

THANKSGIVING

By JAMES W. BECKMAN.

We observe Thanksgiving day in keeping with the time-honored custom of the Pilgrims.

Thanksgiving day was born in the hearts of a grateful little group of people who had survived a harrowing season.

Real thanksgivings are those which come spontaneously in moments of gratitude for deliverance from distress, appreciation of the beauties of life or enjoyment of genuine friendship.

We are thankful that most of our troubles never happened and that those which did passed over like the storm.

The wealth of the world has been filling our coffers to overflowing. Millions of Mammon give thanks like the blatant fatted calf, all unmindful of the fate of the fattened and fattened.

We are thankful to have gone through another year with its alternating joys and sorrows and await with hope and fortitude the things the next may bring forth.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine of the Boston Herald.

Ain't It Splendid?

A IN'T it splendid to be livin' 'long about this time of year. Just around before 'Thanksgivin', with the mornings crisp and clear;

With the children's cheeks a-glowin', with the future lookin' bright, And the shops and mills a'goin' like red blazes, day and night?

Ain't it brainin' 'ain't it cheerin', when the colts kick up their heels, To approach the corn crib, hearin' turkeys gobblin' for their meals? Don't it make a fellow kinda satisfied with life and glad, When it's got so hard to find a thing that's goin' to the bad?

Ain't it fine to feel the nippin' of the brisk breeze at your nose When the old deal leaves go zippin' down the lanes, in scraggly rows, When you've hay to feed the cattle, when you love your fellow men, And you've money you can rattle in your trousers, now and then?

Ain't it fine to wake from dreamin' of the home your boyhood knew And to find the glad sun beamin' just the way it used to do, Long ago, about 'Thanksgivin', when you'd energy to spare, When your pa and ma were livin' and the days were always fair?

Remember Those Who Served.
The great spirits of earth have been men and women who, with thanksgiving in their hearts and on their lips, served faithfully the ages in which they lived. They won the victories and reconstructed the situations through which our blessings have been handed down to us. For their consecrated services let us be truly thankful. Nor in our thanksgiving must we overlook the heroic service rendered by our own boys in the great, recent conflict, and the supreme sacrifice many of them made. They, together with their brave comrades of the nations allied with us in the battle for righteousness, saved democracy for the world.

Made National Celebration.

President Lincoln it was who appointed the last Thursday in November, 1864, as Thanksgiving day, and each president of the United States since that time has followed Lincoln's example. In 1863 proclamations of a day for Thanksgiving were issued by the governors of twenty-five states and two territories, and it only remained for the president of the United States to make such proclamation to institute the national Thanksgiving day.

State Dairymen Meet.

Commissioner of Agriculture Charles S. Wilson announces that one of the subjects which will come up for extended discussion at the 43rd annual meeting of the New York State Dairymen's association, in Jordan hall, Geneva, N. Y., Nov. 18, 19 and 20, will be the care and use of the milking machine. Commissioner Wilson pointed out that in view of the scarcity of farm labor, and the fact that many farm laborers are not experienced hand milkers, the milking machine is here to stay, and that there is much need of information on its use.

At the meeting of the association, the question of sanitation and improving the quality of New York State milk will be taken up by George E. Hogue, Director of the Dairy Bureau, of the Division of Agriculture, who will also discuss improvement in the quality of New York State cheese. Dr. Whitman H. Jordan, director of the Geneva Experiment Station, will deliver the address of welcome at the meeting, with a response by Prof. H. C. Troy, of Cornell University. W. E. Dana, of Avon, president of the Council of Farms and Markets, Commissioner Wilson, former Dean H. E. Cook, State School of Agriculture, at Canton, N. Y., Commissioner of Agriculture Frederick Rasmussen, of Pennsylvania, Robert S. Breed, and George A. Smith, of Geneva, N. Y., Dorr W. McLaury, director of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Prof. W. A. Stocking, of Cornell and others will discuss important questions relative to the dairying industry. H. F. Farrington, of Lowville, and Prof. E. E. Savage, of Cornell, will preside at round table discussion. Bradley Fuller, of Utica, will take as his subject "Market Milk," and Harry Stevenson, of Enfield Center, will have as his subject "Keeping the young man on the farm."

Homespun Yarn.

Be thrifty but not selfish. Thrift without benevolence is a doubtful blessing.

That spoonful of cereal left from breakfast not worth saving? One woman says she uses it to thicken soup or gravy.

Skim milk and stale bread don't sound especially appetizing, do they? But how about milk toast? It doesn't require any magic to make the transformation.
