Choose New York Man.

S. J. Lowell of New York was elected national master of the National Grange at the annual election at Grand Rapids, Mich., on Tuesday. John C. Ketcham of Hastings, Mich., was re-elected national lecturer.

The new master of the National Grange, who succeeds Oliver Wilson of Peoria, Ill., is a fruit grower of Fredonia, N. Y., where he was born in 1858. He has lived on a farm there all his life.

Mr. Lowell became a member of the Grange in 1900. In 1916 he was elected master of the New York State Grange, which office he holds at present. It is not necessary for him to resign as New York State Grange master to accept the office of national master, it is stated.

If you have a good friend be careful and don't impose on him. The same rule applies to your credit, for if you want good credit don't test it on a friend.

BARES SECRETS OF SLEEP SICKNESS

Chicago Man Recovers and Tells His Experiences.

SYMPTOMS OF THE MALADY

Persistent Series of Illusions During Periods of Wakefulness One of the Peculiarities of Disease — Beach, Flowers, Castles and Sea Mark Six Months' Visions of Chicago Legislator—Under Sleep Spell.

After hovering under death's wing for more than six months as a victim of sleeping sickness, former Alderman Theodore K. Long, now a member of the Illinois legislature, returned to Chicago from Battle Creek, Mich., and told for the first time the symptoms of the strange malady.

"Less than 10 per cent of those who contract sleeping sickness live to tell their experience," he said.

The principal symptom of sleeping sickness he described as a persistent series of illusions during periods of wakefulness.

Beaches—Chimes—Flowers.

"I imagined I was at the seaside, and could see hundreds of men and women in bathing," he continued. "Of course, I had other illusions, but beach scenes predominated.

"Sometimes I could hear the ringing of what seemed a million cathedral chimes.

"Again, I saw wonderful examples of architecture, castles, battlements.

"Sometimes I wandered through fields of flowers, but, curiously, they had no perfume.

"And no matter what I saw, I could always hear the sound of the surf as it broke against the shore, and sooner or later I found myself on the beach again.

"In Springfield about seven months ago, while I was engaged in legislative work, I first noticed my health was not normal.

"I suffered from an intolerable languor.

Under a Spell of Sleep.

"Try as I would I could not resist the desire to go to sleep.

"I would be compelled to go to bed at any time of day the spells struck me, and I would sleep from 12 to 14 hours.

"When I awoke I would not be rested, but felt as though I had done a hard day's work.

"Finally I was compelled to give up my official duties and come to Chicago. I went to St. Luke's hospital, where my case proved a riddle to attending physicians.

"Finally it was diagnosed as encephalitis, or African sleeping sickness, and I was confined to bed for 14 weeks. It is a direct effect of influenza, and I have no doubt the germs spread by the tsetse fly of Africa in some manner have found their way to this country.

"After suffering from influenza, the body is especially subject to attack by the sleeping sickness germ."

CRAW JEWEL CASSET

Emerald Ring Worth $300 Found in Hen's Interior.

Andromeda is, or was, a plain drab-colored runabout Buff Cochon hen, with feathered pantslets and no special claim to distinction. She belonged to H. E. Westerly, a farmer at Hayward, Cal., and led an existence as drab as her color. She wallowed in the dirt, cackled as per accomplishment and did her own scratching in a wholly middle-class way.

Now Andromeda is the most famous hen in the county. For Westerly decided that his hen would make a wonderful Sunday dinner. He killed her and opened her crop. Among the gravel of her grinder he found an emerald ring surrounded by diamonds, worth about $300. The ring was corroded and had apparently been in the hen's differential box for about a week.

It is thought the ring was dropped by some passing automobilist and Andromeda, attracted by the glitter, swallowed it.

"Love Her Only Crime."

"Her only crime is that of loving, and she should not be punished for that."

With this statement Judge McMahon of New York suspended sentence on Teresa Cleri, charged with bigamy.

She had defended herself by stating her first marriage was loveless, having been arranged by her parents two years ago, before she left Italy, whereas, when she met Luigi Izzo, she fell in love with him and married him last October, regardless of the law.

Wife With Quit Smokes.

In answer to a charge of deserting a wife, a man complained at Birmingham, England, that she smoked cigarettes. "What can you do with a woman like that?" he asked. A magistrate suggested that smoking was not a crime. However, the wife said she would give up smoking and the case was adjourned to give the couple an opportunity of settling their differences.

Killed Herself at Sweetheart's Door.

After writing letters threatening to take her life because her lover had rejected her, Hattie Madin, eighteen years old, of the Vermont, Mont., took poison with her sweetheart's door.

Foreign Language Newspaper Men Join Thrift Citizens Movement

Proprietors and editors of foreign language newspapers of New York and Northern New Jersey signing checks for Treasury Savings Certificates. Sixty-two of these prominent workers met recently at the Bankers Club, 120 Broadway, New York City, where they agreed to become leaders in the Thrift Citizens Movement and to urge readers of their publications to buy Treasury Savings Certificates. From left to right of the group are: Channing Rudd, Controller Government Loan Organization Second Federal Reserve District; Albin Dambrowski, Polish; P. Axelrad, Roumanian; Frank Frugone, Italian; Alexander H. Debeck, Polish; Sallous Mokarzel, Syrian; Paul Molis, Lithuanian; Constantine Rutland, Greek; B. G. Gregor, Bohemian; Peter Frasmowaki, Slovenic; Joseph Hartigan, Manager Foreign Language Division, Government Loan Organization Second Federal Reserve District.

PEACE OFFENSIVE TO BE EMPHASIZED ON ARMISTICE DAY

America's Peace Offensive, a concerted effort to enroll loyal residents of New York and Northern New Jersey as leaders in the National-Wide Movement to Promote Thrift, has already been inaugurated by the Government Loan Organization.

The period from November 11, (Armistice Day) to November 27, (Thanksgiving Day) has been designated to focus attention upon the pressing need of peace-time support of the Government, and the benefit to the general welfare of a universal practice of thrift as a means of combating the high cost of living, and of solving our pressing economic problems.

Throughout the entire Second Federal Reserve District, the machinery of the Government Loan Organization will be utilized to bring to the attention of the average citizen his plain duty of setting an example for his fellow men. In no sense, however, is the thrift citizen movement a money-raising objective; it is intended as an enrollment of loyal and patriotic Americans whose leadership is of paramount importance. Investment in Treasury Savings Certificates, the new short-term Government security, will naturally be an indication of the self-appointed leader's firm belief in the United States.

In New York City the Peace Offensive will be launched at a huge meeting to be held at the Metropolitan Opera House, where a distinguished list of speakers will set forth the immediate and vital need for closer cooperation on the part of the general public for their individual and collective betterment. Similar meetings will be held throughout the District, and from time to time during the period of the intensive effort an endeavor will be made to emphasize the importance of wise saving and sane spending as a permanent national trait.

FOREIGN GROUPS TO CO-OPERATE IN THRIFT MOVEMENT

Representative of Twenty-Nine Language Divisions Agree to Assume Leadership Among Their Nationalities

Chairmen, secretaries and other representatives of the twenty-nine racial groups in the Foreign Language Division, Government Loan Organization, recently met in conference at the Bankers' Club, 120 Broadway, New York City, where they assumed the leadership of the Thrift Citizens Movement among the foreign-born population, and formulated plans for increased sales of Treasury Savings Certificates among their respective groups.

It was explained to those at the meeting that co-operation of volunteer workers throughout New York State and the twelve northern counties of New Jersey is essential if the movement, to be known as America's Peace Offensive, is to be a success. There are 4,500,000 foreign-born men and women, or children of foreign-born parents, who reside in New York State and Northern New Jersey.

The conference was the second one which had been arranged by the Foreign Language Division. At the other meeting, which was also held at the Bankers' Club, attended by publishers and editors of foreign language newspapers, plans were adopted for entering the foreign-born for use in the Thrift Citizen's Movement and for furthering the investment of their money in $1,000 and $100 Treasury Savings Certificates.

THRIFT CITIZENS MOVEMENT

Being firmly convinced that National Thrift is the principal remedy for many of our present pressing economic evils, including the high cost of living, the reduced buying power of the dollar, high taxes and general unrest, I desire to express my intention of becoming a member of the Government Savings Association and an active leader in the movement to make America thrifty.

As evidence of my intention, I agree to become a Thrift Citizen and to purchase one of the $1000 Treasury Savings Certificates of 1919, issued by the United States Government, for which I enclose check.

RETURNS FROM WAR TO FIND FATHER DEAD

Sergeant is Met by Sorrow Instead of Expected Homecoming Celebration.

Michael Murphy's cup of happiness had been filled to overflowing. Had not his son, Sergt. Joseph T. Murphy, returned from overseas, where for more than a year he had been on the firing line?

He had come home, this strapping youngster, tanned and weather-beaten and with a German helmet as a souvenir.

The father's thoughts went back over the 20 years in which he had been employed by the city of Chicago. He had been a small cog in the big political wheel. He had brought up seven strapping children, two sons and five daughters. One of the sons was a city fireman. And the other, a chip off the old block, had come back from France with a German helmet. He had come home to be his comfort in his old age.

Ah, the world was brighter, now that Sergeant Joe was back. No wonder the Hindenburg line had crumpled with a fighting Irishman like Joe in the front trenches.

And now the neighbors were coming in for a bit of a celebration. The little home was in gala attire. The neighbors should see with their own eyes and hear with their own ears what a Murphy had done to the Fritzes.

The aged man sank back in his favorite arm chair. A smile played over his honest Irish face. His eyes closed and he gave himself over to dreams.

A cheery voice was heard in the hall. "Why, hello, dad! Gone to sleep again? Company's coming, dad. Wake up."

Sergeant Joe shook the old man's shoulder gently. "Wake up, dad," he repeated. "Company's—"

But he was even then walking through the dark valley. He had died of the great happiness. The cup had been filled to overflowing.

NO RECORD OF LOST COMET

Cops Couldn't Help Searcher for Halley's Flyer.

Ever since Galileo charted the firmament through the medium of his rule glass mankind has been absorbed in the study of the stars. The fair lost Pleiad, the Great Hunter, the Andromeda, and other constellations have inspired philosophers and poets. But policemen—

A searchlight glittered through one of the many interstices of the Central street station platform of the Northwestern elevated railroad in Evanston, Ill. The platform is but a few inches above the ground. Under the platform was Arnold Carlson, eighteen years old of Chicago. Beside him lay a pair of binoculars. The copper who investigated seized him rudely and asked:

"What are you doing?"

"I'm trying to locate Halley's comet. It's been gone a long time now and ought to be back. I got a straight tip."

"Well we ain't got no record of any Halley reporting a comet lost. Come on to the station."

REMINDED OF HUN TANK

Hears the Bird and in Dreams Started to Fight Again.

Ed Kramp, formerly assistant in the fuel administration office in Toledo, O., who returned recently from several months' service with an artillery organization overseas, says the first thing a soldier tries to do after getting home is to forget all about the scrap over there.

Kramp thought he had blazing guns, army rations, trench rats, cooties and Germans pretty well stored away in the back of his memory until an experience the other night.

Kramp went to bed early. Some time during the small hours a particularly noisy owl came rattling and clanking down the street past the house. In his sleep Kramp got the impression that the Germans had sent a tank over after him, and that the "square heads" would soon be coming over the top. He jumped up, seized a chair, and started to fight the war all over again.

Rich Ancient Mosaic Is Found.

Archaeologists have discovered in Rome a rich mosaic, believed to date back to the days of the Caesars. The work was found in a perfect state of preservation under the foundations of the Casa Popolare. Its decorations are elaborate geometrical designs. The piece possibly composed part of the floor of one of the imperial palaces.

Here's an Up-to-Date Pastor.

Rev. R. J. Bennett, who has assumed pastorate of the Spruce Street Christian church of Morgantown, W. Va., believes in using business methods to get the congregation to attend services. Mr. Bennett is advertising his services in the newspapers, has installed electric fans in the church, and has hired a brass band at the services.

Rats Cost Britain $100,000,000 a Year.

Rats and mice have wasted tons of grain and other valuable food products in Great Britain each year, according to a total loss of $100,000,000, according to a bill recently introduced in the house of commons, asking a $4,500,000 appropriation for poison for the rodents.

Meeting of Presbytery.

A campaign of evangelism under the joint direction of Cayuga Presbytery and the General Assembly Committee on Evangelism, was favored at a meeting of Presbytery in the Second Presbyterian church in Auburn Tuesday. The Presbytery appointed a committee of which Rev. W. S. Crane of Port Byron is chairman to confer with Rev. Dr. George T. Mahy of Philadelphia, general secretary of the Presbyterian Assembly, regarding evangelistic work in this Presbytery.

The committee will report at a special meeting of the Presbytery to be held soon. Rev. Dr. Mahy spoke regarding evangelism. He gave a number of suggestions regarding evangelistic campaigns, telling of the work in local churches, home life, personal evangelism and prayer service.

Rev. Dr. Grenville P. Sewall, 78, who has been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Aurora since 1900 and who graduated from Auburn Theological Seminary in 1870, asked that he be relieved from his duties. He has been in the ministry nearly 50 years. Many tributes to Doctor Sewall were paid by the ministers present. His resignation was accepted last week at a meeting of his congregation in Aurora.

Nearly all of the churches in the Presbytery were represented. Thirty-five ministers and elders were present. Rev. Dr. William J. Hinke, of the Seminary and moderator of the Presbytery, presided. Dinner was served by the ladies of the church.

Auditorium Attractions.

The biggest musical attraction of the season is now playing at the Auditorium, Auburn, where the San Carlo Grand Opera Company is presenting "Aida" Friday evening, "Rigoletto" Saturday matinee, and "Il Traviatore" Saturday evening of this week. The company numbers 100 people, including their own symphony orchestra of 20 pieces. A special scenic equipment is carried for each opera. No one should miss this great attraction.

The Thanksgiving attraction at the Auditorium, matinee and night, will be the greatest hit in years. "Friendly Enemies." Manager Hennessy is giving this company a $1500 guarantee for this date. In addition to this the running expenses of the big Auditorium will bring the expense up to $2200 before the curtain rises on the matinee. This is the big city company—the same that plays Rochester and Syracuse. "Friendly Enemies" ran for one year and 6 months in New York City. It has been publicly endorsed by President Wilson and King George of England. The scale of price has been arranged with the view of giving all an opportunity of seeing this great play. The people of Auburn and vicinity should patronize this attraction as it is one of the very best that will visit Auburn this season. This sale of seats will open at the Auditorium, Tuesday, Nov. 25, at 9 a. m. Phone 2345 M. Mail orders will be received and filled now. Address Mgr. Auditorium, Box 192, Auburn.

USE YOUR BRAINS
 It needs no argument to convince you that no one can remain in business long unless some profit can be made out of the business. To make any profit on a sale, the selling price must include cost of goods, every item of expense and the profit. Credit losses are expense so the selling price must include an item to cover credit losses, and credit losses usually run so high the selling prices are decidedly affected—buyers really pay the credit losses. Now, I sell for cash. You are not paying others' bad debts, or for collections or law suits, you pay lowest cash price and get what you pay for—always deal with a cash store, if possible. I make a small profit and sell best quality goods. Come and get satisfaction at HOYT'S, MORAVIA, N. Y.

THE MODERN FEAST PROVIDER

The modern day pilgrim, while retaining some of the principles of the first pilgrims, has enlarged his scope of activity. The spirit of freedom, equality and peace is being spread throughout the universe, and American democracy, it is to be hoped, is to be followed in spirit by the peoples of other nations. And then when the universal day of Thanksgiving comes, all the people will know and realize what it means to be an absolutely free nation. Our photo shows the pilgrim of today, emulating his forefathers who went forth as he did to secure his bird for the feast.

HARVEST FESTIVALS OF OLD

Greeks and Romans Had Days of Thanksgiving for the Fruitful Gifts of the Earth.

Greece, in the months of August and September of each year, after the harvest had been gathered, celebrated the great feast known as the Eleusinia, or the feast to Demeter of the beautiful robe. Demeter, the great earth-mother, was the goddess of cornfields and harvests. Her daughter, Persephone, while gathering flowers one day, was kidnapped by Pluto. Demeter searched for her long by land and sea, and at last learned that her lost daughter had been married to Pluto, the dark specter of the underworld, and that she was now his queen in the realm below. But Persephone had eaten a pomegranate seed and could remain with her mother only part of the year. This made Demeter angry, and she left the gods and made her dwelling upon the earth. She taught Ceres, king of Eleusis, agriculture, how to plow, sow and reap. This feast was one of the grandest of the Greek festivals.

The Romans celebrated a harvest festival called the Cerealia. It took its name from Ceres, who was the Demeter of the Romans, and the feast was celebrated at some time in the month of October. Sacrifices of the best fruits and honey cakes were offered up in the temple. Processions were made to the fields by men and women dressed in white and crowned with oak leaves and poppies. Ceres was represented in a chariot drawn by dragons, her head crowned with a garland of corn ears, and holding a basket of poppies in her hand. This festival was a general holiday time. Coming down to a more modern time, we read of thanksgivings in Holland and in England, the recollection of whose "harvest homes," perhaps, inspired the Puritans to inaugurate the custom in this country. The first Thanksgiving on American soil, according to the well credited chronicler, Edward Winslow, was held in 1621, 10 months after the landing of the Pilgrims, when, the crops being garnered, they felt spring up within their hearts a feeling of praise and thanksgiving. It lasted almost a week, and was participated in by King Massasoit and 90 of his braves, who were feasted and entertained for three days, the newcomers showing their guests their proficiency in arms, expertness in wrestling, etc. To show their prowess in turn, "the Indians went out and killed five deer, which they brought to the plantation and bestowed on the governor and each Captain Miles Standish and his men. DAY OF UNIVERSAL PRAISE

For All Its Blessings the Nation Lifts Its Hands to the Lord in Grateful Thanks.

Such sentiment as is aroused by the great day whose yearly coming sounds the note of praise for multimillion souls, could not be set to poet's verse or framed in choral chant. Deep down where underlying are the sentiments that sanctify, reside the feelings centering in the day whose glad advent is tuned to thoughts of peace and praise to the one above from whose wide-open hands bestowments come, such as have never yet been known to other nations of the earth. Into the churches at the usual hour the worshippers will pour and from their doors, when comes the end of praise and song, will pass those worshippers again, with loftier views and freer minds and with their souls tuned to the sentiments that are expressed from all the pulpits of the nation on the day on which the people offer their thanks to God.

For all the blessings of the land, this day the nation lifts its hands in humble praise; for all the blessings to the homes the land lifts up its eyes to God in gratitude; for all the signal signs of God's goodwill the land will give its praise in thought, in word, in act. Although the curtain of the future falls across the vistas and the prospect hides, no one has fear the land will not be free from all the harsh disorders of the earth, and saved to sanctify the world and to the pleasant things of peace and lasting joy. For the bright prospect of the nation's use in the fast-growing years to come, the people give their praise and in their prayers they lift their thoughts with faith to the Lord, who says in perfect peace he keeps the ones whose thoughts and hearts are stayed on him. For all his ways are pleasantness, his paths are peace, the psalmist says.

So for its cheer, for its gift of peace, so for the record of blessings felt and those in prospect yet, the people give their heartfelt thanks, making this day that sees other nations wrecked by the battle's effect, a day peculiar for its cause for praise. And thus, though sobered, will the cheer abound in myriad hearts on this great day for praise and giving thanks.

INOCULATE SOIL TO AID ALFALFA

Addition of Bacteria to Promote Favorable Conditions is Needed in Eastern States.

NOT NEEDED IN SOME PARTS

Farmer Ordinarily Secures Material From an Old Sweet or Bur Clover Field—Several Machines Useful in Applying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Alfalfa failures, especially in the eastern parts of the country, result in many instances from the lack of or improper inoculation—the addition of enough bacteria to the soil to promote conditions favorable for the growth of the crop. Despite the popular conception that inoculation is necessary in all parts of the country, specialists report that throughout the alfalfa belt proper, which includes Montana, Wyoming, California, Colorado, Idaho, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, and nearly all of Texas, it is not necessary to inoculate for alfalfa.

In certain other sections of the country there are sufficient alfalfa or allied leguminous organisms in the soil to make a profitable growth of alfalfa possible. Where such crops as white or yellow sweet clover, California bur clover, southern bur clover, and yellow trefoil grow, it is unnecessary to inoculate for alfalfa.

Transferring inoculated soil from an old sweet clover field to a new alfalfa field.

Soil Should Be Neutral.

The soil should be neutral in order that the alfalfa bacteria may thrive, and unless the soil conditions are generally good it is impossible to grow alfalfa on a commercial scale.

Quite commonly the farmer secures his inoculation material from an old sweet clover or bur clover field, or else from an old alfalfa sod, applying the inoculated soil on a cloudy day or during the evening in order that the alfalfa bacteria may not be injured by the bright sunlight. Investigations have shown, however, that there is less danger of permanently injuring the alfalfa bacteria by sunlight than was formerly supposed, and although it is not advisable to court trouble by needlessly exposing inoculation material, this dirt, if necessary, can bear sunlight for several hours without severe injury.

Nodules Are Essential.

It is essential that the soil, if taken from old alfalfa fields, should be from those plots where the alfalfa plants show numerous nodules upon their roots. Such soil, well dried, pulverized, and sifted through a window screen, is best applied to the new field through the fertilizer attachment of a grain drill, by the use of a lime spreader followed by a smoothing harrow, or by distributing it with the aid of an end gate sower attached to a wagon box. Two hundred pounds or more of sifted field soil will be sufficient for an acre. It is necessary in obtaining the material to remove from the surface 2 or 3 inches of soil and to obtain the inoculating material from the underlying 6 or 7 inches. Broadcasting the soil by hand requires a larger quantity and is best done in the early morning, late evening, or on cloudy days in order to minimize the damage effected by the sun's rays.

The glue method of inoculation was widely practiced several years ago in Illinois. It consists of moistening the alfalfa seed with ordinary furniture glue and then sprinkling inoculated soil over it so that the soil will adhere to the seed and carry the bacteria on to the new field. Specifically, this method consists in dissolving two handfuls of glue for every gallon of boiling water and then allowing the solution to cool. Then the seed should be placed in a washtrub and enough of the solution sprinkled over the seed to moisten it, but not enough to wet the seed, one quart to the bushel usually being adequate. The soil from the inoculated field should be dried in the shade, pulverized into a fine dust and scattered uniformly over the seed, from one-half to one gallon of dirt being sufficient for each bushel of seed.

HEAVY HOG LOSS CAN BE LARGELY AVOIDED

Greater Care Should Be Used in Shipping Live Animals.

Cars Ought to Be Thoroughly Cleaned Before Loading and Not Overcrowded—Spraying While in Transit is Helpful.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Last May 651 hogs, weighing approximately 157,000 pounds, were unloaded dead, or died in the stockyards at the South St. Paul market. Of this number, 350 hogs, weighing approximately 102,000 pounds, died in transit or in yards during the last six days of the month. This was the week of the first real warm weather, and as is usually the case during the first hot spell in the summer season, the loss of hogs in transit was extremely heavy. The difference in price between dead or live hogs during this week was approximately 18 cents a pound, which would mean a total loss of about $18,000. This loss might have been largely avoided if the shippers had taken proper care in loading, seeing that all cars were properly cleaned before loading, and that cars were not loaded as heavily as is the custom in cooler weather. If these hogs had been loaded in clean cars the losses could have been further decreased by having them sprayed often in transit by the carrier, especially upon arrival at transfer points, and also upon delivery to the terminal. One of the largest buyers of hogs at the South St. Paul market, who ships to other markets for slaughter, states that the losses of his firm during the last week in May were no heavier than usual, but that they were extremely careful to have their cars thoroughly cleaned and sanded before loading, in addition to loading lighter than usual and taking the adequate precaution of requesting the railroad officials to issue instructions to have the hogs sprayed as often as possible in transit.

WATER HELPS LAYING FOWLS

Plentiful Supply Should Always Be Available for Hens—Stock-Feed-Rack Idea is Good.

A plentiful supply of clean, fresh water must always be available to hens. The fowls drink freely, especially when laying heavily, and should not be stinted of such a necessary and cheap material as water. The water pan or dish should be kept clean.

The stock-feed-rack idea has been successfully applied to the watering of poultry. One successful poultry raiser uses a contrivance such as the one illustrated on this page, the chickens being forced to hop upon an elevated platform in order to reach the water, and being prevented from standing on the edge of the dish or contaminating the water, because of the necessity of reaching between the slats to drink.

REASONS FOR FALL PLOWING

Longer Period Given for Decomposition of Stubble and Other Pieces of Vegetable Matter.

Fall plowing is a bank balance booster because it returns the best crops. It does this for several reasons, says Andrew Bous, vice director of the Minnesota experiment station, University farm, St. Paul:

It gives a longer period for the decomposition of the stubble and other particles of vegetable matter turned under in plowing.

It opens the soil to the fall rains. It helps to dispose of weeds which interfere with growth of crops. It lessens the amount of spring work and thereby allows the prompt sowing of the crops in the spring.

It enables one to avoid crowding at any time, and, therefore, is beneficial both to men and horses.

GIVE HARNESS PROPER CARE

First Wash With Warm Water and Soap, and While Still Moist Oil It Thoroughly.

To oil harness correctly, first wash the harness thoroughly with warm water and soap. Then hang the harness up to dry. Do not let it get dry, but when it is still moist, rub it thoroughly with some animal or vegetable oil. Pure neat-foot oil is the best oil known. This renews the softness of the leather and its flexibility. Do not use mineral oils on harness, for it has a destructive effect, say the farm engineering authorities at Iowa State college who make the foregoing recommendations.

Here's to the Turkey, how often, through the early snow, some sturdy pilgrim sought to slay thee for his feast Thanksgiving day, but fell before the red man's bow.

Here's to the Turkey, proudest, sweetest of the living, and, as we bow before our Lord around the yearly festive board, the gem of our Thanksgiving.

—Lewis Allen in Utica Saturday Globe.

WHERE THE BIRDS ARE BRED

Small Farms Are Large Producers of Piece de Resistance of the Thanksgiving Feast.

Although there are many great turkey ranches, and whole communities which live principally upon the raising of turkeys for market, such as Cuero, Tex., whose annual turkey parade preceding Thanksgiving includes thousands of turkeys bound for northern markets, as a rule turkeys are raised in small groups on farms which are interested in other commodities. They are often the sole dependence of the farmer's wife for pocket money throughout the year, and many a farmer's daughter also has been able to make a shining appearance in her world of fashion principally through the successful marketing of the turkey brood.

On the 5,000,000 farms of the United States there were, according to careful statistics taken some years ago, only 6,500,000 turkeys. Texas led among the states, producing 650,000. The other states which were large producers were Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Indiana. The state of Rhode Island, noted as it is for its turkeys, produced only 5,000. But the quality of the Rhode Island turkeys always has been excellent and they usually bring prices vastly in excess of those from other parts of the country.

And that ought to be enough about turkeys to get up a pretty good appetite for Thursday's dinner!

REALLY SURFEITED.

Weary—No, t'anks, ma'am. I've eat so much turkey dis week dat I gobbles in my sleep.

Great Reason for Gladness. The day set apart for Thanksgiving for the blessings of the year is a day when the nation is invited to inspect the tapestry of time and to see how steadfastly and how gratifying the old weaver has used the loom for the picture of American contentment and American happiness and American hope. Into the picture enters no public calamity, into it enters no widespread want. Thus the nation has great reason for gladness that it can hang upon the walls of civilization the picture that has been wrought out as the picture of American life from the busy weave of the multitude of individuals who make up that life.

Ranka With Christmas. Thanksgiving day is an old and honored institution in this country. In 1789 the Protestant Episcopal church formally recognized the government's authority to appoint such a "feast," but it was celebrated with more zest in New England than in any other section. There it is an occasion for annual family reunions, and as a Boston writer says, "it takes the place which in England is accorded to Christmas."

MOST FRAGRANT OF FLOWERS

Baltimore Admirer Declares the Breath of the Lilac Stands Unmatched for Sweetness.

When the lilac breathes, odors of Araby become fetid and astringent in comparison. When the lilac breathes, their odorous breath carries the fragrance of the distillation of a generation of life and love that they have gathered to themselves, where they have bloomed by the garden wall or against the porch pillar. The old home—wonderful in the vividness of its memories and associations—is created by the picturing of beauty and tenderness that the fragrance of the blossoming lilac brings to the mind. One sees the path through the garden winding down to the clump of lilacs. The faces of other days are framed in the pictures that fancy creates through the magic of the lilacs.

The panicles of bloom are in full flower and the blooms will be hailed with joy by the multitudes who have in their feelings the sentiments to which lilacs appeal. They are a meditative and reflective kind of flower. They come so quietly in the spring. They bloom forth so abundantly and magnificently. They sing their concert to the airs of April and cause the four winds of the heavens to become their survivors to the joy of mankind.

The lilacs are the softest and most persuasive of all tints, those of lavender and purple, with some of driven whiteness. How wonderful their beauty, the assembling of the blossoms and their disposition upon the branch! How full of art! How exquisitely Dresden is the lilac as it swings in the breeze! And every lilac bush is a product of years of growth, and that growth goes on perennially until one and another generation is laid beneath the sod, and the lilac has been entrusted with the cherished memories of youth and maturity and age—passed out of life.—Baltimore American.

Coach Courtney 70.

Charles E. Courtney, coach of the Cornell freshmen and varsity crew for the past 35 years, celebrated his 70th birthday Nov. 13. Only one thing is worrying Cornell's "Grand Old Man," he says, and that is whether Cornell will win the Hudson regatta next spring.

Courtney was born in Union Springs in 1849, and when nineteen years old began his rowing career. His first sculling race was at Aurora, and though his homemade craft appeared clumsy beside those of his opponents, he won his first race handily. During the next nine years he took part in 88 races, winning all of them. During this time he rowed against some of the greatest scullers in the world.

Thirty-five years ago he took charge of the Cornell crews and since that time his record as a coach has been unsurpassed. Seldom has a Cornell crew coached by Courtney lost a race.

Death of Donald Judson.

Donald Judson, for many years a merchant in Union Springs, died Thursday, Nov. 13, at his home in that village. Mr. Judson was 61 years of age. He retired from the hardware business Jan. 1 last, after conducting a store in Union Springs for the greater part of his lifetime.

Third Red Cross Roll Call.

The third Red Cross roll call committee of the Cayuga County chapter, A. R. C., announces a total membership to date, of between 7,500 and 8,000, for the entire chapter. Of this, over 2,900 enrollments are from the county branches and the balance is from the city, with several branches and city districts not reported.

The committee is very much gratified at the result of the campaign, which is due entirely to the untiring efforts and splendid spirit of all the team captains and their workers. Each man and woman has felt an individual and personal responsibility for his or her territory, which has not flagged in the face of many discouraging experiences. The co-operation of the merchants, factories, managers of the theaters, and of the press, have been of invaluable assistance. The solicitors in the country have had bad weather and muddy roads to contend with and the fine showing of the Branch reports indicates a wonderful response.

While the total is considerably less than it was during the war, these figures show a real interest in Red Cross which augurs well for the future usefulness of the chapter.

The details of the campaign have not yet been finished and will be published later. The headquarters of the chapter is at 145 Genesee street, Auburn, N. Y., and is managed by James W. Nolan. The campaign is at an end, but the reports are still being received.

Misapprehension

Uncle Eben—I just had a letter from an automobile fellow saying as he wants to sell me an enclosed fivver.

Uncle Ezra—Are you going to buy it?

Uncle Eben—I dunno. I got the letter all right, but there warn't no fivver enclosed.—Judge.

Many cooks add a little vanilla to chocolate or cocoa to improve the aroma and flavor. Have you ever added a little cinnamon, instead? Some folks like it.
