NO HALT IN 'Y' WELFARE WORK

Will Remain With the Soldiers Throughout Demobilization.

EFFORTS OFFICIALLY PRAISED.

Women's Labors for Doughboys Receive Special Mention.

ONE of the brightest pages in the history of the thirteenth struggle which rekindled in the week of the German war is the work of the "Y" welfare organizations of the United States. And among these women workers, which labored for the benefit of our soldiers and sailors, there is no one more prominent than the "Y" women of the United States.

The "Y" women have been busy ever since the first contingent of American troops to reach the shores of Europe. In connection with the work of the "Y" women for our soldiers and sailors are to be found today, and it will continue as a welfare agent among the troops, until the last of those dismissed out of service. It was in 1917, when war was declared, that the "Y" women, under the leadership of their women's auxiliaries in Europe, began their work. It was in 1917, when war was declared, that the "Y" women, under the leadership of their women's auxiliaries in Europe, began their work.

But the period for the complete demobilization of the American fighting forces is approaching, and rapidly, and as the time nears when the war activities of the Young Men's Christian Association will no longer be necessary the praise for its work and its accomplishments from those who occupied places of authority and in exceptional positions to observe actual conditions continues to be made public.

Thomas W. Greaney, formerly Attorney General, who has just returned from France on a mission for the government, in a statement concerning the activities of the "Y" said:

"I have had an opportunity to see the work being done among the American soldiers abroad to insure their comfort. I have seen men and women who have sacrificed to give to the world the best of themselves. They are doing their duty, and they are doing it well."

THE GENOA TRIBUNE

Published every Friday and entered at the postoffice at Genoa, N. Y., as second class mail matter.

Friday Morning, July 25, 1919

Vol. XXX, No. 1, of THE TRIBUNE. This indicates that for 29 years, week after week, this sheet has been published, going into the homes of this section, where it has been read by thousands. During the past twelve years, the present editor has been its manager-in-chief.

Death of Orlando M. Avery.

Orlando Miner Avery, an esteemed resident for many years of Genoa and later of Earlville, died at his home at the latter place on Thursday evening, July 17, 1919, after a period of ill health covering several months.

The deceased was a son of Ashbel and Emeline Miner Avery and was born in Genoa, N. Y., Oct. 19, 1839. On Nov. 14, 1859, he was united in marriage to Mrs. Sarah Miller Harris at Venice, N. Y. For several years, Mr. Avery conducted a milling business in this village, going from here to Ludlowville where he engaged in the hardware business for four years. Returning to Genoa in 1874, he established the hardware business which he successfully conducted for 28 years. Having purchased a similar business in Earlville, the family removed to that town in 1902. Mr. Avery continued his active interest in the business for nine years, and then retired, though still retaining his financial interest.

Surviving are the wife, a daughter, Mrs. E. M. White of Phoenix, a son, Vance E. Avery of Earlville, and a brother and sister—Ashbel S. Avery of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. Alice Rundell of Iowa City, Ia.

Mr. Avery and family were members of the Genoa Baptist church, and after removing to Earlville transferred their membership to the Baptist church of that place, in which Mr. Avery later served as deacon. During his residence here, Mr. Avery sang in the choir of the church for many years, and was actively interested in all the work of the church, as were also the members of his family. Mr. Avery was a man of sound principles and unquestioned integrity, and merited the respect and esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. His influence was always for the best and highest interests of the town in which he lived.

On account of the serious illness of Mrs. Avery, only a brief service was held at the home in Earlville on Saturday evening at 7:30. Further services were held in the Genoa Baptist church on Sunday at 3 o'clock. The church was filled with friends and relatives of the deceased. Rev. R. A. Fargo officiated, and two appropriate selections were sung by Mrs. Mastin, Miss Mastin, and Messrs. Foster and Springer. The casket was covered with floral tributes, and there were a number of bouquets and flowerings, plants arranged about the pulpit. The bearers were Messrs. Sharpsteen, Banker, Booker, Nettleton, Hagin and Reas. Burial was made in Genoa cemetery.

Those from out-of-town present at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. White of Phoenix, Mr. and Mrs. Vance E. Avery and Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Earlville, John Snyder and Jerome Howell of Merrifield, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hoskins and Chas. A. Cannon of Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cannon of Brooklyn, Mrs. Geo. L. Miner of Rochester, Mrs. O. D. Hewitt and son of Locke.

Strong For Home Paper.

"No, I don't take the local paper any more," one farmer said to another as they were waiting at the creamery to unload their milk. "I take a daily paper, and that's all I need. It has a few items every week from our community, and I feel that I save the price by not subscribing to the home paper."

"Well, that's one way to look at it," said the other farmer, "but I've always felt that a local newspaper was a pretty valuable asset to any community, and if everybody took the attitude you do, there couldn't be any local newspaper. Of course we could not get along without our daily papers, because they keep us informed about what's going on throughout the nation and throughout the world, but when you say that they take care of our local news, I don't think you are sticking close to facts. They simply can't, and the publishers haven't any personal interest in our community the way our editor has."

"I have always felt that I got value received for every dollar I've paid out in subscriptions to the local paper, and I don't have an idea that running a country newspaper is much of a wealth-producing proposition. So long as I've got the price I intend that the rural mail carrier is going to tuck a copy of The Herald in my box every week."

Death of Dr. Whitbeck.

Dr. John W. Whitbeck died Thursday evening, July 17, 1919, at his home at Interlaken, from a paralytic shock which he suffered July 10. Funeral services were held at his late home Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with interment in Lake View cemetery, Interlaken. He is survived by a wife.

Dr. and Mrs. Whitbeck resided in Genoa several years, leaving here for Interlaken in October, 1912. He was a professional dentist, and soon after opening an office in Interlaken, he suffered a paralytic shock which incapacitated him for his work. He never regained the use of his arm, and a final stroke resulted in his death.

The deceased was born May 10, 1845, at Lock Berlin, N. Y. He enlisted on Sept. 12, 1863, at Clyde with Co. A, 9th N. Y. Heavy Artillery, and served three years. After the war, he took up the practice of dentistry, and practiced at Watkins, Auburn, Union Springs, Genoa and Interlaken.

Dr. Whitbeck was a member of the Presbyterian church of Union Springs, the G. A. R., the I. O. O. F. and F. & A. M. lodges.

Many friends and acquaintances in Genoa and vicinity will sympathize with the bereaved wife.

M. G. Shapero's Friendly Advice.

While I have taken advice of my friends in the wholesale markets and have bought early for my fall business, you surely can take my advice and buy your supply of clothing and furnishings early. What you buy now will be cheaper than thirty or sixty days from now.

We all must prepare against high prices which will surely come this fall. Besides the high prices, some goods are getting so scarce in the markets that they will never be delivered to the merchants. Therefore, as a friend's advice, call on me and look over my stock which I can show you for present, fall and winter wear.

You will surely save a great deal in cash and you will get the right goods, the best the season will have to offer.

I have clothing for all occasions, for dress and for every day.

Get in as early as you can. I will be glad to see you any time at my store, 34 North Street. I will surely save you money on every purchase you make.

—The Y. M. C. A. camp at Lake Ridge broke up the first of this week and the 60 boy campers who enjoyed the last two weeks of open air at Camp Cayuga returned to Ithaca on Monday.

—Abbott Hoff Greenleaf of Cayuga will receive a state scholarship in Cornell University as a result of having passed the competitive examination held June 7, in each county of the State.

—Bert Flatt of Conquest holds the distinction of being the first farmer in Central New York to market home grown tomatoes. Last week, he sold one-half bushel of the well developed ripe vegetable to an Auburn grocer.

—The Carman hospital of Ithaca will close its doors at the end of this month. Lack of financial profit is announced as the reason for closing. The hospital is a small private institution, accommodating about ten persons at a time.

—According to a new law in New York, drug fiends must equip themselves with registration and dosage cards, upon which are descriptions of the holders, together with their photographs. This may not cure the old ones, but it is a regulation that is bound to have a dampening effect upon those who would start along the dope road.

—The biggest and best Cayuga County fair ever held will take place Sept. 30, Oct. 1, 2, and 3 in Moravia, the fair officials say. The annual meeting of directors and stockholders was held Tuesday evening and officers for the year were elected as follows: President, George S. Cady; secretary, Willis Kilborne and treasurer, Fred A. Wheat.

—James I. Blakeslee, fourth assistant postmaster-general at Washington has filed notice of the reinstatement of Ray McCormick as carrier on one of the routes operating from the King Ferry post office. McCormick lost his position May 1 under the orders of Postmaster-General Burleson revising routes throughout Central and Northern New York.

—The many friends of Miss Florence Sisson, daughter of George M. Sisson formerly of this vicinity, are congratulating her upon her graduation from Schenectady High school where she completed a four years' course in Fine Arts in three and one-half years. Miss Sisson will leave for New York in September where she will take up the study of dress-making and costume designing.

—The young people of East Venice Grange will have charge of the next meeting on Aug. 2. The contest between the married people and the young people will begin at that time. Each side is to present ten charades, and the losers are to give a treat at the third meeting. The married people will give their charades at the meeting Aug. 16. On Aug. 30, a speaker from Cornell will be present. The next three meetings promise much entertainment and all should attend.

—It is estimated that the added cent for letter postage brought $126,000,000 into the United States treasury.

—Central New York peppermint growers will reap a harvest this year with peppermint oil selling for $12 per pound.

—The 29th annual meeting of the New York State Veterinary Medical society was held in Brooklyn on July 23, 24 and 25.

—The Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters of New York state will hold their annual sessions at Syracuse on July 28-31.

—President Wilson has been invited to be the guest of the city of Syracuse on the opening day of the State Fair, Monday, Sept. 8.

—The state convention of the W. C. T. U. will be held at Binghamton from Oct. 10 to 15, with Mrs. Ella A. Boole, state president, in charge.

—King Pontiac, famous blooded Holstein bull, was sold recently by Mrs. Helen Massena of the Pequest Stock farms, Belvidere, N. J., to E. B. Hager of Algonquin, Ill., for $100,000.

—Six Boy Scouts from Elizabeth, N. J., are spending two months in camp at Cazenovia lake. They made the trip on their bicycles, leaving home Monday morning and arriving at the lake Thursday morning.

—John Wanamaker at 81 years of age, is still in possession of his faculties and attends to business. He is one of America's greatest merchants and a firm believer in advertising which he has always practiced.

—Mike Welch, a coal miner of Canonsburg, Pa., died July 1, as the result of overdrinking the previous night. He made a wager with a companion that he could drink the most liquor before prohibition became effective.

—Yager & Halstead, Inc., have purchased the caeamery property at Interlaken and will convert it into an up-to-date evaporator. They will install a hydraulic cider press to utilize waste from the evaporator in the manufacture of vinegar.

—The wife of Rev. Seth N. Gennung, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Chittenango, died at the home of her parents at Waterloo recently as a result of an attack of influenza last fall. They were married in August of last year.

BOY SCOUTS

SCOUTS HONOR ROOSEVELT

A memorial to Theodore Roosevelt drafted by Hermann Hagedorn and adopted by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, is as follows:

He was found faithful over a few things and he was made ruler over many; he cut his own trail clean and straight and millions followed him to ward the light.

He was frail; he made himself a tower of strength. He was timid; he made himself a lion of courage. He was a dreamer; he became one of the great doers of all time.

Men put their trust in him; women found a champion in him; kings stood in awe of him; but children made him their playmate.

He broke a nation's slumber with his cry, and it rose up. He touched the eyes of blind men with a flame and gave them vision. Souls became swords through him; swords became servants of God.

He was loyal to his country, and he exacted loyalty; he loved many lands but he loved his own best.

He was terrible in battle; but gentle to the weak; joyous and tireless; being free from selfishness; clean with a cleanliness that cleansed the air like a gale.

His courtesy knew no wealth or class; his friendship, no creed or color or race. His courage stood every onslaught of savage beast and ruthless man, of loneliness, of victory, of defeat. His mind was eager, his heart was true, his body and spirit, defiant of obstacles, ready to meet what might come.

He fought injustice and tyranny; bore sorrow gallantly; loved all nature, bleak spaces and hardy companions, hazardous adventure and the zest of battle. Wherever he went he carried his own pack, and in the uttermost parts of the earth he kept his conscience for his guide.

PERUVIAN BOY SCOUTS.

The boy scout movement in Peru has made considerable progress in the three years since the first scout brigade was established. It has now extended to all the principal cities there.

The official report for the year says that the scout movement in Peru has filled a need among a people whose education is along purely intellectual lines, and efforts which tend to the development of the mental, physical and moral forces of the young are all the more necessary to make the future generation a creditable one.

The scout movement in Peru has made as much progress as private initiative will warrant. The hope is now that the government will aid in the work.

One excursion of Peru scouts, lasting 25 days, was made to the Panama canal.

THANKFUL FOR SCOUT TRAINING

From the army of occupation comes this word:

"I am in the medical corps, and we must know in regard to the handling of wounded and the first-aid work is taught in scouting first aid. I did not have the men who had been in scouting as boys and as officials. I would have been at a loss in picking men for dangerous work such as evacuating the wounded from the front line trench. Two such have been recommended for the D. S. C. Even in war they showed themselves to be true scouts. The only thing I can say is, 'Thank God for the scouts who have always been prepared.'"

And Sergt. Edward Pickering is now the only one who has expressed these sentiments.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

Boy scouts of Los Angeles, Cal., held off one day in their milk bottle drive to welcome home their big comrades from France.

The boy scouts in State College, Pa., organized and maintained a fire fighting patrol to assist the community in preventing or controlling forest fires.

Among the daily good turns reported by the boy scouts of Troop No. 1 of Albion, Okla., was recovering a stolen dog after following the thief five miles.

Boy scouts in a troop in Woodford Mo., saved the lives of two people from drowning at different times and rendered first-aid to a woman who had been knocked down by a vehicle and injured.

The beauty of Oklahoma City will be preserved, because the boy scouts are on the job. An unauthorized pruning of trees on streets or on park property will be reported to the park commissioner.

One thousand Roosevelt memorabilia trees of white Norway pine, secured from the forestry commission, were planted by boy scouts at Bauette Minn.

All that the boy scouts of Gloucester, Miss., ask is for the township to buy the lawn mower, and they'll see that the town hall grass stays well trimmed.

Torre Haute, Ind., has designated conspicuous bit of park property to become "Scout park." Here each troop will plant a Roosevelt memorial tree, while all the scouts will undertake to beautify the park.

GOOD ENOUGH TO PASS ON.

These suggestions are offered by the New York Sun:

We have not the means of verifying the estimate of the brewers that 10,000 saloons in this city go out of business here use of the executive ban on beer, but the figure is round and fascinating and suggestive.

Ten thousand bartenders are welcome in essential industry, if not in the army.

Ten thousand hardwood bars could be turned into gun-stocks, ship's furniture and picnic conference tables.

Ten thousand sets of mirrors, placed in the cementments, would add to the joy of the man putting on his first suit of olive drab.

Ten thousand brass footralls would be received by the shell factories with loud cheers.

Ten thousand groups of "private stock" bottles could be used as ketchup containers.

Ten thousand bungstarters could be adapted to shipyard use for the driving home of wooden keys. One of these interesting weapons might be sent to the Historical society.

Ten thousand slates, after careful washing, could be used in schools.

Ten thousand vacated saloons—what is the increased value, in money alone, of the buildings in which they nestled?

AS TO HOME MANUFACTURE.

Replying to the contention of the liquorists that with nationwide prohibitions private stills and kitchen barrens will spring up all over the land, the National Advocate very wisely and pertinently says:

"Proven facts as to moonshine whiskey making, and the effects of it, do not justify the public operation of distilleries and breweries. A private still to every square mile of Southern territory could not be so bad for this country as one public brewery in every county, under a law of the nation approving it and sharing its profits. Evil that is banned by law remains a thing of rebellious purpose, but it can never be so disastrous to the life of a people as an evil made lawful under the statute, and constantly corroding the character of men, the purity of their legislation, the strength of their common government."

BEER CRIMINOLOGY.

A woman physician, Dr. Mary F. Cushman, of Maine, writes as follows: "If anything has ever demonstrated the evil of beer drinking, it is surely the present war. Years ago, when specializing in mental and nervous diseases, I was taught that alienists had proved the crimes for which distilled liquors were responsible, are crimes of passion unpremeditated, and often a horror to the perpetrator when he recovers from the effects of his drink. The habitual use of malt liquors, however, so affects the moral sense as to lead to deliberate crimes, carefully planned, coolly executed, without compunction or remorse. Germany, the great beer-drinking nation, has simply illustrated this in a war conducted along the above lines of beer criminology. What does our nation want of the drink that makes men capable of the atrocities perpetrated by Germany?"

COAL PRODUCTION REDUCED BY DRINK.

In the mines of the Pittsburgh Vein Operators' Association of Ohio there was a loss of 30,000 tons in coal production on July 5 caused by liquor drinking on the Fourth of July.

The University of California has issued a bulletin which states that the wine and table grapes of California, now worth $4,000,000, would be worth $25,000,000 if prohibited liquor were excluded from the market.

Save Chautauqua Is Aim of Clubwomen of America

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, who is leading American club women in the "Save Chautauqua" campaign; Bishop John B. Vincent, who with Lewis Miller, founded Chautauqua and a view of the famous Colonnade at Chautauqua.

MORE than 2,000 clubwomen, from all parts of the United States, including over 700 members of the Chautauqua Woman's Club from Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York, have been enlisted under the leadership of Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Texas, president of the Chautauqua Woman's Club, in the "Save Chautauqua" campaign and to take an active part in the movement to perpetuate the institution.

The Chautauqua Woman's Club has members from every state in the union and from Belgium, Canada, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, England, France, Greenland, Ireland and Scotland. Pennsylvania women are particularly well represented with a membership of 283. Two hundred and nineteen New York women are members and Ohio has a membership of 202. Practically every one of these members is affiliated with one or more leading women's clubs in their home cities but most of them spend part of the summer at Chautauqua and are deeply interested in maintaining for Chautauqua its leadership as an intellectual institution.

Committees have been appointed by Mrs. Pennybacker to represent the clubwomen in the campaign for $600,000 to make Chautauqua permanently solvent and thereby secure endowments and large financial gifts which will allow of the scope of Chautauqua being broadened yearly to meet increasing demands.

Chautauqua is not a money making institution. It has no capital stock and is chartered as a corporation not for profit. A most peculiar combination of circumstances led to the piling up of a debt of $589,000. Demands for public utilities had to be met and the utilities could be paid for only by Chautauqua's gate receipts and similar sources of income. The lean war years reduced revenue and made increased expenditures necessary. The interest on the debt overbalanced by far the net revenue, which averaged $17,000 a year. Trustees and cottage owners at Chautauqua are raising $250,000; Chautauqua county is raising $100,000 and $250,000 is being sought from the general public and bondholders.

A FARMER, carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accosted by a local dealer. "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality." The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said: "Why don't you patronize your home store and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here." MORAL—ADVERTISE

HOW THE SUN CHANGES ITS RISING POINT WITH THE SEASON'S SHIFT.
The sun does not climb straight up in the sky, but obliquely. What is more, his rising point is not the same, his rising point is not the same on two succeeding days. As spring merges into summer the rising point shifts to the north. After June 21, he shifts south, so that on each day he begins his climbing a little more to the south. By December 22 he has reached his southern limit and turns back again.

Since there is a defined region on the eastern horizon along which the sun's rising point shifts in regular order and beyond which it never strays, the daily paths of the sun through the sky in the year form an unchanging, unchanging band of even width—the same band from year to year.

As you go north the sun's path slopes more and more. The band remains the same; it merely swerves up or down in the sky. Hence in the arctic regions the sun during the spring and summer months appears above the horizon, and stays there, traveling in a circle, and becomes the "Midnight Sun."

Why Onions May Be Fewer.

One of those stories that sounded like a forerunner of an advance in price came from Bermuda on the steamship Charybdis. It was that much of the crop of Easter lilies there had been destroyed by a windstorm which swept the islands on February 15. The onion crop was said to have suffered some, but the lilies most. No lilies were brought here from Bermuda last year because there was no ship to carry them, the war having taken the vessels. Watch for a rise in onions and an ascension in lilies.—New York World.

Paying War Debts.

There is no uniform rule of action regarding the payment of war debts. Some war debts have been entirely paid off, and others have been greatly reduced. In 1793, following the Revolutionary war, the public debt of the United States was $80,352,634. It was reduced year by year until 1812, when it was $45,209,737. During the war of 1812, it increased until 1816, when it was $127,834,933. Then followed a long period of steady yearly reduction till in 1835 it stood at the nominal figure of $37,512, with much more than that balance in the treasury. Circumstances brought a long period of growth in the public debt till 1868, following the Civil war, it was $2,773,296,173.

How Dog Saved Master's Life.

Dragged by his collie dog for 17 miles through a snow-covered region on the desert and mountains, Clint Crawford, a cattle puncher, known among his associates as "Doc," is still alive. Thrown by his horse Crawford's shoulder was shattered. He was delirious and remembers only intervals of the struggle against death as he staggered along through the snow. Being exhausted, he would have frozen to death in a few hours, but was aroused by his dog. Time after time Crawford sank down in his delirium and was giving up the fight. Each time the collie roused him with scratches from his paws and by biting him, and then led the way across the unmarked snow toward help. After eleven hours the dog took Crawford to the Rose mine, where Crawford received medical aid.

How Bird Fired Own Nest.

A sparrow, though not supposed to be a "snipe shooter," picked up a burning cigarette stub thrown down by a man and flew away with it to its nest in the awning of a Lorain, Ohio, shoe store. The owner of the store C. J. Reising, saw smoke curl up from the nest a few minutes later. He reached up and pulled down a burning nest—just as the flames were about to ignite the awning.

FORCED TO BECOME MEXICAN BUILT TO SUBDUCE PLAGUES

How Freak of the Rio Grande Caused Texan Farmer to Move Into Carranza's Land.

One of the most remarkable cases of kidnaping ever known in the lower border region of Texas has come to the attention of the United States and Mexican authorities. Jose Cantu, a peaceful land owner and valley farmer, who has lived all his life in Texas, was bodily transferred to Mexico by a recent rise in the Rio Grande. Along with him went 400 acres of his most productive land and many head of live stock. Under past decisions of the international boundary commission the center of the bed of the Rio Grande is the dividing line between the United States and Mexico. This shifting of the course of the erratic river places Mr. Cantu and much of his property on the Mexico side of the stream and, according to the Mexican authorities, he is now amenable to the laws and taxes of that country. Upon Mr. Cantu's transplanted farm are a number of homes of employees who were also American voters until the river changed its course.

For several years the Rio Grande had been threatening to divert its bed to a new route. With each succeeding flood it cut a deeper channel until it has now practically abandoned its old bed and is flowing through the farm of Mr. Cantu, with more than 400 acres of his cultivated land on the Mexican side. To further complicate matters the Mexican customs authorities are insisting that Mr. Cantu shall pay duty on his live stock and other property that have found their way to that country by no consent of his.

A. P. Corbin, consulting engineer of the international boundary commission, has found that the stream changed its bed at other places but without involving the transfer of much real estate from one country to the other.—Hidalgo (Tex.) Correspondence in New York Sun.

How the "Bonfire," as We Know It Today, Has Changed in Course of Centuries.

The word bonfire was originally "bonifire" and the earliest mention of the word is to be found in the "Catholicon Angelicum," A. D. 1483, where it is termed "banefyre, ignis ossium," that is, a fire of bones. In its earliest stage the bonfire was a funeral pyre; next a fire lighted to consume heretical or forbidden books, etc., and then, in most of the European nations, a fire kindled in the time of pestilence among men and cattle to drive away the disease, when it was called "need-fire." Later, the kindling of such fires, with many traditional ceremonies became a regular part of the observances of the night before the festival of St. John the Baptist or Midsummer day—still with the ancient idea of driving away plague and evil spirits. The casting of effigies into the flames, still observed in some places, seems to point to a survival of ancient propitiatory sacrifices. It is quite likely that all these ceremonial observances are relics of pagan worship of the heavenly bodies modified by the introduction of Christianity. The church, as in many other instances, preferred to adopt and consecrate what would have been almost impossible to suppress; thus the inclusion in the Catholic Easter ceremonies of the blessing of the new fire and the custom in the Russian church of carrying lighted tapers on that festival may be related to the customs of the "Oesterfeuer" among the Teutonic nations, which originally was probably celebrated on the first of May. Hence today any great blazing fire made in the open air for amusement, or for the burning of brushwood, weeds or rubbish, is termed a bonfire. When such a fire is lighted in some open and conspicuous place, as a hilltop or public square, it is usually kindled as an expression of public joy or exultation, or as a beacon, and is, however, still called a bonfire.

To The Voters of Cayuga County:

It is being carefully circulated in Mr. Mosher's behalf that the successor to Judge Greenfield---if the latter be re-elected County Judge---will be appointed by Governor Smith, or elected at a special election in 1920. This mistake is inexcusable.

Judge Greenfield becomes seventy years of age in 1920, therefore his new term of office would expire December 31, 1920, at midnight as provided in Section 15 of Article 6 of the State Constitution.

His successor would not be appointed by Governor Smith, nor elected at a special election because his term of office expiring at that date, his successor would be elected at the general election to be held in November, 1920, and would be nominated at the primaries to be held in September, 1920, as in the case of all other officers whose terms expire on the same date.

Famous Cabbage Case.

The famous case of Joseph Dobbins of Homer against the Lackawanna railroad, begun years and years ago over a carload of cabbage, was decided last week by the court of appeals in favor of Mr. Dobbins.

The case was first tried in Cortland county, Dobbins winning and the railroad company kept appealing till it reached the highest court, where the verdict of the appellate division of $461.50 damages and costs is affirmed.

Plenty of Coffee.

Capt. Francisco Nesciemento of the Brazilian liner Uberaba, in recently from Brazilian ports with 30,000 bags of coffee, said that the report that coffee was going to be a dollar a pound was absurd. He said his country had raised more coffee than ever before and that it was lying in bags on the docks going to waste for want of steamships to take it away. The best grades of coffee could be bought in Rio at 10 cents a pound and three pounds for a quarter. He advised Americans to send steamships down to Brazil and grab the coffee.—New York Sun.

Rejected For Tuberculosis.

3,411 men called for military service in New York State, outside New York City, were rejected by local draft boards because of tuberculosis, according to an announcement made Tuesday by the Tuberculosis Committee of the State Charities' Aid association. The names but not the addresses of these men have just become available and steps are being taken by the association, in conjunction with the State Department of Health, for placing them under the care and assistance of local health authorities and tuberculosis societies.

"From the standpoint of practical patriotism as well as the conservation of life, health and vitality," states the announcement, "it is the duty of citizens who know the whereabouts of such men to furnish this information in order that they may be brought under treatment in tuberculosis hospitals or sanatoria or under medical and nursing care in their homes."
