegates the State chairman said:

"When this Committee last met at our annual convention in November, we congratulated ourselves upon many recent suffrage triumphs. We saw that woman suffrage is a world movement and affected by world events.

"Since then, suffrage activity has been unprecedented—I had almost said incredible. And we have many new triumphs to celebrate. In the beginning of the year, three neighboring governors urged woman suffrage in their inaugural addresses.

"On January 23rd the Legislature of North Dakota gave presidential and municipal suffrage to the women of that State, and the President of the United States wrote to congratulate Mrs. Catt upon the victory. On February 21st the Legislature of Ohio gave presidential suffrage to the women of that State. On February 22nd the Legislature of Indiana gave presidential and municipal suffrage to the women of that State, and also the privilege of voting for members of the approaching Constitutional Convention, and on the proposed Constitution itself.
