AN APPEAL
To All Republican Voters of Cayuga County.

FRANK W. HENDRICK

Logical candidate for Nomination for Sheriff of Cayuga County, on the Republican Ticket.

It is generally conceded by thoughtful Republicans that the north end of Cayuga county is entitled to the office of sheriff at this time.

The Republicans have lost the City of Auburn at National, State and county elections many times, but the 23 towns of Old Cayuga have saved the day—they have kept the county from going Democratic by rounding up a good Republican majority. For a great many years the towns have held a share of the offices of the county, as their right.
They should not be deprived of this right now. The office of sheriff rightfully belongs to the country.

The sheriff's duties are mostly in the country districts. The city has its own separate police protection, conducted by city men. It is appropriate that the office of sheriff should go to a man from the country, who is in touch with its affairs.

Mr. Hendrick is the only logical candidate and if elected will give the county an efficient administration of the affairs of the sheriff's office. He is experienced, having served as supervisor 7 years and chairman of the committee on sheriff's work for the past three years.

The Frank W. Hendrick Campaign Committee have been conducting a clean canvass without malice or mud-slinging. They appeal now to all loyal Republicans to stand by the towns and give their united support to Frank W. Hendrick of Sterling, the only candidate outside of the City of Auburn, for Sheriff at the Republican Primary on Sept. 2, 1919, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

The Frank W. Hendrick Campaign Committee.

Is the County Judgeship a Political Plum ?

¶The County Court is the main Criminal Court of this community. The County Court chiefly, enforces the laws against crime. The County Court protects the citizen against those who seek to steal his property. The County Court stands as a safeguard against those who would disturb the peace of the community, or do violence to the citizen or his family. The County Court stands as a protection to the citizen brought before it on false charges, whether instigated by the malice of an enemy, or by a temporary war of excitement in the community.

¶The ability of the County Court to so guard the community depends upon the strength and ability of the County Judge presiding. The County Judge should be a skillful and experienced lawyer, fair and judicial in temperament, of high personal character, and absolutely free from any political or other obligations.

¶It was because he had all of these qualifications that Governor Hughes, twelve years ago, appointed Hon. Hull Greenfield as County Judge of Cayuga County. For the same reasons the voters of this county, both Republican and Democratic have twice unanimously elected him to that office. To-day many of the same voters are demanding that the County Court shall continue to have the services of Judge Greenfield until he reaches the age when he is obliged by law to retire.

¶The only opposition to his re-election is the candidacy of Mr. Edgar S. Mosher in the Republican primary. Mr. Mosher concedes that Judge Greenfield has been a most satisfactory Judge, and is well qualified to continue in the office. His opposition to Judge Greenfield's renomination is based solely on the fact that he, Mr. Mosher, wants the office.

¶What do YOU want, Mr. Voter, Mrs. Voter, Miss Voter? Do you want to keep our Courts out of politics? Do you want to retain the services of an experienced Judge whose record is above criticism? Or do you want to turn him out at the most useful period of his career?

Is the County Judgeship a Political Plum?

Final Summer Cleanup

After my sale which ended on the 23rd, I find I have quite a few odd suits of each lot. Everything has been bought since May. I am bound to keep new stocks every season. I will make a still further cut in the price in order to sell them out before my fall stock comes in.

Although the goods on hand have raised in value since I bought them, I am willing to sacrifice price in order to make a clean sweep.

Big line of gents' furnishings at a special price all this month.

Every purchase you make at this present cut price will mean a big saving to you as the present prices on the same merchandise are worth a third more since I bought them. I like to see all my old friends at my store and give them the best values I can.

INDUSTRY FACES GREAT PROBLEM

Must Study New Science of "Industrial Physiology."

HEALTH SERVICE TAKES IT UP

Ask Improved Conditions for United States Factories—Keen Competition, Sure to Come, Makes It Necessary for Employer to Pay Attention to the Question of Maximum Efficiency—Conclusions Arrived at.

Readjustment has brought American industry forcibly face to face with a problem which it long has shunned and avoided, according to officials of the United States public health service. The certain keen competition, both domestic and foreign, which is to follow a settling down of business after the war, makes it necessary for the American employer to pay more attention to the question of maximum efficiency, officials assert.

As a result of the changes which officials say are bound to come, employers of labor now must give some study to the new science of "industrial physiology." Frederic S. Lee, consulting physiologist to the health service, says in a statement:

Has Two Objects.
"Industrial physiology has two objects," Lee says. "First, the purely scientific one of learning how the industrial worker actually performs his work, and, second, the practical object of establishing in the factories the conditions which conduce at the same time to the maximum of output and the maintenance of maximum power of the worker."

Pursuing its investigations on the two bases, Lee reports that the health service has arrived at some valuable informative conclusions. Among the conclusions the statement includes these:

"Overtime following a day's labor is inadvisable, as is also Sunday work following a week's labor. These tend to destroy the worker's strength and working power."

"The introduction of rest periods in the working spell is accompanied by a total increase in the day's production, especially when the working day is long."

"Reduction of excessively long working days can be sure to result in a maximum increase in the output, and usually by a total increase for the day's production."

Night Work Less Efficient.
"Night work, in general, is less efficient than day work. Its total output is less, and this, with a long working night, falls off enormously in the early morning hours. Thus, it is advised: Alternate day and night work where such is possible and where night work must be done results will be more profitable both to employer and employee."

"Women are capable of performing a much greater variety of industrial operations than has heretofore been recognized. Statistics show they are absent from their work more frequently than men."

"Accidents to workers are a grave source of inefficiency. They are traceable to fatigue, inexperience, speed of working, improper lighting, high temperature and similar causes. Diminution of preventable accidents, then, should be one of the first steps."

"Food and efficiency are directly connected with one another, and a suitable and adequate food supply probably can be best insured by industrial canteens."

"A high labor turnover is incompatible with the highest degree of efficiency. It is expensive, in that it imposes upon the employers the necessity of training new workers."

GALVESTON PLANS SAFETY Entire City May Be Raised to Ten Feet Above Sea Level.

On top of the $7,000,000 which the city of Galveston, Tex., spent since the great storm of 1910 in constructing protective sea walls and raising the grade, it is planned to expend an additional $9,000,000 in making the city still further immune from possible overflow from the Gulf of Mexico during the times of severe tropical storms.

It is a grade raising project and contemplates bringing the height of the surface of the business section of the city to about ten feet above sea level. It is a gigantic engineering undertaking and would involve the bringing in of water laden material from the gulf by dredges and pumping it into the city through long pipe lines. Many buildings would also have to be raised to conform to the new grade.

Conservatively Styled Clothing

About ninety-nine out of every one hundred clothing cuts are young men's models. The idea being to promote business amongst the young fellows by depicting new and snappy styles—all of which we have and of the best, but for fear that some of the older brothers may feel that they are not receiving the attention due them, we wish to assure them that their interests have not been lost sight of here.

We've already received some extremely good looking clothes for men who like conservative styles, in neat, handsome patterns—fabrics of excellent quality and made according to the standards we've established for Egbert Clothes.

We will be glad of the opportunity to show them to you.

BISHOP BRENT ADVOCATE OF SAVING HABIT

Head of Episcopal Church in New York Is Active in Promoting Thrift.

The Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent of the Western New York Diocese of the Episcopal Church, in addition to the multifarious duties as the head of this great religious body, finds time to engage actively in promoting the National Thrift Campaign in connection with the sale of War Savings Stamps.

According to Bishop Brent, the Thrift Movement has the hearty support of the Episcopal Church. This was evidenced at the recent annual council of the Episcopal Church in Western New York, over which Bishop Brent presided. The delegates adopted a resolution approving and recommending to the clergy and laity of the diocese the National Thrift Campaign to encourage the practice of sensible economy, safe investment and avoidance of waste in their respective communities.

Bishop Brent returned to America from France in May. He said the people of France long have been thrifty and frugal. Whereas many persons in France formerly hoarded their money for the mere sake of having it and gloating over it, the war has taught them that it is wiser to invest in Renten and small-term securities issued by the Government.

The war has taught the French that hoarding is not a profitable investment. The woolen stocking and toy savings bank is employed only as a medium for accumulating enough funds to buy a Rente or other Government security, which pay attractive rates of interest.

Bishop Brent emphasized the fact that it was the intention of the United States Government to get the people to be thrifty by purchasing what was necessary to their comfort and reasonable pleasure, and by depositing their savings either in War Savings Stamps or savings banks.
