Y. W. C. A. UNIFORMS TO CLOTHE STUDENTS

Suits Worn by War Workers Will Be Given to Penniless Students in Switzerland.

Official uniforms of the Young Women's Christian Association minus the Blue Triangle, the Association insignia, will be worn next winter by women students who have been stranded in Switzerland during the war and who, because of lack of funds, inability to re-enter their native country, a desire to finish their university courses or because they have no family to which to return, will remain there next year.

Elizabeth M. Clark, who has been in Switzerland for ten years under the World Student Christian Federation, has appealed to the National Student Committee of the Y. W. C. A. for clothing for the 300 foreign women students in Switzerland. The scarcity of clothing last year among these almost refugee students made it necessary for two girls to share one coat so that only one could go to classes or go out of doors at a time.

Four large packing cases of all kinds of used clothing, save hats, which is in good condition, have been collected hastily from women college students in the New England States, Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware by the Student Committee of the National Y. W. C. A. to be sent over in response to Miss Clark's appeal. This clothing will be dyed, cleaned and made over in Switzerland.

In addition to the clothing collected from students in colleges nearest New York a case of uniforms, which have been turned in by Y. W. C. A. secretaries who did war work, and the official gray uniform ulsters is being sent. As uniforms are being turned in by war workers they will be claimed by the Student Committee, which will remove the insignia and prepare the uniforms so that they may be worn by these women who have been forced by world events to remain in Switzerland for several years.

QUEEN MARIE INVITES Y. W. C. A. TO RUMANIA

Extends Invitation to Overseas Workers in Paris.

Paris, April 21.—Queen Marie of Rumania, following a conference with a representative committee of the American Y. W. C. A. held at the Ritz Hotel, Paris, has invited the American Young Women's Christian Association to come to Rumania and open work under her patronage.

Among the representatives of the Y. W. C. A. present at the conference were: Miss Harriett Taylor, head of the American Y. W. C. A. work overseas; Miss Mary Anderson of Hudson, Wis.; Miss Mary Dingman, head of the Y. W. C. A. Industrial work in France; Mrs. Margaret B. Fowler of Pasadena, Cal., and Miss Charlotte Niven, head of the Y. W. C. A. work in Italy. A notable guest at the meeting was Madame Catarji, wife of the secretary of the Rumanian legation in Paris.

Y. W. C. A. WORKER IS DECORATED.

Miss Marion Porter of New York City was decorated the other day in the name of the Chaplain General of the American army with the Church War Cross.

Her citation was for her moral and spiritual contribution to the war.

For more than a year Miss Porter has been at a hospital center in Vittel, France, as a representative of the Y. W. C. A. in charge of a nurses' club there.

Asphodel as Source of Alcohol.

The asphodel, which contains much starch in its tubers, grows as a common weed (porrazzo) in many parts of Italy—in fact, it has been called "the plague of the Mediterranean." At one time it was cultivated as a source of industrial spirit, but owing to difficulties in the rectification the culture was abandoned. If these difficulties could be overcome Italy would be able to considerably increase her home supply of spirit.

PROHIBITION TO BRING COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE

Hazel MacKaye Advises Using Buildings as Centers for Drama, Community Singing and Entertainments.

Why not turn the corner saloon into a community playhouse when the law effects the closing of these gathering places, asks Miss Hazel MacKaye, director of the Department of Pageantry and Drama of the National Young Women's Christian Association?

"I went over on the West Side of New York one night recently to attend a community drama meeting," Miss MacKaye says in explaining her theory, "and as I was riding along I noticed how many saloons there were—one on every corner and another in the middle of the block, it seemed, all just blazing with lights. Those lights ought not to go out with prohibition. They ought to shine for something worth while to all of the people, and what better than community drama and singing?"

Miss MacKaye feels that the war has given a great impetus to popular interest in drama and that through pageantry and drama a great deal in the way of Americanization can be effected.

Through the community center, if it be in a district populated largely of one foreign nationality, these people could present pageants of the life in their mother countries, translating them into English, so that Americans and also the younger English speaking members of their household could understand and appreciate their traditions. American art would be greatly enriched thus through the drama of all of the nations whose peoples have settled in this country. On the other hand American ideals, American history and American festivals, even laws such as child labor and minimum wage, could be interpreted to these people by means of pageantry.

"People have been learning not only to work together, but to play together," Miss MacKaye says, "particularly since the war, when the people stood together in drives and large patriotic community entertainments. The opportunity to build up a great community organization is now at hand, and the time is ripe for it. Why not utilize the corner saloon?"

DEPARTMENT ADVISES ON PLUMBING AND CURTAINS

New Bureau Opens in Y. W. C. A. Overseas Office.

A new department of finance has been organized by the Y. W. C. A. for its work in France. Miss Constance Clark of Pasadena, Cal., is the executive. Miss Clark before her recent coming to France was director of the big Y. W. C. A. Hostess House at Camp Lewis, Washington.

All contracts, leases and rentals for new buildings will be handled by Miss Edith Austin of New York City, an experienced architect and builder, who will work through this newly created section.

Plans for remodeling and decorating rooms, clubs and hostess houses taken over by the Y. W. C. A. will be in the hands of Miss Mary Buchanan, an interior decorator, who comes originally from Scotland, but who has been working in France for the American Y. W. C. A. since the beginning of its war work there.

In addition, the department is compiling lists, suggestions and general shopping guides for all the buying of the Association in France, including all kinds of building equipment from concrete curtains to plumbing supplies.

A cafeteria expert will have a place in the department to act as general advisor on restaurant and cafeteria projects of the Association throughout France.

In short, the department is to be more than finance alone. It is to be a kind of general advisory department and clearing house for all other departments in the French association—a department where dollars will be measured up against deeds and needs.

THRIFT SCHOOL

THINK OF THE FUTURE—DON'T WASTE THE PRESENT

Small boys and small girls, big boys and big girls, everyone is looking at you. Why? Because you're beautiful? Because you're curious? Because you're strange?

No, that isn't why. You are beautiful, many of you. I believe I'd say all of you. But that isn't why everyone is looking at you. It's because the future depends on you! You're growing up. All the big things to be done are to be done by you. All the big jobs to be handled are to be handled by you! You are going to make the improvements in every way. You're going to do your part for justice and for keeping the peace. Just as you helped as far as you could during the war in your schools, so you will continue to do your part for an imperishable liberty.

Everyone is looking at you! Make a beginning. Start now. Save your quarters. Be thrifty. That doesn't mean stinginess. If you save there's that much more you will be able to do. And while you're saving and keeping the quarters from being wasted you're bringing back your daddies, your brothers, your friends' daddies and brothers all, all the sooner to the homes they left!

You will show all who are looking at you that you do know that unless you start in right away you won't be of much good in the future.

Work for the future—your future—the future of American boys and American girls, and you've got to begin right away. Save the quarters. Don't let opportunities slip by you. They'll help you. Just try them and see. Start now. Buy thrift stamps. Buy War Savings Stamps. Boys and girls, think of the future! How is it to be done? By not wasting the present—Mary Graham Bonner.

A PROMISE.

Little quarters are you wasted? Little quarters are you sad? Really, little quarters, it's a shame! It's just too bad! I have spent you on the movies, I have spent you foolishly. And so, my little quarters, you drifted far from me. But now I'll promise, quarters, to save just lots of you. For I know so very well now just all that you can do! You'll help the country, quarters, that made you come to me, and you'll grow to big War Saving Stamps if I save you loyally! —Mary Graham Bonner.

Let It Be Not in Vain.

Do you want any of the men to have died in vain? Then, if not, let's with our heart and soul and with our pocketbooks and rolls of bills enter this great Thrift Campaign. Buy War Savings Stamps!—Mary Graham Bonner.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, FATHER OF THRIFT

Have you a little public monument in your family history?

The Franklin family has. A bronze statue stands in Printing House Square, just off Park Row, in New York City. It is a replica of Benjamin Franklin, the Father of Thrift in this country.

Observe the face of the statue. It's the same as that on the new War Savings Stamp. Franklin preached thrift and practiced it. His rise was the result of thrift, just as the War Savings Stamp is the result of acquiring many Thrift Stamps.

Begin to practice thrift today. Some day your family may boast a public monument.

Don't Regret—Begin Now!

So many, many quarters are spent and idled away and lost that might so well have gone into thrift stamps which could have been turned into War Savings Stamps. But don't regret what you might have done. Begin to save the quarters now. Buy thrift stamps. Then change them into War Savings Stamps, and they'll keep adding interest for you—just like that!—Mary Graham Bonner.

OUR SOLDIER DEAD.

"In Flanders fields, where poppies blow,
In France where beautiful roses grow,
There let them rest—forever sleep,
While we sternal vigil keep—
With our hearts' love—with our souls' pray'
For all our Fallen "Over There."

The sounding sea between us rolls
And in perpetual requiem tolls—
Three thousand miles of cheerless space
Lie 'twixt us and their resting place;
'Twas God who took them by the hand
And left them in the stranger land.

The earth is sacred where they fell—
Forever on it lies the spell
Of hero deeds in Freedom's cause,
And men unborn shall come an' pause
To say a prayer, or bow the head,
So leave these graves to hold their dead.

Let not our sighing nor our tears
Fall on them through the coming years,
For on the land, on sea, in air,
With dauntless courage every where,
Their homes and country glorified,
Stood to their arms, and smiling died.

Great France will leave no need nor room
That will place flowers on their tomb—
And proudly o'er their resting place,
Will float forever in its grace,
O'er crosses, and stars, and symbol tags,
Their own beloved country's flag.

The morning sun will glid with light,
The stars keep holy watch at night,
The winter spread soft pall of snow,
The summer flowers about them grow,
The sweet birds sing their springtime call,
God's love and mercy guard them all.
—Annette Kohn, in New York Times.

Algerian Women Waking Up.
In no countries have the barriers which have hedged women in been broken down to a larger extent by the war than in Mohammedan countries. The women in Algiers have taken charge of the estates and businesses and handled the money of their husbands who have gone to fight or who, in many cases, have gone to France to work in munitions plants and factories for higher wages than those they can command at home. The women seem to have used their new independence well. They subscribed heavily to the government loans.—The Suffragist.

Circuit Tours of Country Precede Convention.

Anti-Saloon League Will Entertain Foreign Delegates.

Meetings preliminary to the inauguration of a world-wide movement for prohibition will be held in New York city on May 18-19, when foreign delegates will arrive in this country for the Nineteenth Annual Convention of America to be held in Washington, D. C., June 4 and for the International Prohibition Conference to follow it on June 7.

Canada is a factor in promoting the world-wide movement, and Canadian prohibitionists have joined with the Anti-Saloon League in issuing the call to foreign delegates to visit this country. The Council of the Dominion Alliance of Canada has invited the delegates to Toronto for Wednesday and Thursday, May 21-22, when the Alliance will hold its annual convention.

It is expected that fifty foreign countries will be represented at the conference and the conventions and that the delegates from these countries will take part in the National Prohibition Circuit Tours, which are to cover the entire wet and dry area of the country and take in sixty of the largest cities in the United States.

Great Britain, France, Switzerland, Denmark, Holland, Canada, China, Japan, Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia and Mexico are among the countries which will be represented in the demonstration.

The British Empire will be represented by a number of temperance leaders. The Temperance Reform Movement of Denmark will send a representative; the International Temperance Bureau of Switzerland will have a delegate at the convention; the Irish Temperance societies will be represented.

The eastern tours will start in New York City on the evening of May 19, when delegates will divide into four groups and visit Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, arriving at these cities on the 20th. They will converge at Toronto for the big dry meeting of the Dominion. Following this meeting, the Circuit Tours will be continued.

The touring parties will meet at Washington, the largest dry capital in the world, on June 4 for the convention, following which it is expected the foundation will be laid for a permanent international body to bring about world-wide Prohibition.

ENGLISH SCIENTIST TO VISIT AMERICA

Says Drinking Alcohol is Waste.

"In coming times no nation will be able to afford to waste alcohol by drinking it. As the fuel of the future we must aim at having a flowing stream of it, absolutely free and unhindered, throughout the whole country, to be used for its proper purposes, which are one and all outside the human body."

This statement is made by Dr. C. W. Saleeby, English scientist, who will be one of the delegates to the International Prohibition Conference to be held in Washington, D. C., on June 7.

Dr. Saleeby is one of the foremost eugenists of Edinburgh, Scotland. He is the author of a number of books on eugenics and racial questions; was formerly connected with the Maternity Hospital and Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh, and during the war devoted much time to the study of helmets and body armor for gas defense.

He has thrown an entirely new light on the subject of prohibition by declaring that to drink alcohol is to waste a product which is needed as a motor power, an illuminant, a drug and for thousands of industrial uses.

DATES AND DATA FOR DRY CIRCUIT TOURS.

A series of National Prohibition Circuit tours under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of America will start in New York city on May 19 and close in Washington, D. C., on June 4. Preliminary meetings in New York city, May 18-19.

Arrival of foreign delegates in New York city and San Francisco, May 19.

Simultaneous opening of tours in East and West, May 19.

Meetings in Albany, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo, May 20. Col. Dan Morgan Smith, commander of "The Battalion of Death" (First Battalion, Three Hundred and Fifty-eighth Infantry, Ninetieth Division, A. R. F.), will speak at Buffalo.

Richmond Pearson Hobson, hero of the Merrimac, will be the chief speaker at Rochester. Malcolm R. Patterson, former governor of Tennessee, will address the Albany meeting.

Wayne E. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, will deliver the chief address at Syracuse.

COL. DAN MORGAN SMITH, Commander of Battalion of Death.

BATTALION OF DEATH CIRCLED BY HUNS

Colonel Smith in State to Tell of Fight.

Col. Dan Morgan Smith, Commander of "The Battalion of Death," 1st Battalion, 356th Infantry, 90th Division, A. R. F., went into the St. Mihiel Drive with 1,120 men and came out with 327 men.

Col. Smith will be one of the speakers in the National Prohibition Circuit Tours of the country which will be made by a number of foreign delegates, and leading dry speakers beginning in New York City on May 19th and ending at Washington June 4th. He will address gatherings in New York and Buffalo during this tour.

For three days and nights Col. Smith, then Major Smith, and his battalion were separated from their regiment and surrounded by three German regiments. The story of this battalion which during these three days gained the name of "The Battalion of Death," is a thrilling one, and Col. Smith tells it thrillingly.

"One reason the Germans did not get us all," says the Colonel, "is that we never let them know how few of us there were. No German patrol that came over to get information about the battalion ever returned to tell of the tiny group of men which was holding Les Quatre Chemins."

Colonel Smith led his men in the St. Mihiel Drive. He and his battalion went over the top at Fay en Haye and took part in the advance of Vilecy. They took Hill 350.4 and were in the fight at Vieville, Verdun and the Argonne Forest.

Colonel Smith will make his first appearance in New York on Sunday, May 18th. On Monday afternoon, May 19th, he will address an audience at Calvary Baptist Church, New York City, and on the following day will deliver an address in Buffalo.

NEW YORK NOT AS WET AS THE WETS PRETEND

The Anti-Saloon League of New York will be host to the foreign visitors and delegates to the Nineteenth Annual Convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America and the International Conference to be held at Washington, D. C., in June.

A number of delegates are already on their way to America to attend the big dry demonstration in May and June. Several are scheduled to arrive in Halifax and reach New York city in time to join the state tours which will take in Buffalo, Albany, Rochester and Syracuse.

"Our great regret," said William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York State, "is that the foreign delegates cannot see prohibition in operation in New York state, but that they must hurry to the convention of the Dominion Alliance in Toronto, Canada, on May 21 and 22."

"We would like them to see those parts of the state which are reporting prosperity since they joined the dry ranks. Such cities as Binghamton, Ithaca, Auburn, Cortland, Fulton, Norwich, Watertown and Middletown should be visited in order to show the tourists that New York city wets do not represent the sentiment of the entire state."

"We plan, however, to give them as much information as possible about dry New York during the brief time they are with us. The Anti-Saloon League of New York is prepared to supply facts and figures showing the area of the state that is dry, explaining the gain in prohibition sentiment during the past few years and emphasizing the fact that while New York is purported to be entirely wet it is not as wet as the liquor people would like it to appear and that 18 1/2 per cent. of the population of the state live in self-made dry territory which covers 16,654 square miles, or 65 per cent. of its area."

The visitors will be entertained at the Capital District office of the Anti-Saloon League, 119 State street, Albany; at the Central District office 308 McCarthy Building, Syracuse, and at the Western District headquarters 909 Morgan Building, Buffalo.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. We have been forced to enter the great world war, and a mighty army of ours is already in France fighting great battles and winning magnificent victories. You will want to have all the news from our troops on European battlefields, and 1919 promises to be the most momentous year in the history of our universe.
No other newspaper at so small a price will furnish such prompt and accurate news of these world-shaking events. It is not necessary to say more.
THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Genoa Tribune together for one year for $2.25. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.50.

E. B. Whitten Dead.

E. Byron Whitten died Thursday evening, May 15, in Auburn City hospital, after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Whitten was born in East Venice in 1844 where he resided until 1884, when he came to Genoa to reside. He built the residence on east hill which is now the Mead residence. In 1867 he married Emma S. Alward of Venice, and just recently, Mr. and Mrs. Whitten celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary. They went to Auburn to make their home in 1901.

During his residence in Genoa, Mr. Whitten served the town as supervisor for several terms, and was also postmaster for a time. The organization of the Baptist church of this village, and the building of the church edifice, were largely due to his efforts.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a niece, Mrs. E. S. Heaton of Auburn, and by two cousins, Benjamin Cogswell and Henry Whitten of Auburn.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the home on Easterly Ave., and were conducted by Rev. L. N. Sirrell, pastor of the First Baptist church. Many friends from the city and others from Genoa, Rochester and Syracuse were present at the services. Dr. Sirrell paid a strong personal tribute to him as a friend and spoke feelingly of Mr. Whitten's many fine qualities of heart and mind.

Interment, after cremation, was made at Fort Hill on Wednesday afternoon.

Layman for Moderator.

The election of John Willis Baer of Pasadena, Calif., to the office of moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in session at St. Louis establishes a precedent in the history of this old governing body of the church. This is the first time in its history that other than a minister has been elected moderator of General Assembly. Mr. Baer is a banker, former college president, former international officer of the Y. P. S. C. E., a member of the executive committee of the interchurch movement and vice-president of the new era movement. The latter movement and the interchurch proposition are the big issues of the meeting this year.

The Empire Gas & Electric company proposes to build a barge canal terminal for its own use.

Governor Smith has approved the Machold bill appropriating $5,000,000 for highway improvements.

The farmers of Gasport are very much opposed to the proposed changes in the rural mail deliveries.

In Rochester the quota for the Salvation Army campaign will be paid out of the residue in the war chest.

Steuben county home defense men will turn in their rifles, but they will be allowed to retain their uniforms.

Fourteen head of cattle have died from ptomaine poisoning at the Genesee Stock farm, near East Pembroke.

A disease which is becoming prevalent among horses in North Byron is pronounced influenza by veterinarians.

Monroe and Wayne motor corps organizations have been at odds with their officers and there is now no commander for the unit.

The Asheville union free school district, with a population of less than 500, has voted to expend $20,000 to build a new high school.

Theater Attractions.

Fiske O'Hara and Company in his new play "Marry In Haste" will be the attraction at the Auditorium Tuesday evening, May 27. Mr. O'Hara will appear for the benefit of the new Mercy hospital that is soon to be opened in Auburn. Fiske O'Hara is the leading romantic actor of the present day. During the action of the play he will sing several new songs written especially for him. These alone are worth the price of admission asked.

At the Burtis Grand all next week the Irving James Players will present the big New York success "The Brat." Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, with a special matinee on Friday, Decoration Day, at which all seats will be reserved. Owing to the demand for reserved seats at the matinees the management has decided that commencing next week the first six rows of the orchestra will be reserved at the regular matinees.

—It has been announced that Rev. W. S. Crane has reconsidered his resignation as pastor of the Presbyterian church of Port Byron, and will remain for at least another year.

—The Cayuga County Farm Bureau has conducted a canvass of the county in order to ascertain the sentiment of the farmers regarding the daylight saving law. With 2,212 votes against the measure to only 50 in favor of it, the Farm Bureau feels that the opposition is practically unanimous. Questionnaires were sent out to 141 committeemen in their communities.

Genoa Presbyterian Church Notes

Services as usual next Sunday. Mr. Clark will occupy the pulpit. All members of the congregation and Sunday school are urged to be present.

The annual meeting of the church and congregation last Friday evening was quite well attended, 70 people being present. A musical program was given which included three chorus selections by the young people's choir, several violin solos by Mr. Clark, and vocal solos by Mr. Bradley. Mr. Clark also gave a short talk on his experiences as Y. M. C. A. worker in Mesopotamia, and in the aviation school at Waco, Texas. F. C. Hagin acted as chairman of the business meeting. The clerk, Mrs. Morell Wilson, read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Knapp, gave a fine report of the finances of the church. The report showed much painstaking work by the treasurer, which is greatly appreciated by the church. The report of the elders was given by Chas. N. Tupper. Other reports were given by the secretary of the Sunday school and the treasurers of the various classes. Mrs. Wilson was re-elected clerk, Mrs. Knapp treasurer, and M. T. Underwood and Morell Wilson trustees. Considering the fact that the church has been without a resident pastor since last October, it is doing very well. At the close of the business session, a social hour was enjoyed, during which ice cream and wafers were served. It is regretted that more of the church people were not present, as the meeting was interesting and entertaining and should be a stimulus to greater and more effective work this year.

Protest Against Change.

The questionnaires sent out by W. H. Depew, president of the Cayuga County Farm Bureau, to 141 committeemen in the towns of the county for the purpose of securing an expression of the feeling of farmers concerning the reorganized rural mail routes have been returned and the results tabulated. The vote of protest was overwhelmingly against the existing conditions. Only 47 expressed themselves as satisfied with the service and 2,091 protested. About 25 per cent of the questionnaires had not been returned the first of the week.

The result of the canvass has been forwarded to Congressman Norman J. Gould who was one of those present among the committee that waited upon Postmaster General Burleson in Washington Monday to urge him to rescind his order cutting down the number of rural mail routes and lengthening the remainder.

YANKEES BUILD GREAT MILITARY PORT AT BREST

It Has Become Largest and Most Modern of Debarcation Points.

SANITATION ALMOST PERFECT

Every Facility is Provided for Caring for Camp of 40,000 Men of Whom Large Proportion Are Wounded or Sick—Men Will Be Fed and Housed.

Brest, France—Brest, the ancient town of Finistère that juts out into the Atlantic ocean, is destined to live long in the memory of the American soldiers that came to save the allied nations from the iron heel of Germany. From its ancient ramparts the people of France will see the last of the stalwart doughboys that traversed the Atlantic ocean to aid them in suppressing the expansion of Teutonic autocracy, writes Louis Seibold, New York World correspondent.

During the next eight or nine months more than 1,000,000 of the 2,000,000 fighting men that were sent by the United States to vindicate the principles of democracy will find their way through Brest back to their homes. Consequently, the Brest that knew the legions of Caesar and the deeds of the Phoenicians will always figure prominently in the historic narratives of the soldiers who will embark to recount their deeds on European soil.

City Not Much to Look At. Brest is not very much to look at. The most striking thing about it is the mud. It is a sort of mud that sticks to one's memory as well as to one's clothes.

There is no other mud in the world like that of Brest. It is always present, for, with the exception of a very few days during the year, the lowering skies of bleak Finistère are momentarily freshening up, because it always seems to rain in Finistère. At first it is disagreeable, this mud of Brest, but, like other things in life, familiarity breeds contempt for it and inures one to the disadvantages of always having it about one's person.

One of the bravest spectacles to be witnessed, with the mist that nearly always conceals the sun and fertilizes the mud, is that provided by the American girls, who now number several thousand, that have come overseas to administer to the wants of the American boys who have come to fight for America's principles. Some of these girls, gently reared and more accustomed to luxuries than to privation, have become so accustomed to the mud that it is difficult to disassociate them from memory of it.

Recalls the Golden Gate. Brest is a natural port. This is the precise term employed by the technical men of the army and navy coming in from the Atlantic, trans ports eastern bound enter the grim-rooked harbor, whose outside aspects are not dissimilar to those of the Golden Gate at San Francisco. It is a valuable marine terminus, which the French have used for many centuries in which to shelter from the depredations of the hostile fleets that preyed upon its commerce.

There is deep water through the gate and in the harbor itself, which spreads fanlike in an almost complete oval, confined by ramparts that rise from 100 to 300 feet along the shore lines.

The United States engineers and marine experts, after comparing the advantages of other harbors, decided that Brest was best suited to the purpose of the western democracy asked to transport its fighting men to assist in the crushing of Germany. In all the population of the venerable Breton town is about 75,000. The necessities of war have doubled this, and at intervals it becomes three times as much. But the influx of population with the restless and impatient Americans has exercised little influence on the ancient burg.

The city's hotel accommodations are just as primitive as they were a century ago, with the exception that there are now electric lights instead of tallow dips in one of the hostleries and an elevator which groans under the weight of two persons.

Other than that things are pretty much as they were before. Ancient forms and customs prevail generally to the inconvenience of the energetic American and provide excellent material for moving picture artists. The water supply—the one paramount problem to be solved by the American engineers—is obtained by ancient processes. There is no sewerage system. The suggestion of making one for Brest as they have provided at Havana and Manila nearly precipitated a revolution.

Why Wants Useful Material? A new sewerage system was at fight in its way, declared the leading citizens of Brest, whose ancestors run back to the time of the Roman wars, but what was the good of wasting good fertilizer material through the introduction of modern sanitary devices?

Confronted with this problem which they were not able to answer to the satisfaction of Brest, the American engineers, holding the advantages of the harbor to be of commanding importance, decided to establish the embarkation and rest camps outside of the town.

They worked wonders in doing so, and despite the manifest discomforts of daily rains and perpetual mud they have in Pountanezen provided a half-way station between the battle front and home which is second to none in the world. Pountanezen is about seven or eight miles outside of the town itself. Its present capacity is about 40,000. Within three months it will have been expanded to take care of 120,000.

The embarkation hospital at Kerhuon, separated only a few hundred yards from Pountanezen, will ultimately have a capacity for caring for 18,000 cases. It can now care for between six and seven thousand. Both plants are near completion. The plans when finally worked out will provide accommodations for three-fifths of the military establishment maintained by the United States on European soil.

It is a gigantic task, this making a new city for the care of both the sick and well, but it is one that the men entrusted with the work believe they can accomplish under the most unfavorable circumstances.

As it assumes the form of its chief importance all European roads will lead to Brest.

To Keep the Well Diverted.

The big thing, as the responsible officials view it, is to provide the healthy men with diversion to keep them not only out of mischief but in good spirits while waiting for transportation. Men who have been living next door to death and constantly under the thunder of great guns are finding life at detention and internment camps rather uninteresting. It is the purpose of the officials responsible for their welfare to keep them occupied so that they will not miss the tumult of war or brood too much upon the delay of getting home.

Up to date the chief occupation of the 40,000 men who are centered here has been confined to speculation as to dates of departure and taking a close-up view of the few attractions of Brest.

Some idea of the native entertain ment is furnished by the fact that there is only one moving picture show in the town. Severe restrictions are placed upon the ventures of the doughboys in the night life of the ancient burg. The girls of Brest are not particularly attractive. Their faces are not lacking in qualities of classical beauty, although their hands and feet are not the sort that inspire the sculptor or painter to reproduce them in mud, marble or on canvas.

The military police keep a pretty sharp eye on the men in khaki, and the penalties for infractions of army law are pretty severe.

The doughboys make light of the mud, their well shod feet squish into it, and their comfortable clothes resist the penetration of the mist that floats over and around the Finistère peninsula. There is little or no discomfort from cold, because while much further north than New York, Brest catches the eastern end of the Gulf stream, and the temperature rarely falls below 35 and most frequently fluctuates between 45 and 55.

The men are well fed and comfortably housed. The mothers of some of them would probably raise their hands in horror at one or two features of their daily life, but the health reports of the camp furnish substantial proof that the precautions taken by the government are working out much more satisfactorily than the regimen inspired by home influence.

The army and navy officials point with pride to the fact that in one day 34,000 American troops debarked at Brest, and that during the next day 8,000 were added to the total. This means that an aggregation of fighting men one-half the size of the mobile army of the United States four years ago was dumped into the mud at Brest by a convoy of the most impressive ships that ever sailed the main—the Leviathan, Mount Washington, President Grant, George Washington, President Lincoln, La France, Paris and the Lutetia.

Medical Regulations Rigid.

The medical regulations that prevail in the chief American military debarcation port are most rigid. No soldier is permitted to enter or leave the camp without a thorough examination and when he receives his ticket to go aboard ship to go home he must be 100 per cent physically.

Arriving by train from interior points his clothing is taken from him and is subjected to a process that precludes the possibility of infection or insect life. He gets a complete new outfit and many other conveniences that were not possible while he was up near the fighting line.

The facilities for handling the troops sent to this point for transfer to ships is about as complete as a staff of railroad experts can make it. It is far superior to French railroad facilities. Not the least share of the tremendous undertaking of receiving and transporting the American fighting men falls to the humble stevedores, dock wallopers, road makers truck drivers and general roustabouts, colored as well as white.

There is intense rivalry between the nine American ports established in France for the honor of breaking the record of unloading and forwarding material and supplies to the armies of occupation. This contest is known as the "race to Berlin," in which Brest leads. No fighters ever worked harder than do the dock men, lighter men and stevedores in trying to get their prize, which is to be shared by all the men of the winning port.

Helps Salvation Army

BRIGADIER-GENERAL CORNELIUS VANDERBILT.

When Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, and her associates in the councils of the organization were making preliminary plans for the $13,000,000 Home Service Fund Campaign, which the Salvation Army will conduct throughout the United States in the week of May 19-26, they sought as chairman of the campaign committee in Greater New York a man who would be at once a representative citizen, commanding the respect of the entire nation, and one who was in sympathy with the aims, ideals and purposes of the Salvation Army.

Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt was suggested, and the chiefs of the Salvation Army knew immediately that they need look no further. He was just back from overseas, where, as commander of the One Hundred and Second Engineers, he had seen the war workers of the Salvation Army performing their useful service for the American soldiers. He was head of one of the most prominent and wealthy families in America, and famous in his own right for his achievements as an engineer and for the ability he had shown as an executive in a great railway system and in many large financial institutions.

Miss Booth tendered General Vanderbilt an invitation to serve as head of the New York committee, and he accepted, writing glowingly of his admiration of the Salvation Army, which he styled one of the great defenders of democracy. He entered immediately into the work of organizing the committee which would take upon itself the responsibility for raising the $1,500,000 which is New York's quota in the Home Service Fund drive. He chose as his committee a group of notable men, all of them workers, and has been laboring tirelessly for the success of the drive.

Many other persons of social prominence—men and women—have followed General Vanderbilt's lead in becoming actively interested in the Home Service Fund campaign in New York, and through their efforts present indications are that the drive in the metropolis will be entirely successful.

Members of the Most Fashionable and Exclusive Families of the Metropolis Among the Ardent and Active Workers in the $13,000,000 Home Service Fund Campaign.

New York (Special).—New York society has taken the Salvation Army to its heart, and in the $13,000,000 Home Service Fund campaign, which is being conducted throughout the nation this week, members of some of the most fashionable and exclusive families of the metropolis are among the ardent and active workers.

Many years ago it was said that there were but 400 persons in New York who were worth knowing from a social point of view. The number of persons in the inner circles of society has naturally increased with the years, so much so that when the Greater New York women's committee of the Home Service Fund sought socially prominent young women to serve in the campaign more than 4,000 names were put on the list of workers.

These 4,000, wearing Salvation Army bonnets and capes, have been covering every square inch of territory within the corporate limits of Greater New York since the campaign opened on Monday morning. The only part of a Salvation Army lass' equipment which they lack is the tambourine. Instead they are carrying sealed contribution boxes.

No Salvationist of the old days, seeking pennies on crowded street corners, in railway stations, theater lobbies and other public places, ever worked more enthusiastically or more diligently than these daughters of society are doing during Home Service Fund week.

How remarkable is the personnel of this corps of society workers is shown by the fact that the members of the Junior League, the most fashionable and exclusive organization of young women in America, are working for the Salvation Army in a body. Moreover, they are going about the oftentimes annoying and laborious work of soliciting funds in public cheerfully and willingly as though they were merely engaged in dancing at one of their cotillions or attending a luncheon or tea debutante.

GOV. SMITH PRAISES ARMY.

Governor Smith has issued a statement addressed to Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, urging the people of the state to support the Army's Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000. The statement follows:

"I want you to know that it pleases me to call to the attention of the people of New York State the campaign which will be waged by the Salvation Army, during the week beginning May 19, as I know they will accept it as their opportunity of reciprocation for services performed during the war.

"Your Army, which in the beginning showed its true worth in rendering assistance to humanity, and particularly to those who were in dire straits, has, by its recent work, been brought foremost in the minds of every true-blooded American, and we should show our appreciation for what has followed our boys so closely, administering to their wants at a most critical period.

"It is my earnest wish that the people of New York State respond most liberally in helping and assisting your organization in the campaign for the Salvation Army Home Service Fund, and so voice their approval and thanks for the work which was so unstintingly performed for our fathers, our husbands and our brothers."

MASONIC HEAD AIDS DRIVE.

In a letter to Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, William S. Farmer, grand master of Masons in the state of New York, gives enthusiastic endorsement to the $13,000,000 Home Service Fund Campaign.

His letter follows: "The Salvation Army is deserving of the best America has to give, and a nation which has reached into its pockets to help win the war can devote itself now to no more worthy cause than aiding the drive to the utmost.

"The men who have come home have told how the Salvation Army 'carried on' over there. The praise of the workers has come from the hearts of those who are enshrined in all our hearts, the men who fought for our flag.

"I heartily endorse the Salvation Army in its request for funds to carry on a noble work. Every person, both in the Masonic Order and out of it, should pledge themselves to see that in New York State the confidence in the Salvation Army is shown in a way which will ensure successful carrying on of its work.

"The Salvation Army won the admiration and respect of the whole world, and I am sure the state will give ample proof of that fact during the coming drive."

KEEPING UP MORALE WAR AIM OF Y. M. C. A.

W. Perkins, Finance Chairman
Reports to War Fund
Contributors.

FREE CANTEENS IMPOSSIBLE Criticism Due to Transportation. Operated 44 Factories.

By GEORGE W. PERKINS,
Chairman of Finance Committee War
Work Council Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Perkins has just returned from four months' investigation of Y. M. C. A. work overseas. This is part I of his report to contributors to the Y. M. C. A.'s war work fund.)

In December, 1918, Mortimer L. Schiff, F. S. Brockman, John R. Hall and I were asked by the Executive Committee of the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. to go to Europe and make a study of the work and do everything possible to further its efficiency. As Chairman of the Finance Committee of the War Work Council, I was especially glad to do this, as I have keenly felt the responsibility for the large sums of money subscribed by the public.

Our aim was to look at the whole project through the eyes of a contributor, for we were deeply sensible of the fact that in many cases contributions were made by people who had to deny themselves in order to give to this cause. Our study, therefore, was conscientiously carried on with a view to making a report that would, as nearly as possible, give the hundreds of thousands of people who contributed money the information they desired. It should be carefully borne in mind that this report only covers operations of the Y. M. C. A. in France, England, Germany and Italy. It does not touch on any of the large activities carried on by the Y. M. C. A. in the various camps in this country, nor does it cover the work which the Y. M. C. A. did in the Navy or in other parts of Europe with the Allied forces or among prisoners of war, etc.

Perkins Asked Y. M. C. A. to Manage Canteens.

On August 20th, 1917, General Perkins asked the Y. M. C. A. to undertake the management of the Army canteens. The difficulties were many. It was extremely difficult to get supplies as well as to get men who were accustomed to handling, distributing, selling and accounting for such supplies. There was a time when the war was at its height that it cost the Y. M. C. A. almost as much to get an automobile from the United States to France as the automobile itself cost in the United States.

The same was true of canteen supplies. One day we could get supplies sent on a Government boat without freight charges. The next day the only way to send them was to pay almost as much in freight as the goods cost.

The Y. M. C. A. never solicited money for the purpose of giving away canteen supplies. If the Y. M. C. A. had given away canteen supplies in France on the scale of its sales it would have spent in this activity alone at least as much money as its entire expenditures in France for all its activities. The constant policy of the Y. M. C. A. was to sell canteen supplies at a nearly cost as possible and to make every effort, when fighting was in progress, to furnish the men at the front with supplies free of charge where it was at all possible to get the goods to them.

$15,000,000 in Debt to Maintain Canteens.

The statement has frequently been made that the Y. M. C. A. charged higher prices for canteen supplies than the army did. This was true at a certain period when the cost of transportation was exceedingly high and when it was difficult to determine costs accurately. As promptly as the costs could be reduced the prices were reduced, and for many articles the Y. M. C. A. charged lower prices than the Quartermaster did. The latter fact is additional evidence of how extremely difficult it was, during the fighting period, to ascertain the cost of articles so as to obtain a proper price, for certainly the Quartermaster did not wish to make money on sales any more than the Y. M. C. A. did. The final results of the Y. M. C. A.'s canteen operations will show a substantial loss.

It has been said by soldiers of different organizations who were in the front fighting that they did not even know a Y. M. C. A. man or any canteen supplies. This was undoubtedly true in many instances and came about because the Y. M. C. A. did not have sufficient funds with which to provide the personnel or the transportation to supply all of the army units. The Y. M. C. A. has recently regretted its inability fully to extend its work. It went just as far as it could to remedy the situation, and so far as to run into debt last year to the extent of $15,000,000 before the new campaign were re-

Why Did Not Favor Giving Things Free.

Some have criticized the Y. M. C. A. for not giving away more articles, such as cigarettes, chocolate, etc. Its policy has been not to give away anything, but only in special and needy cases. From June, 1915, to April, 1919, the Y. M. C. A. handled in France alone upwards of 2,000,000,000 packages of cigarettes, 32,000,000 bars of chocolate, 18,000,000 cans of smoking tobacco, 50,000,000 cigars, 60,000,000 cans of jam, 29,000,000 packages of chewing gum and 10,000,000 packages of candy.

These are only a few of the items handled, but the size of these figures should convince anyone that it would be financially impossible for the Y. M. C. A. to give its supplies away generally. Furthermore, the army does not favor any such policy. It thinks that it is far better for the men to spend their money on such articles as these than to spend it in other ways. For the most part the men hold the same view.

The Y. M. C. A.'s definite program in Europe from the beginning, and continuously, has been to bend every effort and use every dollar it could obtain to occupy the leisure time of the soldiers, and to do this with various forms of entertainment, athletics, worth while educational activities, etc. Can there be any doubt that every father and mother, every wife and sister, and the men themselves, will approve the Y. M. C. A.'s course in this respect? Is it not infinitely better to do everything possible to occupy the leisure time and to fill the long, dreary evenings of the soldiers than to use the money in giving away a larger quantity of cigarettes, chocolates and other similar articles?

Difficult to Transport Supplies.

With the great congestion in transportation on the railroads in France during the period of hostilities it was at times impossible to get the Y. M. C. A. supplies moved from place to place. At the outset it was very difficult to get them away from the coast and off the docks. The enormous supplies which it was necessary for the United States Government to send to France for the use of the soldiers had to take precedence over everything else. The Y. M. C. A. tried to obviate this by using automobile trucks, which were secured in the United States and wherever possible in Europe.

When the hostilities ceased the Y. M. C. A. had only 700 trucks and automobiles in service, which did not begin to cover its needs. It not only had to transport supplies, but entertainers, lecturers, athletic directors and those engaged in religious activities. Of course the railroads handled a vast amount of supplies for the Y. M. C. A. From June, 1918, to February, 1919, 9,554 freight carloads of Y. M. C. A. supplies were hauled. In the month of October alone some of the principal items were 765 cars of general supplies, 86 cars of flour, 148 cars of sugar, 150 cars of tobacco, 59 cars of chocolate, 63 cars of raw materials for manufacture and 144 cars of lumber and hut materials.

Operated Forty-four Factories.

Early in the war, because of its inability to get certain supplies from the United States or elsewhere, the Y. M. C. A., through the courtesy and with the assistance of the French Government, succeeded in reopening a number of factories, the Y. M. C. A. supplying the raw materials, supervising its manufacture and taking the entire product.

The 20 biscuit factories, 13 chocolate factories, 3 candy factories and 8 jam factories operated in this fashion, when working at their maximum, produced monthly:

- 10,180,000 packages of biscuits.
- 7,400,000 tablets for drinking chocolate.
- 3,500,000 bars of sweet chocolate.
- 1,000,000 bars of milk chocolate.
- 3,800,000 bars of chocolate cream.
- 1,500,000 nut covered chocolate rolls.
- 3,100,000 cartons of caramels.
- 2,000,000 tins of jam.

For the manufacture of chocolate the Y. M. C. A. had to transport cocoa beans and at times the wooden material for the cases in which the chocolate was packed, as well as the paper in which it was wrapped. For the manufacture of biscuits it had to transport ingredients, such as flour, sugar, bicarbonate of soda, almonds, peanuts, figs, etc., as well as material for cases. For the manufacture of confiture, fruit pulp was brought from Spain and southern France. For the manufacture of cans, tin was brought from Bordeaux.

The Y. M. C. A. also had to manufacture writing paper and other supplies. For example, it employed the paper factories in Tolosa, Spain, to manufacture paper. One hundred million sheets were made there. This employed practically the entire town, men, women and children, for a considerable period of time. And yet the output was only one-third of the total amount of writing paper manufactured in France by the Y. M. C. A., while large additional supplies were sent from New York. In all over 400,000,000 sheets of writing paper, with the necessary envelopes, and 16,000,000 postal cards were distributed to the soldiers.

Huts Established All Through France.

On March 1, 1919, the Y. M. C. A. had in operation in France 587 buildings of various kinds which it had erected itself, 596 which it had leased and 782 centers in tents and army buildings. For the most part these buildings are used as centers, where the men can congregate, write letters, read magazines, books and papers, play games, visit and feel relieved of a certain amount of the restraint necessary to army life.

In these buildings moving pictures are shown, entertainments of various kinds given, concerts provided and religious services conducted. These buildings are placed at the disposal of all other religious and social welfare organizations, regardless of denomination or creed. Protestants, Catholics, Jews, all are welcome to use the facilities provided, for which no charge is made to any organization or any soldier.

PLANNING THE MEALS.

For the housekeeper who "wonders what to have for dinner"—and what housekeeper does not many times, a month, a system or plan or chart, whatever one wishes to follow or make, is a wonderful aid in planning the meals.

The nice thing about a chart is that it is always growing, new dishes being added and various combinations used which will keep the interest in it as keen as if playing a game of chess.

It is essential that we so plan our meals that we get into a day's ration all the needed nourishment to supply heat and rebuild tissue. If one meal lacks in bodybuilding material, for example, such foods as meat, eggs, fish and milk, that deficiency may be supplied in another meal. We must take care that the growing child has plenty of milk, butter, eggs, and green vegetables which contain the growth-promoting substances; if these are left out of the diet or not supplied in sufficient quantity, the child's growth will be stunted and no matter how carefully the diet may be watched later in life the weak link will always cause trouble.

To know whether your meals are well balanced or not is not a hard thing for an ordinary mind to grasp. It is necessary to put some study into it and it would seem that a mother should feel that it is vitally important. Fuel that keeps our bodies warm comes from sugar and starchy foods, with some from fat. The building material is chiefly found in the animal foods such as eggs, milk, meat, cheese, but peas, beans and lentils also furnish some, as well as nuts and combinations of vegetables. Fruits and succulent vegetables are needed to supply acids and alkalines to the blood—they are body regulators.

The great advantage of a wide use of vegetables is that we are supplied mineral matter from them in various quantities and kinds, these are absolutely necessary for health.

In milk, which approaches more nearly the perfect food, we find all the necessary elements; milk will sustain life, although bulk is necessary (obtained from coarse foods) for a balanced diet after childhood.

SAVORY DISHES.

In all meat dishes the long slow rooking brings out all the flavor of the meat and makes it tender and more easily digested. Cooking in an earthen covered dish, called a casserole is an ideal way of conserving flavor. The meat with vegetables may be put on to cook and in a moderate oven may be left for hours without any further attention. The crock may be set in the coals of a fireplace, in the ashpan under the heater or on the ledge of the furnace to cook.

Casserole of Lamb.—Take one and one-half pounds of the neck of lamb, wipe with a damp cloth and place in a casserole with two diced carrots, six medium sized onions, three turlops cut in half, bouquet of soup herbs, one and one-half cupfuls of water; cook for four hours, add dumplings and cook over the heat for ten minutes and serve.

Fried Apples.—Wash and core unpeeled apples and cook in a hot frying pan in a little sweet fat, when nearly done sprinkle with sugar and brown. Leaving the peeling on keeps the slices from breaking. Serve as a garnish to a platter of pork chops or sausage.

Puffy Crackers.—Split the Boston crackers and let them lie in ice water three or four minutes; they will be so water soaked that it will be necessary to use a pancake turner to remove them to a baking pan. Dot with bits of butter and put into a very hot oven; they will puff up and become crisp and delicious. If they are to be served with soup a little paprika may be sprinkled over them, or a little grated cheese.

Baked Egg Plant.—Pare and cut a small egg plant into dice, sprinkle with salt and let stand in a colander for one hour, then wash. Parboil until tender, drain and place in a bowl. Into a chopping bowl put two onions, one green pepper, four stalks of celery, two sprays of parsley and a bunch of thyme. Mince very fine and add two cupfuls of cream sauce, one-half cup of bread crumbs and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of paprika and one-quarter of a teaspoon of mustard. Mix thoroughly and pour into a baking dish, cover with crumbs and cheese and bake thirty minutes.

The Chief of Sinners

By REV. L. W. GOSNELL
Assistant Deacon, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—This is a faithful saying, worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.—1 Tim. 1:15.

A number of people have claimed to be "chief" of sinners. We might not be surprised at this, in itself, but it is surprising to learn the character of the people who have made this claim. Paul asserted it after years spent in the service of Christ preceded by years of correct living as a Pharisee.

John Bunyan, a prisoner of the Lord, entitles his biography "Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners."

John Wesley, always correct in his outward life, and for more than half a century a zealous worker for God, voiced his feelings in the lines:

"I the chief of sinners am,
But Jesus died for me."

Why do these men, whom we regard as the greatest saints, so describe themselves? Certain it is that they are not hypocrites, like the man in Robert Burns' poem who called himself the chief of sinners and went on sinning so that grace might abound! It is just as certain they were not in that state of mind so well described in the following words of Robert Murray McChesney: "Is it possible, think you, for a person to be conceited of his miseries? May there not be a deep leaven of pride in telling how desolate and how unfeeling we are—in brooding over our unseemly pains—in our being excluded from the sympathies of the world—in our being the invalids of Christ's hospital?" The men of whom we have been speaking believed on Christ and rejoiced in his salvation, yet still called themselves the chief of sinners. Again we ask, why do they so describe themselves?

We would sum up an answer in these words: Saints know their own sins better than anyone else and better than the sins of anyone else. They feel the possibilities of evil stirring within them and understand why the martyr exclaimed, as he watched the murderer who passed by on the way to the gallows, "There I go, but for the grace of God." John Bunyan's chief sins, in his unregenerate days, were profanity and lying, but one has said: "It was spiritual sins which in after years laid their heavy weight over his conscience, and these, as his greatest biographer well says, may be even more deadly than sensual sins in their moral recoil, laying bare the powers of the soul." No matter how close to Christ we walk, our sense of obligation to him for saving and keeping us will be so profound that we shall say sincerely, "Sinners, of whom I am chief."

How happy that Paul can assure us, "This is a faithful saying, worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners." Some find it hard to believe this good news. Referring to John Bunyan again, we recall how he feared the day of grace was past for him. How happy he was to read the Scripture which says, "Compel them to come in," and the further statement, "Yet there is room." Coming to more recent days, we think of Samuel Hadley, for many years the superintendent of the Water Street mission of New York. He had fallen very low in sin and seemed a hopeless victim of drink. When he sought the Lord his one question was, "Dear Jesus, can you help me?" How blessed to know that the saying is faithful, reliable and worthy of acceptance by all men everywhere, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.

Even if we had no such explicit statement, his very name would assure us of his mission. "Christ" is the Greek form of the Jewish "Messiah" and tells us that this is the one so long foretold by prophets as coming to bear the sins of the world. "Jesus" is the Greek form of the Hebrew "Joshua," meaning "God is Saviour." But we are not left to an inference from his names but are plainly told that his very purpose in coming into the world was "to save sinners." He saves us, not in spite of the fact that we are sinners, but because of that very fact. We recall the man who went to good Lady Huntingdon in great distress of soul and crying, "I am lost!" "How glad I am," she replied, "for the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Wondrous Works of God.
"Stand still and consider the wondrous works of God," says the Bible. Religion will improve by getting more of nature in it, and men will improve by loving it. Says Cowper: "Nature is but a name for an effect whose cause is God." If one takes the golden rule with him he can get to heaven by following the path that leads among the flowers and the woods. This should be understood, for it purifies the heart and brings about the upward look. There is less hope for a man who does not read God's own word in his works.
