Cornell Study club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sharpsteen Thursday evening. Prof. Crum of Ithaca was present and gave them a very instructive talk in regard to chickens. 81 present and a fine time reported, especially when they partook of the goodies.

The maple sugar social at the M. E. church, April 30, had a large attendance. Proceeds $31, besides a crate and a half of eggs donated, which were gathered in by the children.

Ladies' Aid met with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Younglove last Wednesday for the purpose of electing officers. They are as follows:

Pres.—Mrs. Amarilla Young.

Vice Pres.—Mrs. Frances Bothwell.

Sec.—Miss Nina Thayer.

Treas.—Mrs. Mary Henry.

Receipts of the day $9.80 with 35 present.

Mrs. Jay Sharpsteen was in Ithaca recently. Dr. Griggs is treating her.

Mrs. Frankie Sill is improving slowly.

Mrs. Nellie Conrad has returned to her home, after spending the winter with her daughter at Groton.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tupper were at the county seat Monday.

Lansingville.

May 12—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Breese spent Sunday with the latter's sister in Ithaca.

Burr Smith and Wm. Tait are both in quite poor health.

Miss Lucy Inman spent the past week at her home here on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Geo. Inman.

Mrs. Alice Young of Ithaca has come to spend the summer with Miss Julia Smith.

M. V. Atwood of Groton spoke in the church here Sunday, in the interest of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mrs. Frank Minturn of Auburn spent several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Smith, last week.

130—Cows at Auction—130

At my farm, 3 miles north of Moravia village, on Wednesday, May 21, 1919, at 1 o'clock, comprised of 80 springers due in May, June and July; around a dozen August and September cows; 10 fresh cows with calves by their side; 4 yearling Holstein and Guernsey bulls; balance are fat cattle, grazers, yearling heifers, etc. These cows are all in the best of condition and size and are as good a lot as I have ever had together. Lunch at 12 o'clock. Sale, rain or shine. Usual time. F. L. Palmer.

Moravia, N. Y.

Do you make butter? If so, a copy of "Farm Butter Making" might be useful. Write the state college at Ithaca, N. Y., for a copy of R. C. F. 60.

Sciotoville.

May 12—The Red Cross meeting will be held in the Reading room in Sherwood Thursday afternoon.

Community praise and prayer meeting will meet with Mr. and Mrs. William White Wednesday evening.

Guy Grady left last week for Utica where he has employment.

As Miss Alice Gray and Mrs. Hoskins were driving near the home of John Neville, the car of Allen Landon, going in the same direction, struck the rear wheel of the carriage and damaged it badly. The occupants were thrown out, and the horse fell down, but was not injured. Mrs. Hoskins was injured by striking on her head thus receiving a cut on the forehead. Aside from that no injury was done, but it was a narrow escape for them.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morgan and Mrs. Earl Morgan spent Friday in Auburn.

H. G. Howland of Mapleton was a caller in town Sunday.

Floyd Bishop returned Sunday from New York where he participated last week in the parade of the company from overseas. He brings many souvenirs, the helmet and gas mask which he wore besides other mementos. He has a very interesting way of telling his experiences including his narrow escapes. He was chasing the enemy when the armistice was signed.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ward spent Sunday at Mrs. Bishop's, bringing their brother Floyd home from Auburn.

Drivers and Pedestrians.

Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo is once more issuing a message of warning to the school children of this State, a message fully as applicable, however, to grown ups in a campaign of Stop, Look and Listen, as a means of bringing about fewer accidents in which motorists and pedestrians figure. Registration figures show 53 cars to every mile of state highway. The present rate of registration points to a tremendous increase before the end of the year.

Secretary Hugo is doing his part these days in suspending and revoking licenses of careless, reckless and intoxicated drivers. The State Troopers are doing their work in warning and arresting violators of the law. But the big burden falls on the shoulders of the motorist and pedestrian. Each must be more careful if there are to be fewer accidents.

In carrying this message to both, Secretary Hugo asks the driver as well as the man who walks, to bear in mind that the safety device of them all is the careful driver.

Ledyard Study Club.

There will be a meeting of the Ledyard Cornell Study club on Tuesday, May 20, at Dr. Frost's. The usual talk on Home Nursing will be given by Miss Hodder. Every one welcome.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

Morning worship at 10:30. Rev. Charles Dalzell of Calverton, Long Island, will preach morning and evening. Mr. Dalzell comes as a candidate. Every one invited to attend the services Sunday, May 18.

Sunday school 11:45.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

To War on Scanty Gowns.

At a meeting the other day of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs a resolution was adopted calling on women to dress more modestly and on designers and shopkeepers to do their part "to control indecency in dress." The fashions of women's evening gowns are the extreme limit of indecency, and are having a "most demoralizing influence on the youth of the country," it was declared.—The Pathfinder.

Put up some bird houses. Do it now.

Five Corners.

May 12—This weather is very discouraging to the farmer, so much rain all the while. We have the promise of a seed time and harvest, but it does not look like it now.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward White have had a telephone placed in their residence and store.

Miss Mildred Lanterman of South Lansing is spending a few days with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Ferris and uncle, W. L. Ferris and wife before going to Buffalo.

Lyon Snyder and little son Edgar spent from Friday until Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Frank Saxton at Venice Center.

A. J. Brink and Archie Hockman of North Lansing attended the funeral of Mrs. M. A. Palmer last week Tuesday, and were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Barger.

The Marcellus Undertaking Company of Syracuse sent a very handsome piece of flowers for Mrs. Palmer's funeral.

Mrs. Wesley Wilbur and daughter with Mrs. Fred Avery of King Ferry were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Boles.

Miss Ethel Hunt of Moravia High school spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunt, returning to Moravia Sunday afternoon.

H. A. Barger traded his span of mules for a very nice span of black horses at Dryden.

Clyde LaBar and friend, Miss Pauline Hubert of near Ledyard spent last Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Lyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Boles and little son Raymond spent last Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Boles.

Purdy Weeks is making an auto trip with his son Harry of Syracuse. They were going to Spencer, Candor and several other places on business.

A gentleman, not far from here fell asleep in his large rocking chair and while in that situation a lady and her little son called and inquired if the lady of the house was at home. He answered yes, but it woke him so suddenly he could not collect his thoughts. He got up and went from room to room calling his wife by name and received no answer. All at once it came to him she was not at home. Certainly a big joke on the man.

Mrs. C. G. Barger spent last week Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Helen Osmun and Mrs. Wm. Sill and family at North Lansing.

Chas. White has returned from Watkins and will assist his father in the store.

R. B. Ferris is quite a horse dealer, having traded horses twice last week.

No school to-day on account of teachers' meeting at Genoa.

The Economics meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corwin Tuesday afternoon. Miss Bowen of Auburn is expected to be present.

We are sorry to learn Miss Cora Goodyear has not been so well for a few days past.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to extend grateful thanks to all who so kindly and generously remembered me, during my stay in Auburn hospital, to those who sent fruit, flowers, letters and cards.

Jennie Palmer.

Lively Session of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors at its quarterly meeting this week settled some important matters and had an unusually busy session. Some of the business to receive attention was as follows:

The designation by the Republican County committee of John F. Coulting, ex-supervisor of the town of Sterling, as commissioner of elections to fill out the unexpired term of Wm. B. Avery, deceased, was confirmed by the Board.

A resolution was adopted unanimously, which places the board on record as protesting to Postmaster General Burleson against the present system of rural delivery and requesting the restoration of the abandoned routes of the county.

The Highway committee reported the purchase of a White road truck with a capacity of three and one-half tons for a price of $4,450.

The Board at the last moment Tuesday afternoon voted to adopt the report of the Highway committee recommending the opening up of negotiations with the Auburn Common Council for the purchase of the city quarry for the use of the county. When a vote was taken, it stood 15 for and 13 against.

No. 3. Saving for Future Spending.

(Prepared by Savings Division, United States Treasury.)

An increase of production over consumption is essential to provide to the country and to the individual the capital with which best to solve personal, national and international peace problems. Everyone, within his means, should buy to provide for his real necessities, and each one must wisely define for himself what are those present necessities. At the same time everyone should make provision for future necessities in the form of savings.

Those who save by going without things they would like to have but which are not really vital at the moment to their efficiency, which includes real happiness, should do so with the conviction, as a British savings committee put it, that "they are asked only to postpone their expenditures and meanwhile to lend their surplus earnings to the nation." By so doing, moreover, they will refrain from using up much labor that is needed for what might be called staple production—the production of food and everyday necessities. It is clear that if the well-to-do use their purchasing power to the utmost they will compete with their poorer neighbors for a limited supply of the necessities. There are probably many who have not gained much higher wages because of the war and who therefore feel more keenly the war-time rise in the prices of their necessities. Some postponement of expenditure in the non-necessary field should be of economic help to those who find living over-costly, and if the money so saved is invested in War Savings Stamps or government bonds it will both assist the economics of production and help the government carry out its plans and show a healthy social consciousness.

HABIT—Habit is a tendency or inclination toward an action or condition, which by repetition has become easy, spontaneous or even unconscious, or an action or regular series of actions, or a condition so induced. —Funk and Wagnall's Dictionary. Get the thrift habit. Buy W. S. S.

PIGS AS MACHINE GUNNERS

Shrewd Trick Played by Germans
When They Fled Before the Conquering American Troops.

The crafty Germans resorted to all sorts of tricks to check the advance of the Yankees in the fighting just before the armistice was signed, according to a letter from Sergt. Sidney S. Foy, formerly of Detroit, Mich., now attached to a headquarters company in a classification camp in France, to a friend in the Michigan city.

Foy writes that pigs were numerous during the advance and that the Germans used them to help in putting Yankees out of action. When the Huns were forced to retreat they would tie a pig by the leg to the trigger of a machine gun. When the Yanks would charge, the pig, becoming frightened, would squeal and tug to free itself. Every tug the pig made a shot was fired at the waves of oncoming American troops, and, of course, some of them were hit.

This was only one of the ruses adopted by the Germans, says Foy, and the Yankees had to use the utmost caution in going over the ground evacuated by the Germans.

Packers' By-Products.

The by-products obtained in the packing house industry may be divided into two classes—the edible and the inedible. The inedible constitute the external covering (hair, horns, hoofs and hides), some of the offal and the bones. From these are prepared a great variety of substances, some of which have developed into enormous industries in themselves, such as leather, soap, glue and fertilizer. The last mentioned represents the ultimate utilization of packing house waste. For example, in the manufacture of buttons, combs, knife handles and spatulas from the horns and hoofs of cattle and sheep and the hoofs of hogs the waste resulting from the preparation of these articles was at one time thrown away, but it has been found that by treating such material with sulphuric acid, the nitrogen which it contains becomes available as a fertilizer.

Immunity in a Mule.

An Alabama doughboy had trouble galore with a mule.
"Ah just couldn't take any interest in dat mule. The others were all right. Dis one first crack outa de box, done bit mah finger. Den, while Ah'm 'zamin' mah finger he ups an' kicks me in de pants. Den dose bush Germans started a gas attack.
"Ah was s'posed to put gas masks on dem mules an' den on me. Ah put masks on two of dem.
"Den I led dis ornery one around in dat gas fosh two hours, an' dog mah cats, nothin' ever happened to dat mule a tall!"

Campaign Against Coyotes.

Coyote hunts are popular in the vicinity of Edmonton, Alberta, the last hunt attracting many automobilists as well as horsemen. Ranchers are planning to continue the campaign of extermination. Twenty-five wolf hounds have been obtained for these drives. The plan is to form a half circle and close in on the coyotes at a river bank.

QUESTIONNAIRE

ANSWERS WHICH WILL SOLVE
PERPLEXING PROBLEMS OF THIS RECONSTRUCTION ERA.

Query.—The government has launched an educational campaign to encourage building in order to put more men to work. Would not a similar movement to show how the old structures can be best and most economically repaired and made good as new also help?

Answer.—It is learned that such a plan is in effect and is linked directly with the Washington propaganda.

Industry must be turned back from works of war to the ways of peace. Employment must be found, in the meanwhile, for those whose occupation has been interrupted. There is no real surplus of labor in the United States. Rather there is a shortage, which would be acute if normal conditions were already restored, and one step towards restoring them will come with resumption of repair work.

Government restrictions, imposed by the necessities of the war program, have for many months past retarded or altogether prevented construction, improvement and repairs. These restrictions are now off, and there is scarcely a town, a city, a factory, a dwelling or a farm that does not reveal a crying need for prompt attention. Nothing delays such instant action except the feeling that prices are high for the time being and may be lower.

That is not logical. No matter what it costs to repair, the cost is less than the cost of neglect. No matter what the cost of paint, the wind and the weather will collect a higher bill in deterioration and decay.

Query.—What do you think of paint as an investment, aside from the appearance it lends? Does it really PAY to paint a house regularly, say, every three or four years?

Answer.—Good paint properly applied when needed is the main thing in making a house last long and well. A house worth $2,500 can be painted at a cost of about $125. In 80 years that house will need about 15 paintings, the total cost of which will be $1,800. Left without paint, such a house would fall into complete ruin in 30 years. So taking 60 years as a basis for our figures we find that with paint a home will last that time in good condition and will cost, plus paint, $4,375. Without paint the house would have to be rebuilt at the end of 30 years and would be ready for another complete renovation when the sixtieth year arrived. Cost, without paint, $5,000 for a home ready to fall to pieces. Does regular painting pay? As the old Dutch adage says:

"PAINT PAYS FOR ITSELF."

Query.—I have a quantity of old paint on hand. Can I use it for the first coat in repainting my barn?

Answer.—On no account should old paint which has become fat be used for priming either old or new work. Old paint in that condition is best used on a fence, brickwork or flower. If you value your barn sufficiently to paint it, do it the justice of a good job.

Wedding-Ring Custom to Stay.

Jewelers say that the war-time custom in England of brides buying their own wedding rings has come to stay. It had to be done when the bridegroom only reached England an hour or two before the wedding, and now the custom has too many advantages to be given up quickly, for obviously a girl knows better than any man the size of ring that she requires.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Lemon Tree Bears Oranges.

From the Journal of Heredity we learn of a rather novel case of a lemon tree which proceeded to produce oranges. The tree, supposedly of the ordinary Italian lemon variety, was transplanted to Egypt. When it bore fruit it was noticed that the lemons were more spherical than lemons usually are and bore an orange-colored stripe. One branch bore a large fruit which was unmistakably an orange.

U. S. Invents Anti-Rust "Dope."

Incident to the war, the government has faced the problem that has so long proved baffling to commercial concerns of protecting iron and steel from rust. In an attempt to solve this federal specialists have perfected various forms of protective coatings. In this connection it may be pertinent to ask whether commercial uses will not be found also for the so-called "dopes" which the government has invented to be applied to airplane wings and which are possessed of valuable weather-resisting and fireproof qualities.

EFFECT OF COLOR UPON THE DURABILITY OF PAINT.

Property owners who may have under consideration the painting of dwellings and other structures should remember that more durable results are obtained when tinted paints are used. Permanent coloring materials which have been ground by machine into a high grade white paint base have the effect of preventing "chalking" and "checking," two defects which are often observed when white paints are used.

PRETTY COLOR COMBINATIONS.

Ground Coat	Stipple Coat	Stencil Color

HOW WORLD'S THINKERS MIGHT HAVE BENEFITED BY TYPEWRITER

A contributor to one of the current magazines deprecates the fact that Benjamin Franklin had no typewriter. He says, and truthfully, that if the great man had not been compelled to use a pen and pencil, he could have accomplished much more than he did—a statement that is so obvious it is hardly worth quoting. The same thing can be said of all other great men—of Washington and Jefferson and all the rest. They accomplished much; they left a greater volume of writing than men do in the days of the typewriter. But the fact remains that with a typewriter any man can accomplish about four times as much as he could accomplish with pen and ink—in the way of recording his thoughts, if he sees fit to do so. But the contributor overlooks one thing, namely, that the matter of writing it down is not all of a thinker's work, observes Columbus Dispatch. If Franklin had had a typewriter, he would not have been hammering it all the time. It would have aided him greatly; he would have had more time in which to do his thinking; he would not have had to spend so much time over a desk scrawling with a poor pen. But it is debatable whether he would have actually produced more literature than he did.

Charles Dickens wrote all of his novels with a quill. He could have done the writing in half the time on a typewriter, and the printers would have saved half their time. But in these days of the typewriter we have no novelists who are turning out good literature any more rapidly than Dickens did.

Thomas Jefferson left a whole library of his writing—and he wrote with a primitive pen. So, while the typewriter is one of the greatest of time savers, while it gives an increased product, and a more easily read product, the fact is that the men of today are not doing any more writing than was done when the matter had to be scratched upon a sheet of paper with a stick or quill.

NOT WEAKENED BY PEACE

How Warring Instinct Survives in Groups Explained by Writer in Scientific Journal.

Is not the fighting instinct something very different from the warring instinct?

The fighting instinct, answers Alleyne Ireland in the Journal of Heredity—that is to say, the instinct for personal combat, is an individual trait, finding an individual expression, as, for instance, in the "bad" man of the early mining camps. This instinct, having a very low survival value in a modern civilized environment, is probably disappearing under the pressure of a gradual elimination of the males, in which it is strongly developed.

The warring instinct, on the other hand, is a group phenomenon, and is simply one phase of the instinct of gregariousness. As such it has a high survival value in the conflict between human groups, and it is not subject to an eliminating pressure. It is a mistake to suppose that the warring instinct is weakened by long periods of peace. In order that this effect should appear we should have to accept the inheritance of traits acquired from the environment, a theory to which the opinion of biologists is almost universally opposed.

SALVATION ARMY VALIANT IN WAR

Having Served Gloriously in the Trenches, Is Coming Back From Overseas for Peace Time Activities.

ASKS HOME SERVICE FUND.

National Campaign to Replenish Resources Depleted by Long and Direct Contact Services With Our Boys Scheduled for May 19-26.

New York (Special).—Like the 2,000,000 American boys whom it served so gloriously in the trenches of France, the Salvation Army is coming back from overseas, ready to put aside its khaki uniform of war service, don again the "Civvies" and embark once more on its normal peace time activities.

And, just like those doughboys, the Salvation Army has come out of the war victorious and with citations for bravery, decorations for gallantry under fire and golden chevrons indicative of honorably won wounds on its arm. The victory which the Salvation Army has won is a victory over the obstacles that lay before it in its purpose of efficient service of the fighters of Pershing's army. Its citations are the thanks, cheers and prayers of 2,000,000 doughboys. Its wound stripes are rightfully golden of hue, for they typify the unselfish way in which the Army threw all its resources—financial, spiritual and moral—into the effort to help the American soldiers in France.

Now the Army is asking the people of America to give it concrete evidence of the gratitude which has been so loudly and so willingly expressed. From May 19 to 26 the Salvation Army will conduct in the United States a campaign to raise $13,000,000 for its Home Service Fund. The money is needed both to recoup the fortunes of the Army, shattered by its long service of the soldier and to permit it to carry on the work it has always done on the larger scale which the public now demands. Raising the money by this means, the Salvation Army explains, will eliminate, perhaps permanently, the necessity for the ceaseless solicitation of funds which has been a bugbear to the Army and the public alike. It will permit the workers of the Army, who, forced to devote more than half their time to gathering money, were in consequence only half efficient in their evangelistic and social service work, to devote all their time in future to the duties for which they have been trained.

The amount of the fund has been determined exactly and logically by means of budgets prepared locally by workers of the Salvation Army in all parts of the United States.

Already headquarters for the campaign have been established in New York City. A ready response in encouragement and cheering wishes for success has been heard from all parts of the country. Men and women prominent in all walks of life have volunteered their services as active participants in the drive. The Army's 2,000,000 loyal rooters—the boys who went overseas in khaki—are all lined up ready to help. The Army not only helped them over there, but it found jobs for many of them after they had been mustered out of service, helped them get the civilian clothing that was necessary if they wanted to take those jobs, fed many of them, gave them shelter and furnished them with transportation to their homes.

For the war service of the Salvation Army is still under way. Its workers are still, many of them, in France, and its huts, clubhouses and hotels for the reception of the boys returning from abroad are in full swing here.

Neither, the Salvation Army asserts, will its war work be abandoned until the last boy is out of the khaki of the army or the blue of the navy. The larger activities which necessitated the coming campaign will exist and be financed independently of the service of the fighters from abroad.

CARDINAL GIBBONS ENDORSES S. A. DRIVE

Venerable Churchman Expresses Hope That $13,000,000 Will Be Raised.

The following letter was addressed to former Governor Whitman of New York state by Cardinal Gibbons:

"Honorable and Dear Sir—I have been asked by the local Commander of the Salvation Army to address a word to you as National Chairman of the Campaign about to be launched in behalf of the above named organization. This I am happy to do, and for the reason that along with my fellow American citizens I rejoice in the splendid service which the Salvation Army rendered our soldier and sailor boys during the war. Every returning trooper is a willing witness to the efficient and generous work of the Salvation Army both at the front and in the camps at home. I am also the more happy to commend this organization because it is free from sectarian bias. The man in need of help is the object of their effort, with never a question of his creed or color.

"I trust, therefore, your efforts to raise $13,000,000 for the Salvation Army will meet with a hearty response from our generous public. Faithfully yours,

The governor has vetoed the bill seeking to raise from 10 to 25 cents the fee of county, city and town clerks for issuing hunting and trapping licenses.

The Palmyra village trustees at a special meeting contracted with the Standard Oil company to oil the streets of the village during the week of May 19. Hinsdale, just east of Olean, has reported a renewal of the Spanish influenza epidemic. More than 50 per cent of the pupils were absent from school of late.

Practically all of the 125 rural teachers in Orleans county became charter members of the Orleans County Rural Teachers' association, which has just been organized in Albion. Governor Smith has approved Assemblyman Witter's bill, which increases the tuition fee required by the state for instruction of non-resident academic pupils from $20 to $50.

Backers of a so-called "Independent Labor" ticket failed to carry their points in the annual school election in Olean. There were 2,394 votes cast, the largest number in the history of the city.

According to State Lecturer R. L. Strivings of Castle, at a meeting of the Hornell grange, it is a serious question in his mind if food is ever any cheaper. "With the wage scale constantly increasing, it is a serious problem for the farmer," he said, "and while they do not ask for a subsidy and are as loyal as any, yet the problems they are asked to face are hard."

Motor trucks with a capacity of one ton or more must be equipped with mirrors so that the driver may have a view of the road behind him, Governor Smith having signed the Booth bill making such provision. George Weir of New York was elected grand master and Schenectady was chosen for the 1920 meeting by the grand lodge of the Loyal Orange Institution of the state of New York at its 1919 meeting in Rochester.

In all sections of the state, Democrats, working systematically under the supervision of State Chairman W. W. Farley, are rapidly completing the organization of Wilson-Smith clubs in the League of Democratic clubs of the state.

Counties and cities of the state may unite in constructing memorials to soldiers, sailors and marines of the United States who have participated in any of the wars of this country, under the Knight bill just signed by Governor Smith.

At the 69th annual commencement exercises of the Rochester Baptist Theological seminary in Rochester the degree of bachelor of divinity was conferred upon James Everett Rose of Le Roy, the first colored man to be awarded a degree by the institution.

Senator Clayton R. Lusk, chairman of the state legislative committee organized to investigate Bolshevism, says that he has received information since the close of the legislature in regard to the spread of Bolshevism that when made public will prove startling.

Governor Smith made public a list of 104 bills which had received his signature. Most of them were of local or minor importance. The most important measure to be approved was Senator Sage's bill appropriating $200,000 to provide towing facilities on the state barge canals.

Organization of the women's executive committee of the Republican state committee, of which Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore is chairman, will take place at the Republican club in New York on Friday, May 16. Mrs. Medill McCormick of Chicago will be the guest of the day and a speaker at the luncheon.

Batavia will entertain a joint conference of rural carriers of five Western New York counties at Miss Blount's hall in the Walker building on Friday afternoon, May 30, Memorial day. More than 150 carriers from Niagara, Orleans, Monroe, Erie and Genesee counties are expected to attend with their families.

The appointment of Lewis Nixon, state superintendent of public works, as regulatory public service commissioner for New York city, under the new law reducing the New York commission from five members to one, was announced by Governor Smith when he also announced his signing of the reorganization bill.

The Orleans county farm bureau manager, Lawrence J. Steele of Albion, announced that despite the recent cold weather that was thought by many to have killed pears and other fruit, the showing now for pears in Orleans county is good and most of the growers are spraying their orchards very thoroughly this year.

Major George Chandler, commander of the state constabulary, announced that new stations of the state troopers would be opened soon at Bedford, Wappingers Falls, Brewsters, Pawling, Riverhead, Bay Shore, Valley Stream, Walden, Orange county, and Monticello, Sullivan county. There will be one man constantly on duty at each station.

In a statement, issued in Albany, Governor Smith says he is confident rent profiteering throughout the state can be handled efficiently by his recently appointed commission. He indicated in the statement that he is opposed to calling a special session of the legislature to handle New York city's problem. Much can be done in the way of solving the problem through a proper spirit of co-operation, the governor says.

An appeal for enrollment of twice the number of farmerettes that titled New York state soil last summer was issued in New York by Mrs. Florence R. Ferguson, president of the board of directors of the New York state woman's land army. Eighteen hundred women enrolled last summer, but according to Mrs. Ferguson, this number will be wholly inadequate to supply the farmers' demands for the coming season.

W. H. Anderson of the Anti-Saloon league, in a statement in New York, served notice that the organization of which he is the head will fight the reelection of Senator Wadsworth, even to the extent of supporting a Democratic nominee against him next year, if necessary. Mr. Anderson said he had been informed that a conference was held recently at the home of H. W. Taft, at which Mr. Wadsworth and H. Parsons, among others, discussed next year's campaign and proposed grabbing the N. Y. delegation to the Republican national convention to boost Wadsworth's cause.

Efforts for many years of stock breeders to have an annual stock show in the eastern part of the country, similar to the shows held in Chicago and in Kansas City, culminated at a meeting of the breeders and others in Buffalo, at which it was decided to form a $100,000 corporation for the purpose of operating the show. The factor which had to do largely with the decision to form the corporation was an offer from the New York Central Railway company to put up a building adequate for the show on its property at East Buffalo and to rent it to the new corporation for a fixed sum.

Ever hear of Sudan grass? It's worth trying as a supplemental forage.

Fifty years ago farming was largely a matter of muscle. To-day brains also count.

There are two ways to can corn. One is in cans and the other is in the silo. Can all you can both ways.

Jot this down: Any time during the summer when work is slack I will draw lime and put it on my land.

Soy beans serve a double purpose; they are good to feed as forage or hay and are also a "land builder."

Have the frame suggest the picture. A massive oak frame hardly suggests a dainty water color.

Expensive food may be cheap and cheap food may be expensive. It all depends on how much real food value it has.

Make sure the buttons and fasteners on ready-made garments are secure before you wear the garments.

A bit of wax paper may be all that is needed to make what proves to be a mussy lunch box into an appetizing one.

An effective weapon against the woodchuck is carbon bisulfide. Your county agent will tell you how to use it.

The field is a poor place to keep the grain drill over night. If it must be left out, be sure it is carefully covered.

Are you considering "Starting a Flock of Sheep?" Then get the bulletin of that name from the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N.Y. Ask for R. C. F. 134.

One thing which a cow testing association enables a dairyman to do: To sell his cows to better advantage. Carefully kept records of good animals usually increase their selling price 20 to 25 per cent.

Many a farmer has found that advertising in his farm bureau news has paid him well. Then he has increased the number of persons he could reach by advertising in his local paper. Ever try it?

Some folks suffer from high blood pressure; and some spraying machines suffer from low air pressure. If your machine will not maintain a pressure of 150 pounds while in operation it will be good economy to junk it and get one that will.

Just enough, but not too much: An excellent rule when oiling the machine. Too much oil is bad for the mechanism and is also likely to mean ugly oil spots on material attached.

You may think your house is as convenient as it well can be. But if you haven't a "cleaning closet" in which brooms, mops, pails and the like can be set away out of sight and out from under foot you have missed one convenience to which you are entitled.

The town of Genoa went over to the city twice—and then some—in the history of the loan, the final figures were $70,100, as against an assigned amount of $34,000. Systematic, permanent committee work, backed by patriotic people of the town, made a gratifying success of the loan, as well as the former Chairman Atwater of the committee and Mrs. A. H. Sullivan of the woman's committee, their assistants, spent much time working for the loan and the result is due in a great measure to their efforts.

—Many farmers in the vicinity of Newfane are refusing to set their clocks ahead, and are going to work their farms according to old time. During fruit picking time, which is their chief harvest, they say that the trees are wet with dew in the early morning, and peaches picked when wet will soon spoil. Apples also are better when picked dry. Numerous farmers throughout this section use the old time, we are told.

—Game Protector Willard A. Hoagland has issued a warning to owners of cats that, if these animals are caught hunting or killing birds that are protected by law, the felines may be lawfully shot and that it is the duty of every officer to shoot pussies which act in such a manner. Mr. Hoagland stated that any person over 21 years of age, having a hunting license, may shoot a cat which is hunting or killing a bird protected by law.

—A conference was held at Auburn recently at which members of the Chambers of Commerce of Auburn, Ithaca, Geneva and Canandaigua met for the purpose of booming the Finger Lake district. A campaign is being planned whereby the district will be advertised. The scenery throughout Central New York cannot be surpassed and a co-operative association is being formed to stimulate the summer trade through this area.

MISS BOOTH, IN RAGS, AIDED LONDON POOR

Salvation Army Commander, Disguised, Roamed Through Slums to Study Intimate Problems of East End Unfortunates.

Miss Evangeline Booth, daughter of the late General William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, has given her life to the service of the poor and the unfortunate. Few persons, if any, know she went about in the East End of London disguised in rags that she might help the unfortunate. When her father stood erect amid a storm of abuse and even physical violence she stood beside him.

She knows how the poor suffer because she has suffered with them. She knows there still remains in the wreck of a dissolute man a spark of manhood that will kindle a redeeming flame, because she has fanned many flickering sparks until her patient has regained his feet. She now heads the Salvation Army in the United States at the great moment of its career. The old time slurs and doubts have been banished. During the week of May 19-26 the Salvation Army will appeal to the people of the United States for thirteen million dollars to carry out its after-war program. Contribute to the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign. Remember, to the Salvation Army "A Man May Be Down, but He's Never Out."

WILSON ENDORSES SALVATION ARMY.

President Wilson, burdened as he is, found time to cable his endorsement of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign, which will be conducted during the week of May 19-26. The cablegram:

Commander Miss E. Booth, Personal, Salvation Army, 120 West Fourteenth street, New York:

I am very much interested to know that the Salvation Army is about to enter into a campaign for a sustaining fund. I feel that the Salvation Army needs no commendation from me. The love and gratitude it has elicited from the troops is a sufficient evidence of the work it has done, and I feel that I should not so much commend it as to congratulate it. Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

"OUT OF LOVE" CLUB UNIQUE ORGANIZATION

Members Are Girls Rescued by Salvation Army.

The "Out of Love" Club is one of the important club organizations maintained by the Salvation Army in this country. In every large city where there is a Salvation Army corps girls who have been helped back into the normal pace of a workaday world are proud of the membership in this club. Disappointed, loveless girls who do not forget kindnesses shown them in their hour of greatest need give out of love to help other girls receive the same friendliness. In a simple, quiet way, this unique idea has been maintained for over 20 years.

In every large city in the country there are girls who have needed the ministrations of the Salvation Army. After they have been helped and sent on their way again they become life members of this club if they so desire. Only girls are admitted who have given a good account of themselves for at least one month in the positions found for them by the Salvation Army after their release from a hospital or home. These girls pledge themselves to keep alive the spirit of friendliness and home which the Salvation Army has spread among them. The girls are expected to dress in a plain, simple way, and avoid in any sense of the word gaudy or tawdry clothing.

Gossiping or tale bearing is tabooed. If members of the club transgress this rule they are liable to suspension for a month or longer. The "Out of Love Club" is one of the many activities that will benefit by the success of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 May 19-26.

THE $13,000,000 SALVATION ARMY POSTER

"A man may be down, but he's never out," the Salvation Army slogan, furnished the theme for the official Home Service Fund Campaign poster designed by Frederick Duncan, the noted artist. From this he has evolved a striking artistic creation, typifying the hand of the Salvation Army reaching out to rescue those who are enshrouded in the clouds of poverty and vice. A Salvation Army lass is the principal figure, and the scarlet lining of her cloak, thrown back as she enfolds those who are calling out to her in distress, furnishes the poster with its one spot of brilliant color. The background is of blacks, grays and greens, indicative of the storm clouds of misery and want.

SALVATION ARMY NEEDS

Annual Budget Shows Reasons for $13,000,000 Drive.

Vast Activities Conducted by 1,000 Corps in United States—Future Plans.

New York.—(Special)—The annual budget of the Salvation Army, containing a detailed and comprehensive statement of the cost of maintaining its varied activities throughout the United States, has been issued from National Headquarters, 122 West Fourteenth street. The statistics show why it is necessary for the Salvation Army to go before the American people in the week of May 19 to 26 and ask them to contribute $13,000,000 to its Home Service Fund.

There are 939 corps and outposts of the Salvation Army in the United States. The cost of maintaining these is $2,685,000. The maximum income which these corps may expect from collections in meetings, contributions of members and other outside contributions is $715,000, making the net total cost of supporting the corps $1,970,000.

The cost of maintaining divisional and provincial headquarters, which supervise the work of the local corps, will be, according to the budget, $580,000. Besides the work of supervising the local headquarters, the provincial and divisional headquarters are in charge of several of the Salvation Army's largest activities, including the operation of fresh air camps for children, relief and employment bureaus and the provincial bands.

Under the heading of "national and territorial obligations" the Salvation Army includes the expenses of maintaining what are among its best known institutions, those which may be grouped under the general name of "social work." For this purpose the Army wants $1,270,000.

The pension fund budget is $400,000. The Salvation Army has determined on the erection of many new buildings for social work in the future. The building program will require expenditures of $1,875,000.

The remainder of the amount sought for the Home Service Fund is for corps, divisional and provincial buildings and a small contingent fund.

Details of the Salvation Army's activities in the United States for the last year show how remarkable is the scope of the Army's endeavors and what vast numbers of people it serves. For instance, the Army maintains seventy-five hotels for men and women. Last year 1,856,523 persons found sleeping accommodations in these. Beds were supplied for 127,880 children in the Army's four children's homes in the same period, while 48,519 children were sheltered in the slum nurseries. In the industrial homes beds were supplied for 1,742,815. In the rescue homes and maternity hospitals 1,899 girls went under the care of the Army last year.

The Army has 2,918 officers and 20,000,000 members in the United States.

EVANGELINE BOOTH TELLS HOME SERVICE FUND'S NEEDS.

Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, explaining the purpose of the campaign for $13,000,000 which will be conducted from May 19 to May 26 for the Salvation Army Home Service Fund, said:

"The Salvation Army has been toiling on the upward trend for more than half a century, doing just what it did in France, all in the same spirit and manner, but you did not happen to hear of it, perhaps.

"The war depleted our forces and our finances at home. There must be not only a rehabilitation now, but we must rise to the new high-tide mark and equip ourselves to maintain here in the United States the contracts we were privileged to make on both sides of the sea because of the war."

The Salvation Army Home Service Fund campaign for $13,000,000 will be conducted during the week of May 19-26. Its success will enable the Salvation Army to practically double its efforts among the poor.

The Salvation Army returns from the trenches of France to take up its half century old battle in the trenches of poverty in the United States. Remember the Salvation Army Home Service Fund campaign for $13,000,000 May 19-26.

LLOYD GEORGE PRAISES "ARMY."

Evangeline Booth, Commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, received the following letter from David Lloyd George:

"British Delegation, Paris, April 8, 1919.

"Dear Madam—I have very great pleasure in sending you this letter to say how highly I think of the great work which has been done by the Salvation Army amongst the Allied Armies in France and the other theaters of war. From all sides I hear the most glowing accounts of the way in which your people have added to the comfort and welfare of our soldiers. To me it has always been a great joy to think how much the sufferings and hardships endured by our troops in all parts of the world have been lessened by the self-sacrifice and devotion shown to them by that excellent organization, the Salvation Army. Yours faithfully,

"DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, Commander Evangeline Booth, New York City."

The Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 will be conducted during the week of May 19-26.

The Salvation Army's slogan is "A man may be down, but he's never-out!" The "Army" will ask for $13,000,000 during the week of May 19-26. Your contribution will help prove the truth of the slogan.

The success of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund campaign for $13,000,000 during the week of May 19-26 means less poverty in the United States.

PERSHING LIKES "Y" HOSTELRIES

pects Those in Paris and Praises Arrangements for Doughboys' Comfort.

ANKS WOMEN WORKERS.

Heart Welfare Agencies' Assistance Soldiers Could Not Afford to Visit Paris.

PARIS, April 25.—One of the principal reasons for the unqualified success achieved by General Pershing as head of the A. E. F. has been his insistence upon everything being done for the physical and mental well-being of his men, and his personal attention to details, the carrying out of which were necessary for the success of his program.

His inspection tours and the thoroughness with which he has inquired into the welfare plans of each and every one of the organizations working in the interest of the doughboys. In a recent visit to the Y. M. C. A. hostelries in the general stopped to address several hundred men he found in the lobby of the Hotel du Pavillon, much to the delight of the soldiers themselves, who had afterwards that he had talked with a friend instead of a commanding officer.

"I may not have the opportunity of seeing you boys again," he said. "I do not meet your comrades in your own country, but when you return to them I will carry back with you these messages. I appreciate the way in which you have been true soldiers and brave men, and as an army commander I want you to know that my hope is that you will return to America as morally and physically as you were when you left. The Y. M. C. A. and the organizations are making that possible by equipping the way in which you now are. I know that you are not crowded at half-past four in the afternoon. I want you to know as commanding officer of the American Expeditionary Force that I appreciate the work that is done by the Y. M. C. A., and I hope you will return to your units to carry back with you the message of common appreciation—mine and yours."

During another tour of the Y. M. C. A. and sleeping quarters at the Hotel du Pavillon he shook hands with and personally commended every American worker whom he met at the Hotel du Pavillon, the huge "Y" recreation center and canteen on the Champs Elysees. The Palais du Glace, he declared, would be very popular with him as a soldier on leave in Paris. General Pershing's inspection of the Y. M. C. A. canteen, which was unannounced, took up an entire morning and he expressed himself satisfied with the work. At several places he surprised men at their luncheon. At the Palais du Glace, where 25,000 Americans eat, the first intimation that the diners were there was when the orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner" and they looked about to find the commander-in-chief of the A. E. F. drawing attention. He interrogated a number of the soldiers about the food prices, and exhibited the most intense interest in everything pertaining to their welfare. At the Hotel Rochester, Y. M. C. A. hostelry on the Boulevard Haussmann, he learned with surprise that a private soldier could get two eggs for breakfast. This was something the general frequently had experienced in doing.

The American women workers at the Hotel du Glace he said: "I want to tell you that I appreciate what the American women are doing over here. It means a great deal to the army to have the right kind of American women here doing the things you are doing. Not only is it good for the soldiers, but for you, too."

SHOW IS NEWEST DIVERSION OF DOUGHBOYS

PARIS, April 25.—A show of American soldiers in a U. S. army camp in France is the latest diversion of the A. E. F., who are on the lookout for something new to do. Of course it was not a show of real babies, but it was an exhibition of their photographs, as entered by

PENNSYLVANIA BETTY.

Several hundred fond doughboys, each of whom was perfectly sure that his pet in the back in the States was quite the baby in the world. The idea of two Y. M. C. A. girls, Mary G. Paxton of Roanoke, Va., and Anna T. Bianton of Nashville, Tenn., who were stationed at Fort St. Vrain with the Six Hundred and First Trench, upon to admire snapshots of dozens of the Tanks whose pictures had gone to a whole war and were now the pride of their soldier fathers and brothers and cousins in the interval of being to go home. And the baby show was a magnificent success. The "Y" was filled with baby pictures dug out from the files and O. D. pockets for the exhibit. Pennsylvania Betty, daughter of Private O. Friday, a trooper in the Keystone State, was awarded the medal, the first American baby picture to win such an honor in France.

HOW COAL MINES LAID FOUNDATION OF GREAT BRITAIN'S POWER.

—Britain owes its position in the world of commerce and industry, which means its financial status in the world, to coal more than to anything else. If beneath its soil and in its river beds it had possessed as much gold as Australia, or California, or South Africa, it would not have availed it nearly so much as its wealth in "black diamonds." Not only do the coal mines employ more than a million men, but indirectly they produce employment for the cotton, woolen, iron, shipbuilding, and many other great industries without which the country would soon be plunged in poverty.

It is an amazing fact that Britain produces a fourth of all coal used in the world. Coal is money to Britain. It pays in coal for thousands of commodities which are imported into that country, and which no amount of "reconstruction" could enable them to produce within their own borders. Yet Britain's coal is by no means inexhaustible, and it is estimated that at the present rate of consumption it can only last 500 years.

KEPT BUSY ALL THE TIME

Why Missionaries, Unlike Their More Fortunate Brothers, Can Have No Regular Hours.

The missionary formerly worked months, and even long years, for a single convert, and when he had secured him, had only a single illiterate man from the lower classes. Now he has accessible, on the one hand, millions of lower-class people; and, on the other, an increasing number of men and women who are already the great leaders among their countrymen. The present mission staff and equipment is adapted largely for dealing with the man of the lower classes, and for dealing with him individually. Slowly the skeleton organization has been expanded and partially filled out; but no church has yet grasped these larger opportunities for personal evangelism which the last few years and decades have brought. As the opportunity has grown, schools, hospitals and publishing houses have been added—designed to care for work already under way. With few exceptions the missionaries on the field are tied down to the direction of these institutions. They must supervise the churches and the native pastors; run the hospital; manage the printing press; keep accounts, and, in the greater proportion of fields, cultivate an American constituency to meet their increasing needs for more money. Many missionaries are now compelled, aside from their own salaries, to finance the greater part of their work. There is a man in India whose mission expenses run from 1,200 to 1,500 "rupees" a month. He receives 300 by appropriation; the remainder he must raise as best he can. More extraordinary still is the fact that he actually raises it.—Tyler Dennett in Asia Magazine.

Why Hospitals in Clouds.

For many years medical men have been hunting for a place that would be absolutely germ-proof, and at last it has been found, the Philadelphia North American states. Now that aviation is becoming a part of modern warfare, we have learned a great deal about the air that we never knew before. If we go high enough, there are no germs and the pressure is less also as we go higher up. The question now is, wouldn't it be a good thing to put our hospitals up there, at least those dealing with open wounds and diseases that needs lots of fresh air, such as tuberculosis? Enormous airships could be anchored above our heads and the patients could be carried up in airplanes. Stranger things than that are happening every day around us, and physicians say that the idea even now is more than a pipe dream. Such a hospital would be ideal for children with the rickets. Up in the clouds, where there was nothing but pure air and sunlight, the very lack of which caused their disease, they would probably come down in a few weeks totally cured.

How Soft Coal is Made Hard.

Converting bituminous coal into an equivalent of hard coal is a late development that will have a far-reaching effect on American industry, according to Popular Mechanics magazine. The new fuel is entirely smokeless and under the new process by-products now wasted are recovered. These largely compensate for the cost of conversion. A plant has been in operation in the East for some time, perfecting the process and making tests of a practical character. The raw coal is subjected to a distillation process at low temperatures, the residue being pressed into hard, durable bricks that are again subjected to distillation and produce an intense heat.

How Bobby Got Dirty.

John and Robert had just been dressed in their new white suits and were waiting near the porch for their mother to take them downtown. When their mother came out John's suit was still clean, but Robert's suit was soiled. "Why, Robert, I have a notion to leave you at home," said his mother. "Oh, don't, mother," said Robert, half crying; "you know the dirt blows right past John and sticks on me."

JUST LIKE MOTHER USED TO DO.

One of the games Y. M. C. A. girls play with the doughboys over in France is "Button, button—who has no button?" For the American soldier is still the same old things happen to his clothing. And right there is where the "Y" girl comes in. She is always ready to supply the stitch in time, which is one reason perhaps that the members of the A. E. F. have such a reputation for being well-groomed. Just at present the Y. M. C. A. women at debarkation ports in France are keeping their needles hot with fast and furious last-minute sewing, making the soldiers' trip and span for the trip to the United States. They want to get all dressed up because at last they have some place to go, the best place of all, home.

SONGS SPEED RECOVERY OF THE SHELL SHOCKED.

PARIS, April 19.—"Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight," sung in a sweet, low soprano, sounded beyond the doors of the shell-shock ward in a base hospital near one of the old camps. "That," said the surgeon who was conducting the visitor through the hospital, "is our new cure for shell-shock." The song ended, but after a moment the singer resumed with "The Little Gray Home in the West," and then continued with a lullaby, the kind that all American mothers croon as they soothe their little ones held in their arms. Occasionally a few thin masculine voices joined in the singing, their brave efforts becoming stronger as the melody shifted gradually to songs of a more spirited kind. Then from the ward, followed by a faint cheer, came the singer—smiling. She was Miss Paula Lind Ayers, formerly on the New York concert stage. She wore the uniform and insignia of a

PAULA LIND AYERS.

Y. M. C. A. entertainer in France, but the surgeon introduced her as song-physician to the shell-shocked doughboys of the A. E. F.

Miss Ayers' career as a song-physician began by accident. While touring a number of American camps to sing to the doughboys, she visited a base hospital one afternoon and sang to the patients in the various wards. "We need to go in there," she was told, in front of one closed door. "The shell-shock patients are in there. They are making so much noise that they probably wouldn't hear you."

"I should like to try, anyhow," she said. Before the end of Miss Ayers' first stanza, all but three or four of the worst cases had been quieted, and were listening to the song. By the time she had sung half a dozen songs, a few of the men were joining in the chorus. It was the first time that some of them had spoken since they had been stricken with shock.

After that, she visited the hospital daily, upon the request of the commanding officer, and went to the other hospitals in the region. Without exception it was found that the patients responded more readily to her singing than to almost any other treatment.

"I have to begin with the softer, quieter melodies," she says. "Anything spirited or rapturous seems to frighten the men at first, just as any loud sudden noise does. As the boys' condition improves we go on to other songs, and soon most of the patients are singing with me."

"I believe that in the colleges this sort of thing is called 'musicotherapy,' though I discovered it by accident. Some of the boys have had very little treatment except music, and are recovering fast." Novel as this use of entertainment is, it is pronounced highly essential by army officers, and one of them, besides commending Miss Ayers for her work, has ordered this "song treatment" for all the shell-shock cases in his command. This is one reason why the "Y" has called for 376 more entertainers to go overseas.

"Y" SPORTS FOR SOLDIERS.

From August, 1918, up to the present date 906,980 members of the A. E. F. have participated in baseball games in France under the direction of Y. M. C. A. athletic directors and over 3,000,000 spectators have attended these games. The ball games staged by the "Y" are easily the most popular form of sport among the American soldiers, but other games have had unexpected popularity. The following figures give the number of players and spectators in various other games all given as part of the Y. M. C. A.'s gigantic athletic program: Football, 700,000 players and 1,000,000 spectators; soccer 227,425 players and 678,519 spectators; basketball, 223,224 players and 428,224 spectators; volley ball, 484,124 players and 452,454 spectators; boxing, 223,513 participants and 1,112,141 spectators.

POST-WAR ACTIVITIES OF "Y."

Latest figures compiled by the Eastern department of the Y. M. C. A., which comprises New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia, tell a story of continued post-war service to the returning troops who pass through the Eastern states in never-ending streams during the process of debarkation and demobilization. Although there are 508,000 less men in Eastern department camps than there were before the armistice, the staff of Y. M. C. A. officers is almost as large as it was during the war, and every effort is being made to increase and extend "Y" service. There are now 1,185 Red Triangle men actively engaged in providing for the wants of home-coming soldiers. The figures show: At "Y" huts and service buildings there is an average monthly attendance of 4,930,273 men. These men buy every month $22,617.22 worth of postage stamps over the "Y" counter, send home in money orders $101,837.70, and use 3,357,493 Red Triangle envelopes. They attend 1,307 free entertainments other than movies given by the Y. M. C. A., 2,315 moving picture shows, and 234 parties at which no entertainment program is given. There are 71,102 men participating in compulsory athletics every month, about 60,000 who engage in formal athletics and 367,953 in informal athletics, all staged by the Y. M. C. A. Nearly 3,000 class meetings are held monthly for vocational instruction, attended by 35,272 men. In addition there are 3,070 lectures with an attendance of 229,267 men. About 69,000 books are loaned each month, and 19,256 newspapers and magazines are kept constantly in circulation. Last month there were 2,018 religious meetings with a total attendance of 215,100.

PLAYS FOR THE WAR WEARY.

When the Y. M. C. A. first began to act as theatrical manager and producer for the A. E. F. in France the equipment consisted of one trunkful of costumes, four banjos and two guitars. But the doughboy soon proved that all the world's a stage, even a world at war, for the "soldier shows" rapidly became the favorite indoor sport of American soldiers, and the "Y" service grew correspondingly fast. Professional coaches are now organized under the direction of Miss Dorothy Donnelly, one of America's favorite actresses, and Mr. Joseph Lindon Smith, head of the Overseas Theater League, with offices in Paris, has increased that first trunkful of properties to the following proportions: 4,115 costumes, 1,944 musical instruments, 1,822 plays, including serious dramas; 15,956 pieces of sheet music, 1,892 make-up sets and 406 wigs.

FULL MILITARY HONORS AT "Y" WORKER'S FUNERAL.

Miss Marjorie Vrooman, Y. M. C. A. canteen worker, who recently died in France, was one of the few welfare workers abroad who at death were honored with a full military funeral. She was accorded all military honors paid officers of the A. E. F. who died in France. Miss

MARJORIE R. VROOMAN.

Vrooman came from Clyde, N. Y., and had been abroad at Caunteria, a "Y" leave area in the Pyrenees, a November.

Immediately following the death of Miss Vrooman, who was a most beloved member of the "Y" staff canteens, Col. F. D. Evans, commanding officer, ordered the flags at half-mast and all entertainments in the village incident to Mardi Gras suspended. A military guard was placed at the modest little peasant's cottage where the young girl had died. Services were conducted at army headquarters. Evergreens and flowers, many of them picked from the mountains sides by soldiers, made a beautiful floral setting for the flag-draped casket. The entire Y. M. C. A. staff and more than a thousand soldiers attended the funeral, after which the remains were carried down the mountain. Interment was at Bordeaux, in the American military cemetery.

BRITAIN BUILT ONLY 1,245 SHIPS IN LAST YEAR

Record for 1918 Far Below That of 1913.

FEW LINERS ARE LAID DOWN

Tonnage for 1918 Was 1,876,411, as Compared With 2,283,933 for 1913—Wonder Work of the War Period is Found in Naval Engineering—Build Wonder Warship Capable of Outrunning and Outgunning Anything Afloat.

Some remarkable figures are now available of war work in the British shipbuilding yards. No records are broken in regard to shipbuilding as a whole. In that respect the comprehensive statistics given only confirm knowledge of the slow progress which is being made in replacing the losses of the war period.

The total output of the United Kingdom during 1918—naval as well as mercantile—is given as 1,245 vessels of 1,876,411 tons and 4,349,290 I. h. p. The tonnage is disappointingly low after all that had been heard of speeding up processes, the inauguration and organization of government programs of construction, arrangements for supplying materials for the yards and for obtaining skilled artisans from the fighting services, and all of the advantages in the way of expediting output which were to follow the introduction of standardized and fabricated and assembled ships.

The fact is, of course, that no official programs can be carried out without man-power, and the manpower of the shipyards of the United Kingdom is not capable of maintaining and increasing the effective strength of the British navy—as it had to be maintained so long as Germany was a naval power which had to be reckoned with—and at the same time of increasing mercantile output at the exceptional rate which would have been necessary to cope with the German submarine menace in its work in its most virulent form.

Far Behind 1913's Record. The figures now published show that the work of the United Kingdom shipyards in 1918 was far behind that of 1913, which was the record year and also the last complete pre-war year. In those twelve months the total consisted of 1,474 vessels, of 2,283,933 tons and 2,661,260 I. h. p., so that while there was the extraordinary increase over the previous United Kingdom's best of some 1,600,000 horse power, there were decreases of 229 in number of vessels and of 367,522 tons in measurement of vessels launched.

The increase in horse power is explained, of course, by the relatively higher power of the machinery installed in war vessels, especially in destroyers, as compared with merchant vessels, and by the fact that a very large number of destroyers were built; but the explanation of the lower tonnage is to be found in another direction altogether—in the fact that it has not been found possible to divert from naval work, and especially from naval overhauling and repairing, and from the reconstruction of those vessels which were salvaged after being torpedoed or mined, a sufficient number of men and a sufficient amount of materials to enable work on new merchant vessels to make satisfactory progress.

For it is merchant vessels—ready tramp steamers—which make up in normal times the great bulk of the new British tonnage each year, and although there were built in 1918 many "war" steamers of standard types to the order of the shipping controller, the aggregate of these was low in comparison with that of merchant vessels in good years before the war.

Few Liners Launched. Practically no large first class liners were launched. This work was almost wholly confined to the Belfast and Clyde yards of Messrs. Harland and Wolff, where five such vessels were turned out. But of these the largest were only of 17,221 tons, which is not large when it is compared with the big Cunard, White Star, Hamburg-American, and other vessels which figured in shipbuilding records in pre-war years. The contribution of liner tonnage to the 1918 total was, indeed, almost negligible, while, of coasting vessels and other special service merchant steamers there were remarkably few.

The hopes of large output rested solely on the standard shipbuilding program, and the war did not last long enough to give it the chance for which Lord Pirrie was preparing—the chance of proving that British shipbuilding could and would rise to the height of the great occasion. Whether it would ultimately have done so is now only a matter of academic discussion. Certainly, so far as available figures show, it did not seem, when the armistice was signed, that it was likely to do so in the then near future.

The wonder work of the war period is to be found not in mercantile shipbuilding, but in naval; and above all things in naval engineering. Taking the record of the Clyde alone, we find that during the war 481 vessels of 770,547 tons and 8,983,830 I. h. p. were constructed, as additions to the naval strength of the country.

In this total there are included no merchant vessels ordered by the government (so that the standard shipbuilding program is completely excluded) and no general service trawlers, or tugs, or handly craft built to government order.

All Actual Fighting Ships. All are actual fighting ships, carrying guns and designed—each within its own sphere of action—for taking part in naval operations. The list is composed of battleships, battle-cruisers, light cruisers, destroyers, submarines, an armed merchant cruiser, a seaplane carrier, monitors, mine-sweepers, those new vessels known as "sloops," but which are really little light cruisers or low speed destroyers, gunboats, patrol boats, hospital steamers, and also those Q boats and P Q boats of which so very little could be said while the war was on, or can be said even yet for that matter.

It is an extraordinary list, and as tabulated, it looks more like a navy in itself than the record of the work of one river during the war. It is headed by that great Sheffield-Clydebank firm, Messrs. John Brown & Co., Limited, who turned out no fewer than forty-seven vessels of 155,153 tons and 1,563,500 horse power, and in whose work there were included the great battleship Burnham and the great battle-cruisers Tiger and Repulse, not to speak of the still greater Hood, about which even yet nothing can be said except that she exists, and is being completed at Clydebank.

The Hood was the greatest of all British mystery ships. She and the Rodney (at another Clyde yard—that of the Fairfield company) would have been the great surprise packets of the war. In speed and gun-power they were to have exceeded anything afloat, and what they were intended for only our naval authorities and the builders knew. Only the Hood, however, will be completed.

When it became evident that the offensive power of Germany was waning, and that the naval power of Great Britain and her allies was overwhelmingly sufficient for all likely possibilities, the question of proceeding with the construction of two such great vessels came up for serious consideration. If they were not to be required for this war they would be lost, as they could never be required again. Even granting the possibility of another war they would be out of date before it came.

Decision to Complete Hood. But while the Rodney was in the early stages of her construction at Fairfield, the Hood was well advanced at Clydebank. So it was decided to complete the Hood as a great specimen of the latest in British naval architecture, but to scrap all that existed of the Rodney. That is how we are likely to have, for many years, one great odd ship, capable of outrunning and outranking any other ship of war afloat—unless it should unfortunately be the case that it will be necessary to carry naval designs still further, build still larger, faster and more heavily armed vessels.

Meantime the Hood is the world's greatest fighting ship, and if ever the Institution of Naval Architects are allowed to discuss her designs in public, there should be revelations of extraordinary interest.

But it is really in marine engineering that the year 1918 and the war period as a whole has been extraordinary. For the twelve months the record in the production of ships' machinery is held by the Wallsend Slipway company, Limited, of Wallsend-on-Tyne, which turned out engines of 318,290 horsepower. As an achievement this would have been looked on as almost impracticable before the war. But there were many almost as remarkable.

Second on the list came John Brown & Co., of Clydebank, with machinery of 18,600 I. h. p. As a matter of fact, this firm is first, as the Hood will be of more horsepower than their own Repulse, which worked out at 115,000, so that their 1918 total must be well over 400,000 I. h. p. At present, however, they can only be credited with second place, in which they are followed closely by their Clyde neighbors, the Fairfield company, with 291,000 I. h. p.

After them come Cammell, Laird & Co., of Birkenhead, with 230,200 I. h. p.; John Thornycroft & Co., of Southampton, with 211,843 I. h. p.; Messrs. Harland & Wolff, of Belfast, Glasgow and Greenock, with 209,600 I. h. p.; and a large number of firms with totals ranging between 100,000 and 200,000 I. h. p., each of which would have been considered notable in normal times.

But higher records than any of these are to be found in the work of all the period of the war. In 1918 the Fairfield company turned out marine propelling machinery of a total of 468,410 indicated horsepower; John Brown & Co., a total of 349,400 indicated horsepower; the Wallsend Slipway company, a total of 346,810 indicated horsepower; and Cammell, Laird & Co. had 319,000 indicated horsepower to their credit.

It is evident from these figures that the year 1918 was the greatest year in the history of marine engineering. It was a year when high-powered destroyers were being turned out almost en masse by all the firms for the purpose of hunting down the German submarines, and it will live for all time in the industrial annals of the United Kingdom as a year of extraordinary engineering activity, and one which contributed more than any other to that supremacy at sea which ultimately strangled Germany and compelled her to cry aloud for peace.

TRAPS BANDIT GANG

Famed Beauty Discovers Cache of Diamond Thieves.

South African Belle Visits United States After Making Tour of India.

San Francisco—Miss Alice Herald Lindsay, celebrated English beauty of Johannesburg, South Africa, and famed on three continents as the girl who discovered the cache of the celebrated Foster gang of thieves and desperadoes, is in San Francisco, after a visit through India and China, in which she met with adventures as thrilling as those that first brought her into international prominence.

Miss Lindsay, who is not yet out of her teens, is the daughter of a prominent diamond exporter and commission merchant of Kensington, a suburb of Johannesburg, and it was near her home in that city that she stumbled over the cave in which the Foster band, which had been terrorizing the community for many months had secreted some of their spoil.

The young girl was out walking with a companion when the spirit of adventure induced them to enter what seemed merely an abandoned cave in the hillside. She tripped over a pair of boots near the entrance of the dug-out, and investigation disclosed that they were splashed with blood. Immediately it dawned upon her that she had unwittingly entered the cave of the Foster gang, and, frightened, she withdrew, not any too quickly, for later it was discovered that two members of the band returned to the cave very shortly afterward. The alarm was sounded, and eventually the entire gang was captured, several committing suicide in the cave rather than give themselves up to the authorities.

In India, where she spent the last six months, Miss Lindsay was winner of an international beauty contest, held in the city of Calcutta. She also tells of her experiences elephant hunting. As guest of the party, she was permitted the first shot at the elephant, and succeeded in sending home the shot that ended his career. She also had several exciting experiences hunting tigers in the Indian jungles, and has brought here as a trophy a luxurious tiger skin from an animal which was brought down in one of the hunts in which she was engaged.

GAVE WATCH TO WAR HERO

Indiana Man, Badly Wounded in War, Remembered at His Home Town.

Charlottesville, Ind.—As a token of appreciation for his services in the world war, Walter McDaniel, who was severely wounded during the fighting in France, and who is now at his home here on a furlough from the Walter Reed hospital at Washington, Thursday received a $45 gold watch, the purchase price being made up by citizens of Charlottesville.

McDaniel, who lost his right leg as the result of shrapnel wounds, is walking an hour each day with the aid of an artificial limb. He expects to be discharged from the hospital within the next few weeks.

BRUSSELS TELLS GRATITUDE

Confers Freedom of City on Brand Whitlock, American Minister to Belgium.

Brussels—The municipal council formally conferred the freedom of the city on the American, Spanish and Dutch ministers to Belgium in recognition of their services to the city and country during German occupation. The address was made by Burgomaster Max.

Brand Whitlock, the American minister replied, saying: "I am grateful that fate called me to share in the city's sufferings and insults throughout the long nightmare of occupation by an aggressor who vainly desired to assassinate the nation's soul."
