FACTS OF MOST IMPORTANCE

Those Which Tell Best About Past and Future States of Object, Asserts Ruskin.

It ought further to be observed respecting truths in general, that those are always most valuable which are most historical, that is, which tell us most about the past and future states of the object to which they belong. In a tree, for instance, it is more important to give the appearance of energy and elasticity in the limbs which is indicative of growth and life, than any particular character of leaf or texture of bough. It is more important that we should feel that the uppermost sprays are creeping higher and higher into the sky, and be impressed with the current of life and motion which is animating every fibre than that we should know the exact pitch of relief with which those fibres are thrown out against the sky. For the first truths tell us tales about the tree, about what it has been, and will be, while the last are characteristic of it only in its present state, and are in no way talkative about themselves. Talkative facts are always more interesting and more important than silent ones. So, again, the lines in a crag which mark its stratification, and how it has been washed and rounded by water, or twisted and drawn out in fire, are more important, because they tell more than the stains of the lichens, which change year by year, and the accidental fissures of front or decomposition; not but that both of these are historical, but historical in a less distinct manner, and for shorter periods.—Ruskin.

Through the utilization of natural gas in Hungary and Siebenburgen, discovered shortly before the war, it is hoped that certain Hungarian towns and industrial districts may be entirely independent of coal. The total natural gas found in Siebenburgen only is estimated at about 215,000,000,000 cubic meters (1 cubic meter equalling 35.3 cubic feet).

GAVE TITLE TO RED CROSS

Indianapolis Man Found Pleasure in Putting His Contribution on a Business Basis.

He was a little old man, clad in the garb of a workingman. He stood back from the canteen information booth at the Union station and waited until the Red Cross women had checked the baggage of a group of men just back from overseas. Then he eased up to the desk and thrusting his arm quickly forward, laid a $20 bill in the hand of one of the attendants. "Take $16.00 out of that," the old man said in a whisper. "What for?" the canteener asked. "It's my tithe," he answered. "Take $16.00 out of it. I must be going." "May I ask you who you are and why you give your money in this way?" "It doesn't matter who I am. I am just me. The money I'm giving is my tithe to the Red Cross and it makes me happy to give it. It really is $16.00, but you won't want to bother with pennies." The canteener gave him his change and placed the money in the donation box under the counter. He disappeared in the crowd in the Union station. A few minutes later another canteener arrived. She was told of the incident. "Yes, he comes regularly each month and leaves his tithe," she said, "but he won't tell who he is. He seems to enjoy giving to the Red Cross in this quiet way and always wears a smile of satisfaction after he has done it. He seems so happy when he turns to walk away."—Indianapolis News.

Enormous Sea-Going Raft.

While log rafts are by no means new, the huge raft recently constructed at Haparanda, Sweden, and used to ship a large number of logs to Copenhagen, Denmark, is worthy of passing mention. The great raft measures 387 feet long, 55½ feet wide, 10 feet above the waterline and 18½ feet below. The raft took six months to build and contains as much wood as four big steamers. It is held together by an ingenious system of steel cables and wires, and is capable of carrying a large amount of material. The crew consists of seven men.

A New Star.

Martha, the 5-year-old daughter of W. M. Hedrick, court reporter under Judge Louis B. Ewbank, of the Marion Circuit court, listened attentively to her older sister's argument to be taken to see the second instalment of "The Cannibals," and also Catherine's emphasizing of the fact that Douglas Fairbanks was an additional attraction. After a slight pause, Martha pleaded: "And papa, won't you please take me to see Judge Ewbank, too?"—Indianapolis News.

Jerusalem Free From Mosquitoes.

Jerusalem has been freed from the mosquito pest, it is announced by the Zionist organization, through the efforts of an American sanitarian, Louis Cantor, who is a member of the American Zionist medical unit which is now operating in Palestine. The city is now practically rid of these carriers of typhoid and malaria. During Mr. Cantor's campaign 350 cisterns were petriolized and put in sanitary condition.

Come Out of Lane of Disappointment and Depression.

LUCK IS A LARGE FACTOR

Story of "Comeback" is Told by Richard Spillane—Hardly a Property Over Which Goulds One Time Held Sway but Went to Disaster—Now From Out of Western Waste Comes Mighty Golden Shower to Goulds.

Among the many old saws is the one that it is a long lane that has no turning. The Goulds have come out from the lane of disappointment, defeat and depression into the highway of big profits and bigger promise, writes Richard Spillane in the Chicago Post.

Queer is the history of the Goulds. Old Jay Gould rose from a peddler of mousetraps to be the greatest manipulator Wall Street ever has known. He died leaving a fortune of $70,000,000 and a record without one constructive act and many of destruction.

George J. Gould testified some six or eight years ago after his father's death that the Gould fortune, instead of being decreased, as generally supposed, had been increased up to that time.

There can be no doubt, however, as to what happened later. The millions melted. Hardly a property over which the Goulds held sway but went to disaster.

Look at a partial list of those that went bankrupt: The Missouri Pacific, Denver and Rio Grande, Wabash, St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern, Texas and Pacific and Western Pacific.

Saved by Absorption. But for its absorption by the American Telephone and Telegraph it was inevitable the Western Union would have followed the others. Only the Manhattan "L" in New York continued to prosper.

George J. Gould and the various other Goulds dropped out of the directories of many corporations and, gradually, came to be numbered among the has-beens.

And now from out of the western wastes comes a mighty golden shower to the Goulds.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad company never has earned a dividend. It has been a waif and a stray and a worry for lo! these many years.

To every great corporation there are pendant little corporations. So it happens that to the Texas and Pacific there is a Texas and Pacific Coal company. This concern has certain land rights which were taken over by it to develop, for there is some coal in north Texas. This Texas and Pacific Coal company dates back to 1888. It never amounted to much until they struck oil in north Texas. Now the lands of the company are pock-marked with oil holes. The shares of the Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil company (they've added oil to the title) are quoted above $2,100 a share, this despite the fact that the capitalization has been increased $1,000,000 on three occasions within a comparatively short time. The new capital has gone to the old stockholders at $100 a share.

Had Texas and Pacific in Junk Box.

The Goulds had T. & P. coal shares in their strongboxes along with no ends of stuff of little or no worth of other Gould properties that went to ruin. Now these certificates of the T. & P. have an amazing value. How much of the $5,000,000 outstanding the family owns is not known outside a select circle.

They couldn't sell their shares at $2,100 a piece. That is the asked price. But it is the confident belief that before the coal and the oil on the lands controlled by the company peter out there will be profits in excess of $100,000,000, or several hundreds of millions to divide among the shareholders.

The Goulds have "come back" by a freak of fortune.

REFUSED TO QUIT NAVY

Yeoman Objected to Be Bothered With News of Big Fortune.

A fortune valued at $2,000,000 has not lured Miss Bettie Fisher, a yeoman in Uncle Sam's navy, from her desk in Washington. She has announced that she will stay on the job until her work has been completed.

Miss Fisher was busily engaged in her office when an Oklahoma attorney called and notified her that she had been left the entire estate of her uncle, John Patrick McGowan of Meridian, Okla. He told the yeoman that all she had to do was to sign some papers.

"I can't be bothered about signing any papers now," said the millionaire's daughter. "The yeomen are scheduled to parade and be reviewed this afternoon, and I can't let any legal matters stand in the way."

After the parade that afternoon Miss Fisher signed the papers, then returned to her duties at the navy department.

Mother Dies of Joy at Seeing Son. Overcome at the sight of her son, Fremont, who returned home unexpectedly after serving in the navy, Mrs. Lillian S. Hanson, forty-five years old, of Springfield, Mass., died almost immediately.

STEEL PROPELLER FOR USE ON AIRPLANES

Prof. Morgan Brooks of University of Illinois Develops New Device.

Morgan Brooks, professor of electrical engineering at the University of Illinois, has developed a practically noiseless, high-speed, steel airplane propeller, intended for direct connection with the highest speed gasoline engine, according to announcement at Urbana, Ill.

A considerable loss of power is now endured in the reduction speed gear used in all but the smallest airplanes, as airplane engines have a normal speed greater than the two-blade wooden propeller can stand.

This was of special interest to Brig. Gen. L. E. O. Charlton, air attaché to the British embassy at Washington, who saw the models tested at the university recently.

"The laws of air dynamics are sufficiently well known to make a test of a model almost conclusive as to the results to be expected from a full-sized propeller," Professor Brooks said. "At the same speed the thrust or pull of a propeller varies with the fourth power of a dimension, therefore the pull of five pounds found on test of an 18-inch model indicates a pull of 80 pounds of a propeller of 36 inches in diameter. The test was made below standard speed, so a normal thrust would be obtained for a practice plane with only 36 inches diameter, as compared to the 8-foot spread of the planes used in Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill."

The particular advantage of a small diameter would be the lifting of the landing wheels to a position much nearer the center of gravity axis, thus making a poor landing much safer from avoidance of headers, not uncommon with the present type of planes, Professor Brooks said.

FORMER NEWSPAPERMAN DECORATED BY DANIELS

Decorations are getting to be an every day occurrence in Washington these days. This photo shows Secretary of Navy Daniels pinning the distinguished service medal on Maj. Geo. K. Shuler of the marine corps, a former Washington newspaperman. Major Shuler also won the French cross of war and legion of honor.

SAW OWN TOMBSTONE

Maine Soldier With Canadians Read His Name There.

Wilford G. Oakes of Patten, Me., who returned home after a remarkable record of service in a Canadian artillery regiment, had the experience, near Cambrai, of viewing his own grave, with his name inscribed on a rude slab over the last resting place. He took a snapshot of the grave as a souvenir.

Oakes was severely wounded several times. In one battle when he was wounded he lost his identification card. His jaws were shot away, making it impossible for him to communicate his identity, and as he was missing from his company his death was finally reported. Some other soldier was buried under his name.

A surgical operation gave him new jawbones, and today one has to examine his face carefully to find the scars.

When young Oakes enlisted in 1914 he was seventeen, but his discharge papers give his age as twenty-five years. This is because he was so anxious to enlist that he raised his age. Oakes has been cited for bravery and has received a medal of honor.

Town to Discard Telephones.

At a mass meeting at Marcelline, Mo., 30 per cent of the telephone subscribers of the town entered into an agreement to discontinue their telephones while the increased rates are in effect.

Army Knit Goods Will Be Exported.

The entire stock of surplus knit goods held by the war department will be offered for sale for export purposes. Most of the stock is in the form of underwear.

Object of the Foundation.

The spirit underlying the work of the Foundation is thus described by Dr. Vincent:

"The activities of the Foundation are consistent parts of a unified program which is dominated by a purpose to promote the general aim of the Foundation as expressed in its charter: 'The Welfare of Mankind throughout the World.'"

"With the coming of peace the nations are making an effort to come into closer relations of understanding and good will. Gradually more normal conditions of intercourse will be re-established. Restrictions upon travel and commerce will be relaxed.

"There will be an exchange not only of commodities, but of ideas. Each country will be urged to contribute its best achievements to a common fund upon which all lands may draw. In this commerce of culture, science, sympathy and idealism the Rockefeller Foundation desires to put its policies, personnel and resources at the service of the world."

The members of the Rockefeller Foundation during 1918 were as follows:

- Wallace Buttrick, Simon Flexner, Harry E. Fosdick, Frederick T. Gates, A. Barton Hepburn, Charles E. Hughes, Harry Pratt Judson, Starr J. Murphy, John D. Rockefeller, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Wickliffe Rose, Julius Rosenwald, Martin A. Ryerson, Frederick Strauss, George E. Vincent, president, and Edwin K. Embree, secretary.

An Urgent Celebration

By Willis Brooks.

My father was Marshal one Fourth of July,
And made a long-lasting impression,
With his sash and his sword and a plume waving high,
As he gallantly rode a gay thoroughbred by
At the head of the gorgeous procession.

In a garlanded chariot next to the band
My mother was Liberty's Goddess;
With a cap on her head and a sword in her hand,
Bagged in the stripes of our glorious land,
Set off with a star-spangled bodice;

You see, this was ever so long, long ago—
Before they were known to each other;
And, of course, since he wasn't so much as her beau,
Neither one of them had any reason to know
That they were my father and mother.

Now the Marshal, you know, is expected to ride
Up and down the whole length of the column;
And the Goddess is always supposed to preside
As the guardian of Freedom, America's pride,
With a dignity stately and solemn.

For a Marshal is one who's appointed to see
That the marchers are all in their stations;
And a Goddess, of course, is expected to be
So far above earthly enticements that she
Will indulge in no human flirtations.

But I've heard people say 'twas the talk of the town
That this Marshal was so patriotic
He pranced and cavorted his steed up and down
Within sight of the red, white and blue of that gown
As if held there by fetters despotic.

And that Goddess, I'm told, without turning her head,
Saw each of these purposeful prances,
And reflected her colors from cheeks blushing red
Under temples of white; and her eyes, it is said,
Were bright with the blue of her glances.

So, that's how it comes that the Fourth of July
Provokes me to glad celebration.
If the Marshal and Goddess had let it go by
And taken no part, who the dickens would I
Have been in the scheme of Creation?

DESIGNED FAMOUS OLD HALL

Philadelphia Lawyer Architect of Building Where Immortal Declaration Was Signed.

Independence hall stands not only as the place of rest for the Liberty bell, but as the old Pennsylvania statehouse, and the building wherein the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, with John Hancock at its head. It is still in excellent preservation, and its quaint red and white front and brick belfry give it an air of romance and antiquity.

For many years it was unknown who was the designer of the old statehouse, now better known as Independence Hall.

Independence Hall.

But the discovery about forty years ago of the identical design, now in the Pennsylvania Historical society's collection, set the question at rest.

It was none other than Andrew Hamilton, who not only held high office in the province, but as a lawyer made the reputation of the Philadelphia bar. This was accomplished when he was invited to New York to defend the printer, Zenger, and contended successfully for the liberty of the press, the first time the subject had been settled in a court of law in this country.

Nation's Great Destiny.

Our country is a fact so vast, so tremendous in its import and bearings, that the mind can hardly grasp it. It reminds us of the Almighty. It suggests omnipotence.

And yet it may be truthfully said that the nation has scarcely begun its career. Great as it is, it is but an infant compared with what it is destined to become.—Rev. T. B. Gregory.

STANDS FOR ALL TIME

Famous Phrase of Thomas Jefferson as True in This Year 1919 as in 1776.

"GOVERNMENTS are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." This famous phrase was written by Thomas Jefferson, in the preamble to the Declaration, on July 4, 1776.

"Mr. Jefferson," wrote John Adams in his autobiography, referring to the events of 1776, "had been now about a year a member of congress, but had attended his duty in the house a small part of the time, and, when there, had never spoken in public. During the whole time I sat with him in congress I never heard him utter three sentences together. It will naturally be inquired how it happened that he was appointed on a committee of such importance. Mr. Jefferson had the reputation of a masterly pen."

The committee which was appointed to prepare the Declaration consisted of Benjamin Franklin, aged seventy; Roger Sherman, fifty-five; John Adams, forty; Thomas Jefferson, thirty-three, and Robert E. Livingston, twenty-nine. Franklin was the patriarch of this immortal body, and Jefferson and Livingston were both young men, with their lives practically before them.

"I gave Jefferson my vote for chairman of the committee," said Adams, "and did all in my power to secure the votes of others. I think he had one more vote than any other, and that placed him at the head of the committee. I had the next highest number, and that placed me second."

"A committee was appointed to prepare a 'Declaration of Independence' wrote Jefferson in his notes. "The committee was J. Adams, Doctor Franklin, Roger Sherman, Robert E. Livingston and myself. . . . The committee for drafting the Declaration desired me to do it. It was accordingly done, and, before approved by, and that placed me second."

Thomas Jefferson.

Independence hall stands not only as the place of rest for the Liberty bell, but as the old Pennsylvania statehouse, and the building wherein the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776, with John Hancock at its head. It is still in excellent preservation, and its quaint red and white front and brick belfry give it an air of romance and antiquity.

Continents' Dark Days.

In the first part of the Revolution the states were taxed to provide money for feeding the army, but later they were required to send the food itself instead of money. It was then that things were at the lowest ebb for the Continental armies.

The couple stood in a bower of pink roses and daisies during the ceremony.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white georgette with veil and she carried bride's roses. Miss Beatrice Wheeler, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and she wore pink liberty satin and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by S. W. Palmer of Moravia. Little Blanche Goodspeed was flower girl and Jack Hellier was ring bearer.

The house was transformed into a rose bower and quantities of pink and white roses were used in the decorations. The dining room was a mass of roses and the bride's table was decorated with pink roses and white satin ribbon. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out effectively.

Selection by the commission of the lake shore route along Ontario from the proposed transcontinental road from Portland, Me., to the Pacific coast, means the improvement of one of the finest roadways in that section of the country.

The New York State Woman's Land army has asked to place 80 land army units this summer. As this is the height of the season, over 1,000 workers are wanted throughout the state by July 1. The demand from the farmers is most urgent. They need labor and have waited until now, believing that the soldiers were coming out on the farms. As this is not the case a general call has been issued to women and girls to fill the vacancies.

The time and activities of the officials of the farm bureaus of Allegany, Cattaraugus and Chautauqua counties have been rather suddenly diverted from routine work to meet a crop danger that has quite suddenly made its appearance over a wide area in their territory. In scientific terms the growing solarium tuberosus in many localities are being ravaged by legions of cantharis vittata. In other and commonplace terms the potato patches are being badly injured by potato flies of bugs as they are more commonly called.

The convention at Albany of sealers of weights and measures of New York state was given a jolt by F. S. Holbrook of the state department of weights and measures. In examining coal mine scales, Mr. Holbrook declared, he found some scales to be cheating the buyers by as much as 700 pounds to a ton. Congress recently made an appropriation to conduct an investigation of this condition and it will soon be remedied, he said.

An extension from July 1 to Aug. 1 for payment of the state corporation income tax is announced by the state banking department.

State Conservation Commissioner Pratt, while visiting the Saratoga mineral springs reservation, announced that large tracts of land recently purchased at The Geysers, adjoining property already owned by the state, have been bought by him personally until such time as the state may be in a position financially to acquire title to the land and provide for the construction of a large bathhouse, and other essentials of a "cure" resort nodded after those of Europe. The commissioner said that such development of the state reservation has been planned by the conservation department for a long time.

Old Blue Bell Tavern, Near Philadelphia, Is Famous Revolutionary Relic.

OF THE several far-extended roads reaching outward from Philadelphia, the Darby road leading along the highland southward to Chester has, from the beginning, been of the most importance in our periods of war. Strictly considered, the road to Chester is not a highway. It is maintained as a turnpike under the control of a company which exacts a rate of toll which yields an income. It is stated, nearly equal to the capital stock involved.

There is testimony that the first float bridge spanning the Schuylkill river was built on this road at Gray's ferry under the direction of Gen. Israel Putnam. It was removed a few months later to keep the British out of Philadelphia. Captain Montross's clever engineers, however, replaced it, and the new bridge was more serviceable than the old one. There was plenty of going and coming at Gray's ferry in the winter of Valley Forge, as a considerable portion of Howe's army was "hunted," as Maj. John Andre recorded in his diary, along the Darby road for three miles. When the British withdrew from Philadelphia, in June, 1778, they destroyed the float bridges.

In April, 1789, the Gray's ferry float bridge was decorated in honor of the journey of Washington to New York.

At the foot of the hill, close by Cobb's creek, a border stream of the city, is the "Blue Bell" of Paschalville, now happily saved and safe upon park soil of the municipality. The original bridge across the creek was built about forty years before the Revolution. At that time a very old grist mill, which had been built by the Swedish Governor Printz, stood beside the creek. It is said to have been the first mill operated in Pennsylvania. In Penn's time it was acquired by William Cobb, hence the name of the stream. The original Blue Bell tavern was a small wooden building, but the existing structure antedates the Revolution, at which time it was a popular stage house conducted by the Paschal family. Robert Morton, a youth of Philadelphia, wrote in his diary under date of November, 1777:

"This evening Lord Cornwallis with 2,500 men marched over the bridge at the middle ferry. With the intentions, as supposed, to attack the fort at Red Bank."

The next morning, while on their march toward Darby, an American picket, concealed in the Blue Bell, fired upon the advance and killed two grenadiers. Five of the Americans were bayoneted in the tavern.

Great Patriot's Worthy Life.

Patrick Henry retired from office, a popular man, but a tired one, and went to live on a new estate, called Leatherwood, consisting of 10,000 acres. The people were not willing that he should live a quiet life and elected him governor again in 1784, after which he practiced law and won great renown as a criminal lawyer.

He died very peacefully at Red Hill in 1799, taking great comfort in the Christian religion, which throughout his life had given him not only comfort but courage and hope.

One Country.

After all, One country, brethren! We must rise or fall With the supreme republic. We must be

The makers of her immortality— Her freedom, fame, Her glory or her shame, Liegemen to God and fathers of the free!

After all— Hark! From the heights the clean, strong clarion call And the command imperious: "Stand forth Sons of the South and brothers of the North!

Stand forth and be— As on soil and sea— Your country's honor more than empire's worth!"

After all, 'Tis Freedom wears the loveliest coronal. Her brow in to the morning; in the noon She breathes the breath of patriots; every clod

HOW CHARACTER IS JUDGED BY SHAPE OF YOUR FRIEND'S HAND.

—Hands are good mediums by which to judge the character of their owners. As a rule the man who has a taste for science has a big hand, and a bony one. He carries it loosely on his wrist. It is not a beautiful hand, as an artist counts beauty; but it is true that mere beauty does not often go with the very highest character.

The man who possesses this large, angular, knobby, capacious hand never tells a lie. Moreover, he will not pass a misstatement or an exaggeration. It is this exactitude which makes him a scientist, even if his opportunities have never allowed him to study.

If the hand is not only large, but, instead of being knobby and angular, is smooth and inclined to be fat, it belongs to quite another kind of person.

You will see that kind of hand belonging to the well-contented person opposite you at a public dinner, who is always calling for the wine list, and scanning the menu, for fear he may be inadvertently missing something good.

The big, smooth hand is capacious. It is apt to be rapacious. It is the hand of mammon.

MAY RESUME OLD POSITION

Why Mosul, as a Consequence of War, Expects to Regain Her Commercial Importance.

Mosul, the capital of the Turkish vilayet of the same name, once the thriving center of Mesopotamian trade, now exhibiting all the signs of decay, forsook a brilliant revival of her commercial activity owing to her advantageous position on the famous projected railroad line from Constantinople to the Persian gulf. At present the falling off of her trade, so far-reaching during the middle ages, when the name of the city was given to one of her chief products, muslin, has been made up to her, in some measure, by greater picturesqueness of aspect. Here, indeed, is the very heart of the Orient: Mosul, with its narrow, crooked streets, swarming with a population decked out in all manner of gaudy misfit; its curious-looking coffee houses; its vociferous bazaars; its great mosque of Jami el Kebr. The highways from Aleppo, from North and West Persia and from Bagdad meet at Mosul; and though today her trade is a mere shadow of that which made her great in the past, and of that which the future has in store for her, she remains a collecting and distributing center, and heavily laden caravans may be seen daily wending their measured way toward the Mesopotamian desert and Kurdistan.

How "Speed Fiend" Was Cured.

After he had knocked down and run over the form of a child, a chauffeur, terror-stricken, leaped from his automobile in Pittsburgh, one night recently and rushed to where the "body" was lying. He discovered that it was a dummy. Children in that district are unable to play in Laramie avenue because of reckless autoists, and one of them said they were making an effort to cure drivers of exceeding the speed limit.

When the automobile first was seen running at a terrific speed, the children stood on the sidewalk and cried: "Get out of the street!" The chauffeur sounded his horn, but did not slacken speed. When close to the object he applied the emergency brake, which caused the machine to skid into the "child," knocking it down and running over it, while three other occupants of the car screamed, under the impression that a child had been killed.

How Our Aviators Made Good.

Reports from the aviation section of our armies abroad indicate that 39 aero squadrons were in service at the time the armistice was signed. Eight different schools had been established and were training 3,800 officers and 11,000 men.

The official record of combat is that American aviators brought down 491 confirmed and 364 unconfirmed enemy planes, a total of 845. The losses were 271 planes. Eighty-two enemy balloons were shot down and 45 American balloons were lost to the enemy.

How a Letter Wandered.

The army post office authorities have often been denounced, but says Pail Mall Gazette, an envelope which has just come into our possession could very well be produced as evidence on the other side. It was addressed to a gunner in the R. G. A. in February last, and has since then followed the man into the field and through many camps and hospitals. There was not one-eighth of an inch of the envelope unmarked when it reached the addressee.

How Countries Will Be United.

That man's voice will carry across the Atlantic before man flies that distance was the prediction made here by Godfrey Isaacs, managing director of Marconi's world embracing radio system.

"I believe that a wireless telephone conversation between England and America will be a matter of the very near future," he said. "It is now a matter of principle to be solved before the transatlantic telephone is accom-

The Strongest Argument for Christianity

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE
Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT—Thou hast fully known my manner of life.—2 Tim. 3:10.

The strongest argument for Christianity is a Godly life. There is about it something that is well-nigh irresistible. Daniel says, "The people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits," but it is only the pure in heart who can know God.

A few years ago a young Japanese came to the study of Dr. Leighton Parks of Boston and desired an interview. The conversation that followed was something like this:

"Sir, can you tell me about the beautiful life?"

Doctor Parks answered, "Do you wish to talk with me about religion?"

"No, sir; I merely wish to inquire about the beautiful life."

"Have you ever read the Bible?"

"Yes, I have read it some, but I do not like your Bible."

"Have you ever attended church services?"

"Yes, I have been to church two or three times, but I do not like the church. I am trying to find the beautiful life. I notice that many of your American people lie and cheat and do mean things like the Japanese, and yet you are all Christians. No, I do not think it is your religion; but there is something that I want. I do not know what it is, but I call it the beautiful life."

"Where did you hear about it?"

asked Doctor Parks.

"I never heard about it at all, but I saw it first in San Francisco. I spent three weeks in a boarding house with an old man who had it. He was not an educated man like myself. I have studied at our Japanese universities, and I am now studying at one of your greatest American universities. But this man I speak of was uneducated and very humble. He was a poor man, but there was something inexpressibly beautiful about his life. He was always helping others; he never seemed to think of himself at all; but he was always going about doing good to others. I had always thought that there might be something of the kind in the world, but I had never seen it. Since then I have seen a few others who had it in some of your American homes. I do not think it is your religion, for all do not seem to have it."

Doctor Parks opened his Bible to 1 Cor. 13, and read to him Paul's wonderful description of the love that faileth not.

"Is that what you are looking for?" he inquired.

"Yes, I think perhaps it is. At all events, it sounds like it. But, sir, can you tell me how to get it? I must have it at any cost."

Then Doctor Parks told him the story of Jesus, and gave him a New Testament, and sent him away, telling him that he must study it and pray that light might be given him to live this beautiful life.

Doctor Parks heard nothing from the Japanese for a year or two, but finally received a letter from him, saying that he had been called back to his country to fill an important position; but he had something to tell him, and wished to see him.

When the Japanese arrived, he was in a great hurry; and, drawing out his watch, he said, "My train starts for San Francisco at two o'clock, where I take the steamer for Japan; but I want to tell you that I have found the beautiful life, I have found Jesus Christ."

The Japanese thought it was not the Christian religion that he was seeking, because most of the Christians he saw did not seem to possess the beautiful life; and yet every life that is hid with Christ in God ought to be winsome and beautiful.

A few years ago a student at the Moody Bible Institute worked his passage to England on a cattle steamer for the express purpose of leading his brother to Christ. He resolved that he would not introduce the subject of religion at first, but would see what could be accomplished by a Christlike life. He had not been there long before his brother said to him: "Frank, what has come over you since you left home? You are so different from what you used to be! Whatever it is, I want it. Now tell me how to get it." With this introduction, it was an easy task, of course, to lead his brother to Christ.

The Great Rule of Equity.

We set up for reformers, declaim at the wickedness of the age, and are all for suppressing and punishing it by vigorous laws; and yet are unwilling that any check or restraint should be put upon our own freedoms. This shows how far we are from observing that great rule of equity, the loving our neighbor as ourselves; and from meting out to others the same measure which we are content should be measured to us again.—Thomas a

WHEN PATRIOT SPOKE

Ringed Words of Patrick Henry
Are Enshrined in Hearts of All Free Men.

"I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

THESE were the ringing, closing words of Patrick Henry on March 23, 1776, as he delivered his immortal and eloquent address in support of the resolutions passed by the second revolutionary convention of Virginia, of which he was an honored delegate.

For six months the various colonies had been making military preparations. Lord Dunmore in Virginia wrote in December, 1774, to the earl of Dartmouth:

"Every county is now arming a company of men, whom they call an independent company for the avowed purpose of protecting their committees and to be employed against the government if occasion require."

When the movement for a well-regulated militia, referred to above, was

Patrick Henry.

Introduced in the revolutionary congress in Virginia, it met some opposition, not because it was premature, but because Patrick Henry came out more boldly for war than anyone in the colonies had done before that time.

Nearly fifty years later Thomas Jefferson said: "After all, it must be allowed that Patrick Henry was our leader in the measures of the resolutions in Virginia, and in that respect more is due to him than to any other person. . . . He left us all behind."

John Roane, who heard Patrick Henry's famous speech described it to Edward Fontaine in 1834, and this manuscript is in the library of Cornell University:

"You remember, sir, the conclusion of the speech, so often declaimed in various ways by schoolboys—'Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death!' He gave each of these words a meaning which is not conveyed by the reading or delivery of them in the ordinary way.

"After a solemn pause, he raised his eyes and chained hands toward heaven, and prayed, in words and tones which thrilled every heart, 'Forbid it, Almighty God!' He then turned toward the timid loyalists of the house, who were quaking with terror at the idea of the consequences of participating in proceedings which would be visited with the penalties of treason by the British crown; and he slowly bent his form yet nearer to the earth, and said: 'I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death!'

"Continuing, he lifted one hand firmly, as if holding a dagger with the point aimed at his breast. He stood like a Roman senator defying Caesar, while the unconquerable spirit of Cato of Utica flashed from every feature; and he closed the grand appeal with the solemn words, 'or give me death!'

which sounded with the awful cadence of a hero's dirge, fearless of death, and victorious in death; and he suited the action to the word by a blow upon the left breast with the right hand, which seemed to drive the dagger to the patriot's heart."

Hymn for Independence Day

Eugene C. Dolson.

O Thou, who through the long years
Hast guided us in safety on—
God of our native land, to Thee,
The guardian of Liberty,
Our hearts today in one accord
Acknowledge all, and thank Thee
Lord.

Beyond the swift-receding past
The world moves on, through change
Fast;
Beyond the reach of ways outworn
Our restless age is onward borne.
Oh, keep us one in heart henceforth
From sea to sea, from South to North!

On this, our nation's natal day,
For world-wide amity we pray;
For peace, good-will, disarmament
In lands by war and faction rent;
For all which trends to common good
And universal brotherhood.

But first and most of all things yet,
Our own trust let us not forget:
Be ours to guard that freedom won
At Bunker Hill and Lexington,—
Be ours true loyal hearts and free—
True to our sires and true to Thee!

NORTH CAROLINA WAS FIRST

Published Declaration of Independence Long Before the One Which Has Become Immortal.

North Carolina not only disputes with New England the honor of the first battle of the Revolution, and the credit of holding the first "tea party," but points with pride to its Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, antedating that of Philadelphia by two months. The battle of Alamance was fought in 1771, admitted by at least one New England historian, Bancroft, as being the first of the Revolution. The tea party was held in front of the governor's palace at least eighty years before Boston dumped her tea in the harbor.

VOICE FROM CZECHO-SLOVAK REPUBLIC.

The president of the Czecho-Slovak Republic, Prof. T. G. Masaryk, formerly of the University of Prague, in a lecture on "Educated Circles Must Destroy Alcohol Superstition," shows the responsibility of the individual for his neighbor.

"Progressive ethics demand of the modern man a higher state of mind; alcoholism degrades the whole man; it is hostile to progress, retrogressive.

"The modern ethic holds love of neighbor to be the root of all moral virtues. Love of neighbor means labor for one's neighbor. Do not ask of the modern man sentimental philanthropy but the consciousness of responsibility for the alleviation of physical and intellectual need. But alcoholism weakens sympathy for fellowmen, weakens the will to work, weakens belief and confidence in man's worth. For an active love of one's neighbor and labor for him, a clean heart and clear head are also necessary.

"Love of and work for one's neighbor require, in the case under discussion, the example of abstinence. Example against example! Through the example of drinking are most drinkers seduced to drinking. No man has a natural craving for alcohol poison. Especially should the educated give the example in the present stage of our scientific knowledge about alcohol. A physician, teacher, or educator who tolerates drinking commits a crime. It is incumbent on the educated and leading circles to destroy the alcohol superstition theoretically by enlightenment of the people, and practically by abstinence.

THE WINE DELUSION.

Dr. William Brady, in the Chicago News, recently exploded the old superstition that wine is a strength building tonic. He says:

"For a long time there has been a suspicion growing among thoughtful physicians that alcohol does not deserve the reputation our medical fathers gave it in medicine. First it was proved beyond question that alcohol was not a food. Then it was settled that alcohol does not stimulate the heart or the brain. Then it was found that alcohol does not help digestion, but rather inhibits or delays digestion.

"But alcohol, as wine or as some alleged tonic, taken in dessert-spoonful or tablespoonful or larger doses, does flush the invalid's face for a time, loes make the invalid feel warm, does lower the body temperature slightly (by excessive heat radiation from reared or dilated surface vessels), does impede the mental processes, does delay the normal nervous response to any external stimulus (as in quick firing at a target that moves) and does render the victim of the delusion temporarily forgetful of his troubles.

A DENVER BANKER ON PROHIBITION.

Albert A. Reed, vice president and trust officer of United States National bank, says:

"Without any reluctance and without qualification of any sort I am able to state that the effect of prohibition in Denver and Colorado have been beneficial from every point of view—moral, social, industrial and financial. This seems to be the almost universal opinion and judgment of the business and professional men of Colorado.

SALOON TAXES.

The brewers in Reading, Pa., are taking a stand for lower valuations on the various saloon properties scattered throughout the city. They claim the town council should consider, when fixing a tax valuation, the fact that possible prohibition will cause a depreciation in the value of these properties. Ordinarily saloon properties are valued at a higher figure than those adjoining because they bring a much higher price in the market.

On the other hand, a saloon, because of its usually undesirable character, depreciates the value of other properties in its neighborhood. Are they not entitled to a reduction because of depreciation caused by the presence of the saloon?

IN CANADA.

"Prohibition is a signal success," declares the chief of police of Toronto, Canada. "In fact, I almost shudder to think what war-time conditions without it would have been." A curious development of prohibition days is an abnormal increase in the number of candy stores. It seems to be a physiological fact that candy is found to be a more or less satisfying substitute as a stimulant and a craving-quieter by a large number of people who formerly

FEEDING THE SICK AND CONVALESCENT

Few families are so fortunate as to escape illness during some time of their history. Good feeding is an important factor in maintaining health, but in spite of good food a sudden chill or strain of overwork or worry will overwhelm even a strong and healthy body.

Since all food must be reduced to fluid form before it can be digested and assimilated, that seems to be the best form to serve it to those who are ill. This diet includes broths and clear soups of various kinds, beef juice and beef tea, cereals, gruels, milk plain or modified to make it more digestible, nutritious or more agreeable to the patient, raw eggs in combination with water, milk, fruit juices or cocoa and cream soups of various kinds.

Broths, clear soups and beef tea have little nourishment, but stimulate the appetite, are refreshing when cold or soothing when hot; they also stimulate the flow of gastric juice. By adding eggs, milk or the thickening of cereal flour like barley or rice, they may be quite nutritive.

Cereal gruels are neither stimulating nor irritating and are most useful when the appetite is poor and digestion weak, as they are quickly digested and absorbed.

Like broths, gruels may be enriched by eggs, cream and milk, for one could not drink enough to keep up the body energy without the addition of some more nutritive food.

Milk is one of the most valuable foods for sick people and fortunately most patients like it. It has been called the perfect food. Its value may be increased by changing its flavor, adding yeast to it making a drink called koumiss and by adding junket or rennin to partly digest it making it more palatable and adding variety.

SOME CHOICE DESSERTS.

A delicious and well-prepared dessert will often help us to forget that the preceding dishes were not all that we desired. At this season of the year frozen desserts and light, easily digested dishes are more suitable. During the hot weather we need refreshing combinations rather than the nourishing; however, one may have both in a dish of ice cream. A most satisfactory sherbet, which is both delicious and economical, is

Velvet Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cupfuls of sugar and a quart of good milk, the richer the better, though ordinary milk will be satisfactory. Freeze and serve in sherbet cups.

Orange and Lemon Sherbet.—Take the juice of two oranges, two lemons and two cupfuls of sugar and a quart of this cream; freeze as usual.

Dainty Dessert.—Take a pound of marshmallows and a cup of pecans cut fine; cut the mallows into quarters and add enough whipped cream to blend and hold them together. Into a large-topped sherbet glass put a tablespoonful of any canned fruit juice, fill with the whip and serve with a cherry as a garnish.

Duchess Cream.—Take six tablespoonfuls of tapioca; cook until clear; cool, add a pinch of salt, one cupful of sugar, the juice from a can of pineapple, the juice of two oranges and two lemons; cook until thick. Cool, then add the pineapple, one cupful of nuts and a pint of whipping cream. This makes enough to serve 15, so that the recipe may be cut in half for an ordinary family.

Chocolate Pudding.—Take one egg and when well beaten add one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, two squares of chocolate melted, one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Steam one and one-half hours and serve with

Foamy Sauce.—Beat one egg, add one cupful of powdered sugar mixed with two tablespoonfuls of softened butter, a pinch of salt and a little flavoring; then fold in one cupful of whipped cream.

Chocolate Pudding.—Take one egg and when well beaten add one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of milk, two squares of chocolate melted, one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Steam one and one-half hours and serve with

Army Intelligence Test Proposed as College Entrance Examination

By PROF. WALTER T. MARVIN, Rutgers College

The question, who is the college man? has always meant who is the college man relatively to the remainder of the population? We have always known that the college man is an extraordinary person, that he has been selected from a vastly larger group; for he has formed but one or two per cent of the male population of America of his age.

The data resulting from the application of the army intelligence test to the undergraduates of Rutgers college warrants the conclusion that the record of the college man in the years following graduation is not due primarily to the education he has received in the high school and the college, but is the result of a remarkable and extraordinary inborn intelligence.

We have been told by college presidents and others, "Here we behold the product of education"; whereas what we behold is chiefly the product of extraordinary capacity, given as a gift of Mother Nature, or heredity.

Imperfect as is the army intelligence test, because of its emphasis on mere speed, it is still capable of finding whether or not a man has the capacity required by the college. This fact has suggested the substitution of an intelligence test for the traditional college entrance examination.

Such a substitution is not only permissible but desirable, because it can be better trusted to tell us whether or not it is advisable for him, in his own interest, to spend four years in such an environment as the college instead of going at once out into the world to learn the trade or vocation that is to be his life's career.

Abdications in Germany Will Include Total of 278 of Royal Families

A German professor figures out that the abdications and dethronements in Germany include 278 persons. Bavaria leads, with one king, one queen, 15 princes, 16 princesses, five dukes and one duchess. Prussia has sent 33 royalties into exile, including the emperor, the empress, 20 princes and 11 princesses. Brunswick is at the bottom of the list, with only the ducal couple and their three children. The two tiny principalities of Reuss, whose area is hardly one-third hundredths part of that of Prussia, have exiled 36 royalties.

The principality of Lippe, only about 20 square miles larger than the Reuss states, had a royal family numbering 24 persons. Most extraordinary is the case of Schaumburg-Lippe, with its area of 130 square miles, where there was nearly one royal personage for every five square miles. These included the reigning prince, seventeen princes and seven princesses.

Women May Be Members of the American Legion

Women who served in various war service work, including yeomanettes, army nurses and marine corps girls, are eligible for membership in the American legion, the association of veterans of the world war, according to a statement issued from the national headquarters of the organization. The announcement says that so many inquiries came from women who served during the war that it was decided to issue a formal notice. Preparations are under way to form the first post of women who had worn the uniform of their country. Whether or not the yeomanettes will unite in a post with the army nurses or whether the women will join the posts formed by the service men is to be left to the discretion of the local posts.

Flat Famine Threatens N. Y. Workers' Exodus

Tenement and home building must be resumed on a large scale in New York to prevent a general exodus of workers to other parts of the country, the state reconstruction commission announced. A shortage of 100,000 apartments exists in New York City, the statement said. Only half as many plans for new buildings were filed in 1918 as for the same period two years ago, and only a third of the buildings planned have been completed.

Alcohol From Molasses.

Several large concerns are making alcohol from cheap molasses brought from the West Indies. This molasses, which is un-usable, is known as "black strap." The internal revenue chemists have been able, however, to ferment it and to obtain not only alcohol but to so use the residue that they get glycerin.

Four lots of "black strap" of 1,000 gallons each subjected to the new process turned out a very excellent quality of glycerin. There are 100 gallons of this clear dynamite glycerin, as it is called, now on exhibition in the treasury department. Samples of it treated with nitric acid by a well-known firm of explosive makers, at the request of the government, produced as good a nitro-glycerin as the market affords.

Nitro-glycerin when incorporated with pulp or other inert substance becomes dynamite. Thus out of the simple sweets of the sugar bowl comes forth the strength which will read the rock.

Large Market for Rabbit Skins.

There is a market for rabbit skins. Before the recent war an enormous trade was carried on abroad. It is said that Great Britain and Ireland alone produced about thirty million skins annually. Most rabbit skins are sold in bales, by weight, the fur from them being used for felting purposes, and the skins for making glue. The war interrupted the importations from Europe and Australia to such an extent that the price has greatly increased. The better skins are sold by the dozen. When dressed they become the "coney" of the fur trade, often sold under fanciful names. American breeders are raising all kinds of rabbits that produce the best "coney" of the fur shops.

Saw Cuts Steel Billets.

The largest of a number of power hacksaws in one of the British naval factories is stated to weigh three and one-half tons and is driven by a three-horse power electric motor. It cuts through square billets of steel 26 inches thick. Even a cut like this is suitable for further work after the cut has been made. This machine is estimated to reduce the expense of sawing to one-sixth of the former cost.

Japan's Leading Industry.

Extraordinarily favorable business conditions in Japan and the continued withdrawal of the products of European nations from competition in the markets of Asia and Australia made the year 1917 an extremely profitable one for the spinning industry and firmly fixed it as the leading manufacturing industry of Japan.

Appropriation for Highways.

An additional appropriation of $64,890, as the county's share of the cost of contracts for the completion of the Venice-Genoa State highway, No. 1414, and the Fleming-Scipio Center road, is provided in resolutions unanimously adopted at a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors Thursday, June 26. The total amount to be expended in the construction of the roads runs up to $185,400 of which the state provides 65 per cent. while the county must pay the other 35 per cent. of the cost.

The special session was called by Ernest Tabor, clerk of the Board upon request, because of the termination of the so-called war contracts under the terms of a bill passed by the legislature, which allowed John H. Gordon, contractor, to throw up the contract for the Scipio-Center road. The state engineers worked out plans for a change of construction, deciding to widen both highways, and the State Highway Commission communicated with Clerk Tabor in an effort to have the Board of Supervisors co-operate quickly with the commission so that the roads might be completed during the summer. The matter was also laid before J. Charles Dayton, county superintendent of roads.

The Board also adopted the motion of Supervisor Loomis of Genoa to the effect that the attention of the State Highway Commission be called to the Trunk Line No 11 road which was all but a mile and three quarters completed three years ago, but has not been touched since. The resolution asked for the completion of the road to the county line.

Conaty--Bowness.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Bernard's church, Scipio, Thursday morning, June 26, at 10:30 o'clock, when Miss Genevieve Bowness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowness, became the bride of Edward Conaty.

Promptly at the appointed hour the wedding party which consisted of the bride and groom, the groom's cousin, Clarence Heffernan, as best man, the bride's sister, Irene, as bridesmaid, and the bride's little nieces, Lelota and Alma Lacey, as flower girls entered the church to the strains of the Lehengrin Wedding March played by Miss Helen Conaty of Auburn, niece of the groom.

The bride was charmingly attired in white georgette over satin and wore a veil, the bridesmaid in corn color and carried white carnations, and the flower girls in white carrying a basket of yellow and white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home, 150 guests being present. Many useful and beautiful gifts consisting of furniture, cut glass, linen and silver were presented to the young couple.

After their wedding tour they will be at their home in Scipio. Mr. and Mrs. Conaty have many friends, the bride having been a popular teacher for the past few years. She has had charge of Merrifield school the past year.

Death of Scipio Man.

The death of William W. Ward, a well known resident of Scipio, occurred at his home in the eastern part of the town, Tuesday, June 24, after an extended illness. Mr. Ward was born in 1845, on the Ward homestead, where he passed his entire life and which has been in the family for three generations, beginning in 1812. He was never married and surviving are a sister, Mrs. Benjamin VanArsdale, a brother, David Ward, two nieces, the Misses Ida and May VanArsdale, all of Scipio and a nephew, Fred A. Ward of Cortland. Rev. W. L. Bates of Locke conducted the funeral services at the home, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial was made in the Scipio Rural cemetery.

WEEKLY COMMENTS:

I greatly appreciate the kindness and patronage my friends have shown me since I opened my new store at 34 North St., Auburn.

I can now see the good results of honest dealings with my friends and patrons for the past 36 years and cannot help but notice their willingness to look me up at Auburn and purchase their clothing needs the same as when I was located in Genoa. It proves that my honest dealings in the past have been appreciated by all.

I now carry a complete line of up-to-the-minute styles in dependable Clothing and Furnishings for Men and Boys.

I am better prepared now than ever to serve you with larger stocks in every line in all the leading styles. I will consider it a great pleasure to have my friends call on me when in Auburn whether you buy or not.
