New Dairymen's Company.

The Cayuga Dairymen's Co-operative Association, Inc., recently organized by about 400 farmers in Cayuga county, to take over control of the Central State Milk Products company, have filed papers of incorporation at the county clerk's office. The main office will be in the old Independent Brewing Company plant in Clark St., Auburn.
The last Saturday of January in each year is designated the time for the annual meeting of the directors and members of the association. It is also written in the agreement that the amount of indebtedness incurred by the association shall not exceed at any time the sum of $100,000. Each of the 400 or more members are safe-guarded in their interest in the new company so that each, individually or jointly, is not liable for indebtedness over $50. The capital stock of the company is $100,000.
The five directors, who have been entrusted with the responsibility of re-establishing the milk industry are James Voorhees of Sennett, Coral C. Culver of Poplar Ridge, Anson L. Jenks of Genoa, Edwin S. Fessenden of King Ferry, and Frank Gilder-alee of Union Springs.

Senator Hewitt Honored.

The Federal Government has contributed to the State of New York $13,500,000 with which to build highways. To this the State has appropriated an equal sum, making a total of $27,000,000 available for improved roads within the State.
The State Legislature has appointed a joint commission of three senators and five assemblymen to designate the highways to be improved and to expend the funds. The committee is known as "The Special Legislative Federal Aid Highway Committee."
The chairman of this committee is Senator Charles J. Hewitt of the home district, the selection being a mark of Mr. Hewitt's worth and ability as a public official. The honor is conferred by men who have been intimately associated with him for the last ten years and who are thoroughly acquainted with both his personal worth and his record as a senator.
It is not too much to say that no single person in the State Legislature has been invested with greater responsibility than has Senator Hewitt in this instance.
Senator Hewitt has unusual experience in highway legislation and the people of the State may rest assured that their money will be expended economically.

Berries in Home Garden.

Because of the scarcity of fruit and high prices, persons who have garden space are urged to devote some of it to raspberries as a crop which is easy to care for and stands some neglect.
This recommendation comes from Samuel S. Hale, local editor of the Oxford (Chenango County) Review-Times. He has just written to the College of Agriculture at Ithaca, describing his experience with small fruits. This is what he says:
"Three years ago I set Columbia red raspberries in two rows each 60 feet long. This season we have picked 70 quarts of berries; last year about 50 quarts. The bushes have received but little attention, are not thinned, and were not cultivated; but I did prune them. I manured the rows with litter from the chicken house. The berries took the place of apples, peaches, and other fruit which is ordinarily used for canning, as our apple crop was a failure and other fruit was not shipped in. Conditions are the same this fall. Am going to set more berries and set out currants and gooseberries also, and increase the number of hills of pie plant."
All varieties of raspberries may not do equally well throughout the State. Persons who may wish to follow the advice of Mr. Hale can get information as to the variety suited to their locality from the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, or from the Geneva Experiment Station.

Struck by Lehigh Flier.

Five persons, all residents of Waterloo, were instantly killed Sunday at noon when the auto in which they were riding was struck by a fast Lehigh express train, due in Romulus about 10:30 a. m. The accident happened at the Manee crossing, about one-quarter of a mile north of that village.
The victims were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wheeler and Walter Wheeler, aged 15.
At the time of the crash the car was driven by Mr. Quinn. Mr. and Mrs. Quinn were coming to spend the day with their daughter, Mrs. C. O. Wheeler in Romulus, and the remainder of the party, all immediate relatives of C. O. Wheeler, were accompanying them.
The only witness besides the engineer was John M. Adair, who resides a short distance from the scene of the accident. Mr. Adair states that the engineer gave ample warning, but that the driver of the auto increased the speed of the car, trying to beat the train across the crossing.
The view of the crossing is somewhat obstructed but adequate protection has been provided by crossing alarms which were working properly at the time, it is said.

Lobdell Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Lobdell family was held on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy J. Lobdell, Ithaca. There were about 35 persons present from East Lansing, Ludlowville, Syracuse and North Lansing. After the usual chicken pie dinner, the meeting was called at 3:30 to elect the officers for the coming year and also the place to have the next meeting. The following officers were elected: Jonathan Lobdell, president; William Lobdell, vice president; Mrs. Garfield Townley, secretary; Helen Lobdell, treasurer. The next annual meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Page, near Ludlowville, the time to be decided later. The afternoon was spent with music and visiting. About 5:30 the relatives departed, all having enjoyed a pleasant day.

Doris Coggshall.

Doris Coggshall, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coggshall of Groton, died Friday evening last after a brief illness.
The funeral was held from the home of her parents, north of Groton on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. W. Schumaker officiating. Interment in the Groton Rural cemetery.

Tompkins County Fair.

The Tompkins County fair will be held at the fairgrounds in Ithaca on four days, from Sept. 16 to 19 inclusive. Already entries for the big fair which this year will surpass anything ever attempted by the fair association have been coming in in record numbers to C. Owen Carman, secretary, at Ithaca, and it is expected that the event will be the largest ever held in this part of the state.
Conway's Celebrated Concert band, which is now completing a big summer's engagement at the Steel Pier at Atlantic City, will come to the Tompkins County fair for the four days, playing programs every afternoon and evening.
Several airplanes have been engaged for a spectacular aerial exhibition every day of the fair. All the stunts that the military aviators "pulled" on the Huns in France during the war will be depicted above the heads of the throngs at the fair in Ithaca. This feature alone has cost the fair association a nice sum of money to secure and will be worth watching.
Exhibitions of all kinds of farm machinery including the special farm lighting systems and farm fire protection and community improvements will be shown in the halls and tents.
With $7,000 in premium money open to all entrants the fair is giving more prizes this year than ever before. The horse races will be $4,000, large purses being given to the winners. Don't forget dates of fair—Sept. 16 to 19.

The Bower Reunion.

On Wednesday, Aug. 20, the annual reunion of the Bower family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton I. Swayze. A beautiful dinner was served on the lawn about 2 o'clock. The afternoon was spent in visiting, except for the time taken for the business meeting to elect the officers and select a place to hold the next annual meeting. The following officers were elected: Clayton I. Swayze, president; Frank Campbell, vice president; Jennie Bower, secretary and treasurer. The next annual reunion was decided to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ayers, near East Lansing, the date to be decided later. About 50 were present and all enjoyed a good time.

$3.21 For September Milk.

League milk for September has been sold for $3.21, or about 6 8-10 cents per quart. This price is for 3 per cent milk at the 200-210 mile zone with the usual differentials for freight and butterfat. The September price is 8 cents a hundred more than was paid producers for August milk. It was determined by the price agreement now in force between producers and dealers which takes both market conditions and cost of production into consideration.
The average market price of butter for the thirty days ending with Aug. 20 was $5.452. The average market price of cheese for the same period was $3.131.

C. N. Y. Firemen Officers.

John W. Illston of Ithaca was elected president of the Central New York Firemen's Association at the closing meeting of the state convention Aug. 21. Dr. Julian Smith of Union was named treasurer, with Rev. W. S. Stevens of Moravia as chaplain.
Eight vice presidents were named, one from each county represented in the association. From Cayuga county the vice president was Earl Ercanbrack of Moravia, and the member of the Executive committee from this county was H. F. Wright of Moravia.

Nation-wide daylight saving will come to an end with the last Sunday in October. Municipalities may continue the rule for themselves, however. In New York city a scheme is under consideration for daylight saving from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in September. City people may then get the benefits for themselves without inconveniencing rural workers.—Es.

LEAGUE FULFILLS AMERICAN IDEAL

Herbert Hoover Says Democracies Replaced Autocracies at Our Bidding.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION CHIEF.

Urges Ratification on Ground That Peace Treaty Will Collapse Without League of Nations.

Herbert Hoover is so deeply concerned over the opposition to the League of Nations in the United States that he has let himself be interviewed at length on the League situation. In a talk with the New York Times correspondent in Paris, the Food Administration Chief asserts that having caused the League idea to prevail America cannot abandon it. We cannot withdraw, he says, and leave Europe to chaos. "To abandon the League Covenant now means that the treaty itself will collapse."

Mr. Hoover's wide acquaintance with conditions both here and abroad, his reputation as an administrator, a man of great affairs who deals with facts, not theories, make his statement one of the most important contributions to the recent League discussions.

"There are one or two points in connection with the present treaty," said Mr. Hoover, "that need careful consideration by the American public. We need to digest the fact that we have for a century and a half been advocating democracy not only as a remedy for the internal ills of all society, but also as the only real safeguard against war. We have believed and proclaimed, in season and out, that a world in which there was a free expression and enforcement of the will of the majority was the real basis of government, was essential for the advancement of civilization, and that we have proved its enormous human benefits in our country."

"American Ideas Have Prevailed. We went into the war to destroy autocracy as a menace to our own and all other democracies. If we had not come into the war every inch of European soil today would be under autocratic government. We have imposed our will on the world. Out of this victory has come the destruction of the four great autocracies in Germany, Russia, Turkey and Austria and the little autocracy in Greece. New democracies have sprung into being in Poland, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, Czechoslovakia, Greater Serbia, Greece, Siberia, and even Germany and Austria have established democratic governments. Beyond these a host of small republics, such as Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan and others, have sprung up, and again as a result of this great world movement the constitutions of Spain, Rumania, and even England, have made a final ascent to complete franchise and democracy, although they still maintain a symbol of royalty."

"We have been the living spring for this last century and half from which these ideas have sprung, and we have triumphed. The world today, except for a comparatively few reactionary and communistic autocracies, is democratic, and we did it."

"A man who takes a wife and blesses the world with several infants cannot go away and leave them on the claim that there was no legal marriage. These infant democracies all have political, social and economic problems involving their neighbors that are fraught with the most intense friction. There are no natural boundaries in Europe. Races are not compact; they blend at every border. They need railway communication and sea outlets through their neighbors' territory."

"Many of these states must for the next few years struggle almost for bare bones to maintain their very existence. Every one of them is going to do its best; to protect its own interests, even to the prejudice of its neighbors."

Governments Lack Experience. "We in America should realize that democracy, as a stable form of government as we know it, is possible only with highly educated populations and a large force of men who are capable of government. Few of the men who compose these governments have had any actual experience at governing and their populations are woefully illiterate.

"They will require a generation of actual national life in peace to develop free education and skill in government."

"Unless these countries have a guiding hand and referee in their quarrels, a court of appeals for their wrongs, this Europe will go back to chaos. If there is such an institution, representing the public opinion of the world, and able to exert its authority, they will grow into stability. We cannot turn back now."

"There is another point which also needs emphasis. World treaties hitherto have always been based on the theory of a balance of power. Stronger races have been set up to dominate the weaker, partly with a view to maintaining stability and to a greater degree with a view to maintaining occupations and positions for the reactionaries of the world."

"The balance of power is born of armics and navies, aristocracies, autocracies, and reactionaries generally, who can find employment and domination in these institutions, and treaties founded on this basis have established stability after each great war for a shorter or longer time, but never more than a generation."

"America came forward with a new idea, and we insisted upon its injection into this peace conference. We claimed that it was possible to set up such a piece of machinery with such authority that the balance of power could be abandoned as a relic of the middle ages. We compelled an entire construction of this treaty and every word and line in it to bend to this idea."

"Outside of the League of Nations the treaty itself has many deficiencies. It represents compromises between many men and between many selfish interests, and these very compromises and deficiencies are multiplied by the many new nations that have entered upon its signature, and the very safety of the treaty itself lies in a court of appeal for the remedy of wrongs in the treaty."

Benefits of the League. "One thing is certain. There is no body of human beings so wise that a treaty could be made that would not develop injustice and prove to have been wrong in some particulars. As the covenant stands today there is a place at which redress can be found and through which the good-will of the world can be enforced. The very machinery by which the treaty is to be executed, and scores of points yet to be solved, which have been referred to the League of Nations as a method of securing more mature judgment in a less heated atmosphere, justifies the creation of the League."

"To abandon the covenant now means that the treaty itself will collapse."

"It would take the exposure of but a few documents at my hand to prove that I had been the most reluctant of Americans to become involved in this situation in Europe. But having gone in with our eyes open and with a determination to free ourselves and the rest of the world from the dangers that surrounded us, we cannot now pull back from the job. It is no use to hold a great revival and then go away leaving a church for continued services half done."

"We have succeeded in a most extraordinary degree in imposing upon Europe the complete conviction that we are absolutely disinterested. The consequence is that there is scarcely a man, woman or child who can read in Europe that does not look to the United States as the ultimate source from which they must receive assurances and guardianship in the liberties which they have now secured after so many generations of struggle."

"This is not a problem of protecting the big nations, for the few that remain can well look after themselves. What we have done is to set up a score of little democracies, and if the American people could visualize their handiwork they would insist with the same determination that they did in 1917 that our government proceed."

BOY SCOUTS

M'ADOO STRONG FOR SCOUTS.

The following telegram from former Secretary of the Treasury W. G. M'Adoo was sent from Santa Barbara, Cal., to Chief Scout Executive James E. West of the Boy Scouts of America, New York:

"Truly the organized boyhood of America as constituted in the boy scouts has rendered an extraordinary and wonderful service to the country in connection with the Liberty loan and War and Thrift Stamps campaigns. In the fourth Liberty loan campaign I am told that the boy scouts secured subscriptions for $92,000,000 representing 700,000 subscribers, and that in the War and Thrift Stamps campaign they have sold approximately $42,300,000 to 2,150,000 individuals. This is an inspiring achievement, and the Boy Scouts of America have vindicated by their initiative, patriotism, energy and courage the highest conceptions of junior American citizenship. Give the valiant troops of the boy scout organization my warm congratulations and best wishes. I am proud of these boys, and the country is proud of them. There is still vital work to be done for the country, and I look to the boy scouts to do their part with the same valor and patriotism they have exhibited in previous campaigns."

EXPLORER ANTHONY FIALA.

Noted arctic circle traveler is now commissioner of boy scouts at Springfield, Mass.

PRINCIPLE OF SCOUTING.

Scouting is becoming an important factor in the successful raising of boys to manhood. The scout movement develops the sense of duty in the youngster that enables him to probe within himself for the many characteristics. It's a man-size job to be done in a man's way, and W. A. Perry, the editor of Scouting, offers a few lines on that subject:

"I am not interested in scouting in a high-priced school amid landscape gardening, and stately, and drinking fountains—all made by somebody else—I am interested in a forest far from civilization, where I must either conquer nature—or confess myself a weakling. It is a fine thing to teach boys to stand in line with spotless uniforms and win the applause of a crowd gathered to witness a dress parade. But I would rather develop a boy, so that he could walk alone into a world of wickedness, conscious of the great laws back of it all, with a spirit which would make him forget self and fight for the right."

SCOUT ASLEEP KEPT SECRET.

"But, mamma, what did I say? What did I say?" There was anxiety in the boy scout's tones.

The little fellow had joined the tenderfoot class of the boy scouts the night before, and had been cautioned not to reveal the password of the rank, to not even mention it "in his sleep."

Next morning his mother asked him what made him so nervous during his sleep, telling him he had talked all night long, according to the story, reaching J. E. Pershing, scout executive of Oklahoma City, a cousin of General Pershing.

When assured that the secret word was still sacredly kept, he breathed a long sigh and the look of relief that swept his face was like a burst of sunshine after a storm.

BOY SCOUT DOINGS.

A boy scout firemanship examination was held in Spokane, Wash., and the 75 scouts who took the examination passed.

As their "good turn" Troop No. 18 of Toledo, O., scraped the church fire-escape with wire brushes so it could be repainted.

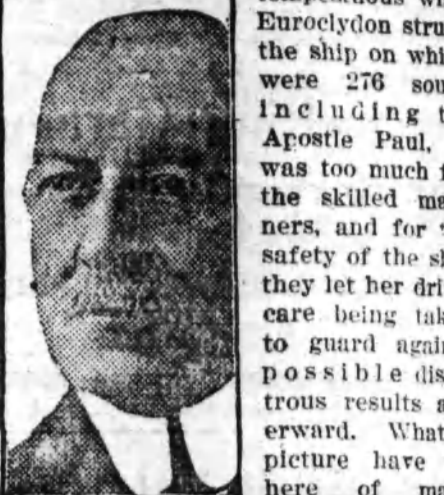

When a Vineland, N. J., milk dealer offered the boy scouts a prize to find his 1,500 missing bottles, one scout found 80 in one back yard. Eighteen scouts located 1,087 bottles.

The Drift of Things

By REV. J. H. RALSTON, D. D., Secretary of Correspondence Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—We let her drive . . . —Act 27:15.

Are you caught in the drift? Is it carrying you to the rocks? When the tempestuous wind Euroclydon struck the ship on which were 276 souls, including the Apostle Paul, it was too much for the skilled mariners, and for the safety of the ship they let her drive, care being taken to guard against possible disastrous results afterward. What a picture have we here of many human lives! The winds of fortune, as the saying is, have been too much for them, and they are simply drifting. The vast majority do not seem to care whether the drift ends disastrously or not.

Possibly the majority do not think of the power of the influence about them that causes the drift. It is not fair to God to charge him with being so arbitrary in his sovereign control that man is without responsibility. Whatever may be the destiny that shapes our ends, man is in a true sense master of his own fate.

Seeking after pleasure is a strong wind that is blowing and carrying multitudes before it. The great theaters, as a rule, are packed for practically every performance. In the saloons, men are standing two or three deep before the bars. Where fees and sweet-meats are served, the tables will all be taken. Go to the great athletic fields, and thousands will be found. The spirit with reference to pleasure seems to be, "Let us eat, drink, and be merry, for tomorrow we die."

Is the church caught in any drift? A way to the world is the movement in many churches, and not only congregations but entire denominations are diligently using the methods of the world in order to successfully "put over" certain great denominational schemes. Sad is the condition of the day!

What about the drift of Christian teaching? Twenty-five years ago men were asking with some concern if the teaching of the great German theologians might not be ultimately dangerous. Quickly came the reply: "These men have truth and are the heralds of a day of religions and spiritual enlightenment for which the world has been hungering." The same question was asked in later years, but the power of false teaching continued, and the church of God, caught in the drift, went on until the great world war was like a searching light making everything plain. That drift has not stopped, and many days, yes, possibly years, may pass, before the church reaches some Isle of Melita, where it may possibly go to pieces on the rocks, but God's people in it be saved.

What is the great lesson from such drift? First, keep where the wind of doubt and criticism may not catch you. It is simply not true that the day in which we find ourselves, as to Christian teaching and living, is better than a former day. Spiritual values cannot be calculated in terms of dollars and cents, nor in steam and air pressure, dead weight or voltage. How foolish it is to think that the scientific attainments of men can solve spiritual problems. Germany's science was said to have been given by God, in order that she might rule the world. The blast of the Lord came to Germany, as it came to the hosts of Sennacherib.

If possible, do not get into the drift. There are plenty of godly men and women today who fully escaped the skeptical drift of the last quarter of a century. Keep close to the truth of the Word of God, and not only yourself but your cause will be saved.

How easy it is to get into the drift of immorality. The gross sins are not committed at the first. The eating of the forbidden fruit by Adam and Eve was not a gross sin at all; indeed, it was not sinful in itself, but it was an act of distrust and ultimately of disobedience, and thus became a sin. But there is something more important than high morality. There is a drifting away from the personal God. The only return to God is by a personal surrender to Jesus Christ.

Fresh Methods. Originality in a Sunday school teacher does not always mean doing new things, or even doing old things in new ways. An original teacher is one who brings to his work the quality of freshness, as if his were the first Sunday school class ever taught and he the first Sunday school teacher in the world's history. Sunday school teaching, to the original teacher, has the charm of beginnings, the romance of discovery. He attacks every new lesson with the zest of a Columbus. Whether his methods are new or not, they seem new to himself, and he makes them seem new to his deluged pupils. For what young man, or old for that matter, does not enjoy setting forth into a wonderland?

The Thrice-A-Week Edition OF THE New York World

IN 1919.
Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price. The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. We have been forced to enter the great world war, and a mighty army of ours is already in France fighting great battles and winning magnificent victories. You will want to have all the news from our troops on European battlefields, and 1919 promises to be the most momentous year in the history of our universe. No other newspaper at so small a price will furnish such prompt and accurate news of these world-shaking events. It is not necessary to say more. THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Genoa Tribune together for one year for $2.25. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $2.50.

PARBER'S HAIR BALM
A gentle preparation of herbs, which restores color and luster to gray and faded hair. It is sold in 25c and 50c bottles.

MOST PERFECT RECRUIT.

Martin C. Osberg of Harmony, Mo., who has just enlisted in the army, is the most perfect physical specimen out of 10,000 persons who have presented themselves for army service during the past few years at the Boston recruiting station. Osberg is a Swede, but came to this country early in life and lived on a farm, which he claims is the secret of his physical perfection. He is twenty years old, weighs 152 pounds, stands 66 1/2 inches and has a chest measure of 24 to 30 inches.

EAST ADOPTS ENGLISH

Elementary Schools of Near East Make Study Compulsory

Soon Will Displace French as the Language of Diplomacy and Business.

Island of Crete.—The English language promises soon to displace French as the language of business and diplomacy.

All through the Near East the Anglo-American influence has resulted in thousands of elementary schools instituting English as a compulsory language. Even in the Mediterranean Isle, the home of Premier Venizelos, instruction in the English language has been arranged for.

American scientific agriculturalists are now completing a survey of the soil possibilities of Crete in the same thorough fashion in which they surveyed the Greek mainland. Cretan soil is somewhat exhausted by centuries of cultivation without replacement of soil food, but with an abundant source of water supply in the mountains and available fertilizer it is believed much of it will respond to proper treatment.

American farming machinery and up-to-date methods are needed, and arrangements have been made to systematically educate the farmers of Greece and its largest island so that they can increase their yield of crops. Maj. C. G. Hopkins of the Illinois agricultural department, and Lieut. C. J. Bouyoucos, a native Greek educated in America and a former instructor at Michigan Agricultural College, are in charge of the agricultural survey of Greece and Crete.

About five thousand refugees from Asia Minor are sheltered and fed on the island of Crete. These are distributed in the large towns of Candia, Retimno and Canea, and in the small towns of the interior. American Red Cross representatives have visited these refugees as well as the civilian and military hospitals on the island of Crete, in addition to investigating the conditions of the Greek soldiery returned from German prison camps and the townspeople of the island.

The greatest needs of the inhabitants of the island are institutions for the treatment of tuberculosis, medicines and medical supplies, blankets and staple foods.

Prospector Wants to Dig Up Old Gold Bar

Topeka, Kan.—James Foreman, 68, one of the old pioneer settlers of Salina, created some comment there when he declared that there was a bar of pure gold beneath the street car track on Santa Fe avenue—that it was a bar of gold taken from him in the early days and buried. He is now in Salina for the purpose of getting the gold, but he can't get permission of the president of the street car company to do any digging around the tracks. Foreman says the president of the car company knows exactly where the bar is, because he told him. Local officers succeeded in locating a sister and a brother of Foreman in Indiana, and they have been notified to look after their brother. In the meantime the county is keeping Foreman and paying the bill of expense, but Foreman says when he gets his bar of gold he will repay the county and have a comfortable fortune left.

TAFT OUTLINES LEAGUE PLAN

Puts It Into Plain Language Free From Legal and Diplomatic Verbiage, in Response to Request.

MANY ARE CONFUSED BY PRESENT DEBATE

Danger That People Will Lose Sight of Basic Principles During Discussion of Complicated Details and Technicalities.

(By ex-President William H. Taft.)

The plan for a League of Nations is based on a few simple principles, which are not hard to understand when lifted out of the morass of technical discussion and freed from legal and diplomatic language. As the one authority best able to present these points without partisan bias, ex-President Taft has been asked to put the league idea into a few plain words for the benefit of millions of Americans who desire a better understanding of the plan but find themselves confused by the debate in the United States Senate. In response to this request he has written the following article.

Purpose of the League.
The chief purpose of the League of Nations is to keep the world in a state of peace. Another way of expressing it is to say that the league is designed to prevent wars. We have just finished the greatest, which is to say the most horrible, of all conflicts between nations. We have won a glorious victory. But that victory will be wasted unless this war has made the nations ready to put aside their differences and cooperate to end war forever.

It is not enough, however, to provide for the prevention of wars and the settlement of disputes after they have arisen. We must foresee causes of trouble and remove them before they have reached an acute stage. Hence there must be provision for frequent consultations of members of the league for exchange of information, for agreement on common policies and for the gradual formation of rules of international law which at present are uncertain and incomplete.

The representatives of the great free nations which won the war have met at Paris and, after long consultation, have drawn an agreement which they believe will accomplish these ends. At the very least it will set in motion great changes which will result in universal benefit to all mankind. This agreement is called the Covenant of the League of Nations and it is a part of the peace treaty.

There will be no league worth talking about, however, unless the United States is a member. The decision as to whether the United States shall join rests with our Senate. The Senators, chosen by the people, will in the end vote as the people desire. For this reason the people themselves will decide whether or not the United States will join the league. In this question every citizen should have a voice. He or she can express opinion either by writing direct to Senators, by letters to the newspapers, by speeches in his lodge or local union or in conversation with friends.

Methods of Maintaining Peace.
Since the prime object of the League of Nations is to preserve peace—and to reap the benefits of peace—let us see how the league will operate to accomplish that purpose.

In the first place it will seek to remove the main causes of war. By the formation of an international court it will create a means for the peaceful settlement of disputes between nations. Then it will seek to compel the nations to make use of this court. This is nothing more nor less than an application of the rules and customs governing private individuals in civilized communities to the relations between nations.

Secondly, the League will seek to remove a great temptation to war by the general agreement to reduce the size of armies and navies. This will halt the race for military and naval supremacy which was largely responsible for the war just ended. The amount of armament any nation may maintain will be strictly defined. Thus it will be impossible for one country to overwhelm its neighbor by unexpected attack, in the way that Germany crushed Belgium and would have crushed France had not the other democratic nations gone to her aid. The idea is that each country may keep an army and navy large enough to enable it to fulfill its responsibilities as a member of the League, but no larger. The United States, for example, probably would be expected to keep a check on Mexico and the state of constant turmoil in that country would be taken into consideration in deciding how large an army we should need.

The third important safeguard which the League will set up is a system of penalties. This will make an outlaw of any nation or group of nations which goes to war in violation of the rules of the League. The outlawed nation will be boycotted by all the other members of the League and will find itself cut off from both business and social communication with the rest of the world.

How It Will Prevent Wars.
It is not claimed that the League of Nations will do away with war altogether. Every possible provision that human intelligence can devise will be made to settle international disputes peaceably. But should all these measures fail and two nations go to war this is what will happen:

If both parties to the dispute have observed the rules of the League, the other nations will stand back and let them fight it out. War under such circumstances is difficult to imagine however, because before the angry nations will be allowed to fight in accordance with the rules of the League, so much time must elapse that in all probability their anger will cool and they will reach an amicable understanding.

What we have to fear is that some nation will go to war in defiance of the League, and every precaution has been taken to suppress such a nation by the immediate use of the united power of the other nations. If international boycott failed to bring her to terms she would have to face a combined international army and navy. The founders of the League believe that the mere possibility of such a situation will prevent any nation from violating its agreement. Does anyone think that Germany would have begun war five years ago if she had known that nearly all the other great powers would combine against her?

Doing the World's Work.
In addition to settling international disputes peaceably the League of Nations will provide means for doing much of the world's work more systematically and effectively than can be done now when each nation is working only for itself. The people you know best and like best are those who work with you on the same job. It will be the same way with the nations of the future. The more they work together, the sooner they will come to understand and like each other.

For example, the League will establish an international organization for the bettering of labor conditions in different countries, for the protection of women and children and the native inhabitants of civilized and semi-civilized countries. One of Germany's greatest crimes has been her barbarous treatment of the helpless people in some of her colonies. One of the chief tasks of the League will be to look after peoples that are not strong enough to protect themselves.

The League will appoint commissions to take charge of various international undertakings so that they may be carried on, not for the benefit of any one nation, but for the benefit of the whole world. Provision will be made for promotion of fair and equal trade conditions.

These are only a few of the benefits the world will derive from the League. As time goes on we shall find more and more tasks at which the nations can work in common and a greater number of opportunities to remove causes which stir up jealousies and animosities between races and peoples.

Objections Answered.
Of course we cannot hope to make the great changes such as the League of Nations will bring about without opposition. Fortunately the war has taught us the great advantages of international co-operation. It was only by good team work that the free liberty loving nations were able to whip Germany.

The treaty which the United States Senate is debating obligates the members of the proposed League to protect one another against attack from enemies outside their own boundaries bent upon conquest. Although this agreement (Article X of the Covenant) is vital to any arrangement which seeks to prevent war, it has been attacked on the ground that it would draw the United States into wars in various parts of the world and force us to send our boys to fight in quarrels which did not concern us.

We should remember, however, that the main purpose of Article X is to frighten nations tempted to wars of conquest from yielding to the temptation by the knowledge that they will be crushed if they begin such a war by a universal boycott and a union of forces of the world against them. If a big war breaks out again, the United States will be forced to take part in it whether or not the League of Nations is set up. We tried hard enough to keep out of the war with Germany but found we couldn't.

A little war contrary to the League rules could be handled by the powers close at hand. Certainly it would not be necessary to send American troops to suppress an uprising in the Balkans which might be stirred up by the armies of Italy or some other nearby powerful nation could suppress the fracas before American troops could even get started.

Great Risks Are Small Loss.
We had to make many sacrifices to win the last war and we made them willingly because we knew they were worth while. They will be the same in a smaller degree with a League of Nations. When men form a business partnership each one has to make concessions to the views and opinions of the other members of the firm. When we enter the League of Nations we may have to give up certain privileges, but the losses will be small compared with the profits. The only danger which we run is to sacrifice our independence of action to make her own decisions.

Dies at Daughter's Home.

Mrs. Esther King Rhinehart, widow of Philip H. Rhinehart, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George W. Lawson, Scipio, Thursday afternoon, Aug. 29. She had been ill for some time, but her condition was not regarded as serious until a few days before her death when she suffered a stroke.

Besides Mrs. Lawson, she is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Charles Casler of Ledyard and Mrs. Willard Blowers of Auburn, and four brothers, John and Arthur King of Scipio, Lincoln King of Weedsport and Frank King of Springport.

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at Mrs. Lawson's home and burial was made in Fleming Rural cemetery.

Fourth in Membership.

Mid-year reports show that the farm bureau associations of New York now have 66,735 members, or an increase of 23,123 since July 1, 1918.

On that date 20.4 per cent of the farmers of New York State were members, at the present time 31.3 are members.

Based on the total membership in each county the following five counties lead the state in actual number of farmers enrolled with the Farm Bureau: Niagara, 2,294; Otsego, 2,283; Wayne, 2,207; Cayuga, 2,171; Madison, 2,105.

Theater Attractions.

The next big attraction booked for the Auditorium, Auburn, will be Miss Edna Goodrich and her excellent supporting company in the comedy success of New York, London and Paris, "Sleeping Partners" Thursday evening, Sept. 11. Miss Goodrich is one of the most beautiful women on the American stage. "Sleeping Partners" is one of the best and funniest comedies that has been produced in years. A special scale of prices has been made for this performance with plenty of the lower priced seats on the main floor. Sale of seats opens at the Auditorium, Tuesday, Sept. 9. Phone 2345M.

County Gets the Jobs.

Commissioner of Highways, Frederick Stuart Greene, has accepted the bids of the Board of Supervisors of the county of Cayuga for completing part two of the Fleming-Scipio road at a cost of $103,432.15 and for completing the Venice Center-Genoa road for $180,686.60. The county was the only bidder on the two contracts.

Watkins papers state that the present is the best season that Watkins Glen has had since it became a state reservation. Not long ago there was a slogan, "See America first." "See Central New York first" would be good.

Ivan Knapp, 12, son of Emory Knapp of Dryden, was killed in that village Aug. 24, when his bicycle collided with an auto. The boy was riding with his head down and apparently did not see the car. He struck on his head and lived but a few minutes. The driver claims he tried to turn out of the way but the boy turned the same way making the collision unavoidable.

Final Summer Cleanup

After my sale which ended on the 23rd, I find I have quite a few odd suits of each lot. Everything has been bought since May. I am bound to keep new stocks every season. I will make a still further cut in the price in order to sell them out before my fall stock comes in.

Although the goods on hand have raised in value since I bought them, I am willing to sacrifice price in order to make a clean sweep.

Big line of gents' furnishings at a special price all this month.

Every purchase you make at this present cut price will mean a big saving to you as the present prices on the same merchandise are worth a third more since I bought them. I like to see all my old friends at my store and give them the best values I can.

—Rev. Frederick T. Crumley of Uskeep lodge, I. O. O. F. of Locke, was chosen Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F., of the State of New York for the ensuing year at the session of the Grand Lodge held in Utica recently. Mr. Crumley is well known in this vicinity.

—Saturday, Sept. 13, has been decided upon as the date for the big Cayuga county welcome home entertainment at Lakeside Park. Every service man and woman in the county is to be given the best entertainment possible for the committee in charge to provide. Following a short parade the outing itself will begin at the park, and nothing will be left undone to give all a good time. The sum of $5,000 will be devoted to the victory celebration.

Genoa Presbyterian Church Notes.

Rev. Samuel R. Brown of Warrensburg, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit next Sunday as a candidate. Mr. Brown has been pastor of the church at Warrensburg for several years, and has some good recommendations. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of the church and congregation next Sunday, as the church needs a settled pastor.

Sunday school and young people's meeting at the usual hours.

The church was filled last Sunday evening to hear the young men from the Binghamton Bible school, who had been conducting meetings in this vicinity for a week. Music was furnished by the young men, who played violin, cornet and trombone, assisted by Miss Cope at the piano. The sermon was given by the "boy preacher," A. V. Lawson of New York, who used the words, "Ye must be born again" as his text. The congregation generally commended the enthusiasm of the young preacher, and the music was much enjoyed.

Genoa Baptist Church Notes.

R. A. FARGO, PASTOR.

We wish to thank all our friends who assisted in any way to make the meetings of the Bible school boys a success. Many of the friends are asking why they did not present the need of the school here Sunday evening. Word had reached them that all they were here for was money and not wishing to injure the work of the Lord they did not present it. If any one wishes to help the school raise the $15,000 mortgage which is against it, they may send their offering to John A. Davis, Bible School Park, N. Y.

Morning service at 11 a. m. Message from Revelation viii and ix—"The Seven Trumpet Judgments." Communion service will follow.

Sunday school at 12. Evening service at 7:30 with gospel message.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening 7:30.

Preaching at East Venice 3 p. m., Sunday. Text, Amos iv:12. Sunday school at 4 p. m.

"George Washington," said the teacher, "was born February 22nd, 1732 A. D. Now Tommy, tell me what does 'A. D.' stand for?" The small boy pondered. "I don't know," he stammered, "unless it means after dark."

Sugar is scarce in Niagara Falls and indications are that the price will jump from 17 to 20 cents a pound before Jan. 1 next. This prediction is made by local grocers, who claim that there will be greater scarcity in sugar before any relief will be in sight.

Governor Smith, in a proclamation, designated Wednesday, Sept. 17, as Constitution day. He requested the citizens of the state "to enter wholeheartedly into the celebration which has for its object the strengthening of the people's faith in our form of government."

The contract for the Canistota-Greenwood state road, or about two miles of it, is soon to be awarded, according to state highway department officials, who filed the plans and specifications in Albany on Aug. 16. However, it is apparent that the awarding of the construction work is to be started this fall.

A largely attended meeting was held held in Batavia's city hall, when it was decided to establish a public market in the city. Hope was expressed that the market would lower the price of produce. A large number of producers were present and signified their willingness to co-operate with the committee in charge.

Compared with Aug. 1, 1918, New York state during the last six months has added over 68,000 motor vehicles the ranks of its chauffeurs have grown by over 21,000, its commercial cars have increased over 13,000, but its motorcycles have decreased by over 4,700. The comparative figures tell a story of their own of a six-month period of activity unparalleled in the state's automobile history. On Aug. 1, 1919, New York state had a total motor vehicle registration of no less than 504,771 cars.

A conference of the Empire State Forest Products' association, the state conservation commission, the New York Forestry association, with Col. H. S. Graves, chief of the United States forest service, to try to define a national and state forest policy, has been called for the second week in November at Syracuse. Preliminary plans made by a committee in session at Syracuse propose to call all persons of the state interested in forests to attend and hear Col. Graves discuss his proposed national forest program.

FROM COFFIN TO KITCHEN

Plate Placed on Casket That Held Body of Louis XIV Found Doing Duty as Frying Pan.

At the Cluny museum in Paris is a very interesting relic. One day a few years ago the curator of the museum happened to visit a small restaurant in the suburbs of Saint Denis, in which the same room served as a dining room and kitchen. While he was waiting to be served the curator was attracted by a frying pan of unusual appearance that hung upon the wall. He took it down, carefully removed some of the soot with which it was covered, and made out part of an inscription. What he found interested him so much that he bought the old pan. When it was cleaned it was found to bear the arms of France and Navarre, surrounded by the chain of St. Louis and the cord of the Order of Saint Esprit, and this inscription as well: "Here lies the magnificent Prince, King Louis XIV, King of France and Navarre. Requiescat in pace." It was the plate that had been fastened to the coffin of Louis XIV. When the burial vaults of the royal family in the cathedral at Saint Denis were rifled by the populace in 1793 it had been wrenched from the coffin, fitted with a handle, and turned into a frying pan. The handle has been removed.

The Warning.

He was nineteen years old and she was just sixteen. For a long time they had been saving their money to get married. When they together had acquired $100 they decided that they had reached the opportune time. So into Sullivan and to the courthouse for the needed license they hied.

As they ascended the steps of that building they met a motley crew coming down the stairway—a discontented-looking husband, a still more discontented-looking wife and five dilapidated, dirty children. The boy stopped, turned to stare at the girl and found that she was staring at him. Suddenly she laughed and tucking her hand into his arm turned him around so that his back was toward the entrance of the building. "Let's go back home, Fred, and wait until we've saved another hundred dollars," she advised.—Indianapolis News.

RUDDY LOCKS AND COURAGE

Observation of English Writer Is That the Two Are Generally Found Together.

"Ginger for pluck" is an old saying which would seem to be confirmed in the bestowal of military decorations for bravery, observes London Answers. "It was in the ruined square of demolished Ypres last Christmas eve," writes a British officer, "that I was first impressed by the large number of red-haired men who were receiving the military medal.

"Since that afternoon I have noted the complexion of every officer and man wearing a military decoration, and the impression made at Ypres has been strengthened in consequence. There must be something in the old saying, for wherever soldiers are gathered together there is a red-haired, beribboned man in the midst of them.

"Take our most famous fighting division—the invincible Fifty-first. This is composed almost entirely of Highland troops, and the Highlanders are nearly all full-blooded blonds. Of course there are dark-haired heroes in plenty, but nevertheless red hair and pluck would seem to be synonymous. Red hair is common among our most daring airmen, and although I cannot say how many holders of the Victoria cross sport ruddy locks I am prepared to wager that they form a large percentage.

"Scientists say that red hair is caused by a large proportion of iron in the system, and certainly carrots and freckles have been worn by men of iron while doing the work of men in the devil's own war."

Why Nickname Is Disliked.

Nonfliers among the officers of the air service are called kiwis. The kiwi is an Australian bird whose wings are so rudimentary that it cannot fly. The nickname is not loved by those who fear it.

Old-Time Rail Fence.

A real old-time rail fence that is old indeed stands on the farm of G. J. Christian, near Horse Branch, Ky. It consists of about 85 panels, eight rails in height, and was built by Mr. Christian's father, S. M. Christian, before the Civil war. The elder Mr. Christian chopped the trees and split the rails out of which the fence was made in the days before the war. The fence is still sound and serves as well as a new one.

STEERED BY SIXTH SENSE

Exploits of Blindfolded Norwegian Have Proved a Puzzle to Expert Danish Scientists.

Scientists in Denmark are puzzled by a Norwegian, one Emil Knudsen, who, although blindfolded and carefully watched, steered a steamer through the intricate channels of the harbor of Copenhagen, keeping a true course and adroitly dodging other vessels. He explains this by claiming the possession of a "sixth sense."

Knudsen is a man of middle age. When he came to Denmark from Christiania, he became at once an object of interest to both scientist and layman. He was put through many experiments by one of the leading nerve specialists of Europe, and as a result the specialist suggested the trip into the harbor. Knudsen said that he could guide himself anywhere without using his eyes, and a steamer was chartered to put him to a supreme test. Knudsen had no knowledge of the harbor. He requested that a person knowing the channel should hold two finger-tips against the side of his head. Professor Fridenreich consented to this, and himself pressed two finger-tips against Knudsen's temples.

The man handled the wheel without a sign of nervousness or uncertainty. It was impossible for him to see, yet he took more than a dozen sharp corners and followed a zigzag course throughout. All the scientists who witnessed the demonstration said that Knudsen possesses a mysterious power that actually may be a sixth sense.

INDIAN KNEW WHERE TO DIG

Red Man's Action and Finds Have Considerably Mystified Residents of Missouri Town.

The region about Caruthersville, Mo., is rich in lore about hidden gold and silver and mounds rich with pottery. Too, there are great, strange caves to be found thereabouts, never ending subjects for speculation and wonderment, say the Kansas City Star.

A few years ago an Indian went to Caruthersville with several skin maps and dug up pottery that was worth several thousand dollars. He offered $1,500 to be allowed to dig into one mound near the town. However, the owner decided that if the mound was worth so much money for exploration purposes he would do the exploring. He did and found nothing.

Some time later the Indian returned to that section, hired a man with a wagon and team and drove out into the country to a spot where three pecan trees grew in a triangle. He dug down and unearthed two boxes, so heavy that a man could not lift one end of either. He had them shipped away and to this day their contents is a much discussed mystery of that locality.

Began Life in Coalpit.

Sir Joseph Cook, the minister of the Australian navy and one of the commonwealth's delegates to the peace conference, began life in a coalpit in Staffordshire, England. While a working miner he sought to improve his education in every way, and in his spare moments in the pit acquired a knowledge of shorthand. At the age of twenty-five he decided to try his luck in Australia and went to New South Wales in 1885. He obtained work in a mine near Sydney and took an active interest in promoting the welfare of his fellow-workers. He then became secretary of the local miners' union and this proved the stepping-stone to political life.

French Train Operation Poor.

The French method of train operation differs sharply from the American. In the United States it is customary to move the trains by means of the block signal system, under the orders of train dispatchers. In France the chef de gare, a sort of sublimated station agent, is supreme. He is in absolute charge of all trains that pass through his station and of the allotment of cars within his district. A through train having reached his station, it cannot leave without his permission. This practice brings about such a condition that fewer trains are operated over a French double-track line than could be handled over an American single-track line equipped with block signals and dispatchers.

Wood for Cotton.

Wood is now being converted by a new process into a substitute for absorbent cotton—a product which is being supplied to the government by one mill at the rate of several tons a day. This absorbent wood is of great value in covering and stanching open wounds.

The wood is ground up and then spun or rolled out into pure white sheets resembling cotton batting, and is so light and bulky that only about 4,000 pounds of it can be packed in an ordinary box car. This substance costs 28 cents a pound.

YOUNG HEROES AT OXFORD

Many Customs and Traditions of the University Are Likely to Seem Strange to Them.

The returning hero, fresh from battle fields, will no longer rush to the cricket fields and the river at Oxford with the zest of young barbarians at their play, observes a writer in the Nation (London). To one who may wear the ribbon of the Military Cross or the D. S. O., the position of his college boat in the eights can no longer seem the one matter of life and death, and even the halo of a goal shines with diminished glory.

So, too, in lesser pursuits. How shall he dwell upon the squabbles of compartments in ancient Greece, when he himself has motored from Saloniki to Athens in a day, and on to Sparta in the next? Or what will he feel when questioned on his fading memories of the irregular verbs? Probably most public school boys are haunted to old age by a dream—a terrible nightmare—of being "put on" by the old headmaster when they have not taken the trouble to prepare a line of the passage. It makes no difference that they are more than 50 and the headmaster has long been dead. The horror of the situation remains appalling, and the dream is far more frequent than any of Freud's imaginary perversions.

The feeling of the soldier returning to the class and lecture room will be much the same, with a sense of futility added. For, indeed, it is impossible to go back in life and second childhood is not like the first. Little victims play regardless of their doom, but not men who have known what doom can do.

PATRIOTS GET POOR REWARD

British Soldiers Who Won High Distinction Have a Right to Complaint of Ingratitude.

Attention has been directed to the hard case of men who won distinction in the great war, and seem to have been forgotten, by two dramatic incidents. One is the public statement by Sir Douglas Haig that a demobilized officer who won the V. C., D. S. O., and M. C. is at present trudging the streets of London in search of work. The other is the announcement that Mr. Arthur Richings has rejoined the Cardiff police force as an ordinary constable, notwithstanding the fact that he has just relinquished the army rank of lieutenant colonel.

The latter's record is an astounding one. He was promoted second lieutenant on the field, and his subsequent promotions were astonishingly rapid. Mentioned in dispatches three times, he wears six wound stripes, the Mons Star, the Croix de Guerre (with palms), the Military Cross, and is also a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. Perhaps one may be pardoned for questioning whether there is not something wrong with an army administration which allows a man with an active service record like that to disappear into the decent obscurity of a police constable's tunic.—Montreal Family Herald.

Doing Him a Favor.

When my cousin, newly commissioned, was sent to Camp Grant he found himself in command of a lot of draft men drawn mainly from our slum district. One in particular took quite a fancy to him and never lost a chance of doing him a favor.

One day after the man had been in camp only a week or so he ran breathlessly up to my cousin, who was in the far end of a trench. He remembered to salute after a fashion, then stood plainly trying to think what to do next. Finally he burst out, "Beat it, mister, while de gonn's good. De boss is after youse, and gosh, he's sore!"

The colonel was at the other end of the trench calling for the officer in charge.—Chicago Tribune.

Paid a War Bet.

War bets are now being paid by the people who were wont to say, "You can't beat Germany." Morgan J. O'Brien, former judge of the Supreme court of New York, recently gave "the best dinner that money could buy" to Gen. Cotelem Dupont and 25 of the latter's friends, because of a difference of opinion as to German prowess. The justice thought the allies could not get into Soissons last year by a certain date; the general was sure they could. They did; and the outcome for which Judge O'Brien paid a heavy bill, was called the "Soissons dinner."—The Outlook.

"Yes, dear, and you'll find a tin of sardines in there, too."—Life.

HERE BIRDS FIND SANCTUARY

Area in Delta of Yukon River, Valueless for Other Purposes, Is Now Profitably Employed.

The most important, and by far the largest in extent, of our national "refuges" for the preservation of wild birds is a vast area in the delta of the Yukon river, proclaimed as such by an edict from the White House just ten years ago.

It is an area approximately equal to Massachusetts, and the most valuable feather species concerned are wild geese and wild ducks, which breed there in countless numbers.

There is found the proper home of the "emperor" goose, the "white-fronted" goose, and many species of ducks which are sought as game in other latitudes.

The region is known as "tundra country"—devoid of trees, swampy, with many lakes, and of no possible usefulness for agriculture or any other purpose. If, however, the wildfowl are there safeguarded on their breeding grounds, it will be a permanent source of game and food supply for Alaska and the entire Pacific coast.

In order that this may come to pass, it is necessary that the birds shall be protected during the mating season against the wholesale slaughter which formerly was conducted by pot-hunters and alleged sportsmen from year to year—a method commonly adopted being to drive the helpless creatures into pens built for the purpose, where they were ruthlessly murdered.

LAUGHED AT TIME'S PASSAGE

Blue Delft Saucer, Long Sunk in Ocean, Benefited by Century Immersion in Ocean.

The act of a fishing smack off Eye-mouth, Berwickshire, England, brought to the top of the sea recently a long dead memory. A blue Delft saucer, deeply incrimed with barnacles, lay among the flopping fish in the net, and it bore a picture of one of the old British coasting and sailing vessels, with the words "Eclipse, Ldn. and Edinburgh, Shipping Coy."

Now, the Eclipse was lost at sea 106 years ago. No one survived, no bodies were thrown up, no wreckage definitely identified with the lost schooner was ever washed against known shores.

Yet, over a century later, a china saucer is recovered! Its blue, according to reports, had taken on a wonderfully deep shade, tinged with green, and was very beautiful.

The London and Edinburgh Shipping company bought the relic for about $50 of our money and gave that sum to the British Red Cross. The saucer was sent to the British museum.

"Imka."

"Imka" is the name by which the Y. M. C. A. is known in Czechoslovakia, for "Imka" is the reasonable pronunciation of those four letters in the language of the mid-European land. The Imka is very popular. When the republic of Czechoslovakia was established, its citizens who had returned from fighting with the allies urged that the Imka, with its canteens, but service, athletics and recreation, be invited to come with them. The invitation was given and now the Imka has been developed on an army basis with centers in ten towns and is contemplating establishing a center in the famous coal mine region of Teschen, which is the bone of contention between the new republic and the Poles. As this new republic is said to hold the world's record for literacy, only 1 per cent being unable to read or write, the American "Y" secretaries find splendid co-operation in their activities.

Shark Meat Is Tasty.

Shark meat is delicate in flavor and texture, and sharks are plentiful in certain parts of Florida, but the fishermen do not catch them because they are not salable.

The home demonstration agent of Monroe county, Florida, decided last winter on an effort to establish in favor this fish now under the ban. At her request a fisherman caught one. Undismayed, she invited a large company of women to a home economics luncheon, at which was served a fish salad.

When all had tasted the salad she asked for a vote as to how many liked and wanted the recipe. Without exception the women voted their hearty approval, and thus proved to themselves that the prejudice was without foundation.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

GOAT MEAT GOOD AS MUTTON

It is Said Only Experts Are Able to Tell the Difference Between the Two.

There is a growing disposition to give the goat his due. Heretofore this rubbish-eating animal has been regarded pretty much as a joke, but he has continued to eat tin cans and thrive until now his race has acquired census-listing proportions and a market has been established in a middle-western city where surplus goats will be converted into "spring lamb" for the benefit of our non-vegetarians. As an addition to the poor man's meat perhaps the goat will be welcome, especially if his advent tends to lower the present high prices.

Goat meat tastes much the same as mutton, it is claimed, and that the difference cannot be told save by an expert. Perhaps that is just as well. Our imagination has much to do with our taste. Many people are eating horse meat in this country under the impression that it is beef, for horses are slaughtered, but almost nowhere is their meat exposed for sale under its true name. No doubt the easiest way for us to get used to goat meat is to camouflage it as mutton. It is another case of ignorance being bliss.

But, as we are assured by the experts that it is wholesome, a name will not make much difference in the end. Mutton, the world over, has been the poor man's meat. If goat meat can add to the supply, so much the better. The meat of goats was a favorite in the days of the patriarchs. It is still highly prized in the East. There seems to be no reason why it should not ultimately hold a respectable place on our menus.

SHE UTTERED NO CRITICISM

But Many Will See Deep Significance in That Kiss Bestowed by Minister's Wife.

Now, everyone knows that the minister's wife must not say harsh things about anyone, no matter how she thinks. Also that though she be forced to listen to criticism she herself must not give any. The other evening an Indianapolis parsonage woman was sitting on her front porch, when one of the young girls of her husband's congregation came to call. Hardly had she settled herself comfortably before the young miss began to condemn vigorously a very parsimonious member of the church.

"He wouldn't give a cent to recarpeting the parsonage," stormed the visitor, "yet he had plenty of money to buy himself a new seven-passenger touring car. I just hope that every time he starts out in it he'll have a puncture."

The minister's wife had only that morning spent three hard hours mending the old carpet. She didn't say a word of reproof—merely looked at the young girl a minute and then went across the veranda and kissed her cheek.—Indianapolis News.

Ticklish Bit of Tunneling.

A very interesting bit of tunneling was recently done on the Fourteenth street tube under the East river, New York. The heading was being run in rock and at one point test holes showed a thickness of only eight inches of sound dry rock above the line along which the top of the tunnel was to run. As the tunnel was being driven without the use of compressed air it was decided to drop the upper heading four feet until this thin cover of rock was passed. The cast iron lining was set in place at each side of this section and then the rock was removed very carefully by using a great many holes each loaded with about one-eighth of a stick of dynamite. As each bit of rock was removed the arch of the tunnel lining was set in place. By this means the dangerous section was tunneled without breaking through the thin shell.—Scientific American.

EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY

American Genius Quickly Produced Precision Blocks Accurate to Millionth Part of Inch.

One of America's little-known war romances is revealed by John H. Van Deventer in his story of precision gauges, which appears in Everybody's. Virtually all of our munitions had to be made to limit gauges which had to be corrected by means of precision blocks to within a few millionths of an inch. "Twenty years ago," writes Mr. Van Deventer, "a Swedish toolmaker named Johansson made up his mind that the millionth of an inch was the coming thing—hunted during nine years for a practical way to get it and got it. How? Nobody knows except Johansson, and he won't tell. For over nine years he kept everybody guessing. Our best shops imported his blocks and used them for checking the gauges.

"Then came the war, with its wonderful stimulation of American genius. With it came also the need of being independent of the old world in the matter of gauges.

"The war took E. C. Peck away from his job of running a great factory in Cleveland and brought him to Washington to take charge of the gauging of ordnance products. It brought William E. Hoke of St. Louis to the bureau of standards, with an idea of how to produce precision blocks. Colonel Peck and Major Hoke got together, and in six months were turning out precision blocks accurate to the millionth part of an inch."

IS LARGEST OF INDUSTRIES

Statisticians Figure in Billions When They Make Computations of Live Stock Business.

The live stock industry is the largest and, in more than one sense, the most important industry in the United States. Its extent, measured by the value of live animals, amounts to more than $8,000,000,000. Its importance rests in the necessity for live stock to consume the products of farms and ranges, 80 per cent of which, according to census reports, is fed to live stock; in the maintenance of soil fertility, which cannot be kept up continuously and economically without a considerable number of animals as a part of the farm system; in the indispensable place which animal food occupies in the American diet, of which it makes up 38 per cent, based on the average consumer's food-expenditure account; and finally, in the far-reaching influence which the growing, fattening and marketing of live stock has upon the social and economic welfare of all classes of people, including producers, distributors, and the meat-consuming public.

The slaughtering and meat packing business is the largest manufacturing industry in the United States, according to the United States census of manufacturers. The sales of live stock in the Chicago market alone totaled nearly $1,000,000,000 in 1918, or over $3,000,000 a day, and the daily sales at all of the centralized live stock markets of this country total close to $20,000,000.

England Harbors Ex-Queens.

England will soon be the land of five queens, a potential and powerful group either in politics or poker. The figure resembles a misdeal, but it is explained by the fact that England has a queen and a queen mother, while there are in England the one-time queens of two other countries. They are soon to be joined by another, Empress Marie of Russia. She and the two other foreign ladies are deep in unhappiness—three of the saddest queens, as an observer has remarked, in modern history. The two whom Empress Marie will join are Empress Eugenie and the queen mother of Portugal.

These three women plainly tell the story of greatness. One of them was driven from her throne and her son was killed fighting for another country; another was exiled after having been robbed of her husband and son, and her other son driven from the throne; the last was widowed and her son, her grandson and her grand-
